CAMPBELLSPORT INSURANCE CO. HAS GOOD YEAR

The annual meeting of the Campbellsport Mutual Fire Insurance Company was held at the company's office, Campbellsport, Wis., on Friday, P. M. Monday, January 21st, 1924. Three directors were elected for three year terms, and other general business transacted.

POSTOFFICE ROBBERS DRAW TEN YEAR TERM

Frank Ward, James White and Thomas Murray, who were indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of robbing the Campbellsport post office on Dec. 12, were found guilty in federal court at Milwaukee on Wednesday afternoon. The defendants did not put up any defense. A confession made by Ward at the Fond du Lac county jail, was testified to by Sheriff Schlaak of Fond du Lac county and was corroborated by John Niles, post office inspector. The trio were sentenced to ten years in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth on Thursday, after having been found guilty on four counts, namely: first count, five years, second and third counts, two years each to run concurrently and two years on fourth count. The first count was that of burglary of the post office building, second, for larceny of stamps, third, for larceny of the mail bags, and fourth, for larceny of bags by burning. The men took their sentence calmly and declared that they had nothing to say whatever.

How The Job Was Done According to a confession made by Ward, Sheriff Schlaak, the following gives an account of how the job of robbing the Campbellsport post office was pulled off.

A DIFFICULT FOCUS

SELECTED JUNIOR PROM QUEEN

Miss Cecil Runte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Runte of Oshkosh, formerly of this village, was selected Junior Prom Queen of Marquette University. Miss Runte, who has been attending this institution at Milwaukee for the past three years, studying for a trained nurse, is making rapid progress, not only in her studies as a nurse, but has also become prominent in university circles, in which she is taking an active part. The Milwaukee Journal of Friday, January 18th, issue, gave a very glowing account of Miss Runte's work, and also published a portrait of the young lady. The article reads as follows:

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

Two-Story Fall And Uninjured Mayville—Last week Tuesday afternoon Charles Achtenhagen, aged 79 who has been confined to his home for several months, fell from the second story window of his home while he was endeavoring to obtain fresh air. Mr. Achtenhagen lost his balance as he fell to the snow covered ground below. Help was at once summoned, and the aged man carried into the house and a doctor summoned, who made an examination and found that he had suffered only a scratch upon his face as a result of the fall. For 37 years Mr. Achtenhagen was the proprietor of a bakery in Mayville and only retired a few years ago.

ANOTHER BIG GAME SUNDAY AFTERNOON

In what will be the biggest and one of the most important games of basketball played here this season, will be staged at the Opera House tomorrow Sunday afternoon, Jan. 27, when the local Legion team will clash with their old rivals, the strong A. C. team of Slinger, Washington County's champions for the past ten years. The Slinger lineup is composed of practically the same players that made up the team last year, and so far this season have been hitting a good clip. Winning every game they played by a wide margin. They are coming here, with the strong intention of giving our boys a good trimming. The locals are bound and determined to turn the tide this year and thereby stop the invader's long string of victories handed to them in past years. To do this means that the fans of this village and community, can go to the Opera House Sunday afternoon with the intention of seeing one of the fastest and snappiest games of the season. A game in which both teams will huddle to the finish, in an effort to slip over the winning points. The locals have also been hitting a good pace lately, and to defeat them on their own floor means a hard fought game on the part of the visiting team.

WAS CHECK; NO FUNDS

Andrew Bauer, aged 34 years, a former resident of Hartford, is at the county asylum in West Bend for observation as to his mental condition. Bauer had been hanging around the city for a number of days, and on Tuesday last week he boarded one of the beer trucks running between West Bend and Milwaukee. While at West Bend he wrote out a check, which was cashed by Gust Helm. Mr. Helm soon learned that he had been hoodwinked and reported the matter to Deputy Sheriff John Jaekel of Germantown, who apprehended Bauer while he was enroute to Milwaukee. Bauer, who had no funds in the bank on which the check was issued, was brought back to West Bend and given a hearing before Justice Havlen, who placed him under bonds of $500. Being unable to raise that amount, Bauer was taken to the county jail, where for a number of nights he kept the jailer, Gust Benke, and his wife from sleeping through his violent tactics. Bauer was later taken to the county asylum for further observation. His mind is now clearing and when he has recovered entirely he will be brought back to jail and will be given a chance in court to account for his wrong doing.—West Bend Pilot.

NO GAME WARDEN FOR WASHINGTON AND DODGE COUNTIES

That Washington and Dodge counties will be without a game warden for some time is shown by the following letter which was received from the Commission of Conservation at Madison by one of the Dodge county Game Warden Leagues which has been trying to secure the appointment of a game warden for some time. These two counties have been without a warden the past year and as a result the hunting and fishing laws were violated to quite an extent. The following is the letter from the commission:

MAKE RAID AT MARBLEHEAD

Federal authorities are making an investigation as the result of findings made consisting of a number of Liberty bonds and stamp book in a raid on Dec. 27, at the home of Massimo Sartoris, former postmaster at Marblehead.

Flames Sweep Lomira Office

The office and warehouse of the Verne Rakeley Oil Company, located in the village of Lomira, was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon with a loss estimated at between $2,500 and $3,000. The fire is believed to have started from an overheated stovepipe and had gained considerable headway when discovered. The Lomira fire department was summoned but the flames had engulfed both buildings and there was no chance of saving them.—Hartford Press.

BOWEN AWARDED $2,500

Ezekiel Bowen of Dunlee was allowed the sum of $2,500 in circuit court at Fond du Lac Friday when the jury found that the town of Oseola's failure to keep the road in a safe condition was the approximate cause of serious injury which he received in an automobile accident on Oct. 23, 1922. Bowen brought suit against the town for $15,000, claiming that the road on a hill near Dunlee was unsafe because it was too narrow, and because the guard rails were partly down and had been so for a considerable length of time.

25,000 GALLONS OF GASOLINE DESTROYED

Gasoline valued at $5,000, was destroyed recently at Beaver Dam, when some one opened the valves of the oil tanks owned by Campeco Oil company at that place. The deed was done during the night. It is estimated that approximately 25,000 gallons flowed out of the tanks, a large amount flowing into wells nearby. In some cases the wells were filled half full of oil. The company is having an investigation made and is offering $500 reward for the arrest of the culprits.

BEECHWOOD OLD SETTLER DIES

At his home in Beechwood on Saturday, Jan. 19, 1924, the angel of death called away Jacob E. Hammen, after an illness of eleven and one-half years with a complication of disease. He was born Feb. 28, 1860, in the town of Scott, where he spent almost his entire life. On Oct. 9, 1888, he was married to Susanna Rosenthal. After their marriage they resided on a farm in the town of Scott, until March 18, 1916, when they came to their present home at Beechwood. This union was blessed with three children, two surviving are: Walter of Beechwood, Mrs. George Kraukramer, Willie and Lena at home. Three children died a number of years ago. He also lived to mourn his demise, two brothers, Peter Hammen of Ripon and Christ Hammen of the town of Wayne, and two sisters, Mrs. G. A. Schulz of the town of Sherman and Mrs. Henry Rosenthal, deceased, was well known in this community being highly respected by all. Though his illness was severe, he bore them with patience until he was finally called away to eternal sleep. The funeral was held on Wednesday, Jan. 23, at 2 p. m. from the home, with services in the Ev. Reformed church at Beechwood. Rev. Kuehne officiated. Burial took place in the Beechwood cemetery. About fifteen years ago he was taken sick with rheumatism. Nothing was done to relieve him. He spent several years at a sanatorium, but without results. For the past eleven and one-half years he had been lying on a cot, perfectly helpless. One of his last wishes were that six of his nephews should act as pall bearers, which request was followed out, and who were as follows: Jacob Hammen, Carmen Hammen, Albin Hammen, Chester Schultz, Fred Rosenthal and Oscar Eber.

REMMEL MFG. CO. HAS VERY PROSPEROUS YEAR

The annual meeting of the stock holders of the Remmel Manufacturing Company, was held in the company's office on Wednesday evening. The following directors were re-elected for the ensuing year: Nicholas Remmel, L. P. Rosenthal, H. Rosenthal, Otto E. Lay, Geo. H. Schmidt, Wm. Butzlaff and Edw. Klug. The Remmel Manufacturing Company, builders of the famous "Remmel Mixtures" is a successful year. The company declared a good dividend, and is now on a good sound financial footing. Through hard work of the officials, the company's business steadily increased to such an extent that the volume of business done, more than doubled that of 1922. The company worked full time the entire year, and during the busiest part of the season had to employ additional help, to make possible the handling of the work fast enough to fill the orders. Prospects for 1924 being a banner year as reported by the officials, one which, judging from present indications, will be far exceeded that of 1923. The company is going to spread out their work, in that they will not only build concrete mixers for farm purposes, but for large construction companies as well. Orders for concrete mixers have already been received and work of turning them out as fast as possible has been started. With an outlook of this kind, means that the impetus in which the company will do business will not only include the United States but foreign countries as well.

