Campbellsport Homecoming a Success.

The home-coming at Campbellsport on Saturday, Sunday and Monday proved to be a great success. Big crowds attended all the events on the three days mentioned, while the homecoming feature attracted many former residents of the village from their new homes to renew old acquaintances and friendships.

The town was in gala dress for the three days' session and this fact combined with the Fourth of July celebration that formed part of the event, made the three days a continuous round of pleasure.

The parade on Saturday was a grand sight, 26 floats were in line, all being very artistic.

There was but one accident to mar the event, that taking place Monday at the grove, where a vaudeville performance was being given. One of the Mack Brothers from Milwaukee, who perform an aerial act on trapezes slipped from the hands of his companion while performing the last number of the program and fell heavily to the ground, striking on his shoulder and neck.

He was taken to the hotel and on Tuesday morning was placed on a train and taken to Milwaukee. It is not believed his injuries will prove serious.

Fourth of July Visitors.

The following named from Milwaukee spent the Fourth in the village: District Attorney A. C. Backus and family, J. J. Altenhofen and family, Fred Zacher and wife, Herman Backhaus, Eugene Klotz and family, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Haase, Mr. and Mrs. A. Schelder, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Backhaus, Mr. and Mrs. William Andrae, Emil Krause and family, Paul Janke and family, Louis Kocher and family, Richard Kocher and family, Miss Hattie Brady, Miss Clara Dreher, Misses Almira and Dora Foland, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fellenz, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beisbier, Misses Martha and Anna Metz, Otto Perschbacher, Herman Belger, Peter Wunderle, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mayers, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kannies, Oscar Backhaus, Miss Ella Frensz, Miss Martha Grittner, Albert Stark and family, Edw. and Carl Meinhardt, William Krahn, Ervin Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schacht, Louis Guth and daughter, Jos. and Chas. Lamberger, Gus Waeger, C. E. Winkelman and family, Miss Amanda Klumb and Miss Bertha Pauly.

Married.

Arthur Stark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stark, and Miss Ida Wesenberg, daughter of August Wesenberg, were united in marriage at the Ev. Luth. St. Lucas church at 3 P. M. last Saturday, July 3, 1909, Rev. F. Greve tying the nuptial knot. The bride was attended by her sister, Sarah Wesenberg and Emma Stark, sister of the groom, and William F. Wesenberg, brother of the groom, and Roman Backhaus, acted as the groomsmen.

After the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the home of the bride's parents where a reception was held with only near relatives present. The young couple left on the evening train for a few days' honeymoon trip to Milwaukee. We extend our congratulations to the young couple and wish them much happiness.

Horse Thief Caught.

The thief who stole the two horses out of Charles Roth's barn in Schleisingerville last week Monday night, belonging to John Kraemer of St. Lawrence and William Weinert of Cedar Creek, was caught in the town of Templeton. He proved to be John Henne, son of John Henne of Schleisingerville, who had just returned home from Texas. He was brought to West Bend Monday by Sheriff Schoenbeck and is now confined in the county jail awaiting his hearing.

Campbellsport Carpenter Seriously Injured.

Jacob Schlaefér, son of Joseph Schlaefér, the carpenter of Campbellsport, while at work on the Yankow Bros. barn in the town of Auburn, fell from the roof at 11 A. M. Thursday. He was at work with his men in putting up rafters on the barn when he fell about 40 feet to the ground, breaking his back and leg. His entire body is paralyzed and it is feared that his injuries may prove fatal. Mr. Schlaefér was removed to a hospital at Fond du Lac on the 3:40 P. M. train.

Throws Self in Front of Train

Mother of Mrs. William Storck of Schleisingerville Commits Suicide.

(Hartford Times July 2.) Mrs. Bertha Horn, mother of Mrs. William Storck, of Schleisingerville, committed suicide yesterday morning by throwing herself in front of a moving freight of the Milwaukee road near the crossing west of the depot at Schleisingerville. The deed was committed about 7:30 o'clock and as the train was pulling into the station from the west, the body was horribly mutilated, being cut in two, the legs severed and the face badly disfigured.

An inquest was held before Justice Guidice and the jury returned a verdict that the woman threw herself wilfully in front of the train. Mrs. Horn's former home was at Boltonville, but of late had been making her home with her daughter at Schleisingerville. She just recently returned from a visit at Boltonville, and it is said she had been acting queer, but she did not say nothing unusual yesterday morning.

The remains will be taken to Boltonville for burial and the funeral will be held tomorrow. Deceased was about 45 years old and is also survived by another daughter, Irma.

Wisconsin Crops in Fine Condition.

The weather throughout the month of June, according to Secretary True, in his Wisconsin farm crop report for July 1, has been nearly typical for the growing of farm crops. There has generally been a sufficient amount of rain and practically no storms of sufficient violence to injure growing crops.

As noted in the last report, the early stand of crops planted was especially good, and the warm weather of the past few weeks has caused a remarkable growth. At present favorable indications apply universally to all crops, with an unusual uniformity of growth and healthfulness.

Haying has been commenced, and both in quantity and quality the crop is proving very satisfactory. Winter grain and barley are nicely headed and indicate promising yields of grain. Oats have, up to the present time, been free from insect pests and rust, that have injured the crops for the past two seasons.

Corn, which was much of it late planted, has made a phenomenal growth during the past ten days and is now much more promising as a crop than at this time last season. Fields are generally clean and with the increased acreage of the present season, the crop prospect is good.

Potatoes are reported in fine condition. Sugar beets have a good start, and where properly thinned and weeded are making a rapid growth. Pastures continue to be excellent, and farm stock is doing nicely.

Indications are that there may be a little more than a half crop of apples, while prospects for small fruit are good.

