Neither Wisconsin Regiment Has Embarked for Cuba.
Authorities Were Waiting for Decisive News from Santiago—Great Disappointment.
Charleston, S. C., July 14.—[Special.]—Late yesterday afternoon both Wisconsin regiments were ordered to embark on the Grand Duchess and Ogdan. Today the Second is ordered to remain here two days at least and the Third knows not whether it is going now. The orders were for the companies to be ready to embark by noon today and the transports were to have gone out with the tide. Why the orders were rescinded no one here knows.

Communications should be accompanied by the name of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith on the part of the author. Write only upon one side of paper, and in writing names and dates, be careful to make them plain and distinct.

Geo. Nugent, Editor.

Monday's edition of the Milwaukee Journal contained a good, clear illustration of the Santiago battle field, showing that the publishers of that paper know how to keep their readers well posted on the war.

The Hawaiian islands are now a part of the territory of the United States, and thus one great problem is settled, whether for good or ill the future will determine. For more than a century the United States has refused to extend its limits beyond the continent and its adjacent islands, but the new policy is far-reaching and may result in the acquisition of the Philippines and other Spanish islands of the Pacific, Porto Rico, Cuba and other lands beyond the sea. It will necessitate a stronger navy and a larger army in the future, and in case of war with foreign nations the outlying possessions will have to be defended or abandoned. A regiment of soldiers has already been ordered to Honolulu to do garrison duty, and a strong force will probably be maintained there. We are making history fast these days. Let us hope that the American people will never have to regret it.

The political campaign in Wisconsin will soon open. The Republican state convention will meet in Milwaukee on Aug. 17th and there is a strong movement on foot to defeat Gov. Scofield for re-nomination, but it is not likely to be successful. The Democrats will hold their convention in the Cream City two weeks later, and they hope to profit from the discussions among the Republicans. This hope is founded on the result of the city election in Milwaukee last spring, when the anti-Scofield faction knifed the Republican ticket in revenge for being beaten in the convention. There is a great deal of dissatisfaction throughout the state at the way in which the affairs of the party have been managed. Ex-Congressman La Follette is at the head of the opposition, but he has not yet announced himself as a candidate for governor.

It is conceded all round that none of the Republican state officers except Gov. Scofield stand any chance for re-nomination this year. They have already had two terms each, while Scofield has had but one. There will be numerous candidates for all other places on the ticket, and the convention is likely to be a hot one. Assemblyman Wm. H. Froelich of this county is a candidate for secretary of state, and it looks as though he has good chances for success. As a German and a Lutheran he presents strong claims on the part of an element of the population that is too valuable to be ignored. H. K. Butcherfield of Hartford, who was a candidate for attorney-general, has withdrawn in Mr. Froelich's favor, and it now looks as though the latter will be the only candidate from this congressional district. Washington county Republicans would feel highly flattered by his nomination, and he would get a heavy vote from them.

ASHFORD ACTIONS.

The farmers are reaping barley. Rev. H. Blum spent several days in Milwaukee this week.

The Misses Ida and Lizzie Fink called at Eden last Tuesday.

Tuesday night the Colorado Medicine Co. gave their initial exhibition in our burg.

Mrs. Nat. Haesley and children from Theresa were guests at Peter Maull's last Sunday.

Mrs. Peter Weyer and children from Lomira spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hall.

Miss Katie Polack has returned from Oshkosh, where she attended the funeral of her father.

Miss Nellie Berg of Beaver Dam returned last Wednesday, after a 4-weeks' visit with relatives and friends here.

The Misses Bessie and Genevieve Dana, accompanied by A. Patton, all of Fond du Lac, spent Tuesday and Wednesday at the Scholler residence.

Capt. Harry Hicks gave quite a lecture Tuesday night, on his camp ground, and he will give a concert in Leisses' hall tomorrow (Sunday) night. All are invited.

LAND FOR SALE.

For those who desire a good home, I have several pieces of the best timber land in the state, located near Edger, Marathon county, which I am offering at from $6.50 to $8 per acre, with terms to suit purchaser. For any further information in regard to same, write to Peter Daul, Stratford, Marathon Co., Wisconsin. 19-30

A man in Virginia rode forty miles, to Fairfax Station, for the express purpose of getting Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and took a dozen bottles of it home with him. The druggist who relates the incident, adds: "Your remedy seems to be a general favorite wherever known." Its effects are indeed wonderful in all lung and throat troubles. Procure a bottle at the store of L. Rossbeumer.