LEONARD DAY COMING BACK TO WISCONSIN

Leonard Day, the hatless, coatless and penniless hiker, who walked around the rim of the United States, and who finished his long trip on last Christmas day is coming back to Wisconsin. This time for a bride. According to a dispatch received from San Francisco, which reads as follows: "Leonard Day, San Francisco novelist, who swore off matrimony, returned on Christmas, when he completed a 10,572 mile walk around the rim of the United States, has broken his New Year resolution and succumbed to the impulse of his heart, which has directed him to claim a prospective bride. "I am going to hike directly to Stevens Point, Wis., where the future Mrs. Leonard Day lives. There we will be married and I will give her a machine as a wedding present. The two of us will travel to New York for our honeymoon, say at the wheel of the machine and myself on foot, and then I will quit forever and ride home." "When Day returns he will occupy a little cottage down at San Carlos, where he will put into volumes the experiences that he has encountered and enjoyed during a couple of years. He plans to average 17 miles a day, six days a week, and being a good Christian, will rest on the seventh. "Though 43 years of age, Day hikes without hat or coat through weather ranging from 18 below zero to 127 degrees above, and he enjoys it. "In November, 1922, when he offered a manuscript, "The Unsolicited Generosity of the American People," to a local publisher, he was turned down. Not to be dissuaded, he made an agreement whereby he was to walk across the continent without money in his pocket and would neither seek meals or lodging without an invitation in return for which his novel was to be published. He was not to accept of it, according to Day, is carrying out his part of the pact. "A dispatch from Stevens Point says: Mrs. Robert F. Building, who lives at the Fish home, 1150 Clark street, and the wedding is to take place here in early spring. Mr. Day is now in Nevada, walking part of the way and riding part of it under instructions from a doctor who said that it would be inadvisable for him to give up his strenuous exercise all at once. When he reaches Salt Lake City he will telephone to Stevens Point, at which time more definite plans for the wedding will be made. The hiker has been on the way two weeks. "Denial was made by friends of Mrs. Fostis of the statement in the story from San Francisco that Day was to ride while his bride rode in their car. Both are planning to motor east. "Miss Fostis is a graduate of the rural department of the State Normal and has been a school teacher. She recently substituted for at the Fish home a recently arrived. Mr. Day met her while he was being entertained at Stevens Point during his recent hike."

DEATH OF MRS. GUST KONITZ

Mrs. Gustave Konitz, beloved wife of Gust Konitz, owner of the Konitz Shoe Store of this village, passed peacefully away in death at her home here, last week Friday evening at five o'clock, Jan. 18, 1924, as the result of a stroke which she suffered a week prior to her death. She was 66 years of age. She was born in Province Posa, Germany, and immigrated to this country in 1888, settling in Beaver Dam. A year and a half ago she was married to Gust Konitz. Deceased leaves to one son, Gust, two daughters and one son. The remains were shipped to Beaver Dam on Saturday afternoon, where the funeral was held on Monday, with services in the Lutheran church there. Burial was made in the Union cemetery. During the time she resided in this village, she won a number of friends by whom she was well liked, and who will feel her absence keenly.

TOWN OF ASHFORD MAN EXPIRES

T. L. Johnson, aged 68 years, a prominent farmer and Democratic leader of the town of Ashford, died at his home there on Sunday, Jan. 20th, after an illness of several months duration. Deceased was born in the town of Ashford on Feb. 15, 1856. He had lived there ever since with the exception of several years when he resided in Redwood, Minn. He was deeply interested in politics, and was elected to political office. He was also the founder of the Hillside cheese factory in Ashford. Besides his wife, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Campbell, and the following children: Henry of Ashford, Mrs. A. Witz and Mrs. Edward Martin of Campbellsport, Mrs. Neal McIntosh of Fond du Lac and Mrs. Monroe Smith of Eden. The funeral services were held on Wednesday at 10 a. m. Rev. J. M. McFarland of Eden officiated. Services were held at the St. Matthew's church, Campbellsport.

DEATH OF LEO SCHNEIDER

Leo Schneider, beloved husband of Mrs. and Mrs. Jacob Schneider, of the town of Farmington, died last Monday evening, January 21st, 1924, at 8:30 o'clock, at the age of five years and seven months. He was born in Farmington, March 10, 1918. The little boy was sick only one day with a case of the brain. The funeral was held on Thursday, January 24, at 10 o'clock with services in the Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. J. E. Beyer officiated. Deceased leaves to parents, his sorrowing parents, and five sisters, and one step brother. Four of his school mates, who are members of the ball bearers, namely: Victor Schneider, Anton, Rodenkirch, Theodore, Paul, Lester Schneider. Burial was made in the congregation's cemetery.

BROTHERS AND SISTERS MARRY

Lomira, Jan. 21—Two days after their sister and brother, Miss Agatha Schill and Mathew Klumpjian, were married at Waukesha, Ill. Miss Rose Schill and Nicholas Klumpjian, also married to the Illinois city and were united in marriage there Monday, returning to this village Tuesday. The former couple was married Saturday. The brides are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Schill of the town of Ashford. Mathew Klumpjian has been employed by the Dallman Construction company at Lomira. He and his bride returned to Lomira Monday. On Wednesday both couples left for Colby for visit with the groomsmen's father, who resides on a farm. Nicholas Klumpjian was employed in Lomira by the Lomira Furniture Manufacturing company. The brides were formerly employed at the Carnation Lomira room at West Bend.

England to Have 52 Air Squadrons

Military Plans to Equal Strength of Other Nations.

New York.—The new British military aeronautical program contemplates the building of fifty-two squadrons of airplanes within the next three to five years, thereby placing England on equal strength with the air forces of other nations of Europe, the Duke of Sutherland, undersecretary of the British air ministry, said recently at the Ritz Carlton hotel. This program he said, was apart from the air activities of the dominions and was under the head of home defense.

The duke said that Britain was not engaged in any aerial armament race, but simply establishing an air force commensurate with the country's needs and position. He was certain that there was a greater interest in the development of civil aviation, disclosing that an ambitious program had been worked out tending toward the opening of commercial routes from London to leading cities of continental Europe and to Cairo, Egypt. England regards flying as essential to commerce as shipping, he added.

Firms to Get Subsidy.
The duke said the government recently had consummated an arrangement whereby three of the leading commercial air companies, which had combined, would receive a government subsidy, totaling £1,000,000. This subsidy would be extended over a ten-year period when he believed the lines would be self-sustaining.

"The purpose of my visit," he said, "is to study, as undersecretary of state for air, the manner in which the United States has undertaken the development of flying by establishing personal contact with the government air service and the industry through the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. While I have yet, of course, to form my definite opinions, it would appear that the American aircraft industry had registered astounding achievements, unaided by subsidy, in developing aircraft performance to the end that most of the world records are now held by the United States."

"England looks upon flying as an economic contribution as essential to commerce as shipping. Aviation should not be regarded as a menace, to be curbed. Aviation ended England's insularity. England is now as much a part of continental Europe as France or Germany. England's effort is to develop commercial flying, and at the same time provide for its air defenses in proportion to the size and importance of the British Empire. The only thought of competition in the air which England entertains is commercial competition."

Interested in U. S. Mail Planes.
"England is especially interested in American aviation development in high speed, in carrying mails and express, and more recently, in developing airships. The American air mail experiment is unique and has attracted universal attention, particularly the experiments conducted in night flying last summer. England's airship program undoubtedly will be influenced by American initiative. The construction of your navy airship was a great engineering feat and the acquisition of German airship assistance a business stroke which is likely to have far-reaching effect.

"With regard to civil aviation, I believe we are ahead of America, partly, on account of the subsidies the British government pays to operating firms. Rightly or wrongly, we believe in this policy for the purpose of fostering the growth of civil aviation at the start."

Accompanied by Group Captain M. G. Christie, air attaché at the British embassy, the duke went to Mitchell field where he inspected the planes. Lieutenant A. J. ("Al") Williams, U. S. N., holder of the world speed record, greeted the visitor in behalf of the American aviators.

Black Sea Is Once More Pirate Haven

Scene of Piratical Operations in Days of the Romans.

Washington, D. C.—"History, the great teacher, is again functioning according to maxim, for the Black sea, on which a message reports a blood-and-thunder pirate attack recently took place, was the scene of piratical operations at various times from the days of the Romans through the Middle Ages and down to the Nineteenth century," says a bulletin of National Geographic society of Washington, D. C.

"Though the Black sea has few advantages for pirates, such as safe harbors and hidden recesses among small islands, in its waters was built, and from Constantinople at its outlet was operated, one of the most powerful pirate fleets known to history. When the great Sultan Suleiman the Magnificent wanted to acquire dominant power in the eastern basin of the Mediterranean, he sent for Khalid-ed-din, the younger Barbarossa, who was the triumphant master of the western Mediterranean.

When Turkey Ruled the Seas.
"When the notorious old sea dog hove in sight with his Barbary fleet tricked out in all its flags and pennants, the greatest of the Ottoman emperors knew that this vigorous burly fighter, whose erstwhile red beard which had given him his name was now white, possessed just the qualities of leadership which he desired. In the Turkish dockyards at the mouth of the Black sea Khalid-ed-din laid out his galleys and in the spring put out into the Mediterranean with 84 vessels to write the story of Turkish sea supremacy upon the map of Europe."

"The waters just beyond the mouth of the Black sea were a particularly favored haunt of pirates, because the numerous islands of the Aegean furnished a maze of straits and inlets in which they could escape from pursuit, just as the West Indies and the Windward Islands of the Caribbean did for the buccanniers of the Seventeenth century in America, and through the Mediterranean lay most of the established trade routes of the world."

"But the Black sea itself, though it offered them few of the advantages they desired, was an excellent home base from which to operate and in which to store their ships. It has almost no harbors and its southern shores were skirted with mountains, with few ways of access to the interior. The buccanniers of the southern coast, however, used to pick up their boats when the winter season set in and take them on their shoulders into the mountains out of the way of harm."

Whence Its Name.
"The early Greek navigators dubbed it Axeus, meaning unfriendly to

U. S. Navy Captain Bars Baby Elephant
Port Said, Egypt.—The American cruiser Concord put into port here recently. The vessel was greeted with salutes from the British and Egyptian authorities. The crew's mice played an exhibition baseball game before 10,000 native spectators.

Visitors were permitted on board the cruiser. Assortment of this was taken by many of the natives, who brought with them various gifts, among them a baby elephant. The captain, however, politely declined to accept the animal, explaining that the alien quota of the vessel was full.

Jail German Druggist Who Won't Accept Marks

Berlin.—Six months in jail and a fine of 10,000,000,000 marks was the sentence imposed on a Frankfurt druggist for refusal to take paper marks in exchange for petroleum. He told the court he had to pay for the oil in some sort of stable money and consequently did not know how he could replenish his stock if he sold for paper marks.

