THIRD ATTEMPT TO STOP AUTOS

What is suspected of being a bold attempt at holdup, occurred at the junction of Highways 55 and 67, three miles east of Campbellsport, at about 7 p. m., last Thursday evening. The incident happened when Henry E. Lavrenz, 186 North Lincoln Ave., of Fond du Lac, was driving the "cop" to visit Mrs. Sophia Kuehl and son Edward. When Mr. Lavrenz and family arrived at the junction, they saw the supposed "fake motor cop" sitting on his motorcycle, and as the Lavrenz car drove by the "officer" called for them to stop. Mr. Lavrenz knowing that he was not violating the law, feared an attempted hold up, increased his speed and hurried on towards Campbellsport. When Mr. Lavrenz failed to obey orders the "cop" fired a shot through the side curtain and the wind shield of his car, and followed the car some distance giving up the pursuit near the city limits of Campbellsport.

The Red Sea and San Francisco are about five thousand miles apart. The Israelites led by Moses on their exodus from Egypt are separated by about forty centuries from Sunday afternoon jazz dancing today. Yet, Cecil B. DeMille has managed to put them together convincingly in his picture, "The Ten Commandments." This great Paramount picture is coming to the Opera House tomorrow, Sunday, where it will be shown for the first time in popular prices. The modern story opens on a devout mother driving one of her two sons from home because he will not "apologize to God," for what she believes sacrilege. The son goes out into the world, not bitterly, but boyishly, by exultant, to smash every commandment. Then DeMille develops his theme that "if you try to break the Ten Commandments they'll break you."

AN APPEAL FOR HELP

Mrs. Christ Walters, Rouse J. West Bend, chairman of the Washington County Chapter of the American Red Cross, on Sunday received a telegram from Red Cross headquarters at St. Louis, stating that the Red Cross is mobilizing all resources for relief of the sufferers from the Florida hurricane, and asking that the local chapter give immediate publicity to this fact, calling attention to the great loss of life and the large number of injured and homeless. Contributions, which the local chapter is ready to receive for this work, should be remitted daily.

A gorgeous Biblical episode, done in natural colors, is enacted by such popular players as Estelle Taylor, Theodore Roberts, James Neil, Chas. de Roche and Lawson Butt. The two million persons who have paid from one to two dollars to see this greatest of Paramount Pictures testify that the highest point the cinema art has yet reached, has been achieved in this most ambitious directorial effort of Cecil DeMille.

5000 PEOPLE WILL MAKE MERRY AT JIMMY DEVINE'S BIG DANCE

Five thousand people will make merry at the opening dance at the Retlaw Roof Garden, Fond du Lac, Saturday, Sept. 25th. Features of the evening will be a demonstration of the new dance craze the Valencia, also a galaxy of snacking hilarious revelry with noisemakers hats, horns, and all sorts of novelties to make this an opening of fun and frolic. Popular admission price will be ladies 25 cents and gentlemen 35 cents, with checking free. The Roof will be under the management of Jimmy Devine, well known ball room manager of Milwaukee.

and Mrs. Wilke carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and lark-spurs. Misses Gladys Wilke, niece of the bride and Dorothy Kumrow, cousin of the groom, were flower girls, both were dressed in a pink crepe de chine over pink satin trimmed with lace, and carried a pink and blue basket of lavender and pink asters and ferns. The groom was attended by Edgar Kumrow as best man and Willie Wilke and Ray Garbisch were assistant ushers. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of Mrs. Olga Wilke, with about 150 guests in attendance, where a dinner and supper were served. The house was prettily decorated in orange and blue crepe paper and wedding bells and a large wedding cake formed the centerpiece of the wedding table. The evening was enjoyably spent in dancing and playing cards. The Statesman joins the many friends of the contracting parties in extending heartiest congratulations and best wishes for a happy and prosperous married life.

CELEBRATE THEIR SILVER WEDDING

A number of relatives and friends were very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wernicke near Kohlsville last Sunday, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wernicke's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The day was spent in a social manner. The home was decorated with an assortment of flowers. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Engelman, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wernicke and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Groth, Louis Wernicke, all of West Bend; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wardous and son Oscar and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wardous and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kennenberg of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hausner and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hausner of Crystal Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wardous and family, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Blank and family, Mr. Mathias and daughter and son Edwin of Kohlsville, Mr. and Mrs. John Blank and family of Lomira; Mrs. Caroline Engelman, Mrs. Elizabeth Glass and daughter Norma and Leo Glander, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stange and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Naumann, all of Beechwood, Clarence Stange and Miss Alice Hornick of Rhine Center. Mr. and Mrs. Wernicke received numerous beautiful presents.

