MOVIES DRAWING BIG CROWDS

A departure from Mack Sennett's comedy tradition is presented in the Comedy King's latest film-reel super-production, "Love, Honor and Behave," the first National attraction at the Opera House on Sunday, March 19.

Charlie Murray, hero of a million episodes, will be introduced in a role of legitimate appeal. He will impersonate a "grave and revered" Judge of the Supreme Court, playing the part with dignity and power. This revolutionary role will be revealed in the opening scenes of the story when Justice and Romance will come in contact.

Marie Prevost, a bride, and George O'Hara, her young husband, appear before "Justice" Murray, carrying to the halls of justice the fragrance of a romance about to die. Here, it is pointed out, is a romance and authentic picture of dramatic material, treated in a sympathetic and dignified manner, with ever so slight a wink of the eye on the part of the learned jurist. Not long, however, does the plot remain in the atmosphere of staid drama, for the latter, in order to convince the jealous husband of the innocence of his bridegroom, tells a story of his own experience when he too was a bridegroom; and said story's purport being to discredit circumstantial evidence.

It is this story that forms the bulk of the episodes depicted in "Love, Honor and Behave"—episodes that bring Murray back to his traditional characteristics in hilarious fun and thrilling predicaments. Murray's story which is seen on the screen but spoken to her, contains the quaint Marie of the injustice of her husband's love. It incidentally bears a moral for the married and the unmarried, but mainly it promotes mirth, unrestrained laughter and genuine thrills.

ALUMINUMS MAKE GOOD SHOWING

The Kewaskum Aluminum basket ball team made a very good showing, last week Thursday evening, when they went to North Fond du Lac, to play the Wisconsin Arrows of that place, losing by a score of 13 to 15.

The fact that two of the star players and Jack Tessar could not accompany the team, was undoubtedly the cause for the defeat suffered, had they been able to appear in the local lineup things might have looked different at the end of the game. The Fond du Lac Commonwealth of last Friday's issue has the following to say about the game:

ALUMINUM CAGERS PLAY FAST GAME

The Wisconsin Arrows defeated the Kewaskum Aluminum Five at the Rex theatre last evening by a score of 15 to 13. The Kewaskum boys played a wonderful game while the Arrows had hard luck missing shots.

The Kewaskum crew had but a lone point when the whistle blew at the end of the first half. The Arrows in the meantime had massed a total of nine markers.

In the second half the Kewaskum crew stepped around and came to life with a vim that seemed to sweep the Arrows from their feet. The light weight material cagers scored 12 points while North Fond du Lac scored but six.

WASHINGTON COUNTY SCHOOLS RANK AMONG FIRST IN STATE

County Supt. of Schools M. T. Buckley, is very highly complimented upon the work he is doing as county superintendent, by state superintendent Callahan of Madison.

Through Mr. Buckley's untiring efforts the schools of this county now rank among the first in the state. Following is a letter received by Mr. Buckley from Callahan, which reads as follows:

Madison, Wis., March 6, 1922. Mr. M. T. Buckley, County Superintendent, West Bend, Wis. My Dear Mr. Buckley:—During the week of February 6 to 10, Miss Davidson visited your county, spending some time visiting rural schools, as well as city grades, accompanied by your supervising teacher, Miss Kathryn Huber, and yourself, as time permitted. Her report is now on file in this office.

I am pleased to note that Miss Davidson peaks in highest terms of your plan of organization for county supervision, your vision of the work and your constructive efforts combining to place the work of the county among the first in the state.

The report comments favorably upon the following phases: 1. The scope of the work: (a) A well defined programme for the year, with phases for the coming year in the formation, viz., raising the standard of reading and arithmetic accomplishment this year, preparing for a systematic attack on geography and language the coming year.

2. Monographs prepared for teachers' guidance; Educational seat work in relation to reading by Miss Huber, Arithmetic by Mr. Buckley. Blocking out units of work found to be especially helpful.

3. Group or sectional meetings in October, preparing teachers for the work of the year by giving them a programme.

4. "Follow up work" during the remaining months. 5. Visits of supervisor—usually two schools daily, many teachers visited twice and thrice.

