

GUN ELEVATION URGED BY WILBUR

Wants U. S. Fighters Put on Equal Basis With Those of Britain.

Washington.—In a radio address for Navy day, Secretary Wilbur declared that naval strength must be measured by "the blow a ship's guns can deliver at long range."

"Subject to the construction of the treaty for the limitation of armaments, we are asking congress to authorize the necessary changes to permit this elevation," the secretary said, "so that our fleet may have a maximum efficiency at long range. We anticipate that future naval wars will be fought in great fleet actions where a nation will strike everything upon the issue of a single battle."

"The Navy department recently reported to congress that our navy at a glance was only 80 per cent as powerful as that of Great Britain," he said. "This ratio was faulty, due to the fact that four of our battleships needed boiler repairs. Three of these have since been repaired."

"We are going ahead with our navy plans. If we and the other powers conform to the agreed ratio, not only in battleships, but also in other surface and subsurface and aircraft, successful aggressive warfare between the signatory powers across the oceans which better our shores will be an impossibility."

"Europe does not want our benevolence," the President said. "It does want our help, and we are ready to give it. America wants the peace of good will and of the Golden Rule, not the peace of force imposed by those who have power. It wants peace as the normal, the right, the assured estate in a world from which a wiser generation shall have forever outlawed aggressive war."

H. C. WALLACE DIES AT CAPITAL

Secretary of Agriculture Succumbs After Operation—Louden May Get Post.

Washington.—The fifth break in the original Harding cabinet came with the death of Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace. His passing means the third change in the cabinet since President Coolidge assumed office following the death of President Harding. It is believed to be probable that President Coolidge will offer the secretaryship to former Gov. Frank S. Lowden of Illinois.

President Coolidge designated Charles F. Marvin, chief of the weather bureau, as acting secretary of agriculture. This designation was due to the absence from the city of Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Howard M. Gore who, under the law, would become acting secretary automatically.

Secretary Wallace died at the Naval hospital. The immediate cause of his death was toxemia pneumonia, which followed an operation performed a week ago in an effort to relieve sciatica. He had been unconscious for the greater part of the day. With him when the end came were Mrs. Wallace and her daughter Ruth.

Upon learning of the death of Secretary Wallace, President and Mrs. Coolidge went to the Wallace home at Wardsman Park hotel and left their cards. Mr. Coolidge directed that the secretary of state issue a proclamation declaring official mourning on the death of Secretary Wallace.

Funeral services were held in the east room of the White House. The body was taken to Des Moines, Iowa, where final interment took place.

Mr. Wallace was born in Rock Island, Ill., in 1866. He attended the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Iowa State College of Agriculture, Ames. He engaged in agriculture, served for a time as professor of dairying at the Iowa State college, and finally became associated in the publication of farm papers.

He lighted the paper part of the shell with a match and the explosion followed. Part of the shot entered his hip.

Black River Falls.—For the second time this year the junior 4-year-old Jersey record for Wisconsin has been broken, and this time it is Majesty's Just in Time that has established the record. As the new champion she supercedes Raleigh Lad's Queen. Just in Time is owned by Mrs. L. F. Easton, of La Crosse.

Manitowoc.—No chances will be taken by the city of Manitowoc this winter with blockaded streets, as the case last year. SUIT TO SETTLE TAX PUBLICITY

Attorney General Promises Court Test for Law on Incomes.

Washington, D. C.—Without determining finally the legality of publication by news papers of acts relating to income tax payments, Attorney General Stone has announced that the department of justice will have "an appropriate case presented in the courts to secure a judicial construction of the law."

The attorney general declined to indicate what procedure would be followed in the test case, or what newspaper editor or publisher would be selected as defendant.

In a long statement, Mr. Stone pointed out that the effect of one section of the law was to allow general inspection of the income tax returns while on the contrary side stood a section specifically prohibiting their "publication." He said publication of this information "in newspapers" was nowhere specifically provided by the law, and he was not clear what purpose congress had in mind.

The attorney general's statement follows: "Section 257, subdivision (A) of the revenue act of 1924, provides, among other things, that income tax returns shall constitute public records; but they shall be open to inspection only upon order of the president and under rules and regulations prescribed by the secretary and approved by the president."

"Section 1018 of the same act reenacts section 3167 of the revised statutes as amended, which provides among other things 'it shall be unlawful for any person to print or publish in any manner whatever not provided by law any income return, or any part thereof or source of income, profits, losses or expenditures appearing in any income return.'"

"Section 3167 of the revised statutes, reenacted in the revenue act of 1924, makes it a criminal offense to print or publish in any manner whatever not provided by law, 'any part' of an income tax return."

