KEWASKUM HIGH SCHOOL TAKES SECOND IN TRI-COUNTY MEET

Fighting an uphill battle all the way through, but game to the core, determined to win one of the prizes given away, the Kewaskum High School basketball team won second place in the Tri-County basketball tournament held at the Y. M. C. A., Fond du Lac last week Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Losing first place to the husky Brandon team by a score of 12 to 20 in the championship game on Saturday evening, before a large crowd of enthusiastic fans, who were kept on edge throughout the game, Brandon by winning first place makes it the third straight win, and as a result the silver loving cup becomes permanent property of that high school. Besides the cup Brandon also took eight gold medals and a full size silver basketball ball. Kewaskum won eight silver medals and Campbellsport winners of third place by virtue of a 10 to 6 victory over Rosendale Saturday night received eight bronze medals.

The local team made a splendid record, despite calculations to the contrary. The championship game was a brilliant exhibition of basketball, by far so than the score indicates. Kewaskum was rated as one of the fastest and flashiest teams in the tournament, and only for the fact that they were out-weighted and out-stretched by their opponents and having hard luck at shooting baskets, due no doubt to nervousness, caused their defeat. Time and repeatedly the locals out-played their opponents, and Brandon kept putting in new men to stop the locals from breaking through their defense line, when the locals did break through they suffered heart-breaking luck shot after shot. Kewaskum forced the game all the way, and had their opponents as well as their rooters worried during the entire second half. All the first quarter the two teams fought with only one basket scored, that by Granke of Brandon. Loecheit garnered a lone point on a personal on Wietor, and the scoring for the first period was over. As the second quarter went on Brandon's tall second quarter went on Granke dropped in a basket from a difficult angle, and then Kewaskum broke into the scoring columns with a free throw by C. Miller, who was fouled by Loecheit, Brandon center. Miller followed a moment later with a basket and Kohn added to the total with another free throw. Loecheit dribbled through for another basket as the half ended with the score 8 to 4 in favor of Brandon. In the second half the battle continued close and fast throughout the third period. Granke opened the period as he did the first two, with a perfect shot, and Pinkerton, inserted for Giles, left forward, dropped in two in succession. Kewaskum took time out and came back fighting. Kohn sank a free throw, and then Rosenheimer connected for a close shot at the basket. The third period ended with Brandon leading 14 to 7. Granke repeated his trick of opening each period with a basket, and Brandon's lead was increased to 16. Kohn added a lone point to the Kewaskum total, and then Wietor's brilliant floor work was finally rewarded with a basket. Granke then broke through for two field goals in succession, raising the Brandon score to 20. Wietor broke away again and scored a field goal, the final point of the game as the contest ended with the score 17 to 20.

The result of Thursday's game against Lorima was published in last week's paper. The locals winning by a score of 16 to 15. It was this game which upset the dope as figured out by officials of the association. The victory was a heart breaker for Lorima. On Friday evening, the locals fall of pep, ready to battle to the finish, stepped into the basketball court to do their stuff. To win this game meant that second place in the tournament was an assured fact, mindful of this, our boys lost no time in rolling up a score in the first half that was enough to almost put the game on ice. Both teams, however, fought desperately. Wietor in this game exhibited to perfection, his floor work was outstanding and his eye for the basket good. Kohn played right forward, nearly equaled Wietor in brilliant performance. His floor work was superb. Rosenheimer, playing a cool headed game repeatedly broke good plays for the opponents which seemed to take the heart out of the Oakland team. The two Miller boys at guard were on the job every minute, and not only kept Oakland from scoring but were successful in dropping the ball through the hoop during the first and second periods.

The result of all games is as follows: Thursday—Kewaskum 16 Lorima 16. Oakland 11, Glenbeulah 16, Rosendale 16, Campbellsport 6, Brandon 11, Slinger 10. Friday—Lorima 30, Glenbeulah 16, Campbellsport 17, Slinger 16. Kewaskum 17, Oakland 16, Brandon 25, Rosendale 11.

JUNK DEALER HAS BLOWOUT

Sam Silverstein, junk dealer of Milwaukee, who is well known in this village and community, where he for a number of years bought old iron and other junk, created considerable excitement at Lorima on Tuesday evening when a five-gallon tank of gasoline in an automobile, which he was the owner exploded, sending sparks skywards. The Fond du Lac Reporter gives the following account of his thrilling experience: "Explosion of a five-gallon tank of gasoline in an automobile owned by Sam Silverstein Tuesday night, not only burned Silverstein, but also caused a near panic in the village hall at Lorima where more than 100 people had gathered for the annual spring caucus.

