REPORT OF ASYLUM TO MAKE CHANGES AND COUNTY HOME IN HIGHWAY TURNS

The annual report of the trustees of the Washington county asylum for the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1921, which was made to the County Board of Supervisors shows among other things the following:

That an oversight was made in last year's budget, because of the illness of the superintendent at the time the budget was made. In consequence of this the existing deficit, amounting to nearly $10,000 was left out of consideration when the amount to be raised was determined. Because of this error the amount of the deficit on June 30, 1921, amounted to $16,259.

The net earnings of the asylum and farm during the year were only $2,409.37. In the make-up of the weekly capita cost, subsistence is the smallest cash item, being only 63 cents per person per week, while at the County Home, where all subsistence except garden vegetables is bought, the cost is $1.81. The report shows that the cost of subsistence is reduced $12,155 because of the food furnished from the farm.

The trustees believe that the earnings of the farm could be materially increased if the farm were of sufficient size to employ all of the available labor at their disposal. The superintendent says that with but very little additional expense a hundred acres more could be farmed successfully. The income from additional land, he claims, would almost all be net profit to the asylum, besides it would give an opportunity to arrange for four-year rotation of crops. The trustees recommend that farm expansion be given serious thought by the board.

The trustees report that the asylum and county home and farm are well managed, and that there exists perfect harmony and good will among the employees.

The statistical part of the report shows that on July 1, 1920 there were 128 persons cared for in the asylum. During the year, 10 were received from the Northern Hospital, three from other hospitals, and two others committed, making the total 143. Four died during the year and one was discharged, leaving the number on June 30, 1921, 138. Of the patients 36 males and 17 females work regularly daily; 26 work about half a day, 10 do a little work, and 49 can not perform any labor.

The total earnings of the farm, farm and garden are as follows: Pork, 17,338 lbs.; 674.27, while the maintenance expenses (including interest on farm, farm and garden at 4 per cent) were $19,905.69—a deficit of $2,329.42.

The production on the farm during the year was as follows: Pork, 17,338 lbs.; 674.27, while the maintenance expenses (including interest on farm, farm and garden at 4 per cent) were $19,905.69—a deficit of $2,329.42.

U. S. VETERAN'S BUREAU ANNOUNCES TIME LIMIT FOR REINSTATEMENT

Announcement has just been made by the Washington Office of the United States Veterans Bureau that the time limit for reinstatement of War Risk Term Insurance expires December 31, 1921. It is very important that all ex-service men who care to reinstate their insurance, which they have allowed to lapse, do so by that date for after that time no reinstatements will be handled.

Briefly, the requirements for reinstatement are as follows: 1. If the ex-service man is drawing compensation or is disabled as a result of an injury or disease contracted in the military or naval service during the World War, but is not totally and permanently disabled, he may reinstate his lapse or cancelled yearly renewal term insurance by having a full medical examination to show that he is not suffering in any disability other than that contracted in service. After he has completed the medical examination satisfactory, he is required to pay all back monthly premiums which would have become payable if the insurance had not lapsed, together with interest at a rate of 5 per cent per annum, compounded annually, on each premium from date said premium is due by the terms of the policy.

2. If the ex-service man is in good health and his insurance has lapsed for less than three months, it will be necessary for him to sign a statement that he is in good health and pay two months premiums on the amount of the insurance he wishes to re-instate. 3. If the insurance has lapsed for more than three months and less than six months it will be necessary for him to have a short medical examination made and pay two months premiums on the amount of the insurance he wishes to re-instate.

Any ex-service man who is interested in re-instating his insurance may secure re-instatement blanks or further information regarding re-instatement by writing, or calling at the Insurance Section of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, 14 Congress St., Chicago, Ill.

FARMERS CAN PEDDLE MEAT WITHOUT LICENSE

Farmers who raise their own beef or any other product, can peddle or deliver it, either in wholesale or retail quantities without a license. But if the beef or other product is purchased and delivered, a license will be required. If farmers, who now receive about two cents a pound net after transportation charges have been paid for cattle can dress and deliver in the cities and villages, it may bring down the price the consumers are compelled to pay at the retail market.

In connection with this, it might be interesting to know how a peddler has been defined by the Supreme Court: "A peddler is one who sells at retail from place to place, going from house to house, carrying the goods to be offered for sale with him."

OH DEATH, WHERE IS THY STING!

The state highway commission is making plans to change the highways in such a way as conditions of times will present themselves and not as how they ought to be. Right angle turns will be done away with, except where physical conditions absolutely prevent. A. R. Hirst, chief highway engineer, says:

"The Wisconsin highway commission is proceeding on a highway program that looks a long ways into the future and anticipates some of the perplexing problems that will arise in the rapidly growing automobile traffic. Highways of the future will be built to meet with conditions as how they ought to be. Right angle turns will at some future date be eliminated except where physical conditions absolutely prevent. It is our policy to locate all high-ways that the number of right angle turns is reduced to the minimum, and where safe to use such turns to build the road at a radius of about 300 feet, which gives a fairly safe high speed school-bus or church, as I remember it. In our newer work we would have cut behind the structure rather than to leave conditions as they are now, and I believe, undoubtedly, in the near future this will have to be done in the interest of safety."

"One thing when some of the dangerous curves on highways, not yet built can be built as the highways containing them are reached, there is nothing to prevent the counties from establishing proper location of these points and opening up the final location even in advance of the actual final construction. Our engineers will be very glad to look over any of these cases to determine what we would do to them if the road was to be wholly constructed and to furnish surveys and plans showing the proper curve to put in, so that nothing would be lost when the new work was done and, on the contrary, something gained in the years which might elapse before the road was built."

"In my opinion, based upon a series of years' experience, that we cannot be too extreme in handling these curve situations, because no matter how extreme we may be we will hardly keep up to the development of traffic at high speeds, and while many may deplore the high speeds used on modern highways, there seems to be no practical way of stopping fast driving, and we must try to protect even the reckless drivers because they are not the only ones endangered by such conditions."

3,764.1 MILES OF ROAD BUILT THIS YEAR

Madison, Wis.—In his quarterly report, Chief Engineer Hirst of the Highway Commission, says that the grand total of all road construction in Wisconsin this year will be 3,764.1 miles, of which 340 miles is concrete; 1072 miles gravel; 84 miles top soil; 1069 miles earth; gang maintenance 1204 miles; miscellaneous 72 miles.

A careful examination, says Mr. Hirst, of the resources of the Commission has been made and it appears that there is no reason for a change in its activities this calendar year; or until July 1, 1922. In case there should be no further action by the Federal Government for a continuation of its aid in highway construction it will be necessary to reduce our work in the preparation of surveys and plans after that date, and to reduce our overhead organization about January 1, 1922.

The amount of bridge work done this year is greater in quantity and superior in quality to that done in any previous year. The cost of bridge work is about one-third below that of 1920. A further reduction of 20 cents per barrel in Portland cement is noted. Plans and specifications for 540 bridges were prepared by the commission during the first nine months of this year, by the commission staff. The estimated total cost of these bridges under Federal Aid, 128 under State Aid and 301 under County Aid, is $2,245,100. The aggregate length of these bridges will be 14,733 feet, or close to three miles.

MESSAGE OF DR. GENAHR IS WELL RECEIVED

Dr. Genahr, missionary to China, for thirty years, delivered a very impressive sermon at the Evangelical Peace church last Sunday, which was well received. He speaks the Chinese language fluently and is acquainted with the life and the customs of the people thoroughly. The children in Sunday school were delighted to hear him speak a few sentences in the Chinese language. The services in the Peace church were very well attended. Next Sunday he will speak at the Evangelical Trinity church at Milwaukee.