6. Working with supervising teachers as a means of developing teacher leadership. 7. Teachers' councils or democratic organization in embryo not really materialized, but on the way under the suggestion of county superintendent.

8. Use of standard tests to stimulate growth in part of teachers and pupils. Note that it is the plan to help teachers to "help themselves" in this respect. 9. Teachers growing in professional attitude, evidenced in the following:

a. Co-operation with supervising teacher. b. Gaining in breadth of view. c. Ready to meet school obligations. d. Developing initiative in handling socialized recitations, educative seat work, curricular tests.

10. Teaching technique improved in many schools. Organization of class work, socialized recitation, study habits of children, etc. Emphasis placed upon the improvement of class room instruction as a first consideration, while physical equipment is a close second.

11. Consolidation is considered, and planned for, but as a future, rather than present, development. Many school buildings make it possible to win communities eventually to the operation of the consolidated school.

12. Model demonstration centers; group meetings carefully planned and well attended; gratifying results thus obtained by developing the superior teachers as a means of improving others in the teaching corps.

REDS ARE BACK OF REVOLT IN AFRICA

Captured Spies Say Money for Revolution Came From Abroad.

FIGHT ON FOR JOHANNESBURG

Strikers Striving to Capture Town Before Reinforcements Arrive—Attempt to Kill Gen. Smuts Fails—2,200 Prisoners Taken.

London, March 15.—An agency dispatched from Johannesburg says: "Through the capture of spies and documents it was learned that the money for the 'red revolution' came from abroad."

"It is expected that peace will soon be restored."

It is believed in official circles, the message states, that there will continue to be small setbacks, such as the loss of isolated posts, but as regards the general result little doubt is felt.

Heavy casualties have been inflicted upon the revolutionaries, in addition to the capture of more than 2,200 of them.

Premier Smuts issued a statement, Reuters' Johannesburg correspondent says, declaring that the present revolutionary movement is the work of extremists, who are using the strike at the mines as a cloak for the dissemination of syndicalist views.

The premier states that the military position is well in hand, and that with the cooperation of the loyal citizens who are actively supporting the government it should not take long to re-establish peaceful conditions.

Johannesburg, March 15.—Government troops are advancing against the rebels in the mine fields under cover of heavy cannonading on all fronts, but the rebels are putting up stubborn resistance.

The revolutionaries are continuing their efforts to cut the Pretoria-Johannesburg railway.

Government troops have occupied Krugersdorp and Balfourtown. The rebels defended both places sternly, losing heavily.

Government leaders say the whole military situation now favors the government. Nearly 200 have been killed and more than 4,000 wounded in the battle.

All the western and northern side of the Reef are now held by government troops under General Eric. Heavy fighting is anticipated in the Benoni and Brakpan regions.

Continual attacks with airplanes are being carried out against the revolutionaries. The rebels are being bombed and fired upon with machine guns.

The total rebel prisoners captured by the government forces is 2,200, says an official communique issued by General Smuts, the South African premier, who is directing in person the military operations against the revolutionaries.

Pretoria, Union of South Africa, March 15.—Government forces are proceeding with great success against the revolutionaries, according to an official communique. The statement says:

"The total number of prisoners taken in the operations in the central area is 2,200. Our forces occupied with but slight resistance the high ground around Westville. In the eastern area Maj. Gen. Van Deventer's troops forced the revolutionaries to retire into Benoni."

"In the western area our forces reached Krugersdorp (22 miles northwest of Johannesburg) and are now pushing onward. We have occupied Balfourtown, in British Bechuanaland."

