MAKES REQUEST FOR NEW ROAD

Delegates from Campbellsport, Mayville, Knowles, Loma, Dundee and Cascade are asking that the old plant road from Mayville to Cascade be considered as part of the 2500 mile allotment, which is being laid out now. The road in question is County Trunk Line J, leading from Sheboygan County line in Fond du Lac county through Dundee, Campbellsport and over to Dodge county and connects State Trunk Highways 53 and 15, giving the village of Campbellsport a state trunk highway connecting with roads.

The new road would connect both Long Lake and Forest Lake with State Trunk Highway 55. The second proposed route would be County Trunk V from the Campbellsport Bank corner to Kewaskum. This road was promised Campbellsport when State Trunk Highway 55 was laid out where it is now being built. The State Highway Commission at that time stated in its decision that this road would be included in the first allotment of new state trunk highways.

The Hartford Times of last week gives the following account of an accident which befell William Reiland, residing about two and one-half miles west of Kewaskum, last week Tuesday, while riding in a side car of a motorcycle driven by Harold Zurn of the town of Hartford, near North Lake.

"A motorcycle driven by Harold Zurn, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zurn, of the town of Hartford, with a side car attached, which was occupied by William Reiland, of Kewaskum, crashed into a tree near North Lake Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Zurn stated that he was unable to negotiate a turn in the road with the result that he was forced to turn the machine into a ditch where it crashed against a tree. Mr. Reiland was thrown against the tree as a result of the impact while Mr. Zurn was also thrown off the machine. The latter immediately got in touch with Thomas Courtney, of Hartford, who brought the young man to the hospital. Mr. Zurn suffered a broken right thumb and a wrenched left knee besides numerous cuts and bruises. It was at first thought that the Kewaskum young man suffered internal injuries and he was kept at the hospital until Thursday. His injuries are also confined to cuts and bruises. The accident turned out mighty lucky."

CAR COLLIDES WITH COW
Irving Goldlich, Stanley Murray, Clarence Possley and Francis Tighe, all of North Fond du Lac and George Budde of De Soto were badly bruised and shaken up last week Friday night when the Overland car in which they were riding collided with a cow near the David Wright farm, on Highway 53, near Eden. The young men were on their way home from Eden where they had attended a dance. When rounding a corner, a cow unexpectedly stepped into the path of the oncoming car. When the machine struck the animal, the car swerved to one side and crashed through a guard fence. The young men were taken to the St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, and later removed to their homes. The machine was badly damaged.

The cow was so badly mangled that it had to be killed.

FIRE AT FORMER LOUIS GERNER FARM
Fire, which started in the straw stack, and which entailed a heavy loss, completely destroyed the barn, machine shed, cow barn, chicken coop with twenty chickens, granary and all machinery, together with 1000 bushels of grain of the 1922 crop and 500 bushels of the 1923 crop, occurred on the former Louis Gerner farm, located a half mile north of Cheesville in the town of Farmington, now owned by the Fredonia Canning Company, at about 7:15 o'clock Saturday evening. The fire was first noticed by Steven Wanda, Manager of the farm. The threshing crew had finished threshing on the place and the men were working over time cleaning up the premises, when the fire started. The flames spread so rapidly that all that could be saved was the dwelling, the peavine, corn crib and pig pen. The origin of the fire is unknown.

NEW FANE DEFEATS WEST BEND
Last Sunday New Fane traveled to West Bend and defeated the strong team of that place by a score of 5 to 2. Schramm, who hurled for the winners, led the Benders down with two scattered hits, while Schneider pitched for the losers was necked for 11 safeties. Garber and Wentorf both got homers, Garber's being the longest, registered at center field, when he rounded second base he sprained his knee, by getting his foot caught, he finished the game in great form, however. New Fane got three double plays while West Bend got one.

Next Sunday West Bend will play at New Fane for a return game.

DIFFERENT AUTO LICENSE WILL BE ISSUED
In an announcement given out at the Sec'y. of state office, the 1924 automobile license plates will be black and white. The regular plate will be black with white numerals. Special plates will be issued for cars owned by the state, counties and cities. They will be red with white numerals. As a result of the new auto weight tax about a dozen different kinds of license plates will be issued. Each will be sold at a different price. The license will bear a letter of the alphabet on them, designating the class to which they belong. The class is dependent upon the weight.

PHILIP ERBER WEDS
A marriage of considerable interest took place at Fillmore on Tuesday afternoon, when Philip Erber, son of the late Mr. Erber, of that place, was married to Miss Capitola Beck, also of Fillmore. The wedding took place at the St. Martin's church. The father of the groom performed the ceremony. The young couple will reside at Fillmore.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
Sealed bids for the construction of approximately 1,000 linear feet of cement sidewalk will be received by the Village Board of the Village of Kewaskum, Wis., Separate bids per yard, so be received for gravel per yard, and for cement per cubic yard. Specifications can be had at the Clerk's office. All bids to be in the Clerk's office not later than 7:30 p. m., Sept. 4th, 1923. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.
S. N. Casper,
Village Clerk.

Yum, Yum!

FARM BUILDINGS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed a large barn, silo, a chicken coop, 1200 bushels of grain which had just been threshed, 70 tons of hay and a community threshing machine separator worth $1200, at the farm of Charles and Arthur Vols, located a few miles west of Campbellsport in the town of Ashford, last week Thursday afternoon. The fire spread so rapidly that only a few pieces of machinery and several calves could be saved. The stock, at the time of the fire, was still out in the pasture. From reports received here, the Vols brothers together with a number of neighbors had just finished threshing. They were picking up the grain which had fallen to the floor, when Louis Hendricks, Jr., who was tending the separator, saw fire fly from the blower into the straw stack. He gave warning of what had happened, and in the attempt to smother the flames burned his arms severely. A high wind blowing at the time, spread the flames to the barn, and the entire building was soon enveloped in flames. An alarm for help was sent to the Campbellsport Volunteer Fire Company, who responded promptly, but all that could be done was to save the house from also being consumed by the fire. How the fire started is a problem that has remained unsolved to the present time. The separator was run by a tractor, and no sparks could come from there. The entire loss is estimated at $8,000, which is covered with $6,000 insurance on the barn and contents. The separator was insured at $800.