LETTER FROM ALASKA.

In compliance with our request, A. L. O'Connell of Beechwood, furnishes the following account of his trip to join his brothers "in the land of the midnight sun." I sailed from Seattle, Wash., April 4th, on the steamer Utopia. The waters of Puget Sound were unusually calm. We stopped at Victoria and Vancouver for passengers. That evening a storm struck us, the wind blew at a velocity of 45 miles an hour, causing a very heavy sea. Our boat rolled and struggled against the gale with great difficulty, but she proved to be of excellent structure and consequently fought the waves like a lion. The storm lasted two days and nights; all the passengers were seasick, and when the storm ceased they were a happy crowd.

The third day we reached Queen Charlotte Sound. The day was bright and calm and to our surprise a whale raised his back out of the water a short distance from our ship. We saw about 40 feet of him, but could not see his head. A man on the boat fired at him with a Winchester, whereupon the monster sprouted about 200 feet into the air and then disappeared. On reaching Mary's Island we saw the steamship Corona on the rocks as the result of a previous storm. Her passengers were all rescued by the steamer Clara Nevada, but on the 18th their doom shortly after by an explosion of the latter's boilers, not one aboard surviving to tell the tale. I saw the wreckage along the island.

Our next stop was at Metlakatla, the Indian inhabitants of which have some noteworthy peculiarities. They lay their dead to rest in the topmost branches of the loftiest trees, the dogs (which are slain) and weapons of a deceased person being included with the remains, which are rolled up in a blanket and securely lashed to a limb or the trunk of a tree. Upon the death of their chief, they sawed a tree off 60 feet from the ground, built a platform upon the shaft and erected a carved image of the departed leader thereon. They worship at the statue and believe that with the help of the "Great Spirit," they will meet the chief in the "happy hunting ground," with all their dogs and guns.

Dixon's Entrance was the next place; and, it being noted for great storms, we encountered a raging sea, but we lived through it in a few hours without any loss but our breakfast.

Our next stop of note was Fort Wrangle, a portage for the Stikine River route to the Klondike. Next came Douglas Island, where the largest quartz mill in the world is located. This mill, when completed, will have a capacity of 4,000 tons of ore every 24 hours. Juncos is 5 miles from Douglas, across from Lynn canal. It is an old town, but quite up to date, having electric lights and water works.

Next came Haine's Mission, a portage for the Dalton trail to the Klondike district. We then steamed out for Skagway, a portage for the White Pass trail and the terminus of my voyage, where we arrived at 1:30 p. m. of April 11th. Six months ago this town contained but a couple of log cabins and a few tents, while now it has 6,000 inhabitants. There are two saw-mills in operation, but owing to the influx of people to the city, the supply of lumber is unequal to the demand. The population of the place is composed of all classes, and there are many objectionable characters here. One s. s. and two city marshals have been shot, besides numerous toughs and thugs. These, together with many who froze to death and others who died of spinal meningitis (epidemic here) or natural causes, have made the country resemble that of an ancient city. I saw a conflict between Indians and whites over the former cutting the wages for longshoring from 75c to 65c per hour, and the redmen were thrown into the ocean, one drowning and several others only escaping by the timely aid of their comrades. This outrage made the savages hostile, and were it not for the presence of an infantry of soldiers, the result would have been serious.

I went over to Dyea, a small town north of this place and a portage for the Chilkoot pass to Dawson, and from there proceeded up and over the Sheep Camp—a very appropriate name, as a large cave has been the domicile for mountain sheep. My object on this trip was to see the effects of a disastrous snow slide, which a few days previous had swept down on the people at noon from a mountain overhanging the camp, precipitating them and their belongings into a deep chasm below, burying them under 75 feet of snow, ice, rock and timber. Relatives and friends of the victims immediately proceeded to recover the bodies, which work was still in progress when I arrived on the scene, and up to the time of this writing 85 bodies have been recovered, though it is estimated that from 150 to 200 victims perished in the avalanche. However, the rescuers were soon obliged to flee for safety from further snow slides, and the bodies recovered were sent to relatives in the vicinity or shipped to their homes in the States for interment, though some less fortunate ones were buried within sight of where they met their doom. The sight of this calamity, together with other thrilling experiences, caused several thousand "tenderfeet" to sell their outfits at sacrifice prices and return to the States.