The large increase in population is given as the cause for the rise in cost from $985,344 expended in 1920. While the expenditure for individual inmates has been kept at a low figure, the number has risen until at the present time 8,398 insane are in state and county institutions. Make Every Meal A Perfect Feast

Tanlac Makes Each Bite a New Delight

WHEN your digestive system is working efficiently and smoothly, extracting from your food abundant stores of vital energy and piling up a reserve force of vigor to meet any emergency, every bite is eaten with keen zest and appreciation. If your meals are not a real event, if you do not approach the table organ and through ample secretion of digestive fluids. It then promotes energetic action of all the bowels and muscles and glands and enables the food to pass through the digestive canal in the normal time. Each of the thousands of little glands whose duty it is to pick up nourishment from the food and send this to all parts of the body are stimulated to their utmost. The whole result is that food is taken care of without distress of any sort in such manner as to derive the utmost benefit from it. If your appetite is not keen, if your food seems to disagree with you, if you are underweight, nervous, irritable and lack energy, give Tanlac the chance to show you that it can work a miracle.

HIKES TO KEWASKUM AND BACK
 There may be world's champion walkers, etc., but Hartford has a hiker who was not brought to light until this week, he being an old and esteemed resident of this city for the past many years—Xavier Bernhardt, by name, who on Wednesday walked to Kewaskum and back. Mr. Bernhardt made the trip in order to consult with Louis D. Guth, assessor of incomes, in regard to income tax of between $8 and $9, which he found charged against him, and which he claims was wrong. The trip constituted about 48 miles, and considering that Mr. Bernhardt is about 70 years of age, the hike is remarkable. However, for his efforts, he was released from making the payment. Mr. Bernhardt made the walk under very adverse conditions, the roads being soft and muddy and difficult to travel. We doubt if this record of a man of 70 years can be beat anywhere in the county. Mr. Bernhardt is an eccentric sort, and when he found that he had been made the victim of a mistake, set out afoot to see about it.—Hartford Times.

Mrs. W. L. Edmonds. Cedar Rapids, Iowa. "I have taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and found it very helpful in troubles peculiar to women. It is very strengthening to the internal organs and especially does it stimulate suffering at special times and regulates in the proper way. My daughters have also taken the Favorite Prescription with the best of results; they would suffer so at times that they would be compelled to stay home from work, but after taking this medicine they have not suffered since. Favorite Prescription is the best medicine a young woman can take if suffering in this way."

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has made many women happy by making them healthy. Get it at once from your nearest druggist, in either liquid or tablet form. Write Dr. Pierce, Medical Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free advice.

NERVOUS AND HALF-SICK WOMEN

These Letters Recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Will Interest You For Your Own Good Please Read Them. Youngstown, Ohio. "Last fall I began to feel mean and my back hurt me and I could hardly do my little bit of housework. I was played out when I would just strap one room and would have to rest. I would have to put a cushion behind me when I would sit down and at night I could not sleep unless I had something under my back. I had awful cramps every month and was just nearly all in. Finally my husband said to me one day, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine?' and I said, 'I am willing to take anything if it could get well again.' So I took one bottle and a second one and felt better and the neighbors asked me what I was doing and said, 'Surely must be doing you good all right.' I have just finished my eighth bottle and I cannot express to you how I feel, the way I would like to. If you can use this letter you are welcome to it and if any woman does not believe what I have written to be true, she can write to me and I will describe my condition to her as I have to you. Mrs. ELIZABETH REINOLD, 403 N. Pine St., Indianapolis, Indiana. You should pay heed to the experience of these women. They know how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound, and afterwards, too. Their words are true.

She Got the Name. "Marry," said the waitress, "did you ask everyone for cups today, as I told you when they called?" "Yes, one fellow he wouldn't give me no card, but I wiped his hat and showed him off to Steve. He's his name on the second hand." - Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success. An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of one, two, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the paper advertisement.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Hurry, mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has red, cold or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. -Advertisement.

TRUCK GROWERS KEEP FEW COWS

Small Herds of Animals Being Maintained for Purpose of Obtaining Fertilizer.

