POST TREATMENT IS MONEY SAVER

Experiments at Iowa College With Water Gas Tar in Conjunction With Creosote.

BY-PRODUCT OF GAS PLANTS

Creosoting Will Lengthen Life of Posts of Any Kind of Wood—Especially Valuable With Cottonwood or Willow.

A new economy in the preservative treatment of fence posts is in sight, if experiments with the use of water gas tar in conjunction with creosote, which are being conducted by foresters of the Iowa agricultural experiment station, justify the belief that the tar can be utilized.

Water gas tar, a by-product of artificial gas plants, is much cheaper than creosote. The purpose of the experiments is to determine whether or not the tar can be successfully used in a mixture with the creosote and in what proportions to give the best results.

The economic value of the preservative treatment of posts has been demonstrated in many cases, says G. B. MacDonnell, head of the forestry department at the college. Creosoting will lengthen the life of posts of any kind of wood, but it is especially valuable with soft woods.

Tests have shown that such soft woods as willow and cottonwood, which last only three or four years if untreated, will serve as posts for from 20 to 25 years when treated. This fact makes possible the utilization by the farmer of woods of this kind on the farm which would otherwise be practically useless.

It is practicable, Mr. MacDonnell points out, for a farmer to set out a small plantation of quick-growing trees, such as the cottonwood, and in five or six years have the start of a permanent supply of posts. It is estimated that a post per acre is needed every year. A considerable saving can be made by the farmer who grows and treats his own posts.

Two methods of creosoting posts are recommended by Mr. MacDonnell, one in which one tank is used and another which requires two tanks. In the first method posts are put into the creosote tank with the creosote at a high temperature, and are allowed to cool in the same tank. When two tanks are used the posts are transferred, after their bath in the hot creosote, to the other tank, which contains cold creosote.

On medium-sized farms, where 100 or more posts are needed annually, a satisfactory treating tank, made of galvanized iron, about 36 inches in diameter and 48 inches high, can be purchased for about $10.

This tank is mounted about a foot from the ground on a brick foundation, which contains a firebox. Wood is used for fuel. If the posts are to be given a top as well as a butt treatment, they can be inverted in the tank. This should be done in the case of soft woods.

In the single tank treatment the creosote is heated to a temperature of 200 to 220 degrees Fahrenheit. Enough creosote is put into the tank to submerge the lower three or three and one-half feet of the posts. The temperature is maintained at about 220 degrees for from two to six hours, depending upon the kind of wood being treated. The harder the wood the longer it should be immersed. The use is allowed to lie down and the posts are left in the cold creosote for from four to fourteen hours.

If two tanks are used the water can be speeded up, since the cold bath is applied in the second tank. The creosote should penetrate the posts to a depth of from one-quarter to one inch. Tests should be made to see that this penetration is secured.

NO SECRETS WITH CHICKENS

Nothing but Hard Work, Painstaking Thought and Firm Determination to Make Success.

There are no short cuts in the poultry business, no secrets and no schemes save those of hard work, painstaking thought and firm determination to make a success. This sounds a little contrary to the general idea of poultry, but it is true just the same.

Feeding Milk to Poultry.

Sweet or sour milk is about equally good for poultry, but it ought always to be the same. You can keep sour milk sour but you can't always keep sweet milk sweet.

Animal Protein Needed. Unless animal protein in sufficient quantity is present the hen will be unable to utilize the vegetable protein in the ration to the best advantage.

SILAGE MIXTURE TO FINISH OFF CATTLE

Steers Make More Economical Gains and Shrink Less.

Test Made by Department of Agriculture in Co-Operation With Louisiana Station—Value of Different Crops Worked Out.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

To get results economically most cattle feeders should use some kind of silage in the rations, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Steers fed on silage usually not only make more economical gains, shrink less, and make more profits than steers fed on dry roughage, but also take it possible to utilize crops grown primarily in a rotation for restoring the fertility of worn-out lands.

The comparative value of a number of different silage crops for steer feeding was recently worked out by the department in co-operation with the Louisiana experiment station. In one instance similar lots of cattle were fed a ration of cottonseed meal and blackstrap molasses in combination with corn silage, corn and Biloxi soy-bean silage, sorghum silage, sorghum and Biloxi soy-bean silage.

The best gain was made by the steers fed the straight corn silage, but it was shown that the capacity of a farm for fattening or wintering cattle may be greatly increased by the use of heavy-yielding silage crops such as sorghum and Japanese cane. Immature Biloxi soy beans mixed with corn or sorghum were not so satisfactory, but with late-maturing crops like Japanese cane these silages gave very good results. Sorghum silage and Japanese cane and Biloxi soy-bean silage are practically equal in feeding value for steers when supplemented by cottonseed meal and molasses.

TIME TO SOW SWEET CLOVER

Best Plan Is to Plant in Winter or Spring With Nurse Crop or During Mid-Summer.

It is not generally recommended that sweet clover be sown in corn in the fall. A better way is to sow it either in the winter or spring with a nurse crop or during mid-summer on a firm seed bed free of other crops. By having a compact seed bed and giving a heavy application of seed, it is possible that a good stand can be secured in standing corn but much depends upon the weather. An added advantage results from cutting the corn off for silage, since this gives the small plants more sunlight. There is great risk, however, in sowing any kind of seed in corn after the last cultivation because of the usual dry weather period that follows. Some farmers make a success of this sort of seeding but ordinarily it is a better policy to seed in another way if that is possible.

RECIPE FOR FLY REPELLENT

Cattle Can Be Greatly Relieved From Pests by Application of Coal-Tar Mixture.

