Dr. Senn to go to Japan. Dr. Nicholas Senn, the noted surgeon of Chicago, who originally practiced here, has been appointed as head of the surgical department of the Japanese army. Dr. Senn reached Chicago last Tuesday from San Francisco and is preparing to leave immediately for Japan. He hopes to catch a steamer from San Francisco to Yokohama and reach the seat of war by the middle of March. Dr. Senn wants Chicago to give him $100,000 at once in order that he may equip a party of twenty-five physicians, nurses, and orderlies and transport it to Japan for service at the front. "This is the only support America can give Japan now," he said. "It is our duty to give it, to show that Japan, who is our neighbor and friend, has our sympathy and our moral aid." "In order to equip and transport the party I need $100,000. Chicago owes it to herself to help Japan to that extent. I intend to make the effort of my life to raise it." Dr. Senn himself will leave a practice worth some $75,000 a year to suffer the hardships of the firing line and the trials of an army surgeon in the field. He volunteered for service during the Spanish-American war and became ranking surgeon general in the American army. Two years ago Dr. Senn went around the world, spending some months in Japan, where he became enamored of the people and conceived the notion of helping them to the best of his power when their day of extremity came. "I want to give the Japanese soldiers the benefits of the most modern surgery," he explained. "Military surgery is undergoing a revolution. It is no longer considered wise to cut and hack the wounded or to probe for bullets. First aid and nursing are now the two main considerations, while operations with the knife are deprecated. With modern arms the bullets usually cut clear through the body, but if a bullet remains inside we let it stay, at least until it raises trouble. Then we locate the bullet with the aid of the X ray. If I could I would carry X ray machines with me, but the Japanese themselves will have all the necessary instruments. They are well prepared." Rural Route No. 2. Beginning next Monday, February 15, mail will be delivered to the patrons along the rural route recently laid out west of Kewaskum. The route to be followed as laid down by special agent, S. A. MacSwain, on November 17, 1903, and which will be known as Route No. 2, will be as follows: Beginning at the postoffice in Kewaskum, the carrier will go thence south-east to Schaefer's corner, 1 1/4 miles; thence west to cheese factory, 1 1/2 miles; thence south to Buddenhagen's corner, 1 mile; thence west to Brost's corner, 1 mile; thence north to Little's corner, 1 1/2 miles; thence west to Guldon's corner, 1 mile; thence south to Schir's corner, 1 mile; thence west to Braeher's corner, 2 miles; thence north to Wayne postoffice, 1 1/2 miles; thence east to Spoer's corner, 1 mile; thence north to school No. 11, 1 mile; thence east to Dengel's corner, 1 mile; thence north to Kudek's corner, 1/2 mile; thence east to Brissel's corner, 1 mile; thence south to school No. 4, 1/2 mile; thence west to Dengel's corner, 1 mile; thence south to Wagner's corner, 1 mile; thence east to Backhaus' corner, 2 1/4 miles; thence north-west to Kewaskum postoffice.
