WEEKLY TOLL OF THE PIONEERS

DEATH OF MRS. CHARLOTTE HAUSMANN
On Sunday morning, May 1, Mrs. Charlotte Hausmann (nee Fleischmann) passed away in the St. Joseph hospital at Milwaukee, after a long illness. She was born in Kewaskum, Wis., on Nov. 18, 1853. She was the wife of the late Dr. Wm. Hausmann, who preceded her in death on Jan. 15, 1902. Deceased was the mother of five children, all of whom survive and who are as follows: Dr. N. E. Hausmann of Kewaskum; Elizabeth (Mrs. A. C. Backus) of Milwaukee; Dr. Wm. Hausmann of Madison; Dr. Carl Hausmann of Wausau; and Dr. Gustave Hausmann of Wausau. Besides these children, she leaves a son, Dr. Robert Hausmann of Wausau. In answering the final roll of Kewaskum and vicinity has lost a very highly and esteemed citizen. As she believed in the golden rule: "Do Unto Others, As You Wish Them to Do Unto You." She was a true mother who was loyal and a leader in her family circle until the closing hour of her life. Though she had passed the 72nd milestone of her life, she was very active and capable of attending to her household duties up to the day she was suddenly taken ill, and while during her brief illness, in which, at times, she suffered considerably, she was ever patient, apparently making little of her ailment, and in the last few days of her life, well knowing that death was near, she met the same calmly and in the spirit of a Christian lady. Those who knew her, always spoke very highly of her as a woman of exemplary character. Though gone but not forgotten, her kind and noble deeds upon this earth will linger on in the memory of not only those near to her but to all whom she has left to follow her. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock from her late residence with services in the Reformed church at Elmore. Rev. Hartman officiated. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery. Six of her grandsons acted as pall bearers, namely: August and Walter Backus, William and Paul Hausmann and Gustave and Richard Hausmann.

JOSEPH MILLER

After a short illness of only a few weeks with a complication of diseases, death summoned to his final reward, the oldest and most estimable citizen of Kewaskum, Joseph Miller, who passed away at West Side hospital where he was removed several days prior to his death, on Thursday morning at 3 o'clock, May 5, 1927. Deceased was born Jan. 24, 1843 in Rhinebay, Germany. When 17 years of age he came to America and settled in the town of Polk, Washington county, Wis. When still a young boy he learned the cabinet makers trade, and when he came to Kewaskum in 1873, he followed the carpenter trade for many years. In which he took a deep interest and worked hard, later he became a printer and contractor. By doing the business which was a credit to himself and the community in which he lived. On March 13, 1879 he was married to Elizabeth Bauer, who preceded him in death on Nov. 19, 1924. They had 13 children, 12 of whom are now living. On the happy occasion of celebrating their golden wedding anniversary, they went to Milwaukee to make a home with his son Elmer, where he has since resided. Mr. Miller was a member of the Reformed church of Elmore, Wis.; Clara (Mrs. Wauscher) and Elmer of Milwaukee and Mayme (Mrs. Anton Kell) of Chicago. Besides these he has 13 grand children and one great grand child. Three of his children died a number of years ago. Miller was one of the first settlers in Kewaskum. He was well known in the community, and was recognized by all as a very efficient carpenter and contractor. Though gone, many are proud of the buildings which he constructed and will stand as a memory of the work he did while following his trade. He was a kind father, not only looking after the comforts and welfare of his family, but also a prominent part in the life of the community in which he lived. He was one of those sturdy men who could endure a great

THE FIRE BRIGADE

Nine out of every ten fires might have been prevented!
It is this appalling fact that prompted the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios to produce "The Fire Brigade" the spectacular human interest story of the fire fighters, that is to be seen at the Opera House Sunday afternoon and evening.
The picture, however, is not merely a preaching, but one of the most entertaining and thrilling pictures ever produced, though any audience viewing it cannot help but be impressed by the needless loss of life and money through flames, according to Hunt Stromberg, the producer.
According to the National Fire Protective Association, the average annual property loss in the United States is more than a thousand dollars a minute, and in 1921 reached the amazing total of $348,000,000, eleven times greater than the average annual loss of all Europe. The greater evil, however, is the fact that every year 32,000 human casualties are suffered through fire, of which number 15,000 prove fatal in the most painful manner.
Remember that the picture itself, a spectacular feature photoplay filled with laughs, thrills and heartthrobs, is going to deeply impress the public with the hardships and dangers of fire fighting and, particularly, the great sacrifice firemen are called upon to make in the line of duty. It should help bring your firemen closer to the hearts of every citizen and open the way for more favorable conditions.