The almost universal comment of reporters on present conditions is that crop prospects were never better.

Farmers' Institutes.

Any farmer or public-spirited business man in Wisconsin who wishes to secure an Institute for his locality during the winter of 1909-1910 should send to us for a blank petition and letter of information. Any town, no matter how small or how far from the railroad, is entitled to an Institute, provided it is located in a farming district and has a good hall in which a meeting can be held.

Farmers should talk this matter up with their neighbors and if the sentiment seems favorable for an Institute for their town they should write us at once for application blanks.

VAGRANT USES A RAZOR.

(West Bend Pilot.) A vagrant aged about fifty years and giving his name as Joseph Peterson is in jail in this city on a charge of attempted murder. Peterson and a partner were at South Germantown on Sunday morning and there became beastly intoxicated, having drunk an eighth-barrel of beer which they purchased at the Vogler brewery. After having drunk the beer Peterson went to the Vogel home and begged for something to eat. Mrs. Vogel, noticing the man's condition, refused him, whereupon he became insulting.

An employee at the brewery Bodendoerfer by name, heard the abusive language and politely asked Peterson to desist. Quick as a flash the drunken vagrant drew a razor from his pocket and slashed Bodendoerfer across the abdomen, cutting a terrible gash. Peterson and his partner were too drunk to escape and the former was arrested by John Schwalbach and at 6:15 the latter brought the prisoner to this city, where he was lodged in jail. Bodendoerfer's condition was so critical that fears for his recovery were entertained. He was cut just below the ribs, the gash laying open the abdomen so that the stomach could be seen. A physician was summoned and his prompt attention no doubt saved Bodendoerfer's life. It required forty-two stitches to close the wound. Bodendoerfer is resting well and his chances for recovery are now good.

The would-be murderer's correct name is James Schneider. He was a member of Ramsey's gang and was lodged in jail here seven years ago. District Attorney Sawyer of Hartford will be here Thursday and the prisoner will be taken before Justice Robinson for his preliminary hearing.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Senate.

Income tax was practically the only subject, and Senators Cummins of Iowa and Borah of Idaho the only speakers before the Senate on the 5th. Mr. Borah has not heard until the close of the day's session, when the Iowa senator yielded the floor, which he had held since Tuesday. He took for his text the declaration made Tuesday by Senator Aldrich to the effect that he would vote for the corporation tax amendment only as a means of defeating the income tax, and without resorting to personalities, he criticized the position of the chairman of the finance committee, who had presented the corporation tax amendment to the Senate. Mr. Cummins also paid his respects to Mr. Aldrich on account of his avowal of yesterday.

But for objection from Senator Bulkeley on the 1st the Senate would probably have come to an agreement to vote next Tuesday on the entire income tax amendment to the tariff bill. Senator Bulkeley is opposed to the amendment, and as he expects to be out of the city Tuesday he would not consent to have a vote taken at that time. There were several speeches for and against the measure. Mr. Borah concluding his argument began yesterday. Mr. Root advised the corporation tax, Mr. Clapp and Mr. Owen the income tax and Senator Flint and several others made incidental remarks. The corporation tax amendment was made an integral part of the pending tariff bill on the 2nd by a vote of 59 to 11. The first vote came earlier on the substitution of the corporation tax for the income tax, and on this the vote stood 45 to 31. The debate was shared at times, but with Mr. Aldrich back from his brief vacation and in full control the result was never in serious doubt. Among the speakers were Heyburn, Hughes, Cummins, Newlands, Rayner, Brandegee, Root and Aldrich.

The maximum provisions of the tariff bill were adopted by the Senate on the 3d by a vote of 36 to 12. The final action upon the amendment came at the close of a day devoted to a lively discussion of the proposed regulatory measure that brought out a great variety of views as to the advisability of enacting such legislation. The provisions of this measure will go into effect March 31, 1910, and must expire before a President's proclamation applying the maximum duty of 25 per cent, and various in addition to other duties provided in the bill will be operative. The duty on tea and coffee as provided in the amendment originally reported by the committee was stricken out with the assent of the finance committee. The Senate also agreed to vote upon the submission of an income tax amendment to the constitution to the several states for ratification, this vote to be taken upon the resolution and all amendments Monday at 1 o'clock. At 4:35 o'clock the Senate adjourned.

The Senate on the 5th adopted the Brown resolution providing for the submission of the income tax amendment to state legislatures. Senator Rayner made a fight against the customs court feature of the administrative amendment. He declared that the court would be found to be unconstitutional because, while dealing with questions at common law, it makes no provision for appeal by jury, which every suitor under common law has a right to demand. The provision, after being defended by Republican lawyers, was accepted without division, but not until it had been amended in accordance with Rayner's suggestion to exclude criminal cases from its operation. The principal item still to be considered in the tariff bill is the tobacco tax. Senator Aldrich hopes to have the bill passed today from committee of the whole to the Senate.

Consideration of the tariff bill in committee of the whole was completed on the 6th and that measure was reported to the Senate. A finance committee amendment fixing the tobacco duties was read, but was taken back by that committee on protest from Senator Daniel of Virginia that the minority members had not been given a fair chance to consider it. Among amendments adopted was one exempting labor organizations, fraternal beneficiary societies and organizations exclusively for charitable and educational purposes from the corporation tax. At 3:32 o'clock the Senate adjourned to allow the bill to be printed and the senators time to look it over.

House.

The House was not in session on the 30th. The House on the 1st, approved the journal, listened to Chaplain Couden's prayer, received a routine message from the President, declined to consider a bridge bill brought up by Representative Hobson of Alabama, and adjourned within twelve minutes.