Under the laws of the republic paper marks are legal tender and the judge had the druggist hustled off to jail immediately, explaining that such treatment of the dealer would have good effect on other merchants and afford the public protection.

Peaches Grow in Winter

Goldendale, Wash.—Juicy peaches picked from a tree in the garden orchard on his farm in the Carp lake district of the foothills of the Simcoe mountains, about seven miles northwest of Goldendale, were displayed recently by Charlie Neal, pioneer homesteader of the Kilkittat valley. Mr. Neal said he expects to have mid-winter fruit fresh off the tree soon.

Imports Arouse Britons

London.—British hop growers are working together to prevent the importation of hops. It is said that 900,000 hundredweight of foreign hops came into the country during the last three years, and if this amount had been grown locally it would have given employment to 30,000 men at 45 shillings a week.

Well Ventilated Barns for Dairy

Experts Have Found That Dirty Old Structure Was Germ Breeding Place.

Modern living conditions have caused people to pay much greater attention to the milk supply in recent years. Laws have been made to insure cleanliness and sanitary conditions in handling milk, that the health of the consumer may not be endangered. Rigid inspection to prevent sale of milk from diseased cows has been established throughout the country.

Clean, well ventilated barns are absolutely necessary to healthy cows. The old, dirty barn was a breeding place for disease, especially tuberculosis, experts have found. The rough floors could not be properly cleaned, and filth and germs accumulated constantly.

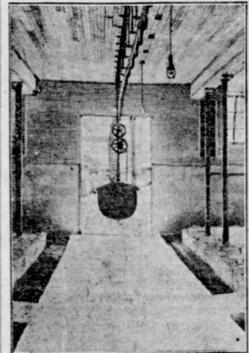

Value of Concrete Seen.
With the increase in demand for sanitary barns the value of concrete is coming to be recognized more and more. Many farmers are tearing up old plank floors and building sanitary concrete floors in their barns.

These floors can be laid even in the winter if the temperature inside of the barn can be kept above freezing until the concrete is hardened.

Agricultural colleges and many barn equipment manufacturers are now furnishing free to farmers the plans for construction of sanitary dairy barns.

The site of the barn should be leveled off and cleared of rubbish and all holes in the ground should be filled and tamped solid.

Good practice is to build a manger curb first. Correct execution of this work is absolutely necessary in order that the steel stanchions will fit. The curb should be five or six inches thick and project about six inches above the top of the floor level when finished. A 1-2-3 concrete mixture is best for the curb.

Mix Cement With Sand.

This means that each sack of portland cement must be mixed with two cubic feet of sand, three cubic feet of pebbles or crushed rock. The sand should pass through a screen with a one-fourth inch mesh. The stone should be clean, rough and vary in size from one-fourth inch to one and one-half inches.

Concrete must be placed in the form immediately after mixing and thoroughly tamped or spaded to insure complete filling of all holes. The next step probably should be the building of the stall platform, for which a 1-2-3 mixture is used. The full thickness of the floor is placed at once. The work should be finished with a wood float to make the surface sufficiently gritty to prevent it from becoming slippery.

The concrete mangers may be placed at the same time as the stall platform, using the same mixture of concrete. The surface of the manger should be finished with a steel trowel to insure its smooth surface for the animals to eat from. Litter and feed alleys may be constructed after the mangers and stalls are finished. Concrete floors should be hardened from ten days to two weeks before being used.

Plan to Prevent Spread of Live Stock Diseases

To prevent the spread of live stock diseases from one part of the country to another the United States Department of Agriculture maintains thorough inspection at all important market centers. Last year the inspectors for the government inspected nearly 21,000,000 cattle, practically 20,000,000 sheep, and more than 48,000,000 hogs. To comply with regulations so that they might continue in interstate commerce 12,775 cattle and more than 1,000,000 sheep were diseased. More than 458,000 hogs were immunized against hog cholera under department supervision for distribution as feeding and breeding animals.

Lack of Cleanliness Is Cause of Calf Troubles

Lack of cleanliness is directly or indirectly responsible for nearly all disorders and diseases of calves. Filth, whether in the feed pens, bedding or stalls, is dangerous to the health of the calf. In filth the bacteria that cause disturbances in the calf's stomach multiply at a high rate.

To be safe, use nothing but clean milk and feed, scald the pails, or better, sterilize them with steam. Feed boxes, in order to be sanitary, must be cleaned daily and all left-over material removed. Freedom from filth usually means freedom from disease.

Horse and Mule Pulling Contests at Iowa Fair

The world never knew what a horse could do until the horse and mule pulling contests were held at this year's Iowa state fair. The teams tested developed all the way from 8.6 to 21.2 horse-power, and exerted from 2,000 pounds up to 2,300 pounds in tractive pull.

Value of Timber Not Realized by Farmers

Owner Should Watch Closely to Sell at Best Price.

Too many farmers, according to the forestry authorities at the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell, do not have any idea of the value of the timber they come to sell this timber when they are likely to be fleeced by unscrupulous buyers. It is almost as if they had deposits in the savings bank and then sold the sum of these deposits to one who came along and made an offer, however small, for the accumulated savings.

A bulletin issued by the college says that the value of timber on the stump in the farm woodlot depends on three things. First, the kind of timber; second, the cost of cutting, hauling, sawing and transferring the lumber to the shipping point; and third, the supply of and demand for any given kind of timber. The last of these three factors is likely to vary the most, and the owner of timber lands should watch it closely so that advantage may be taken of good markets.

Woodlots may be improved for years by taking out for cordwood the defective, undersized and less valuable kinds of trees, and leaving the valuable ones of good form to grow and add the best value for lumber. Under the circumstances, the college says, the owner of timber land should know just how many board feet his woods contain and should supervise all work in the woods so carefully that even after cutting the woodlot will be left in better condition than it was before.

Much Loss From Neglect to House Farm Machines

It has been said that the depreciation of an implement shed is greater than that of the machinery due to exposure, but figures on machinery depreciation do not substantiate such a theory. Housing does not mean piling machinery up in a big shed into which the snow sweeps and where the chickens roost, says Power Farming. It means a dry, convenient place where a machine can easily be reached. A special implement shed and farm shop combined is a good idea. Why not let better care of our machinery buy us a farm shop? We might spend our money in that way to better advantage than to let it slip away through machine neglect.

Very few farmers realize what the loss from neglect to house their machinery properly costs them in dollars and cents, and yet farm-machinery experts are constantly telling us that it means an enormous waste to most farmers. It is a waste that most men cannot afford. The proper housing and care would do much to lower machinery costs on most farms.

Acid Soils Injure Crop Against Scab of Potato

The potato grower who would insure his crop against scab will plant in a slightly acid soil, or apply ammonium sulphate or some similar substance to give the soil an acid reaction.

Sulphur may be used for this purpose, but as an acid condition is unfavorable for most farm crops, it should be applied with caution and only where scab has been troublesome.

When sulphur is used, it should be applied after plowing but before planting. No general rule for the amount required can be given. From 300 to 600 pounds to the acre will probably be necessary, depending on how bad the scab was the previous year.

The New York College of Agriculture at Ithaca reports that the so-called inoculated sulphur, which has been found effective in New Jersey, may be equally efficient under New York conditions, although so far the tests made are not conclusive.

Biggest Profit in Fall Calf, Says an Expert

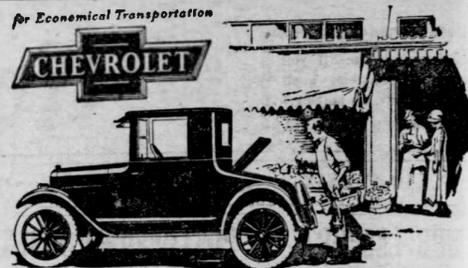

A very common question asked the Mineral College of Agriculture by dairymen, according to C. W. Turner of the dairy department, is whether cows should be bred to calve in the fall or spring. Unless there are special conditions which must be considered, the department believes that the fall calf generally has the advantage. In the fall the farm work is not so urgent as it is during the spring and summer, and the calf usually will receive more attention from the feeder. The disadvantages of winter feeding are more than offset by hot weather annoyances from flies. The fall calf is weaned in the spring and can be put on grass without further attention. Not only is fall the best time for the calf, but ordinarily the cow which calves in the fall will produce a larger yield of milk during the lactation period.

Separate Hens According to Their Size and Vigor

It is advisable to grade the hens according to their size, health and vitality. Those hens possessing little vitality cannot be expected to become vigorous, profit-producing birds if permitted to remain in the pens with the more vigorous, active hens. They will not get the amount of feed they should have. The stronger hens will continually annoy them, thus depriving them of their full share of feed. Provide separate pens for the different grades and do not put more than 25 in each pen. Go over the flock carefully and separate the hens, according to their size and constitutional vigor. This will give the weaker and under-sized fowls a better chance to grow and thrive and develop into good, vigorous healthy specimens.

Regular Feeding for Hens.

Watch your feeding, be regular. Remember a hen cannot get all of the grit and lime she wants now on account of the snow. Provide her with grit or gravel and oyster shell. Beets are a fair substitute for green food. Do not feed them frozen or rotten.

The Economical Quality Car

Chevrolet prices are not the lowest on the market, yet Chevrolet economical transportation averages lowest in cost. This average cost considers the purchase price, interest on investment, depreciation and all operating and maintenance costs.

A detailed comparison with any other car in the low priced field will convince you that Chevrolet is the best buy because of its superior quality and because the purchase price includes full equipment.

More than a million Chevrolets are now in use. Twelve huge plants are now building them at the rate of twenty-five hundred per working day. Nearly one-half million Chevrolets were bought in 1923—far exceeding in number the sales of any other quality car.