CHILDREN HELP TO BUILD MEMORIAL

All of the school children of Washington County will have a part in building the Washington County Soldiers' Memorial to be dedicated in West Bend this summer according to M. T. Buckley, County Superintendent of schools.
Last week a letter was sent to each teacher or principal of both public and parochial schools in Washington county recommending that school children be permitted to contribute toward the Memorial in sums as low as 2 cents, but not higher than 10 cents each contributor to be given a "Memorial Button."
"Eight schools have already forwarded to the County Superintendent, contributions of 100% from their pupils and I have no doubt that every school in Washington County will be 100% owners of the Memorial Button," said Buckley.
The County Memorial Committee, recognizing that the real value of the $4,000 Memorial to be erected on the Court House Square, lies in the inspiration to future generations, has offered the school children of Washington County an opportunity to participate. So the children of the county attending either the public or parochial schools are voluntarily contributing not more than 10 cents nor less than 2 cents toward the monument.
Every school pupil contributing will be given a "Memorial Button" to be worn on Memorial day and at West Bend, during the dedication celebration. This button will include a picture of the monument.
Each school with a 100% record, that is, in which all of the children and the teacher make such contributions, will be given a "Memorial Certificate" suitable for framing and including the name of the teacher. The name of each and every child making such a contribution will be deposited in the box in the corner-stone of the monument with other important documents and records.
Superintendent Buckley, expects a 100% report from every school in Washington County this week and stated that there would be 5,000 children of Washington County wearing the button. He wants the name of each of the 5,000 school children and high school students registered in the corner stone.
The following schools up to noon Tuesday have reported 100%:

The school board has given no ground on the reinstatement of Miss Lou Dickinson, teacher at the school for 23 years, whose removal led to the walkout on Apr. 1. The committee stated in its appeal to the strikers to return to school that it was the "expressed wish" of Miss Dickinson that they return at once.

$10,000,000 NEEDED FOR FLOOD VICTIMS

President Coolidge Appeals to Public; Several More Towns Inundated.

New Orleans—A new flood danger confronted New Orleans as backwater from the Poydras crevasse, artificially opened in the levee fifteen miles below the city, is now menacing the lower wards. Engineers were rushed to the levee to make a survey for a protecting levee and 500 laborers were hastened to the scene.

Memphis, Tenn.—More than 14,000 refugees, being the newly flooded areas in northern and central Louisiana, have poured into five concentration camps, the Red Cross announced. Five thousand are in Delhi, La., where the population normally is about 700, and relief workers are taxed to care for them.

Pensacola, Fla.—A squadron of twenty more seaplanes to aid in Mississippi valley flood relief was ordered to the Baton Rouge district from the naval air station here.

Washington—President Coolidge has issued a proclamation asking that the minimum quotas for the Mississippi flood relief fund being raised by the American Red Cross be increased from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. He said: "The situation in the Mississippi valley has developed in a grave crisis, affecting a wide area in several states. There are now more than 2,000,000 flood refugees, who have been driven from their homes. This number is being increased daily as fresh breaks in the levees inundate the country.

"These refugees are being fed, sheltered and clothed by the American Red Cross. The burden of their care will continue for many weeks."

"In order that these thousands of our homeless fellow citizens may continue to receive necessary care, a minimum of $10,000,000 will be needed, and it is therefore desired that the quotas originally assigned as a minimum to the various communities should be doubled.

"As President of the United States and as president of the American Red Cross, I am, therefore, urging our people to give promptly and most generously so that sufficient funds may be received to alleviate the suffering among so many thousands.