"Scores of people, believing that the explosion had occurred within or just adjacent to the village hall, fled down the steps and out into the street. Members of the village volunteer fire department maintained order and also went to the rescue of Silverstein whose clothing had caught fire. As a result of the excitement caused by the explosion, village officers held a special meeting and decided to postpone the caucus until Wednesday night at 7:30. "Mr. Silverstein who conducts a junk warehouse, had stopped his truck in front of his home to add a supply of gasoline. A lantern stood within a few feet of his truck while he filled the auto tank out of a five gallon can which he held with both hands when he had emptied half of the reservoir into the tank he fumes apparently reached the lantern causing an explosion. Mr. Silverstein dropped the can of gasoline and fled. "A second explosion within a few seconds ignited the gasoline which had spilled on the ground when Mr. Silverstein followed along the ground, spreading gasoline, dropped the can. The flames to a nearby pile of old tires, several of which were burned before members of the volunteer fire department were able to extinguish the flames. "The front part of the truck was damaged by the explosion and Mr. Silverstein's body burned about the hands and face."

DENNY'S CALIFORNIA STRAIGHT AHEAD

Reginald Denny becomes the "1925 pioneer" of the open road in "California Straight Ahead", his latest starring Universal-Jewel feature, at the Opera House tomorrow, Sunday. In this picture, which first night audiences hailed as one of the star's best, Denny sets forth for a motor trip across the continent in an elaborately constructed trailer. The trailer had been built for his honeymoon, but the honeymoon didn't come off because he showed up late for his wedding and his bride wouldn't marry him because she thought he'd been drinking. That starts Denny off on a picture packed full of strange situations, mishaps, adventures, thrills and laughs, which makes "California Straight Ahead" one of the funniest light comedies of the season. Though the motor trip and the attendant adventures may be a bit more stirring than the usual tourist's journey, at least more people would be tempted to set forth in the automobiles if they were sure of going through all the things Denny did. As in his other recent pictures, Reginald Denny proves that he is a versatile, accomplished comedian, and his performance rivals his characterization of the hypochondriac in "Oh, Doctor!" He is admirably supported by Gertrude Olmsted as leading woman, who finally agrees to marry the hero because he will not let her do anything else. The supporting cast includes Tom Wilson, Charles Gerrard, Fred Emmett, Lucille Ward, John Stepping, Leo Nomas and others.

New Variety of Dasheen Is Out

Sacramento of Greater Uniformity in Size and Shape Than Trinidad.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A new variety of dasheen, the Sacramento, which has been under observation and test by the United States Department of Agriculture for several years and was distributed two years ago, is being marketed this season for the first time. The greater uniformity of the tubers in size and shape not only makes the Sacramento easier to prepare for market, but gives it a higher value than the Trinidad variety now generally grown.

Third Starchy Vegetable.
The development of the dasheen industry has given the people of the United States a third distinctly starchy vegetable that is home grown, the potato and the sweet potato being the only vegetables of that nature heretofore commonly grown in this country. Dasheens have been grown by a gradually increasing number of people in the southern states since 1913. It was introduced from Porto Rico a few years earlier for cultivation there, primarily to supplement the small supply of home-grown potatoes. It is believed to have been brought from China to the western hemisphere, perhaps two or three centuries ago, and has been cultivated under various names in many of the islands of the West Indies.

Industry Established.
With continued improvement in cultural methods and the development of newer and better varieties under the direction of the department, the industry has become established. Continuous effort by growers and others in the South to make the excellence of this fall-maturing vegetable known to winter tourists and care in marketing only the best dasheens are calculated to bring about a largely increased demand.

Best Soy Bean Variety for Production of Seed

Fifteen years of experimental work at the Iowa station show manchu to be the best variety for seed production while peking has given the best results for silage and hay purposes.

The best yields of both seed and hay have been secured with drilled seedings. The best rate for drilling was two bushels per acre. This allows for a thorough harrowing and still leaves enough plants for a high yield. Planting from early May until June 1 gave equally good results.

Control of weeds was found to be the most important point in successful culture. It is suggested that soybean ground be plowed before the corn ground and then harrowed frequently to kill as many weeds as possible. After the crop is up, harrow first when the beans are one and one-half inches high, again when they are three inches high and the last time when they are six inches high.

Add Weight to Steers

Beef steers sired by good pure-bred bulls will often weigh 200 pounds more per head as two-year-olds than steers from the same cows sired by scrubs. And they bring a better price because they dress out more of the expensive cuts. In one comparison the pure-bred offspring brought a profit of $6.51 each against a loss of 46 cents a head from the scrubs.

SPRING PLOWING IS NEEDED FOR EMERGENCY ROUGHAGE CROPS

Soil Should Be Fairly Firm for Best Results.

