FISH AND GAME LAW CHANGES ASKED

Proposals for changes in the fish and game laws of Wisconsin to be made at the present session of the state legislative committee of the Frank Walton club, Milwaukee. The proposals were submitted to club members for discussion before the dinner meeting of the club, Jan. 23. Several changes considered were:

- A license for resident fishermen, funds to be devoted to fish propagation and conservation.
- Opening of brook trout season April instead of May 1.
- Limiting of multiple gang hooks on artificial baits to one gang of not more than three hooks.
- A three years closed season for muskellunge.
- A bag limit of one muskellunge a day irrespective of size.
- Bag limits on all game fish to be inclusive of size—small fish to count as part of the day's bag instead of being returned to the water in injured condition, where they often die.
- Uniform date for opening of fishing season on all classes of fish.
- Dividing state into three latitudinal zones or districts, providing for an early date for opening of fishing season in southern Wisconsin, a later date in central Wisconsin and a still later date in northern waters.
- Increase of non-resident fishing license to either $5 or $10.
- Simplifying of the fish and game laws.
- Prohibiting fishing or trolling from any motor driven boat or gang of boats in any while motor is running.
- More stringent laws prohibiting and penalizing lake and stream pollution and larger appropriations to finance this work.
- Prohibiting all ice fishing.
- Good season for all game fish except brook trout from Jan. 15 to May 31.
- One shipment only of game fish out of state by non-resident fishermen instead of one shipment every seven days now allowed.
- A closed season for white bass in entire state and a bag limit of 20 each day.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM REV. ROMEIS

The following interesting letter was received at this office this week from Rev. Romeis, of Chloë, Mo. Rev. Romeis formerly had charge, as pastor, of the German Reformed church at Elmore. The letter reads as follows:

South Western Missouri
We live between Deepwater, in Henry Co., where one of the largest tile factories, (the Dickey Factory) is located and Lowry City in St. Clair Co., near Chloë. The land is rolling prairie here, it is not as productive as in Fond du Lac county, Wisconsin. One-half mile from our place they mine clay, for the above mentioned factory. Almost everywhere they find soft coal here, and mine it in a small scale, with horses and scrapers and on a large scale with steam shovels and steam elevators. Near Chloë is such a large mine that the company who operates it has $200,000 worth of machinery invested, they employ 30 men, when they load cars. We can buy our coal for fifteen cents a bushel. The farmers raise oats, wheat, corn, cañifern, sugar cane, blue grass for seed, sweet potatoes and others and fine musk mellons. Corn sells for 75 cents a bushel now. Fattened steers and chickens are also raised among the farmers. Eggs sell at 25 cents a dozen now. Some of the farmers already have their incubators set. Near here are a number of hatcheries at Clinton, I know of one: Bootlis Hatchery that sells over 1,000,000 one day old chicks a year.

We have had a very mild winter, the blue grass has been green and the cattle out on the pasture. Sunday morning the thermometer was down to 4 above zero, they call that cold here. The people are sociable and hospitable here; they have no public nor private dances; they come together in farm club festivals, Sunday school conventions, etc. We have quite a number of Protestant churches here, namely: The N. & S. M. E., Christian, Baptist, Presbyterian and our own Reformed churches. Our people are most all faithful S. S. and church attendants, and are willing to give for benevolence. Different kinds of fruit is raised here and quite a few grapes. The people seem to be satisfied, and we like it here.

Gone but Not Forgotten

LOCALS LOSE TO SLINGER

The Kewaskum Aluminum basket ball team met their Waterloo when they played the strong Slinger team at the Opera House last Sunday evening. The score was 18 to 34 in favor of Slinger. At the beginning of the game, in fact all through the first half Kewaskum held its own against the visitors, having a four point lead at the end of the first half, 10 to 14. In the second half Slinger came back strong and played real championship ball. They gained a lead of a few points in the first few minutes of play, and when the half ended Slinger had chalked up 24 points against the locals. Kewaskum in the second had no chance what ever, the Slinger team out classed our boys in team work, basket shooting and ability as basket ball artists.

It is not as yet known if Kewaskum will play a return game at Slinger. If they do not it is a foregone conclusion that the Slinger A. C. team will again retain the county championship.