We left Skagway on April 19th, over White Pass, and experienced no particular difficulties until we reached Timber line, where it became necessary to cook food enough to maintain us while passing over "the summit," 16 miles. This took some time, owing to the large size of our outfit. It was not an inviting place to spread our blankets, with the snow from 10 to 15 feet deep, but nevertheless we did so and slept quite comfortably without a fire, though it was 15c below zero. Of course breakfast was quite a cool affair, our meats being frozen throughout. We struck wood in the afternoon of the 8th day, pitched camp and had a warm meal. This trip above Timber line is where many poorly clad people contract spinal meningitis and pneumonia. In their anxiety to get to timber they over-extend themselves, then lie down with insufficient blankets to warrant comfort and fall easy prey to either of said afflictions.

Every person crossing the line into the Klondike territory is obliged to be provided with 1,000 pounds of provisions. This law is very stringently enforced in order to prevent people from coming here dependent on others for support, and to guard against a famine next winter, as the stipulated amount of provisions will last one year. Such an outfit, together with blankets, tent, stove, wearing apparel and cooking utensils, costs $300 in Seattle, Wash., and weighs 1,100 pounds; if then costs 50c per 100 pounds wharfage at Seattle, $300 per 100 lbs. for freight on boat to Skagway, $250 per 100 for wharfage there, $300 per 100 for packing on oxen to the foot of the summit (8 miles), packing up the icy summit on sharp-shod horses or mules (12 miles) $4.50 a 100 lbs. At this summit the British flag floats over a duty office, where we were obliged to pay 25 per cent of the first cost, or $75, for each man's outfit. The goods were then loaded on sleds drawn by 10 Alaskan dogs that resemble foxes but are much larger. They load about 400 pounds of provisions on a sleigh and bind it securely, when the driver gets on and descends from the summit to Lake Bennett, a distance of 27 miles, at a rapid rate and $8 per 100 lbs of freight. At Lake Bennett another British duty office issues miners' licenses at $10 apiece, while a like paper for permission to cut timber costs $5. We then built a boat from lumber which we whip-sawed, and we are now ready to sail across Lake Bennett; and, while our expenses are considered to have ended here, it may be well to say that each of us have paid out $625.50, including first cost of our goods.

It will be two or three days before the ice breaks on the lake, so that we can continue our journey. There are 5,200 boats on this lake, waiting for it to become navigable, and these boats together with 15,000 people out of 70,000 who landed in Skagway intent upon going through, the others having weakened on seeing the hardships in store for them. Each boat is registered, numbered and named, so that in case the occupants should drown their fate may be learned, as the boat invariably gets through, at least in part.

We have no nights here at all, as the sun disappears for but 2 hours, and then only seems as if under a cloud. It rises (on the horizon) a short distance from where it sets, which is due north. The mountains are very lofty, ranging from 10,000 to 18,000 feet high, and are covered with snow throughout the whole year. There are several glaciers here, some of which are of great magnitude and very picturesque.

We are unable to get news from the outside world, except in a sealed and stamped envelope, consequently we are ignorant of the progress of the war.

An Old Saying Illustrated.

Down at Lake Bluff assembly a vigorous debate occurred last Monday on "Can a wearer of the white ribbon of the W. C. T. U. with propriety carry cold tea, milk or lemonade to a picnic in a beer-bottle?" We can't understand what white ribboners have to do with beer-bottles when other bottles are just as good looking and fully as cheap. The matter was decided in the negative, and thus another burning question of the day has been disposed of.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

—Olga, Elsie and Arthur Guth and Meta Hartwig of Mayville, were guests of L. S. Guth and family this week.

—Mrs. John Groeschel was pleasantly surprised last Tuesday by a number of her lady friends, on the occasion of the 43rd anniversary of her birth.

—Mason work on the proposed malt-house of the L. Rosenheimer and Grain company, has commenced with Oppenorth & Mertens in charge of the work.

—Bernard Drescher and family of Chili, Clark county, spent several days here with his father-in-law, Jno. Siegel, and family and returned to their home last Monday.

—The old sidewalk on the south side of Main street is being removed, and the work of replacing the same with a curb-stoned walk will soon be hurried to completion.

—Mrs. W. B. Backhaus and sister, Alma Schneider, left for Milwaukee last Tuesday, where the former will spend the balance of the week, while the latter will remain here.

—Mrs. P. Wittmeyer of Milwaukee and her sister-in-law, Mrs. D. Kahny, of Jackson were guests of S. E. Witzig and family last Monday and during a portion of Tuesday.