CITY TEAM WINS SCHOOL TEAM LOSES

In one of the best games of basket ball played on the local floor in years the crack aluminum basket ball team defeated Co. B Wisconsin National Guard team of Milwaukee by a score of 29 to 18. The game was a hummer from start to finish and was on even terms throughout. The defense of the local team was the feature and the wonderful playing of the locals in handling the ball made it a spectacular contest to watch. The visitors were a scrappy bunch, having the locals outweighed and were all tall rangy players, a team that lived up to its wide reputation and played a snappy game both in offensive and in defensive. Twice during the contest the teams were battling to score after the score had been tied, for most of the evening, and only during the last few minutes of play were the locals victorious to sphere the basket from different angles. Ellie Ramthun and Jack Tassar, at forward, played wonderful ball and their clever passing was unbeatable. "Spitz" Miller at center, was again the big star with eight field goals, though being closely guarded at the time. Carl Schurr and the famous "Shep" filled the guard positions and the way they handled the visitors clever forwards, was another feature. "Shep" who has not played for two weeks, showed up in top form and took M. Loomis' place, who was absent at the station guard and nothing seemed to get by him. Ben Zeufert for the visitors. The lineup for last Saturday's game was as follows:

MILWAUKEE	Bas.	F.T.	Pouls
Benz, forward	5	0	0
Patek, forward	2	2	1
Huhner, center	0	0	2
Hobkin, guard	0	0	2
Thisted, guard	1	0	2

KEWASKUM	Bas.	F.T.	Pouls
Ramthun, forward	5	1	1
Tassar, forward	3	0	2
C. Schurr, guard	0	0	0

The biggest game of the season will be staged tomorrow (Sunday) evening when the crack Reeger Drugs of West Bend will invade town to tackle the Aluminum, which promises to be a hummer. The regular lineup will start at play time: M. Rosenheimer and Ellie Ramthun, forwards; Spitz Miller, Tassar and Carl Schurr, centers; guards; besides the locals will have three stars on the side lines to call on Runte, C. Schaefer and Shep. Game starts at 8 o'clock sharp so be on deck to see a real exhibition of basket ball. West Bend will have an exceptionally strong lineup. A big dance will follow the game for which the Harmonizers will furnish the music.

DIANA HUNTING CLUB HAS ANNUAL OUTING

The Kewaskum Diana Club had their annual hunting trip last Sunday on Michael Johannes' large swamp. Ah! Oh! what they didn't do to the cotton tails this year is beyond the strength of words to describe. It having snowed during Saturday night made it an easier matter to track the rabbits. The members of the club certainly had a great time and enjoyed their day's outing immensely. Regretting however that some of the members could not be with them this year and take part in this annual sport. After their day's hunt they assembled at the Johannes' home where a most delicious chicken supper was waiting for them, specially prepared by Mrs. Johannes, and to which ample justice was done by the guests. This was followed by social conversation and a general good time was had by all present. Again the club wishes to thank Mr. and Mrs. Johannes for their hospitality and especially thank Mrs. Johannes for the delightful supper she prepared.

MOONLIGHT SCHOOL PARTY

Last Monday evening many of our public school children and their parents and friends met at the school house for a Moonlight entertainment. Each of the departments of our school was represented by one or more appropriate exercises and they were well worth the applause which they received. Miss Hawig our pianist could not come, so Mrs. Schaub supplied her place and also played a fine solo. The entertainment was closed by our county superintendent, Mr. M. T. Buckley, who spoke on community life. He showed how the interests of politics, religion, race, business, etc., tend to divide people of the community apart, and prevented them from accomplishing some of the best things for their welfare. He emphasized the good points of the old-fashioned get-together meetings in the public school houses, their singing schools and spelling matches—and urged that our school houses which are the property of all the people should be used more freely as an civic center.

ENVOYS TO ARMS CONFERENCE HEAR HARDING'S PLEA

President Tells World's Statesmen That U. S. Wants Less Armament.

WARNS AGAINST INTRIGUE

Executive Voices Hope for International Peace and a Better Understanding Among Nations—Says United States Has No Unworthy Designs.

Washington, Nov. 14.—America took leadership Saturday in the first movement in history for the elimination of international armaments that threaten civilization with future war.

Reduced to simple terms, the United States seeks:

First—To prevent competition among the great powers in the construction of war machinery—naval, land and air.

Second—To remove sources of international friction in the Pacific ocean zone that may lead to future conflict.

Recognizing the general belief that the Far East is the new danger spot, America asks the cooperation of eight other powers with equal interests in the Orient to ally the danger of a "great world war."

This is generally regarded as the greatest humanitarian crusade in the history of mankind. But it is also a practical scheme for material relief from the overwhelming burden of taxation and debt.

Meeting Is Unique in History.

The various diplomats of Europe who have participated in every important international parley for the past half century characterized this meeting as unique in world history—a meeting called in advance of war, designed to prevent war, and a voluntary coming together of the great nations to limit the sizes of each other's armies and navies.

The President spoke from the head of the great United States table around which sat in rapid attention the statesmen of Europe and Asia. To the right of him sat France and Japan, and down at the far end of the horseshoe were the representatives of China, Belgium and Portugal.

On either side of him at the head of the table were the heads of America's representatives. The galleries were crowded with the entire membership of house and senate, members of the cabinet, justices of the Supreme court and diplomats.

Text of Harding's Address.

President Harding delivered the following address at the opening of the armament conference here:

Mr. Secretary and Members of the Conference, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is a great and happy privilege to bid the delegates to this conference a cordial welcome to the capital of the United States of America. It is not only a satisfaction to greet you because we were lately participants in a common cause, in which shared sacrifices and sorrows and triumphs brought our nations more closely together, but it is gratifying to address you as the spokesmen for nations whose convictions and attending actions have so much to do with the well or woe of all mankind.

Will Influence Human Progress.

It is not possible to over appraise the importance of such a conference. It is to unceasingly hasten, no disparagement of other nations which, though not represented, are held in highest respect, to declare that the conclusions of this body will have a signal influence on all human progress—in the features of the world.

Here is a meeting, I can well believe, which is an earnest of the awakened conscience of twentieth-century civilization. It is not a convention of reform, nor a session of sorrow. It is not the conference of victors to define terms of settlement. Nor is it a contact of nations seeking to remake humankind. It is rather a coming together, from all parts of the earth, to apply the better attributes of mankind to mankind, the better in our international relationships.

Call of War-Wearied World.

Repeating an official sponsor for the invitation, I think I may say the call is not of the United States of America, alone. It is rather the spoken word of a war-weary world, struggling for restoration, hungering and thirsting for better relationship; of humanity crying for relief and craving assurance of lasting peace.

It is easy to understand this world-wide aspiration. The glory of triumph, the rejoicing in achievement, the love of liberty, the devotion of country, the pangs of sorrow, the burdens of debt, the desolation of ruin—all these are appraised alike in all lands. Here in the United States we are but freshly turned from the burial of an unknown American soldier, when a nation sorrowed while paying him tribute. Whether it was spoken or not, a hundred millions of our people were summarizing the incalculable cost, the unpayable sacrifices and the unutterable sorrows, and there was the ever-impelling question: How can humanity justify or God forgive? Human hate demands no such toll; American greed must be denied it. If misunderstanding must take the blame, then let us banish it, and let understanding rule and make good will reign everywhere.

All Demand Liberty and Justice.

All of us demand liberty and justice. There can be no one without the other, and they must be held in the unquestioned possession of all peoples. Inherent rights are of God and the tragedies of the world originate in their attempted denial. The world today is infringing their enjoyment by arming to defend or deny, when simple sanity calls for their recognition through common understanding.

Out of the cataclysm of the World war came new fellowships, new convictions, new aspirations. It is ours to make the most of them. A world staggering with debt needs its burden lifted. Humanity, which has been shocked by wanton destruction, would minimize the agencies of that destruction. Contemplating the measureless cost of war and the continuing burden of armament, all thoughtful peoples wish for real limitation of armament and would like war outlawed. In soberest reflection the world's hundreds of millions who pay in peace and die in war wish their statesmen to turn the expenditures for destruction into means of construction, aimed at a higher state for those who live and follow after.

War Growing More Cruel.

It is not alone that the world cannot readjust itself and cast aside the excess burdens without relief from the leaders of men. War has grown progressively cruel and more destructive from the first recorded conflict to this present day, and the reverse order would more become our bested civilization.

Gentlemen of the conference, the United States welcomes you with unselfish hands. We harbor no fears; we have no sordid ends to serve; we suspect no enemy; we contemplate or apprehend no conquest. Content with what we have, we seek nothing which is another's. We only wish to do with you that finer, nobler thing which no nation can do alone.