"It appears clearly to be the duty of the department of justice to have an appropriate case presented in the courts so that the full force and effect of this provision may be judicially determined. This will be done at an early convenient date."

Madison Clergyman Faces Trial for Modernist Views

Madison, Wis.—Dr. George E. Hunt, pastor of Christ Presbyterian church, Madison, who has come into frequent prominence because of his liberal interpretations of the Bible, must stand trial for "heresy" before his fellow ministers of the Madison presbytery, according to Moderator H. E. Andrews, of Portage.

Dr. Hunt's troubles date back to his defense of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, who was forced to give up his pastorate in the First Presbyterian church of New York because of his "modernist" views. Dr. Hunt expressed his own views in an open letter to the public and it is on this letter that the charges are based.

"The Westminster confession of faith, the official creed of the Presbyterians, was written more than 200 years ago and was a noble document for those days for which many of its signers suffered persecution from the conservatives of those days," Dr. Hunt declared in his letter. "The progress of science and philosophy has so widened our knowledge that no creedal expression of 200 years ago would now fit our world."

"A creed is simply a human document summing up human opinions and expressing men's convictions about life, God, and this world. We know so much more about God's world and the past of this earth than those men did that naturally their outlook and expression is antiquated."

James B. Forgan, Dean of Chicago Bankers, Dead

Again she started him. He looked at her wonderingly. But before he could frame a bantering reply, Marcia had involuntarily gripped his arm with a look upon her face that first was sheer bewildered astonishment, and was crying for him to look at her. Judith had come. Across the door, now heavily deserted, Bud Lee and Marcia stared at her. She was coming toward them, her dainty slippers seeming to kiss their own reflections in the gleaming floor. It was Judith and not Judith. It was some strange, unknown Judith. A wonderfully gowned, transcendently lovely Judith. A Judith who had long hidden herself, unperceived, and who now stepped forth smiling and bright and vivaciously beautiful; a Judith of bare white arms, round and soft and rich in their tender curves; a Judith whose filmy gown doted about her like a sun-shot mist; a Judith whose skin above the bosom corsage was like a baby's, whose tender mouth was a red flower, whose hair was a shimmering mass of bronze-brown, whose eyes were Aphrodite's own, glorious, dawn-gray; a Judith of rare maidenly charm; a glorious, palpitant, triumphant Judith.

Farris' hand went out swiftly to be gripped in Lee's. Marcia, mystified, looked from one to the other. "You two know each other? Why, isn't that—?" She didn't know just what it was, so stopped, looking frankly as though she'd like to hate one of them finish her sentence for her. "But," muttered Farris, "I thought that you—"

CHAPTER XI

Bud Lee Seeks Crooked Chris Quinnion
Going down the knoll to the burk-house, Bud Lee cursed himself at every stride. He cursed Carson when the cattle foreman, turning to follow him, addressed a merry remark to him concerning his "lady-killing clothes." The words reminded him of Judith's and he didn't cherish the remembrance. In the burk-house Carson watched him cautiously over his old pipe as Lee began ripping off his dress-suit.

CHAPTER XII

"Fairy Music" May Not Be Mere Imagination
Stories of fairy music in the forest, of haunted waterfalls, and mermaids singing near the seashore, long thought mere figments of the imagination, may have a sound basis in fact. In an issue of Science, Dr. Alexander Forbes of the Harvard medical school reports numerous cases in which trees seem to have separated discordant shouts and noises and giving back echoes in musical tones.

Works of Art in Copper

Copper ornaments that were made between 6,500 and 9,000 years ago are dug up near Ur, city of ancient Babylonia. Made thousands of years before King Tut was born, these copper ornaments are among the earliest works of art. They express the infancy of the creative spirit. The Babylonian copper objects represent man and oxen. In addition to being art, they were intended as a history of accomplishment—main motive of which is vanity.—Farm and Fireside.

Friendliness and Courtesy

If there is one thing we emphasize more strongly than any other thing in this bank it is that our organization must, at all times, be courteous and friendly.

—And it must not be superficial, surface friendliness, either. It must be an honest friendliness and a cheerful courtesy that will make friends for the bank and hold them:

You can feel the atmosphere of friendliness and service the minute you step in the door. Here there is no cold blooded acceptance of your money, rather it is our ambition to gain and retain our friends by our attitude of friendly helpfulness.

Give us an opportunity of demonstrating just how much we would appreciate your business. We will show our appreciation through service.

