HOME FIRES ARE DANGEROUS

A safe home is as important as a "sweet home". Proper attention to physical conditions will secure the former, mental attitude the latter. Mothers and children are much of their time in the home. For their protection conditions in the home should be as safe as possible.

A chain is as strong as its weakest link, and a home as safe as its weakest link. These points must be understood and corrected.

A sound stove, boiler or furnace is essential, floor protection and protection of near-by walls necessary. Leaving kindling in the open over night or hanging clothes near the stove or smoke pipe is always dangerous. The practice of using kerosene to kindle or quicken a fire causes many deaths each year.

There should be a distance of 1 1/2 times the diameter of the smoke pipe to combustible woodwork above and a distance of once the diameter of the pipe to all woodwork on the side, and a ventilated double flue where the pipe passes through a partition.

The chimney must be kept not in excess of 100 feet, and cleaned frequently. Using soft coal, neglecting cleaning out of chimneys, causes much chimney and roof fires.

Excess "cold air" results in numerous fires due to forcing the heating apparatus. The heater must be managed intelligently.

Electric wires carry a dangerous power day and night. A competent electrician should install and repair the wiring system and make additions and attachments. Attaching electrical wires to steam cleaners, washing machines and other devices to ordinary lighting circuits often causes trouble. Many fires result from leaving electric ironing boards plugged in when not in use.

Screening gas brackets and any gas brackets near a window are always a menace. Also gas lights within three feet of a ceiling or shelf above.

Use metal fronts in kerosene lamps. Keep the lamps clean and dry by daylight only.

Flammable and combustible decorations on lamps and electric wires and fixtures are always dangerous.

Keep all gasoline in a red, liquid tight, metal can, outdoors, and fill stoves and lamps by daylight only, with the cap on, and do all gasoline cleaning outdoors.

A clean house makes for a safe home. Do not tolerate oily rags, waste paper and rubbish anywhere in the house.

A dry, moss-covered shingle roof is always a fire menace.

Carelessness in the use of matches, their disposal, and in smoking causes many house fires.

Have the "Red Plague" as you avoid the black plague and practice fire prevention always.

"FROM NOW ON" TO BE THE OPERA HOUSE

A photoplay alive with action is "From Now On", the William Fox feature which comes to the Opera House on Sunday, January 29.

The picture tells the story of the duping of a young man who has just come into a fortune and of his efforts to regain the money out of which he has been swindled. Dave Henderson, finding that Rooky Sharvan and Martin Tydemann have robbed him, liberally burglarizes the latter's home, knowing that the man is compelled to keep at hand large sums in ready cash because of his shady transactions. Discovering their loss and suspecting Henderson, the men capture and torture the boy in an effort to get him to confess. A clever ruse enables him to escape, but later he is recaptured, "framed" and sent to prison for a term of years. However, Henderson has succeeded in hiding the money in a safe in the following.

From the moment of his release Henderson is shadowed day and night by both the men of the underworld and the police, in efforts to discover the whereabouts of the money. A friend whom he trusts condemns him work. Another whom he trusts comes through and helps restore in Henderson his faith in mankind. Not until the very last scene does the action lead to death through a bit of traitorous tip.

George Walsh is the star.

MORE PROTECTION AT THE JAIL

Some time ago Sheriff Olwin of this city recommended to the County Board of Supervisors that wire mesh screening should be placed on the six windows on the lower floor of the county jail, this idea being conceived by him to prevent anyone from the outside from slipping articles to prisoners in the jail. The Board looked into the advisability of the sheriff's recommendation and concluded that the idea was practical and ordered the windows screened. It is now impossible for anyone to pass articles to prisoners, the screening being so fine that even a lead pencil can not be forced through the meshes. The screening was furnished and installed by the Banker Wire & Iron Works of Milwaukee.—West Bend Pilot.

ALUMINUMS AGAIN VICTORIOUS

Before a fair sized crowd, who have braved the cold weather, the winners of the game, which proved to be the best contest of the season in the local basketball court, the Kewaskum Aluminum basketball team triumphed over the Hartford Service Battery team last Sunday afternoon, defeating them by a score of 27 to 20. The visitors came here with the strong intention of winning and were very confident toward that end, putting up a very classy game from start to finish. A victory for them would have meant a three-cornered fight for the county championship. The game started with a rush, both teams displaying good team and foot work, backed up with heady playing. The locals were first to score, but their opponents were right after them and kept the score close. After about ten minutes of play, the visitors looked up comparatively strong, and it looked as if they would make good their intentions, for a number of baskets made by Herbst and Gustin gave the visitors a 3 point lead over the locals, the score being 9 to 12. The Aluminum, however, were out to win and seemingly were at their best, and rallied by making a number of field goals which soon overcame this lead, and from which time on they managed to stay on top. The first half ended 16 to 25 in favor of the locals. At the end of this half one could plainly see that the local quintette were in the pink of condition and displayed some very flashy and snappy team work, keeping their opponents guessing many times during this half by their snappy playing and sensational basket shooting. All put up a star game. The second half started with the locals playing more of a defensive game, seemingly feeling out their opponents as to whether or not new plays would be introduced by them that might make things look dangerous for our boys, feeling that the Hartford squad was at their mercy, the Aluminum again took the offensive and at times played the visitors off their feet making difficult goals from almost any angle of the ball and one time during this half were they in danger. Maurice Rosenheimer evidently broke his streak of hard luck in shooting baskets, being successful in getting seven field goals, as did Spatz Miller. Jack Tessar, who had been a little lull over to the forward position, had a little trouble at first to get used to his new field, but after a few minutes of play overcame his difficulties and played an excellent game being successful in scoring a number of field goals. Carl Schneider, who took a position at guard, played a whole of a game when one stops to consider that he has hardly had any practice at this position. He was successful in catching a field goal, Carl Schurr, guard in the old form, no matter how heavy a charge the visitors would make to break through the local's defensive, their boundary line was Carl Schurr, with the exception of a few instances, it was simply a helpless case to get by "Stone-All" Carl. The game was marked with good snappy and peppy playing, it was an exhibition of basket ball that kept the fans in a high pitch of excitement, a game well worth seeing, and one that won't be forgotten by the fans present. Everyone was well pleased with the exhibition of basket ball they were treated to. One of the main features of the game and one which was particularly complimented upon by the fans, was the fact that the locals had put individual playing in the discard, self greed for shooting baskets, which during the last few games was much in evidence, shooting for the basket, whether in position to shoot for the basket or not, and no matter from what distance or angle of the ball, just merely shooting to see who could get the most number of baskets proved to be costly experiments. Sunday, however, the locals passed the ball to each other and the result was that more baskets were made, work was displayed and each individual caged more baskets in that one game alone than they were able to get in the last three games put together. That's the kind of a game the local fans want and the kind that is bound to bring favorable results in the end.