We wish to sit with you at the table of international understanding and good will. In good conscience, we are eager to meet you frankly, and invite and offer co-operation. The world demands a sober contemplation of the existing order and the realization that there can be no cure without sacrifice, not by one of us, but by all of us.

No Pride Need Be Humbled.

I do not mean surrendered rights, or narrowed freedom, or denied aspirations, or ignored national necessities. Our republic would no more ask for those things that would give. No pride need be humbled, no nationality submerged, but I would have a convergence of minds committing all of us to less preparation for war and more enjoyment of fortunate peace.

The higher hopes come of the spirit of our coming together. It is but just to recognize varying needs and peculiar positions. Nothing can be accomplished in disregard of national apprehensions. Rather we should act together to remove the causes of apprehension. This is not to be done in intrigue. Greater assurance is found in the exchange of simple honesty and directness, among men resolved to accomplish as becomes leaders among nations, when civilization itself has come to its crucial test.

All Want Less Armament.

It is not to be challenged that government fails when the excess of its cost robs the people of the way to happiness and the opportunity to achieve. If the finer sentiments were not urging, the cold hard facts of economics would urge us to reduce our armaments. If the concept of a better order does not appeal, then let us ponder the burden and the blight of continued competition.

It is not to be denied that the world has swung along throughout the ages without heeding this call from the kinder hearts of men. But the same world never before was so tragically brought to realization of the utter futility of passion's sway when reason and conscience and fellowship point a nobler way.

I can speak officially only for the United States. One hundred millions frankly want less of armament and none of war. Wholly free from guile, sure in our own minds that we harbor no unworthy designs, we accredit the world with the same good intent. So I welcome you, not alone in good will and high purpose, but with high faith.

Service to All Mankind.

We are met for a service to mankind. In all simplicity, in all honesty and all honor, there may be written here the avowals of a world conscience reborn by the consuming fires of war, and made more sensitive by the anxious aftermath. I hope for that understanding which will emphasize the guarantees of peace, and for commitments to less burdens and a better order which will tranquilize the world. In such an accomplishment there will be added glory to your flags and ours, and the rejoicing of mankind will mean the transcending music of all succeeding time.

Statesmen Closely Guarded.

Washington, Nov. 14.—An unusually heavy guard was thrown about Continental Hall, where the first session of the armament conference was held, as a result of the receipt of a number of threatening letters by high officials of the State department.

Increased precautions were also taken to protect the distinguished statesmen from all parts of the world who are here for the conference.

Every precaution has been taken to prevent any untoward incident which might disturb the conference or the conferees.

COAL STILL SUPREME. ATONEMENT?

Even if it were possible to develop and utilize at once every possible economic waterpower resource in America, the total energy thus made available would replace only a small part of the horse-power now derived every year from coal. While development of water power is important, experts point out that coal will remain the principal source to which the country must look for development of power facilities.

HOW "BIG 3" WILL RANK IF HUGHES' PLAN IS ADOPTED

Washington, Nov. 14.—How the navies of the United States, Great Britain and Japan would be constituted, so far as capital ships are concerned, is shown in the following comparative table:

EFFECT OF THE AMERICAN PROPOSAL ON THE THREE BIG NAVAL POWERS

Washington, Nov. 14.—How the American plan for the reduction and limitation of naval armaments would affect the three great naval powers is shown at a glance in the following table:

Table showing the effect of the American proposal on the three big naval powers. Columns include Capital ships building to be scrapped, Capital ships building to be completed, and Total tonnage capital ships scrapped.

YALE LAW DEGREE FOR FOCH

Princeton, Marsh. Foch and his party arrived at 9 o'clock. Three companies of the 169th Infantry and Troop A cavalry were the guard of honor at the railroad station, where Gov. Lake extended to the marshal a welcome in behalf of the state.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 14.—Marshal Ferdinand Foch of France came to this city to receive from Yale the honorary degree of doctor of laws, and then, as the youngest son of his newly acquired alma mater, to witness one of the great sporting battles of the football field—that between Yale and and Japan agree to a navy building holiday for ten years, during which time no new ships shall be built.

2. All uncompleted capital ships and numerous specific older capital ships to be scrapped at once.

3. All building programs, either actual or projected, to be abandoned at once.

4. The sea power of the three nations to be maintained on a basis of a tonnage parity between the American and the British navies and of a Japanese navy of three-fifths the tonnage of either of the others.

5. The capital ship to be the unit of measurement of naval strength and a proportionate allowance of auxiliary craft to be prescribed.

6. The size of the capital ships built for replacement shall be limited to 25,000 tons, compared with 46,000 tons, the maximum now building, and aggregate capital ship tonnage is to be limited to 500,000 each for England and the United States and 300,000 for Japan.

7. Auxiliary cruisers and destroyers, the kinds of which have been already laid to be completed, but replacements to be on a basis of a maximum 450,000 tons each for England and the United States and 270,000 tons for Japan.

8. Same provision for submarines, with the maximum tonnage 90,000 each for England and the United States and 54,000 for Japan.

9. Total tonnage of airplane carriers to be limited to 80,000 each for England and the United States and 45,000 for Japan.

10. Only capital ships and airplane carriers 20 years old, cruisers 17 years old, and destroyers and submarines 12 years old may be replaced.

No Limit on Naval Aircraft.

11. Limitation of naval aircraft deemed impracticable because of easy converting of commercial aircraft to war uses.

12. Conversion of merchant marine to warships to be regulated by agreement.

13. No ships to be built for or disposed of to other nations.

BRITISH EDITORIAL OPINION.

London, Nov. 14.—The London Times says in an editorial: "President Harding of the United States set the right note for the Washington conference when he assured the delegates that he welcomed them not alone for their high purpose, but for their 'high faith.'"

If that faith be strong enough, general enough, and continuous enough in the masses of the people whose wills are the force behind the conference, success in the great objects of the conference will be attained."

An editorial in the Daily News says: "By a single gesture America has changed the whole face of international affairs. A despairing world has been shown a path of salvation. This path, which was missed at Versailles, is revealed once again at Washington as broad and straight as any in editorial." "Valiant if staggering is the proposal of the United States. It brings an ideal to the verge of practical politics."

The Morning Post in an editorial says: "Fleets and armies are but instruments of warfare. Neither France, America, nor Great Britain desires to spend one penny more than the sum requisite to secure that justice and those rights to which President Harding referred."

The Daily Chronicle's editorial says: "The world is in debt to the United States for its broad humanity and incisive vigor. It is our English way to turn over critically all proposals affecting the strength of our navy, but it should be at once said that, apart from certain reservations on account of the vastness of the sea area which we patrol, the American proposals strike us as being quite fair to ourselves."

FRENCH LIKE PLAN.

Paris, Nov. 14.—Dispatches outlining the developments at the opening of the armament conference in Washington take first place in all the Paris newspapers.

President Harding's high idealism, as evidenced in his opening address, is termed by the Petit Parisien "a ray of sunlight coming to rekindle the heart of our people, so greatly touched by the war."

The Journal, while approving the American proposals set forth by Mr. Hughes, says the problem confronting the conference in this respect is the attitude to be taken by Japan.

AMERICAN EDITORIAL VIEWS.

Following are American editorial comments made on Secretary Hughes' proposals for the limitation of armaments:

Philadelphia Public Ledger—The proposals strike straight and clean home to the heart of the world. At one stroke America has cut the ground from under the feet of those who would maneuver, hesitate and delay.

Buffalo Express—The United States is saying in effect, to its only rivals for sea power: "We will stop this competition for naval armament if you will, we will sacrifice if you will, and we will sacrifice more than we ask you to give up." Will they? How can they refuse?

Detroit Free Press—If we begin to half-dope, then the world has the right to hope for great things.

Providence Journal—The sacrifice will be more apparent than real. The relative naval strength of the powers is to remain practically as it is. No country will be more exposed to invasion or conquest or more efficient in offense by reason of the plan.

Boston Herald—Mr. Hughes' address is simply business, straight, specific, definite. The peoples of the world are waiting upon Washington with anxious hearts.

Cleveland Plain Dealer—The cutting of the conference and its manner of beginning has a meaning infinitely great, not only to America but to all the war-weary men and women of all civilized nations.

MOTHER! OPEN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Your little one will love the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" even if constipated, bilious, irritable, feverish, or full of cold. A teaspoonful never fails to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the sour bile, and undigested food out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has all directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

Summer Birds of Missouri.