DETROIT WOMAN RECOVERS

Health Much Better After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"Your little book left at my door was my best doctor. I read it, then said to my husband, 'Please go and get me some Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I want to take it.' The first month I took three bottles of Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. If you only knew how much better I feel! Now when my friends say they are sick I tell them to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. I give the little book and your medicines the best of thanks."—Mrs. HAMERIK, 3705 25th Street, Detroit, Michigan.

In newspapers and booklets we are constantly publishing letters from women, who explain how they were helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Optimism is sometimes a pose, and then it is overdone. Professional cheerfulness is obvious.

Man was produced to do good deeds.

Well-Merited Success

Honored politically and professionally, Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears here, made a success of a career which has been equalled. It is a pure herbal remedy which has stood the test for fifty years and is still among the "best sellers." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood medicine and stomach alterative. It clears the skin, beautifies it, increases the blood supply and the circulation, and pimples and eruptions vanish quickly. This Discovery of Doctor Pierce's puts you in fine condition, with all the organs active. All dealers have it. Send 10 cents for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Every scientist insists that she is one because she wants to be.

Time brings the truth to light.

Introducing Foreign Trees

In order to determine the suitability of foreign trees for introduction into this country, arborists, in which groups of such "immigrant" species can be tried out, are being established by the United States forest service. At Wind River, 80 miles from Portland, Ore., an arboretum of this sort has now some 75 different alien species growing in small groups or clumps. These trees are carefully watched by members of the Pacific Northwest forest experiment station. Local records of climate and soil conditions are also maintained.

Stop the Pain.

The hurt of a burn or a cut stops when Carbolite is applied. It heals quickly without scars. Get it by all druggists, or send 5c to The J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Advertisement.

Unprecedented Drought

All records for drought were broken in western Washington, the area between the Cascade mountains and the Pacific ocean, in the weather year ending September 1. This region generally is associated with heavy rainfall, but in the last year only 22.79 inches of rain were measured by the weather bureau. Records dating from 1884 make the average annual moisture 40.78. The banner year for rain was 1897, when the fall was 52.76.

Old-timers commonly assert that the rainfall is diminishing as the forests that once covered western Washington are being cut away.

A FEELING OF SECURITY WHEN YOU USE SWAMP-ROOT

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit-producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs.

It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.

It is not recommended for everything. It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to try this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing, be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

FAR-OFF TOMORROW

THOSE happy-go-lucky individuals who manifest so little interest in the stirring events of life, which are buzzing like bees all around them, are often insensible to their lamentable delinquencies.

Occasionally, however, their consciousness flutters a moment, but seemingly changing its benumbed mind, yawns, nods and falls asleep to dream.

But they are going to wake up and do something tomorrow.

They will yank the old world from its easy chair and wake its million inhabitants with an earthquake.

Hitherto they have been shaping a brilliant course, not quite mapped yet, or in a fit state to be presented in its entirety to their intimates, who have wept over them, prayed for them, and done their utmost to arouse them to action.

There is, however, no declaration on the part of these habituated dreamers of making undue haste.

The months and years stretch ahead in long rows on either side of tomorrow's path. Why fuss, fluster and worry?

Why should they bother themselves while youth is so full of delighted expectancies and time so abundant?

They are not seeking the dull, common roads in life, but the magnificent avenues that take direct to fame and wealth in the glare of sunlight and amid the plaudits of an admiring world, swept suddenly off its feet by the daring work of genius.

So the years drift by, and in their drifting there comes sometimes to these disciples of the god of futurity a petrifying fear that makes them sick at heart.

While they are loitering, putting off until tomorrow, their plodding associates were improving their time, gaining respect and an assured competence for the bare days of winter, sighting its appearance in the naked branches of the trees and drifts of snowflakes.

Tomorrow is man's most terrible trouble-maker, luring by promises which are seldom redeemed and leaving him ragged and alone at the crossroads, where youth and opportunity lie buried in the piled up heaps of dust and ill-spent years.

Remember philosophy is a good thing. Remember it takes his patience as well as yours—this marriage game.

"On the contrary," says Sir James Frazer, "during heavy rains the Indians of Guiana are careful not to wash the inside of their pots, lest by so doing they should cause the rain to fall still more heavily."

This makes clear the origin of the Pennsylvania Dutch superstition. It is an inheritance from primitive ancestors and based on imitative magic. GO ON AND TALK

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I HAVE a way to judge a man. A simple way you always can; For I have found I do not need His lengthy history to read.