IN MEMORY

In memory to eternal rest of Mrs. Charlotte Fick, Jan. 25, 1921. Gone one year but not forgotten. The vacant place the empty chair We see it evermore And oh it fills our hearts with tears Since our loved mother went away; There is no death, An angel form walks o'er the earth in silent tread, And tears our best loved things away, And then we call them dead, He leaves our hearts all desolate, He plucks our fairest sweetest flowers, Transplanted into bliss, They now adorn immortal lovers, Beyond the doubts and hopes and fears, Beyond the cares and joys and tears, Beyond the smiling and the weeping, Beyond the working and the sleeping, Our loved mother rests in slumber deep, In silent and eternal sleep, Weep not that her tolls are over, Weep not that her race is run, God grant we may rest as calmly When our work like hers is done, But we have lost our dear mother, She has bid us all adieu, She has gone to live in heaven, And her form is lost to view, Oh that dear one how we loved her, Oh how hard to give her up, But an angel came down for her, And removed her from our flock, Eternal rest grant to her, O Lord and let perpetual light shine on her, The Surviving Children.

DIES WHILE ON WAY TO CHURCH

William Schneider of Batavia, a native of Washington county, died suddenly last Sunday morning. Heart trouble being attributed as the cause of his death. Mr. Schneider had left the home of his brother Ernst, with whom he had been staying with the good intention of going to church, when a short distance from the house he evidently fell over dead. His body was found shortly after dinner by Heschke and Malvin Schwenzen, who happened to walk along the unfortunate man's intended route. He was born September 26, 1856, in Jackson, Washington county, Wis. In 1894 he went to Batavia to reside with his brother Ernst where he has since lived. ## HOLSTEIN BREEDERS MEET NEXT WEEK

What promises to be the greatest meeting in the history of the Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association of Wisconsin will be held in Madison next Thursday, Feb. 2nd. In addition to the one hundred delegates representing the various county organizations, breeders from practically every nook and corner of the state will be on hand to have a part in the Holstein Convention doings and to witness the unveiling of the Hoard Memorial on the College of Agriculture Campus. The Dairy Jubilee celebration will consume three days of the Farmers' Week program. Hon. Frank O. Lowden, President of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Ex-president D. Aitken, of the same organization and Sec. of Agriculture Wallace from Washington, and other national figures of Agricultural prominence are announced by the program committee. "Three days chock full of educational entertainment for the men and women" is the comment of the agricultural college authorities while Pres. Ryan of the Holstein Association of the state insists that every Holsteiner staying home is missing a convention that is of the greatest importance to him and his industry. He says "The reports of officers, the naming of officers and directors for the years to come, the naming of a slate of delegates to represent the most progressive Holstein State in the Union, the Kansas City next June, and the completion of such other business as can properly come before the meeting, should be of momentous importance to those of us who are championing the cause that is the backbone of American Agriculture and especially the dairy industry in the Union." L. L. Oldman, Secretary, Wisconsin Holstein Association.

HOG CHOLERA IN WISCONSIN

Dr. J. T. Purcell in charge of the work of hog cholera control in Wisconsin for the state department of agriculture and the Federal Department has made the following report which ended Dec. 31, last. Hog cholera appeared in 1921 in 23 counties in which 156 farms were affected. Rock county leads the list with 26 different outbreaks. Grant comes next with 20. The number of farms hit by the disease was 490 in 1921. It seems probable that the state and federal departments of agriculture is shown in the following figures: In 1920 there were outbreaks in 41 counties as against 23 in 1921. In 1920 the total number of infected farms was 490 as against 156 in 1921. "It seems probable," says Dr. Purcell, in his report, "that Wisconsin farmers and breeders have up to this time escaped the heavy wave of virulent hog cholera infection which has been experienced in so many states. Conditions were favorable for the spread of the disease. For a number of seasons farmers were tempted to economize in 1921 by omitting yearly vaccinations. This reduced the number of immune hogs in the state to a low number and the state's escape from a serious epidemic was very fortunate."

FRAMING THE FARMER'S FRIEND

HIGH SCHOOL BREAKS EVEN

The local high school girls' team met defeat at the hands of the Menominee Falls high school girls' team at the local Opera House last Friday evening by a score of 1 to 12. One could easily see from the start that the visitors were more experienced players and outclassed our girls at every stage of the game. The local high school, however, has the makings of a good team, and with another year's experience will be in a position to hold their own with some of the big teams in this community. So don't get discouraged girls, stick to it and remember your time is coming.

In a very exciting and interesting game the high school boys' team evened up matters for the evening by handling the Menominee Falls boys' team a neat little trimming by a score of 11 to 17. The visitors were quite anxious to win, and the defeat came as a surprise to them, as Elton Ranthum, star forward for the locals was not allowed to play, being a member of the city team, seemingly paved the way for an easy road to victory for the visitors, but this idea was soon forgotten as the locals played a very heady game and excellent team work was the result. The first half was a nip and tuck proposition all the way through, and ended in a tie 7 to 7. In the second half our boys came back stronger than ever, and held their opponents down to four points against the locals. Quade and Marx were easily the stars, both getting a number of field goals from difficult angles.

On Friday evening, Feb. 3rd, the Campbellport high school team will stack up with our boys at the Opera House for a return game of the season, having defeated our boys at Campbellport a few weeks ago. Our boys are out for a victory and will do their utmost to make good on their intentions. Be on deck to help cheer them on to victory.

The Campbellport News of January 12th, has the following to say about the Campbellport-Kewaskum game: "The game itself was a pretty one to watch. Kewaskum scored soon after the opening whistle, but Captain Rudolph, of the locals, caged a beautiful throw over the beam shortly after. From then until near the end of the first half it was a see-saw affair, holding the crowd on their tip toes. During the second half the boys held their lead by caging the ball at crucial moments."

Campbellport 22, Kewaskum 15. Sounds well doesn't it? This is the result of one of the clearest and lastest basket ball games seen on the local floor for some time. The game marks the beginning of friendly relations with our old time rival and it is hoped that further relations between the two schools will be on the same basis. Kewaskum will surely do its bit to help the friendly relations along. We will safely vouch for that.

BIG FIRE AT BATAVIA THREATENS VILLAGE

On Tuesday evening at about 10 o'clock, fire of unknown origin, and which for time threatened to wipe out the entire village of Batavia, completely destroyed the electric power plant and residence of Emil Steurwald of Batavia. Mr. and Mrs. Steurwald retired early in the evening not noticing any smoke or other possible signs of fire about the buildings. At ten o'clock neighbors noticed smoke emerging from the residence, and immediately gave the alarm. The Batavia fire laddies responded promptly, but the fire had gained such headway upon their arrival that nothing could be saved with the exception of a few small household articles. In order to keep the fire from spreading to nearby buildings it was necessary to call on neighboring villages for help, and the five companies from Beltonville, Silver Creek, Cascade and Adell responded, and it was only after hard work that the fire was finally put under control. The loss is estimated at about $6000, which is indeed a heavy blow to Mr. Steurwald, as he only carried $1800 insurance on the buildings. With the destruction of the power plant which was owned and operated by Mr. Steurwald, the village of Batavia is now in utter darkness, and the good citizens of that thrifty little village will have to be contented in burning kerosene or gas lamps in their private homes until such time when the electric plant will again be put in operation.