Neighboring News

Farewell Party Held For Campbellsport Girl
Campbellsport, Aug. 28.—Miss Edna Fleischmann was the guest of honor at a party Friday evening when the Misses Elzada and Lola Brown entertained for her at the home of their mother, Mrs. Elzada Brown, Campbellsport. From 8 o'clock to 11:30 the guests played auction bridge, the honors going to Mrs. Herman Pass and Mrs. Ben Day. Miss Fleischmann was presented with a guest of honor gift by the hostesses. Victrola selections were enjoyed during the evening and after the game delicious refreshments were served. Miss Fleischmann will leave Saturday, Sept. 1, for Perth-Amboy, N. J., where she will have charge of the commercial department of the high school there.

Sheboygan Case Like Tale of Enoch Arden With Ending Changed
Sheboygan, Aug. 28.—The old tale of "Enoch Arden" who returned to his home after a long trip, thought dead by his friends and relatives to find his wife married to another man has come true here. But unlike Enoch Arden's wife, Mrs. Julia Richter has already started legal proceedings so that she may return to her first husband. In 1914 her husband left for Russia to claim some property expected to return at the end of a year. When Mrs. Richter, mother of four children, had heard no word from him eight years later she gave him up for dead and married David Schentler in December 1922. Recently a letter came to tell Mrs. Schentler that her first husband, Fred Richter had just been released from a Russian prison and was returning to the United States as soon as possible. True to the husband of her youth she went to Schentler who offered to release her. Judge Kirwan cleared the record for them and Schentler has left Sheboygan.

Wisconsin now has 1,705 rural free delivery mail routes with a total mileage of 45,080 miles. Postmaster General News announces. During the last year nine new routes were established, benefiting 1,314 families. The length of the nine routes was 221 miles. In addition 57 Badger routes were extended benefitting 392 families.

AUTO RACES AT FAIR GROUNDS LABOR DAY

A set of automobile races such as has been held in no other town in Wisconsin will be held at the Fair Grounds at Plymouth, which will again be held at the grounds on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 3rd.

These will be races that will be promoted by the Sheboygan County Automobile Races Association. This association has held races at the fair grounds a number of times in the past, and the spectators have found this to be extremely interesting to watch, because there was real competition between the contestants.

There were no high priced, high powered cars in the races and they did not break any speed records. They were just ordinary cars built for racing by local mechanics and they were not professional drivers who drove them. But the races were not "fixed" beforehand and there was genuine competition between the racers, each one being determined to win, which furnished thrills in large numbers for the spectators. Any kind of a race is interesting only if there is real competition between the racers and each one tries to win, because if a race is "fixed" it will be apparent during the races that the participants are not trying their best.

Members and officials of the association were in Plymouth to see President I. B. Wensink to make arrangements for the use of the grounds on that day. Those who were there to make the arrangements were Messrs. O. H. Halboth of Adell and O. R. Frauenheim and William Gruenewald of Random Lake.—Advertisement.

LOCAL BUSINESS MEN RE-ORGANIZE

The Kewaskum Advancement Association met in the Council Room at the City Hall on Monday evening, and re-organized with a membership of 15. All the old officers held over and are as follows: President, Valentine Peters; Secretary, George H. Schmidt and Treasurer, John Marx. A committee of three, consisting of Elwyn Romaine, Dr. E. L. Morgenthau and Robert Davies was appointed to solicit new members. The purpose of the Advancement Association is to promote community development, for the benefit of Kewaskum and its surroundings. The organization is indeed a good one, and should be given the hearty support of every business man and citizen of the village. During the time the organization was active, a few years ago, it did good work. The necessity of an organization of this kind representing the village, is by far greater importance than ever before in meeting many of the difficult problems that arise daily, in which the citizens of the village as a whole should take a hand in solving. Let everyone be a booster, and when approached by any of the members of the committee, be ready to become a member of this much needed organization, thus helping to push a good cause along. "United we stand, divided we fall."

CAPTURE ALLEGED BURGLAR

A man about 51 years of age who gave his address as Chicago, was taken into custody by Chief of Police Beckmann last night at 10:45 o'clock while prowling around the high school building. On his person was found a large screw driver, and it is believed the captive was about in the act of entering the school building. Only a few days before members of the board reported that thieves had tried to enter the building when they found marks made by a blunt instrument on the door. A watch was kept and Chief Beckmann was rewarded in the capture of the man who is now held in county jail at Port Washington awaiting trial. It is not believed the man taken is connected with the series of school robberies that occurred here last year.—Cedarburg News.

OSCEOLA MAN DRAWS HEAVY FINE

Driving an automobile in the city of Fond du Lac on Tuesday evening while intoxicated, Emil Schmidt of Osceola was fined $100 and costs by Judge Felgen at Fond du Lac on Wednesday morning. Schmidt was driving a Ford roadster, and when he approached the intersection of Sixth and Main streets, he ran into another machine, driven by a Mr. Reinhold. William Schmidt, a brother of Emil, who was with Emil at the time, but not intoxicated, was fined $5 and costs.

NEW SCHOOL FOR BARTON

At a special meeting of the Barton school district held Monday evening it was voted to build a new two room school house, to replace the old building which served for 35 years. The vote was almost unanimous, which shows a fine spirit of cooperation in providing for a very much needed modern school building. The new building will be ready by September, 1924. The old building will be razed.—West Bend News.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Last Sunday was a joyful one for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reich, pioneer citizens of Newburg, when they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, in the presence of immediate relatives. The venerable couple are the parents of five children: John G. and Theodore and Miss Mary Reich and Mrs. P. M. Schuster of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Stoffel, daughter Agnes and son Clarence, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Stoffel and Miss Anna Jung spent Sunday with Rev. Roman Stoffel at Sheboygan. Mrs. Simon Stoffel and son Clarence remained there until Thursday.

CASH AWARDS TO BE OFFERED

Liberal prizes ranging as high as $50 in cash for first honors, are being offered by the Fond du Lac county Agricultural society to the various townships having exhibits at the Fond du Lac county fair, Sept. 3, 4, 5 and 6.

A special appeal is being made to the several townships in Fond du Lac county to have exhibits placed at the county fair this year. The purpose of the township exhibit, is not only to display the products and work of that locality, but also to treat a spirit of friendliness and co-operation among the residents of the community.