Cattle can be greatly relieved from flies by spraying in the morning before going to pasture with some fly spray. For this the following homemade spray is efficient and cheap: Four and one-half quarts coal-tar dip, four and one-half quarts fish oil, three quarts cod oil, three quarts white oil, one and one-half quarts of tar, three pounds laundry soap.

Dissolve the laundry soap in water and mix the other ingredients thoroughly and bring the whole up to 30 gallons. This spray can be applied with an ordinary spray pump and will give relief from flies the greater part of the day.

Some provision for shade will offer relief to a certain extent from heat.

SPRAY POTATO LEAF HOPPER

Bordeaux Mixture Should Be Applied Thoroughly to Under Side of the Leaves.

You can get the potato leaf hopper by using Bordeaux mixture. The formula employed consists of four pounds of copper sulphate, four pounds of unslaked lime to fifty gallons of water. The spray should be applied to the under side of the leaves thoroughly, using at least 150 pounds pressure. This pressure gives a fine mist spray. At least three applications are recommended and a fourth might be given to advantage. Both sides of each row should be thoroughly sprayed to make the job complete.

Grow Fowls Carefully.

Grow the chicks and pullets carefully. If any show signs of weakness during development either dispose of them or mark them so they can be kept out of the breeding pen.

Equal Feed for Calves. Where calves are turned together in pasture some arrangements should be provided so that at feeding time each calf will receive its regular amount of feed.

School Frocks Are Simple; Among the New Fall Hats

DRESSING with propriety, and therefore with some measure of charm, is one of the things that the best schools require of their attendants. It seems that this is a matter that cannot be left to the judgment of the girls themselves and mothers are sometimes more indulgent than sensible, so that many schools dictate as to what shall be worn to school. Simplicity and neatness are two essentials of the school dress, quiet color and durability are others. Navy hats are the most engaging item. Now that the time has come for school or college, the matter of her headwear must be disposed of; once it is off her mind there will be a chance for other things to occupy it.

Two Pretty "Off-to-School" Frocks.

blue is the favorite color and deserves to be, and strong woolsens, like serge or twill, the fabrics chosen by most schools. Mothers who govern themselves by these restrictions are certain to be credited with good taste.

"Off to school" is written in the lines of the dark frock of poorest twill at the left of the frocks shown here and it is to be imagined in navy and gray, brown and tan or navy with green or red. Vests, with collar and cuffs to match, are usually made of a wash material and detachable so that they can be kept always fresh and crisp. Various kinds of ties, of cord or ribbon, write "links" with a pretty little flourish, on the school dress.

The pretty model for leisure afternoons, at the right, presents some new style points. It is made of one of those velvety wool fabrics much like dayvetyn, and has a semi-fitted bodice with full skirt gathered and set on with a piping of covered cord. The bodice is covered by parallel rows of silk stitches and has a novel drapery, ending in points that support tassels. Little silver buttons twinkle along one edge of the drapery and the flaring sleeves repeat the decoration on the bodice in a graceful pattern.

colored fabrics. A bright green Swiss dotted in white was used to fashion a frock for a 4-year-old girl, the collar, cuffs and sash being of plain white organdie. This dress was accompanied by a matching sunbonnet, having wide frilled scoop and little ruffled ties that fastened beneath the chin.

Delicate Designs. Sateen and challis, with small delicate designs, are favored materials for simple one-piece frocks.

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use that same infant. Either practice is to regulate the delicate organism of the baby by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

CLIENT "SPILLED THE BEANS"

Altogether Too Truthful in Answering Question Put to Him by His Own Attorney.

"Were I giving advice to a young lawyer," said an attorney the other day, "I would advise him to be careful about placing his client on the stand. It is at least as well to know what he is likely to answer to his attorney's leading questions. Some time ago," continued the lawyer, "a case was tried in which the plaintiff's attorney certainly 'spilled the beans,' though actually it was a cargo of bread, rolls and cake that was upset. A baker's wagon had been hit by a train in spite of the 'Stop, Look, Listen' sign, and the driver sued. On the stand he was asked how he conducted himself when he came to the crossing, and he replied: 'I just trotted gently across, looking the other way and thinking about nothing in particular.' The attorney threw up the case on the spot, but it was really a lack of foresight on his part," continued the narrator.

Amundsen's Ultimate Object. Captain Amundsen's plan is to make his base at Cape Barrow. From thence he proposes to cover by the air route the 1,275 miles to the North pole. His ultimate goal is Cape Columbia another 485 miles distant, making a total distance of 1,760 miles. As he will doubtless be compelled to deviate from the straight course, this estimates that he will cover approximately 2,000 miles. Just how he will recognize the actual pole is not quite clear, as it is not distinguished by any particular physical features. He will, however, be able to discover what chances there are for carrying out his projected drift in a vessel across the polar basin which is his main purpose in flying over the top of the earth.

His Inference. Tobe Smathers and Gabe Gunshun of the Mount Piggy region of the Ozarks were guests of a hotel in the Big Burg lately. Some time after they had retired for the night they were rudely awakened by the fire chief's car rapping past with its siren screeching in an unknown tongue.

Don't Kill Bullsnakes. Kansas farmers find that a bit snake in an alfalfa field is worth at least $2.50 a month, says the Scientific American, for an acre worth on an average, six pounds worth of damage the crop to that extent an adult bullsnake keeps an acre of alfalfa free from the pest. The bullsnake is a beneficial animal and more should be kept on farms and more should be protected by the farmer.

Geophone Aid in Mine Disasters

Instrument Developed During World War Has Been Perfected by Engineers.