MORE LAND FOR COUNTY FARM

On Thursday of last week the County Board of Supervisors met in West Bend for the purpose of taking up and making disposition of a number of important matters left over from the November, 1921, annual session. A complete personnel of the Board was represented, Chairman Leicht presiding. A lengthy summary of the work done by the County Highway Commission in 1921, which showed the completion of practically all contemplated highway work, was submitted, read and ordered placed on file. What was probably the most important matter for the Board was the purchase of 75 acres of land adjoining the present county farm. This land is owned by Anton DeBano and parcels of it are located in the town of West Bend and also in the village of Hart. The price paid for the tract was $17,500. With the addition of this acreage there are now 368 acres surrounding the county's institutions. All but four acres were cast in favor of the purchase of the DeBano tract, three of the dissenting votes coming from Hartford. Possession was given the county immediately, but Mr. DeBano has the privilege of remaining on the tract until next October. Another session, was the granting of an appropriation to the Washington County Agricultural exhibit building on the fair grounds in West Bend. The society had asked for $5,000, but this amount was cut down to $3,500. Three applications for blind aid were presented, the applicants being Mrs. Mary Raymond of Barton, Mrs. Mary Frey of Slinger, and Miss Adeline Koepke of town Jackson. The Board acted favorably upon the applications, and the three persons afflicted will hereafter be given county aid. Dr. Thos. Loughlin of Hartford was named county physician by the Board to look after the health and welfare of the citizens residing in the western part of the county. Miss Augusta Gebre, the county nurse was reappointed for another term. Miss Gebre has done excellent work since coming to this county and her reappointment is a step in the right direction and will be of direct benefit to every community in the county. The Board also decided that any additional surety bonds required by county depository banks the finance committee has authority to accept personal bonds. Other matters were mentioned before the Board, but those mentioned above were the most important and of interest to the tax-payers. The Board concluded its 1921 work on Thursday and then adjourned.—West Bend Pilot

INSTALL MODERN BURGLAR ALARM

The Bank of Kewaskum, has just completed the work of installing a modern and most up-to-date burglar alarm system, known as the "Simplex Bank Protective Alarm System", which guards against day and night burglary of that large banking institution. The system is so constructed and so delicate in its general working machinery, that the least bit of tampering on any of its parts will cause the alarm to be given. The vault is completely lined with a net work of wires about an inch apart so that no one can drill through any side of the vault without striking one or more of these wires in the attempt, and by so doing the alarm will be given. This protection is to safe guard against night work of safe blowers. Throughout the entire banking building at the windows, under the tellers' workbench, desks and tables are push buttons, so arranged that should a burglar, or any suspicious character step into the building, the employees or employees be at the alarm to be given by pressing these buttons without making a noticeable movement of the body. Should the employees or employees be at a standing position at the time a burglar enters, foot rails have been placed at various parts of the room whereby the employees can sound the alarm by touching anyone of these rails with their toe without making any suspicious movement. As soon as any of the push buttons or rails in the bank have been touched during the day or someone tampers with the vault at night these bells will give the alarm before the burglar has time to get into the vault. The large bell rings, outside help has already been given notice before the burglar is aware of the fact. Should any of these wires be cut, or tampered with in any way in an effort to stop the system in giving the alarm, all bells will begin to ring and continue to do so until wires have again been repaired. One of the main purposes of transmitting a message to these nearby places, is to stop the burglars from making good their getaway by automobiles in daylight robbery, which is now generally the case. All places in which these alarms have been installed, the owners are equipped with shotguns. These guns are 5 shot automatics and each shell contains ten bullets. The reason for this is that weapons are entrusted are schooled in their use. When an alarm is sounded they are supposed to take the gun with them and proceed to a point where they have a view of the front doors of the bank. The reason for this is that way at the bank doors, for usually it would result in death or injury to innocent bystanders or some unfortunate who might be in the way. The target for these guns is the automobile tires. With three or four villages of five rounds coming in at different angles, it is more than likely that a tire or two will go. The rest is comparatively easy. The plan of this sort of an alarm system is to shut off daylight robberies, by crippling getaway transportation. The system is a good one and ought to be sufficient to make the bank safe against all burglary no matter at what time of the day or night it is intended to pull off the job.

APPOINTED SECRETARY

The Retail Journal, printed at Milwaukee, came to our desk this week, containing an article that may be of interest to a number of our readers, and which we take the liberty of publishing:

GROCERS NAME NEW OFFICERS

"Milton C. Penschbacher, formerly in the field service of the Milwaukee Association of Grocers, has been selected as the new secretary of the Milwaukee Retail Grocers' association, it was announced this week. He will succeed John J. Oswald, whose resignation takes effect Feb. 1.

Mr. Penschbacher for the last few months has been doing specialty work among the retail trade.

Only three changes were made in officers and directors at the 1922 election. John Backus succeeded A. H. Hildebrand, as second vice president. In the board of directors two changes were made this year, Arthur Geest succeeding Charles Paik, and Charles Petri succeeding H. A. Lemmerman.

Milton Penschbacher is a nephew of A. Penschbacher of the village, and is therefore known by some of the citizens of this community.

DEATH OF POPE BENEDICT XV.

Pope Benedict XV, head of the Roman Catholic church, died last Sunday morning after a brief illness. Archbishop Sebastian C. Messmer of Milwaukee issued an order Monday for a Requiem mass to be said, for the repose of the soul of the pope, in all Catholic churches of the Milwaukee archdiocese next Sunday morning. In consequence instead of the regular high mass at 10:30 a. m. in Holy Trinity church in this village there will be a solemn Requiem mass at 8:30 a. m. On Saturday, January 28th all priests of the archdiocese were ordered to offer up the voice mass for the election of a new pontiff. That the next successor of St. Peter in the See of Rome may be a man worthy of the sublime office of supreme pastor of the church, will fetter to carry on the great and noble work of Benedict the XV."

RICH YEAR FOR BANK ROBBERS

There were 24 bank burglaries in Wisconsin in 1921, compared with four in 1920, and losses were larger than for five years previous, according to George D. Bartlett, secretary of the Wisconsin Bankers' association, who has been compiling figures for the annual report of the Bankers' Mutual Casualty Co.

The 24 burglaries in Wisconsin in the last year cost the bankers' insurance company about $20,000, making the average loss for each burglary less than $1,000. Mr. Bartlett explains. Notwithstanding these exceptional losses the rates of the company did not have to be raised, and the company closed the year with a balance on the right side of the ledger.

PRESIDENT BACKS WATERWAY PLAN

Harding Tells Farm Meeting Great Lakes Project Is Feasible.

SAYS FARMER MUST BE AIDED

Points Need of Machinery to Furnish Working Capital to Farmer Easily and Quickly—U. S. Must Meet Present Crisis.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Feasibility of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterways project "is unquestioned," President Harding declared before the national agricultural conference.