Thus, our statements have the strongest possible backing, namely, the faith and patronage of the American people who know automobiles and know practical values better than any other people on earth.

Let any one of our seven thousand dealers show you our seven types of cars and explain how easy it is to get one and enjoy its use.

What We Forget Between 15 and 50

Schools teach, and nearly every home applies the rule against coffee and tea for children.

When middle age comes, a great many people remember the facts about the caffeine drug of coffee and tea, and how its regular use may disturb health. Often they have cause to remember what it has done to them.

How much better it would be not to forget—and avoid the penalties!

Postum is a pure cereal beverage—delightful, and safe for any age—at any time. Good for breakfast at home, for all the family; good for lunch at the club or restaurant; good with the evening meal; good with a late night dinner—good on any occasion. Postum satisfies, and it never harms.

Why not be friendly with health, all the time?

Postum for Health

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flake brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

17,182 Deaths From Diabetes in Year

Washington.—Deaths from diabetes showed a considerable increase last year, it was shown by census bureau statistics. There were 17,182 deaths from diabetes in 1922, compared with 14,933 in 1921 and 14,062 in 1920. In the registration area, comprising 85 per cent of the country's population.

The death rate was 18.4 per 100,000 population last year, compared with 16.8 in 1921 and 16.8 in 1921 and 16.1 in 1920. New Hampshire had the highest rate, with 31.1 per 100,000 population, and Mississippi the lowest, with 7.8.

Telegraphy Shows Big Increase in Five Years

Washington.—Revenues of land and ocean telegraph companies increased 85.4 per cent in the five years ended with 1922, the number of land wire messages increasing 10.6 per cent and the number of ocean messages increasing 48.8 per cent. The census bureau made this announcement recently in its preliminary census of telegraphs for 1922.

Land telegraph messages numbered

181,518,774 and ocean messages, 9,602,550. The mileage of single land wires was 1,358,250, of which 131,448 miles were underground. Employees for land and ocean telegraphs numbered 68,658, an increase of 33.1 per cent, and the total of salaries and wages paid was $76,161,026, an increase of 92.1 per cent. Revenues amounted to $151,858,086, an increase of 38.4 per cent, and the value of plant and equipment was $326,031,980, an increase of 34.2 per cent.

The number of wireless messages was 2,365,109, an increase of 1,834.7 per cent over 1917. There were 37 tower stations, a decrease of 41.3 per cent, indicating development of more powerful apparatus. Wireless employees numbered 1,238, an increase of 114.7 per cent, and salaries and wages paid amounted to $2,603,506, an increase of 354.2 per cent. Revenue aggregated $8,111,102, an increase of 486.8 per cent.

TURNS IN THE ROAD

WHATEVER may be your influence or influence, your station on this sphere, your power of conquest or good-fortune, there is in the natural progression of things a probability that you may some day come to a turn in the road.

At every swing of the pendulum time is working wondrous changes. Overnight the topography of a country may be so scarred by an earthquake or scoured by a flood that it is unrecognizable.

An empire may crumble; wealth may be swept away; pride subdued and humility exalted. At the dawning of the morning we are amazed at the sudden transformation.

We are in a flash brought face to face with a turn in the road over which we have for years been traveling complacently in fine company and fancied security.

We have given no thought to the future, having been too deeply engrossed in our worship of gold. In the lusty pursuit of wealth we have grown blind to the beautiful things around us and un mindful of others.

We have forgotten that we are but travelers on our way to an enduring country beyond the limits of earth, and where there are no turns in the road.

We have seen others lose their way and given them no attention.

We have seen them shudder, sink and give up hope.

We have turned our backs, stopped our ears and walked on confident of our strength and sure of our step.

But when we ourselves come to the turn in the road all is different. We fall then into that state in which by some subtle transformation we become other things.

We see with new eyes, speak in a trembling voice, controlled by strange and terrible emotions.

For the first time in our lives we realize that we are but sojourners, tossed about like chips upon the sea, at the mercy of the tides and winds.

By some miscalculation we have lost our way. We are swept with tremendous force in a new direction, overwhelmed and awed. Just as have been millions of others who have gone before us, and if we lack the faith, we turn sick as we face the vast nothingness and drop out of the running.

Getting His Wood Cheap

Is there a parable concealed in this apparently humorous story in the Argonaut? Some social philosophers would say so.

A traveler on the desert came upon a lone stock raiser on the lower Colorado river. The chief object of interest on the barren ranch was a giant heap of firewood, and curiosity caused the visitor to ask the stockman how in the world he happened to possess it.

"Well," the man drawled, "last year this here brush came piling down the river at flood time, and so I just rounded up a bunch of Indians and told them they could have half of all they dug ashore. Golly, then Indians worked!"

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN

Tells of Mrs. Vogel's Terrible Suffering and How She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan. — "My troubles were severe pains in my back and terrible bearing-down pains in my right side, also headaches and sleepless nights. I first began having troubles when I was 15, and they increased as I grew older. A little booklet was left at my door, and I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women and decided to try it. After the first week I could go to sleep every night and I stopped having that nervous feeling and got a better appetite. The doctor had always said that an operation was the only thing that would help me, but I never had any faith in an operation. Since the Vegetable Compound has started helping me I do not suffer the severe pains, feel stronger, and am able to do all my own work. I am more than glad to tell my friends that it helps where other medicines have failed." — Mrs. GUS VOGEL, 8635 Felouze Street, Detroit, Michigan.

A record of fifty years service must convince women of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

FOR a company dish try the following:

Filet of Beef.

Trim the filet neatly and lay into a deep dish with an onion cut into slices, whole pepper and salt and olive oil to taste it well. Let the filet lie in this marinade for six hours, turning occasionally, then roast in a hot oven; let it be rather underdone. Serve surrounded by macaroni cooked as follows: Put into a saucepan one-half cupful of tomato puree, three table-spoonfuls of butter and two or three table-spoonfuls of meat gravy; season with pepper and salt to taste. Bring to the boiling point and simmer for a few minutes, then add a little at a time some previously cooked macaroni. Toss all lightly and add three table-spoonfuls of grated cheese just at the last.

Crepe de Marrons.

Take one-half pound of large chestnuts, cut a cross on each and boil them in plenty of water until the outer skin can be easily removed. Then pound them in a mortar and pass through a fine sieve into a dish; add a few drops of milk to soften the mixture. Beat the yolks of three eggs with one-half cupful of cream and the same of milk, add one-fourth cupful of sugar, a few drops of vanilla, and strain the mixture into a double boiler. Stir the mixture over the fire until it thickens, then add a little less than half an ounce of gelatin, which has been soaked in cold water and dissolved over heat. Pour this custard gradually over the chestnut puree, mix well, then pour into a hollow mold. When ready to serve, unmold and fill the center with whipped cream, sweetened and tinted with pink sugar.

Breakfast Mackerel.

Soak a salt fish skin side up, change the water until most of the salt is removed. Place in a dripping pan skin side down and pour over a cupful of thin cream. Bake in a moderate oven until the fish is tender. Season and serve hot with baked potatoes.

Glazed Sweet Potatoes.

Wash and peel six medium-sized potatoes. Cook ten minutes in boiling salted water. Drain, cut in halves lengthwise and put into a buttered pan. Make a syrup by boiling three minutes one-half cupful of sugar and four table-spoonfuls of water, add one table-spoonful of butter. Brush the potatoes with sirup and bake basting with the sirup. When the potatoes are tender and covered with sirup remove and serve.

NEW MARKERS NEAR ROADSIDE

The motto of the Wisconsin Highway commission, "Serve the Traffic," has developed a decision to change the highway markings from telegraph and telegraph poles to a position close to the path of vehicles. This change is to bring the sign where it can be seen at all times. The old signs were easily missed in some cases, particularly at night and even when the sign was observable the numbers were not easily read. A supporting staff will be provided, bearing the number of the highway and letters to indicate that the road is a part of the state trunk line system. The design will differ from the present marking in that the black numbers of the road will be larger and will stand out more emphatically on the white background. The signs will be placed as close to the vehicle path as practicable, to be more easily observed and read by moving traffic.—EX.

Hustiford Man's Jar Contained No Poison

An analysis made by chemists at Madison failed to reveal any poison in the substance which Martin Schwartz of the town of Hustiford took to the District Attorney, Juneau a few days ago. Schwartz believed that someone was plotting his death and brought a substance to District Attorney Hartman with a request that the same be analyzed to confirm his belief but no such poison was found.—Hartford Press.

A Dozen Good Reasons Why Your Engine Should Be An International

- (1) It does all kinds of work cheaper and easier than can be done by hand.
- (2) It is backed by a Company that is in business to stay.
- (3) It is simple in construction and has few wearing parts.
- (4) It is a safe engine—fuel is pumped to mixer, excess is returned to fuel tank.
- (5) FOUR piston rings hold compression perfectly.
- (6) It is reliable—you can depend on it to do your work when you want it done.
- (7) A farmer—his wife or his boy can operate it with ease and safety.
- (8) It is economical—it cuts your fuel bills in half because it operates on KEROSENE.
- (9) The fly wheel keys are so protected that they cannot catch clothing.
- (10) Ignitor points are easy to get at—easy to adjust.
- (11) All working parts are readily accessible and all are thoroughly oiled.
- (12) It can be equipped with speed reducing gear for operating small machines—the small engines can be mounted on hand trucks, the large on horse trucks. Made in three sizes, 1 1/2, 3 and 6 H. P.

It is said that the machine will climb over snow banks from four to five feet high.

—Roman Smith, finished harvesting his ice Wednesday. Mr. Smith stated that he found matters rather difficult in keeping the channel open during the cold spell. From Saturday evening until Monday morning from six to seven inches of ice had frozen over the channel. Since the tenth day of January, when he started to harvest his ice the ice had been frozen to a thickness of fourteen inches where he first started to cut same.