BRIDGE HEARING CALLED OFF

The meeting which was to have been held in the Kewaskum City Hall on Thursday, by the Railroad Rate Commission for the purpose of having a hearing on the overhead bridge which will be built just north of the city limits of Kewaskum, was called off last Saturday by the commission, when it was learned that the Chicago & North Western Railway Co., had decided to construct the overhead bridge alone. The county will be called upon to build the approaches. The approximate cost of building the bridge is given in the following narrative of the West Bend Pilot:

The Chicago & North-Western road had unofficially offered to pay $8,000 as its appropriation of the cost of the overhead structure, but the County State Road and Bridge committee believed that the railroad company should be asked to pay for the entire structure, while the county grade and surface the approaches. The estimated cost of the overhead structure itself which is to be of concrete and steel, is $13,200; the cost of grading and surfacing the approaches for a slight re-locating is $17,700, making a total of $31,000. If the road is built on the old route the cost would be about $9,200. The committee declared it would be fair to ask the railroad company to pay $2,500 for the paving across their right-of-way; in other words, the net cost to the county would be $6,700, and the same dangerous condition as at present would exist. On the other hand, the total estimated cost of the overhead crossing is $31,000, of which the committee asked the railroad company to pay $13,300, leaving $17,700 for the county's share. If the crossing is eliminated as a grade crossing about $1,200 will be saved by decreasing the amount of work to be done on Highway 26."

3 HORSES POISONED, 2 DEAD

While we of these parts are congratulating ourselves that we do not live in the night-rider infested south where masked men have been guilty of most revolting crimes, an act performed upon horses of Guetz Bros., of the town of Ashippun, Dodge county, a week ago savors of the depraved minds of human forms who steal about in the night wreaking vengeance, violence and acts of cruelty.

What we picture as the most damnable act and equally as cruel that has ever come to our attention was the poisoning of three horses belonging to Guetz Bros. It is thought that the poisoning was done Saturday evening, Jan. 6. The horses were noticed in great distress the following morning. A veterinarian from Alderly was summoned and later a veterinarian from Oconomowoc was called in. The doctors were puzzled at first and upon the death of one of the animals its stomach was removed and whereupon it was found that the horse had eaten a quantity of paris green. Efforts were made to save the other two suffering animals, one of them dying shortly thereafter. The third horse appeared to have thrown off temporarily the effects of the poisoning. As an after effect it is losing its hair in blotches.

The two horses that died were young mares 8 and 9 years old weighing about 3100 lbs. They were purchased five years ago by Guetz Bros. from Weber Bros., then of Germantown, they having paid a price of $550 for them. They were an elegant matched team of blacks valued by the owners at $650. During the early stages of the poisoning and its action upon the internal organs of the horses, those that were called in state that it was a pitiful sight to witness the great suffering of the faithful servants.

It is thought the poisoner, who must be a man of vulturine rapacity, evidently holding a grudge against the Guetz Bros., sneaked into the barn under the protection of the dead of night mixed a liberal dose of paris green in the oats and placed it in the feed boxes of the horses. A few nights previous to the poisoning a man was discovered hiding in the proximity of the barn behind the protection of a manure spreader, but when detected made a hurried getaway. The Guetz Bros. have strong suspicions of the guilty party who is said to be of the neighborhood.—Hartford Times.

HELEN RAYMOND CAST IN "MY LADY FRIENDS"

Helen Raymond, photo plays the role of an extravagant wife in the Carter De Haven First National attraction, "My Lady Friends," which comes to the Opera House on Sunday evening, is the comedienne who headed her company during the long London run of "Twin Beds."

Miss Raymond is still very fond of the stage and expects to return to the footlights eventually. "It is doubtful, however, that Carter De Haven would part with her services for any consideration."

"I would like to play serious roles," says Miss Raymond. "For years I have been given all the big comedy parts but they do not satisfy me. I am tired of being a funmaker."

In 1908, Miss Raymond supported Richard Carle in "Jumping Jupiter." The engagement extended two seasons and was followed by two more in "Oh! Oh! Delphine."

Shortly after the opening of the world war in 1914, she was cast as Mrs. Clutterbuck in "The Queen of the Moovies." In 1915 she created the role of Signora Monti in Edgar Selwyn's original production of "Twin Beds" at the old Fulton Theatre, New York.

When Comstock and Gest opened with "Very Good Eddie" in 1916 Miss Raymond appeared in the role of Mrs. Georgia Kettle, the comedy lead. This engagement extended over a period of two and a half years.