"I have spoken," the President said, "of the advantage which Europe enjoys because of its easy access to the sea, the cheapest and surest transportation facility. In our own country as presented one of the world's most attractive opportunities for extension of the seaways many hundreds of miles inland.

"The heart of the continent, with its vast resources in both agriculture and industry would be brought in communication with all the ocean routes by the extension of the St. Lawrence waterways project. To enable seagoing vessels to have access to all the parts of the Great Lakes would have a most stimulating effect upon the industrial life of the continent's interior.

"The feasibility of the project is unquestioned, and its cost, compared with some other great engineering works, would be small. Unorganized and prostrate, the nations of central Europe are even now setting their hands to the development of a great continental waterway, which, connecting the Rhine and Danube, will bring water transportation from the Black to the North sea, from Mediterranean to the Baltic.

"If unobtainable premises and economic difficulties can be overcome by Europe they certainly should not be formidable obstacles to an achievement less expensive and giving promise of yet greater advantages to the peoples of North America. Not only would the cost of transportation be greatly reduced, but a vast population could be brought nearer to immediate touch with the resources of the entire world."

Delegates from all sections of the country representing agriculture and industries dependent on it assembled here for the opening of the national conference called to consider the present situation confronting the farmer, and to lay down a permanent agricultural policy.

Development of a thorough code of law and business procedure, with the proper machinery of finance to assure the farmer as generous a supply of working capital on as reasonable terms as is granted to other industries, was advocated by President Harding in his address.

"An industry," the President said, "more vital than any other, in which nearly half the nation's wealth is invested, can be relied upon for good security and certain returns."

Declaring that in the matter of what may be called fixed investment capital the disadvantage of the farmer so impressed public opinion that the federal farm loan board was established to meet the need.

"Compared with other industries," he continued, "the wonder is that agriculture thus deprived of easy access to both investment and circulation capital, has prospered even so well."

Lines of which financial support of agriculture may be organized, Mr. Harding said, are suggested in the plan of the federal farm loan board and in the rural finance societies which have been so effective in some European countries.

"The co-operative banking associations of Europe have been effective incentives to united action by farmers," he continued, "and have led them directly into co-operation in production and marketing which have contributed greatly to the stabilization and prosperity of agriculture."

Whether these organizations are considered as means to buying the farmers' requirements in a cheaper market, the President asserted, or to selling his products in a more remunerative one, "the conclusion in all cases is the same; it is that the farmer is as good a business man as any other if he has the chance."

The manufacturer, Mr. Harding said, whose turnover is rapid, finds he can borrow money from the bank on short-time notes when he needs working capital, and his money will come back to him in time to meet his short-time obligations. On the other hand, he continued, the farmer's turnover is a long one; from a year in most cases to sometimes three years in the cattle industry.

Monroe—Green county has paid out $1,300 in litigation expenses to resist the claim of J. M. Becker, former county judge, who demanded $3,300 and interest, as pay for the time of his term as judge after he was ousted by former Gov. Phillip. Becker was deprived of office upon conviction of violation of the espionage act. He later obtained a reversal of the conviction on an appeal. Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It. Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected. Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has never been successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success. An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the following statement: "One reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is an aid at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Advertisement."

SISTERS By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"No; Alix is going to speak to him about it," Cherry outlined the talk that she and her sister had had at breakfast.

"Then I shouldn't bring up the question at all," Peter decided, quickly. "It would only mean an ugly and unnecessary scene."

"You're awfully good to me," he said, briefly, when they were going down the long grade.

"I have to go into town rather early tomorrow," Peter remarked, "Porter's giving a breakfast at the Bohemian club."

"I'm not sure that I would like to have you—and Martin—and Cherry as happy as I am," she said quickly.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Whoever could make two ears of corn, or two blades of grass to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind and do more essential service to his country than the whole swarm of politicians put together.

Seasonable Good Things. A very tasty meat loaf, which will serve six to eight plentifully, is the following:

Meat Loaf.—Get one pound of meat from the round and three-quarters of a pound of fresh pork chops...

Hot Tamales.—Take two pounds of lean beef or chicken, boiled, cooled and ground fine.

Veal Loaf.—Take two pounds of veal and one-half pound of fresh pork, both chopped.

Farina With Fruit.—Drain a can of apricots. Scald four cups of milk; add one-half teaspoonful of salt...

GLACIAL PERIOD IN DISPUTE

Ample Evidence That It Existed, but the Question Is, When Did It End?

When did the glacial period end? Was it, an American scientist pertinently asks, when the ice began to disappear, or had half disappeared, or had entirely disappeared?

Old Nick, Applied to the Devil. "Old Nick," popular sobriquet of the devil, is derived both from St. Nicholas (German Nicholas, diminutive Nicker, often used of the devil) and from Nicker (or Nikker), a Teutonic water spirit whose appearance to sailors foreboded death and drowning.

A gift bought here makes a lasting impression.

Enamel Used as Cement.
Both enamel has been used successfully in mounting jewelry or china. The pieces are heated carefully after the enamel is applied and any excess enamel that remains is rubbed or wiped off for fear of discoloring the joint. It is important to use enamel in two or three coats, as a single coating the excess enamel is removed with sandpaper. The enamel is then ready for use and will hold as well as cold liquids when set.

Here It Is!—The New International Manure Spreader

Run Your Eyes Over These Best-yet Features:

1. Roller Bearings. Roller bearings at seven points—the only spreader so equipped.
2. Double Ratchet Drive. Walking beam transmission from main axle eccentric and extra large ratchet wheel give easy, strong, steady feed. No pounding or jerking. Just to extra long movement of power on ratchet wheel—only two power impulses on ratchet for every revolution of 40-inch drive wheels. Box tapered to eliminate friction on axle sides. Six feed speeds.
3. Oscillating Front Axle. Auto-type, permitting slight turn. No pole whipping. No strain on frame.
4. Power, Both Wheels. Power is transmitted direct from main axle to beater wide-spread spiral and narrow conveyor—not through beater to conveyor or vice versa.
5. Wheels Track. Rear wheels track with the front wheels, lightening draft.
6. Tight Bottom. There is no clogging, jamming, spreading anything. Retains all liquid manure.
7. Two Beaters. Two all-steel beaters with chisel-pointed square teeth work from both top and bottom of the load. Allow extra-high load.
8. Wide-Spread. The spiral behind the beater gives the manure a third beating, and spreads it freely and uniformly beyond the wheels.
9. All-Steel Main Frame. Does not check, rot or warp. Wood box sides hold only the load. Frame holds operating mechanism independently of box; keeps alignment perfect.

The New International—made in two sizes—is unquestionably the best spreader value on the market today, and when you consider it in connection with its price, it is so far ahead of all others that there is really no comparison. We have a sample spreader set up for your inspection. Come in and look it over.