Notice.—A joint meeting of the fire companies will be held next Monday at 8 p. m., in the Grand opera house, for the purpose of deciding whether the boys will attend the firemen's convention at Theresa on Aug. 7th.

—Yesterday was St. Swithin's day. In this connection an old adage runs as follows: "St. Swithin's day, if thou dost rain, for forty days it will remain; St. Swithin's day, if thou dost rain, for forty days 'twill rain nae mair."

—A party composed of the following and their respective families spent Sunday fishing at Schraudt's pond at Elmore, viz: John Groeschel, Jos. Strobel, L. Brandt and Fred Andrea. They report good angling there, also that they had a good time.

—E. H. Burghardt returned to his home in Barton, Oregon, last Thursday, after spending three weeks with relatives and old-time friends here. We hope that 22 years will not pass again ere we have the pleasure of seeing him.

—John Andrea, who breaks on this division of "the Northwestern," had his thumb crushed while coupling cars here Monday forenoon, and he will be unable to work for a few weeks. His brother, Charles, who was present when the accident happened, took his place.

—The well-drillers, who spent three weeks here sinking a well at the malt house, shipped their outfit to Milwaukee last Monday, and Jos. Strobel has left with the gang. The well which they sunk here is 197 feet deep, and the water therein rises to within 20 feet of the top of the 8-inch casing.

—On Sunday, July 24th, an excursion train will arrive here at 4:46 a. m. en route to Chicago and arrive there at 8:30 a. m. On the return trip the train will leave the Garden City at 11:15 p. m. The fare for the round trip from here, Campbellsport, Barton or West Bend will be $2.00.

—Rain is much needed here. The intense heat of the last few days is ripening grain too fast to warrant its being harvested in good shape. Corn is also being affected to such an extent that naught save a good rain can prevent it from proving to be a poor crop, while potato vines are withering under the intense rays of the sun.

—The baseball game, which a club of our boys engaged in at Campbellsport last Sunday afternoon, resulted in favor of the latter town's team by a score of 9 to 18. A return game will be played here on Sunday, July 24th, when our boys will undoubtedly fare better, as the game on last Sabbath was the first they played this season.

—A grand ball will be given by the members of the Kewaskum band in the Southside park hall on Sunday night, July 24th. The boys have expended considerable for new musical selections this season, and it is hoped that all will show their appreciation of such enterprise, upon the part of our band, by turning out on this occasion and thus helping to defray the expenses of an organization which is a credit to Kewaskum.

BECHWOOD BEAMLETS.

Miss Emma Oeder of St. Michaels arrived here Sunday evening to visit a while with John Remmel, her father-in-law, and family.

—H. J. Ebenreiter, furniture dealer and undertaker, sells pianos, organs and sewing machines at lowest prices and gives full warranty with them. If —Joseph Miller, the carpenter and contractor, is preparing timbers for the frame of a new barn which he is to erect on the Glanz farm, near Elmore.

—Miss Anna Young and a friend from Milwaukee, Miss Yetta Wagner, who have been visiting here since the Fourth, returned to the Cream City last Monday.

—Louis Rauch and wife, from Chicago, spent a few days with the latter's brother, August Peterman, and family and returned to the Garden City last Saturday.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Burghardt of Milwaukee arrived here Sunday for a visit with relatives. Mr. B. returned home Monday, but his wife will remain a few weeks.

—The Ladies' society of the Reformed church spent Thursday as guests of Mrs. Adolph Rosenheimer, at the latter's summer cottage on the banks of Cedar lake.

The Board of Review of this city was in session several days last week regulating and equalizing the assessment of real and personal property.

We are in receipt of the Insurance Commissioner's report on local insurance companies. He is loud in his praise of town insurance companies, but lavish in criticizing village and city mutuals. His chief remarks against the latter are based upon the fact that they do not pass around the hat after every fire, as anticipated by the framers of the law, according to his interpretation.

The war revenue laws are creating quite a little confusion among conveyors and all people who have to do with drawing up papers, certificates, etc. Notes, checks, deeds, mortgages, assignments, certificates of births, deaths and marriages, and all other commercial papers must be stamped with the proper denomination of stamps at the time they are signed or executed. A violation of the law is punishable with a heavy fine. Would it not be well for our county papers to publish the law in full? [Yes, but at the rate paid for state laws.—Ed.]

Our Ships Were Damaged.