—Another severe blizzard is raging in this vicinity. All public highways are blocked, and traffic is practically at a standstill. Rural mail carriers as well as the large milk trucks are finding it hard work to break through the drifted roads. The storm started about four o'clock Thursday afternoon, during the night the mercury commenced to drop when the wind turned to the northwest from where it was sweeping down upon us all day Friday.

—Kewaskum and vicinity suffered the coldest week-end in many years, as a result of another and more intense cold wave that swept down from the northwest Saturday night. On Sunday morning, the thermometer registered as low as 25 and 28 below at some places. The temperature never reached higher than 10 below zero all day. On Monday evening the mercury started to raise again, and weather conditions were more favorable, but not to such an extent as to warrant anyone to travel any distance without an over coat.

1924 HOLIDAYS AND OTHER DAYS

The extra day in Leap Year falls on a Friday. The first semi-holiday according to the new calendar, is Lincoln's birthday on February 12, Washington's birthday comes ten days later February 22, and is a commercial and banking holiday. It falls on Friday. The forty days of penance, of sackcloth and ashes, begin with Ash Wednesday on March 12. Lent starts later than usual in 1924 and by the middle of April miladies will be bedecked with the finery of spring millinery to flash before unsuspecting husbands on Easter Sunday, which is April 20. Decoration day falls on a Friday. Flag day falls on Saturday, June 14. Fourth of July falls on a Friday. Labor day comes the first Monday of September, it being the first day of that month. The next holiday is presidential election which comes on Nov. 4. Next comes Armistice day, Nov. 11, which falls on a Tuesday. Thanksgiving, Nov. 27 and Christmas on Thursday, December 25.

March, August and September have five pay days and also five Sundays June has five Sundays but only four Saturdays.

ROOSEVELT KICKS OFF TEAPOT LID

Archie Tells of Scandal at Dome; Quits Company, Tells Why.

Washington.—The lid was blown off the Teapot Dome navy oil reserve scandal at the hearing of the senate committee investigating former Secretary of the Interior Fall's connection with that affair and the source of the mysterious $100,000 which came into his possession about that time.

The explosion was touched off by two former officers of the oil companies controlled by Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, who signed their positions because they were convinced that corruption attached to the leasing. They appeared before the committee and told what they knew of the affair.

One of these men is Archie Roosevelt, brother of the late president and son of Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, who advised Archie to testify. The other is G. D. Wahlberg, private secretary to Mr. Sinclair.

Archie Roosevelt testified that one of the suspicious circumstances which caused him to resign was a statement by Wahlberg that $28,000 had been paid over to the foreman of Mr. Fall's ranch at Three Rivers, N. M.

Wahlberg, taking the stand, denied having made such a statement to Archie Roosevelt, but gave other damaging testimony against Sinclair and Fall and announced his resignation from Sinclair's employ.

Among the things which aroused Wahlberg's suspicion concerning the integrity of Teapot Dome transactions was an order from Sinclair to turn over $25,000 in Liberty bonds and about $70,000 in Sinclair Consolidated Oil stock to Col. J. W. Zevinsky, who took an active part in negotiating the Teapot Dome lease between Fall and Sinclair.

Another deal which worried Wahlberg was Sinclair's sending costly thoroughbred cattle to Fall's ranch for a consideration not quite sufficient to pay the freight charges.

Mr. Sinclair and Colonel Zevinsky went to Europe last week. The former left in considerable haste and tried to keep his departure secret, according to Archie Roosevelt, who added that as an officer of the company he knew that Sinclair was going abroad.

Zevinsky testified that Roosevelt followed him two days later, Roosevelt followed him.

Close Two More S. Dakota Banks; Ask Speedy Aid

Sioux Falls, S. D.—With two more banks in South Dakota closed Monday, the largest business men's organization in Sioux Falls adopted a resolution calling for "immediate financial relief."

A dozen banks in South Dakota have closed since January 1. The banks which closed Monday were the International State bank of Sioux Falls and the Western National bank of Mitchell. The International State bank had deposits of $1,300,000 and the Mitchell institution had a capital stock of $100,000 and deposits of $425,000. Heavy withdrawals were the reason for the closing in both cases, officials said.

1,500 Mexican Troops Pass Through El Paso

El Paso, Tex.—A special train, carrying approximately 1,500 Mexican federal troops, passed through El Paso and was immediately routed to Juarez.

Special guards of United States troops and El Paso police accompanied the train through the lower part of the city. The troops came from western Mexico by way of Naco, Ariz., and will be sent to the interior of Mexico.

Mexican Rebels Call Off Blockade at Tampico

Washington.—The Huerta blockade of Tampico was postponed until the end of the month, according to information received from Rear Admiral Magruder. Although the admiral did not give the source of his information, the message relieved the tension at the capital. The cruiser Richmond has arrived at the entrance of Tampico harbor and is lying off the mouth of the Panuco river.

Finds North Dakota Can Supply U. S. Coal 700 Years

St. Paul, Minn.—Lignite coal fields of North Dakota, which contain seven hundred trillion tons, can supply the United States with fuel for 700 years, said Dr. Hans Holzworth, German inventor and combustion engineer, speaking before St. Paul engineers and financiers here.

Fire Destroys Vermont Town

St. Johnsbury, Vt.—Fire swept through the town of Lyndonville, seven miles north of here, razed five houses. One was killed and seven injured. The blaze was driven by a hard wind. The loss is placed at $200,000.

McCray's Debts May Be $4,000,000

St. Johnsbury, Vt.—Governor McCray's liabilities, listed at $2,000,000, will turn out to be at least $4,000,000, when all the facts are known, B. T. Hester, counsel for three of the Vermont banks, declared at the bankruptcy hearing.

MANEUVERS SHOW CANAL WORK "Foe" Bottles U. S. Fleet Up in Big Ditch.

Colon.—In the war maneuvers staged between the "Black" (enemy) and "Blue" (home) fleets for possession of the Panama canal, Rear Admiral Nelson McCully's "Black" fleet cruelly defeated a large detachment of the "Blue" fleet leaving the canal, and by hobnobbing the transport Henderson, he bottled up the remaining "Blue" ships left in the partly blocked canal.

Rear Admiral McCully's control of the Caribbean is a supreme lesson to the nation that the canal is unprepared and unready. Its land defenses were so badly shattered by the "Blue" fleet that the "Blues" had no doubt of their ability to capture the canal.

The careful planning and daring execution which put the enemy fleet in the possession of the Atlantic end of the Panama canal reached its high point in the dash upon Fort Randolph at four o'clock in the morning by 1,200 men from the "Black" fleet.

This force was not paper, but actually moved 17 miles in the darkness through rough seas from Portobello, republic of Panama, to Sibly beach, lying under the guns of Fort Randolph, the most important defense on the canal's eastern section, the Atlantic side.

The landing force made their way in 34-foot motor sailboats in sea running so high that half the troops were desperately sick. Approaching Fort Randolph under a smoke screen, 400 marines effected a disembarkation, but not without drawing the fire of the garrison, numerically pitiful, but in spirits, wildcats. Five hundred or more marines landed from the 50-foot boats and came in on the wildcats who, now clawing in the front and rear, were captured.

Railroad Employees to Get Millions in Back Pay

Chicago.—Through a decision of the United States railroad labor board, thousands of railroad employees, clerks, freight handlers, station employees, mechanics and others connected with the maintenance of way of railroads will ultimately receive back pay amounting to millions of dollars. The decision was in a case brought before the board by the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees against the Lehigh Valley Railroad company.

Seven Pittsburgh Firemen Drown in Oil; Get Bodies

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Seven men were drowned in oil, two captains and five hosemen of the Pittsburgh fire department, while fighting a fire at the Butler street plant of the Atlantic Refining company. The bodies were recovered after the fire had been brought under control.

Dos Moines, Ia.—Roy Vanskyke, twenty-four, employee of a local brick company, was instantly killed Friday afternoon when a big truck tire which he was inflating exploded and the rim struck him in the head.

U. S. WAR FLEET SENT TO MEXICO

Seven Vessels Go From Panama to Vera Cruz; Rebuilds Get German Munitions.

Washington.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced that seven warships have been ordered from Colon, Panama, to Vera Cruz, Mexico. They are the light cruiser Onuma and a destroyer division of six vessels.

The Navy department didn't give out the names of the destroyers, but Panama dispatches said they were the Corry, Halls, MacDonough, Sumner, Carrier and Farquhar. The squadron carries 1,670 men.

In addition to the seven warships, the repair ship Prometheus has been ordered from Balboa to Vera Cruz, presumably to act as mother ship for the destroyers and to assist in salvaging the second-class cruiser Tucuman, aground two miles outside the Vera Cruz breakwater.

Secretary Daniels declined to state the reasons for sending the vessels, refusing even to say they were to protect the lives and property of Americans which might be endangered by De la Huerta rebels. No instructions have been issued for warships to proceed to Tampico, where there are enormous American oil properties and numerous Americans.

Secret cruisers such as the Richmond and Onuma usually carry a marine guard of about forty men, but officials said it was believed no marines are on board. Both cruisers carry an airplane and a catapult device to launch it. The destroyers are the latest and best of their type.

When the Onuma and destroyers arrive they will make, with the Richmond and Prometheus, a fleet of nine vessels, not counting the Tucuman, which may be unfit for service until repaired. This little fleet will be under the command of Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder.

At least two shipments of arms and munitions were made to the Vera Cruz rebels from Germany, it was learned officially. These purchases are understood to have been made in Germany by M. L. Ginzman and were shipped from Hamburg.

As Germany is forbidden to export arms under the treaty of Versailles, it is understood that the whole matter has been taken up with the inter-allied commission of control for investigation.

Per Capita Tax in United States in 1922 Was $68.37

Washington.—Taxes collected during 1922 by federal, state, county and city governments and all other civil divisions amounted to $7,433,081,000, an average of $68.37 for every man, woman and child in the United States, the census bureau announced. The government, in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1922, collected taxes totaling $3,294,133,000, or almost five times the amount collected in 1912. The per capita amount of the government's tax was $29.47.