In March 1918, Miss Raymond sailed for England to play the role she created in "Twin Beds" for the London production staged by Crossmith and Laurillard. The London engagement was followed by a tour of the metropolitan English cities.

Miss Raymond then came to America and to Los Angeles. Her first experience to how the camera was in support of Vivia Hana in "Dangerous to Men." Following this engagement, Miss Raymond, whose fame in the role of Signora Monti in "Twin Beds" had long since reached the ears of Carter De Haven, discovered that she was to be a member of the Hollywood film industry. He immediately engaged her to play the role in the screen version of "Twin Beds."

INCOME TAX FACTS

Revenue officers are visiting every county in the United States to aid taxpayers in the preparation of their income tax returns for the year 1922. Information concerning the date of their arrival and the location of their offices may be obtained by writing the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives.

Forms for filing returns of individual net income for the year 1922 are being sent to taxpayers who filed returns for the year 1921. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve the taxpayer of his obligation to file a return and pay the tax on time, on or before March 15, 1923. The forms, 1040A for filing returns of net income $5,000 and less and 1040 for filing returns of net income in excess of $5,000, may be obtained from collectors of internal revenue and deputy collectors.

Returns are required of every single person whose net income for 1922 was $1,000 or more or whose gross income was $5,000 or more and of every married person whose net income was $2,000 or more or whose gross income was $5,000 or more. Careful study of the instructions on the forms will greatly aid in making a correct return.

PUT COUNTY AGENT BACK ON THE JOB

The Farm Bureau as a national, state and county organization, is active in the interest of better agriculture and alive to all the problems of today, according to James Nies, secretary of the Dodge County Farm Bureau, which is behind a movement for the re-instatement of the office of county agricultural agent, which was practically dispensed with at the Nov. session of the County Board.

Members of the Dodge County Farm Bureau in annual convention in this city December 19 went on record unanimously against the abolishment of the office of county agent, and the Farm Bureau's position then is reiterated in a set of resolutions drafted by Secretary Nies and presented to the County Board of Supervisors in January session here this week.

The Farm Bureau is keeping tab on legislation at Washington and through Secretary Nies letters were sent this week to Senator La Follette, Senator Lenroot and Congressman Voigt urging them to support the "Truth in Fabric" bill and use their best effort to bring about its early consideration.

Legislative action at Madison is not escaping attention. The state office of the Farm Bureau has prepared a questionnaire dealing with the bills that will be up for consideration in the legislature the coming session. Township meetings will be held throughout the county to secure an advisory vote of the Farm Bureau members representatives at Madison Juneau Independent

Wolves Were Seen Southwest of Hartford

While it has been reported that wolves have been seen in the vicinity of Granville, east of here, it was not known that wolves had invaded the vicinity southwest of Hartford. However while August Nell of Neosho was driving on the road two miles south of Neosho last Sunday evening he had the opportunity of seeing five large wolves cross his path. Mr. Nell was driving a team of horses and suddenly one of the horses stopped, and refused to go. Mr. Nell was at a loss to know what ailed the horse, until, a short distance ahead of his team, a pack of five wolves came out of the woods at the roadside, and crossed over to the other side of the road, and disappeared in the underbrush. Unfortunately Mr. Nell was not armed at the time, or it is possible he may have been able to get one or more of the pack. It is rather unusual for wolves to be seen as far south as this.—Hartford Press.

REMEMBERED HIS DEAD PET CONCERNING THE NEW TOOTH Seemed to Mary Louise a Possibility That It Might Not Be White in Color. With the possible exception of her debut in the world of education, when she "spoke a piece" from the teacher's desk at "last-day exercises," the greatest single event in Mary Louise's life was the loss of her first tooth. She was seated at the side of her Aunt Evelyn, positively exploring, with an inquisitive little pink tongue, the gap left by the missing incisor. Suddenly she broke the silence: "Aunt Ebbie, I wonder what color my new tooth will be when it comes in?" "Why, white, I suppose," replied her aunt, puzzled at the question. "Why?" "Well, you know," answered Mary Louise, with a sophisticated raising of her eyebrows, "you know grandma has a gold one!"

TURKEY AGREES TO SIGN TREATY

French Say Moslems Are Prepared to Accept Terms.