EXPERIMENTS PROVE VALUE

Detects Subterranean Sounds at Great Distance—Has Many Uses, but Its Advantage in Mine Rescue Work Most Important.

Washington—As the result of experiments made by the bureau of mines, the geophone, a novel instrument which will detect the reek and slaughter of earth and rock sounds, made in the construction of military mines and tunnels, promises to become an active factor in the saving of the lives of miners entombed as the result of fires and explosions.

In the course of tests conducted in the Pennsylvania experimental coal mine near Pittsburgh, blows with a sledge on the coal face were heard by means of the geophone at a distance of 650 feet with various rooms and entries intervening. On a suspended pipe line light hammering with the knuckle was detected at a distance of 1,200 feet. Ordinary talking and singing could be detected through 150 feet of solid coal. By the use of two geophones, one instrument to each ear, it is possible to determine the direction from which a sound is coming and thus to locate the approximate position of the entombed miner.

Another promising use of the geophone is in the location of leaks in water pipes. By means of the instrument it is possible to hear water circulating in the pipes of ordinary city mains situated ten to fifteen feet below the surface. Tests conducted at a busy corner in the downtown district of Pittsburgh located a leak in a water main which the water company had sought to detect for two weeks vainly.

Sensitive, but simple. The mine geophone is sensitive, yet extremely simple and easily portable. The instrument was invented by the French during the war to detect sniping and underground mining operations. It was developed by the United States engineers, and the instruments now used by the bureau of mines were made according to plans drawn by them, except for the introduction of the pendulous apparatus that records earthquake tremors. It really consists of a lead weight suspended between two elastic diaphragms cutting across a small airtight box. If the instrument is placed on the ground and any one is pounding or digging in the vicinity, the vibrations are transmitted as waves motion to the earth, and the earth waves shake the geophone case. The geophone, therefore, transforms the earth wave into an air wave, which is heard by the ear as sound, and at the same time magnifies the wave so that the sound is louder than if the ears were placed in direct contact with the earth.

The observations of the bureau of mines indicate that the geophone should be quite useful in the location of mine fires. Usually a mine fire makes enough noise, either by drawing air or by breaking off slate and coal, to be heard for a considerable distance through the coal, and even through the strata above. The distance that these sounds can be heard depends a great deal on the nature of the strata above the mine, yet the sounds originating at a mine fire should be detected through 100 to 300 feet of cover and through 500 to 800 feet of coal.

Aids Mine Engineering. Geophones supply a quick and fairly accurate method of mine surveying. If two tunnels are being brought together from any direction, the progress of the tunnels could be observed by means of the geophones, and their relative positions determined. Another application of the possibilities of the instrument in mine surveying is in the prevention of accidents in blasting through. If two tunnels are approaching each other, or are pressing a short distance apart, it is necessary to determine the relative location in order that men may be warned to keep away from the point of danger. As the sounds transmitted through the geophone are so characteristic, frequent observation would enable a trained observer to follow the progress of the work in the opposite tunnel. He would thus be able to tell when blasts were to be fired. No attempt has been made to adapt the geophone to determine the earth movements that sometimes occur in deep mines and are termed "bumps" by the miners. It is probable, however, that this instrument may be of use in certain parts of the anthracite coal fields, where cave-ins have destroyed mine workings, causing loss of life, surface subsidence and injury and destruction of buildings.

The manifest advantage of the geophone for use in mine rescue work has led the bureau of mines to place the instrument on its mine-rescue cars, which are constantly being called to assist in the succor of entombed men at mine fires and explosions.

Another promising use of the geophone is in the location of leaks in water pipes. By means of the instrument it is possible to hear water circulating in the pipes of ordinary city mains situated ten to fifteen feet below the surface. Tests conducted at a busy corner in the downtown district of Pittsburgh located a leak in a water main which the water company had sought to detect for two weeks vainly.

FLAP! FLAP! FLAP!

By DORRIS CAMPBELL

(© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) Anna, serious, auburn-haired, is the middle one of the trio—midway to complexion, age and height between Gertrude, their brunette leader, and the petite and very blonde Ruth.

When Gert blew herself to a tweed suit, Nan and Ruth did likewise. So when Gert bobbed her hair, invested in some low-heeled, broad-strapped pumps, a walking stick and cigarette case, Nan and Ruth followed suit as a matter of course.

Flap! Flap! Flap! Belleville was scandalized. "Bold" and "shameless" were about the mildest words used to describe them. Were their folks crazy to let them carry on so? No, no one had actually seen them smoking. But of course they did. And Ruth had slipped on a banana skin, and when she fell you could see, with only one eye, that her stockings didn't cover up her knees!!! Scandalous, that's what!

Flap! Flap! Flap! But more about that banana skin—a most important item. The girls had started for a dressmaker's, on the outskirts of the town. Ruth got such a bang when she fell she decided to sit in the park and wait for them. So over she hobbled to a seat nearly hidden by shrubbery, after buying a magazine.

Larry had begged Gert that morning to meet him in the park that afternoon, to hear something important. But Gert was a tease and she only laughed and said not to expect her till he saw her. Larry was really serious, and though he had the idea of being fortunate enough to find her, he walked through the park.

Stammering along gloomily, he saw a flash of green that nature never produced. Moving closer, he saw, through the slats in the back of the bench, a pert green dress, ruffling and billowing over the seat. The wearer was almost hidden by a monstrous and drooping hat.

"She came!" he exclaimed, his heart pounding furiously with joy. "She does care, after all!"