Four townships have already entered, and it is expected that this number will be materially increased before next week. The awards that are being offered this year are of worth the time of any community planning an exhibit.

To the township having the best general exhibit, the judges will award a cash prize of $80. Second prize is $70, $50 for third place, $50 for fourth, $50 for fifth and so on.

In planning an exhibit of this kind the fair officials suggest that some sort of a meeting be held in the community, at which time all of the residents will designate what products they will be able to prepare for the general exhibit. It is suggested that a chairman and a committee be appointed or elected to have general charge of the entire exhibit. This committee would collect the products to be exhibited, take them to the fair grounds, decorate the booth and arrange the display.

The township exhibits will be housed in the Exhibition building. This building will also contain a woman's rest room, Canadian exhibit, and an exhibit on the causes and cures for grain rust, prepared by the Extension division of the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

EXPERT ON CHICKENS COMING

County Agent Milton Button of West Bend has made arrangements with Prof. J. B. Hayes, the poultry expert from the University of Wisconsin, to give a series of poultry-culling demonstrations and talks on poultry on various farms in different sections of the county on September 4, 5, 6 and 7. Meetings have been scheduled as follows:

September 4.—On the Jacob Leicht farm in Germantown at 10 a. m., and on the William Reinke farm in the town of Richfield at 2 p. m.

September 5.—On the Nic Stoffel farm in Addison at 10 a. m., and on the John Brown farm in Erin at 2 p. m.

September 6.—On the Gerhard Felten farm in the town of Kewaskum at 10 a. m., and on the Paul Justman farm in Wayne at 2 p. m.

September 7.—On the William Enright farm in the town of Farmington at 10 a. m., and on the Paul Bartel farm in the town of Jackson at 2 p. m.

At these demonstrations Prof. Hayes will show how to tell a laying hen from a non-laying one, and he will do this so clearly that all who hear him will thereafter be able to do culling in their own flocks. He will also give new methods of lid control, tell of the best rations for feeding, and will describe proper ventilation systems for crops.

FINDINGS OF CHEST CLINICS

Twelve cases of tuberculosis were discovered at the Free Chest Clinic of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association in Hartford last week, according to the records of the Association which has just compiled the findings of the clinics for the year. Of these twelve cases, two were in the active or presumptive stage; two were suspicious cases, that is, cases in which the history and physical findings of the patient indicated tuberculosis but in which no definite diagnosis could be made at one examination; one case of quiescent or inactive tuberculosis; six cases of healed lesions and one case of tuberculous pleurisy. Two of the patients found to be tubercular were urged to take sanatorium treatment as the best and shortest road to recovery.

A total of 86 people were examined at the clinic, and of these 86 were referred to their physicians for various conditions. It was found that 34 needed vaccination, and only 25 were in first rate condition.

In addition to the tuberculosis findings the following were discovered: 20 cases of neglected and decaying teeth; 22 cases of diseased or much enlarged tonsils; 8 of enlarged glands; 13 cases of simple goiter; 2 cases of organic heart disease; 7 of nose and throat trouble; 5 of non-tuberculous pulmonary infection; 10 cases of enlarged or diseased adenoids; one case of pleurisy; one of chronic bronchitis; one of thickened pleura; and one of non-tuberculous tracheo-bronchial glands. Six children were found to be more than 10 per cent underweight.

Forty-one examinations were made at the free chest clinic in Slinger last week, and two cases of tuberculosis were found, one active case and one of healed lesions.

Other findings at Slinger were: 8 cases of decayed teeth; 1 of pyorrhea; 12 of enlarged and diseased tonsils; 5 enlarged glands; 8 enlarged and diseased adenoids; one case of joint disease; 2 mixed infections; 2 asthma; 2 chronic bronchitis; 12 simple goiter; 1 organic heart disease; 1 post fib infection; 1 underweight; and 3 anemia. Twenty-two needed vaccination; 33 were referred to physicians for various disorders; and 3 were pronounced O. K.

GAMBLER SAVES TRAIN IN "WHITE OAK"

One of the most unusual, original and thrilling incidents in "White Oak" photography, which will be shown at the Opera House, Sunday, September 2nd, is that in which Mr. Hart in the character of Oak Miller, a gambler, saves a wagon train from Indians single handed, by changing his base of operations from point to point and shooting first with a pistol and then with a rifle.

Attacked from the rear, the savages suppose that this is the fire of a considerable body of attackers and also the deadly aim of the marksman disconcerts them and they drop off, thus giving the emigrants a chance to rally and turn defeat into victory.

The date of the play is in the fighting fifties. It is a graphic story of the hardships of the pioneers and the dastardly work of a smooth villain. It tells a charming love story as well. Vola Vale and Mr. Hart being the principals. The story is an original by Wm. S. Hart and Bennett Musson did the continuity.

All who have read the early history of the emigrant trains of prairie schooners, or who have marveled at the bravery of the men and women of those days, will appreciate this screen romance, and the thrills with which it was possible to invest it. The material was at hand and Mr. Hart made excellent use of it.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE

Attention has been called by railroad officials of the Chicago & North Western Railway company, of a dangerous practice being pulled off in this village, which may result in the loss of life and serious injury. It is reported that children going along the railroad tracks, are amusing themselves by placing nails, spikes and stones on the rails, and then watch for results after a train passes over them. Railroad officials state, that although there is not much danger of a train being derailed by passing over these obstacles, but there is great danger of motor cars being thrown off the track, which may be followed by serious consequences. Officials wish to warn all parents to give their strict instructions to refrain from this dangerous practice, which may afford a great deal of amusement to the youngsters who do not realize the danger resulting from same until such time when an accident occurs.

CARD OF THANKS

The undersigned desire to express their sincere thanks to all those neighbors and friends who assisted us during the illness and burial of our dear departed husband and father, William Fick, who also desire to thank the pall bearers, those who gave floral offerings, to those who so willingly loaned cars, and who are especially thankful to Rev. Kanjes for his comforting ministrations. Thanks are also due the stroller-band for their appropriate songs.
Mrs. Wm. Fick and son Henry.