Fall plowing is best for the crop, but emergency crops, often call for spring plowing. The soil should be fairly firm for best results. It is important that the seed be put in as early in the spring as it is possible to work the land. The peas especially do best in cold weather and will make the best growth and the best quality of hay when early sown.

In these days of the disk and shoe drill the seed should be sown two to three inches deep after the soil has been mellowed by thorough disking. The peas could well go deeper but the oats do best when sown not more than an inch and a half to two inches in depth. And since both are usually seeded with the same implement, peas can go at the shallower depth. One to one and one-half bushels of peas should be sown with a bushel and a half of oats per acre.

After sowing the oats and peas no attention need be given the crop until ready to cut for hay. This will be in ten or twelve weeks after sowing. The crop should be cut when the oats are in the milk and the peas just beginning to form in the pods. Owing to the green, succulent nature of the crops, difficulty is sometimes experienced in curing the crop on low, heavy land when large growth has been made. In bright sunny weather the difficulty is less than when rains are frequent. The hay is coarse and stuffy and does not shed rain well. If wet a few times it loses color and palatability. If left in the cocks any length of time after becoming wet it may mold badly.

Difference in Yield of Red Clover and Alfalfa

Under some soil conditions there is not much difference in yield of red clover and alfalfa. If the surface and subsoil are both sour, and the dark-colored soil is not very deep where the clovers must get their food from the decomposing humus, the red clover may make as much or more growth than alfalfa, because the root system of red clover is a little better adapted to getting food from decaying humus than is alfalfa. But when the subsoil contains the proper mineral food supply or when it has been applied to the soil, the alfalfa will make much more growth under comparable conditions than red clover. When soil condition are favorable for its growth the alfalfa makes two or three times as much yield of hay as red clover.

Some Excellent Rations for Idle Farm Animals

"It is a mistake to feed horses that are idle or doing only light work a ration that contains too much heavy concentrated feed," says W. C. Skelley, assistant animal husbandman of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station. "The concentrates are rich in protein, a very little of which is needed when the horse is idle. Feeding it in excess just adds to the cost of the horse's keep, as protein is the most expensive nutrient in our feeding stuffs."

This is the time to feed some of the waste products of the farm such as oat straw and corn stover, the latter preferably shredded to reduce the wastage, advises Professor Skelley. These should be supplemented with a certain amount of protein-bearing feeds, such as legume hay, linseed oil meal and wheat bran.

Two good daily rations for idle horses, per 1,000 pounds of live weight, would be: Corn stover 9 pounds, and clover or alfalfa hay 8 pounds; or else oat straw 6 pounds, clover or alfalfa hay 10 pounds, and corn 1 pound. By feeding these cheap roughages with a small amount of protein feeds the horses can be easily maintained at a minimum expense.

When the horses go into the hard work of the spring they will not be able to use as much roughage as when they are idle because they have not the time needed to thoroughly chew and digest it. For this reason the roughage should be reduced and the grain concentrates increased as soon as they begin to work. This should be done gradually so as not to cause colic or other digestive troubles.

Sudan Grass Is Useful as Good Emergency Crop

Since sudan grass is not sown until after corn planting, time it will not take the same place in any grazing system as rice pasture, which furnishes good pasture in the early spring. Sudan grass is a good pasture grass, and it is used principally as an emergency crop, much as is millet in the corn belt. Care must be used in pasturing the crop after frosts in the fall. After the frosts, prussic acid develops in the plant, which may prove poisonous to stock. It is also reported that in very dry seasons the acid develops in the plant, but the danger from this source is remote in the corn belt. It should be seeded at the rate of about 20 pounds to the acre. It may be either broadcast or drilled.

Scientist Working to Find Weight of Earth

An American scientist, seeking to weigh the earth as accurately as possible, has set up apparatus in a cell about thirty-five feet underground and has been at work at odd times for nearly a year. It probably will be many weeks before he completes his work. For his apparatus, he has an instrument resembling a small pile driver with many odd-appearing appendages. In a general way he has set up a miniature system representing the earth, and is attempting to determine the force of attraction between this system and the earth. By the law of proportion he will decide how much the earth weighs. Just how difficult the problem is, is demonstrated by the statement that to determine the force of attraction between a mass of steel weighing 149 pounds and a ball of gold weighing an ounce and a half it is necessary to compute in millionths of a grain.

Too Weak To Work

LeRoy, Mich.—"I was troubled with a pain in my right side and in the small of my back. I could not sleep soundly and had no appetite—it seemed that nothing looked good to eat. I was so weak I could scarcely do any work. Mange Mites Controlled by Liberal Use of Oil

Occasionally a bunch of unthrifty, scrubby-looking pigs are seen. Usually the pigs are mangy, due to small insects which burrow into the skin along the hair. An irritation arises which causes the pig to rub a great deal.