The House was not in session on the 2nd. The House was not in session on the 2d. There was only a small part of the membership present when the House met on the 5th. Chaplain Couden offered a prayer expressing patriotism and approval of the message from the President recommending an appropriation to pay the claim of a subject of Montana for the loss of certain property in Texas; in 1865 was read and referred to the committee on appropriations. At 12:10 the House adjourned until Thursday.

The House was not in session on the 6th.

FEW MAY MARRIAGES.

Old Saying That "To Marry in May Is to Rue the Day."

It will be noticed that there are no marriages of importance fixed to take place during May. At most a dozen are included in the list of fashionable weddings, and inquiry at such churches as St. Mary Abbot's, St. Paul's Knightsbridge, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate and All Saints, Ennismore Gardens, all "temples of Hyman," elicits the fact that "business is very slack" during May. "To marry in May is to rue the day" runs the old rhyme, and it is clear, therefore, that we are still sentimental enough to wish to avoid running any such matrimonial risk. There may be something in this superstition about May marriages, for it is a belief that age cannot wither. It is difficult to trace its source, but it has survived through practically all ages. Ovid allies to it, and it was evidently no new idea even in his day.

What is more, it is one which obtains all over Europe, and in face of such strong testimony that the gods are defied and fate tempted, if the "merry month" is used as a "merry month," it is certainly wiser for those who are embarking on what must always be the uncertain expedition of matrimony to either choose April for setting sail or tarry until June.—Ladies' Pictorial.

KLINGING AS A PESSIMIST.

Kipling has written a poem in which, apparently, he pays his respects to the British age pension scheme. One of its stanzas is as follows:

The eaters of other men's bread, the exempted from hardship; the excusers of impotence fled, abdicating their warship. For the hate they had taught through the state brought the state no defender. And it passed from the roll of the nations in headlong surrender.

Undoubtedly there are aspects of the British old-age pension scheme which are far from reassuring. But there are those in Great Britain who would have viewed Kipling's severely held he held himself in a little, and who, in spite of dissatisfaction with certain socialistic aspects of recent legislation, will resent as unpatriotic and silly any prophecy of disaster to the British nation.

CUSHMAN, HOUSE HUMORIST, DEAD

REPRESENTATIVE IN CONGRESS FROM TACOMA, WASH., SUCCEEDS TO OPERATION.

KNOWN AS "HOMELIEST MAN."

While Westerner Held All These Titles His Ability Was Recognized by His Colleagues.

MADE MANY NOTABLE SPEECHES.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Francis W. Cushman, representative in Congress from Tacoma, died today in Roosevelt hospital. At his bedside were, besides the doctors and nurses, United States Senator Samuel H. Piles of Washington, and Andrew S. Burleigh of this city, a lifelong friend. Congressman Cushman underwent an operation a short time ago and pneumonia resulted.

While Representative Cushman possessed unchallenged the title of "House Humorist," he was universally regarded as far more than that. His high ability was recognized by Speaker Cannon in committee assignments, particularly a vacancy on the ways and means committee, when a great tariff bill was pending. A striking thing about Representative Cushman was that he never displayed his gift of humor to the House for mere amusement, but always with a view of impressing his views forcibly upon that body. One of his first speeches attracted attention touched upon the effects of the panic of 1893. In describing the impoverished condition to which his constituents were reduced, he said they were forced to live on clams, washed ashore by the incoming tide. "Their stomachs," he concluded, "rose and fell with the rising and falling of the tide."

Made Notable Speeches.

He probably will be long remembered by reason of the effectiveness of his humor in the debates on the Payne Tariff bill in the House. His speech in defense of retaining the duty on lumber secured several additional votes for the duty. His acquiescence to a rule for a vote on the Payne bill, with reduced rates on lumber, assured the passage of the rule. In describing his feelings to the House, he likened them to those of a cowpuncher in Wyoming, whose ability to raise 1000 cattle in one summer with one cow as a starter, caused a rope to be placed around his neck by a vigilance committee.

"They asked Bill what he had to say," explained Mr. Cushman. "Old Bill rolled his quid into the other cheek and said: 'Well gentlemen, I 'spose I've got more interest in this performance than any other gent present, but I am the least enthusiastic over the programme.'"

Homeliest Man in House.

The Washington congressman held the title of being the homeliest man in the House and of looking more like Lincoln than any other public man of recent years. In summarizing his career once he said he had been a waterboy, section hand, cowboy, school teacher, lawyer and congressman. He was in Congress for more than ten years.

Hints to Married People.

The woman who nags her husband makes a mistake, but the woman who nags her husband in public makes twice as much of an error. Married people should take care not to destroy each other's pride. When a woman "calls down" her husband before other people she takes away his self respect, and a man without pride or self respect becomes eventually capable of anything. The clever woman makes her husband believe that she respects and looks up to him, although there are lots of times when she can't do so. But she keeps him happily in ignorance of this.

The husband who wants a wife that he can trust and be proud of is very careful neither to destroy her spirit nor her just pride in herself. He treats her with unflinching courtesy both at home and in company.

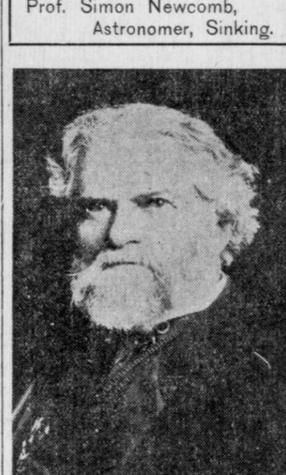

Married people, take notice! You ought to exercise every care to preserve each other's better qualities. Once lost, they are usually lost forever. More's the pity!

Mrs. Cornwallis West Writes Play In London.