ASSURANCES GIVEN BY ISMET

Mosul, Economic Provisions and Greek Indemnity Held in Abeyance—American Observer Child Pleads for the Pact. Paris, Feb. 6.—Despite Sunday's breakup of the Lausanne conference, there will be no war in the Near East, but, on the contrary, the Turks are prepared to sign a peace, whose terms will leave aside Mosul, economic provisions and the Greek indemnity, which produced the rupture Sunday night, for future negotiations. This was announced by the French government, which had been in communication throughout the day with Lausanne and professed confidence that its pourparlers had resulted in bridging the difficulty and which plainly took the French government by surprise. According to French advices, Ismet Pasha, not wanting himself to reopen the negotiation in the Near East, gave formal assurances of his willingness to allow the three points upon which he stood to be discussed and settled later, and of his readiness to sign the Lausanne peace treaty under such conditions either at Lausanne or elsewhere. Lausanne, Feb. 6.—Richard Washburn Child, American observer at the Lausanne conference, brought to bear all his influence upon the Turkish delegation to persuade them to sign the peace treaty. Ambassador Child offered mediation and was in conference with the Turkish delegates.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BABOON LIFE

"I am going to tell you a story about a South African Baboon named Bruce Baboon," said Daddy, "and of Baboon ways when they are free. "Bruce was very fond of all of his family and of all of his relations and of all of the members of the Baboon colony with which he lived. "Many of the Baboons lived together and Bruce called their part of the world—where they all were—'Baboon Village.' "Now Bruce wanted to talk to all of the Baboons and he wanted to tell them all together one day and made this speech: "Baboon Brothers and friends and relatives, I commenced, I want to tell you some of the ways of the Baboons and some of the family rules. "Never be afraid of anything when any of the Mrs. Baboons or the Miss Baboons or the little Baboons are in danger. "Do not even be afraid of guns, but go to the rescue of the ladies or of the little children. "They say that when people are in danger or if there is an accident anywhere, the gentleman always help the ladies and the children first. "That is true in Baboon family life too. We have never been known to desert a Mrs. Baboon or a Miss Baboon or a little Baboon in time of danger. "Do not even be afraid of a leopard, then. Don't even let your fear of a snake get the better of you. "Do not mean that you are to rush into the jaws of danger or into the jaws of the snake or of the leopard, but I mean you must protect your little ones and the other little ones and the Mrs. Baboons and the Miss Baboons. "No Baboon has ever been known to go back on his duty in the time of need, and his duty is to look after the others. "No Baboon has ever been known to think of himself when his wife or his sister or his little one was in danger. "No Baboon has been able to ever say: "Let them look after themselves. There is no need of me to." "For if any one of the group is in danger let every one of us do what we can to protect him. "Let us never be afraid—that is—let us be so afraid that we aren't brave. "Bravery doesn't mean being foolhardy. Bravery doesn't mean taking wild risks and chances. "Bravery doesn't mean to take one's life in one's hands, as the saying is, or of taking any old chance at all. "Bravery doesn't mean that one must never feel fear, or that in order to be brave one can never know the feeling of fear. "That isn't what bravery means. "Bravery means," continued Bruce Baboon, "to go forward and do what you can for the protection of others no matter how afraid you may feel inside! "That is what bravery means. To be brave, even though you feel afraid, for the sake of others. "And when one is in danger all of us must go forth to help. We mustn't let any one else do the work. "We must sleep in a different neighborhood on different nights for in that way we will be very safe, and folks and wild animals will not know where our sleeping place is to be found. "And whenever we go we will call it our village, or Baboon Village. "Be kind to animals who aren't so big or so able to look after themselves. Be kind to little babies. Never forget the story of the Baboon who looked after a little lost baby and brought him up safely. "When you see people will be friendly with you, be friendly with them, too, though you must be sure they are really friendly. "These are the things I must tell you to do. And we must all promise each other we will do them. "We all promise," said the other baboons, "for we wouldn't let a weaker creature suffer. No matter what the risk was to ourselves, we'd never, never, ever let that happen." "Good, said Bruce Baboon, "That is the true Baboon spirit."

Why Farmers are Turning to

In 1922 Chevrolet jumped from seventh to second place in sales of all cars, and to first place in sales of fully equipped modern cars.

Purchases by farmers were the chief factor in this remarkable development.

Farmers want automobiles not only of low first price, but also of low later cost for operation and maintenance.

They want room, comfort, and the ability to stand up under hard conditions.