Very few people realize the number of different kinds of birds that make their home here during the summer. Some time ago the Columbia Missourian published a list of about a dozen species, but one of their subscribers took exception to the small list, and sent in the following, which he had personally seen: Blackbird, red-winged blackbird, bluebird, blue-jay, indigo bunting, buzzard, cardinal, catbird, chickadee, cowbird, crow, cuckoo, dove, field lark, flicker, goldfinch, rose-breasted grosbeak, hawk, hummingbird, lark, martin, mockingbird, nuthatch, owl, Baltimore oriole, orchard oriole, pewee, phoebe, pigeon, quail, robin, sparrow, snipe, swallow, scarlet tanager, summer tanager, brown thrasher, whippoorwill, downy woodpecker and wren.—Centralla Courier.

Very "Dead."

Ignorance is never shown more effectively than in an attempt to conceal it. A countryman, residing about a cemetery, came upon a stone which bore this inscription: "Sic transit gloria mundi" (So passes earthly glory).

"What does that mean?" he asked of the sexton, who was at work near by.

The sexton replied: "Well, it means that he was sick transiently and went to glory on a Monday morning."

Base Deceiver.

"Timothy," said Mrs. Toddler sternly, "you are hiding something from me."

"Why, my dear," faltered her husband, "how can you say that?"

"No evasions, Timothy. Out with it. What have you been doing?"

"Why, my dear, if you must know, I—the trolley car conductor neglected to collect my fare, and—"

"Yes, yes. What did you do with the money?"

"I know I should have brought it straight home to you, dear, but it was such a warm day, and I didn't think you'd know, so I—I spent it for a glass of buttermilk."—New York Sun.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine.

A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; cures urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Express Post, Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

Carries Several Lines.

"Opportunity may knock only once with some pertectier proposition," says Uncle Ezra, "but it'll be back lots of times with something else."—Boston Transcript.

These Wags.

"Well, how did you enjoy your outing?" "Sensate, nearly all the time." "Sort of an inside-outing, eh?"

WESTERN CANADA Land of Prosperity

offers to home seekers opportunities that cannot be secured elsewhere. The thousands of farmers from the United States who have accepted Canadian's generous offer to settle on FREE homestead land in their provinces have been well repaid by bountiful crops. There is still available on easy terms.

Fertile Land at $15 to $30 an Acre and similar to that which through many years has yielded from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre—oats, barley and flax also in great abundance, while raising horses, cattle, sheep and pigs is equally profitable. Here, in a single year, western Canada has raised crops in a third land. With such success comes the confidence, good homes and all the comforts and conveniences which make life worth living.

Farm Gardens, Poultry, Dairy, etc. are sources of income second only to grain growing and stock raising. Attractive city, good markets, railroad facilities, rural telephone, etc.

Superstitious Chinese.

In China the art of healing is still based on faith and superstition. It is the Chinaman evil spirits play a great part in all illnesses. The earth is supposed to be full of evil spirits ready to pounce upon the unwary whenever they see an opportunity. Should a child be ill, it is believed that the soul has left the body. It must be called back before the child can recover. Calling for the return of the soul is a custom prevalent in all parts of China.

Weak and Worn?

Has summer left you dull, tired, all worn out? Do you have constant back-ache, with headaches, dizzy spells, sharp, shooting pains, or annoying, sharp, irregularities? Influenza and grip epidemics have left thousands with weak kidneys, and falling strength. Don't wait until serious kidney trouble develops. Help the weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

A Wisconsin Case

Mrs. Carl Schultz, 631 Grand Ave., Madison, Wis., says: "Colds always made my kidneys weak and they acted irregularly. I had pain in my back, and through my back. My hands would grow numb and stiff, and my face appeared beneath my eyes. My back would get so bad I could hardly stand. I used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they regulated my kidneys. I haven't been bothered since."

CREDIT TO ITS BUILDERS

Frame Meeting House in Maryland, With Authentic Record From 1683, is Still Standing.

The old Quaker meeting house at Easton, Md., is probably the oldest frame building standing in the United States—just where it was built and as it was built, without any change, additions or subtractions and with an authentic record since 1683. An occasional replacing of the shingles on the roof and of the weather boarding are all the repairs it has had. Its frame, inside and woodwork, and some of the weather-boarding are the same as when built about the same time that William Penn, who visited the building, was trading with the Indians and laying out Philadelphia.

The only preservative used on the wood has been old-fashioned white wash on the outside. Some of the original plank seats and the woodwork inside have had no paint what ever. White oak, white pine cypress and southern pine from the Maryland forests were the woods used.

She Understood.

A man well known in Indiana politics recently made a trip to Chicago, leaving instructions with his wife to forward mail care of his friend, Mr. Adams, whom he expected to visit.

Change his plans, however, caused him to change his plans, hence the telegram his wife received read: "Send mail care Congress hotel, but care A. dan."

International Feed Grinders run by International Kerosene Engines reduce feed costs on thousands of farms where livestock is kept Recent Prices of Corn and Hogs are a Stimulus to International Feed Grinder and Corn Sheller Sales.

FARMERS used to say it was good business to raise hogs which sold per pound at one-tenth the price of a bushel of corn. This meant that corn at 70 cents made 7 cent hogs profitable. The present relative prices of these products are decidedly more favorable to hog raising than this. Farmers are going to raise more hogs and they will need feed grinders, corn shellers, and the power to operate them.

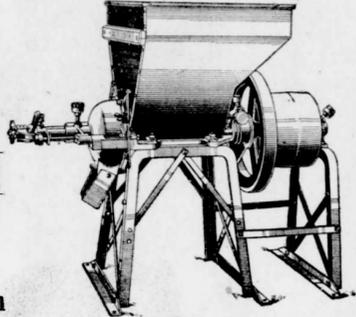

Feeding experience shows that ground corn makes much more economical gains in hogs, and keeps them healthier. When corn on the cob is fed, large quantities pass through the animal undigested. It will mean more profit to you farmers—this advantage of feeding ground corn.

—A tractor-propelled snow plow has been developed in northern Michigan for use on snow-covered northern roads. It is operated by two men controlling the individual units of plow and endless tread tractor. It is a huge affair with a "wing" spread of 12 ft., throwing the snow six feet to either side. On each side of the forerunning sled is a large plowshare which turns the snow. Set at any desired angle are outboards which carry the snow to the side of the road. STILL SEEKING OIL IN CAMBRIA Oil still holds out its lure to the residents of Cambria and its vicinity. The Cambria News in its latest issue says: "The geologist is at work. The oil project in this vicinity, which has been pending for the past ten months, is about to come to a definite head. Mr. Russell V. Johnson of Billings, Mont., petroleum geologist, arrived here Monday morning in the interest of the citizens of Cambria and vicinity and is now at work making examinations of the geological formations in this part of the state, and will then make his report as to the conditions pertaining to oil and gas in this section. Stone quarries have been investigated in the past few days and in large numbers, that are unmistakable, have been discovered in the solid bed rock.
In the interest of our many good friends in Cambria and its neighborhood, we hope that oil may be found in abundance. When the Montana petroleum geologist finds it, he will have something to tell our state geologists. It will not be the first time that the elders in the temple have been found not to know it all. Still they have some knowledge not vouchsafed to others.

THE POWER OF SUGGESTION
One could write page after page concerning the power of suggestion, and after the page after page had been written one would have only started in telling what could be done with it if properly executed.
If business is not going to suit you, suggest, through the columns of the Statesman that you have some offerings of special value, and then make the offer, and business will pick up.
Big business has informed us that the year 1921 will reward the fighters. The man who quit fighting this year admitted defeat. You can name, and we can name men who would have been in business today if they had not quit fighting. Next year is going to be a better year than this for the conservative fighter, and the power of suggestion is going to be the theme used by that fighter.
If a man suggests, even to himself, that he is out at the end of his financial rope, he only suggests it a few times until he has reached the end of the aforementioned rope, and the only chance he has to become powerful in business circles again, is to start over. If he has profited by his experience, he will suggest new things which will put him away on the right start, and there is a possible chance that he will make good.
But we all know it is easier to keep a going business going than it is to start a new business to going. It requires less of the power of suggestion in most case, well as less of the filthy here, if the man who is in business should make one grand and glorious fight to stick to his ship.