LONDON, July 7.—Mrs. George Cornwallis West, who was formerly Miss Jennie Jerome of New York, added another to her claims to be considered the most versatile woman in London, by launching her first play Tuesday afternoon at the Hicks theater. The play is a social comedy, entitled "His Borrowed Plumes." The house was packed with persons prominent in society. Mrs. Cornwallis West and her two sons, Winston and John, occupied a box and applauded vigorously. Ellen Terry and a party of guests also were present, as were Earl and Countess Grey, the Duchess of Marlborough, Lord Charles Beresford, Mrs. I. Keppel and Lady DeBathie. Mrs. Pat Campbell took the principal role.

CORPORATION TAX HAS EXCEPTIONS

LABOR, RELIGIOUS, CHARITABLE AND FRATERNAL ORGANIZATIONS ARE EXEMPT.

TARIFF BILL PROGRESSING.

Passes from Committee of the Whole to the Senate and Two Hours' Adjournment Is Taken.

TO ARGUE TOBACCO WEDNESDAY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—As soon as the tariff bill was taken up in the Senate today, an amendment proposed by Senator Burkett, exempting from the operation of the corporation tax provision beneficial societies organized on the lodge principle, precipitated a debate on the exact form that such a provision should take. Senator Bacon thought that the suggestion of the Nebraska senator was not broad enough and offered a more far-reaching amendment relating to religious, charitable, educational and fraternal associations, mutual insurance companies and corporations whose gross sales were less than $250,000 annually.

Trinity church of New York was brought prominently into the debate. Senator Clark of Wyoming said that organization was not of a character to receive the exemption. It was, he said, engaged in real estate operations to an extent that would warrant the church's exclusion from the provisions of the bill.

Depew Defends Church.

Defending the Trinity corporation, Senator Depew and Root declared the corporation used its funds only for religious, charitable and educational purposes. Mr. Bacon added that he did not think that the mere fact of magnitude should be taken into consideration in the matter of exemption.

After considerable debate, an amendment was adopted exempting from the tax labor organizations, fraternal beneficiary societies and organizations exclusively for religious, charitable or educational purposes.

The tariff bill passed from the committee of the whole to the Senate at 1:20 this afternoon. The Senate thereupon took a recess until 3:30 p. m. to afford time to obtain a print of the bill as amended in committee of the whole.

Argue Tobacco Wednesday.

Discussion of the tobacco tax was postponed until tomorrow, to allow the full committee, including Democratic members, an opportunity to consider the question further.

MANN TO FIGHT PAPER DUTY.

Illinois Senator Will Lock Horns with Hale for Lower Schedule.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—James R. Mann, representative from Chicago, is to lock horns with Eugene Hale, senator from Maine, in the coming conference committee battle involving lower duties on print paper and wood pulp. Although Mr. Mann will not have the advantage of membership on the conference committee, as will Senator Hale, he will have to be reckoned with as a recognized authority in the House on the above mentioned commodities.

PASS INCOME TAX AMENDMENT.

Senators Decide in Favor of Submitting Question to the States.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—The Fourth of July was the Senate's busy day. From 10 o'clock in the morning until 5:35 o'clock in the afternoon the senators labored.

Early in the afternoon the Brown resolution providing for the submission to the states of the Union of an income tax amendment to the constitution was passed unanimously (yeas 77, nays 0).

The remainder of the day was devoted to the consideration of the administrative provisions of the tariff bill.

INCENDIARY IN BERLIN.

Milwaukee Road Depot Burned After Attempts to Fire Lumber Yards Fail.

BERLIN, Wis., July 6.—[Special.]—After attempting to set fire to the yards of the Wilbur Lumber company and the Allen Lumber company, an incendiary finally succeeded in burning the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company's freight and passenger depot here at an early hour this morning.

Piles of paper were lighted in several places in the lumber yards, but the flames were discovered in time to prevent a conflagration. The depot was located in the heart of the city and much valuable property would have been threatened had there been any wind.

The Truesdell Fur Coat company of this city had $3000 worth of furs in the depot and these were lost. There was also a large consignment of stoves belonging to a local firm. The depot was a landmark here, being one of the oldest buildings in the city. The total loss will be about $10,000.

Ignorance Aids Appetite.

Merrill E. Gates, secretary of the board of Indian commissioners, was describing the splendid work that his board is doing to wipe out the tuberculosis scourge which at one time threatened to make the American Indian extinct.

"But the Indian," said Mr. Gates,

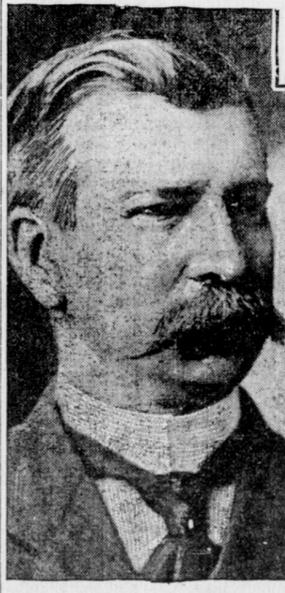

"needs to be educated in sanitation. He is shockingly ignorant there. In fact, he is as ignorant as an old farmer I used to know in Warsaw."

"A friend dropped in on this old farmer as he was frying a bit of bacon. "Grand bacon, that," said the friend, sniffing affably.

"Grand bacon! Well, I guess it is grand bacon," said the old man, turning the slices in the pan. "And it's none of yer murdered stuff, neither. That he died a natural death."—Washington Post.

Wright May Succeed Chief Justice Fuller.

Secretary Wright has arrived in Washington from his home in Memphis. While he denies the report the appointment is almost certain. President Taft considers Gen. Wright fitted in every way for the position and he feels that the naming of an old-line Democrat like Wright will aid him in breaking the solid south.