His wealth I do not need to see, Examine all his pedigree; No, when I want to know the kind Of man he is, I want to find His worth, his wisdom, and the way He lives his life from day to day, I do not ask his neighbors, nor With any microscope explore His past career; no, all I do Is let him talk an hour or two; The while we visit, ride or walk, I let him just go on and talk.

A man as lots of things may pose, But there's a test that always shows The man he is, a test that tells, No matter what he says or sells, No matter what it is he claims, In spite of clothes, in spite of names If dark his soul or clean his heart, One test will tear the veil apart And tell mankind the man he is In spite of anything of his.

No, brother, I shall not inquire What wealth is yours, or whom you sire, There is a better way to know The nature of the man below, If carved of marble, made of clink, The man you are; Go on and talk.

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRDING KING

POTS, PANS AND RAIN

THERE is a curious superstition sometimes met with in this country, and especially prevalent among the Pennsylvania Dutch, that if you pour out all the pots, pans and kettles in the house you will bring on rain.

The underlying idea in this superstition would be hard to guess did we not find in existence an almost exactly similar superstition among the uncivilized Indians of Guiana. When it comes to matters of superstition the savages and ourselves are close akin.

The primitivism persisting in our minds works in harmony with the primitive mind of the savage, and through that savage and his customs we get an idea of the workings of the minds of our primitive ancestors and of the origin of the superstitions which we have inherited from them.

A favorite way among many savage peoples today of causing rain to fall is to pour water into pots, at the same time imploring the rain god to send the showers. This is a mixture of magic and religion—the pouring of the water being supposed to assist the rain-making through homeopathic, or imitative, magic.

"On the contrary," says Sir James Frazer, "during heavy rains the Indians of Guiana are careful not to wash the inside of their pots, lest by so doing they should cause the rain to fall still more heavily."

This makes clear the origin of the Pennsylvania Dutch superstition. It is an inheritance from primitive ancestors and based on imitative magic. In the depths of the dark Teutonic forest and in the jungles of the Orinoco the primitive minds worked in the same manner, arriving at the same conclusions.

Life without hope draws nectar in a sieve. And hope without an object cannot live.

DAINTIES FOR OCCASIONS

MOST of these dainties are too fine for daily food, but one likes to serve them occasionally:

Princess Roll. Line journal baking powder boxes with vanilla ice cream. Fill with golden parfait and cover with buttered paper and then the tin cover. Pack in one part salt and two parts ice and let stand to ripen for three hours.

Lobster in Aspic. Remove the meat from a lobster. Cut into pieces for serving, season with salt and lemon juice. Mix aspic jelly; make with chicken stock with an equal amount of mayonnaise dressing; when very thick coat each piece of lobster, lay on a wire rack cooler, decorate with truffles cut into small pieces. Cover the decorations with more aspic and leave until cold. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

Golden Parfait. Boil together three-fourths of a cupful of sugar with one-fourth cupful of water until the syrup spins a long thread. Pour slowly over four egg yolks, beaten until thick, in a double boiler. Cook over hot water until the egg is cooked, stirring constantly; remove and beat until cold, adding a teaspoonful of vanilla, a little salt and when cold one and one-half cupfuls of stiffly beaten cream folded in at the last.

Bavarian Cream. Scald three-fourths of a cupful of rich milk with two-thirds of a tablespoonful of gelatin. Mix two egg yolks beaten with four tablespoonfuls of sugar, a bit of salt, and pour over the meat in a double boiler; cook until it thickens. Strain and cool, add one and one-half cupfuls of beaten cream; add vanilla, candied chopped fruit, nuts or fresh sliced fruit for a garnish.

You are using a Safe Road — why take a Chance?

YOU, Mr. Voter, are vitally interested in this country's welfare. A continuous prosperity means your prosperity. Stay on the Coolidge and Prosperity Highway. Don't take the side road which leads to a destination unknown. Your vote for Coolidge is for constitutional government and a safeguard of your liberties and property rights. It shows you do not wish to abolish the Supreme Court and give Congress absolute power to deny you the right to worship according to your conscience, or deny you the right to educate your children in whatever kind of school you choose, or deny you the right to teach them any language you see fit. A vote for Coolidge shows your confidence in the form of government. The election of Coolidge means economy and tax reduction.

Farm Prosperity

The Coolidge program of agricultural help and development is the greatest in this country's history. Farmers will have the benefit of this program by electing Coolidge. The Coolidge Fair Facts Fighters ask you to keep on prosperity road by seeing that every Coolidge vote is cast November 4th. Make it your business to have the roads to the polls crowded with Coolidge voters. If every Coolidge vote is cast it will mean that the highway of prosperity is open four more years and that the dangerous side-roads will be passed by.