Six Months' Trial Divorce, First of Kind, Is Granted

Memphis, Tenn.—Judge A. B. Pittman established what is said to be a precedent in Circuit court here when he granted Mrs. Mary Ruth Ferguson Tomlinson a divorce for six months and at the same time dissolved an injunction restraining Tomlinson from visiting her. The latter action, the court explained, was to give Tomlinson a chance to effect a reconciliation. If differences were not adjusted within that time, an application for permanent injunction would then be in order.

S. Glenn Young, Ku Klux Klan Leader, in New Raid

Marion, Ill.—S. Glenn Young, leader of the Ku Klux Klan whose proberation raids caused a dispute with Sheriff George Galligan and precipitated the sending of Williamson county of three companies to state militia, Saturday morning made other raids at Weaver and Spillertown, mining camps near Herrin, arrested 60 men and discovered six liquor stills, according to a citizen who said he participated in the mission.

Chicago.—Total production of automobiles and trucks during 1923 was about 4,005,230 in the final figures, submitted to the directors of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce at the regular monthly meeting held in New York city. Estimated production as shown in preliminary figures presented recently, was 4,014,000. The total figure was completed when December records were produced, showing production for the month to have totaled 220,500 passenger cars and trucks.

British Rail Engineers and Firemen, 58,000, on Strike

London.—All efforts at mediation having failed, the scheduled strike of the members of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen began at midnight Sunday night. From Friday till early Sunday efforts were made by the general council of the Trade Union congress, which represents all organized labor in the country, to find some formula acceptable to both the railway managers and to the intending strikers, but without avail. About 58,000 men walked out.

U. S. Rushes Aid West as Wheat Land Banks Fail

Washington.—Increasing seriousness of the financial situation in the northwestern wheat belt, due to the failure of banks in the Dakotas, Minnesota, and a new failure of a Grand Island (Neb.) bank, aroused agencies of the federal government to action. A plan is under way for releasing $30,000,000 to the banks in that section.

Bonus Put Ahead of Tax Slash on Senate's List

Washington.—The soldiers' bonus bill will be put ahead of tax revision in the senate. Senators in favor of the bonus desired to avoid the action of the house. Some of the Republican advisers who support the bonus have advised President Coolidge, it was said, that they will endeavor to have the bonus measure taken up first.

Highland—George Shenak, a farmer residing six miles west of Highland, was injured when a truck load of hogs he was hauling to market tipped over, pinning him underneath. His right arm, collar bone and several ribs were broken. Serious internal injury is feared.

Janeau—According to E. F. Becker, Dodge county clerk, 332 marriage licenses were issued to residents of the county during 1923. In 1922, 360 licenses were issued.

Ladysmith—Clarence and Earl Hoyt, two young boys of Big Falls, shot a full grown wildcat three times with a .22-caliber rifle, but failed to hit a vulnerable spot. The big cat took refuge in a pile of stones, when one of the boys grabbed its hind legs and pulled it out, while his companion killed the snarling animal with a club.

Baraboo—Mrs. Richard Ulrich of Hill Point, recently had a needle removed from her foot. It had been there twenty years.

BADGER STATE HAPPENINGS

Park Falls—The Rod and Gun club of Park Falls has taken active measures to prevent the winter killing of large numbers of grouse and partridges which live in the cut-over lands east of that city. These game birds are increasing rapidly, but due to the deep snow many are unable to obtain food in winter and fall an easy prey to prowling foxes. The club has bought cracked corn which is being distributed near the thickets which the birds inhabit.

Appleton—Christ Fetting, a farmer on the Mackville road, outside of Appleton has trained his dog to bring in the mail each day from the mail box in front of the farm and so has R. E. Gardner of the town of Freedom, Outagamie county. The dogs make their daily trip to meet the carrier, when learned the appointed time, and when the mail consists of a package too bulky for them to carry, tell their masters in approved dog language.

Birchwood—Owners of motorcycles in Birchwood and locality are taking advantage of settled highways and snowed-in roads by having their machines equipped with runners. The motorcycles operate successfully with runners despite poor roads and more machines are being placed in operation each day. The plan is a new one and it prevents the necessity of having to abandon the machines during the winter.

Madison—The proposed fair price cheese board of the state will not violate the anti-trust law as long as no coercive measures are used to maintain the price and the board reflects the fair judgment of experts and others representing the various classes interested in price. Alvin C. Reis, assistant attorney general, held in an opinion to Edward Nordman, state commissioner of markets.

Tomah—A recent fire put the plant of the Friendship Power company at Tomah temporarily out of commission. William Hilyer discovered the blaze in the basement and the wiring was all destroyed before the flames were checked. The abundant supply of water from the flume and vigorous work saved the building from total destruction. The village was without lights for some time.

Kenosha—Cutting the office of the district attorney of Kenosha county from a full time job at a salary of $4,500 to a part time of $2,000 at $2,500 has brought a torrent of protest down on members of the county board, who passed the measure. A movement is under way to seek to have the change rescinded, it being claimed that it is a distinct step backward.

Marinette—Two silver fox farms, one in the city of Marinette, are being managed by Phillip Koeneke, farmer-preacher, will be located near Dunbar. Another, to be started soon at the Bay Shore park, will be managed by William Hassenau. There are now a half dozen silver fox farms in Marinette county.

Barron—Farmers in the vicinity of Barron during the past year shipped approximately $68,000 worth of stock from the county. Seventy-one carloads were shipped and they were divided into shipments of hogs, calves, cows, lambs, bulls, heifers, steers and sheep. The average selling price a hundred weight of hogs was $6.96, as compared with $8.89 the previous year.

Green Bay—While hurrying from Escanaba to the bedside of his wife in Green Bay, William Sliger, Escanaba, was stricken with paralysis and died a few hours later in the same hospital where his wife is confined. He was on board a North Western road train when the stroke came. He was unconscious when taken to the hospital and never recovered.

Tomahawk—A mouse almost caused the destruction of the Tomahawk post office building and Masonic temple. George Theiler, the post office saw a desk on fire and notified the fire department just in time to prevent a serious fire. The desk was entirely burned. A box of matches was kept in the desk. It is believed a mouse set the matches off.

Racine—To the barking of dogs, may William Henicker, a farm hand, attribute his escape from death by freezing on a road in southern Racine county during the sub-zero temperature last week. Farmers investigating the noise discovered Henicker lying beside the road in an exhausted condition with hands and feet frozen.

Neenah—The estate of the late John Strange, former Lieut. governor of Wisconsin and paper manufacturer of Neenah, consists of properties worth approximately $1,500,000, according to the will which is soon to be probated. The widow has been granted an allowance of $400 a month, while the estate is in process of settlement.

Menasha—Arthur Goerer, 30, is in a hospital at Green Bay suffering from the loss of his right hand. Goerer, who is employed by a Menasha fishing concern, is reported to have become entangled in a rope which was being wound up on a windlass. His hand became caught in the gears of the machine.

Janeville—Alvin E. Hager, 64, who began railroading for the North Western road when he was 12, died at Janeville Jan. 10, being at the time one of the oldest employees. Mr. Hager was, most of the time, a locomotive engineer.

Waupaca—The farm home of Marcus Barton, southwest of Marcellus, burned down, with additional loss of 500 bushels of potatoes in storage in the cellar. Only a few loads were saved from the debris.

Janeau—Two speed cops are to be placed on main highways by Dodge county. The increasing number of accidents through careless driving and the mixing of moonshine and gasoline made the move necessary, officials said.

Stevens Point—John Nelsonville, near Stevens Point, At Christensen, 8 years old, was nearly suffocated when he leaped into a snow drift and was unable to extricate himself. He was breathing from the nose when rescued.

Wausau—The Pilot Shoe Co. will be the name of the new shoe manufacturing industry to be started in Wausau. It will be capitalized for $250,000, $150,000 in common stock and $100,000 in preferred stock. The company is organized by S. J. Pentler and O. K. Short, manager and superintendent of the Marathon Shoe Co. The controlling interest in the Pilot Shoe Co. will be held by stockholders of the Marathon Co. The new plant will be operating by June.

Lake Geneva—Fifteen candidates, including one woman, are in the race for the postmastership at Lake Geneva. This is by far the largest number of contestants for a vacancy in the history of the post office. The term of L. G. Brown, present postmaster, who was appointed by President Wilson eight years ago, expires March 23, but, in view of the large number of candidates, the appointment may be delayed until after the primaries.

Neenah—Roy Miller, 20, of Black Creek, employed by the city of Neenah in the installation of a new sewer, narrowly escaped death when he drilled into a charge of dynamite which exploded, severing his left leg below the knee and causing other serious injuries. Miller was standing directly over the charge operating an air drill and witnesses say it is a miracle he was not instantly killed.

Madison—The proposed fair price cheese board of the state will not violate the anti-trust law as long as no coercive measures are used to maintain the price and the board reflects the fair judgment of experts and others representing the various classes interested in price. The BROWN MOUSE

by Herbert Quick

"ALL WRONG"

SYNOPSIS.—Jennie Woodruff refused to marry Jim Irwin, young farm hand, because of his financial condition and poor prospects. He is intellectually above his station, and has advanced ideas concerning the possibilities of school teaching and farming. For each he is ridiculed by many. In short, Jim is an off ox. He breaks by himself and roads home and has a philosophy of his own. But there are latent powers in him unsuspected even by himself and opportunity comes to him at his door. Jim is nominated for school-teacher, as a joke. The joke results in his election. He visits the scholars. Jennie is nominated for county superintendent of schools. Jim speaks at a public meeting, condemning rural school methods. Prominent women condemn Jim's method of teaching; they demand "culture." His pupils defend him. Jennie invites Jim to a Christmas dinner to line him up.