LUKE E. WRIGHT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 7.—It was learned here from good authority, last night, that President Taft is to appoint former Secretary of War Luke E. Wright to the supreme bench to succeed Chief Justice Fuller, who, it is understood, is to retire from the bench in the early fall.

Secretary Wright has arrived in Washington from his home in Memphis. While he denies the report the appointment is almost certain. President Taft considers Gen. Wright fitted in every way for the position and he feels that the naming of an old-line Democrat like Wright will aid him in breaking the solid south.

David H. Wright, Mason, 89 Years Old.

DAVID H. WRIGHT.

MADISON, Wis., July 7.—[Special.]—The eighty-ninth birthday of David H. Wright of Madison, past grand master of the Masonic lodge, will be fittingly celebrated Friday evening.

Mr. Wright is prominent in Masonic circles and is known all over the state. He is a Knight Templar Mason and a thirty-third degree member of the Scottish Rite, but aside from this, he is one of the oldest and best known citizens of Madison. He came here May 1844, and there is not a house standing at the present time that has not been erected since his arrival. Mr. Wright was born July 9, 1820, and for some time lived on a farm near Madison, after the family had moved here from Otsego county, N. Y.

There is but one other man living who can claim longer residence in Dane county than Mr. Wright.

FIRST RED LEMONADE.

Original Manufacturer Says Red Horse Blanket Fell in Barrel and Whole Stock Was Sold.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 7.—The original red lemonade man, William H. A. Tobey of New Bedford, Mass., was one of the features of the gathering of Elks at the Auditorium hotel Tuesday night on their way to the national Elks convention, to be held at Los Angeles next week.

"Yes, sir," he told a group in the hotel lobby. "I am the originator of red lemonade, and this is how it happened: Many years ago I was with a small circus playing at a small town in Kansas. Our lemonade man and I were making a batch of the fluid when the lemons ran out. During our hurry a large red horse blanket fell into the barrel of lemonade and turned the water red. A POINT ABOUT WIRE FENCE

A weak point in the average wire fence is at the joint.

The "Swinging Joint" in APEX fence differs in construction from all other fences. The stay wire is formed from separate pieces of wire, which wrap or coil about each other at their junction with the line wires, giving the strength of two wires at that point. This re-inforced, double strength stay is contained in no other fence.

The cut above shows this construction, and the dotted lines also show the up and down swing possible in the line wires, which allows the fence to adjust itself perfectly to all unevenness of the ground.

Don't buy any fence until you have seen the APEX and its special advantages.

The Short-sighted Fishermen.

The Americans are not the only people in the world who are wasting natural resources. Now comes the report from London that the North Sea is "fished out," or at least in danger of being so before long if the fish are not given a chance to replenish their numbers.

The North Sea has been fished for centuries, with no appreciable lessening of its fishy population until the introduction of the steam trawlers. These have "raked and scraped" it, taking in small fish as well as large, until its resources have become so nearly exhausted that many fishing vessels are seeking other grounds, and a complete cessation of fishing for several years is recommended as affording the only hope of recuperating the fisheries. It will be a less simple thing to bring this about than it would have been to have saved the wretched fish coming so before long if the fish are not given a chance to replenish their numbers.

The more complicated and difficult the route the greater is the praise bestowed upon the conductor. The author of "Theodor" added that more than once he had taken part in these junketings.—London Globe.

Find Hull of Old Schooner.

The hull of a wrecked schooner, buried 10 feet in the sand, has been found by Contractor W. H. Gillen at the mouth of the Milwaukee river. The hull was discovered when piles for the new harbor piers were driven directly down upon it. When something prevented the further driving of the piles dredge No. 2 of the C. H. Starke Dredge and Dock company was used. It dug up great timbers. The identity of the schooner has not yet been discovered.

UNPOPULAR PROCLAMATIONS.

In China No One Obeys Them and They Are Not Enforced.

A proclamation issued by the viceroy of the province that all opium dens in Wanshien must close has gone unheeded, as most things appear to do in China when it does not suit the populace.

Wanshien is a city of 120,000 inhabitants, and is surrounded by poppy fields, nine-tenths of the community indulging in the drug, while the city itself contains innumerable shops for retailing it.

When the appointed time came for closing up, all the shops "did themselves proud." Bright new lanterns gleamed from the portals, while clean curtains decorated the interior, and trade was as brisk as ever. In other words, the opium vendors were "saving face," a peculiar characteristic of the Chinese, and not even a policeman, if there is such a thing in Wanshien, enforced the order.

Opium smoking continues at Wanshien in the same old way, and the crop to be reaped this year is a third bigger than last. What can a viceroy do when the people, to a man, won't listen, especially when the people know that the proclamation may be only a matter of form.—Shanghai Mercury.

EVEN CLOTHES CONDENSED.

Suits of Sailor Boys Squeezed by Hydraulic Presses.

"The problem of storage on a great battleship is always an important one," says Popular Mechanics for June, "and to make the proportionately limited space allowed hold the required stores means close figuring.

"No better example could be given of the methods resorted to than that of the putting up of the ready made suits and other wearing apparel for the sailor boys. These garments are reduced to small, compact, waterproof bundles by hydraulic presses. In this shape and size they are easily stored."

Wind Motors.

Wind motors as power generators are used in agricultural and industrial pursuits in Denmark. Motors with four wings have given the best results, as fewer wings do not fully utilize the wind power, while more act detrimentally on the wind current between the wings.

If a medium large wind motor, is used with a wind surface of about 48 square meters, 8-horsepower is obtained at a wind velocity of 6 meters a second. At a velocity of 8 meters, the horsepower is more than doubled. Since 1903 there have been in existence thirty large and smaller wind power electrical equipments in operation throughout Denmark.