The auxiliary cruiser Yankee, which arrived at Norfolk, Va., last Thursday is battered in many places where Spanish shells struck her. The stacks were also peppered and her rigging cut. She is to be docked and repaired. A letter from one of the men on a ship in Sampson's fleet says that the cruiser Brooklyn was badly battered in her fight with Cervera's fleet. The writer says a shell penetrated her hull below the water line and that one compartment is full of water. It was stated that the Brooklyn may also be sent to Norfolk for extensive repairs.—X.

John Paas of Fond du Lac spent Sunday with his son, John, our genial druggist, and returned home Monday, accompanied by Gretchen Paas.

The long-looked for side-track has been laid, and the men are now busy putting in the culverts, after which the track will be raised and used.

Miss Olga Wedde, accompanied by Nic. Klotz, Sr., drove to Mayville last Sunday and returned in the evening. Master Freddy Hammerstein came up with them.

The school board met last Monday forenoon and rehired the teachers who taught last. Now it is certainly understood that our teachers are "alright." School will reopen Sept. 12th.

Lately, while Willy Reilly was driving home from Fond du Lac, upon stopping on the road, and upon urging the animal to proceed, Willy was kicked in the face and is now laid up.

A pleasant surprise was tendered Miss Genevieve Klotz on Friday evening in honor of the 21st anniversary of her birth. About 75 couple were present and a good time in general was had. Dan. Calvy's orchestra furnished music for the occasion, and dancing was indulged in until "the sma' hours o' the morning."

Last Sunday afternoon Kewaskum added another to the list of victories won by the Campbellsport Whites, as the game closed with 18 tallies to the credit of our boys, while the visiting team only scored 9 times. The game went along well until the seventh inning, when Umpire Wunderle made a rank decision by calling a man out at second. However, the runner was given the base, and the game concluded without further trouble.

"Our customers say you manufacture three of the best remedies on earth," said the mercantile firm of Haas, Harris Brin & McLain of Dawson, Ga., in a recent letter to the Chamberlain Medicine Co. This is the universal verdict. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the finest preparation in the world for rheumatism, neuralgia, lame back, quinsy, sore throat, cuts, bruises, burns, scalds, pains and swellings. A 25-cent bottle of this liniment in the house, will save a great deal of suffering. Buy it at the L. Rosenheimer drug store.

A Western woman is said to be so fond of fancy work that when nothing else offers she ruffles her husband's temper.—X.

WAYNE WAFTINGS.

Philip Guenther and Michael Degehhardt of Campbellsport made a short call here Thursday.

Miss Mary Duleahy of Boltonville has accepted the tutorship of Dist. No. 11 at $28 per month for nine months.

Mrs. A. Martin and daughter, Katie, and son, Arthur, spent Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Chris Diels at Elmore.

Mr. and Mrs. John Muehleis spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Klumb and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zuelke at Elmore.

Miss Hattie Leonhardt of Two Rivers, and Alma Meyers and Arthur Phipps of Milwaukee, arrived here Tuesday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Petri and other friends.

AN Eventful Day.

Few days in the year have been so conspicuously marked by periods of anxiety in the affairs of this nation as the Fourth of July. To go no further back than 1862 we find the North intensely concerned over the failure of Gen. McClellan about Richmond.

July 4, 1864, followed the bloody fighting of the bloodiest part of the war of the Rebellion.

July 4, 1894, the Debs conspiracy to force the railroads and the traffic of the country to submit to the American Railway union was at its height.

July 4, 1898, the situation at Santiago filled the public mind with solicitude.—X.

Curiosities of the Calendar.

There are some curious facts that have lately been noted about the calendar. No century can begin on Wednesday, Friday nor Sunday. The same calendars can be used every twenty years. October always begins on the same day of the week as January; April as July; March and November begin on the same days. May, June and August always begin on different days from each other, and every month in the year. The first and the last days of the year are always the same. These rules do not apply to leap year, when comparison is between days before and after Feb. 29th.—X.

A. T. Quiller-Couch, the Cornish novelist and essayist, has great difficulty in persuading people that his name is pronounced "Cooch," and says that, though he never invented the pronunciation, he can only prevail on a few friends outside of Cornwall, to believe in it. The poet Cooper, who called himself Cooper, and a number of others, "Cooch" (Cooch) by the way, has nothing to do with the name. It is a Celtic name and signifies "red."

—El Tiempo, published in the City of Mexico, must be edited by a full-blooded Spaniard. A recent issue says: "We are glad that the arrogant Yankee is at last about to receive a lesson he so richly deserves. The hereditary enemy of Mexico is at last the enemy of the 'Gringo' will once more be taught his proper place. Mexico will be avenged for the humiliations forced upon it by the overbearing Yankees."