SUFFERED SEVEN LONG YEARS

Finally Relieved by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ravenwood, W. Va.—"For seven long years I suffered from a female trouble and inflammation so that I was not able to do my housework. I consulted several doctors but none seemed to give me relief. I read in a paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I decided to try it, and before the first bottle was gone I found great relief so I continued using it until I had taken eight bottles. Now I am very well and can do my own housework. I can gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine to suffering women."—Mrs. BERTHA LAWRENCE, R. F. D., Ravenwood, W. Va.

The ordinary day of most housewives is a ceaseless treadmill of washing, cooking, cleaning, mending, sweeping, dusting and caring for little ones. How much harder the tasks when some derangement of the system causes headaches, backaches, bearing-down pains and nervousness. Every such woman should profit by Mrs. Loring's experience. Remember this, for over forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been restoring health.

FRECKLES

Remover's Skin Valuable. Not only is the remover prized highly for its flesh, but the skins are valuable for dye-making. Tanned with the hair on, they are very light, and robes made from the soft tanned skins with the hair on are for weight probably far the warmest covering known. These might become extremely useful as automobile robes for winter in colder parts of the country.

A Contradiction.

Witness: He looked me straight in the eye and— Lawyer: There, sir, you've flatly contradicted your former statement. Witness: How's that? Lawyer: You said before that he "beat his gaze on you." Will you please explain how he could look you straight in the eye with a bent gaze?—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Traveling Hint.

If there are bottles to go in your bag or trunk and you fear the cork will come out, heat your sealing wax in a flame and run the melted part around the cork where it meets the glass. This it will hold in tightly and only a smart twist is necessary to remove it when you arrive at your destination.

Great Britain has somewhat more than 800,000 motor vehicles.

Why guess about it— When you can know about it?

Suppose a guide said—

"This way there's a safe and pleasant road to your destination, with no risks or troubles on the way," and—

"That way there's a road that a good many have stalled on and turned back from, but you may get through."

Which would you take?

Postum is a thoroughly agreeable and satisfying meal-time drink, and you're sure that it's perfectly safe for health. Coffee contains drug qualities which disturb and harm the health of many.

Postum or coffee? Which road?

Why guess when you can know?

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

Postum for Health "There's a Reason"

New Expanding Bullet.

A new form of expanding bullet for big-game hunters has been designed. It is for rifles of .30-calibre. It supercedes the old soft-nosed bullets to which there were many objections. In a new bullet, the tip is made of triple-plated metal, and upon impact is forced back into the cover, expanding the point of the bullet, which is slotted in such a manner that it retains its pointed shape until this impact occurs. This is unlike the old soft-nosed bullets which, from their nature, were liable to be deformed by handing before they were loaded into a rifle. The weight of the new bullet is 180 gr., which is generally considered about the best shooting.

DON'T FEAR ASPIRIN IF IT IS GENUINE

Look for Name "Bayer" on Tablets, Then You Need Never Worry.

To get genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" you must look for the safety "Bayer Cross" on each package and on each tablet. The "Bayer Cross" means true, world-famous Aspirin, prescribed by physicians for over twenty-one years, and proved safe by millions for Cold, Headache, Earache, Toothache, Neuritis, Lumbago, Neuritis, and for Pain in general. Proper and safe directions are in each unbroken "Bayer" package.—Advertisement.

Individualism. You can give other people your advice, but you can not give them your experience. You can give them your remedy, but you can by no means give them its effect upon yourself. Perhaps this is just as well, since each is to live his individual life and make his own best achievement out of it. The man with the ten talents could probably have taken care of those of his fellow-servants as well—then there would have been no loss, but also there would have been no use for the other servants.

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP

Alleviates Irritation, Soothes and Heals Throat and Lung Inflammation.

The almost constant irritation of a cough keeps the delicate mucous membrane of the throat and lungs in a congested condition, which Boschée's Syrup gently and quickly soothes and heals. For this reason it has been a favorite household remedy for colds, coughs, bronchitis and especially for lung troubles in millions of homes all over the world for the last fifty-five years, enabling the patient to obtain a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectation in the morning. You can buy Boschée's Syrup wherever medicines are sold.—Advertisement.

Resurrection Flower.

In Egypt is a plant called the resurrection flower. It is seen as a little ball hanging on a fragile stem, resembling in color and shape a shrunken poppyhead. Sleeping, but not dead, the flowers are aroused by being immersed in water, and then supported in an upright position. Soon the fibers begin to stir. Slowly they unfold, until, with petals thrown back, it becomes a beautiful starry flower, not unlike an aster.

Yolk Pigment.

It is reported that a chemist abroad has succeeded in isolating the yellow pigment of the yolk of egg in a crystalline state, and finds that it is closely related to the xanthophyll of leaves. This is regarded as an important scientific discovery. To extract four grains of crude pigment the investigator employed the yolks of no less than 6,000 eggs. The crystallized pigment is known as lutein.

Pleased With Begging Letters.

When the old shah of Persia visited England in 1873, some 8,000 begging letters were posted to him during his sojourn. He was much pleased with them and felt highly honored to receive so many letters, each of which he treated as a compliment. He had all of them securely packed into a trunk and dispatched to Persia, where they were deposited in his museum.

Transporting Power of Water.

The transporting power of flowing water varies as the sixth power of its velocity. Thus if the velocity of the water is doubled, its transporting power is increased 64 fold. This explains the effect of a river in flood in carrying all things before it.

WISCONSIN STATE NEWS

Fond du Lac—Willis J. Gillett, aged 57 years, nationally known as a breeder of Holstein-Friesian cattle, died at his home near Rosendale, Fond du Lac county, after an illness of but a few days. Death was due to a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Gillett served two years as president of the Wisconsin State Dairymen's association and also as president of the Wisconsin State Holstein-Friesian Breeders' association. Mr. Gillett owned one of the finest herds of registered stock in America and developed the world's greatest cow, Colantha Fourth's Johanna, the only animal that ever held all the world records for production at one time.

Superior—Guns and ammunition to be used by Superior postoffice employees were received from the department at Washington. All drivers of mail trucks and most employees in the office will be armed. A ruling of the department requires that all armed employees must practice with their guns and be prepared to "shoot to kill" all mail bandits. An order was also issued which will place United States marines on all mail trains operating between the Twin Ports and Twin Cities. The marines will have their headquarters in Minneapolis, being detailed from Chicago and Quantico, Va.

Kenosha—A park where every tree will tell of the supreme sacrifice of a Kenosha soldier is the latest addition to the park systems of that city. On Armistice day Mrs. George A. Yule presented the relatives of each Kenosha man who died in the great war with a memorial elm to be planted where they saw fit. The greater number of these are to be planted in a new lakeside park being laid out by the city. On each will be a bronze tablet etching the name of the soldier, whose patriotic service is memorialized by it.

Madison—Child labor has fallen off markedly in Wisconsin during the last year, figures compiled by the State industrial commission show. A decrease of 40 per cent in the number of permits granted children entering industry over the previous year is recorded by the commission. During the last year a total of 8,487 original child labor permits were issued, outside of Milwaukee, and 6,000 permits were reissued. More than 96 per cent of all children to whom permits were granted were born in the United States.

Janesville—A new use has been found for contraband liquor in Janesville. Moonshine and other varieties of alcoholic concoctions confiscated by the police will be mixed up and poured into the radiators of cars owned by Judge H. L. Maxfield and Chief Charles Newman if state prohibition agents do not object. The only thing the radiators may be damaged by the kick of the high powered stuff. Some even predict that if moonshine is used extensively for this purpose that liquor addicts will be tapping the radiators.

Kenosha—A Wisconsin woman will be the first woman to serve on the school board of the city of Cleveland according to messages received in Kenosha reporting that Mrs. Charlotte Hannah Jordan, formerly of Kenosha and a graduate of Wisconsin university, had been elected as a member of that board. Mrs. Jordan while living in this state several years ago was prominent in suffrage activities, being for several years the chairman of the finance committee of the Wisconsin State Suffrage association.