BAZAAR

Preparations are rapidly progressing for the bazaar to be held at the Holy Trinity school hall on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon and evening, October 26th, and 27th. All donations towards same will be very much appreciated. Any article of fancy work, aprons, wearing apparel, in fact, anything and everything useful, will be accepted. Also anything which can be disposed of for 5 cents, 10 cents, 25 cents and up. Nothing too large and nothing too small. All the members of the congregation are putting forth their best efforts and indications are that it will be an "over the top" success.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

A Mr. Simmons, who was last seen some time in the month of March, this year, at the residence he then occupied in the village of New Prospect. The said Mr. Simmons left his place of residence without giving notice to the owners of said property and all of his belongings have been stored in the warehouse of one J. W. Romaine, whose address is Campbellsport, Wis., R. D. 6, any information that can be given to him as to the whereabouts of Mr. Simmons will be thankfully received.

BOY FRACTURES LEG

While visiting at the Gremminger farm in the town of Auburn, Francis Miller, aged 9 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller of Campbellsport, had the misfortune of fracturing his leg Tuesday afternoon, when he fell into a freshly plowed furrow while following Mr. Gremminger, who was engaged in plowing. Both bones in the right leg were broken.

SUFFERS HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE

At about 4:30 p. m. Sunday, fire of unknown origin destroyed two barns, owned by John O'Brien located a half mile north of Eden. Besides the structures, many tons of hay and a small quantity of farm implements were also consumed by the flames. The loss is estimated at $6,000. Small fire buildings on the farm caught fire but the flames were extinguished by a bucket brigade which was formed immediately after the fire was discovered. An investigation as to the cause of the fire is now being made by Mr. O'Brien.

LYDIA of the Pines

Honore Willis

STORY FROM THE START

Lydia Dudley, with her baby sister, Patience, returns home from an afternoon of play. The home is an untidy house, the impoverished household of her father, Amos Dudley, in Lake City.

She forgot her setting back and led the way into the house. Amos was excited and pleased as the children and Lizzie, so tired that her old hands shook, was as elated as the others.

"Well," said Levine, after supper was finished, the baby was asleep and Lydia was established with a copy of "The Water Babies" he had brought her, "I had an interesting trip, this week."

INDEPENDENCE

This year, as always, the popular style will be COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE

Money in the Bank will give you that feeling of satisfaction and self-confidence that is an essential part of good Americanism.

Farmers & Merchants State Bank

Kewaskum, Wisconsin

"A Community Bank"

THE easily driven "RED TOP" steel drive post has made fence building possible at this season. With this post there are no post holes to dig, so it doesn't matter how hard or dry the ground may be. With the "RED TOP" One Man Driver you can drive 200 to 300 of these superior steel posts a day.

At the low prices we are quoting on "RED TOPS" and fence there's a double advantage in building new fences and repairing old ones now.

A good many farmers around here are doing the bulk of their fencing during the fall season--right now. When the spring rush of work comes on they will have just enough time to do.

"RED TOPS" for Low Cost Temporary Fences

We've been selling lots of "RED TOPS" in temporary fences this season. They are easily driven and the stakes attached. They can be pulled and the fence moved with so little labor and in such a short time.
It is a pleasure for us to sell you "RED TOP" posts. We know they will give you lasting satisfaction. They have been doing it in this community for years.

Come in right away and arrange for the posts and fence you will need to put your fence lines in right shape this fall. We are always glad to help you get the biggest value going for every dollar you spend with us. "RED TOPS" are one of our best offers today.

McCORMICK-DEERING POTATO DIGGER

Built and equipped for satisfactory work in all kinds of soil.

THE cheapest help you can get is wasteful and extravagant compared with the McCORMICK-DEERING Potato Digger. This tool goes into the fields, whenever you wish, and digs the potatoes quickly and economically. Actual users say, "It is the lightest draft digger on the market." It is well lubricated, and is built to last many years—regardless of the heavy work it is called upon to do.