Liberal use of crude oil or crankcase oil over the hogs will get rid of this pest and also lice. In bad cases repeat two or three times and clean up the sleeping quarters and oil so that any mange mites in the dirt may be killed. Coal tar disinfectants are not usually effective in controlling this parasite.

Abe Schwartz looked up quickly as a shabbily dressed colored man entered his grocery and meat market in Irvington and demanded "the best and thickest porterhouse steak what you got."

"All right," Abe answered as he brought out an extra choice cut of meat, "you can have it just as thick as you want it. Just about how shall I cut this?"

The customer held his fingers apart, indicating about two inches. Then he hesitated an instant.

"About how much would it cost for one that thick?" he queried.

"Well, it would run somewhere close to 75 cents."

The colored man gave a long, shrill whistle, then exclaimed:

Odd Material for Check

A peculiar check that was cashed by a Kansas bank in 1908 has been unearthed during the cleaning out of a vault. While C. F. The check was afterward cashed by Sam Temple, who, in doing it, took it to the bank, where it was deposited and stamped "Paid."

Peppery Babe Pinelli is an important cog in the Cincinnati Reds' machine for the National league pennant this year because of his hard hitting, clever fielding and aggressiveness.

Career of Connie Mack

When the Athletics faced the barrier this year, it marked Connie Mack's twenty-sixth straight season as skipper of the team. The lean leader, who has celebrated his sixty-third birthday, declared that baseball interest still burned in his bosom. "As long as I still have the old-time interest in the game," he explained, "I'm going to stick to the team as manager. When I lose interest in baseball, then I know my time is up and I will step aside and let somebody else manage."

BASEBALL GAINING HOLD ON BRITAIN

Becoming Popular in Liverpool and Newport.

Baseball at last appears to have taken a firm hold in certain sections of Great Britain, and the past season saw more progress than ever before, according to comments by London sporting authorities and writers. Especially has great progress during the past year been noted in Liverpool and south Wales.

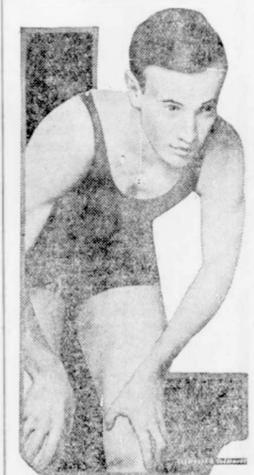

Most of the baseball clubs in south Wales are to be found in the thickly populated districts, and Cardiff has become the real stronghold of the game. The progress it has made in the Welsh metropolis is largely attributable to the fact that during the war the United States authorities had a large depot in the city. It is held that the game is more exciting than cricket and that a decision is arrived at in far less time than in the case of the older game.

Certain it is that the athletes of south Wales and of Cardiff and Newport in particular, have seized on baseball as the best substitute for football during the off season of the great winter game. Cardiff supports four baseball leagues, one of which is a women's league. Exponents of the game invariably play their matches on pitches in the public parks. A number of the cricket clubs have enclosed grounds and are able to charge admission. It is no uncommon thing, according to one London critic, to see crowds of from 3,000 to 5,000 watching a baseball game in Cardiff.

Newport also has its thousands of enthusiasts and claims credit for being the pioneer of the American game in south Wales. There were strong teams in the Usk side town long before the war. In south Wales football players consider baseball a better game for keeping themselves in condition during the summer than cricket and it is thought probable that their participation in baseball has materially increased its popularity.

In Liverpool the view also is taken that the game is far faster than cricket and workers are being lured in increasing numbers to baseball parks on Saturday afternoons. For years Liverpool has been almost alone among the centers of the north in its adherence to the game, but new clubs are springing up in the surrounding districts of St. Helens, Prescott and the Wirral.

Cricket Fans Disturbed Over Lively Ball Hint

Quite a flurry has been caused in Australian cricket circles since Malley raised the question of lifting the seam of the ball, with the result that a lively discussion has arisen as to the advisability of definitely establishing a rule against artificial aids that are likely to give an advantage to a bowler to which he is not considered entitled. Bob Crockett, who has umpired the test and other big matches for 32 years, and who is regarded as the greatest authority on Australian cricket, when interviewed on the subject, is quoted as saying: "I cannot understand what all the discussion is about. I have not seen one bowler lift a seam during the past 15 years, and I am always on the lookout for such things. Malley certainly did not do it. His trouble is that he gets too much break on the ball."

"Bowlers nowadays are more anxious to keep the ball smooth than make it rough. Douglas often rubbed the ball on his arm to make it smooth. Nearly all the bowlers used resin, which they keep in their pockets, and against which there is no rule. Few of the present-day bowlers rub the ball on the ground. Formerly bowl-ers, particularly Noble, liked the ball a little rough, but the custom has died out. One thing, despite its legitimacy, which annoyed bowlers, was the sticky mixture wicket-keepers used on their gloves. That was much more useful to a wicket-keeper than resin to a bowler."