Stevens Point—What is viewed as a remarkable radio feat, considering the limited equipment used, was accomplished in Stevens Point when William Hebel, an amateur radio operator, dispatched a message from a station in his back yard which was received and later acknowledged by letter at Chevy Chase, Md. A general call message was sent out for experimentation and Hebel, expecting it to carry only a few hundred miles, was surprised to learn that it had been picked up more than 1,000 miles away.

Madison—The railroad commission has authorized the Chicago and Northwestern Railway company to discontinue its present service between Oshkosh and Hortonville and substitute a revised schedule calling for one train a day leaving Hortonville at 10:10 in the morning and arriving in Oshkosh at 12:10. Return trip will then be made by leaving Oshkosh at 5:20 and arriving in Hortonville at 7:20.

Tomah—Tomah lays claim to the youngest high school pupil in the United States in the person of De Vere Rowan, 10 years old, who is astounding his teachers and classmates alike with his mature mind. Prominent educators who have heard of the boy marvel at his ability.

Janesville—After a record of fifty-four years of service in the Janesville Machine Co., now the Samson Tractor Co., the first fifty of which were spent without one vacation, Thomas Cullen, 82, retired.

Wausau—Mrs. Margaret E. Vero, postmaster at Rothschilds for eight years, died at Wausau after a week's illness. Mrs. Vero was reappointed for another term two days before her death. She was born in Prairie du Chien in 1873 and graduated from the high school there in 1891.

Madison—J. N. (Madison) Stoner, the first white child born in Madison, died at the county poorhouse. His birthday occurred in 1837 shortly after the present city was established.

Madison—Miss Grace Lusk Waukesha school teacher, serving nineteen years a prison for the murder of Mrs. David Roberts in 1917, as the climax of a love triangle, was granted a temporary release from the state will leave the prison as soon as arrangements can be made to receive surgical treatment which the governor says is necessary to save her life. Action on her application for a pardon will be deferred until the result of the treatment is known, Gov. Blaine declared. The temporary release is granted, he says, following reports on the condition of the prisoner made by two prison doctors, two physicians chosen by Miss Lusk and a fifth physician selected by the governor who examined the reports of each of the others before arriving at his conclusion.

Madison—Children between 17 and 18, who violate the new compulsory part time education laws, are subject to punishment for delinquency in the juvenile courts of the state, Atty.-Gen. W. J. Morgan held in an opinion to George P. Hambrecht, director of vocational education. "Notwithstanding the mandatory language of the law, it provides no direct penalty for violation of the provisions established," the opinion said. "Violations, it seems, come within the statute governing delinquency in children. The law provides that any delinquent child may be placed on probation or sent to an industrial school following conviction by a juvenile court."

Janesville—In order that he may make beer for medicinal purposes in his brewery at Janesville, Frank P. Croak, of that city tendered his resignation as a member of the city fire and police commission to Mayor Thomas E. Welsh. A state law prohibits any man holding a license for the sale of intoxicating liquor from service on the commission. This is the fourth change in the personnel of the commission in the last year. J. F. Cullen, another member, resigned because he got the contract to build the $1,000,000 high school.

Washburn—While the deer hunting season in Wisconsin this year will be a short and earlier one than before, Bayfield county enthusiasts seem to be as eager as ever, judging from the number of hunting licenses issued. County Clerk Jake Yderstad reports he issued more than 1,700. The usual number issued in the county is between 2,300 and 2,500. The county clerk also reports that he has issued 100 trapping licenses and in October paid bounty on 42 wolves.

Green Bay—Well water is causing much of the typhoid fever in Green Bay according to the health department. Health Commissioner Goggin ordered that samples of all water be sent to Madison to be analyzed, following closing of two wells in the heart of the city, which were said to be contaminated. Investigations are being made daily despite the protests of property owners that their well water is better than the city water.

Madison—State blue books of men and activities of the government of Wisconsin are available for schools and citizens through their representatives in the legislature, David Atwood, state editor of printing announcements. Each member of the legislature receives 200 copies, which he is at liberty to distribute to his constituents and schools in his district. Schools may also obtain copies directly from the superintendent of public property.

Holden, of the agronomy department of the University of Wisconsin announces. Exhibits from this state will include corn, soybeans, field peas, clover seed, barley and oats.

Green Bay—Cheerfully saying goodbye to her nine children, the oldest about 16 and the youngest a baby of a year, Mrs. Herman Gustman, 34, died in a hospital, where she had been for several days, after a long illness. It was her last goodbye, for she died before the train reached the Green Bay station. The body was taken back to Shawano for burial.

Madison—Prisoners at the state prison are busy on 800,000 license plates needed to fill applications of automobile owners in the state, the state board of control says. Cost of manufacture of the plates is less than 10 cents each. Inmates of the Waukesha prison have been engaged in plates for years.

Sheboygan—Five cents and a pair of rubber overshoes was the loot obtained by a burglar who entered the Northwestern railway station at Sheboygan, twelve miles north of Sheboygan. The place was ransacked for valuables.

Janesville—Damage suits involving $310,000, the largest on record in Rock county Circuit court, are on the calendar for the November term which opened in Janesville on Nov. 14.

NICE JUICY TURKEY may be a powerful incentive to Thanksgiving, yet is not necessary when there is genuine appreciation of the real blessings of the year.

His Highness

WHAT WOULD THE DAY BE WITHOUT A BIRD LIKE THIS TO GRACE THE BOARD?

Thanksgiving Should Mean More Than Mere Feeling of Gratitude for Favors

It is to be regretted that the beautiful and appropriate custom of observing a day of Thanksgiving has become associated with an abundance of material things. If crops have been bountiful, if the harvest has been great, if there has been an overflow of the "good" things of earth, and if the times have been peaceful, reasons for thanksgiving are supposed to increase correspondingly, remarks the Kansas City Star.

There is something in the outward tradition of Thanksgiving that would appear to justify this stressing of the importance of material things; but there is also something in the real Thanksgiving that would demand the stressing of other things, demand the placing of emphasis upon spiritual matters rather than upon conditions which pertain solely to the physical well being of man.

There is something sacrilegious in making the heartiness of Thanksgiving turn upon the prosperity of the nation or the individual. It amounts to saying, in substance, to the Creator: "We thank You for bounty, but for anything less we should not be so sure of our feelings of gratitude."

The real Thanksgiving demands a feeling of deep appreciation for what ever has come, the acceptance "with equal thanks" of the good fortune or the bad fortune of previous months. This Thanksgiving is essentially an internal thing—it can be observed regardless of what one had for dinner that day, and its observance is an affair that should be open to the rich and the poor of the earth.

It may well be that some, on this day of taking stock and expressing gratitude for blessings, can find little of good that has come to them as the world counts good. But these are the ones for whom Thanksgiving may hold the deepest reality. These may say: "Lord, for life, its love, its hope, its interest, its opportunity for service; for the great and durable satisfactions of living that center about home and work; for deep and abiding memories of joy that benevolence has brought into sharp relief; for all these blessings may I be truly thankful."

To this prayer may be added by the excess of good things I become self-centered and forget my obligations to my fellow men."

Farmer's Festival. Thanksgiving day is the farmer's autumnal festival of rejoicing over the bounty of Nature and the goodness of the Creator.

Cranberries Always Have Played Prominent Part at Thanksgiving Feast

It is a tradition in Plymouth that the eating of turkey and cranberry sauce on Thanksgiving day goes back to the first Pilgrim Thanksgiving.

That little band of self-exiled, devoted Christians crossed the stormy sea in the Mayflower and landed at Plymouth Rock on December 21, 1620. Their first winter in the New World was one of great suffering, marked with famine and hardships.

During the spring of 1621 the Pilgrims, who had survived the bitter winter, sowed their seed and watched its growing with much anxiety. For upon the success of the crops at harvest time depended their very lives. The following October the first harvest was gathered in, and, to their great joy, they were blessed with an abundance. Then Governor Bradford (following somewhat the custom of the English harvest home) declared a three-day celebration for feasting and thanksgiving. Chief Massasoit and other friendly Indians were invited to this first Thanksgiving party, and a grand celebration it was.