SURPLUS MATERIAL UTILIZED

Practice of Keeping Live Stock in to Be Strongly Recommended in Sections Where It Can Be Done Profitably. (Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Truck growers and greenhouse men in the Eastern states are finding it increasingly difficult to secure a supply of stable manure, and some growers have adopted the practice of keeping a small herd of cows or other stock for the purpose of utilizing manure, and as a means of supplying surplus or waste material. The problem of maintaining soil fertility under present conditions was discussed at the recent meeting of the Vegetable Growers' Association of America, at Albany, N. Y., and it was the opinion of the vegetable growers and state federal workers present that the practice of keeping live stock is to be strongly recommended in sections where this can be done profitably. Scarcity of Plant Food. The head of the vegetable garden department of the Massachusetts Agricultural college reported that: "A study of the census shows that the decrease in horses in Massachusetts from 1910 to 1920 is such that 13,000 fewer acres can now be furnished with 20 tons of stable manure per acre than in 1910. To offset this loss in plant food, which was formerly obtained from stable manure, will require the expenditure of between $1,200,000 and $1,400,000. Even then we lack that all-important matter of the inoculated organic matter contained in manure and for which no equally efficient substitute has been found. While this disregards the cost of the manure formerly used to supply the plant food, it is probable that it was much less than the cost of the fertilizer now purchased. This problem is not confined to any one state, but with a few local exceptions is being felt throughout the territory in which vegetable crops are grown for the market. At the Lexington (Mass.) field station, which is conducted under the direction of the State College of Agriculture as an experiment station, what are termed "manure economy investigations" are being conducted. In these tests the use of stable manure in moderate quantities is being supplemented

SOME FERTILIZER IS REQUIRED BY ONIONS

Spading Fork Should Be Used in Preparing Soil.

Poultry and Sheep Manure Are Both Good for Crop, but Should Be Used Sparingly—Steel Rake Is Splendid Tool.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Onions require a mellow, rich soil; in fact, very few gardens are rich enough to grow good onions without some fertilizing. In preparing the soil break it up with a spading fork, working into the top three or four inches plenty of well-rotted manure, suggest garden specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Ten pounds of high-grade commercial fertilizer should also be spread over each square rod of ground and well raked into the soil a few days before planting the onion "sets." Poultry and sheep manure are both good fertilizers for onions, but must be used sparingly and well mixed with the soil to prevent burning the onion roots. Onions grow very quickly and require frequent shallow stirring of the surface soil. The usual method is to plant the "sets" in rows about 15 inches apart and 3 to 5 inches apart in the rows, covering them just so the tops will be below the surface. A narrow steel rake is a good tool for working between the rows at first, but later as the onions attain some size a wheel hoe can be used. For the very first workings and for getting between the individual plants in the rows there is nothing better than a short piece of lath with three wire brads driven through it at one end, making what is known as a "scratcher." By and by the onion tops will get so large that they almost fill the spaces between the rows and hand weeding may have to be resorted to in order to keep the crop free from weeds.

About the time the onions begin to enlarge at the base, or to "bottom," as the growers say, it is a good plan to scatter a very little nitrate of soda, not more than two pounds to the square rod, over the soil between the rows and work it in with a hoe or rake. This will stimulate the growth just at the time that the plants most need a little extra food and will usually increase the yield.

FINE SOIL FOR ROOT CROPS

Carrots, Parsnips and Salsify Want to Grow Straight, but Clods Work Injury.

Do you want long, straight carrots, parsnips, and salsify, or crooked, forked ones? Ask your wife; she has to peel them. All these roots have good intentions; they want to keep straight, but they cannot stand adversity nor withstand temptation. If they strike rocks or clods on the way down, they become forked or twisted, and if lumps of stable manure are in the soil, they bend toward these or send out branches in that direction. Dig extra care, making the soil fine and mellow where these crops are to grow, and see that all manure is finely pulverized and all fertilizer thoroughly mixed with the soil.

GROW CROP OF LATE CABBAGE

Land That Has Been Utilized for Peas, Potatoes or Beans Is Usually Made Use of. Late cabbage is usually grown on land that has been utilized for peas, early potatoes or beans during the early part of the season. The seed should be sown in a seed box or a special outdoor bed four to six weeks before the plants are needed for setting. The seed should not be sown too thickly, and it is a good plan to thin the plants to an even stand in the seed bed, so they will develop uniformly. The land on which late cabbage is grown should be well fertilized, and the plants set 18 to 20 inches apart in rows three feet apart.