"I recommend that all contributions be forwarded to the nearest Red Cross chapter."

"CALVIN COOLIDGE"

Natchez, Miss.—Relief workers, operating a fleet of several hundred boats, fought frantically to save the lives of thousands of persons in the immediate path of flood waters from breaks in levees on the west bank of the Mississippi river in Louisiana, near here.

Refusing to heed the warning of officials, these thousands were rushing toward a high ground.

Relief boats picked up hundreds stranded on levees, mounds and promontories.

Thirty thousand persons in a 3,100 square mile area lie in the path of the raging Mississippi.

Thirty million dollars' worth of property is now doomed to destruction, according to engineers.

Levees have begun to snap all along the river south of here to the mouth of the Red river, and thousands are working day and night below there, strengthening dikes that would throw New Orleans into a catastrophe should they break.

It is believed, however, that the torrent now pouring through the crevasse made south of New Orleans has removed any imminent danger from that city.

The breaks at Vidalia, Glasscock and Bougere, a few miles south of here, have grown wider.

As the muddily, swirling waters roll onto a town or village the people either start trekking for higher ground or move to upper stories in their homes.

But the waters now flowing over Concordia parish have sent hundreds to their roof tops, where they will have to live for some time or turn to a passing relief boat to take them to safety, thus giving the relief forces added work by their folly.

Two more Louisiana towns are under water and their residents were forced to higher ground. These towns are Ferriday, in Concordia parish, and Jonesville in Catahoula parish. Ferriday is flooded by the backwaters of the Mississippi through four breaks in levees south of Vidalia, while Jonesville is suffering from the backwaters of the Black river.

Waters from the breaks below here on the Mississippi will be joining flood waters coming into Louisiana from Arkansas. Coupled with these the Black and Ouachita rivers are swollen and spreading their destructive surplunge over the countryside.

Washington.—The American Red Cross announced that total contributions have reached over $5,000,000.

The situation is fairly well in hand, but millions of dollars are still needed to rehabilitate the ruined thousands, Secretary of Commerce Hoover, back from a survey of the lower Mississippi valley, reported to President Coolidge.

Hoover said he did not believe there was danger of any more loss of life or any danger of plague or a general epidemic.

Washington.—Expenditure of more than $100,000,000 in the construction of levees in the Mississippi valley will be necessary, if another disaster is to be averted, Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, army chief of engineers, reported to Secretary of War Davis on his return to Washington.

General Jadwin asserted that New Orleans was now safe as the result of the blasting of the levee below that city, but expressed concern over the safety of the territory below Vicksburg and in parts of Louisiana.

These two outstanding declarations were made by Premier Poincare in the most important political speech he has delivered since he became premier last July.

PLACES BLAME FOR FARMERS' TROUBLES

Farm Marketing Methods Is Cause, Senator Capper Says.

New York.—The need for farm legislation is due solely to unsound and antiquated marketing methods, and not, despite the general contrary belief, to inefficient production methods, Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas told members of the New York Business Men's commission in an address here.

Senator Capper expressed the hope that the next congress would create a farm marketing board to find markets for surplus farm produce. Such a board, he declared, would put the government "squarely behind the farm co-operative marketing associations."

In praising the farmers' co-operative marketing associations, Senator Capper said the support which the Canadian government had given the wheat co-operatives in the Dominion was largely responsible for their success as contrasted with the pale success of co-operatives in the wheat states of this country.

"Lack of organization for business purposes is largely responsible for the farmers' economic troubles," he said.

"Agriculture must set up and use selling machinery comparable to that which other business has found necessary. The farm interests of the country will continue to complain until some such adjustment takes place."

"The farmers' co-operative movement will do more than anything else in solving this marketing problem. I hope to see the next congress create a federal marketing board, which first of all will aid the farmer in organizing an efficient system for selling his products and finding a market for his surplus."

"If the government gets squarely behind the co-operatives, it will supply the additional force needed to put this movement over in a big way, for this will aid not only in a physical but in a psychological manner."

Among the other ways in which he suggested business men could help solve the farm problem were by studying the effect of the short selling of wheat on the market for cash grain, and on the income of the average wheat producer, and also in a study of the marketing problems of the live stock growers and general transportation difficulties in handling farm produce.