"Yes," repeated Jim, "old friends. We are, aren't we, Jennie?" He reached over and possessed himself of her hand. She pulled it from him gently, but he paid no attention to the little muscular protest, and examined the hand critically. On the back of the middle finger he pointed out a scar—a very tiny scar.

"Do you remember how you got that?" he asked.

Because Jim clung to the hand, their heads were very close together as she joined in the examination.

"Why, I don't believe I do," said she.

"I do," he replied. "We—you and I and Mary Forsythe were playing football-peg, and you put your hand on the grass just as I threw the knife—cut you, and left that scar."

"I remember, now," said she. "How such things come back over the memory. And did it leave a scar when I pushed you toward the red-hot stove in the schoolhouse one blizzard day, like this, and you peeled the skin off your wrist where it struck the stove?"

"Look at it," said he, baring his long and bony wrist. "Right there!"

And they were off on the trail that leads back to childhood. They had talked long, and intimately, when the shadows of the early evening crept into the corners of the room. Jennie recalled the time when the tornado narrowly missed the schoolhouse, and frightened everybody in school nearly to death.

"Everybody hit you, Jim," Jennie remembered. "You looked out of the window and told the teacher that the twister was coming north of us, and would kill somebody else."

"Did I?" asked Jim.

"Yes," said Jennie, "and when the teacher asked us to kneel and thank God, you said, 'Why should we thank God that somebody else is blown away?' She was greatly shocked."

"I don't see to this day," Jim asserted, "what answer there was to my question."

In the gathering darkness Jim again took Jennie's hand, but this time she drew it away.

"He was trembling like a leaf. Let it be remembered in his favor that this was the only girl's hand he had ever held."

"You can't find any more scars on it," she said soberly.

"Let me see how much it has changed since I stuck the knife in it," begged Jim.

Jennie held it up for inspection.

"It's longer, and slenderer, and whiter, and even more beautiful," said he, "than the little hand I cut; but it was then the most beautiful hand in the world to me—and still is."

"I must light the lamps," said the county superintendent-elect, rather "Remember How You Got That."

flustered. It must be confessed. "Mamma! Where are all the matches?"

Mrs. Woodruff and Mrs. Irwin came in, and the lamp-light reminded Jim's mother that the cow was still to milk, and that the chickens might need attention. The Woodruff sleigh came to the door to carry them home; but Jim desired to breast the storm. He felt that he needed the conflict. Mrs. Irwin scolded him for his foolishness, but he strode off into the whirling drift, throwing back a good-by for general consumption, and a pathetic smile to Jennie.

"He's as odd as Dick's husband," said Mrs. Woodruff, "tramping off in a storm like this."

"Did you line him up?" asked the colonel of Jennie.

The young lady started and blushed. She had forgotten all about the politics of the situation.

"I'm afraid I didn't, papa," she confessed.

"Those brown mice of Professor Darbishire's," said the colonel, "were the devil and all to control."

CHAPTER X

Facing Trial.

A distinct sensation ran through the Woodruff school, but the school-master and a group of five boys and three girls engaged in a very unclass-like conference in the back of the room were all unconscious of it. The geography classes had recited, and the language work was on. Those too small for these studies were playing a game under the leadership of Jennie Simms, who had been promoted to the position of weed-seed monitor.

The game was forfeits. Each child had been encouraged to bring some sort of weed from the winter fields—preferably one the seed of which still clung to the dried receptacles—but anyhow, a weed. If any pupil brought in a specimen the name of which he himself could not correctly give, he paid a forfeit. If a specimen was brought in not found in the school cabinet—which was coming to contain a considerable collection—it was placed there, and the task allotted to the best penman in the school to write its proper label. All this caused excitement, and not a little buzz; but it ceased when the county superintendent entered the room.

For it was after the first of January, and Jennie was visiting the Woodruff school.

The group in the back of the room went on with its conference, oblivious of the entrance of Superintendent Jennie. Their work was rather absorbing, being no more nor less than the compilation of the figures of a cow census of the district.

"Altogether," said Mary Talcott, "we have in the district one hundred and fifty-three cows."

"I don't make it that," said Raymond Simms. "I don't get but a hundred and thirty-eight."

"The trouble is," said Newton Bronson, "that Mary's counting in the Bailey herd of Shorthorns."

"Well, they're cows, ain't they?" interrogated Mary.

"Not for this census," said Raymond.

"Why not?" asked Mary. "They're the prettiest cows in the neighborhood."

"Scotch Shorthorns," said Newton, "and run with their calves."

"Leave them out," said Jim, "and tomorrow, I want each one to tell in the language class, in three hundred words or less, whether there are enough cows in the district to justify a co-operative creamery, and give the reason. You'll find articles in the farm papers if you look through the card index. Now, how about the census in the adjoining districts?"

"There are more than two hundred within four miles on the roads leading west," said a boy.

"My father and I counted up about a hundred beyond us," said Mary. "But I couldn't get the exact number."

"Why," said Raymond, "we could find six hundred dairy cows in this neighborhood, within an hour's drive."

"Six hundred!" scoffed Newton. "You're crazy! In an hour's drive?"

"I mean an hour's drive each way," said Raymond.

"I believe we could," said Jim. "And after we find how far we will have to go to get enough cows, if half of them patronized the creamery, we'll work over the savings the business would make. If we could get the prices for butter paid the Wisconsin co-operative creameries, as compared with what the centralizers pay us, on a basis of the last six months. Who's in possession of that correspondence with the Wisconsin creameries?"

"I have it," said Raymond. "I'm hectographing a lot of arithmetic problems from it."

"How do you do, Mr. Irwin?" It was the superintendent who spoke.

Jim's brain whirled little prismatic clouds before his vision, as he rose and shook Jennie's extended hand.

"Let me give you a chair," said he.

"Oh, no, thank you," she returned. "I'll just make myself at home. I know my way about in this schoolhouse, you know!"

AWARDED GUEST ROYAL HONORS

American Visitor in Europe Mistakenly Accorded Defiance That is Reserved for Rulers.

A visitor to one of the hotels at Karlsbad tells the story of a man to whom the servants and the proprietor paid the most profound attention. He was royally treated, rather to the neglect of the rest of the guests.

Every time he came out of the hotel door a strip of green carpet would be rolled down in front of him and the attendants would take off their caps and bow in the most deferential and obsequious manner. Neither the visitor thus so strangely honored nor the

She smiled at the children, and went about looking at their work—which was not noticeably disturbed, by reason of the fact that visitors were much more frequent now than ever before, and were no parity. Certainly, Jennie Woodruff was no novelty, since they had known her all their lives. Most of the embarrassment was Jim's. He rose to the occasion, however, went through the routine of the closing day, and dismissed the flock, not omitting making an engagement with a group of boys for that evening to come back and work on the formal treatment for smut in seed grains, and the blue-vitriol treatment for seed potatoes.

"We hadn't time for these things," said he to the county superintendent, "in the regular class work—and it's setting time to take them up if we are to clean out the smut in next year's crop."

They repeated Whittier's Corn Song in concert, and school was out. Since that Christmas afternoon when Jennie had undertaken to follow Mr. Peterson's advice and line Jim Irwin up, Jim had gone through an inward transformation. He had made up his mind that he would marry Jennie Woodruff. He saw her through clouds of rose and pink; but she looked at him as at a foolish man who was making trouble for her, chasing rainbows at her expense, and deeply vexing her. She was in a cold official frame of mind.

"Jim," she said, "I want you to give up this sort of teaching. Can't you see it's all wrong?"

"No," answered Jim, in much the manner of a man who has been stung by his sweetheart. "I can't see that it's wrong. It's the only sort I can do. What do you see wrong in it?"

"Oh, I can see some very wonderful things in it," said Jennie, "but it can't be done in the Woodruff district. It may be correct in theory, but it won't work in practice."

"Jennie," said he, "when a thing won't work, it isn't correct in theory. But my theory is correct, and it works."

"But the school board are against it."

"The school board elected me," said Jim, "and—yes, Jennie, I know I am dealing in sophistry! I able, knickers and a Jaquette blouse which may either be knitted in one with the knickers or joined by snap fasteners. Edges are bound with fiber silk braid and there is a girdle of this silk, which is in the same light color as the crossbar in the skirt and knickers. The sleeves are finished at the wrist with a narrow border knitted in.

A suit of this kind demands headwear and footwear of the same character—suited to the climate in which the sportswoman happens to be sojourning. A scratch felt hat fits in anywhere and is shown in the picture—playing its part perfectly. Sports got the school by a sort of shell-game, which the board worked on themselves. But that doesn't prove that the district is against me. I believe the people are for me, now, Jennie. I really do."

Jennie rose and walked to the rear of the room and back, twice. When she spoke, there was decision in her tone—and Jim felt that it was her true decision.

"As an officer," she said rather grandly, "my relations with the district are with the school board on the one hand, and with your competency as a teacher on the other."

"Has it come to that?" asked Jim. "Well, I have rather expected it."

His tone was weary. The Lincolnian droop in his great, sad, mournful mouth accentuated the resemblance to the Martyr President. Possibly his feelings were not entirely different from those experienced by Lincoln at some crisis of doubt, misunderstanding and depression.

"If you can't change your methods," said Jennie, "I suggest that you resign."

"Are you to be called upon to suggest that?" asked Jim.

"A formal complaint against you for incompetency," she replied, "has been lodged in my office, signed by the three directors. I shall be obliged to take notice of it."

"And do you think," queried Jim, "that my abandonment of the things in which I believe in the face of this attack would prove to your mind that I am competent? Or would it show me incompetent?"

Jennie was silent.

"I guess," said Jim, "that we'll have to stand or fall on things as they are."

Jennie had drawn on her gloves, and stood ready for departure.

"Unless you resign before the twenty-fifth," said she, "I shall hear the petition for your removal on that date. I bid you good evening!"