MONEY FOR CONCRETE ROADS

Sum of $635,000,000 Recently Appropriated by States and Counties for Construction. States and counties of the United States have recently authorized $635,000,000 bonds for road construction, much of it of concrete. $291,000,000 bonds are passing through the process of authorization and the federal government has appropriated $200,000,000 toward road construction, making a total fund of over $1,200,000,000 for good roads.

Early Hatches Are Best

Early spring is nature's most favorable growing season. By hatching chickens early they will have the advantage of this favorable growing season and a longer growing period than those hatched during the late spring or early summer. Experts say that in hatching cows for profitable milk production they should be fed as individuals, and that the largest yield of milk will result when each individual cow is studied, and fed according to its needs. Measuring Rough Feeds. About 475 cubic feet of straw or corn stover in the mow are required to make a ton. About 450 cubic feet of clover and timothy hay in the mow should weigh a ton.

Beautiful Afternoon Frocks; Pretty Things for Tourists

THE afternoon frock—best beloved of all her belongings—pays tribute to woman's beauty in devious ways. Often it is pretty simple, sometimes it is rich and elaborate to the dazzling point, and between these two extremes, in the endlessly varied displays, are still other afternoon frocks in many degrees of excellence as to quality and decorative value. All the seasons of the year are beautifully interpreted in such dresses, the designer using, as a medium of expression, almost any material he will. This

Two Attractive Afternoon Frocks.

For spring and summer, we find on the list tulle, in many colors, founard, crepe de chine, georgette and other crepes, both plain and brocaded, organdy, voile, net and lace. The newest just now is placed on crepes and tulle—the most widely popular of all the materials, but for midsummer voiles and organdies are again foremost. Every sort of decoration clamors to play a part in the adornment of the afternoon frock. It is the two extremes of elaborateness and simplicity that are pictured here, but both these frocks accommodate themselves to many demands. The very handsome dress of rich lace and georgette at the left with a girde of ribbon, would serve for the mutton or honor at a formal wedding, or as a dinner gown, besides fulfilling its mission as an afternoon dress. It is of a light bisque color and has a girde of wide ribbon which may be made in any color that its wearer favors. The pretty tulle dress in the panel is a familiar type, with scalloped tulle over a plain skirt. In changeable or light colors and furnished up with flowers on the girde, it might well follow the bride altarward, as a dress are modish. Here, at the right of the picture, is one in light velours. It is a medium gray in color, with a decoration of white braid that resembles a heavy stitching about the lower part and on the collar. Large buttons in very dark gray and black are effectively used with the braid for trimming.

Vagaries of New Capes. Trimming on the new spring coats and wraps is decidedly varied, braids and embroideries are much used, of course, with applique work also favored. Satin and cre ribbon are seen frequently as trimming for collar, edge of cape and sleeves. A new style feature sponsored by some of the French designers is the frock that matches the lining of the accompanying cape or coat. For example, a lovely straight-line dress of plain silk crepe with a navy background was accompanied by a straight-line cape of the plain navy lined half way up with plaid. The effect was distinctly charming. To Sharpen Knives. A good steel kept in the kitchen table drawer is invaluable for keeping knives up to the desirable degree of sharpness. A sharp bread knife cuts much neater, thinner slices of bread than a dull knife; besides a good housewife, like a good workman, keeps her tools in excellent condition.