Sandusky, O., comes to the front with a genius who has discovered and applied a process of embalming the bodies of dogs. Ten weeks have now elapsed since the death of the canines upon which the initial experiment was conducted, yet the embalmed remains, which are also the Sandusky, "emit no odor," nor has there been any "perceptible shrinkage."

OPEN LETTERS FROM Jennie E. Green and Mrs. Harry Hardy.

JENNIE E. GREEN, Denmark, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I had been troubled for many months with irregular periods for seven years, and tried almost everything I ever heard of, but without any benefit. Was troubled with backache, headache, pains in the shoulders and dizziness. Through my mother I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has done me so much good. I am now sound and well."

Mrs. HARRY HARDY, Riverside, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham the story of her struggle with serious ovarian trouble, and the benefit she received from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This is her letter: "How thankful I am that I took your medicine. I was troubled for two years with inflammation of the womb and ovaries, womb was also very low. I was in constant misery. I had heart trouble, was short of breath and could not walk five blocks to save my life. Suffered with indigestion, my back, had headache all the time, was nervous, menstruations were irregular and painful, had a bad discharge and was troubled with bloating. I was a perfect wreck. Had doctored and taken local treatments, but still was no better. I was advised by one of my neighbors to write to you. I have now finished the second bottle of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and am better in every way. I am able to do all my own work and can walk nearly a mile without fatiguing myself. I had not been able to do for over two years. Your medicine has done me more good than all the doctors."

The animals cannot rub the wool off their necks trying to get at the feed; neither will the seed, dust and rubbish fall into the wool, and they cannot pull the hay down and mess it over so they will not eat it afterward. The rack is easily made. With a set you can have lambs running about the feed lot without their getting on top of the hay, which ordinarily cannot be done.

Make the frame out of 2 by 6's edge-wise. For block at bottom saw 2 by 6's diagonally. Nail a 12-inch board along the bottom lengthwise; then take three 10-inch boards and nail up the front. Set bottom 10-inch board level with the 12-inch or about one inch higher. Make the rack with a frame about every four feet, omitting crosspiece except at the center, and this is not necessary unless you are going to move them about. For rack to feed only one side make 18 inches between studs. You can make the sides separate and set them against light posts. Do not nail, but wire so you can raise them.

"pigeon-roosts." Only within the last few years was the fact brought out that a bird more familiarly known than the passenger pigeon followed this mode of spending the night, although it adopted spring instead of fall for nesting by hundreds in a high, sheltered wood, or because it is the period before pairing time, or for some other reason at present beyond man's ken. With what stealth must the well-known and much-observed bird have found its way in such numbers to the same early of timber night after night in the early months of the year, according to locally, coming and setting the eggs so swiftly that a secreted observer could not count, keeping up a chatter that could be heard for a long distance, until the last bird, somewhat belated, perhaps, found shelter in the grove, when all became silent as the thousands of wings were folded to rest.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Is It Possible?
That the great roof leaks?
That tools were left where last used?
That fences are never repaired until stock gets out?
That there are no shade trees in the pasture field?
That sheep and cackle burrs are allowed to grow in the same field?
That all grain bags are not marked with your initials in ink?
That the supply of fuel for winter is not being hauled, while the roads are good?
That the shoots are allowed the privilege of a ten-acre field without being cut?
That the same variety of wheat has been on the farm for fifteen years?
That an abundance of small fruit for family use is not raised on the farm?
That noxious weeds, such as ox-eye daisy, etc., are allowed to grow to seed?
That stock is turned out where there is barbed-wire fence, without first leading up to it?
That many farmers get rid of their sheep a year, or so ago, and have none left for the next year?
That farmers do not realize that we have heretofore had periods of depression, and that better times are coming.—Stockman and Farmer.

That fences are never repaired until stock gets out?
That there are no shade trees in the pasture field?
That sheep and cackle burrs are allowed to grow in the same field?
That all grain bags are not marked with your initials in ink?
That the supply of fuel for winter is not being hauled, while the roads are good?
That the shoots are allowed the privilege of a ten-acre field without being cut?
That the same variety of wheat has been on the farm for fifteen years?
That an abundance of small fruit for family use is not raised on the farm?
That noxious weeds, such as ox-eye daisy, etc., are allowed to grow to seed?
That stock is turned out where there is barbed-wire fence, without first leading up to it?
That many farmers get rid of their sheep a year, or so ago, and have none left for the next year?
That farmers do not realize that we have heretofore had periods of depression, and that better times are coming.—Stockman and Farmer.