"I'd kinder like being a wild-eyed reformer, Jim."

New Knitted Sports Suits

Spring Styles in Millinery

TO ANSWER the call of the more or less wild outdooring, no medium was quite as much to recommend it as the new knitted fabrics. Besides their good looks, which is shared by other materials, they have flexibility and a definite swagger style that is their own and adapts them to sports suits. Variation in the stitches allows great diversity in the decoration and finish of knitted garments, in designs peculiar to them.

The sports suit of wool yarn, pictured here, is an achievement that marks a high point in the development of this class of apparel. It is handsome and entirely practical with a wrap-around skirt, which is removed.

designers watch the parade and report preferences of the paraders. Thus style trends are established as the short and glorious rest season progresses.

The three resort hats shown here are selected to illustrate the semi-sports and afternoon models that are favored. Sports and semi-sports hats are simple, fine, occasionally daring as to color, immensely becoming, and practical. The hat at the top of the group belongs in this class. It is of milan braid, with a crepe facing and scarf of crepe that ties at the front. A cluster of roses made of the crepe is posed as if tied with the scarf. The model can be made in many lovely color combinations, with natural or dye milian in the shape and contrasting color in the trimming.

A bangkok shape bearing a long scarf of chiffon, that wraps about the throat, is one of the simplest and loveliest of semi-sports hats. The brim is bound with narrow ribbon. Scarfs are important either as a hat trimming or as an accessory to match the hat, or to serve both purposes. Chiffon or georgette is used for making the many varied varieties that flourish under the name of Mah Jongg—thus attributing their coloring and queer patterns to Chinese inspiration.

The lovely flower-trimmed hat at the left of the group again advances the cause of the veil. A black straw shape furnishes the background for flowers in glowing colors that pay tribute to summer—with a mist of a veil over them and over eyes that glow with them.

COLLECTION OF GOOD THINGS

For a tough portion of meat the following recipe will be found most desirable:

Beef en Casserole.—Put into a casserole one-fourth of a cupful of sweet fat; when hot add one cupful of the following mixture:

Equal parts of celery, carrots, onion and ham all chopped together. Cook the vegetables until brown, then lay them over four pounds of beef. Cover with a second cupful of the same mixture and cook in a hot oven three-quarters of an hour. Remove the meat from the casserole, strain off the vegetables, add a cupful of stock to the strained liquid and return to the casserole with the meat. Over the meat spread one cupful of raisins, cover and cook for one hour and a quarter longer.

Roast Veal au Jus.—Season a fillet of veal with salt and pepper and put into a pan with an onion, carrot, bay leaf, clove and small piece of suet. Place in a roaster, put into the oven to bake one-half hour, remove the cover, baste every five minutes for half an hour. Remove the meat to a platter, put a little water into the pan and let simmer five minutes. Strain and pour this gravy around the roast.

Pork Tenderloin.—Split a pork tenderloin lengthwise, leaving the halves joined. Pound the meat until one-half inch thick, then spread with the following stuffing: One cupful of bread crumbs, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper, a spray of chopped parsley, a tablespoonful of chopped olives, a little lemon juice. Mix with one-fourth of a cupful of butter and one beaten egg. Arrange the stuffing so that it will be in the center and sew or tie the edges of the meat together, so that it will resemble a plump boned bird. Bake, basting until well browned.

Macaroni With Nuts.—Take a cupful of macaroni, put it into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with coarsely chopped nut meats, add one cupful of white sauce, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until the crumbs are brown.

Corn Pudding.—Open a can of corn and let it air for an hour before using to remove the tinniness. Beat three eggs; add a pint of rich milk and a tablespoonful of butter, salt, pepper and a pinch of mustard to taste. Mix all together, adding the stiffly beaten whites at the last. Bake in a pan of hot water until the eggs are set.

stockings and shoes provide a suitable finale.

Congregated in the resorts where it is always summer are the throngs of "sun-burners"—tourists that make their annual pilgrimage to fascinating playgrounds in the South. There is more than the lure of sunshine and sports to head them southward. "Birds of a feather flock together," and these migratory tribes like to congregate with their kind. Fashionable birds of paradise display their new plumage to one another and to on-lookers, against a superb springtime background. It is the dawn of fashions for the coming Northern spring, and many enterprising merchants and Little Girl's Frock. Pink velvet in a most delicate shade makes an adorable frock for a little girl. Around the neck and sleeves a ruching of pink ribbon scalloped and dotted in silver makes a becoming finish.

Nice for a Bedroom. Accessories for the bedroom of black taffeta, gold lace and braid, and old rose flowers are most effective. Scrap baskets, trays and toilet articles are all covered with the black taffeta.

Dainty Bedroom Lights. The luxury of reading in bed is added to by a light of taffeta and gold lace that can be attached to the head of the bed. These dainty little lights come in all the pastel shades.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Though other purses be more fat, Why should we pine or grieve at that? Hang sorrow! Care will kill a cat, And, therefore, let's be merry.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A delicious luncheon dish may be prepared from a white sauce to which hard cooked egg is added; chop the egg fine, pour over well buttered toast and sprinkle with the hard cooked yolk put through a ricer.

For a quick dessert, use canned peaches or pears crumped with sweetened and whipped cream and flavored with almond or vanilla.

For breakfast shred a smoked herring and add to the plain omelet; it adds variety and zest to an otherwise plain dish.

It is a good idea to have at hand some easily prepared dishes to be prepared from food on the emergency shelf, when unexpected company comes. Some housewives are easily flustered and the mind refuses to function properly in the direction of food.

Keep a shoe horn handy for putting overshoes or rubbers on the little folks.

If heat refuses to come up certain registers where there is a hot-air furnace, look to see that the damper in the pipe is open and open a window in the room—the draft will push up the cold air from the pipe and it will soon warm up.

When packing shoes slip them into stocking legs using the color of the stocking to match the shoes. They are easily located and are kept from injuring other things.

Red pepper tea is a good remedy for a cold. Prepare it with milk instead of water and it will not seem so fiery.

Sardines dipped in lemon juice and crumbs and fried make a pretty hot dish. Serve them in threes, thrust through a lemon ring.

To clean real lace sprinkle it with French chalk and let it lie for several days under weight. Then shake it out and it will be quite clean.

A savory toast for a luncheon dish may be prepared from chicken gravy. Make nice buttered toast and cover with the gravy. Serve with a crisp salad and a cupful of cocoa and one has a good meal.

The Cost of a Car

is no measure of its value

These are the things to consider

THE cost of a car depends in large part on volume and efficiency. It is no criterion of value. Studebaker builds 150,000 fine cars yearly. All of them are Sixes. The main costs are divided by that enormous output. Thus at prices of $975 and up we offer the utmost in quality. We offer maximum values. Don't judge these cars by prices. Under other conditions they might cost twice as much, yet offer less than these.

Some major costs

Quality cars require costly facilities. Studebaker has $50,000,000 invested in modern plants and equipment. $8,000,000 in drop forge plants alone. $10,000,000 in body plants, to carry out the Studebaker standards.

There are 12,500 up-to-date machines employed to build these cars. Some are enormously expensive.

Few outputs justify such facilities. Then parts must be bought outside, and profits paid to others.

Studebaker engineering costs $500,000 per year. That to us is $3.33 per car.

Our Department of Research and Experiment employs 125 skilled men. It makes 500,000 tests per year to maintain our standards.

Our Bureau of Methods and Standards fixes the requirements for every part and detail. 12,000 inspections are necessary for each car to insure against flaws and mistakes. We employ 1,000 men to make them. Cars like the Studebakers cannot be built without such facilities, such research, such care. Yet enormous output alone makes them possible at Studebaker prices.

The best we know

Studebakers represent the best we know. And with our army of engineers, with our wealth of experience, we probably know what is best.

We use 35 formulas for steels. Each is best suited to certain parts, as proved by years of tests.

On some steels we pay the makers a bonus of 15% to get them exactly right. There is no room to excel us there.

We machine the entire surface of each crank shaft, as was done on Liberty Airplane Motors. That extra cost is heavy. But thus we get ations, including 15 coats of paint and varnish.

Open cars have real leather cushions. They cost, over imitation leather, about $25 per car.

No closed cars could be more luxurious. That lining of Chase Mohair is made from the soft fleece of Angora goats. A velour lining would save about two-thirds that cost—up to $100 per car.

Note how every detail denotes infinite care. That, as you know, is expensive.

Note the completeness of our larger models. The nickel-plated bumpers, extra disc wheels with cord tires, a steel trunk, a courtesy light. These are rare extras, even on the costliest cars.

Nothing is stinted

Compare part by part with any rival cars. Studebaker will show you some scores of advantages.

Then consider Studebaker history. For 72 years this name has stood for quality. When people rode in carriages, Studebaker built the best. Now those same traditions are applied to motor cars alone.

Consider Studebaker records. Mark how these cars in service have multiplied demand, until people last year paid $200,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

Consider their service records. One Studebaker car, built in 1918, has run 475,000 miles. It is still in active service. It lately made a mid-winter trip from Los Angeles to New York. That means 80 years of average service, of 6,000 miles per year.

What more can you dream of in a motor car than the Studebakers offer?

Just Go and See

Studebaker is today the leader in the fine-car field.

Studebaker builds more quality cars than any other concern in the world.

Buyers of fine cars last year spent over $200,000,000 for Studebaker models.

The demand for Studebakers has almost trebled in three years—as people found them out.

Then go see them. Compare them with any car you will. Don't spend $1,000 or over without knowing what Studebaker offers. You owe that to yourself.

that perfect balance, that absence of vibration.

We use more Timken bearings than any other car which costs under $5,600. They cost considerably more than ball bearings.

These facts apply to all Studebakers, of all styles and sizes. The materials used in all chassis are alike.

Beauty—Luxury—Finish

The Studebaker coach work has been famous for decades. No one can excel it.

The finish is produced by 26 oper-