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE PROUD PONY

"There are people," said the pony, "who have thought they would like to be the troupe performers in the circus, swinging and doing tricks. They think it would be nice to be looked up to like that and admired. But I am not only a pony! I have something else of which to be proud. 'I have been in the circus quite a long time, and of that I am very proud, for I find the circus life pleasant, most pleasant. "When first I was in the circus I used to feel a bit shy. I used to think it was enough to make a pony shy to be such a troupe performer in the circus, but I soon grew to like it and I was patted, and I was loved and my nice long mane was stroked and smoothed. "Well, I must tell you about those days in the circus at first. "We were in a small town, and when I say 'we' I mean the circus of course. "We were to have a parade that morning and we were fixing up the tents down on the Fair Grounds when the circus performers were to be given in the afternoon and evening. "So we were very busy getting ready for the performances and also getting ready for the parade. "There were a number of little boys around the Fair Grounds that morning who didn't belong to the circus and there were a number of big boys too. There was one particular little boy with lovely blue eyes I took a great fancy to, and he took a great fancy to me. "Neigh, neigh," I said, and he answered, "Oh, you adorable little pony, you're a perfect peach!" "Now of course I knew I wasn't a peach at all. I didn't quite know what he meant, though I knew from his tone that he thought I was very nice. "I puzzled a bit over being called a peach. I've never yet known a pony who was a peach, and I've never known a peach that was a pony. "Ponches are things people eat! They don't eat ponies I'm very thankful to say. "But I found out afterward that peach was a slang expression meaning something very fine so that when he called me a peach he meant I was a peach of a pony or a very fine pony. "He asked the circus manager if he could lead me through the streets for the parade, and I wish you could have seen his joy when the circus manager said, "Yes, indeed!" "Well, the little boy with the blue eyes led me through the street, and I can tell you I was proud and I was good. "For who do you think that little boy was, or rather who do you think that little boy is now?" "The other animals shook their heads. "We don't know," they said. "That little boy is now less than the young man Dexter Follows you all know here, who helps to manage the circus. "We certainly all know him and think mighty well of him too," they said. "Yes, it was little Dexter Follows who led me through the streets that day, and so I am very proud, for it isn't every, if any, pony who can say that. "Think of the honor of being led by little Dexter Follows!" "It was a great honor," all the animals said. "He has many, many friends," the pony continued. "I believe every one likes the young man Dexter Follows, just as they all liked the little boy Dexter Follows, but I know something else too." "What is that?" the other animals asked. "I know there is no one, in or out of the circus, who cares for him like his little friend the pony who is so proud to have known him longer than the others. "He is always doing kind things for other people, he never gets tired of being kind. And I think I know the reason why. Neigh, neigh, or in other words, yes, yes, for my neigh is different from a person's 'Nay,' yes, yes," the pony repeated. "I think I know the reason why. And that is because he is so full of kindness that he simply cannot run out of it!"

HUGHES WROTE 4-PLY TREATY

Secretary of State Settles Authorship of Much Discussed Document.

NOTHING PUT OVER ON U. S.

Declares All Negotiations Relating to the Pact Were Conducted Within Limitations Defined by the American Government.

Washington, March 14.—Secretary of State Hughes wrote the four-power Pacific treaty.

The secretary himself volunteered this information to Democrats. In a letter to Senator Underwood, Democratic senate leader and member of the American delegation, Secretary Hughes disposes of the authorship issue and characterizes intimations that the American delegates were induced to accept a cunningly contrived foreign scheme opposed to American interests as "a very poor and erroneous conception of the work in connection with the conference."

"I understand," the secretary wrote, "that in the course of debate in the senate upon the four-power treaty questions have been raised with respect to its authorship. It seems to be implied that in some way the American delegates have been imposed upon, or that they were induced to accept some plan cunningly contrived by others and opposed to our interests."

"Apart from the reflection upon the competency of the American delegates, such intimations betray a very poor and erroneous conception of the work in connection with the conference, no part of which—whether within or outside the conference meetings—was begun, prosecuted or concluded in intrigue. Nothing could be farther from the fact."

"It is, of course, wholly inconsistent with the amenities of international intercourse that the informal and confidential suggestions and conversations incident to negotiations should be stated, but the senate may be assured that a full disclosure of everything said or done in the course of the negotiations would reveal nothing derogatory to the part taken by any of the American delegates, or invite any position not entirely consistent with the traditional policies of this government."

"It should be remembered that the four-power treaty dealt with a subject—the Anglo-Japanese alliance—which as an agreement between two powers competent to make and continue it, was not, and in the nature of things could not be, appropriately placed upon the agenda. Technically it was a matter outside the conference."

"While I cannot, of course, undertake to state what was proposed or suggested in confidence by any of the delegates I think it entirely proper to say that the negotiations relating to the four-power treaty were conducted within limitations defined by the American government."

