Weekly Crop Bulletin.
(For week ending Monday, July 31, 1905)
The week as a whole has been a very favorable one, both for the advancement and maturity of crops and for farm work.
The early part of the week was quite cool, especially in the northern and central portions of the state, but no frosts occurred, and the growth of vegetation was not seriously checked. Fair weather with full sunshine prevailed until Friday, which furnished excellent conditions for completing haying and harvesting of wheat, rye and barley.
Rains were quite general over the state Friday, and very beneficial to corn, potatoes, tobacco, sugar beets and gardens.
The crop situation in this state at the end of July is very satisfactory. Those crops that have already been secured are good, while growing crops are making excellent progress.
Winter wheat and rye are now secured and some threshing has been done. The yields are generally very good.
Barley is mostly in shock in the central and southern country, and ready for harvesting elsewhere. The crop as a whole is good. Oats are ripening rapidly and some have been cut. There is general complaint of lodging and some complaint of rust. The bulk of the crop will be harvested during the coming week. Spring wheat and rye are satisfactory crops.
The showers during the latter part of the week were very beneficial to corn, and the crop is now generally in promising condition, especially on high, well drained land. On low land it has been too wet to allow proper cultivation and the fields are very weedy.
The season has been too wet for potatoes, except on high, sandy soil, and the outlook is not as promising as could be wished for. Some progress was made during the week, but as a whole the crop is somewhat late.
The harvesting of tame hay is about completed, and the crop is a very heavy one. Most of the hay cut during the early part of the month was some what damaged by the rains, but that secured during the past two weeks was in fine condition.
Pastures were improved by the rains the last of the week and are now in fair condition.
Apples are generally satisfactory. The present condition of the cranberry crop is excellent. There is less blight than usual, and with the reservoirs well filled with water for protection against frost the outlook is very promising.

Wisconsin State Fair.
The Dates are September 11th to 15th—To be a Monster Event.
The Wisconsin State Fair will be held at Milwaukee Sept. 11-15, opening on Monday and closing the following Saturday. It is safe to say that it will be the greatest Fair ever held in the State of Wisconsin. The State Board of Agriculture has been exerting its utmost efforts to make the Fair of 1905 superior to any fair that has been held, and with the strong list of attractions, they have reason to believe that all previous fairs in this state or in this part of the country will be exceeded.
The racing purses are larger than ever before, aggregating $28,000, and including two purses of $5,000 each and two of $2,500 each. Many improvements are being made to the grounds, including the erection of the mammoth stock judging amphitheatre, which is to be used in the day time for stock judging events and in the evening for entertainment features. The building will be formally dedicated on the opening day of the Fair. Besides the educational features of the Fair, which will be greater in number and more complete than ever before, there will be a great variety of entertainment features, all of which have been secured at a large expense and with the greatest possible care.