With the McCORMICK-DEERING, the potatoes are brought out on top of the soil, in plain sight and in neat rows. They are separated from dirt, vines, and trash, and are easy to pick up. If you have a McCORMICK-DEERING Potato Digger and two or four horses, you can harvest your potato crop with the minimum of man labor.

Canada Institutes Bird Sanctuaries

With the progress of settlement the Canadian prairies are losing those special characteristics generally associated with them. Their isolation, their treelessness, their lack of social amenities, are becoming things of the past.

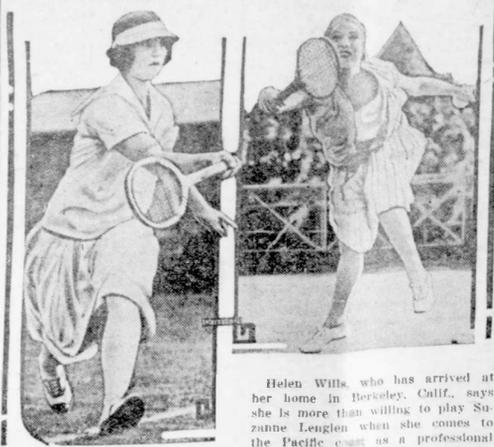

Yet certain developments need to be regulated. For example, the Department of the Interior has just set aside a number of public shooting sanctuaries to those already established. These regions contain the most important breeding grounds on the American continent for wild fowl, which, from time immemorial, have found in marsh and reedy lake food and security. The advent of civilization, with its attendant draining of swamps, tends to reduce the size of the breeding grounds and this, together with increased facilities for sport, has reduced the number of birds to an alarming extent, some species, indeed, being threatened with extinction.

Sea Lion Cries Broadcast
Many curious programs are being broadcast from the radio stations everywhere, but the London Zoological gardens contributed one of the most unusual when it recently broadcast the cries and noises made by the sea lions in the zoo. A specially designed transmitter had to be used for the program that lasted 45 minutes.

Praise is due the man who makes good when conditions are bad.

Failure picks no day nor month.

Helen Wills Would Play Suzanne

BASEBALL NOTES

The Indian baseball player has always been popular with the American fans.

Only three base hits were made by both teams in a game between Washington and Cleveland in 1915.

"Lefty" McCutcheon, twenty years of age, has been signed by the Wichita Western league baseball club.

Gus Foreman, former southpaw pitcher with the Red Sox, now a free agent, is working out with the Giants.

St. Louis fans have been waiting fifty years to see the Cards win the National league baseball championship.

Fans have learned to consider silence on the part of Manager McKechnie of Pittsburgh as a sign of confidence.

In spite of his many years of service, Urban Shocker of the Yankees has never yet taken part in a world's series.

Nothing to the story that the Cubs are after "Peewee" Wanninger, St. Paul shortstop, according to Manager McCarthy.

Heinie Manush's hitting weakness was discovered the other day by a White Sox southpaw who hit him with a pitched ball.

A baseball fan in Minneapolis eating a hot dog found a gold ring. This merely proves again the uncertainty of baseball.

After batting safely in 25 straight games Lester Bell of the St. Louis Cardinals went to bat 21 times without making a hit.

Lee Meadows and Ray Kremer, pitching stars, are having a merry race for the National league leadership this season.

"Pitching to college players and to major-leaguers is about as wide a difference as one could draw in sport," said Tyrus R. Cobb.

Arthur Mills of Utica, N. Y., right-handed pitcher, has been sold to the Boston Braves by the Pittsburgh club of the Eastern league.

Wiley Moore of the Greenville Spinners, leading pitcher of the South Atlantic association, has been sold to the New York Americans.

Tony Welzer, Red Sox flinger, who made one training trip with the White Sox several years ago, is developing into a pretty good twirler.

The late "Sik" O'Loughlin, who umpired for many years in the major leagues, was the originator of the famous expression, "Strike tuh."

The indications are that the Cincinnati Nationals will divide their spring training next year between the cities of Orlando and West Palm Beach, Fla.

The highest season's batting average in the history of the big league was .462, made by "Tip" O'Neil in 1887, while playing with the St. Louis Browns.

Only 12 players in the history of major-league baseball have served 20 or more years. Adrian C. (Cap) Anson topped them all with 26 active seasons.

A baseball field has been dug out of a hillside in Ketchikan, Canada, after three years of effort and at a cost of $50,000 subscribed by local business men.