Denies Comeback Yarn

James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world, never issued a challenge that he would fight any man in the world sixty years of age when he himself reached that age. Corbett revealed this when asked concerning the challenge hurled at him by E. J. Rankin, seventy-three-year-old former of Nampa, Idaho. "I don't know Mr. Rankin, never met him, and I never made such a foolish challenge," said Corbett, who now is in vaudeville.

If you were busy being kind, before you knew it you would find you'd soon forget to think 'twas true.

That someone was unkind to you.

SEASONABLE DISHES

When using canned fruit there will be small amounts of different kinds left over; use these in desserts as follows:

Fruit Dessert.—Take a package of strawberry flavored gelatin—there are various kinds on the market—add one cupful of boiling water and one cupful of any canned fruit juice; cool, put into a large mold and when it begins to thicken slightly add one and one-half cupfuls of fruit cut into pieces—peaches, pears, prunes, apricots or any combination that is at hand. Chill until firm. Individual molds may be used and the fruit added in designs.

Hot Potato Salad.—Take one quart of diced potatoes that have been boiled, one minced onion, a tablespoonful of minced parsley and the same of green pepper. Dice and fry until brown two slices of bacon. Remove the bacon and use for a garnish on top of the salad. To the fat add a tablespoonful of flour, and when well blended a half cupful each of water and vinegar, one teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of sugar and a dash of cayenne; pour boiling hot over the potato. Serve hot.

Spareribs With Potatoes and Apples.—Place seasoned spareribs in a baking dish and cook one hour. Place quartered potatoes under the ribs and quartered apples on top. Bake until the potatoes are well done and brown. Season with salt and pepper while cooking. The apples will brown and have a better flavor if sprinkled very lightly with sugar. Many good cooks add a very little sugar to all meats and meat sauces.

Parsnip Fritters.—Take cooked parsnips left over from a former meal. Press through a ricer, add to a cupful of the parsnip one-fourth teaspoonful each of salt and pepper, a beaten egg and a dash of cayenne. Mix thoroughly and fry in small cakes in a hot well-buttered pan. Brown on both sides.

Bird's Nest Pudding.—Slice good flavored apples into a deep pie dish and cover with a rather rich baking powder biscuit batter. Bake in a moderate oven and when ready to serve turn upside down on to a serving plate. Butter generously while hot, cover with the right amount of sugar and add either grated nutmeg or cinnamon. Cut into pie-shaped pieces and serve piping hot.

Dishes for Dinner.

The potato, the commonest and most often served food of any, is in most homes limited to a half dozen ways of serving.

Potatoes Cooked in Broth.—Cut the potatoes into balls, or they may be cut into cubes; the waste bits may be used in creamed or mashed potatoes. Cook the potato balls in boiling salted water for five minutes, then drain and finish cooking in well-seasoned broth. When tender, drain and sprinkle with salt and finely minced parsley. This is a good dish to serve for those who cannot eat meat.

Hamburg Steak With Brussels Sprouts.—Chop one pound of steak from the top of the round, add one-half cupful of cold water and a teaspoonful of salt. Mix thoroughly and shape into small cakes. Grease a hot frying pan lightly with a bit of spot and lay in the cakes, turn to cook on both sides. Have ready a smooth brown sauce to which has been added a few tablespoonfuls of chopped mushrooms and a little chopped ham. Have the brussels sprouts cooked until tender, drain, season well with salt, pepper and butter, shake over the fire until the sprouts have absorbed all the seasoning. Place the sprouts in the center of a hot platter and arrange the steak around them, pour the sauce around the steak.

Escalloped Cabbage.—Shred and cook cabbage as for hot stew. Prepare a white sauce. Butter a baking dish and put in a layer of hotted cabbage, then a layer of white sauce, sprinkle with grated cheese and continue until all the cabbage and sauce are used. Season each layer with salt and pepper and bake twenty minutes.

Hot Apple Dessert.—Peel, quarter and slice six apples. Put these into a serving dish suitable for the oven, in layers with seeded raisins and a cupful of sugar; cover and bake until the apples are soft. Remove the cover and set marshmallows over the top of the apples; return the dish to the oven for browning and serve hot, with or without cream.

Spoon Corn Bread.—Take one cupful of corn meal scalded, add one pint of sweet milk, one-half cupful of flour, two tablespoonfuls each of melted butter and sugar, two well-beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Bake one-half hour.

Why do Baby Chicks Die?