An interesting, aged relic is hanging on the wall of a bank in New York. It is an engrossed Chinese document, very old, but in good preservation. Under it is a translation in English, stating the paper is a certificate issued by the board of finance of King Wu in 1367, and at that time valued at 250 taels, "redeemable in silver yue."

THE FARANDOLE DANCE.

Master of the Revels, Musicians and Boisterous Company.

The programme of the Arles fetes, in honor of Mistral, is to include the farandole dance. An account of this dance for the benefit of the uninitiated was given by Victorien Sardou.

In my childhood, said Sardou, I have often seen the farandole at Gasse. Two tambourinaires lead the revels, beating the tambourine in their left hand and holding in the right a reed instrument. The master of the revels is generally a young man full of life and spirits. The musicians suddenly appear from behind the master and the ladies and ladies join, the maidens holding the jackets of the youths and these the skirts of the girls.

Forming a long line the dancers in a graceful movement pass through the village, visiting each house and entering all the rooms, and coming down the stairs in a boisterous manner, the excitement consisting in descending without leaving partners. The dance lasts for hours and the dancers are full of merriment and happiness.

The more complicated and difficult the route the greater is the praise bestowed upon the conductor. The author of "Theodor" added that more than once he had taken part in these junketings.—London Globe.

FOR WOMEN AND GIRLS

Scrub the rough surfaces of cantaloupes until thoroughly clean and pack in ice. When they are chilled through cut in half, remove the seeds and pack the centers with vanilla ice cream. Put two or three whole marshmallows on the top and serve on individual plates with a paper doily under each and a nasturtium and leaf at the side.

Boil small new potatoes and when cold cut in dice and mix with a small white onion cut fine and a cup of chopped cold boiled ham. Mix in a cup of mayonnaise dressing. Line a deep salad bowl with lettuce leaves, then arrange thin slices of cold boiled ham overlapping each other around the bowl inside of the lettuce leaves. Turn in the salad and serve with small sandwiches made of thin round slices of rye bread spread with cream cheese mixed with chopped nut meat.

The arrival of hot weather makes the housewife long for recipes for refreshing dishes. Herewith are a few which may be new:

A delicious vegetable salad was made of new potatoes, young carrots, and celery roots, boiled, drained, and set aside until cold. They were then cut in thin slices and thin slices of ham in a bowl and tarragon were added. The dressing was made of olive oil and tarragon vinegar, blended in the proportions of three tablespoonsful of oil to one of vinegar. Salt, pepper, and a little French mustard were added to season. A salad bowl was lined with crisp, new lettuce leaves, and the salad was turned into the bowl and sprinkled over the top with minced parsley. Toasted crackers and cheese were served with it.

For a quickly prepared luncheon dessert put halves of canned peaches or preserved pears with some of the syrup in individual dishes, cover with a generous amount of whipped cream, and sprinkle with chopped maraschino cherries, grated coconut, or chopped nut meats. Serve with sponge cake.

Boil eggs hard and divide in half lengthwise, removing the yolks. Drain the oil from a can of sardines, remove the heads, tails, and backbones and mince the little fish. Rub the yolks of the eggs to a paste and add to the sardines, season with salt and a dash of paprika. Stuff the white of eggs with the mixture and arrange on a crisp lettuce leaf with a garniture of shreds of red and green peppers.

As the season advances the fashion settled upon seems to combine the styles of all the ages gone before, although here and there we may find an individual touch which would indicate the gown was made in the latter part of 1904. Paris says that all skirts are very voluminous at the bottom, clinging around the hips and finished with a large bow behind, while in this country we have already become acquainted with the tight yoke and the plaited apron of the Gaiety period. Paris also says that as we advance further toward the autumn months the dresses will be more and more frankly draped until we have reached the voluminous style of the Louis.

The most striking characteristic of the present style, says an authority on fashion, are "the gowns which summarize everything in Paris was square. There were square necks, square figures, square trimmings; but now everything is pointed, after the later style of the Crusades. The lines of the present indicate that the pointed bodice is to be worn, although it may be that the gown will be cut in one piece and the trimmings be depended upon to give the effect of the required point.

Sometimes the point is so low that it extends to the feet, as in the instance of one heavily embroidered gown with an overdress of chiffon caught on the hips, master and the lady and ladies join, the maidens holding the jackets of the youths and these the skirts of the girls.

There is no lack of attractive and inexpensive materials for the home seamstress, and she should have no trouble in finding suggestions for the making of frocks, good looking yet inexpensive. A tour through the shops of a glance through any of the well informed fashion journals should give her all the inspiration she needs, and if she has good taste she should be able to plan a summer wardrobe for a very modest sum.

For her tailored frock, unless she can go to a first class tailor, she had better resort to the ready-made suits, which may be purchased at a modest cost and invariably look more stylish than the home-made affair. Simple morning frocks, however, nearly all the ready-made stress may make without much trouble. For these the shops offer a large variety of pretty and attractive materials. Gingham is probably the most practical material for the list for that purpose, but it is not quite so smart as a one-tone linen.

Sheer cotton stuff trimmed with linen in the same color is worked into good loose frocks by the French makers, and some of their models offer good suggestions for the home dressmaker. One model is a buff lawn and linen with plaited frills of sheer white and white pearl buttons was particularly attractive. One sees also many cool and pretty frocks of white and color with trimmings of plain linen matching the color.

Yellow in linen offers a new note of color among the tub materials for the summer months this year, and never has been offered in such exquisite shades. Its various tones, ranging from soft canary to burnt orange, are developed in long-coated suits and one-piece models. The pale yellow gown in pique and the deep orange suit are novelties that threaten to remain. The costumes are finished with tailored stitching, and the pale yellows seem always to be braided with narrow white wash braids or treated to a let-in motif of embroidery or heavy lace.