One wonders, on second thought, just how speedily the Pittsburgh management would have disposed of Carey if he had been hitting .350 and Adams if he had won 20 ball games.

The Bloomington club of the Three-Eye league has received word that a deal has been closed for the purchase of Pitcher Edward Kallina, star southpaw, by the New York Giants.

One of the most promising prospects to come into the American league this season is Bill Regan of the Boston Red Sox. Regan is a second-sacker, a fine fielder and strong hitter. He got his start in the Michigan-Ontario league a few years ago.

First Baseman Burps of the Indians has been playing with three busted ribs, a busted thumb and a busted knee. . . This bears out the spring-time critics who said he'd be a bust his year.

FOOTBALL SPOILS BIB FALK'S ARM

Forgot a Promised Bonus When Alma Mater Called.

Loyalty to his alma mater blasted his brilliant major league twirling prospects, but in compensation afforded "Bib" Falk the opportunity of stamping himself one of the hardest-hitting outfielders now in baseball.

The Chicago mauler, who is now bidding for the peak of the American league batting average column, was the outstanding baseball and football player of Texas university in 1918, 1919 and 1920. He is yet rated as the greatest southpaw hurler produced by any Texas college or university.

During the three years he toiled on the hilllock for the Longhorns he lost not a single game, and was the big gest factor in the winning of three southwest conference championships. In diamond parlance "Bib" had everything—control, speed, curves, change of pace, a mystifying knuckle ball, endurance, pitching sense. When not on the mound, Falk played first base. He fielded the initial sack well and hit hard; but Texas university fans thought of him as a pitcher, not as a hitter.

Falk was an All-Southwestern tackle on the football elevens of 1917 and 1918.

In the summer of 1919, Falk signed with the White Sox, with the understanding he was to receive a substantial bonus if he refrained from playing football. He was to report after the 1920 college baseball season. The Longhorns got away to a dismal start in 1919. Falk tossed away the bonus that would have been his and donned his football togs. Inspired in large measure by Falk's stirring play, the Longhorns "came back" with several brilliant victories.

Falk emerged from the bruising football season with a badly injured left shoulder and arm. His "wing" troubled him throughout the 1920 college season, though undaunted by the pain, he pitched the Longhorns to a conference diamond championship. When he reported to the Chicago, it was apparent his pitching days were over. Rendered only more determined to stick to the big show, "Bib" soon concluded "Kid" Gleason of his promise as a hitter.

Worth-While Praise Is Heaped on Bobby Jones

Perhaps the sincerest compliment Bobby Jones appreciates most is that of the veteran basketball writer and pal of Harry Vardon, when he solemnly said: "I reserve the right to bracketing Bobby Jones with Harry Vardon."

To understand the full significance of this reservation of right it is necessary to take into consideration the veneration in which Vardon is held by his countrymen. To every Briton the name of Vardon is synonymous for perfection in golf. To compare anyone with Vardon has always been akin to sacrilege. Yet here is Taylor, Vardon's pal, openly announcing that he ranks Bobby as a par with the immortal Harry.

J. H. made that statement prior to Jones' triumph at Saint Annes. Taylor's remarks were elicited by Bobby's astounding qualifying feat at Sunningdale, of which J. H. said: "I question whether anything so stupendous has ever before happened on the links."

Cleveland Holds Corner on Triple-Play Heroes

With the addition this season of Ernie Padgett, formerly of the Boston Braves, Cleveland has had four triple-play heroes on its pay roll at various times. The others were Neal Ball, Bill Wambly and George Burns.

Ball and Wambly made their unassisted three-ply killings while cavorting in Cleveland uniforms. Burns made his while with the Boston Red Sox and Padgett as a member of the Boston Braves.

Wambly's was the most spectacular, coming in the 1920 world series with Brooklyn.

National League Obtains Ebbets Field for Play

The National Professional Football league emerged victorious from one of the first important tests with its newly organized rival, the American League of professional football clubs, by gaining an agreement for the use of Ebbets field as a Brooklyn playing site. Both organizations, through their Brooklyn franchise holders, had sought the park, but Edward C. Butler, former Cornell star, representing a business men's syndicate, announced he had secured it for the National league. This was confirmed later by officials of the Brooklyn Baseball club.