IN MEMORY

Peaceful be thy silent slumber,
Peaceful in thy grave so low;
Thou no more will join our number,
Thou no more our sorrows know.
Yet again we hope to meet thee,
When the day of life is fled,
And in Heaven with joy to greet thee
Where no farewell tears are shed.

Owing to the heavy amount of advertising in this week's issue of the Statesman, we have printed one page of local ads and news matter on one of the ready print pages of this issue. Do not fail to look for it.

MADDEN PLANS CUT IN TAXES

Chairman of House Appropriations Committee Would Trim All Along Line

SEES SECRETARY MELLON

Relief From Excess Burden on Living Costs Is the Aim of the Chicago Congressman—Bonus Not Included in Estimates.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Representative Martin B. Madden of Chicago, chairman of the house appropriations committee, announced after a conference with Secretary Mellon that he will ask congress at the December session to revise all income taxes downward.

At the same time it was learned that Secretary Mellon will ask congress to reduce the maximum surtax to about 25 per cent, half what it is at present.

Mr. Madden expressed the belief that past and prospective economies in the operation of the government will permit congress to make an immediate reduction in income taxes.

Relief for All Taxpayers. "My plan provides for reduction of the burden of taxes borne by all taxpayers," he said. "It is not limited to a paring of surtaxes. The main object is to afford relief to the taxpayers who have small incomes."

"Great governmental economies have been effected in the past two years. Deficits have been transformed into surpluses. The present revenue law was devised to provide the government with a far larger income than is now necessary or than will be necessary so long as the rule of retrenchment is followed."

Senator Snoot, Republican of Utah, who is slated to head the senate finance committee, recently said an immediate tax reduction is impracticable, but Mr. Madden hopes to be able to convince him of the practicability of the reduction plan.

Bonus Not Included. In estimating the amount of revenue which the government will need, Chairman Madden has not included a sufficient sum to defray a bonus for soldiers. Like Mr. Snoot, Mr. Madden believes a bonus will be passed, but he thinks that congress will provide an additional method for financing the bonus.

PINCHOT IS ARBITER

President Calls Pennsylvania Governor When Coal Strike Ordered.

Coolidge Appoints Him as Emisary of the President in Final Effort to Avert Walkout—Hurries to Coal Fields.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 28.—Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, announced at the close of a session at the Hotel Ambassador that the full scale committee of the anthracite miners had authorized the drawing up of a proclamation covering the suspension of 155,000 mine workers on the expiration of the present working contract on September 1.

No provision has been made for the exemption of the 4,000 maintenance men necessary to keep the mines from flooding owing to the failure of any provision by the operators, miners said, for the basis of payment and the hours of work for these men during the suspension.

This announcement was a considerable surprise to A. B. Jessup, acting spokesman for the operators, who asserted that always in the past the miners had permitted the retention of the engineers and pumpmen in order to protect the properties.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania has been delegated by President Coolidge to attempt to bring miners and operators of the hard coal fields into a new wage agreement before September 1. It was announced at the White House. The selection was made by the President following a conference at the executive mansion with John Hays Hammond, United States coal commissioner.

Divining Spear Leads Sea

Divers to $30,000,000

London, Aug. 28.—All except a few bars of $80,000,000 worth of gold bullion which dropped to the ocean had when a German submarine sank the Laurotic off Donegal, Ireland, have been recovered by divers who since 1918 have been carrying on their labors ninety feet below the surface of the sea. The men have been using a divining spear with a dial attached that shows whether the spear point is touching gold or a base metal such as iron.

POINCARÉ AGAIN DEFIES BRITAIN

"Pay Us or We Stay in Ruhr," France Again Tells the Germans.

SPEECH KILLS NEW HOPES

"Heaven Helps Those That Help Themselves," Premier as He Gives Berlin Government a Warning.

Gondrecourt, France, Aug. 27.—Premier Poincaré, making two of his usual Sunday speeches at a war memorial dedication, reiterated France's defiance of Great Britain in the reparations controversy.

"Heaven helps those who help themselves," he told his audience. "We stay in the Ruhr until we are paid."

The premier spoke at the dedication of a plaque which commemorates the arrival of the first American soldiers in the trenches. It is his custom to make such speeches every Sunday and to take occasion during his addresses to announce his stand on important issues.

In such a speech on a previous Sunday he forestalled the reply which he communicated to the British foreign office the next day. Yesterday's speech is regarded as setting at rest renewed reports that France and Great Britain might yet find common ground.

"The American army broke the springs of the German military mechanism," said the premier. Praisings the role which the United States played in the war, he stressed the fact that the war had not been followed by an alliance between the United States and France.

The premier said that the American withdrawal from Europe had not altered Franco-American relations and that the feeling of France toward the United States was as cordial as ever. "If Germany does not pay," said M. Poincaré, "we shall be forced to repeat, 'Pay or we stay.'"

"The conviction which led us into the Ruhr was the conviction that the best manner of gaining support from either heaven or men was to begin by helping one's self."

"It is vain to pretend that Germany has already paid 420,000,000 gold marks, or even 25,000,000,000 to the reparations commission, as stated by the Washington Economic Institute, an organization of which I have never before heard."

"This false estimate demonstrates what we have to expect from international experts."

Dog Returns to Take Up

Vigil at the Harding Vault

Marion, O., Aug. 28.—A small dog which took up a position near the vault of President Harding during the funeral services, only to be chased away by soldiers the next day after it had been at the foot of the casket all night, returned again to the tomb Monday and has been adopted by the soldiers on guard there. At the time of the funeral Mrs. Harding made a personal request that the dog be not molested.

$100,000 of Bergdoll Gold

Found in Maryland, Belief

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 27.—With the confession of Lee Bowler, a twenty-three-year-old farmer living near here, that the box he dug up last week on the Brownsville-Weverton road contained between $100,000 and $110,000, besides approximately $10,000 in gold coin, indications grew more positive that the money is that buried by Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, famous draft dodger, before his escape to Germany.

WISCONSIN HAPPENINGS

Important News of the Badger State Arranged in Condensed Form

Milwaukee.—Marquette university, Milwaukee, has announced an elaborate building program, the accomplishment of which will take 26 years. A proposed new medical building, a teaching hospital, nurses home and addition to the dental building have been announced. A new law building and a science and administration building are under construction. The new gymnasium and the dental building were completed last year.