BLAMES ARMOUR MAN IN BIG GRAIN FRAUD

Former Employee's Story May Cause Citation From Legislature.

Chicago.—George E. Thompson, former superintendent of elevators for the Armour Grain company, was accused here by Frank Crombie, his former assistant at the Northwestern elevator, of having personally ordered the arbitrary raising of grain grades on 2,000,000 bushels of wheat in that elevator in 1924 and the switching of samples which fooled the board of trade sampling department, leading to the subsequent troubles of the Farmers' Grain Marketing company.

Thompson may face the bar of the house of representatives at Springfield as a result of this and his own testimony, in which he blamed Crombie for the grain frauds and contradicted himself frequently. The Judiciary committee of the house is considering this procedure.

Indications are strong, it was said in an authoritative quarter, that the Armour Grain company will resort to the courts before paying the $1,000,000 awarded against them in the grain case by Attorney Edward E. Brown, arbitrator. They may file suit to set aside the award, which is set for payment, May 10, or may refuse to pay and let the Rosenbaum Grain corporation, the complainant, go into court to collect.

Crombie was examined before the house investigating committee in session at the Fort Dearborn Athletic club. Representative Frank McCarthy was acting chairman and Attorney B. F. Goldstein the examiner.

Crombie said the first arbitrary raising of grain grades took place April 18, 1924, when Thompson came out to the elevator and told him the farmers were thinking of taking over the stock and elevator about May 1. Thompson graded up about 400,000 bushels at that time, he said.

On July 1, he said, after the farmer merger had been put off until August 1, Thompson came out to the elevator again, the witness said.

"He told me that there was a chance to make some money for the Armour Grain company. I asked him how and he said he was going to raise the grades. I asked him how and he said 'on the books'."

"Give me a sheet with the stock as of last Saturday," Thompson told me, "and I will show you." I gave him the stock sheet of June 28 and he raised the grades on about 2,000,000 bushels."

"Did he say any one had sent him? A. He said George E. Marcy (then president) had sent him.

"A week or so later," Crombie testified, "Thompson handed me three orange telegraph slips with figures on them. He said the figures had been given him by Marcy for grading the stock. Thompson said that Marcy had told him the board of trade estimators and samplers were coming out."

"Do you mean to tell me you want me to change the samples, too? I asked.

"And Thompson answered, 'Yes.' He told me to have the samples match the stock books and blackboard."

"When the samplers came I arranged that they would be busy all forenoon. In the afternoon they took samples until 4:30 and left at 4:45 p.m. We stayed there at night and changed the samples. They stayed for seven or eight days and the samples were changed every night."

Crombie told of an interview he had with Marcy on April 23, 1925, during which John Kellogg, president of the company, was present. This meeting was held in a darkened room, he said, with transoms and windows closed.

Marcy told him at this meeting, he said, that there was a $200,000 loss in prospect for the company and Kellogg expressed dissatisfaction with the elevator, and he, Crombie, went home and resigned.

In his letter of resignation he charged that the grades had been raised and the samples switched, he said. The next day Marcy, Kellogg, and Thompson were all after him. He said he went to see Marcy and Marcy told him that his letter had "pretty near broken his heart."

Youth fades, love droops; the leaves of friendship fall; A Mother's secret hope outlives them all.

Remember Mother, Motto of the Day

Busy Indeed Must Be Son or Daughter Who Forgets It.

THE present method of observing Mother's day idea is attributed to Miss Anna Jarvis of Virginia, later president of the Mother's Day International association. Miss Jarvis was asked by the superintendent of the Sunday school in which her mother had been a leading spirit to arrange a special program in her memory. It occurred to Miss Jarvis that it would be an excellent idea to give all of the sons and daughters of the nation an opportunity of paying a tribute to their own mothers, living mothers as well as those who have died. Thus, Mother's day became a national annual holiday and the second Sunday in May was set aside for its observance.

In May, 1914, a resolution was passed by congress and endorsed by President Woodrow Wilson, designating Mother's day as a national institution.