Silently he approached the seat; leaning over till it seemed he would lose his balance, and land in her lap, he boldly embraced and kissed her.

Slap! Slap! S—Oh, Larry!!! It's only you!" with relief. "But what do you mean by kissing me?"

"Ruthie! I thought it was Gert. I asked her to meet me here today. She said she would, but I thought she had come—and it's only you!" Ruth had to laugh in spite of the real tragedy in his forlorn face.

"You really do care a great deal for Gert, don't you? Tell me about it, Larry." Misery loves company, and Larry spilled his woes.

"What will you give me if Gert becomes engaged to you within a month?"

"Anything you like!" "Chocolate, then. And I shall select the biggest box in town."

"The biggest and best, Ruthie—half a dozen of 'em—but, how'll you work it?"

"Leave it to me. You don't know Ruthie like I do. Ruthie's got brains, even if she doesn't look it! Seriously, it looks very simple, Larry—only—if I have to tell Nan, and perhaps one or two others."

It all being, Ruth figured, on Gert's being a born leader. As truly as she loved Nan and Ruth, she liked to be first, but she wanted them to follow. Nan agreed that Ruth's plan would be ridiculously easy.

With the aid of Nan's cousin Dick, who had always thought Ruthie pretty nice, and his friend, Bob, who was quite content to "beam" Nan around, there came a change, subtle at first, then most pronounced. Nan and Ruth mentioned Bob and Dick more and more often before Gert, at first ridiculing their invitations, then admitting their attractive qualities, until finally Gert, assured that it would not be long before she would be practically deserted for the two men, passed from uneasiness to decision.

"I'll just have to beat them to it," she determined, and to Larry's great joy, accepted his invitation to the fourth of July celebration and dance. Then she accepted other ones, also books and candy, and wonder of wonders! invited Nan to supper one Sunday. When Larry went home that night he left a kiss on Gert's lips—and a ring on her finger.

"Three weeks," he murmured admiringly. "Gosh, Ruth is sure some girl!" It wasn't long before Nan, and Ruth, too, were engaged, and that fall there was a triple wedding.

They kept their becoming bobbed hair, but the walking sticks were discarded to Belleville's satisfaction, and the cigarette cases were attached to masculine watch chains. And there were confessions—terrible ones, which would have horrified Belleville.

"We tried to smoke," shyly, "once. Gee! but weren't we ill? There were deep masculine chuckles, perhaps at remembering personal experiences, perhaps not.

"And we tried to learn to sew—swear—real casually you know. Just for fun. But the most we could manage without feeling wicked was 'damn!'" "How! how!" exploded the cruel husbands. "Some flappers!" Flap. . . .

Paris Has Many Widows. According to a recent census, there are only 51,000 widowers in Paris against almost 226,000 widows. Among the unmarried, there is a majority of 500,000 women out of a total of both sexes of 1,200,000. These figures tell very clearly the story of what war cost the French capital.

CROPS ALL GOOD

Western Canada Farmers Jubilant Over Prospects.

Harvest in Southwestern Manitoba Expected to Come Back to Bumper Yield of 1915.

Those who have friends in Western Canada will be anxious to learn of the conditions there, and will be interested in knowing that generally the crop prospect is very favorable. Cutting and harvesting have become general, and it is anticipated that the results which will appear when threshing is completed will be highly satisfactory. With the widely varying weather conditions that have prevailed in the different sections of the prairie provinces it would be impossible to forecast with any degree of accuracy as to how the crop is made. The Manitoba crop has held its own, and the outlook for the province as a whole is decidedly good.

With the exception of an area south and west of Brandon, grain crops in Manitoba continue to give promise of a good harvest, the best in fact for a number of seasons, reports the Canadian National Railways for the week ended July 22. Recent rains and favorable temperatures have improved conditions wonderfully.

Southwestern Manitoba will reap a harvest which will nearly equal the bumper harvest of 1915. Farmers in the district are very optimistic. The rice crop is exceptionally good; many fields will yield upwards of 30 bushels per acre. The fields are remarkably free of weeds, and the grasshopper menace, which has been evident in the southwestern portion of the province for the past three years, has been almost entirely obliterated. No damage has been done to the wheat crop by rust, and the oats crop will average more than 40 bushels to the acre.

In Saskatchewan there are large areas where the crops are excellent. In places where the prospects some few weeks ago were not encouraging, material change for the better is apparent. In these places unusually dry weather during a portion of the growing season kept the crops back, but what was most remarkable was the effect that the spring moisture had. While light in some places, this moisture kept sufficient strength in the growing crops to ensure a fair yield of a good quality of grain. This condition arises in the mid-central districts of the province.

The southern portions of the province have been exceptionally favored, reports showing that the yield of all grains will be wonderfully good. The crops of all Saskatchewan are a week or ten days later than those of Manitoba.

Conditions in Alberta are said to be good, especially in southern Alberta, where copious and plentiful showers came in time to give assurance of good paying yields. This applies to nearly all sections of that district.

Northern Alberta, or at least that portion of it lying within thirty miles of Edmonton, has suffered from lack of moisture, a very unusual thing for that district, where there is generally an abundance. As a result, the heavy yields of wheat, oats and barley for which the district is noted will show considerable falling off over past years. The grain, though, is of excellent quality and the yield will be fair.

Pasturage is poor, and the hay crop will fall short of that of any previous year for quite an extended period.

On the whole, the prairie provinces of Western Canada will have a crop that will warrant the statement that it will prove satisfactory and remunerative.