Played Every Hop Just Right, but the Last One

Bill Whitman, scout for the Chicago Cubs, was down in the Cotton States league recently looking them over. The home team put up a miserable game that day. There were errors galore, the infielders in particular having a tough time, every one of them making one or more bobbies.

After the game, Whitman saw the manager. "Did you see my infield today?" he asked Whitman. "Didn't it work great—the boys played every hop right but the last one."

No-Hit Against Pirates

Charlie Ketchum, hurler for the Akron General Tires team, recently pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition contest and enabled his team to shut out the world's champion, 6 to 0. It was Ketchum's second no-hit, no-run game in eight days.

Pro Turns in 12 Birdies

Judging by the returns that keep filtering in, no one section of the country enjoys a monopoly when it comes to low golf scoring. About the most brilliant performance heard of in a long time was a round by Ed Dudley, professional at the Oklahoma City Golf and Country club. During the course of the 18 holes, Dudley had no less than 12 birdies, going out in 33 and back in 39 for a 63. Par for the layout is 73. Other low scores have been reported.

Big Leagues Want Him

Four major league clubs are after Peewee Wanninger, shortstop of the St. Paul American association club and former Yankee player. The Philadelphia Athletics, St. Louis Browns and Chicago Cubs have had their agents watching the work of the youngster, and Brooklyn has asked the local club for a price. Wanninger came to St. Paul in the deal that sent Mark Koebig to the New York Yankees.

Diagram of a Three-Tube Reflex Hook-Up With Constants Being Shown. Summer Static Is Reduced to Practically Nothing.

The principal feature of the circuit shown, which is of my own origin, writes William L. Travis in Radio Digest, is that summer static is reduced to practically nothing. Yet the signal strength is greater than any of several regenerative sets that I have tried. This, I think, is due to the variable resistance in the aerial circuit. Its selectivity is as good as a well made, five-tube, tuned radio-frequency set, while its DX record is as good as my neutrodyne. When properly adjusted and tuned to any wave length, I have found its tone quality to be superior to any set I have heard.

The only time I am annoyed with other disturbances is when an electrical storm is within a radius of five miles. Ordinary static, while very annoying on radio-frequency or regenerative circuits, is not troublesome on this one. The potentiometer shown is of 400 ohms resistance. Only the arm and one of the end terminals are used. Coils L and L1 are spider webs. Twenty-four turns of the secondary are wound on, then the primary of 19 turns, and finally the remaining twenty-four turns of the secondary. Both coils are wound clockwise, and both are No. 22 double silk-covered wire. The crystal detector may be either fixed or variable. When the variable condenser in the aerial circuit and the potentiometer are adjusted to the aerial being used they can be left alone, which leaves only two controls to tune. The potentiometer may be used as a volume control and to control oscillation.

New Upright Antenna Used by Station KDKA

At either side of station KDKA (Pittsburgh) stands an antenna system, one of the new upright structure, and the other of the conventional horizontal or flat top structure; one used for short-wave transmission, the other operated on an assigned broadcasting wave length; one, counting its province only places on the North American continent, although it is heard regularly in parts of South America and Europe; the other reaching out with consistent day-after-day transmission to the furthest corners of the earth.

One of these antenna systems is for the station's 300-meter wave length, while the other radiates on the short wave lengths.

The upright antenna, the one used with the short-wave transmitting set, is one of the most efficient antenna it is possible to build, of any type, considering the present knowledge of radio phenomena, KDKA engineers declare, as it has been practical to build this antenna so that its natural period of vibration or fundamental frequency is very close to that used in the short-wave transmissions to be radiated from it. That means that very little tuning of this antenna is required and the losses of power or energy through tuning are therefore very small. This antenna also permits the use of about the greatest effective height that can be obtained on the particular wave length in use.

A wooden pole supports a pipe cut near the center for the insertion of the tuning coil as shown. The pipe is supported on long porcelain insulators and is topped with a large ball. A counterpoise is used instead of a ground connection. The antenna is fed through a radio-frequency transmission line so that the antenna can be located at some distance from the transmitter itself.

The horizontal or assigned wave-length antenna also is very efficient. The fundamental frequency, however, is not quite so close to that of the wave length which is to be radiated. Several antennae are used in the short-wave transmitting system. These different antennae are located with the idea of getting directional effects on the long distance relaying. Each antenna consists of a copper tube supported vertically on a high wooden pole with a small horizontal counterpoise element at the lower end about four feet from the ground. Long porcelain insulators hold the tube rigid and further reduce electric losses.