PRACTICAL POULTRY KEEPING

The average flock makes its best showing so far as egg production is concerned, during the spring months. This is because nature is then providing the fowls with everything in housing and feeding conducive to the largest egg yield.

Then why not imitate nature as much as possible and give the hens the same identical conditions at other seasons of the year, especially after the fall and winter months.

Most flocks will prove profitable with the proper feeding, housing and especially after the dromes have been culled out.

For the present we are mostly concerned with the winter egg production. Taking for granted that the pullets were hatched early enough to be of layable age they ought to be shelling out eggs providing they get the proper care and feed, which in brief is as follows: The house must be draft proof and have a dry floor, well ventilated, well lighted, and provide about 3 to 4 sq. feet of floor space for each hen, when kept confined for any length of time during the winter months. The floor must be kept covered with a deep litter of straw 6 to 8 inches in which the scratch feed is thrown, thereby giving the hens almost continuous exercise hunting for grain.

A good scratch mixture is as follows: Even parts by measure of wheat, barley, oats and cracked corn. And should be thrown in the litter one hour before roosting time. Whatever remains in the evening will be found by the hens the following day.

One hundred fowls require from 10 to 12 lbs. of scratch feed per day provided you feed them a good mash feed fed dry in hoppers. A good mash is composed of the following materials: 100 lbs. of bran, 100 lbs. middlings, 100 lbs. gluten feed, 100 lbs. second oats, 100 lbs. ground corn, 100 lbs. meat or beef scrap, and 3 lbs. salt, this should be before the hens at all times.

At noon or thereabouts should be fed a little green food of some kind, cabbage or mangel wurtzel make an excellent substitute if sprouted oats cannot be had.

POPE BENEDICT XV SUCCEUMBS TO PNEUMONIA

Illness That Was Not at First Regarded as Serious Has Fatal Ending.

PONTIFF HAD BRIEF REIGN

Elevated to the Papal Throne in 1914, His Life Was Saddened by the Atrocities of the Great War—Ordained Priest in 1874.

Rome.—Pope Benedict XV is dead. From a slight cold, which had not been regarded as anything serious, double pneumonia developed, and the physicians in attendance had given up hope for the recovery of their distinguished patient. Their bulletin had in a measure prepared the world for the sad event.

Cardinal Gasparri, pontifical secretary of state, made public the fact of the death of the pope.

His holiness had been suffering for some days, having contracted double pneumonia, and treatment began too late.

During the early hours of the morning, toward 4 o'clock, there was a sudden change for the worse and the bronchial affection from which his holiness had been suffering for several days, spread to his lungs.

The pontiff asked for and received the last sacrament, insisting upon this, "if only to give a good example," he said, despite attempts by his attendants to dissuade him.

The pope's physicians were in consultation at the Vatican at an early hour, and the morning bulletin issued afterward indicated an extremely serious condition.

Dr. Battistini, however, stated then that while the condition of his holiness was grave, it was not hopeless.

Pope Given Oxygen. Soon thereafter, however, the pope's condition became aggravated and the administration of oxygen was begun. Meanwhile, prayers were being said in all the churches and Catholic institutions of Rome on behalf of his holiness and great crowds began to assemble in St. Peter's.

The sudden change for the worse in the pontiff's condition seemed to have come as a great surprise, even to those who had been observing him most closely. Last evening he received some strengthening injections and the doctors then stated they were satisfied with his condition, expressing hope that danger of an extension of the inflammation to the lungs had passed and saying the crisis appeared to be overcome.

One of the most disturbing conditions that developed early in the day seemed to be passing away after 10 o'clock in the morning, as the pontiff was then able to expectorate slightly. This aroused more hope among the watchers, but toward 11 o'clock he became worse again and oxygen then was administered.

Cardinals Wait Word. Mr. Zampini, secretary of the apostolic palace, Mr. Carlo Respighi, the pontifical prefect of ceremonies, and Mr. Migone, the private chamberlain, were at the pope's bedside.

There was an air of deep anxiety and apprehension about the Vatican, where many of the cardinals were waiting in an antechamber, all the cardinals in Italy having assembled in Rome upon receiving word of the pope's serious illness. The doctors, after a consultation, did not expect the gravity of the pontiff's condition, although Professor Marchiafava took a more hopeful view than his colleagues.

Pope Hears Mass Celebrated. Mr. Migone celebrated mass in an apartment adjoining the pope's bedroom. The door to the sick-room remained open so that the pontiff might hear.

Many diplomats visited the Vatican seeking news; all of them were received in the antechamber, none being permitted to disturb the patient.

It is said that the pope contracted his present illness three days before his death, after he had celebrated mass in the Matilde chapel. He received visitors and attended to his usual pontifical duties until a comparatively few hours before he passed away.

Cardinal Giorgi, the apostolic penitentiary, was summoned to Pope Benedict's bedside at 8 o'clock this morning, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rome, to London, to recite the prayer for the dying.

Spreads to Right Lung. The last official bulletin on the condition of his holiness read: "His holiness has been four days with influenza bronchitis. It is ascertained that inflammatory process has spread to the right lung."

"The patient passed an agitated night and had no sleep. This morning the dyspnea is intense. The temperature was 104, the pulse 102 and the respiration 35."

"BATTISTINI, CHERUBINI, RIGNANI, MARCHIAFAVA." Takes Turn for Worse. It was about 4 o'clock in the morning that the change for the worse in the pope's condition occurred. It was especially due to catarrh, which has spread to both lungs, to inability to expectorate and to pulmonary inflammation. It was stated, Professor Cherubini, who had been waiting at the Vatican, was immediately summoned. He found the pope mentally depressed and panting for breath.

Realizing the patient's serious condition, Dr. Cherubini administered sedatives and expectorants, but the beneficial effects expected did not manifest themselves. In view of the gravity of the situation Dr. Cherubini sent an urgent call to Professor Rignani, a Vatican automobile being dispatched to bring him to the Vatican, his arrival three hours following shortly.

Consultation Is Held. Professor Rignani the evening before had remarked upon the absence of a cough, checking expectoration, and consequently was not surprised by the development. It appeared. After a brief inspection of the patient he left to bring Professor Marchiafava, with whom he shortly afterward consulted in the Vatican.

ARTIFICIAL ICE MADE BY FARMER

Freezing Weather and Pure, Clean Water Are Two Things Absolutely Necessary.

METAL CANS OR BAGS USEFUL

In Very Cold Sections Water May Be Run Into House and Frozen in Layers—Must Be Cut or Chopped Out With Ax.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) To make natural ice, one essential is water, and the other is freezing weather. The trouble is that in many cases there is plenty of the right kind of weather, but little or none of the water, at least the kind of water that will be still long enough to be frozen.