Governor Bradford, in his account of the Pilgrims' first Thanksgiving, does not give a menu of the dinner, but he often refers to the wild turkeys as one of the luxuries of the colony. However, John Jesslyn, an English traveler and naturalist, who visited New England in 1638 and wrote an account of its "farties," says: "Cranberry or bearberry (because bears used much to feed upon them) is a small trailing plant that grows in salt marshes that are overgrown with moss."

That cranberries belong to the traditional Pilgrim dinner is shown by the menu of the "descent rowers" served at the first "Celebration of the Landing of Our Forefathers," which was observed on December 22, 1789. This day was celebrated by the Old Colony club of Plymouth with a procession and a dinner consisting of a large baked Indian whortleberry pudding, a dish of saugnetach (succotash), a dish of clams, a dish of oysters and a dish of codfish, a hutch of venison, roasted by the first jack brought into the colony; a dish of fowl, cranberry tart, a dish of fresh fish and eels, an apple pie, a course of cheese made in the old colony. These articles were dressed in the plainest manner (all appearance of luxury, whose memory we shall ever respect).

Turkey, succotash and cranberries still play their part in the Thanksgiving dinners in Plymouth, and five grains of parched corn are laid beside each place in remembrance of the early years of famine.

Pessimism Has No Place in the Real Spirit of Time of Thanksgiving

After having devoted so much of our time to bemoaning the misfortunes that have come to us as a people during the past year, it will do us good on this Thanksgiving day to stop and look at the other side of the ledger and cast up the account of the good things that have come to us.

Our situation admittedly has not been as favorable in many respects as we could desire. We have had problems and difficulties which naturally aroused dissatisfaction and discontent. We have been feeling mighty sorry for ourselves.

Perhaps Thanksgiving occasion could bring no greater blessing to us as a people than to readjust our perspective and dispel our pessimism with a new spirit of optimism. Before we enter into the true spirit of the day it is necessary to put away our frets, our grouches and discontents and center our thoughts upon the blessings that have come. If one would give thanks he must realize the fact of having been blessed, and in doing so he minimizes the misfortunes he has experienced. The pessimist is in no position to give thanks. The spirit of optimism will possess us to the extent that we are able to give thanks in spirit and in truth to the Giver of All Good Gifts today.

While we have been divinely warned against giving thanks that we are not as other men, it will surely not be out of place today to recognize the excess of blessings that have come to us in comparison with other peoples, and to render thanks in accordance with the favors received.

For the fact remains that, in spite of our difficulties, we are the most prosperous and the most favorably situated nation on earth and that we have more reasons for contentment and gratitude than any other people. This Thanksgiving day, if observed in the spirit of those who inaugurated it, is capable of lifting the spirit and thought of the American people to new heights and of ushering in a new era of contentment and happiness.

Thanksgiving day comes to mean today not only an occasion when we may express our gratitude to the Most High for His care and kindness in the past, but likewise a time when by marshaling our blessings before us we are inspired with new hope and courage for the future.

THANKSGIVING FESTIVAL.

And let the stars, wreathed with flowers And piled with fruits, awake again Thanksgiving for the golden hours, And early and the latter rain! —WHITTIER.

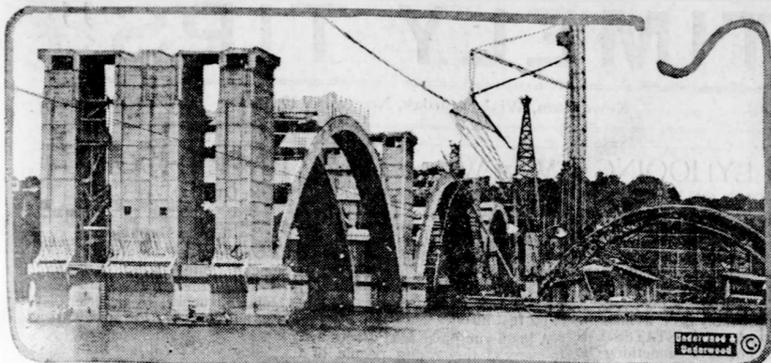

Thanksgiving

In days of old our Pilgrim sires, Saved from pestilence, famine, war, Pledged faith anew round homestead fires, And set a day their thanks to show.

These modern days with blessings great, The world at peace, the harvest vast, Might we not pause a moment wait, To offer thanks, as in the past.

Letting the Tide Do the Heavy Work

An interesting and expensive piece of engineering work is under way in the construction of the Key bridge connecting the District of Columbia with Virginia. It involves the removal of the huge steel span from under the concrete arch, the steel span forming the temporary platform. The operations are governed by the ebb and flow of the tide, a floating platform carrying away the span as the water recedes. The building of this huge bridge is one of the biggest construction projects in the country, and will be completed in about a year.

U. S. and Mexico Claim Rich Land

Property in Heart of El Paso Now Worth $3,000,000 in Dispute for Years.

RIVER CAUSES CONTROVERSY

Incorrigibly Vagrant Habits of the Rio Grande Cause Dispute Which Has Remained Unsettled for Sixty Years.

El Paso, Tex.—When a 600-acre tract covered with industrial improvements worth more than $3,000,000 in the heart of a large American city does not know whether it belongs to the United States or Mexico, the situation may presumably offer faint hope to victims of income and excess profits taxation. Otherwise, however, it is straight with disadvantages which outweigh these largely hypothetical benefits.

At least these are the conclusions reached by the officials of the Santa Fe railroad yards here and the owners of the large packing, stock yard, lumber and milling interests who in the last twenty years have built up, southeast of the El Paso Union station in what is known as the Chamizal district, one of the most thriving and compact industrial centers in the Southwest. Also these are the reasons why a statement recently attributed to Undersecretary of State Fletcher, that in any treaty to precede United States recognition of Mexico the "Chamizal question" will be settled and settled right, will please several business men of more than local connections as much as any detailed point in the administration's Mexico policy yet revealed.

Sixty-Year-Old Controversy. The Chamizal controversy, now approaching the age of sixty years, is the result of the incorrigibly vagrant habits of the Rio Grande river, which, flowing out of the New Mexico mountains, begins to form the boundary with Old Mexico a few miles west of El Paso. It is by no means the only dispute arising from the same cause along the 1,500 miles of looped and twisted stream bed between here and Brownsville, Tex., but it is the only one in which nothing like so much valuable industrial property is involved in so small an area.

Realizing that the Rio Grande was not to be trusted to keep to its bed, the Mexico and American peace commissioners who fixed the international boundary after the Mexican war in the treaty of Guadalupe-Hidalgo, 1848, agreed that when changes in the river channel came about by accretion, that is, gradually, the boundary should follow the river bed; but that when sudden changes were formed by the river's violently breaking through dry land to make a new course—evulsion, this process is called in the technical jargon of river experts—the old deserted channel should continue to be the line.

This formula would have sufficed, no doubt, if, in addition to its profligate proclivities, the Rio Grande had not developed a sly and deceitful disposition. Warring until the entire American population of the region 60 years ago—a few soldiers in far-away military outposts—were away in the Civil war, and until the Mexican border garrisons were likewise busy fighting for or against the Austrian usurper Maximilian, the river between 1803 and 1805 deserted its old channel a few blocks below the principal business district of El Paso for a bed approximately a quarter of a mile farther west and south, which, in the main, it still occupies. Chamizal lies between the old bed and the new.

Cause of Controversy. The controversy hinges on whether this change was accomplished by accretions or by evulsion. The United States' position is that the change, though relatively rapid, came about through gradual alterations of the channel extending over several years and not at all as the result of a sudden break through dry land. Hence, say the Americans, the international boundary according to the 1848 treaty follows the present river channel and the Chamizal zone is American territory. On the other hand, the Mexican government claims that the alterations of the '50s were the result of evulsion, making Chamizal Mexican.

Neither government regarded the controversy as worth an argument until the rapid metropolitan growth of El Paso began 35 years ago. By that time the testimony of the few Mexicans who had witnessed the changes of the '50s was so confused and conflicting as to be of little value. Consequently, the permanent Mexican-American boundary commission, charged with keeping track of the Rio Grande's wanderings, has never been able to reach an agreement on Chamizal.

LACK MIDINETTES IN PARIS French Girls Turn to Typewriting and Kindred Occupations for Livelihood.