A number of farmers put in corn this year, and from present appearances there is a likelihood of an abundant yield for fodder and ensilage, while a good deal of it will fully mature. A number of silos were erected this season. While corn growing is losing none of its interest, it is highly pleasing to note the number of farmers who are adding dairying to the grain growing industry.—Advertisement.

The essence of power lies in reserve.

ALWAYS TIRED NO AMBITION

Nervous and Dizzy, Everything Seemed to Worry Me. How I Got Well

Larwill, Indiana.—"My back was so bad I could not do my washing. I was always tired out and had no ambition, was nervous and dizzy and everything seemed to worry me and I had awful pains in my right side. I felt badly about four years and could not do my work as it should have been done. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised so much and it did so many people good that I began to take it myself. I am feeling fine now and every one tells me they never saw me looking so well. I live on a farm, do all my work, and have three little girls to take care of. I am recommending this medicine to my friends and know it will help them if they use it like I do."—Mrs. HERBERT LONG, R. R. 3, Box 7, Larwill, Indiana.

Many women keep about their work when it is a great effort. They are always tired out and have no ambition. When you are in this condition give it prompt attention. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it is especially adapted to correct such troubles, as it did for Mrs. Long.

May Be Official Home of Gotham's Mayor

Residence of the late Bishop Potter, at Eighty-ninth street and Riverside drive, New York, recently purchased for an unknown client, is believed to be the site chosen as the official residence for New York city's mayor. The building is of colonial design, and will, according to rumor, be presented to the city for use as the mayor's home.

When they were delivered to him in sixteen certificates of 100,000 each he found, by examining the rate of exchange at the present time, that the "fortune" was worth just $3.20. Before the war this amount would have been worth $500,000.

ALCOHOLIC DEATHS ON INCREASE

New York Medical Examiner Reports 89 Pct. Over 1920 and 27 Pct. Over 1921. New York.—An increase of nearly 80 per cent in alcoholic deaths this year over those of 1920 and 27 per cent over 1921 has been reported by the chief medical examiner for New York. The report shows that eighty persons died of alcoholism in the first six months of this year. These include only victims who died without medical attention. Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner, said many others probably died of alcoholism who were attended by private physicians. The total number of alcoholic deaths for 1921 totaled 127, or 33 less than the total will be for this year if the present rate is maintained.

Run Your Eyes Over These Best-yet Features:

1. Roller Bearings. Roller bearings at seven points—the only spreader so equipped.
2. Double Ratchet Drive. Walking beam transmission from main axle eccentric and extra large ratchet wheel give easy, strong, steady feed. No pounding or jerking, due to extra-long movement of pawls on ratchet wheel—only two power impulses on ratchet for every revolution of 46-inch drive wheels. Six tapered to eliminate friction on box sides. Six feed speeds.
3. Oscillating Front Axle. Auto-type, permitting short turn. No pole slipping. No strain on frame.
4. Power: Both Wheels. Power is transmitted direct from main axle to beaters, wide-spread spiral and manure conveyor—not through beaters to conveyor or vice versa.
5. Wheels Track. Rear wheels track with the front wheels, lightening draft.
6. Tight Bottom. There is no logging, jamming apron, because the spreader has a tight bottom. Spreads anything. Retains all liquid manure.
7. Two Beaters. Two all-steel beaters with chisel-pointed square teeth work from both top and bottom of the load. Allow extra-high load.
8. Wide-Spread. The spiral behind the beaters gives the manure a third beating, and spreads it finely and uniformly beyond the wheels.
9. All-Steel Main Frame. Does not check, rot or warp. Wood box sides hold only the load. Frame holds operating mechanism independently of box; keeps alignment perfect.

The New International—made in two sizes—is unquestionably the best spreader value on the market today, and when you consider it in connection with its price, it is so far ahead of all others that there is really no comparison.

We have a sample spreader set up for your inspection. Come in and look it over.

RAIL STRIKE IS FIGHT TO FINISH

Hope of Immediately Ending Tie-up Blasted When Harding's Efforts Fail.

BIG TIEUP IS NOW IN SIGHT

Both Railroad Executives and Labor Union Chiefs Turn Down President's Third Proposal for Settlement.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Hope of immediately ending the rail strike was blasted here when the railroads and the unions rejected President Harding's third proposal for settlement of the trouble.

After 44 days of mediation and negotiation both sides declared there is no possibility of arbitrating the question of seniority and are prepared to fight it out to a finish.

But instead of having only the railway shippers to deal with the railroads now have all of the railway brotherhoods arrayed against them. They will support the shippers on a question that they declare to be "the life blood of unionism" and are quite willing to accept the role of the railway executives for "a fight to a finish."

There was hope that the two parties might find a common ground for arbitrating their differences. But when the President had been told that his proposal was untenable to the unions and railroads alike, he telephoned officials that the ban of seniority had been lifted and they were at liberty to talk.

That neither for the first time they would consider submitting their differences to the railroad labor board.

That the railroads are still chafing under provisions of the Adamson act and welcome an opportunity to test their strength with labor unions.

That the rail unions are confident the time is ripe for the government to assume control of the railroads and believe that this strike will demonstrate the necessity for it.

It also was revealed that the President knew that neither party would let the railroad labor board decide seniority in full and last night offered an emergency proposal that the whole question be left to an impartial tribunal.

The railroads objected to this and refused to budge from the position outlined in their reply to the President of the United States.

The committee of executives declared that they had no authority to consider counter-proposals and that unless the unions accepted what they had to offer the men could not get their positions back.

"There is only one real issue involved in this whole controversy," said a spokesman for the railroads. "The striking shippers must recognize the jurisdiction of the railroad labor board. The board already has ruled that if its decisions are ignored by the calling of a strike, the efforts on the part of the strikers to disregard the board's decisions and intimidate the government and the public will not be successful."