"The views of this government as to the importance of the termination of the Anglo-Japanese alliance had been communicated long before the conference met and it had also been clearly stated that this government could enter into no alliance or make any commitment of the use of arms or which would impose any sort of obligation as to its relations in future contingencies. It must deal with any emergency according to its constitutional methods."

"In preparation for the conference, the American delegates reviewed the matter thoroughly and the entire course of the negotiations in connection with the four-power treaty was in full view of the committee, and, as I have said, within the limits which we defined."

"The treaty itself is very short and simple, and is perfectly clear. It requires no commentary. Its obligations are easily understood and no ambiguity in argument or hostile criticism can add to them or make them other or greater than its unequivocal language sets forth. There are no secret notes or understandings."

"In view of this, the question of authorship is unimportant. It was signed by four powers whose delegates, respectively adopted it, all having made various suggestions."

TO WAR ON FLOATING BARS

Plan to Establish "Recreation Vessels" Outside Three-Mile Limit Off New York to Be Fought.

Washington, March 13.—War on all floating bars, even when off the three-mile limit, was declared by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

A plan to establish a "recreation vessel" on which alcoholic beverages would be sold beyond the three-mile limit in the vicinity of New York city called forth the commissioner's declaration of hostilities.

Replying to a letter sent him by James V. Martin of the Recreation Ticket company of New York, who plans to establish such a vessel, Commissioner Haynes expressed the conviction that the single legal authority would be found to prevent the operation of the "recreation vessel," even when outside the territorial waters of the United States.

If present laws are not sufficient, he will appeal to congress for additional legislation, Commissioner Haynes declared.

THE COTTAGE GARDENER

TRAINING TO STAKES

Growing Vegetables and Flowers Upright Saves Space.

Better Results Are Obtained From Most Plants by Keeping Them Off the Ground.

A good supply of large and small stakes is not a bad guess for the cottage gardener. There are some vegetables that will give better results by being trained to stakes than if allowed to spread out on the ground. Often this is not only better for the vegetables, but it saves the space for planting some other crop. The same is true of some flowering plants that otherwise might spread over several feet of space. Most plants look better when properly staked and kept pruned. Sub and plenty of air are necessary to almost any vegetable or flowering plant. Stakes can be used for several seasons if cared for after the growing season is over.

KEEP THE WEEDS OUT

Get After the Pests Before They Take Your Garden.

General Weeding Every Few Days Will Assure Grower Garden to Be Proud Of.

"Keep the weeds out!" To have a garden, either vegetable or flower garden, it is necessary to not only keep the weeds out, but to kill them.

Weeds absorb the life of the soil. They grow fast, and if allowed to get a start are hard to fight with any degree of success. The best time to get the weeds and to keep them out of the garden is to pull them out as fast as they appear. By weeding the garden and posy bed every few days, there will be no trouble from the obnoxious pest.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE HOME GARDEN

Don't brag about your garden, but dig and keep on digging.

"A little land and a living" was written by a man who grew a good home garden.

Plants cannot thrive with their roots in water. Soil must be well drained if garden crops are to succeed.

Smooth and attractive root crops cannot be grown on rough land. It pays to prepare the soil thoroughly before planting.

It does not take a very large piece of land to produce all the food for a human being, and there is still enough idle land in and around cities and towns to grow all the vegetables of certain kinds required by the people of these towns.

A weed is any plant in the wrong place. Vegetables too close together are as injurious to each other as

BEEES AND THE GARDEN

Honey-makers Gather the Sweet From Blossoms.

Do Excellent Service in Carrying Pollen From One Plant to Another—They Are Worth While.

Honey bees—two or three hives of them—will prove a valuable investment to the back yard gardener. Most back yards have enough small fruit trees, flowers and blossoming vegetables to provide attraction for the bees. They are among the busiest invaders of the growing vegetation, and there are not many blossoms which they will pass by—and, at the same time, they carry the pollen from one plant to another. This is absolutely necessary, in some way, to cause the plants to produce. When bees and birds do not carry the pollen from one plant to another about the only other chance is for the wind to perform the service. Let the bees do this important duty whether they are honey or other kinds of bees.