HOUSEHOLD DEPARTMENT

Eat More Honey.
There is no more delicate or wholesome sweet in existence than the nectar of flowers so skillfully gathered and stored by the honey bee, says F. H. Dow, in Farmers' Tribune. Its use ought to be more general. Indeed, honey should be used as commonly as butter. Children usually like honey and they should be allowed to use it freely. It is beneficial in all cases of colds, sore throat and like it acts as a medicine. Whenever you purchase a cough mixture, honey is usually one of its principal ingredients. My two children have nearly always had the honey they cared to use and I am confident it has been beneficial to them. On our table we consume large quantities of honey and I actually believe its free use is conducive to the family health.

Improved Oil Can.
Among the new domestic novelties is this novel design for an oil can, which possesses several meritorious features in a most simple manner. The illustration shows an oil can made with a straight front and more than usually sloping neck. By this form of construction any oil or liquid may be emptied out of the can without lifting it from the floor or table, by simply tilting it over. Other advantages are that it requires less space in making the oil or other liquids, no spilling or wastage, while no funnels are required, as with ordinary cans. This can be emptied with half the ease of the old forms of oil cans.

To Preserve Eggs.
The advantages of waterglass over the lime mixtures commonly used is that the waterglass imparts no unpleasant or stale flavor to the eggs. The following instructions are given in reply to inquiries here made, for the waterglass solution. Boil ten gallons of water to sterilize it, let it cool in covered vessels and add one gallon each of soluble silicate of soda. Mix the water into the vessel upon the eggs. If the eggs used were perfectly fresh they have been known to keep in good condition for nine months or more. When the eggs are boiled for use they must be pricked with a pin to prevent the shell from cracking.—Orange Judd Farmer.

A Durable Whitewash.
Slake half a bushel of fresh lime with boiling water. Cover it during the process to keep in the steam. Strain it into a tin sieve and add 7 pounds of soft soap dissolved in water. 3 pounds of rice boiled to a thin paste and stirred in, one-half pound powdered Spanish whiting, 1 pound of clean glue prepared by soaking it well, then hanging it over a slow fire in a kettle with a large one filled with water. Add five gallons of hot water to the mixture and stir well. Let stand for a few days. It must be put up quite hot. For this purpose it can be kept in a kettle on a portable furnace.—Orange Judd Farmer.

White Coconut Pie.
One cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one rounded tablespoonful of starch, two or three ounces grated coconut, three or four whites of eggs, small piece of butter, pinch of salt. Beat the milk alone. Mix the starch and sugar together dry and stir them in, then the butter and coconut. Set it away to get cold. Whip the whites that were left from making hollandaise to a firm froth, and mix them with the pie mixture. Bake in thin crusts of puff paste. Makes two small pies.

Tomato Omelet.
Skin and cut fine three medium-sized tomatoes. Cook one teaspoonful fine chopped onion in one tablespoonful butter a few minutes, but do not brown it; add the tomato, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of pepper and one common cracker rolled fine. Cover tightly and let it simmer about an hour. Beat three eggs till light and stir into the tomatoes. Then pour it into a well-greased pan, fold over and brown and the egg firm. Cook over, turn out and serve at once.

Cherry Pudding.
Four eggs, one cupful sugar, one cupful milk, one cupful raisins, three cupfuls of the cherries, seeded, one and one-half lemon. Beat the yolks of eggs with the sugar until very light, add flavoring and one-half of the crumbs; the remainder mix with the cherries; next fold in lightly the stiff-beaten whites of the cherries. Bake in a moderate oven in a spring form if possible. Can be eaten warm with a sauce or cold as a cake.

Choosing Good Mutton.
There is no more nutritious and healthful meat than young, healthy mutton well cooked. Mutton, like all meat, is tough when first killed, and should be hung long enough to grow tender. Good mutton should have an abundance of firm, white fat, but not an overfat appearance. Sheep of the great ranges have dark-colored meat like that of wild animals, while those which do less running have meat of lighter color.—Woman's Home Companion.

Current Meringue Pie.
Line two paper tins with short crust, prick with a fork, and bake to a very light brown. When cool fill with the following, and bake in a very slow oven: Beat the whites of three eggs until stiff, add gradually one cupful granulated sugar and one cupful currants. Drop from a pastry bag if desired; the effect will be very pleasing.