There are several ways of getting around this difficulty, according to "Harvesting and Storing Ice on the Farm," a farmers' bulletin issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

One method is to make smaller than the top to make the removal of the ice easier. The cans are placed near the water supply, filled with water, and left exposed to the weather. A shell of ice soon freezes around the inner surface, and when the shell is from 1 1/2 to 2 inches thick, hot water is poured over the outside of the can and the shell removed. A hole is broken through at the top of the shell and most of the water inside is then poured out. As the freezing progresses water is poured into the shell, a little at a time, until a solid block of ice is produced. By this method only a few cans are required, which keeps the cost low.

Another method that can be used in very cold sections of the United States is to run water into the ice house and let a layer freeze. This is done by first constructing a dam of snow around the floor of the house ten or twelve inches from the walls in order to allow sawdust insulations next to the walls. The interior of the house is then flooded with a few inches of water, which soon freezes, the procedure being repeated until the house is filled with ice. It is then covered with sawdust and closed up until ice is needed. A great disadvantage of this method is that in order to remove ice it must be cut or chopped out with an ax, which results in uneven and irregular pieces and considerable waste of ice.

Advantage of Bags. "About the same method is employed when special paper bags are used, although they do not last so long as the cans. The advantage of the bags over the metal cans is mainly in cleanliness, for they are not so convenient to handle."

Preparation of Ground for Oats. Many Successful Farmers Have Proven That It Pays Well to Disk Before Planting.

Experiment stations and many successful farmers have proven that it pays to put the ground in good seed bed condition before sowing oats. Disking of the stalk ground has proven better under most conditions than plowing, as it provides a seed bed that is better adapted to the requirements of the crop. As for wheat, the seed bed for oats should be firm and smooth with a few inches of mellow surface soil. This sort of a seed bed can be produced by disking.

Feeding Milk to Poultry. When feeding milk to poultry it pays to use earthen crocks instead of the shallow pans which are easily tipped over and tracked full of dirt.

Care of Hogs. Provide shelter for pigs. Alfalfa hay should be supplied to brood sows, where possible.

Feed Determines Milk Yield. Good yields depend as much upon good care and feed as upon good cows.

Results From Artificial Lights. Artificial lights have seemed to bring wonderful results with some poultry flocks and they are being considered more practical every winter.

ESTIMATE FEED COST OF EGG PRODUCTION

Records Show About What Amounts Are Used by Fowls.

Value of General-Purpose Breeds for Market, or for Hatching and Breeding Makes Them Most Desirable Birds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Careful poultrymen like to know what it costs them to produce a dozen eggs, but it is not possible for anyone to tell them. With certain information obtained through experimental feedings to start with, they must figure it out for themselves. Since the feed constitutes the principal cost, it is possible to get some idea of the real cost if the amount of grain used in making a dozen eggs is known. The United States Department of Agriculture has kept records that show about what amounts are used by general-purpose fowls and Leghorns, and by using the local price for grain in connection with these figures the feed cost of a dozen eggs can be obtained with fair accuracy.

The grain consumed to produce a dozen eggs will vary a great deal, depending upon the skill of the poultryman, but it is assumed that he knows how to feed economically. The general-purpose fowls and Leghorns used in this feeding work were kept on the test while pullets and yearlings. As pullets the general-purpose fowls produced 130.5 eggs a year and 88.1 as yearlings. The Leghorns produced an average of 138.7 eggs as pullets and 124.9 as yearlings.

The general-purpose pullets ate in a year an average of 67 pounds of feed per dozen eggs produced, and the yearlings ate 36 pounds. The Leghorn pullets ate 48 pounds and the yearlings 25 pounds. The general-purpose pullets ate 19 pounds more feed in producing a dozen eggs than the Leghorn pullets, and the difference increases very rapidly with the age of the stock, the general-purpose yearlings consuming 41 pounds more feed per dozen eggs than the Leghorn yearlings; therefore the Leghorn yearlings produced eggs upon much less feed than the general-purpose breeds.

The value of the general-purpose breeds for market, or for hatching and breeding, makes them usually the most desirable breeds for the general farmer and the backyard poultry raiser, while the Leghorns are especially adapted for the commercial egg farms, say the poultrymen of the department.

Plan to Mount Grindstone. Best Way Is to Have Legs Long Enough That Person Using It Won't Have to Bend Over.

The time-honored way of mounting a grindstone is on a stand with short legs so that both the person grinding and the one turning the stone have to stoop over and get a crick in the back. The new way is to have the grindstone mounted on a stand with longer legs so that both grinder and turner can stand almost upright. The turner is done away with by the foot lever shown above, contrasting the wrong mounting with the right standard. Still better is it to attach a small fly wheel and belt to the grindstone so that it can be operated by power from the engine or spray rig, when not otherwise used, or from any movable or stationary engine available, or from an electric motor.—Farm and Home.

Manure Should Be Kept Dry. In Process of Fermentation Ammonia, Which Contains Nitrogen, Is Washed Away.

Manure when it must be kept for a few weeks should be kept dry. It must be remembered that the nitrogen in manure is very easily washed away. Nor should manure be allowed to ferment. In the process of fermentation ammonia, which contains the nitrogen, is given off and this valuable constituent of a fertilizer is lost. Never use lime on manure as this also destroys the ammonia and hence destroys the fertilizing value in a large measure.

Tuberculosis Hits Cattle. Disease as Apt to Affect One Breed as Another—Immunity Depends on Management.

Tuberculosis is as apt to affect one breed of cattle as badly as another. No breed is immune and no breed shows greater immunity than another, according to a study by government officials of official tuberculosis test records of nearly half a million animals. The beef breeds seem to be as badly affected as purebreds. The relative freedom of a herd from disease depends upon the management which it receives.

Feeding Milk to Poultry. When feeding milk to poultry it pays to use earthen crocks instead of the shallow pans which are easily tipped over and tracked full of dirt.

Care of Hogs. Provide shelter for pigs. Alfalfa hay should be supplied to brood sows, where possible.

Feed Determines Milk Yield. Good yields depend as much upon good care and feed as upon good cows.

Results From Artificial Lights. Artificial lights have seemed to bring wonderful results with some poultry flocks and they are being considered more practical every winter.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ORANG-UTAN

"I've forgotten whether I was named after another Orang-Utan or after a Chimpanzee," said the Orang-Utan. "But anyway my name is Toto and I was named after one of those two creatures I have mentioned. "You one of the creatures myself. That is—I am an Orang-Utan and I might please I am to be one. I think I will sing a song about it."

So the Orang-Utan sang in his funny little voice.

An Orang-Utan am I, And never do I sigh, For I'm happy as the day is long. This is all to my little song.

"Are you going to tell the story of your life, Toto?" asked another Orang-Utan in the zoo.

"I don't know," said Toto. "But I will tell something of the ways of the Orang-Utan family. It would be a pity if people didn't know about us and how friendly we are. It would be a great pity indeed."

"From the time an Orang-Utan is a little baby he is a dear, cunning little creature."

"When he is little he is a dear little creature, wanting to be friendly with everyone. If no one will be friendly with him he cries in a sad little voice. But an Orang-Utan baby makes friends. He is such a darling!"

"Then he usually has such beautiful brown eyes, which look so pleadingly at everyone."