In fact, the Wisconsin State Fair this year will be one of the most important educational events from an agricultural point of view and also an event full of entertainment for the hundreds of thousands of visitors who will attend.
There will be special rates on all railroads and everyone should make his plans ahead to attend the Fair the week of September 11-15.
How to Live Long.
Prof. Boyd Laynard of London, England, leading author of works on hygiene, gives these twelve rules for those who desire to live healthy and long life:
1—Avoid every kind of excess, especially in eating and drinking.
2—Do not live to eat. Select those ailments most suitable for nourishing the body and not those likely to impair it.
3—Look upon fresh air as your best friend. Inhale its life-giving oxygen as much as possible during the day, while at night sleep with the bed room window open at the top for a space of at least four or five inches. Follow this one even in the depth of winter. It is one of the great secrets of long life.
4—Be clean, both in mind and body. "Cleanliness is next to godliness." It is a fortification against disease.
5—Worry not nor grieve. This advice may seem but cold philosophy and to be easier to give than to follow; nevertheless, I have known persons of a worrying disposition almost entirely break themselves of it by a simple effort of the will. Worry kills.
6—Learn to love work and hate idleness. The lazy man never becomes a centenarian.
7—Have a hobby. A man with a hobby will never die of senile decay. He has always something to occupy either mind or body, therefore they remain fresh and vigorous.
8—Take regular exercise in the open air, but avoid over exertion.
9—Keep regular hours, and insure sufficient sleep.
10—Beware of passion. Remember that every outbreak shortens life to a certain degree, while occasionally it is fatal.
11—Have an object in life. A man who has no purpose to live for rarely lives long.
12—Seek a good partner in life, but not too early.
Let the Cat Out of the Bag.
A certain English innkeeper's family conducted a weekly raffle. In this raffle the prizes were turkeys, ducks, young pigs, baskets of eggs and such like commodities. A quantity of steel disks, numbered from 1 to 25, were put into a black bag, and the innkeeper's daughter put her hand in the bag and drew a disk for each spectator in turn. The person whose number was the highest got the prize.
Well, it had been noticed that the innkeeper's wife got the prize pretty frequently, but nothing was thought of this by the simple, honest rural folk. One evening, though, the little girl, with her hand in the bag, paused. It was her mother's turn, and she did not draw forth her mother's disks in her usual quick and careless way. She paused about the bag, and the innkeeper looked at one another oddly. The innkeeper said:
"Come, come, child, hurry up."
"But, father," said the little girl, "I can't find the hot one."
Oldest Dwellings in Europe.
One of the very earliest human settlements in Europe is Roche Corbon, on the banks of the Loire, seven miles above Tours. Here limestone cliffs stretch for miles and are pitted with caves, which are on different levels and open on to terraces. When the rest of the country was nothing but forest land Roche Corbon was a thriving settlement inhabited by wild skin clad predecessors of the present cave dwellers. These terraces and caves were formed by the action of mighty rivers, and during the glacial period, when the climate of that portion of France was very severe, man drove out the bears and hyenas and took refuge in these natural shelters, which faced south, and so became human settlements of a primitive sort. Near at hand were the rivers and great forests full of fish and game.

Chief Kewaskum Dead.

A telegram was received here last week Friday from Shawano announcing the death of the old Indian, Kewaskum, after whom this village was named.

Kewaskum was chief of the Indians here at that time. He was nearly 90 years of age and of late years lived on the reservation near Shawano. The picture we publish was furnished us by Adam Smith, who got it from a nephew of the old chief when he visited Shawano a few years ago.

Obituary.

Mrs. Mathilda Diesterhaupt (nee Miller), who died at her home in Fond du Lac last week Tuesday, was born in Schoenleece, Province Brandenburg, Germany, on Dec. 29, 1829.

She was married to Ferdinand Diesterhaupt in October, 1855, and a year later came to this country and settled in the town of Kewaskum. A few years later moved to Boltonville where she lived until two years ago, when she moved to Fond du Lac. Their union was blessed with five children, two of whom together with the husband preceded her in death. The surviving ones are Julius of West Bend, Matilda (Mrs. J. J. Steiner) of Lomira and one whose whereabouts are not known. The funeral was held from the Salem Evangelical church at Fond du Lac at 9:30 on Friday, July 28. The remains were brought to Kewaskum on the 12:00 p. m. train and from there to Boltonville for interment, Rev. Kichert of Fond du Lac officiating. Those who accompanied the remains to Boltonville were: Mrs. Nellis of Ripon, Mrs. Otto of Oshkosh, Mrs. Fox and Mr. Friedrich of Fond du Lac, Mrs. Buslaff of Wauconesta, Mrs. Miller and son William, Mrs. Butzke, Mrs. J. Remmel and daughters of Kewaskum.

WE WANT 1,000,000 bushel of potatoes this Fall, and in order to make the potato business profitable for you, you must have a Hoover Potato Digger. This is a strictly up-to-date machine and the only one that separates the potatoes from the vines, leaving the potatoes in a clean, narrow row, easy to pick up. Every machine guaranteed to give satisfaction and sold on trial. EGAN TWO-HORSE STEEL DIGGER. This is a durable machine built of steel and can be handled by two horses. Come in and get our prices or write us if in need of a machine. THE JACK OF ALL TRADES FAIRBANKS-MORSE GAS ENGINE is exactly what every farmer ought to have and can afford. It pumps water, grinds feed, runs the cream separator and does anything you want it to do except talk. L. ROSENHEIMER, Washington County Agency. L. ROSENHEIMER, KEWASKUM, WISCONSIN.