It's improper feed mostly that causes bowel trouble, i.e. weakness and white diarrhea. You can save 90 to 95 percent of them by using a feed that's suited to their delicate little bodies.

This Year, Win With Power McCormick-Deering Tractor

From the standpoint of effort the tractor owner has an easy time compared with the other fellow. He does not have to crack the whip over tired and weary horses. He has no chores to do. He has full power and full efficiency at his command at all times, regardless of heat and dust and flies. His tractor and tools may be made to work through twenty-four hours a day, if the season demands such extra speed, with utmost efficiency.

McCormick-Deering Engines

With the sturdy, rugged McCormick-Deering Engine pumping the water, running the washing machine, etc., you know the work will be done. And without the engine overheating or running up the operating expense. Every part of the McCormick-Deering is built for steady, important work. Dirt, sand and trash mean little to the McCormick-Deering, as the crankcase is enclosed. The cylinder is removable; in case of wear a new one can be inserted at low cost. The large water hopper permits a generous supply—no overheating.

WETS AND DRIES TO TALK MODIFICATION

Public Hearings Have Been Ordered by Senate Judiciary Committee.

Washington—Prohibition is to be given a public airing before a senate committee the two weeks beginning April 5. This was determined by the senate judiciary committee, which approved with only a single dissenting vote the program recommended by its subcommittee of five for hearings on pending measures for modification.

The first week will be reserved for presentation of arguments from wet forces; the second week is set aside for the dries.

Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, stood alone in the subcommittee of five in holding out for star chamber sessions.

The hearings will be confined to five bills, four of which provide for modification of the Volstead act. The remaining bill would establish local option in states and centers where the ballot reveals a preponderance of wet sentiment.

Of the four modification measures, three propose to legalize the sale of beer, one for 4 per cent; one for 2.75 per cent and one for beer that would be "non-intoxicating in fact."

The subcommittee is headed by Senator Means, Republican of Colorado, and the other members are Goff of West Virginia and Harrel of Oklahoma, Republicans, and Reed of Missouri and Walsh of Montana, Democrats.

Only about one-third of the members of the Sixty-ninth congress who will come up for re-election this year, have voting records on the prohibition amendment and the Volstead act. This is the discovery made by wets and dries who are preparing for the campaign to control the seventeenth congress.

Heretofore, it is pointed out, the vote on the resolution to submit the prohibition amendment to the states, adopted in 1917, and the vote on the resolution to pass the Volstead act over President Wilson's veto, have been adjudged as the test votes establishing a member's adherence to either the wet or dry cause.

Several amendments have been added to the prohibition statute since the passage of the Volstead act in October, 1919. Although final votes have been registered on these several occasions, the prohibition principle has never been involved on such a clear-cut basis as when the original enforcement measure was before congress.

Only fourteen of the thirty-four senators whose terms expire next March, and whose successors will be elected next November, were in congress for the final ballot on the Volstead act.

Continued improvement in the relationship between the United States and Mexico is expected by President Coolidge.

Criticizing the delay in the construction of an outlet to the sea for the Middle West, Senator Deneen (Rep., Ill.) told the rivers and harbors board of the War department that what the West wants is less talking and more action.

HANG ARMY OFFICER FOR GIRL'S MURDER

Lieut. J. S. Thompson Pays Penalty on Scaffold.

Manila.—Second Lieut. John S. Thompson of the United States army was hanged here for the murder of his seventeen-year-old fiancée, whom he said he could not live without or marry because of his insufficient salary.

Calmly, and without making a statement, the young officer, who was twenty-five years old, walked to a scaffold in a warehouse at Fort McKinley, after a day spent with his spiritual adviser and his attorney.

Thompson killed Miss Audrey Burleigh at Manila in the early morning April 5, 1925. She was the stepdaughter of Capt. Hamilton P. Calmes, medical corps, and they were engaged to be married.

Thompson became despondent because of his inability to marry the girl and said he decided suddenly to kill her and intended to end his own life. He feared that if the wedding was delayed he would never be able to make Miss Burleigh his wife.

Thompson was appointed from the ranks to the military academy at West Point. He was graduated with the class of 1921.

The body will be sent to Thompson's parents at Fair Rockaway, N. Y., on the next trip of the army transport Thones.

Farmers Rush to Clean Disease Out of Herds

Chicago—Dairy farmers of northern Illinois started to great activity by the demand of Chicago for pure milk, have submitted 31,012 of their cattle to the tuberculin test in less than two months.

These statistics are contained in a report made public by Dr. John J. Lintner, federal veterinarian supervising the tuberculin eradication work.

The figures were cited to show that under the prodding of Dr. Herman N. Rulphsen, commissioner of health, requiring farmers to clean up their herds or stop selling milk to the city, the state's dairy district around Chicago is being lifted from its low place as the second worst infected section in the country.