"We haven't feet shaped as the Chimpanzee has, and we don't dress up with so much make-up as he does, because we cannot wear shoes very comfortably."

"Our toes are long and shoes don't fit us well. But we are much more friendly than he is, though he may have more brains than we have. We have brains though. Yes, plenty of brains and we're sure next to the Chimpanzee as far as brains are concerned. I'm quite sure of that."

"He is more nervous than we are. And we're more affectionate."

"Even though I am such a big creature I like to be held by my keeper. I suppose I will be heavier than he is one of these days. I'm not sure, but I know we become very heavy in time."

"But I never want to grow so big that I can't be loved by my keeper. For how I do adore to be loved by him, and how I do care to play with him and show him how much I love him!"

"I play with some of his friends who come to the zoo, too. And I've some good friends among them."

"My name of Orang means man, and my second name of Utan means jungle, for often I am known in the free state as the jungle man. I am called Toto by my keeper just as a boy is called by a special name."

"A boy is called Jimmie or Sam or Johnny or some such name."

"Some of us like to do tricks and others of us like to find out all we can and learn all we can, but all of us are pretty bright and pretty good at tricks."

"We have long hair and when we get to be old we do weigh a lot! Especially we Mr. Orang-Utans. The ladies don't want to weigh so much. It doesn't seem quite ladylike to them."

"When I was free I used to live in a big nest in a tree which was strong but which used to blow a bit and move a bit so we could swing. We slept on beds of lovely branches and while we slept on our backs we always had our hands and feet about a branch so we could never fall or become hurt by any such accident."

"But, oh, while sometimes I think of the free days, I am happy here in the zoo. I am proud too, because my keeper loves me so."

"I would never go back on him. No, there isn't a mean or tricky or treacherous or unkind thing about me or my family. A mean orang-utan is something I have never seen and if there ever are any about I hope I won't see them as I'd want to feel the family was disgraced."

"No, we are true and loyal, and we never change. Ah, there comes my good keeper friend now. I shall give him my finest kiss!"

Now He Knows. Johnny—Would you please tell me, teacher, what logic is? Teacher—Logic, Johnny, is the art or science of reasoning; correct inference or ratiocination. In other words, that which may convince you that things are or are not what they are. Johnny—Gee!

Scientific Information. Pupil (looking through a microscope)—Professor, what kind of bacteria are these with such a riot of color? Professor—They have no color; that's the reflection of your tie.—Science and Invention.

Cause for Courage. "You took a great risk, rescuing my son from drowning in this icy pond," said the old gentleman to the young man. "What prompted you?" "Well, he had my skates on."

LOOKING AT IT PRACTICALLY

Really There Is Something Worth While in the Assertion Made by Little Johnny.

The physician was telling little Johnny's mother about a railroad accident in which a ten-year-old boy had both legs crushed from the effects of which he died the same day. Little Johnny, about six years old, stood by, greatly interested in the accident.

"That, doctor," he broke in with his eyes wide open, "with the horth hurt?"

"I don't know," said the doctor, "I was more interested in the man, and didn't think of the horse."

You wouldn't put on hobbles to run a foot race

Then why load up on handicaps for the day's work?

A good deal of food, unwisely chosen, does weigh the body down and clog the digestion, and dull the brain.

Why put on the hobbles?

Grape-Nuts is a breakfast or lunch-time dish for those who want food efficiency, and mind and body efficiency.

Grape-Nuts satisfies and nourishes. It delights the taste. It is ready to serve whenever you are ready to eat. And it digests easily, quickly and completely—leaving no handicap of heaviness and drowsiness.

Grape-Nuts is the food for health and action.

MAD OVER A MERE TRIFLE HE HAD SOMETHING COMING

Surely Any Man Who Has Seen Service Will Agree That Corporal Was Unreasonable.

A couple of recruits of the latest vintage were discussing the pros and cons of service life at Paris Island. "It ain't so bad," confided one. "Most of it is all right, but it's that blasted rifle from guard duty that gets me." "Relief from guard duty?" ejaculated the other. "Man, you're cuckoo!" There's nothing to being relieved from guard duty. It's being on guard-duty that's tough." "No," maintained the first, "it's the relief. Why the other day they put me on guard duty for two hours, and it wasn't bad at all just standing around and watching the rest of 'em drilling and knowing that I didn't have to do it myself, but when the time for relief came the corporal came up and gave me the devil." "What for?" "Nothing—nothing at all. I just couldn't remember where I left my rifle."—The Leatherneck.

Five-Year-Old Got Drawing He Wanted, but Retribution Was Stalking Behind Him.

R. S. Grable, a St. Louis newspaper man, celebrated his fiftieth birthday in a unique way. He gave a birthday party and invited 75 children. Cobb Shinn was in St. Louis at the time, and was asked to help entertain the youngsters by drawing pictures on the large paper hats which were given to each child. He would draw whatever the children asked for, and the subjects were many and various. Finally a five-year-old handed up his hat and said: "I want a pig." The drawing was started, when a brother about a year older, spoke up: "Aw, he don't want a picture of a pig"—and the argument was on. When the drawing was finished, the five-year-old struck out his chest and boasted: "See, I got what I wanted!" "Yes, but just wait until I get you some and see if I don't ruin you," replied the brother.

Many ambitious men and women live only half a life—and don't know it

No person whose nerves are continually irritated, whose appetite and digestion are disturbed, or who doesn't sleep well has more than half his normal chance for success in life. For weakness, debility, anemia and general lack of tone are a serious handicap to anybody.

Those who drink tea or coffee are often sufferers from these conditions. Tea and coffee contain caffeine, a substance which has a decided stimulant action on the nerves and brain cells.

Each cup of strong coffee contains about as large a dose of caffeine as your doctor would ordinarily give to a very sick person.

You can readily see that the effect of giving this stimulant regularly to a well person might finally have a tendency to make him sick.

If you want to avoid a very common cause of irritation and enjoy restful sleep, good digestion, and all the feeling of vigor and robust endurance that comes to healthy, normal people, quit tea and coffee, and drink Postum, instead. It is a rich, coffee-like cereal beverage—perfectly delicious!

