"CADET ROUSSELLE"

By THEO GIFT

CHAPTER I.—(Continued.) "Oh, but that is delightful! Most likely you will meet me—garden and me—on ze race course, and I shall tell him your name and ze service you did me; for zough he may have missed ze boat or have been prevented by ze fairs from coming today, he is quite certain—oh, are you not sure of zat as I am?—quite perfectly certain to arrive tomorrow. And ven he does and you meet us, will you please say that I never have you ven in such a gay, beautiful place as Caen, because it is not only ze races, as I said, but all ze town is in fete. The whole of ze Cours de la Reine is lined with kiosques, peep-shows and steam-rouabouts, viz little galloping horses and Roman chariots! Also, zere will be a circus, a circus American—ze town is now all covered with announcements of it—and a flower show at ze Hotel de Ville; and in ze evening zere will be ze light and the lanterns! Oh, it is not to be missed! ze charming Caen is in zeze 'tree days'!"

Her little face was quite radiant with the delight of anticipation, and Garnier turned to look for his little friend, who were evidently the boys who had been talking about the dismemberment of the boat.

"Well, if all the girls there are as charming as you, I could perhaps imagine it." They were talking quite like old friends, though the sleeve had been mended and the coat resumed long before they reached the City of Delight; and then, just as they were about to enter the gate of the quay for the dismemberment, Garnier heard himself hailed by a couple of men in racing overcoats and billy coats, who were evidently the boys who had been talking about the dismemberment of the boat.

"My friend of the steamboat!" "Cadet—Monsieur Rousselle!" Bebe had managed to straighten her little into a decorous kneeling position, to press back the damp waves of hair from her forehead, pull forward her hat, and even make a valiant endeavor to dab away with a soaked handkerchief the big tears which were still blurring her pretty eyes and cheeks. At the sight of those tears the kindly, whimsical expression of Garnier's eyes, which so often won him the friendship of children and dogs, changed swiftly to one of angry concern.

"What is the matter? Was the man impertinent to you? I'll fetch—" he was beginning in English, when he was interrupted by Bebe, now crimson with shame and indignation.

"Oh, no, no," she stammered, catching his arm to detain him—"he is not! It is ze pure Antoine, viz whom I live, and ze custodian of zis church. It was only zat he is vexed viz me for being so foolish as to cry and entreat ze Virgin."

"The Virgin? I thought you were a Protestant!" "No, no, no," she stammered, catching his arm to detain him—"he is not! It is ze pure Antoine, viz whom I live, and ze custodian of zis church. It was only zat he is vexed viz me for being so foolish as to cry and entreat ze Virgin."

ALCOHOL IS CAUSE OF GREAT DISPARITY IN RATIO. The relation of pauperism to intemperance seems very plain to the people of Fond du Lac. The city has 1,000,000 paupers, while Japan has only 25,000. are our solicitors.

We send them to your home to tell you about our goods, and how we can be helpful to you.

For instance—Your kitchen clock stops suddenly some night, without the least warning. You can't coax it to go. It's on a strike.

Now, it is plain that there are only two things to be done—lay the old clock aside for good and all, or let us fix it for you.

Of course, in some cases a new clock is preferable—but the right thing to do would be to let our repair department decide what is best to be done. We mean the best from your way of looking at it.

More than likely a cleaning, a renewal of a worn part, and a little general adjusting would put new life into the old timepiece. Bring it to us.