Lancaster.—Carl J. Alt, owner of a large herd of Jersey cows, held the honor of high cow and high herd in the Mount Hope-Lancaster Testing association for July. Gray Girl, his best cow, has a record of 603 pounds of butter fat in seven months and 26 days and for July her record stood at 1,333 pounds of milk, 5.6 per cent of butter fat and 74.6 pounds of butter fat.

Park Falls—Miss Helen Thompson

has undertaken to write a history of Park Falls. The work will be divided into two epochs, the first dealing with the history prior to the opening of the twentieth century and the second with events since that date. It is less than 50 years since the sound of the first settler's ax was heard in the forests where Park Falls now stands.

Birchwood.—Spooner's new creamery at Birchwood, which started operations a month ago, is making exceptional progress, averaging eight hundred pounds of butter a day. The creamery has one hundred and seventy patrons and five cream haulers have been engaged. The butter which is not sold locally is shipped to the Chicago market.

Madison.—A bantam hen at Henry Vilus' zoo, Madison, has hatched a brood of quail. The little birds are "doing nicely," according to Dr. C. D. Dwight, benefactor of the zoo. Dr. Dwight obtained eight quail eggs and placed them under the hen. The brood is perfect, he states, not a one being killed, though when hatched they were no larger than a thimble.

Madison.—In compliance with a law passed by the 1923 legislature no buildings can be constructed in Wisconsin over a height of 100 feet except in Milwaukee where the height may be 125 feet, even if plans were under way and construction started before the law went into effect. This is the ruling made by Assistant Attorney General R. M. Rieser.

Friendship—Alfalfa has solved the question of making a light sandy soil pay dividends to the farmer owning it, in Adams county. Farmers of the county who once questioned the advisability of sowing this legume on sandy lands now find that it is the only hay crop that will not wither and die.

Monroe.—A threshing machine that has been in use 43 years is now at work in a field near Monroe. It is now run by a tractor instead of the five teams formerly necessary. The machine requires cutting of the bands and is hand fed. Threshing was done at 1 1/2 cents a bushel in the old days, but now 4 cents a bushel is charged.

Needah—James Turnpaek, 18, of Strong's Prairie, Adams county, was killed by a charge of shot from his shotgun. He and his brother had been shooting crows. It is believed the youth must have been dragging the gun along by the barrel with the butt of the gun on the ground, when the accident occurred.

Sturgeon Bay.—The Dehydrating Products Co., Sturgeon Bay's newest industry, will erect a modern two-story plant. The plant is now occupying leased quarters. Work has started on the dehydrating of a part of Door county's large apple crop, which is now being picked.

Tomah.—Jacob Vandervoort was instantly killed when a bus he was driving was struck by Milwaukee road passenger train No. 15 at a crossing near Tomah. There were no passengers in the bus. Parts of the machine were strewn along the tracks for a quarter of a mile.

Manitowoc.—James G. McClellan has been added to the county's traffic squad as a result of the opening of highway 56. He is the second speed cop now on duty in Manitowoc county.

Minocqua.—O. E. Witt of Brandon has been engaged as principal of the Minocqua schools. Mr. Witt received his training at Ripon college and Columbia university.

Eau Claire.—Boy Scouts have just acquired by lease 80 acres of hardwood timber within walking distance of Eau Claire, for outdoor activities. The boys will build a dam in the creek and cut and float down the logs for a big cabin.

De Pere.—A. L. Simon, for the last five years superintendent of schools at De Pere, has accepted a teaching position on the faculty of the college of economics at Marquette university, Milwaukee.

Fond du Lac.—Despite the efforts of several surgeons, Charles Simon, 14-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Simon, Johnsbury, died from strangulation due to a kidney bean which lodged in his windpipe.

Madison.—The board of directors of the Northern Wisconsin Cooperative Tobacco pool abolished the office of general manager, held by C. A. Hoen, at a meeting held at Madison recently. The annual expenses of the pool were reduced $10,000 by this action.

Green Bay.—Several large building projects now under way in Green Bay will carry active construction work well through the winter months. Included in the projects are a new high school, Main street bridge, Northland hotel, Y. M. C. A. building, Columbus club building, Joannes Bros. Co. warehouse, dryer for the Green Bay sugar company, new Press-Gazette office building. Addition to Belling building, Guild hall for the Episcopal church and new plant of the Baking company. The work will total over $4,000,000.

Fond du Lac.—With her hair burned off and her body badly charred and her clothing a mass of ashes, the body of Mrs. Mary A. Calkins, 93, was found in her solitary home in Brandon. The aged woman, who had lived the life of a recluse in her home on West Main street in the village, had been dead several hours. The fire was caused by an over turned oil stove. A charred broom nearby indicated that Mrs. Calkins had tried to beat out the fire. There were also indications that she had tried to pour water on the flames.

Madison.—The state tax commission was advised by the attorney general's office that, in assessing back taxes, interest shall be added to such taxes at the rate of 10 per cent a year. The interest charge of 10 per cent, the opinion reads, "applies to the soldiers' educational bonus surtax and the teachers' retirement fund, as well as all other back taxes, and no exception is made. Surtaxes are taxes."

Platteville.—Eleven miles of good roadway have been completed within the city limits of Platteville so far this year and several important projects are now being rushed along so that all work may be concluded before the rainy weather of the autumn season sets in. On West Main street over a mile of good highway was built on the Potots road by members of the Kiwanis club.

Eau Claire.—Mrs. P. M. Hanson, wife of the Rev. P. M. Hanson of Chippewa Falls, was painfully injured when her auto collided with a Tibbetts' garage car of Eau Claire. The Hanson car was tipped over and Mrs. Hanson thrown out. Her daughter, Alice, 4 years old, was pinned under the car but was rescued uninjured.

Madison.—Dwight T. Parker, state banking commissioner, announced that he had granted permits to start business to the Nekosoa-Port Edwards Building and Loan association; the Bank of Jackson, Washington county, with capital of $25,000 and the South-west State Bank of Sheboygan with capital of $50,000.

Merrill.—Julius Falk, farmer of the town of Pine River, Lincoln county, in a fit of despondency held the muzzle of a shotgun at a point below his heart, and committed suicide. He is survived by eight children, the youngest 4 years. Falk was 56 years of age and lived in the town of Pine River thirty years.