Order Postum from your grocer today. Drink this fragrant, aromatic beverage and see how much better you'll feel—able to do more without becoming fatigued—as thousands have discovered for themselves.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in this) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink white the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

Coats Worth Considering; Party Frocks for Children

ENTHUSIASTIC motorists scurry over the country in every direction and at all seasons of the year, some of them following in the wake of snowplows or occasionally doing a little plowing on their own account. Cars are provided with so many contrivances for comfort that few women outfit themselves with especially designed clothes for motoring, but they have learned to choose garments that are passable, or even smart, in or out of the car. Everyone finds a substantial coat of some sort a necessity. As for coats, whether heavy or light in weight, they must be durable and well made, simple in design and ample. Among the new ones there are very attractive capes and capecoats, which are made of double-faced cloth, plain on one side and plaid on the other, and they look as if a very good steamer rug had been sacrificed to their making. But light-weight cloths are woven in these patterns. Nearly all of these coats are provided with a scarf collar to match, to be brought up about the neck when needed. This scarf collar appears in the coat shown at the right of the two pictured here and is one of the several good points about it from the motorist's viewpoint. Its straight lines, big sleeves cut in one with coat, capacious pockets and neat finish of stitching are others. Where warmth is the first consideration, the handsome motor-coat shown at the left of the picture is sure to be successful. A troop of children's gay little party frocks come dancing along with the sheer cottons and light silks for spring—and no mother or aunt can look upon them with cold indifference. They are made of the

Fashions Modified. Moderation is the watchword in this season's apparel. Suit coats are neither long nor short, separate coats neither extremely straight nor wildly daring. That is no one type of garment dominates the field. Short coats and long ones are seen, but by far the greatest number follow neither extreme.

Hairdressing. There are two extremes in hairdressing at the moment. That is, the hair is worn full and puffy about the face or exceedingly flat and drawn up to the crown of the head to reveal the ears. The latter mode is extremely smart and likewise extremely trying. Only a beautiful woman may adopt it with any certainty of success.

Coffee for Silk. Perfectly clear coffee will renovate black silk nicely. Apply it to the right side of the silk, which should be ironed on the wrong side when half dry.

BIDS OPEN FOR CEMENT

The State Highway Commission does not propose to let the state bid on the purchase of cement.

This week bids for the million three hundred thousand barrels of cement required for the road and bridge building program in the state for 1922 were opened in the office of Chief Engineer Hirst at 10 o'clock.

The bids were uniform, $1.50 per barrel less ten cents for cash. This is the same price quoted to contractors and the Commission feeling that the price was unreasonably high, promptly rejected all bids.

Word is received here that the state will do little or no cement work this year.

"The price," said Chief Engineer Hirst, "is only 20 cents a barrel lower than the price made to the state through contracts last year." Hirst said, "If that was a fair price, the reduction of 10 percent is not enough."

"We've standing pat on our refusal. Perhaps we will advertise for more bids after the state road school the last part of this month."

"For Wisconsin, the general basing point for cement is Buffington, Ind. The price of cement at any point in Wisconsin is the price set at Buffington plus the freight from Buffington to that point. All mills other than Buffington meet this price and if their freight rates to Wisconsin points are more than the freight rate from Buffington, they sell cement at their mills at a less price than the Buffington mill gets."

"We've therefore have the situation that the public always pays the full mill base at some point for its cement, plus the freight. All companies cut this mill base to get into a certain territory but neither the companies nor the purchaser gets the benefit of this reduction. The railroads get it all in larger freight revenues on what are really uneconomical movements of cement. It is simply another example of the prevailing poor economies in the distribution of products."

FORD RETAIL SALES GO OVER MILLION

Retail sales of Ford cars, trucks and Fordson tractors have again exceeded the million mark for the year 1921, according to a statement given out by the Ford Motor Company.

The Ford factory and assembly plant production figures reached a total of 1,050,740 cars, trucks and tractors for the year, with retail sales by dealers approximately 1,093,000, which in the United States alone surpassed the 1920 retail sales record by 164,213 Ford cars and trucks.

The Ford Company says the outlook for 1922 is decidedly optimistic. In fact, concrete evidences already exist in that car and truck retail sales for December 1921, exceeded December 1920 sales by almost 25 per cent, and Fordson tractor retail sales for the same periods show an increase over the total tractor sales for the month of November.

These facts seem to indicate that not only are the farmers buying more freely, but that the general public is becoming more responsive and receptive.

Another point brought out by a comparison of production figures for the past two years is that Ford enclosed cars are gaining in popularity, as 23 per cent of the 1921 production were Sedans and Coupes as against a total of 18 per cent for the year previous.

The recent reductions in Ford cars and truck prices brought them to a new low level. The Touring car now sells for $348, the Runabout for $319, the Coupe for $380, the Sedan for $645, the Classic for $285, and the Truck for $430, all F. O. B. Detroit.

This is the fourth price cut in the past sixteen months. During that time the price of the touring car alone has been cut from $575 to $348, a reduction of 40 per cent. Reductions on some of the other types have been even greater.

The Ford Company believes that this reduction, while not a large one, is especially important at this time as it should go a long way toward stabilizing market conditions.

Ford is giving employment at present to approximately 10,000 men in his main plant at Detroit, the importance of which is emphasized when consideration is given to the fact that nearly 20 per cent of the city's population is directly dependent upon the Ford Motor Company.

MONEY IN COCONUTS

In the last few years a strong and growing interest has developed in coconut culture in the Philippine islands. Not only are the native planters awakening to the advantages of modern methods, but foreign capital and enterprise see a prosperous future in the industry. It is virtually impossible for the prospective planter to either purchase or lease a bearing coconut grove, but large areas of virgin land are available for new plantations, more especially in the Moro province, where conditions are ideal for coconut culture.

HORSESHOES LONG IN USE

It is impossible to state definitely when horseshoes were first used. A coin in the British museum, from Tartarum, made about 300 B. C., is supposed to represent a horse being shod. It is not likely, however, that shoeing with iron was at all common in the early part of the Middle Ages. William the Conqueror is believed to have introduced the art into Britain. For centuries the art of the shoemaker ranked with that of the scholar and bard in England and France, and even kings prized the art.

A Visit to Your Old Home Town

Don't you wish you could make one? But, of course, you haven't the time. It's a fast world! And it's a long, expensive trip. Perhaps, some day!

But just as often as not, "some day" never comes. And you have to be content with just sending your memory back on a sky-larking trip among the ghosts of yesterday.

However, those "ghosts" are very much alive, chances are, and are doing a lot of interesting things you'd like to know about. True, you may be getting letters regularly from mother or father, or sister or brother—but they seldom, if ever, mention good old Tom, Dick or Harry. What of them? Somebody knows!

You bet somebody knows! That "somebody" is the KEWASKUM STATESMAN, your Home Town Paper. Why, it's got stories about Tom, Dick and Harry today. You ought to keep in touch with them—and you can! It's easy—

They Know Better Now.

Of course you heard about the man who saw the two lights coming down the road, thought they were on two motorcycles, and attempted to pass between them, and you also heard how friends were compelled to carry parts of him in a sieve, to the hospital—

And then, further on up the line a man saw just one light coming and he bet 85 cents that he could stand within 5 inches of that light as it went by—and that the lamp on the other side of that auto wasn't working and when they found all of the pieces of the fellow who bet he could stand close, it was quitting time and he'll never do the same thing twice.

All of us have a foolish notion once in a while, but we don't always try to carry it out, and we continue to enjoy life, while the man—or woman—who is determined to try something unreasonably foolish, gets buried. New ideas have to be born but if they don't show signs of doing some one some good, they should be let alone in seven different languages.

Of course you can live without advertising, same as we could, but we never did think the county homes were just homelike.