Railroad executives left immediately for New York after making public their refusal to accept the President's proposal. They say the President for an hour during the morning.

Following this they went to the office of the executives here where it was finally decided to make their decision public. As the men filed from the office observers knew that the three plan had failed. T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the executives, who has favored the President's plan, showed plainly his disappointment.

Gen. W. W. Averbury of the Pennsylvania, who has been irreconcilable, danced a jig while holding to the arm of A. H. Smith of the New York Central, and then did a fox trot up and down the lobby.

"It's all over as far as I am concerned," he said. "We are going back now and run our railroads."

HARDING ACTS IN TARIFF BILL ROW

President Outlines to Senators Desirability of Elasticity During Crisis.

LETTER READ TO SENATE

Urges Flexibility in Adjusting Duties—As It Means Power to President, He Asks Share Be Given to a Board.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Following conferences with senators in behalf of a flexible tariff which would give power of rate adjustment to the President and the tariff board, President Harding sent a letter to Chairman McComb of the finance committee, and it was read to the senate, not only urging that a flexible tariff be provided for, but that the tariff commission be made the agency for investigation and recommendation for changes in tariff rates.

The President's letter is as follows: "I need not repeat to you what I have said personally and what I have conveyed officially in a message to congress, how deeply I am interested in the provision for flexibility in the tariff bill, which is now under consideration in the senate. It has seemed to me that the varying conditions in the world and the unusual conditions following the World war make it extremely essential that we have this means of adjusting our tariff to meet the new conditions."

"Moreover, I believe it is a highly constructive and progressive step in retaining the good and eliminating the abuses which grow up under our tariff system. I think we ought to make the tariff commission all that it is designed to be—the agency for scientific investigation and the source of all reliable information on all tariff problems."

"In view of the fact that congress, in providing for flexibility, must bestow some exceptional powers upon the President, I should very much prefer that in the same act the congress definitely name the tariff board as the source of information and recommendation upon which the President may proceed in changes in rates of duty."

"If the power to modify rates were given to the President I should immediately proclaim the tariff board as the agency of investigation and recommendation, because the President could not deal with the situation in any other practical manner. I think it more so, therefore, to have the congress definitely designate the tariff board as the agency to be employed by the President in the exercise of executive power which it is proposed to bestow."

Washington, Aug. 14.—President Harding, in a telegram to Governor Campbell of Arizona, offered the assistance of the federal government to relieve hardships among passengers on Santa Fe trains marooned at junction points. The President's telegram follows:

"I am informed that several passenger trains on the Santa Fe railway are marooned at junction points in your state because of their abandonment by their crews."

"It is the obligation of the government to relieve the people who are thus shamefully subjected to hardships. If you have not facilities for the relief, which I know you will gladly bestow, then my forces at the command of the federal government will be promptly ordered to your assistance. Kindly advise whether such assistance is needed."

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14.—The walkout of Big Four railroad brotherhood men in the Far West has brought about the following developments:

The Santa Fe lines south of Bakersfield, Cal., and as far east as Ash Fork, Ariz., were tied up completely. Trains continued to be held by the Santa Fe at Seligman, Ash Fork and Williams, Ariz., and Albuquerque, New Mexico. There are walkouts at the first two, trains merely being held at the latter ones because of the impossibility of moving them through the others.

On the Union Pacific's line there are walkouts at Caliente and Las Vegas, Nev., and of Irwin at San Bernardino.

On the Western Pacific, after a conference at Elko, Nev., brotherhood men working between that point and Gerlach agreed to return to work, company officials reported, but at Stockton, Oakland and Oroville, Cal., they were still out.

There have been three heat prostrations on Santa Fe trains reported—two of those of aged persons and one that of an infant.

Pueblo, Colo., Aug. 14.—Missouri Pacific railroad locomotive firemen working between Pueblo and Huerfano, Kas., struck because they allege the equipment was not in safe condition. All Missouri Pacific traffic on this division is tied up.

Two passenger trains which leave Pueblo at 5 p. m. and 8:15 p. m. are annulled. No. 11 and No. 13 were consolidated at Horace, Kas., and by picking up a man to do the firing, were brought into Pueblo late this afternoon.

BADGER STATE HAPPENINGS

Madison—An increase of more than 4,400,000 bushels in the potato prospect, and a decrease of 2,000,000 bushels in the corn forecast, are the outstanding features in the August crop report for Wisconsin, issued by Joseph A. Becker of the Wisconsin Co-operative crop reporting service. Cabbage, onions, and sugar beets increased in condition while tobacco declined, the report said. Due largely to cool weather during July, the corn crop declined in condition from 89 per cent on July 1 to 87 per cent Aug. 1. The August condition indicated a production of 86,874,000 bushels as compared to 88,871,000 on July 1 and 97,482,000 bushels produced last year.

Fond du Lac—Within thirty days all signboards within the right of way of roads in Fond du Lac county must be removed, is the edict of the highway committee of the county board. George Treleven, highway commissioner, has been ordered to instruct all persons who have erected signs on any right of way on any county or state trunk highway that they must comply with this order in the time mentioned. Highway directional signs are the only ones allowed to stand under the new ruling, these including the Yellowstone trail markings and similar signs.