Batiste and Swiss embroidery insertions, edges and motifs, with or without lace, introduced into the designs are extensively employed by the designers, and a touch of color enters into many of the finest of these embroideries. Used for blouses, frocks and underweare, slips, petticoats, matinees, combinations, etc., showing delicate colors in their fine sheer embroidery trimmings, are among the latest things in lingerie, and though a careless housewife can play havoc with them, they certainly are dainty and charming at the start.

Cotton marquisette in stripe or small designs of color on a white ground is offered in suits, frocks and blouses and is highly attractive. The color can be plain or embroidered, now, too, comes in a long line of colors and in some of the light tints is extremely pretty. Then there are the dimities, the organdies, the innumerable silks and satins, the embroidered and mercerized materials, the embroidered Swiss and the bewildering array

WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL CENTER.

Busiest Manufacturing Region on Earth Due to England's Coal.

About the busiest industrial region on earth is the lowland of England from Lancashire and the Mersey river on the west to Newcastle-on-Tyne in the northeast. Here are scores of cities and towns, the home of the textile industries, the potteries, the great shops busy with iron and steel and other raw materials, manufacturing goods of high value for a market as wide as the earth.

Over all this lowland hangs a black pall of soft coal smoke, the landscape studded with the tall spouting chimneys. For all this endless activity in manufacture, says The World Today, is wholly due to the location in these lowlands of fabulously rich deposits of coal.

Coal for a century and a half has been a magical bank account in Great Britain, bringing into existence these great artisan population, making demands on every continent for the metals and timber and textile fibers for the busy mills, and then calling on the farms and ranges of America, the Argentine and other new lands, for the bread and meat to feed these industrial millions.

Of all this textile territory Manchester is the central market and clearing house. In the Manchester exchange 177 towns are represented, eleven of them having each a population of 100,000 or over.

A WORD WITH WOMEN.

These Facts May Open the Eyes of Many Discouraged Ones.

Mrs. Matilda Lindemann, 4423 Wentworth Ave., Chicago, Ill., says:

"From my own experience I believe the worst of women's troubles originate from weak kidneys. For years my health failed gradually. Pain in the back and a feeling of heavy pressure over the abdomen, poor appetite, nervousness and dizziness spells made life a burden. The kidney secretions were terribly disordered. I could hardly move a muscle without severe pain. I was a physical wreck when I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. The change was wonderful. Since using them my trouble is gone. I have a good appetite, weigh more and feel well."

THE CARE OF AWNINGS.

To Preserve Them to Good Order Keep Them Dry, Says the Maker.

"Your awnings," said the awning man, "would last longer and look better if you'd dry 'em out when they get wet."

"Some folks will leave their awnings down to soak and drip all through a heavy rain. I never could understand why people do that; of course it doesn't do an awning any more good than it would any other fabric to soak it in that way and then drip may fall on the awning from the roof and flying soot may lodge on it, and so if you keep your awnings down in the rain the first thing you know they are faded, discolored and dingy."

"If you want to preserve your awnings you want to haul them up when it rains, but if they get wet, why, then when the air is right you want to lower them and let them dry out, and be sure they're dry when you fur 'em, before you go away in the summer."—New York Sun.

HANDS RAW AND SCALY.

Itched and Burned Terribly—Could Not Move Thumbs Without Flesh Cracking—Sleep Impossible—Cuticura Soon Cured Eczema.

"An itching humor covered both my hands and got up over my wrists and even up to the elbows. The itching and burning were terrible. My hands got all scaly and when I scratched, the surface would be covered with blisters and then get raw. The eczema got so bad that I could not move my thumbs without deep cracks appearing. I went to my doctor, but his medicine could only stop the itching. At night I suffered so fearfully that I could not sleep. I could not bear to touch my hands with water. This went on for three months and I was fairly worn out. At last I got the Cuticura Remedies and in a month I was cured. Walter H. Cox, 16 Somerset st., Boston, Mass., Sept. 25, 1908."

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 4, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

of silks from pongee to the finest and most delicate foulards, shantung, mes-salines, crepe de chimes and many others.

Plain chambrays come in delightful shades, wear well and are so cool and fine of texture that one wonders they do not appear more frequently in the ready-made. Particularly lovely tones of yellow in the soft buff and brightish tones are found in this material as in the linens, and there are some excellent striped effects in the cool buff and white.

Whether or not the Americans will accept the severely plain coiffure now fashionable in Paris is difficult to tell, but every day one sees less puffs, less pompadour, and less waves. The Britanny fashion of doing up the hair has become more and more popular. The coiffures of the last two years. Braids are needed. They may be real or bought. One or two of them are laid around the head, pulled out to their widest dimensions, and then tucked down with shell pins. The skin which makes for some softness. Just above the braid at the back a wide flat comb is tucked in the hair. This is usually of shell or of cut jet.

Beginners in cookery wonder why potatoes so frequently turn black and look disappetizing without apparent cause. This is because they are boiled immediately after peeling. Potatoes, particularly the mid-season ones which we have to contend with before the arrival of the new crop, should be peeled at least a couple of hours before they are to be cooked, and should be allowed to stand in a pan of cold water during that time. Scrub thoroughly before peeling, and rinse well afterward. Then let them stand in more fresh, cold water. The scum which is seen to rise on many a pot of boiling potatoes is principally dirt and dirt which has been thoroughly washed away. A well-cooked—boiled or baked—potato is a rare asset. One of the principal points of failure is in not having them perfectly clean.