The length of the short wave radiated by the station expressed in feet is approximately 200 feet. The antenna is a few meters less than half the length of the wave which it radiates, but a short horizontal counterpoise element at the bottom end of the tube, and the lead-in wire connection with the set, help to compensate for the deficiency in length, and bring the natural period or fundamental frequency of the antenna near that which is being radiated by the transmitting apparatus.

Collodion Is Found Best Binder for Radio Coil

When winding tuning coils it is necessary to use some kind of a binder. The radio laboratory of the bureau of standards would recommend collodion for that purpose. Comparative tests with varnish, shellac, and paraffin produced results indicating that collodion is best, with the additional advantage of drying rapidly.

Different binding materials were applied to a single-layer coil, just enough to cover the entire surface. The coils were then dried thoroughly. Since measurements were difficult, unusual care was exercised in performing the task. The difficulty of this test is apparent when we are told that in some cases the resistance of a coil using a binder was less by a fraction of an ohm than a coil to which no binding material was applied. Generally, however, the absence of a binder contributed to the "low loss" characteristics of a tuning coil.

Various binding materials showed varying resistance at different radio-frequencies. Examples are quoted: At 300 kilocycles, a coil with no binder offered a resistance of 3.9 ohms; commercial insulating varnish B, 3.9 ohms; commercial insulating varnish A, 3.8 ohms; shellac, 3.7 ohms; paraffin, 3.9 ohms. At 1,300 kilocycles, no binder, 10.3 ohms; collodion, 10 ohms; commercial insulating B, 10.8 ohms; commercial insulating varnish A, 10.1 ohms; shellac, 11.4 ohms; paraffin, 11.8 ohms. At 1,400 kilocycles, no binder, 13.2 ohms; collodion 13.2 ohms; commercial insulating varnish B, 14.6 ohms; commercial insulating varnish A, 14.7 ohms; shellac 15.7 ohms; paraffin, 16.7 ohms. At a radio-frequency of 1,500 kilocycles, no binder, 14.2 ohms; collodion, 14.4 ohms; commercial insulating varnish B, 15.9 ohms; commercial insulating varnish A, 16.4 ohms; shellac, 17.2 ohms; paraffin, 15.5 ohms.

These results, as well as additional evidence, are responsible for the radio laboratory of the bureau of standards, in drawing up the following conclusions: "All the insulating materials which were used as binders caused very slight increases in the resistance of the coils. Collodion seems best, and also has the inherent advantage of drying rapidly after application to the coil. This is of especial advantage in the construction of a bank-wound coil."

Rejuvenating Process Is Worth a Fair Trial

Until about a year ago, before the advent of the now plentiful tube rejuvenators, the prescribed remedy for a run-down tube was to leave it in the receiver, turn on the filament supply, and disconnect the "B" battery. This proved quite a serviceable cure in many cases, an extra supply of thimium being brought in to the filament surface. This was necessarily a slow job. By the use of a rejuvenator, the process can now be considerably quickened, the reason being that a higher voltage is supplied to the filament from the rejuvenator than was previously obtained from the storage battery when the old method was employed. Most rejuvenators are operated from 110 volts a. c., with a suitable step-down transformer. "Rejuvenators cannot be used with any tubes except those which have thoriated filaments," writes Keith Hemmy in the Radio Broadcast Magazine. "They will be of no service with the old tungsten filament 201 or 200 type tubes, or with the new LX-112, or with Western Electric tubes. On the other hand, they are very efficient for thoriated filament tubes of the 190, 201-A, 120, 210 and certain 112 types. From data collected in the Radio Broadcast laboratory on several types of rejuvenators, it was seen that some tubes went dead in the flashing process while many gave increased plate current. At any rate, the user has everything to gain, nothing to lose, in the process. If his vacuum tube is no good before, it cannot be worse after the rejuvenating process."

Shield Antenna from Surrounding Objects

The antenna should be unshielded from all surrounding objects. It must not be strung in a courtyard between new buildings nor should it be wired along the front or sides of a building running vertical to the roof. Aerials that are behind an apartment building or next to a wall will generally be shielded in certain directions and may never receive distant stations in those directions.