They find that Chevrolet, fully equipped as sold, is the best value per dollar in the low-priced field, and neighbors tell them it costs less per mile to operate.

Attribute Their Success to Newspaper Advertising. In an interview today, Mr. Warren Wright, President of the Calumet Baking Powder Company, strongly advocated the use of newspaper advertising, and points to Calumet's success as proof of his statement. "Calumet sales are 25 times as much as any other brand," stated Mr. Wright, "and we attribute this to our lavish use of newspaper space. We believe that the newspaper is the most direct medium we can use in getting our message across to the housewife, and we know from our experience covering thirty years that the housewife will respond to newspaper advertising quicker than she will to any other form of advertising."

"The housewives have confidence in newspaper advertisements because they know that the newspapers set up high standards for their advertisers. It is for that reason that the housewife looks to the newspaper for information on products in which she is interested."

The Cottage Gardener

The Flats With Growing Plants, Being Given Fresh Air on a Warm Day, Before They Are Transferred to Pots or Other Containers, for Further Development.

PLANTS GROWN IN POTS ARE THRIFTY

Vegetable or Flowering Stalks Should Be Transferred Several Times.

Pot-grown plants, vegetable or flowering plants, first started in the flats then transferred to small pots, then to larger ones, give the best satisfaction, and afford a sturdy plant that can be set into the open ground when the time comes.

There is a knack in the handling of plants for the pot-grown variety, but it is not difficult to grow them and the satisfaction obtained, as well as the pleasure, is most gratifying.

The pots for growing such plants do not have to be of the store kind. Paper pots can be made at home; old cans, round oatmeal cartons, and the like, serve the purpose well.

The soil preparation should be about the same kind as in the flats, with coarser soil, pebbles, broken flower pots and such, to afford drainage; an opening at the bottom of each being necessary.

Plants grown in this manner are more easy to handle when they are transferred to the open; the roots need not be disturbed, if removed when the soil is slightly damp. This will be advantageous to the plant, and it will immediately take hold.

The transferring process should be begun with the stronger plants in the flats when they are about one inch high. Select the best plants for transplanting. The flat should be watered well before the plants are removed, thus allowing dirt to cling to the roots, which should not be torn or cut, if possible to remove them intact.

ALL SEED WILL NOT GROW

Plant to Test Germination Is Wise Plan Followed by Majority of Gardeners.

All vegetable and flower seeds do not germinate. There are different reasons why seed will not grow; but the gardener cannot afford to wait until the outdoor planting season is at hand to know. It is the safer plan to try the seed for germination in a flat early in the season, to be sure the seed are what they should be.

Corn of all kinds frequently fails

POT BULB PLANTS EARLY

If the bulb plants are given an early start in boxes they will make better progress by being separated as soon as they begin to show sprouts. Planting them singly in pots large enough will encourage more rapid growth, and by the time the weather is suitable for outdoor planting, the plant will be in excellent condition, if it has been given the proper indoor consideration, as to sunlight, water and fresh air.

WATERING THE SEED BOX

The first watering is best done by setting the seed box in water until the moisture shows at the surface of the soil, and then removing it and allowing it to drain. After that water only sufficiently to keep the soil moist, but wet, and never enough so that the water will leak through the box. Apply the water gently with a fine spray, or if not at hand, with a whisk broom, or by sprinkling with the fingers. Do not pour from a pitcher or sprinkler, as the water will wash the seeds and often destroy them.

THE VACANT LOTS GOOD FOR GARDEN

Richest Soil Is Often Found in Neglected Places—Clean Out Unsightly Weeds.

Why not have a garden this year on that vacant city, town or village lot that is now growing to weeds or covered with empty tin cans? says the United States Department of Agriculture. The weeds and tin cans can be disposed of at any time, and all stones and other refuse material should be removed. If there are enough stones present, they might be placed in neat and attractive piles and either flowers or vines of some sort run over them next season. If the vacant lot is near enough to the house, it can be spaded and all other work done at odd times.