SEES NO FARM AID IN THIS CONGRESS

Prominent Member of House Agricultural Committee Takes Gloomy View.

Washington—Insistence of the north central states corn belt delegation upon consideration of a hopeless farm program is likely to block the enactment of agricultural relief legislation in this congress, according to Representative Aswell (Dem., La.), ranking Democratic member of the house agricultural committee.

In a recent meeting of the committee Mr. Aswell demanded of Frank W. Murphy if the latter and his associates in the joint legislative committee named at the Des Moines and Chicago conferences are willing to assume the responsibility of pressing their scheme to the point where remedial legislation will be impossible.

The program evolved at the conferences provides for the creation of a federal farm board, equipped with a $250,000,000 revolving fund appropriated from the federal treasury and empowered to levy an equalization fee on basic agricultural commodities to dispose of crop surpluses and stabilize prices.

In its present form and lacking the endorsement of the President, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, and the budget bureau, the bill, which does not include corn with the four basic commodities—cotton, wheat, cattle, and hogs—would not command three votes from southern members if it was favorably reported by the agricultural committee, Mr. Aswell predicted.

Mr. Murphy defended the bill as answering the house committee's demand for specific presentation of the principles endorsed in the Des Moines conference, and further, as an answer to the charge that farmers generally and their organizations are hopelessly divided over "what they want legislatively."

At the outset of the hearing Mr. Aswell attacked the plan as one which proposed to put agriculture under government control through a federal board appointed by the President. Mr. Murphy replied that the personnel of the board was to be nominated by the farmers themselves and that such a board would "provide an agency through which the farmers could do for themselves."

Representative Kincheloe (Dem., Ky.) reiterated his contention that the proposed equalization fee is unconstitutional and questioned the right of congress to appropriate $100,000,000, as suggested in the bill, for the immediate relief of the corn belt depression. The $100,000,000 revolving fund from the $250,000,000 revolving fund.

Senate Storm Breaks Over Foreign Policy

Washington—A storm over the foreign situation and America's relation to it broke into the senate, according to schedule.

The dark picture of the European situation attributed to Alanson R. Houghton, American ambassador to England, following his recent conference with President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg, was the match applied to the senate's foreign tinder box by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

Senator Harrison criticized Ambassador Houghton for representations laid at his door concerning conditions in Europe which are said to threaten the Locarno pact and to menace efforts to bring about stability, reduction of armaments and peace.

Crystal Set Circuit. Adjustment of Detector Is Fixed by the Manufacturers and Remains Permanent.

By WILMER S. TRINKLE In Philadelphia Public Ledger. One of the greatest drawbacks in the average crystal receiver is the lack of selectivity. To separate successfully broadcasting stations when several local stations are on the air is an absolute necessity if good uniform reception is to be obtained.

The set here described is one designed to meet the above requirements. The selectivity is quite good and testing this set in the heart of the city the writer was able easily to separate the Philadelphia stations and also to receive programs from WJZ, when that station was broadcasting through 2XAR, its 50-kilowatt station at Round Brook.

The detector circuit here shown will be familiar to the old operators who regarded it as one of the most reliable in a fixed type and is shown in the circuit diagram. It may be used in the usual type of circuit, which does not require a battery, but detector sensitivity is materially increased by the use of an applied voltage that can be regulated to a fine degree.

The adjustment of this detector is fixed by the manufacturers and remains permanent. The crystal here used is of the carborundum type and the contact pressure is quite heavy.

The parts needed. The parts used to construct the set here described are as follows: One fixed carborundum detector. One aero-coil coupler. One variable condenser .00035 mfd. capacity. One fixed condenser .001 mfd. capacity. One potentiometer, 200 ohms. One single-circuit jack. Four engraved binding posts marked as follows:

Ant., Gnd., A+, A-. One panel, 7 by 10 inches. One wooden sub-base, 7 by 8 inches. One 4-inch dial. Two lengths of No. 14 bus wire. One dry-cell, one and a half volts. The coupler used is of the single-layer solenoid type of the air-core variety and consists of two windings. The outside coil is the secondary, is three inches in diameter and consists of 61 turns of No. 22 double cotton-covered wire. The primary is wound inside of the secondary and near one end. It consists of seven turns of the advantage of this amplifier is that it takes more "B" battery voltage, up to 125 volts, as against 90 volts required for other types. As you can see by the circuit diagram shown, it consists principally of a series of resistances. The condensers used vary from .006 to .05. The best capacity will be found only by experiment. However, in most cases .006 is correct. If you are using dry cell tubs, you will have to vary the resistors which make up the secondary until you find those that give the best results.