Paris.—There is, alas, a shortage in the ranks of the little midinettes in Paris and there is a gloomy foreboding among the leaders of the wealthy and important syndicate of milliners. Despite the many improvements since the war in the working conditions of these girls, their number is decreasing, or the petite Parisian is turning to typewriting and kindred occupations.

The midinette's life was not always rosy, for she had to pay to be apprenticed, earned little when the apprenticeship was ended and faced enforced idleness when business was bad. So, notwithstanding the gay pictures of her painted by Parisian artists, it is not surprising that the Paris working girl is turning to other vocations.

FOR THE SMALL DAUGHTER; HAT FOR EVERY OCCASION

"O MOTHER dear, come here quick! Please do, and see the picture of this lovely little coat with hat to match. Please, please, I want one just like it." Perhaps she will not say it in those exact words, but we daughter is apt to go into ecstasies when she spies this treasure of a coat as pictured on the top above. When you read to her that it is of real leather, navy blue with bright embroidery, she is sure to want it more than ever. Topping this cunning little garment is a leather hat to match and it repeats the embroidery on the crown, patterned after the coat trimming.

If a coat is not all of leather, then frequently it is trimmed with leather.

Leather Coat and Sailor Dress.

We have in mind a Chinese red duvety, with belt appiqued in darker red suede cherries. The applique form of trimming is quite the leading trimming note this season.

An adorable straight-lined black velvet frock for a little girl was on exhibition in an exclusive shop. It had a border of white kid cutouts, applied around the bottom of the skirt and sleeves. Here is a suggestion to those on economy bent. Why not cut pre-color and ornate embroidery; for dress affairs and restaurant wear, an all black wide-brimmed portrait hat of striking contour and elegant detail.

Notice the imposing style of the handsome black velvet hat at the top. To place the plume across the back is a style note straight from Paris. An exquisite interpretation of "black and white" is presented in the tiny little chapeau (to the left cen-ty leaves and flowers out of discarded kid gloves and use them for applique? It always seems so extravagant to throw the tops away just because the fingers are worn. With metal thread stitching or ray floss, these kid motifs would handsomely trim a serge or drapery frock.

When it comes to school wear, nothing supercedes the sailor dress. The one illustrated is an achievement. In that it has all the clever touches of collar, sleeve insignia, white dickey with anchor, sailor collar and white braid, yet it is in reality a one-piece dress, instead of blouse and skirt.

Partly-Made Frocks. There are some really lovely partly-made frocks of pailletted nets that are easily put together by a seamstress. Some shops go in especially for these and have them in great variety and attractiveness. They need only a foundation of satin or georgette, the adjustment of a few fasteners, and they are finished. Then there are costume blouses, another help for the women who must get along with the help of a mediocre dressmaker. These blouses come well below the knees, and need only a satin slip skirt under them, the easiest sort of thing to make. Yet they cost strikingly less than a whole frock, so that you can buy one and then the material for the skirt to go with it and still save much money.

Paint. The paint spots on your dress can be removed by saturating them with equal parts of ammonia and turpentine. Then wash out in warm soap suds.

Nature's Police Force. The following excerpt from Fabre's "The Story Book of the Field," gives a little insight into the many beneficent uses of the commoner field animals: "The bats deliver us from a host of enemies, and they are outlawed. They purges the ground of vermin; the hedgehog makes war on vipers; the owl and all night birds are clever rat hunters; the adder, the toad and the lizard feed on the plunderers of our crops." Thus nature supplies the husbandman with an efficient police force.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Freedom's Beginning. The free institutions of ancient Greece and Rome had long been dead when our Anglo-Saxon forefathers, in the little island in the North sea, began holding their witenagemot, or assembly of the wise men of the kingdom. In the early days of the Normans, when feudalism was in flower, national affairs were dealt with by a national council, composed of the high officers of state and feudal barons, and presided over by the king.—Montreal Family Herald.

Still an Open Question. "Doesn't your mother object to your staying out until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning?" the young lady was asked. "I don't know," the young lady replied. "She might if she knew about it, but I always beat mother in."

BALLYHOONG FOR OUR OWN CAUSE

Every dollar worth of usable articles should be in use now, and if we have figured correctly, there is no reason in the world why they shouldn't be used.
There probably isn't a man or woman reader of the STATESMAN who does not have something he or she cannot use, while a subscriber of the STATESMAN residing in some other part of the county or state, has a place to use that article to advantage.
You may have a washing machine, a set of flat irons, an ironing board, a corn planter, a potato digger, a snow shovel, a gas or cook stove, or any of a hundred of articles that are in good condition and would be of considerable value to some one.
And we have a way for you to dispose of what you do not want, whether it is a pig for butchering or a sardine box. In every issue of the STATESMAN you find an ad which is generally termed a "want ad." It is something for sale, for rent, lost, or something wanted, and our rates are so low that it is almost a criminal waste for you or any one else to keep an article you do not want or need when some one else does.
The rates for "want ads," or "classified advertising" is only 5 cents a line and when you have advertised an article you do not need, you are only making room for something you do need, but you are giving some one else an opportunity to get something they need.
Call up phone 281 and tell us what you have to offer. We'll tell our subscribers and there is no doubt but what you will make the sale. Our business is to help you get rid of what you do not want and we can dispose of anything but the family skeleton—if there happens to be one in your home.
C'mon: Let's go.

Capital and Experience
Of course you have heard the story about the two fellows who formed a partnership, one of them agreeing to furnish the experience, while the other was to furnish the capital? Well, as time passed by, the fellow who furni-hed the capital was getting a whole lot of experience, while the other fellow was in some way getting a firm hold on the capital, so when two years had passed by, things had been switched around and the fellow who had experience to start with, had the capital by now, and the other man had the experience.
In the newspaper game we have had a lot of experience; you have capital—and all we want to do is to trade a whole lot of our experience for just a small amount of your capital. We don't even want to make more profits for you, so, eventually, you will not only have more capital, but we will also have more capital, and we'll just continue spending a part of our money with each other, building up each other's business to a point that will land us all on the island of experience, with our capital secure.
What say?

RAVELINGS

By Icey, the Statesman Devil

If Jawn D. would take a hint from what Henry Ford has done, there'd be a possible chance for some of us to get our flivers back on the turf again.
Just when the life insurance companies were getting hep to the fact that an uncorrected woman was a good insurance risk, along comes the corset manufacturers and they change the style.
A lot of men wonder why so many of the ladies who wear extremely short skirts squat when they attempt to pick something off the sidewalk, instead of stooping. We know—they pecked. Those ladies have defects which they are not in favor of advertising.
The law is getting a fair percentage of the hold-up men and bandits quieted down and when they get everything else cleaned up they are going after the apartment house owners.

Didn't Need the Rest

A young man living over in a nearby town hired out to work in the fields. The boss went out in the afternoon of the first day to see how the boy was making it. He found him lying in the shade of a tree, smoking a cigarette. "Tired?" asked the boss. "Nope," answered the young man. "Hain't done nothin' to make me tired. Just a layin' here waitin' for quitin' time so I c'n come to supper." For the past two years a great many young and old men have tried to earn a living that same way.

Here is a puzzle that everybody should try. Everybody had "loads" of fun figuring out the correct names. See if you can do it yourself. No. 1 is Dorothy Dalton. If you can solve them all you can win $1000 or a Hupmobile.
Though you probably know the names of all the popular actors and actresses we'll name a few of them just to refresh your memory:
Mary Miles Minter, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Juanita Hansen, Buster Keaton, William B. Hart, Clara Kimball Young, Tom Mix, Mabel Normand, Thomas Meighan, Douglas MacLean, Bryant Washburn, Dorothy Dalton, Harold Lloyd, Pearl White, Jackie Coogan, Gloria Swanson.
110 Points Will Win First Prize
For each name you can arrange correctly you will receive five points or fifty points if you solve them all. You can win 50 more points by qualifying your answer. That is, by proving that you have shown a copy of full amount of the prize. Send in your answer TODAY and a sample of the paper will be sent you at once to help you qualify.
IT COSTS YOU NOTHING TO TRY
You do not have to subscribe to The St. Paul Daily News nor spend a cent of your own money to win a prize. We have given away a great many wonderful things and you can be the next winner if you send in your solution to this puzzle at once. Be sure your own name and address is on your solution in the puzzle and don't forget—MAIL YOUR SOLUTION.