Sturgeon Bay—With a crowd of helpless children looking on and the cries of two drowning children piercing the air, Dorothy Dean Wagner, 12 years old, Sturgeon Bay, effected a thrilling rescue of Virgil and Ethel Starr, 7 and 9 years old. The young girl dived from the dock and swam to their aid. After she had been pulled to the bottom four times, by their frantic clutches, she grabbed the two children by the hair and towed them to shallow water, where she was given aid by others, who waded out as far as they could.

Birchwood—At the special bond election held at Birchwood, voters favored bonding the joint grade school district for funds to equip the new Union Free High school building. The issue calls for a levy of $5,000 in addition to a recent bond issue of $25,000, to construct the grade school's share of the structure. Portions of the counties of Barron, Washburn, Rusk, and Sawyer are aiding in the cost of the building.

Superior—Mr. and Mrs. Noah Oliney, Superior, both 90 years old, claim to be the champion blueberry pickers of Douglas county. They base their claim on the fact that in two weeks they picked fifteen cases of blueberries or 480 pints. Mrs. Oliney carried most of them. Both Mr. and Mrs. Oliney are exceptionally active for their age.

Racine—While engaged in laying a coping stone in the new addition to the Hansche school, three miles south of Racine, Julius Schulz and Michael Manarino, lost their balance and crashed to the ground with the stone, a distance of 25 feet. Manarino died from his injuries while on the way to a hospital. Schulz is said to be fatally hurt.

Hayward—Marcus McClaine, Hayward, has been named county agricultural agent of Sawyer county to succeed J. H. Hill, resigned. Mr. McClaine is a graduate of the agricultural department of River Falls Normal school and specialized in agricultural work at Wisconsin university.

Oconto—Meetings are being held in many parts of Oconto county to line up the remaining cheese factories as members of the Cheese Producers' federation. Out of the score of factories now in the federation, with Green Bay as a shipping point, about one-third are from Oconto county.

Fond du Lac—F. P. Worthing, assessor of incomes of Fond du Lac and Green Lake counties, has been exonerated by the county board of charges that he received money from both counties for the payment of one suite of offices.

Wausau—M. C. Ewing, secretary, treasurer, and general manager of the Wisconsin Valley Electric Co. since its incorporation in 1908, died at Wausau of complications at the age of 53 years.

Stevens Point—Upsetting a pan of boiling water which was standing on a table, Mercedes Rose, 16 month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meyer of Almond, Portage county, was so badly burned that she died two days later.

Shawano—Unnoticed when she slid from her chair at the dinner table and tottling from the room, Martha, 2-year-old daughter of Mrs. S. S. Long, Winona, Minn., fell from a small pier supported by rowboats and was drowned in Shawano lake.

Baraboo—No matter who is elected, the next sheriff of Sauk county will be called "Bill". The candidates for sheriff in the primaries next month are William Marquette, William Ode, and William Tarzette.

Beloit—Varticolored jail cells are in store for Beloit, the city council has sanctioned the paint bill. Committeemen want to paint the cells different colors to correspond to the moods of the prisoners. Fear of overcrowding in the "blue" room may negative the plan.

Madison—Gov. Beine has announced the appointment of Charles Kuchenberg, Florence, as district attorney of Florence county. He succeeds Edward Elmer, deceased.

Sauk City—Two brutal murders and a vicious attack which may cost the life of a third person nearly wiped out the Balzer family on a farm 11 miles west of Sauk City on highway 60. Julius Balzer, 57, and his sister, Mary, 45, are dead, and a brother, William, 54, lies in the Sauk City hospital in a critical condition, with his skull fractured. All three were beaten over the head with clubs. The robbery in the morning imputed to the slaying by Henry Behn, district attorney, who said he believed the murders were the work of persons living in the community, who knew the aversion of the wealthy Balzers to banks and safety deposit vaults. How much loot the murderers took is unknown. Julius Balzer was beaten to death in a garage at the rear of the farmhouse and William was left lying for dead near him. Mary apparently tried to run and get help from neighbors, but was overtaken by the murderers, for her dead body was found nearly 300 yards from the house, near the family mailbox beside the road. She was felled in her tracks by a blow on the head, dealt from behind.

Fond du Lac—John A. Heas, North Fond du Lac, and Mrs. William Ferguson, town of Byron, Fond du Lac county, were killed and four other persons were injured when an automobile driven by Herman Rosenow, North Fond du Lac, ran down a horse and buggy on highway No. 15, a short distance from Byron. The injured are: Herman Rosenow, Glenn Edkerton, John Bohardt, 41 of North Fond du Lac; and William Ferguson, Byron. Mr. and Mrs. William Ferguson, in the rig, had been attending a wake at the William McCullough farm in Byron and were driving home when the accident occurred.

Kenosha—One of the strangest contracts in the history of the state of Wisconsin was signed at Kenosha when officials of the city and of the county signed an agreement whereby "sates were swapped" for the new court house and the new high school building. The exchange was brought about by the adoption of a civic center plan which is to be put into effect in Kenosha. The sites were traded even.

North Fond du Lac—The car and machine shops of the Soo line at North Fond du Lac were reopened after being closed since the beginning of the strike. The roundhouse, which has been kept running by a small force, also has a number of new men employed in it. More than 150 men have been set to work in the shops and 200 are expected to be working within the next few days.

West Bend—Dr. N. H. Howlett, a federal inspector, has completed applying tests to 2,379 head of cattle belonging to 113 of Washington county's farmers. Only 55 reactors to the test were found. The locals won 16 to 0 in 6 innings. Next Sunday the locals cross bats with the strong New Fane team on the home grounds this promises to be the best game of the season. The three games played by these two teams were all very close and interesting. New Fane is coming with a strengthened line-up, so don't let anything stop you from seeing this game.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

A crook robs a national bank of one million dollars. The whole police powers of the state and nation are put to work to catch this crook.