"Perhaps it's only a coincidence," said a housekeeper, "but I must tell you my experience in making pie crust. I have always heard ever since a child that to make good pie crust the lard must be very cold and therefore use the coldest I have always observed this injunction, but for some reason my pie crust has never been entirely dependable. A few months ago I wanted to make a pie and found my lard quite soft. I was pie hungry, so I went to bed and ahead of me as usual. Well, of all the pies I have ever eaten that was the best, and my verdict was voiced by every member of the family. I wondered if the soft lard could in any way have been accountable for the flaky crust. So impressed was I with the possibility that when I next wished to make a pie I purposely left the lard become soft. Presto, a flaky pie crust again!"

As I said, it may all be a strange coincidence, but I think the soft lard I had I have never failed in having flaky pie crust. I have no authority for my belief other than my own experience, but, after all," she concluded with a smile, "that is pretty good authority for me, at least, isn't it?"

"Furs are a part of our stock costumes," said a New York photographer, "but we don't put them all away when summer comes. The fur is made of the year round. That a woman is photographed with a fur boa draped round her shoulders or a sealskin coat protecting her from falling snowflakes is no sign that that picture was taken in the middle of winter. There are plenty of women who insist upon being photographed in furs no matter whether the month is January or July. That is because they look better in furs than anything else. The becomingness of furs is not in their part, either, they really do look better in them. Somehow chiffon and marabout boas will not take the place of real furs, so if it becomes desirable for these women to have their pictures taken in the middle of August the furs are brought forth and pressed into service."

The simpler the frock the smarter it is. In town the elaborate fringed frocks are seen in many fashionable restaurants at the luncheon hour. These gowns are donned for luncheon parties only. The women who are stopping in town at hotels, or who motor in or come in all wear simple costumes. Many of the one-piece frocks seen are in dull ecru and yellowish linens, and have plaques of fine tucks set in on the shoulders about the hips and bodice, and these are outlined by soutache. Some of these gowns trail a little, and most of them are loose at the waist line, although they curve in at that point. In connection with the narrow-hipped, flat shoulders but loose waisted robe, it will be found the note of warning to those not to the manner born, many of whom nevertheless adopt this frock. One should be careful how one carries one's self. There must be no wriggling or twisting of the body, shoulders or hips, else the effect is decidedly ludicrous. In fact, as little motion as possible, and as slow as possible, is the most graceful, for the gowns in themselves are a bit wooden.

A fascinating baby basket just made for a young mother was of wicker, shallow and oblong. It was lined with mercerized satin, pink, of high luster, and covered with Paris muslin, which is as dainty looking as organdy and much more durable. The pink lining was put in plain, but the muslin was gathered slightly at top and bottom of the sides, the bottom being plain. Double strips of inch-wide valenciennes insertion were arranged across the bottom to form a diamond. Along each side were pockets of the muslin gathered at the top on an elastic and edged with narrow lace. The fronts of the pockets as well as the long pin cushion across one end and the equally long, stiffened cover with leaves of flannel underneath to hold safety pins at the other end, were also striped with insertion in diamond effect. Where each pocket and cushion joined the basket the sewing was concealed under fluffy rosettes of pink baby's foot. The ruffle that fell over the sides was made of straight strips of the Paris muslin, with an inch-wide hem at the bottom, and above it eight of an inch tucks a half inch apart, and a baby ribbon sewed between each tuck.

A good looking hat for informal wear, like shopping, train wear, out-of-door life, and driving, is the large crown sailor. This is made of that rough straw in the familiar scallops and has a 3-inch brim that looks quite narrow in comparison with the crown. The novelty in wearing this hat is to have half a dozen colored hat bands to go with it. These are made of 2-inch velvet ribbons with wide pump bows at end and tiny elastic straps that fasten with glove clasps around the hat. It is best to get a burnt straw hat, for then one can wear any color in a hat band. It is interesting to experiment with them and find what a difference they make in the costume. One girl says she chooses the color of her hat band to go with her mood and the gaiety of the occasion.

The Most Dangerous Foe.
The "daily health hint" calls attention to the danger connected with the common house fly. Under modern conceptions of disease carriers the mosquito and the fly are counted pests of the worst type. The merchants association of New York has begun a vigorous campaign against them. It is to be a war of extermination. In a pamphlet of forty-eight pages charges are made against the fly as "more dangerous than tiger or cobra," in fact, as "the most dangerous animal on earth."
With charts and maps the pamphlet tells of the increase of disease and death during the fly period. It shows in striking manner that the blame rests with these insects whose filthy habits have been tolerated too long. It shows their breeding places, and traces the path of death straight from the stables and garbage cans where the flies swarm to the tables upon which food is placed for human kind. It is not a pleasing story to tell. But vigorous measures have to be taken to arouse people to the realization of the fact that what has been counted a summer time nuisance, to be born with as much patience as possible, is, instead, a disease carrying pest, against which the hand of every man, woman and child should be raised in terrified determination.
The decision to kill the flies is not one made in Chicago or New York alone. London and other European cities are at work with the same thing in view. It is part of the greater campaign against disease in which all the world now seems interested. The rat, the mosquito, and the fly are now known to be active factors in disseminating diseases. The last named is the most dangerous because the most common. It will be the hardest to exterminate because so many people think of it as a troublesome nuisance rather than as a dangerous enemy. But the world movement against it can succeed, as other world movements against are succeeding, if everybody will lend a hand.

SOLID COMFORT.
Can you imagine any better combination for a warm day than a hammock, a palm-leaf fan and a cold bottle of
LITHIA BEER?
We say LITHIA beer, because it is a beer that you can thoroughly enjoy. Light, sparkling and mellow; just a little better than any other beer you ever drank. You know not all the pleasures of the season unless you use it.
And refreshment is not the only element it contains. It is nourishing as well. It is a splendid tonic. Physicians frequently recommend LITHIA beer, particularly to women who are "run down," because it is a natural restorative.