During the winter months it is well to study the seed catalogues and make up an order of seeds, including perhaps 10 to 15 different kinds of vegetables. To this should be added a list of four or five flowering plants, such as zinnias, cockscomb, scarlet sage and nasturtium, to be used for border plants. Snap beans, lima beans, tomatoes, onions, cabbage, carrots, Swiss chard, spinach, radishes and lettuce are among the most important crops for the small garden. Where space will permit early Irish potatoes, sweet corn, summer squash, muskmelons, cucumbers and pumpkins may be included. It is far better, however, in the small garden to plant not more than 10 or 12 of the most important crops that are in greatest demand as fresh food for the family. Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes are crops that require considerable space, but at the same time it is usually desirable to have a small part of the garden devoted to them.

SEED BOXES FOR WINDOWS

If no box is handy, and one has to be made, the following dimensions have been found to be about right: three to four inches deep, a foot to 14 inches wide, and 20 to 24 inches long. If it is desired to place the box upon a window sill, the width, of course, should be regulated according to the width of the sill, letting the length of the box be the inside width of the window.

PLAN TO KEEP SOIL BUSY

Production of a garden is dependent largely upon a close study of the succession of crops and interplanting where it is practicable. It should be arranged that no part of the soil is not producing a crop, one following the other during the entire season.

"THEY SAID I HAD T. B. AND WOULD NOT LIVE THREE MONTHS"

Mr. Harold W. Schmidt, Box 68, Breese, Clinton Co., Ill., believes he has reason to praise Dr. Hartman's Remedy for Catarrhal conditions.

"I used Peruna eight months for Chronic Bronchitis. I do not get tired, feel like a man, and my appetite is good. I had to take a severe course with nothing but food and rest. They said I had T. B. and would not live three months. After taking a couple bottles of Peruna and a box of Maclellan Tablets, I could walk around and in seven months went back to work. My trouble was due to chronic catarrh of the nose, and throat, which I had for years, attending down into the bronchial tubes. Peruna was my life savior."

CALLS FOR NEW DICTIONARY

New York Newspaper Condemns the Present Ones as Cumbersome and Disconcerting.

Like many books called classics, which we speak of reverently and never look at, the dictionary of our language seems to be falling into disuse; we seldom consult it. If a strange word "swims into our ken" we regard it as an impertinence or we use it as a kind of game; we argue about it, discuss it, and perhaps write to the newspapers for a definition, but we don't consult the dictionary.

Perhaps the reason for our neglect is that the unabridged dictionary is too cumbersome and it gives too many meanings, though this paper on the ordinary bulk. Simple words therein are found to be both noun and verb (spelled alike), and sometimes they have more than a dozen distinct meanings. This is disconcerting. There may be room for a dictionary with the obsolete and archaic words left out, a true Twentieth-century dictionary that shall be fool proof.—New York Herald.

The darnest darn pest you can find,
And if it wasn't for his mother,
An early grave he would find.
One night the lights went out in the parlor,
A quarter I slipped to the kid,
And down stairs he went
To the gas meter bent
And slipped in the quarter, he did.

Here It Is!—The New

International Manure Spreader

Run Your Eyes Over These Best-yet Features:

1. Roller Bearings. Roller bearings at seven points—the only spreader so equipped.
2. Double Ratchet Drive. Walking beam transmission from main axle eccentric and extra large ratchet wheel give easy, strong, steady feed. No pounding or jerking, due to extra-long movement of pawls on ratchet wheel—only two power impulses on ratchet for every revolution of 46-inch drive wheels. Box tapered to eliminate friction on box sides. Six feed speeds.
3. Oscillating Front Axle. Auto-type, permitting short turn. No pole whipping. No strain on frame.
4. Power; Both Wheels. Power is transmitted direct from main axle to beaters, wide-spread spiral and manure conveyor—not through beaters to conveyor or vice versa.
5. Wheels Track. Rear wheels track with the front wheels, lightening draft.
6. Tight Bottom. There is no clogging, jamming apron, because the spreader has a tight bottom. Spreads anything. Retains all liquid manure.
7. Two Beaters. Two all-steel beaters with chisel-pointed square teeth work from both top and bottom of the load. Allow extra-high load.
8. Wide-Spread. The spiral behind the beaters gives the manure a third beating, and spreads it finely and uniformly beyond the wheels.
9. All-Steel Main Frame. Does not check, rot or warp. Wood box sides hold only the load. Frame holds operating mechanism independently of box; keeps alignment perfect.

The New International—made in two sizes—is unquestionably the best spreader value on the market today, and when you consider it in connection with its price, it is so far ahead of all others that there is really no comparison. We have a sample spreader set up for your inspection. Come in and look it over.