A man deliberately sets fire to a grain-elevator in which one million dollars worth of grain is stored. Some fire marshal deputy, alone and unaided, investigates this fire in the hope of discovering sufficient evidence to bring the guilty man to trial, perhaps before a jury strongly prejudiced against circumstantial evidence.

A man's sheer carelessness causes a fire which destroys a million dollars worth of property of his neighbors. Nothing is done to punish this man, actually a certain amount of misplaced sympathy is wasted on him, because of his own loss.

Why this widely different public attitude in these three cases?

The robber can be trusted to put the stolen money into circulation and the country as a whole will have lost nothing.

In the other two cases one million dollars worth of wealth is destroyed and the country is just that much poorer. The people, not insurance companies, will pay for loss in larger insurance premiums and higher costs of everything.

If the fire marshal deputy is fortunate enough to prove guilt, "beyond any reasonable doubt," the man is punished, but nothing is done to the man in the third case; although the effect in the last two cases on the community and country is the same.

It is right that the robber and the arsonist be punished; it is wrong that the man whose absolute carelessness has caused a like injury should go unpunished.

Under the Code Napoleon such a man must reimburse his neighbors for their loss and he insures for such contingency.

In Germany a contractor was ordered to pay the fire damage to a building and the cost of putting out the fire and cleaning up the buildings, because his faulty installation of the heating apparatus was responsible for the fire.

The builder is held liable for damage if he fails a fire and permits it to spread to his neighbors land; railroad companies have been held liable for damage done by fire spreading from their right of way.

Why not extend this liability to the man with a basement full of rubbish, a defective chimney or other knobby fire hazard which results in fire and injury to his neighbors? Why not compel him to reimburse the city for the expense of putting out the fire caused by his carelessness?

Pennsylvania has such a law. A number of cities provide this by ordinance.

The large majority of fires are due to carelessness and there is no more effective way to cure such carelessness than "through the pocket book."

POTATOES WILL BE BIG CROP

According to an estimate made by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture this year's potato crop in Washington and Fond du Lac counties will be considerably larger than it was a year ago and also two years ago. It is estimated that in these counties this year's crop will be 650 carloads; in 1921 it was 520 carloads, and in 1920 it was 640 carloads. The total crop in Wisconsin is estimated at 20,300 carloads. In 1921 it was but 12,500 carloads and in 1920 it was 20,000 carloads. Production of beets for sugar is estimated at 119,000 tons as compared to 171,000 tons last year. July was favorable for apples, the production on the basis of August 1 condition being estimated at 1,771,000 bushels, compared to 1,050,000 bushels in 1921.

$1,000 FOR FIFTY BUSHELS OF CLOVER SEED

To receive the sum of $1004.19 from a crop grown on eight acres is not a bad record established by Albert Rosenthal of the town of Calamus. A little over 50 bushels of white clover seed was threshed last Friday from a field of eight acres and about the right side of the highway by showing distinctly with a heavy black line which is their side and where they have to drive without inviting danger of a collision with cars coming from the opposite direction.

—L. J. Klotz, proprietor of the Campbellsport Auto Sales Company, has placed a large sign in front of his garage reading: "Fond du Lac straight ahead—5 miles nearer—road." The sign has been up only a week and in this time Mr. Klotz has received nine postal orders and five letters from tourists that passed his garage at the intersection of Main street and Fond du Lac Ave., Campbellsport, all of which thank him for the tip on the shorter route and also make comment on the good road.

THERESA MAN KILLED

Lester Bierman, former Theresa boy, a lineman in the employ of the Wisconsin Telephone Company, was fatally killed when he came in contact with a high tension wire while working on a cable at Mayville Friday. Bierman was on a swinging platform alone. The young man was working on a cable and in some manner the steel cable became crossed with a high tension wire. Other employees saw the victim suddenly crumple up on the platform. Wisps of smoke showed the other men that he was being electrocuted and hasty calls to have the current turned off at the power plant were sent. After the current was shut off fellow linemen helped to bring the body from the platform. Doctors were on hand to seek to restore life, but these efforts were in vain.

Bierman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bierman of Mayville. He was born at Cumberland, Wis., moving to Mayville with his parents when still a young lad. He was educated in the Mayville schools. About two years ago he entered the telephone business with the Theresa Union Telephone Co. and later became connected with the Wisconsin Bell Co. He is survived by his wife and one year old daughter. The funeral was held from the home of his parents Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. Schroth of St. John's Lutheran church officiated. Lomira Review.

WAUCOUSTA MEN PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Herman Schultz, Art. Schultz and Ed. Rohlf, all of Waucousta, pleaded not guilty in municipal court, Fond du Lac on Wednesday to a charge of assault and battery made by Village Marshal A. E. Ketter, of Campbellsport.

Their case was adjourned to Sept. 13 at 10 o'clock when they will be given a hearing on the charge. They have retained Attorney J. E. O'Brien as counsel. The complaint alleges that the offense was committed on August 13 at Campbellsport.

The trouble arose over a disagreement over a baseball game between Campbellsport and Waucousta. After the melee the marshal discovered that he had a couple of black eyes and a sore nose. Deputy Sheriff Pat Murphy who was also mixed up in the row filed no complaint.

—The estimate is made by the Insurance Press that life insurance companies of the country paid $4,500,000 in death claims from automobile fatalities during 1920 and statistics are quoted indicating that for the year motorizing injured 1,500,000 and caused disabilities and property damages amounting to more than 1,000,000,000.