Madison.—The cost of living is still on the climb. Reports to the industrial commission from all over the state show that from June 15 to July 15 the cost of living increased 1.5 per cent. Since the first of January it has risen 2.4 per cent and the increase over a year ago is 4 per cent.

Shawano.—Highway 47, which leads through the Keshena Indian reservation, is now being used extensively by tourists who formerly detoured over county trunk highways from Shawano to Antigo. The reservation road is now open and in good condition for the first time in several years.

Racine.—Colored handie, a man and a woman, held up Holm Nelson at Racine, taking $50 in cash from him. The woman is said to have aimed the revolver at Nelson while the man took the money from him.

Fond du Lac.—L. P. Goodrich, for the last five years superintendent of schools at Ripon, was elected superintendent of the Fond du Lac schools for three years, at a meeting of the board of education.

Birchwood.—Farmers in Barron, Washburn, Rusk and Sawyer counties have started to market the early potato crop. Prices being paid for the crop now range from $1 to $1.50 a hundred pounds.

Manitowoc.—Death ended a record of sixty-eight years' living on the same farm when Mrs. Dorothy Janig, pioneer resident of Centerville, Manitowoc county, passed away. She was 86 years old.

Baraboo.—Leonard Kleeger of La Crosse was elected president of the Association of Circuit Court Clerks of Wisconsin at the annual business session of the convention held at Baraboo.

Monroe.—A threshing machine that has been in use forty-three years is now at work in a field near Monroe. run by a tractor and pulley instead of five teams formerly necessary for operation. The machine requires cutting of the bands and is hand fed.

Peshigo.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Stillman, estimable residents of Peshigo, celebrated their golden wedding recently. They were married in Appleton in 1873, later residing in Shiocton, coming to Peshigo ten years ago.

Marinette.—In a midnight fire of unknown origin, six horses belonging to the Peshigo Dairy Co. of Marinette were burned to death in a barn.

Appleton.—In a price war at Appleton the cost of bread has been cut to 10 cents for a pound and a half loaf. A large bakery set the precedent in an attempt to crowd smaller ones out and the others are falling in line and threaten to cut still lower. The price was formerly 14 cents for a pound and a half loaf.

CANCELLING ORDER COMPLIED WITH

Reports of the Department of Markets inspectors who are checking on the general egg candling order which was issued June 15th indicate that it is being very generally complied with. Over one thousand shippers have been visited in the last few weeks and seventy-nine have been found who were not candling their eggs and using candling certificates as provided in the order.

Three means are being used to locate violators: personal visits are being made—shipments are being checked in transit and inspections are being made at concentration points. All violations found are reported in to the head office at Madison for such action as the Department of Markets may see fit to bring.

Egg dealers report that fewer bad eggs are being found in country shipments and it is apparent that they are being more carefully handled. Wisconsin eggs are meeting with ready sale in the central markets and their quality commands the top prices.

Producers are urged to care for their eggs before marketing in a manner to maintain their quality and prevent undue soilage. A reputation for Wisconsin eggs is being established which will result in egg producers and dealers receiving the highest market price for their product.

To Make Glass Fit. It is supposed to be difficult to break glass. Here is a simple method: Make a tiny notch by using a file on edge of piece of glass. Heat a small iron (about the size of a fountain pen) until red hot, and apply the red-hot iron to the notch and draw it carefully along the surface of glass in any desired direction. A crack will appear in direction of iron. Subscribe for the Statesman now.

If Stomach is Sour, Food Won't Digest

No stomach filled with sour poisons can digest food. Everything you eat turns into more poison and gas, making you nervous and weak. Simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adierka, expels all sour poisons and gas from BOTH upper and lower bowel. Removes foul, decaying food-matter you never thought was in your system which caused sour and gassy stomach. Adierka is EXCELLENT to guard against appendicitis. Edw. C. Miller.—Advertisement.

BEADED BLOUSES APPEAR; SOME SMART ACCESSORIES

TO THOSE who are "listening" to the last word in styles as broadcast by fashion centers and relayed through the genius of many designers there comes the message that beading will be a favored adornment in fall blouses. Silk embroideries, of course, and a great number of embroidered styles will continue popular. Beading provides a somewhat brighter adornment than silk, and it is in keeping with the colors and materials favored includes neckwear, veils, gloves, girdles, belts, jewelry, fans, undergarments, besides many little articles for which fads come and go. Examples selected from some of the more essential accessories reveal their styles for fall, as shown in the illustration. It includes a veil, a pair of kid gloves, a girdle and three bags all prominent in current modes.

In veils there is a wide variety of patterns in which fine, large-mesh veillings are ornamented with silk em-for fall and winter—it is certain to keep pace with the advance of the season. The cheerful blouse pictured here is of lolly-berry red crepe de chine, with a bead design in white and green. Small round beads are used in making the pattern and long beaded bands in the same color decorate the cuffs and the hem line. The blouse is made with a combination collar which may be worn as shown or snapped closely around the neck. The long set-in sleeves and ribbon tie at the side are both firmly established in the new fashion.

brodery in self color and endless variation in design. Sometimes the veil is almost entirely covered with embroidery, but usually a plain space is left in order not to interfere with the vision when the veil is worn over the face. Quite often the veil serves merely to decorate the hat, with perhaps a little of its edge falling over the brim edge. There are many patterns with floral motifs woven in and outline embroidery added as a border. Gloves reflect the flair for elaboration in other apparel. Gauntlets in two colors of kid for street wear are represented in all displays, but plain wear are being developed in duvetyns, printed silks and a number of novel crepes. In addition to beading, there is considerable interest in metal brocades, applique designs of chenille, tinsel braids and allover patterns of embroidery. A rather startling new blouse recently shown combined bright gold metal cloth with an embellishment of a rose pattern in green and rose beads. "A lady is known by her gloves and shoes," is a fashion adage that means more than it says. It is meant to emphasize the importance of small details in the toilette—things that may lift it out of the commonplace or add to it a touch of elegance or even a superb finish. These accessories of dress command as much attention to them as is well worth while. There is a long list of things that it is the privilege of women to wear—small belongings that lend charm and variety to their apparel and bespeak good taste and refinement. The list chamois skin and chamollette are not outrivaled by the dressier kid. They are shown in white, chamolis, gray, tan, beige, brown and black and their washable quality makes a firm demand for them. Leather bags of all sorts in medium and small sizes remain the most practical and popular shopping bags. Dressier bags are made of mink silk or satin, while beaded bags in all sizes and various shapes divide honors with those of paisley or other fabrics, brightened with steel beads. Sashes, belts and girdles need a small book to tell their story. One of the new girdles made of silk cord is pictured. It points the direction the mode is taking, with its very long tassels and embroidered ornaments.