The KITCHEN CABINET

So if life be short at best, If we wonder what and why, Here's a toast to pledge with zest: Friendship ever—gray and I.

Feeding the family is a very important business, and one which cannot be done successfully without study of individuals, climate, age and health.

Heavy salads prepared of meats, molded fish and such combinations fit into a light luncheon, as they can be made in a fruit salad may make a most acceptable dessert, following a hearty main dish.

Ragout of Chicken.—Clean and disjoint a large fowl. Take the dark meat freed from the bones and put through a meat chopper. Season with salt, pepper, a clove of garlic, and add a well-beaten egg. Make into small balls and cover with water; simmer until the meat is tender. Make a white sauce, using the chicken broth, season with salt, pepper and a teaspoonful of curry, add the meat balls, cook one-half hour; then add the diced white meat, which has been well cooked with the bones. Serve when well heated with cooked rice, hot.

Marshmallow Chocolate—Dissolve one-half cupful of sugar in one-fourth of a cupful of water and let it boil five minutes; melt four squares of chocolate over hot water and pour the sirup into it, stirring all the time. Scald the milk, combine the two mixtures, place in a double boiler and stir, boiling several minutes. Cut marshmallows (one dozen) in small dice and drop into the chocolate while hot. Set aside until cool, then beat briskly and pack in ice until thoroughly chilled. Serve in glasses with a spoonful of whipped cream on top of each.

Brown Stew of Carrots.—Mash and scrape a dozen large carrots. Drop them into boiling water and cook until tender. Cut into balls with a potato cutter; add to a pint of rich brown sauce prepared from stock, catsup, cayenne pepper and onion juice to season. Simmer twenty minutes; thicken the sauce after removing the carrots; return them to the sauce and serve very hot.

Spareribs and Sauerkraut.—Take a good-sized sparerib, place in a baking pan and heap into it enough sauerkraut to fill it. Wrap and place in the oven to roast. Suit the meat and season with pepper. Roast slowly for several hours, then brown.

Long th' road of human life you see as a fellow traveler slow, An' like as not you'll find he's some poor chap that's shined his toe. He was makin' swimmin' headway, but he bumped into a stone, An' his friends all hurried onward, an' left him there alone.

COULD HARDLY DO HER WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Eat, Sleep and Feel Better Every Day

Chicago, Ill.—"I was weak and run-down and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time, and dizzy, and could not sleep, and had no appetite. I tried different medicines for years, but they did not help me. Then I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for other women and gave it a trial. I began to eat better and could sleep, and consider it a wonderful medicine. I recommend it to my friends and will never be without it."

It is such letters as these that testify to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This woman speaks from the fullness of her heart. She describes as convincing talk her condition, first the symptoms that bothered her the most, and later the disappearance of those symptoms. It is a sincere expression of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

Hands Tied. The Woman heard a long, an endlessly long sermon in a small country town where she was visiting upon a recent Sunday.

When it seemed as though the minister were about to stop he would beam upon the congregation, saying: "Now you will forgive me if I say a few words about this."

And so it went on and on, while from time to time he assumed that he would be forgiven for his long and (in his own opinion) enlightening talk.

But what could anyone do? Just sit still and let the minister believe that his assumption was correct!—New York Sun.

Overhead. "Now, sub, I jes' couldn't get no results with them dicees. It's only got one shirt between me an' starvation."

Headaches are in the majority of cases, caused from Eye Strain. Normal eyes use 15 per cent of the vital energy generated by the human system—Strained eyes must use more. LET'S COOPERATE

Every subscriber to this paper is a cooperator and if we are not featuring stuff you would like to see, call us up and see if it is possible for us to get what you want.

You know it would be foolhardy for us to attempt to continue conducting the STATESMAN if it did not come up to specifications because we are well aware of the fact that the people of today demand, and are going to get the kind of service they want—or they'll quit dealing with us.

And so we want you to tell us what you want. It is possible that we can get it and while we do not expect to please every subscriber every issue; it's like the story of the boy who went visiting and sat down to a meal that would have tempted a king. He ate roast chicken and brown gravy and cranberry sauce and everything within reach, so when it came time for the pie it was pumpkin pie and the kid raised the very roof because that wasn't the kind of pie he wanted.

So we can't please all of you every time, but you will always find enough in the paper that is worth while to you, so you will get more than your money's worth anyway.