How to Tell Values of Different Grid Leaks A suitable set of values for a grid leak would be one megohm, two megohms, three megohms, five megohms and seven megohms. A means may be provided for bringing these values in action which may be secured by wiring a tap switch so that it may be used to switch any one of a number of grid leaks into the circuit. This will provide a definite, precise value of grid resistance to suit the requirements of various groups of stations, according to their distance and power.

Use Vernier With Soft Tube The detector tube, if a soft one, requires critical filament adjusting for best results. The low will not give enough volume and too high will cause distortion.

Frame Building Best for Radio Reception A radio set located in a frame dwelling will in many cases receive greater distances and will receive it with more volume than a set located in an apartment house, which, as a rule, has a superstructure of steel. The steel structure, being a conductor of electro-magnetic waves, has the effect of absorbing radio waves, therefore taking away some of the energy that ordinarily would reach the antenna.

Voltage Needed for Loud Speaker Volume Many good sets fail to deliver sufficient volume and will receive it because they are not supplied with the necessary power to do so. Forty-five volts on the plates of the amplifiers will not deliver enough current to the magnets of the loud speaker to produce loud signals. Ninety volts will give much better results, and is certainly worth the additional cost. An extra grid bias is sometimes necessary with higher voltage, and this is supplied with a four and one-half volt "C" battery, which is connected between the post of the transformer and the positive terminal of the filament.

Either Kind of Wire There is a lot of argument concerning the use of square or round bus wire. The thing quickly approaches the ridiculous though when one begins to talk of the "electrons" sliding off the sharp edges of the square wire. The only practical difference between the two forms of connecting wires is that the square wire is a little easier to work with. Electrically there is no difference in the two forms of wire.

To Make Switch Stop If your set requires a switch stop, make one by boring a small hole beside the last switch point and inserting a piece of bus wire so it will fit on the point behind the panel and at the same time stick through the small hole you bored in the panel.

MOTHER OF SEVEN CHILDREN

Helped in Caring for them by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Glasgow, Ky.—I am the mother of seven children, the eldest being only 12 years, and I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to pull me through the roughest places of my married life. At one time I was so down-hearted that life was a misery. A friend in Indianapolis, Indiana, told me of the Vegetable Compound, and after taking a few bottles of it I came myself again and it was a pleasure to do my housework and attend to my children. Since then I always use your medicine when I feel weak from overwork and it straightens me out. Mrs. MARISSA BARNES, Route 2, care of O. P. Steenbergen, Glasgow, Ky. New Orleans, La.—I could not do a thing after my first boy was born. I was so weak, I had no appetite, lost weight and was not able to do my work. I was this way for seven weeks, then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got wonderful results from it. Mrs. C. PATTER, 5014 Dauphine St., New Orleans, La. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been growing in popularity among women for over fifty years.

trapper. And now, though he was no longer worth his weight in yellow gold, he was the cleverest, the fiercest, and the most merciless of all the creatures that made up his world.

It was quite fortunate for Baree that this instinct did not go to the limit in the beginning and make him understand that his own breed—the wolf—was most feared of all the creatures.

Two hours he did not find a crayfish. Then he came out of the green timber into the edge of a burned-over country. Here everything was black. The stumps of the trees stood up like huge charred canes.

It was the blue sky and the sun and the softness of the earth under his feet that lured Baree. It was pleasant to tread in after his painful experiences in the forest.

Baree ate a third of the partridge, and the remaining two thirds he cached very carefully at the foot of the big spruce. Then he hurried down to the creek for a drink.

For another day and night Baree remained in the vicinity of his cache. When the last bone was picked, he moved on.

And this was straight into the trapping country of Pierrrot, the half-breed. Pierrrot's small two years ago, had believed himself to be one of the most fortunate men in the big wilderness.

Two days after Baree had entered his trapping ground, Pierrrot came in from the forests with a troubled look in his face.

And now he is in the trapping grounds of Pierrrot and the lovely Nepeese. How will he fare?

The Light Running GEHL

Service

That's what you pay for when you buy farm machinery—do you always get it?

When you buy a GEHL implement you know you will—you have this assurance because you can have a GEHL factory expert on the job in jig time if your new spreader don't start off right—likewise if need a repair part you know how to get it quick. That makes it certain that you will get top-notch service from your GEHL machine even if it were just an ordinary spreader, and it's far from that.

If you think they are all the same you'll be surprised to see the difference in the GEHL. It's multiple blade wide spread adds an extra pulverizing and spreads evenly—out beyond the wheels. The auto type steering stops all pole lash—it is low down—easy to load—pulls easy—in fact, it has every advantage you would expect.

Two sizes—with either standard or wide tired wheels if you want them. Drop in and look them over at your local dealer—they're handled in Kewaskum by