Sickness. Many of our infectious diseases are of relatively recent origin and due to the artificial, unnatural life of civilization, declares W. B. Scott, Princeton professor. As man's history goes, typhoid is a youngster among diseases, Caesar's Typhoid never bothered Caesar's armies. It was 1829 before typhoid was differentiated from typhus, and a matter of months later until Panama, hotbed of yellow fever until 1851, had no germs of this disease as late as 1874.

We'll find a cure and preventive one of these days. Then nature will send along a new disease. She does, as fast as we conquer the old ones—competition, to keep us battling for existence. That battle breeds strength. Lace Scarfs for Evening Wear. In evening gowns of tulle and the bouffant mode is supreme, the costume is not complete without the accompanying scarf or shawl of metal lace, which is a feature of these numbers.

Obtain Maximum Crop of Potatoes

Reason for Small Average
Is Lack of Attention
Given Seed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the reasons why the average production of potatoes per acre in the United States is lower than in Canada, Great Britain and European countries except Italy, says the United States Department of Agriculture, is that less attention has been given to the character of the seed. Good seed is one of the determining factors in the production of maximum crops of potatoes.

Improvement Practices. Five methods of improvement practices which may be used in securing a high-yielding and commercially desirable strain of potatoes are outlined and discussed in a new bulletin just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, as Farmers' Bulletin 1332, Seed Potatoes and How to Produce Them, by William Stuart. They are the tuber-unit method, hill section mass selection, field roguing and strain testing. For the average grower "mass selection" and "field roguing" are better methods as neither involves the growing and keeping separate of a large number of individual selections. Both are so simple that any person of ordinary intelligence can practice them.

Mass selection differs from hill selection in that the tubers from the individually selected plants are not kept separate. Generally those who practice mass selection do not go to the trouble of marking promising individual plants during the growing season, but simply go through the field before harvesting the whole crop and dig by hand those plants which show the desired vigor and stolon characters which are thought to be correlated with productiveness, trueness to type, and uniformity in size of tubers of the particular variety grown.

Field Roguing Plan. Field roguing consists of removing the diseased, weak, off-type or varietal mixture plants during the growing season. The field from which the seed is to be saved should be gone over in this manner at least three times during the growing season, to insure the removal of all plants affected with transferable diseases, such as mosaic and leaf-roll, as soon as their presence can be detected. In the field-roguing method no attempt is made to select the progeny of individual plants at harvesting time, the whole crop being dug and all desirable seed stock gathered and stored in bulk.

The bulletin contains information on cultural practices, harvesting and storing, seed treatment and preparation and fertilization of the soil. A copy of the bulletin may be obtained free of charge as long as the supply lasts, from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

First Cutting of Sweet Clover as Buds Appear

If sweet clover is to be cut for hay the second time, cut for seed or prepared after the first crop is removed, the first cutting should be made just before or as soon as the buds appear. This is before any flowers are visible. It should be cut at a height of from six to eight inches in order that a sufficient number of buds may be left on the stems to grow and produce the next crop. Cutting after the crop is in bloom or lower than six to eight inches usually results in a very considerable killing of the plants, often practically all except those around the edge of the field. Trials are being made of clipping back sweet clover at various dates and heights to delay the first crop until the usual hay cutting time, which is usually the last week in June or the first week in July. What can be accomplished in this way is not yet known.—C. Army, Minnesota Experiment Station, University Farm.

Grasses Easier to Cure Than Are Legume Hays

Grasses have hollow stems, are fine in texture and have comparatively few leaves and are consequently easier to cure as a rule, than are the legume hays. Timothy cut as it is coming into full bloom is much harder to cure than when cut with the seed in the dough stage. The early cut hay must remain longer in the swath or windrow and in consequence runs greater risk of injury by rain. For this reason many hay growers prefer to wait until the hay can be cut and baled the same day.

Feeding Hay to Sows Is Most Excellent Scheme

While feeding hay to brood sows is not a common practice, it is an excellent plan. It has been determined that sows fed on a corn ration produced pigs weighing 1.74 pounds each at birth, while pigs from sows who were fed all the bright alfalfa they wanted produced pigs weighing 2.29 pounds at birth.

Let Horses Go Barefoot After Heavy Fall Work

It is a good plan to allow the horses to go barefooted after the heavy fall work is over. But with the advent of ice and snow, it is best to get them reshoed if they are to be used on rough roads. Many a horse has suffered a $50 sprain for want of a 50-cent shoe.

Wheat for Seed Should Be Carefully Treated

Wheat to be used for seed should be treated before planting if there is any suspicion that smut is present. It should be given the formaldehyde treatment, using one pint of formaldehyde to forty gallons of water. The seed must be carefully fanned before treating in order to remove the smut balls. This solution is then sprinkled onto the wheat until it is thoroughly damp.

Crimson Clover Seed of Inferior Quality

Samples Tested for Germination Were Very Low.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An examination of the quality of crimson clover seed has recently been made by the seed testing laboratories of the bureau of plant industry, United States Department of Agriculture. Samples secured from representative growers were tested for germination. As this was done during the month of June, seed of the 1923 crop was not available.

One-fifth of the samples was found to contain less than 25 per cent of live seed, and two-fifths of the samples contained less than 50 per cent of pure live crimson clover seed. In other words, two-fifths of the samples of crimson clover seed offered farmers during the month of June were of such poor quality that they would not be permitted entry into the United States under the seed importation act. The proportion of high grade seed offered in the market will be increased when the 1923 crop seed is available, but nevertheless the old seed of low vitality now being offered will be sold for seedling purposes.