A Buddhist mass was recently held in Tokyo for the spirits of all elephants that have supplied ivory for ivory carving in Japan. Members of the Tokio Art Objects Dealers' association and ivory carvers assembled at Kokoku temple for the ceremony. Fifteen prizes opened the service with the reading of Buddhist prayers. A large monument was also unveiled in honor of the spirits of the departed elephants. The president of the association said: "We who obtain our living from this ivory cannot help feeling grateful to the elephants which have been furnishing materials for us to work with. It is for this reason that we comfort their spirits by holding a mass for them. We think we also do honor and comfort to the spirits of our ancestors, who were likewise in the ivory trade. We wish all artists and dealers in ivory objects to visit the monument as a shrine when they come to Tokyo."—Patriot Magazine.

Trinity
The weather has been playing havoc with the sandstone exterior of old Trinity church in New York and it was feared at first that the crumbling process was due to some defect in the walls, but a thorough examination of the structure indicates that the walls are just as sound as when they were built. The flaking of the exterior sandstone is caused by the changing weather. The stone is of a porous nature and absorbs the moisture, which freezes at times and causes the stone to flake off. The walls are to be treated to a bath of paraffin, applied after having been heated by an electric blast. This is the same process that was used years ago on the Egyptian obelisk which stands in Central park, and which was similarly treated.

FIRST to adopt DUCO

The General Motors Research Laboratories cooperated with E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Inc., in the development of Duco—an achievement ranking in importance with the invention of the self-starter.

DUCO is not only far more lasting than paint and varnish; it is finer, more beautiful and more economical to apply in factory production.

DUCO was first adopted by Oakland, and immediately thereafter by the rest of the General Motors cars.

BUYERS of General Motors cars have profited by the development of this finer, more enduring finish. Their cars wear well longer.

FIRE PREVENTION AND LIFE PROTECTION

In the planning and erection of all kinds of buildings, particularly public buildings, life safety must often yield to a desire to economize or to beautify. This is not as it should be. Life safety should be considered above a few paltry dollars and useless filigree work.

Life safety not only requires a good class of building on the whole, but also requires aisles, corridors, halls, fire escapes and other exits of proper width and sufficient for the occupants of any building. The architect planning such building should take these factors into consideration and plan accordingly. It is important that walls, floors and ceilings surrounding such passageway be of fire-resistive construction, and that all doors leading to such passageways swing in the line of travel. These two factors will go far towards preventing both fire and panic hazard. Too often a mad rush has made it impossible to open swinging doors, and many people have been killed not by fire, but by the stampede. Many school building holocausts are examples of this.

Fire-resistive boiler rooms and fire-resistive ceilings over basements, where so many fires start, is of next importance from the standpoint of life protection, as well as saving of property. Fire-resistive roof coverings will go far towards eliminating the spark and exposure hazards. In certain classes of buildings fire doors and windows can be installed to still further eliminate the exposure hazard.

Installing automatic sprinklers in the basement at least, still better throughout the building, will most effectively protect life and property. It is worthy of notice that lives have never been lost in a sprinklered building. It is better to get wet than burned.

It is easier and cheaper to prevent fires than to fight them. With a good class building as above outlined, prevention is largely a matter of good housekeeping. Oily rags and papers, rubbish, waste paper, and other easily combustible materials in basements, attics, closets and dark corners are an invitation to fire and not good housekeeping. These unfrequented spaces are often piled high with such rubbish. A careless man tossing away a lighted match or cigarette butt is only needed and usually at hand to cause a conflagration.

Profitable Production

How many dairymen have found out that a cow producing 6300 pounds of milk per year requires 31% less feed per 100 pounds of milk than does a cow yielding only 3150 pounds, while a yield of 9450 pounds, does it on one-half as much feed per gallon of milk. Banks grow rich paying 3% or 4% on deposits, lending them out at 6% to 8%, a net difference of only 3% or 4%. What a wonderful opportunity for the farmer, when he has it in his power to reduce the cost of production 25 to 35 per cent, which increases his profits just that much. Text the price of milk can be increased by proper care after milking. Cooling at once to 60 degrees or less will stop bacterial growth, and when kept at that temperature until delivered to the factory will always be in first-class shape no matter for what purposes it is used, whether for butter or cheese making or market milk. The effect of good milk on all manufactured goods and market milk, will create greater demand and better prices. Two sure ways of increasing profits, weeding out the unprofitable cows and producing milk well cooled and clean.