GET THE BUGS EARLY

Garden May Be Destroyed Unless Insects Are Killed.

Generous and Frequent Sprayings Are Necessary to Insure Returns to Industrious Gardener.

One of the principal of the numerous slugs of the successful cottage gardener is "Get the Bugs—and Get 'Em Early!" Unless the bugs are killed before they have time to breed, the gardener has about as many troubles as he has when he has neglected the weeds.

The majority of young plants are infested with different kinds of bugs. Flowers usually are as badly affected as vegetables. The United States Department of Agriculture says:

One of the principal methods of combating both diseases and insects which attack plants is treatment with fungicides and insecticides.

Bordeaux mixture is used for a control of fungous diseases of many vegetables and fruits and as a deterrent of flea-beetle attack. It can be purchased in convenient package form from seed dealers or prepared at home from bluestone (copper sulphate), which costs 10 to 25 cents per pound, and fresh stone or lump lime (quicklime).

Bluestone, four ounces; quicklime, four ounces; water, 32 quarts, or bluestone, four pounds; quicklime, four pounds; water, 50 gallons.

Dissolve the blue stone in a wooden or earthenware vessel, using hot water. Dilute with half the water. Do not use tin or other metal containers, as they would be spoiled. Slake the lime by adding water, a little at a time. When reduced to a milky fluid, dilute with the rest of the water and strain through doubled cheesecloth or a brass wire strainer of 12 meshes per inch and pour into the bluestone solution. Stir well and apply at once. This is best when prepared fresh for each using.

The Jerusalem artichoke will grow in any good garden soil, and should be planted three to four feet apart each way, with three or four small tubers in a hill. If large tubers are used for planting, they should be cut like Irish potatoes. Plant as soon as the ground becomes warm in the spring and cultivate as for corn. A pint of tubers cut to eyes will plant about 30 hills. The tubers will be ready for use in October, but may remain in the ground and be dug at any time during the winter. The tubers are prepared by boiling until soft, and are served with butter or cream. They are also used for salads and pickles.

His Honor's Guess.
In Ireland some years ago an Irish-American was brought up before Justice Barry on the charge of suspicious conduct. The officer who arrested him stated, among other things, that he was wearing a "republican hat."

"Does your honor know what that hat?" asked the counsel.
"It may be," responded the judge, "that it's a hat without a crown."

TOO MUCH FOR GRANDMOTHER
Mathematical Problem, Old Lady Decided, Was Something That "No Fellow Could Understand."

The little girl at the elementary school had been promoted to multiplication and for her home work was set the task of finding out how many legs 400 normal horses possess. A bit puzzled as how to work it out, in the evening, as she sat up her exercise book in front of her, she called in the services of her grandmother.

"Let's see," said Grandma, adjusting her spectacles, "one horse'll have four legs, two eight, three twelve, four sixteen, five twenty—" and then she looks off. "How many horses did you say?" she asked.
"Four hundred, granny," replied the little girl.
"E-e-e, child," said the old lady, shutting up the book, "there isn't one living could do that sum."

Mrs. Jones found Mrs. Smith, the aviator's wife, in tears.
"Whatever is the matter, my dear?" she asked, anxiously.
"I'm worrying about Harold," said Mrs. Smith. "He's been trying for a week to kill our cat, and as a last resource he took her up in his plane. He said he would take her up two thousand feet and drop her over the house."

"Well, what is there to worry about?"
"Lots," exclaimed the frantic woman. "Harold isn't home yet, and the cat is."

More Goodyear Tires Used Than Any Other Kind—Why?
Why is it that more car owners use GOODYEAR Tires and Tubes than any other kind? Why is it that automobile manufacturers use more Goodyear Tires as original equipment than any other kind? Why is it that so many of the world's famous racing drivers show a marked preference for Goodyears? Why is it that more dealers sell Goodyear Tires and Tubes than any other kind? Why is it that, as a rule, the best dealers handle Goodyear Tires?