It should be kept in mind, says the department, that crimson clover seed loses its vitality more rapidly than most other seeds, and therefore it is especially important to know in advance of seeding how much of it may be expected to grow under favorable soil and weather conditions. If the germination is not known before sowing, many failures in the field are sure to follow.

Sells Pure Bred Cattle to Oklahoma Scoffers

Illustrating the satisfaction and prosperity that come with improved live stock, Robert Ellis, an Oklahoma dairyman, tells of his experiences with scoffers when he began raising pure bred. "When I shipped in my first pure bred heifer," he stated in a recent letter to the United States Department of Agriculture, "the old, gray-headed men gathered around me and asked me what I had for her. When I told them $240, they said I had more money than brains. They said I could not sell my cattle in the county at that price. But I am glad I am a pure bred stockman and one of the first to enroll with Uncle Sam to put the scrub sires out. I have sold cattle to some of the men who laughed at me and I received $450 for one animal. Mr. Ellis adds that he observed the difference between scrubs and pure bred by being unable to obtain more than $100 for a scrub while pure bred ordinarily sold for $150 and up.

Dusting Most Practical to Relieve Fowls of Lice

Lice on chickens multiply so fast that one pair of lice may be grandparents to over 100,000 descendants in two months. Most of their lives are spent on the fowl, part on the nest. Eggs or nits are most commonly found on the barbs of the down feathers. Body lice spend their entire life on the fowl. Dipping often causes colds and disease, so dusting has been found to be the most practical. A cheap and good home-made powder can be made by mixing one part of steatite, dip or crude carbolic acid with three parts of gasoline and using it to moisten as much cement or plaster of paris as possible. Dry and apply liberally to the fowls.

Greatest Food Value of Corn Found in Silage

Corn for fodder should be cut at the same time as for silage and stored in large round shocks until cut at the top. Corn fodder is a good reliable dry feed, but is wasteful. Experiments have abundantly shown that the most economical way of preserving the greatest food value of corn is to store it for live stock. Colorado experiments show that corn shocked and dry cured in the field loses all the way from 25 per cent up to 85 per cent of its value by blowing away and by other losses, largely mechanical, due entirely to climatic conditions.—Extension Service, Colorado Agricultural College.

Clover Crop Will Not Thrive in Sour Pasture

Some pastures are sour and as the result clover does not thrive in them. Blue grass and other grasses may yield fairly well on land that is somewhat sour, but the sour blue grass pasture, in fact, the ideal pasture of any kind, is one that contains at least some clover. The atmospheric nitrogen which the clovers and all legumes are able to assimilate, adds just that much fertility to the soil and then serves as food for the grasses. This is why a blue-grass pasture containing clover always produces more feed than one containing no clover.

Green Crops for Swine Are of Much Importance

The importance of green crops for hogs can hardly be overestimated. No hog breeder can succeed today unless he makes use of green pastures. All pasture crops are more valuable while they are young and succulent. It is advisable to have two or three pastures which can be used alternately.

Clover Does Much Good.

Clover would not be worth growing except for the fact that it opens up the subsoil with its deep roots, makes valuable hay and valuable seed and adds nitrogen and humus to the soil.

Bacteria Grow Rapidly.

Bacteria are always present in milk and grow rapidly at a temperature ranging between 80 degrees and 100 degrees Fahrenheit. They are in the milk as it leaves the udder.

No Helpless Damsel, This. A Titan-haired beauty visited us for a month and I fell in love with her, but was unable to muster up sufficient courage to propose. I was escorting her to the depot and a couple of young hoodlums followed, shouting "Red-head." Here was my chance to prove myself a gallant knight and win the fair lady. "Promise you'll be my wife and I'll thrash him," I whispered. "You don't want much for doing a little stunt that I can attend to myself," she fairly scolded, and turning suddenly she gave her tormentors the shaking of their young lives.—Exchange.

Why He Called It "Portland" Cement

In 1824, an English mason wanted to produce a better cement than any then in use. To do this he burned finely ground clay and limestone together at a high heat. The hard balls (called clinker) that resulted were ground to a fine powder. When a mixture of this dull gray powder with water had hardened, it was the color of a popular building stone quarried on the Isle of Portland off the coast of England. So this mason, Joseph Aspdin, called his discovery "portland" cement.

That was less than one hundred years ago.

Portland cement was not made in the United States until fifty years ago. The average annual production for the ten years following was only 36,000 sacks. Last year the country used over 470,000,000 sacks of portland cement. Capacity to manufacture was nearly 600,000,000 sacks.

Cement cannot be made everywhere because raw materials of the necessary chemical composition are not found in sufficient quantities in every part of the country. But it is now manufactured in 27 states by 120 plants. There is at least one of these plants within shipping distance of any community in this country.

To provide a cement supply that would always be ample to meet demand has meant a good deal in costly experience to those who have invested in the cement industry. There have been large capital investments with low returns.

In the last twenty-five years, 328 cement plants have been built or have gone through some stage of construction or financing. 162 were completed and placed in operation.

Only 120 of these plants have survived the financial, operating and marketing risks of that period. Their capacity is nearly 30 per cent greater than the record year's demand.

These are a few important facts about an industry that is still young. Advertisements to follow will give you more of these facts, and will tell something of the important place cement occupies in the welfare of every individual.

Waupun Police Chief Locked From Office

Although all the locks on the city hall have been changed so that the keys he has will not fit, Floyd Gray still maintains that he is chief of police of the Prison City and says that he will continue as chief until C. L. Ringhand shows him he has a better right. Gray, chief for many years, was appointed by a police board named by a retiring mayor a few weeks ago. The mayor's successor, deeming that the police board was illegally appointed, named Ringhand chief and since that time both "chiefs" have been functioning as head of the police department and the citizens of Waupun have felt doubly secure.—Hartford Press.

Hand Taken Off By Feedcutter

While working on his father's farm west of Cascade, Arthur Marquardt, who was running a feedcutter, had the misfortune to have his hand severed above the wrist. He was in the act of cleaning the cut feed away from the knives which are fastened on a kind of a drive wheel and not revolving on a shaft as most cutting machines do, in some unexplainable manner, he got his hand too close to the knives and the loss of his hand was the result. He was brought to Dr. Brun's office, and the doctor took him to the hospital where his wound was dressed.—Plymouth Herald.