Jelly Cake.
Eight ounces of granulated sugar, five eggs, four ounces of butter, melted, one-half cup of milk, twelve ounces of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat the sugar and eggs together a minute or two, add the flour, make on jelly-cake pans as this can be spread. Have three sheets and spread jelly between and powdered sugar on top.

Honey Pop Corn Balls.
Slowly heat one cupful of strained honey, and boil until it will stiffen and crack when dropped in cold water. Pour it over one quart of fresh popped corn and shape into balls, greasing the hands with a little butter to prevent sticking.

BATTLE BETWEEN SQUAWS.

There was trouble at the Indian camp Sunday morning between two squaws and knives were used. The women quarreled over Charles Hedley of the Flambeau reservation. Ella Hedley was the aggressor because her husband had left her some time ago and had gone to the charms of Chinowoc No. 200. Both women were in camp at the fishing camp on the lake at 9:30 A. M. Both were armed with knives. Both were arrested by Policemen Moseley and Cavender and taken to the central station. They were released later at the request of the Indian agent and the case will be tried at the reservation. The women were separated before serious damage was done. The wounds of Chinowoc were dressed at the Emergency hospital.

Black Rain in Ireland.
At the end of March a curious instance of a fall of black rain is recorded in Ireland, extending over an area of thirty miles in length and sixteen in width. While the rain was falling it was so dark that lamps had to be lit. Dense black clouds traveling slowly in a northeasterly direction from the coast of Scotland to the west of England, and carried at a very high altitude in a southerly direction until they met the moisture-laden winds from the southwest, which began to blow on the day previous to the rain. Dry fine sunsets were observed to those which followed the eruption of Krakatoa while the volcano dust remained suspended in lofty clouds.

Anecdotes of Arnold.
When the late Matthew Arnold traveled about the United States to deliver his lectures the Spaniards, through his acquaintance, gave him passes for himself, Mrs. Arnold, his two daughters and his agent. "I was in the city of New York," Mrs. Arnold, handed them each saying: "The Arnold troupe, I suppose."
"Just as if we were a traveling circus," said Mrs. Arnold with a hearty laugh in telling the incident to Dean Farrar, who records it in his "Men I Have Known."
Mr. Arnold was much amused at a criticism on his delivery, published in a Detroit paper. He bought a high music stand on which he placed his notes and his lecture. As the sight of one eye was stronger than the other, he placed the stand at his right, and in a sentence and then raised his head as he delivered a Detroit paper said:
"As for Mr. Arnold's manner, it reminds us of an elderly parrot pecking at a tree!"

The Locomotive Episode.
A striking illustration of the immense difference between Spanish and American soldiers in the locomotive episode near Juraguá, remarks the Springfield Republican. In abandoning an engine on the railroad the Spaniards, through their chivalric ignorance, did everything but the right thing in trying to disable the locomotive. On the other hand, when the soldiers came up immediately developed that two engineers were among the Twenty-second Infantry, and that they had the engine in working order again. They got steam up and in twenty minutes had the engine in working order. An army that can furnish me that character of men for the war will win the war, didn't know enough to knock in the cylinder-head.

A STARTLED MOTHER.
From the Freeport (Ill.) Bulletin.
While busy at work in her home, Mrs. William Shay, corner of Taylor and Hancock streets, Freeport, Ill., was startled by hearing a noise just behind her.
Turning quickly, she saw a young girl, a few years old, who had been playing in the yard, standing in the doorway of her bedroom, looking at her with a look of alarm.
"What is the matter?" she asked.
"I'm afraid," said the girl, "that I've started the baby."

Coal Supplies at Esquimaut.
Though it is not improbable that Britain is preparing for the eventuality of war, the Toronto Mail and Empire doubts the truth of the Washington despatch which represents her to be buying up great quantities of coal in the Western states and storing it in her yards at Esquimaut.
Right on Vancouver Island, not more than fifty or sixty miles away from the Esquimaut fortifications, Britain can get all the coal she needs.
If she were at war, so far from having to look outside for coal, it would be the duty of the British North Pacific squadron to keep the enemy from obtaining access to the Vancouver collieries and the coal-exporting ports—Nanaimo, Departure Bay, and Union.
For naval and all other purposes the British Columbia coast is a coalfield that is mined in "the far Western states."
Instead of coal being brought from the Pacific states to British Columbia the movement, in fact, is the other way. "One-two-three—all together!" was the cry of