"Observe Mother's day in spirit and not in mere ostentation," Miss Jarvis suggests. "Do some little service that will mark you as a dutiful and thoughtful son or daughter. There is only one thing that is important on this day of days, that is to remember mother."

"Mother's day is not a celebration of maudlin sentiment, but a constructive movement seeking greater protection for mothers, children, and the home. It gives emphasis to the home as the fountain head of the nation and good homes our great national blessing. It has been the forerunner of mothers' pensions, the maternity act and many other things, which in the community and the nation are blessing lives that need care and protection."

Spread of Celebration.

Since its inception, the celebration has spread beyond the expectations of its founder. At first the observance consisted merely in wearing flowers, white carnations for mothers who have died and red carnations for living mothers. Now the flower is not necessarily limited to the carnation. As a rule the favorite flower of one's mother is worn.

Nor is the observance of Mother's day confined to wearing of flowers. Much more important is the sending of some remembrance to one's mother and whenever possible, spending the day with one's mother. Sons and daughters have often traveled many miles in order to be with their mothers on this day.

In many instances those whose mothers have died, send flowers or other remembrances to friendless mothers in hospitals and institutions.

Idea of Ancient Origin.

Authorities state that the earliest record of formal mother-worship lies in the tales of the ceremonies by which Rhea, "the great mother of the gods" was worshipped in Asia Minor. In this worship it was not so much the tender maternal aspect which claimed attention as the power and majesty of motherhood. Rhea was represented as traversing the mountains in a chariot drawn by lions and the ceremonies in honor were marked by wild dances and wilder music. The lion, the oak, and the pine were sacred to her.

The worship of Rhea was introduced into Rome through Greece about 250 years before Christ. There

It was held on the idea of the temple served to elevate motherhood into something of the dignity with rightfully characterizes it.

With the advent of the Christian era, the festival still retained its old forms but became infused with a new spirit. From the celebration with pagan rites in honor of Rhea, there developed an observance in honor of the mother church. In this celebration it became the custom on Mother's day for the faithful to visit the churches in which they were baptized, bearing gifts for the altar.

"Mothering Sunday"

From the festival of Mother's day in honor of the mother church, there grew the observance of Mothering Sunday, though the observance lies in this observance are not clear. It is certain, however, that long ago when young men and women were bound out as apprentices and servants, Mothering Sunday was set aside for them to visit their mothers, taking for them some little present such as a cake or trinket. A youth engaged in such a pilgrimage was said to go Mothering from which the day came to be called Mothering Sunday. The old bonds of filial love were brightened by this pleasant annual visit, marked as custom dictated, by the excitement attendant upon some new and perhaps surprising gift.

There was also a cheering and joyful festival appropriate to the day, the child-like being farmers, consisting of wheat grains boiled in sweet milk and sugar and spiced. Another delicacy much esteemed in Shakespeare, Yorkshire and Herefordshire was the stoned cake. The inside of a stoned cake was like a rich fruit cake but the outside was made of flour and water.

Motherhood

MARY, the Christ long slain, passed following the children beyond the Under the cedar and the olive tree, Pausing to let their laughter float to him. Each voice an echo of a voice most dear. She saw a little Christ, a gleaming star, Whom none of the tender life that flickers in the place.

AND Mary sought the woman's hand and spoke. "I know the road, yet know the way the memory faded. With all a thousand dreams their eyes were Who bring to thee a child beloved and lost."

I TOO have rocked my little one. Oh, he was fair! Yes, fairer than the fairest son. And like his rays through amber spun. His sun-bright hair, his golden curls, So I can see it shine and gleam. "Even so," the woman said, "was mine."

HIS ways were ever fading ways. And Mary smiled and said, "So soft as dingles, so soft as dew. Of love were all his precious days. My little child! My infinite star! My music faded. "Even so," the woman said, "was mine."

THEN whispered Mary, "Tell me, dear, of thine." And she. "Oh, mine was rosy as a blush. Blooming with roses, sent, sometime. To bloom for me. So I can see it shine and gleam. Within my breast that warms me still."

THEN gazed she down and saw white. Darker hour. And she—when Mary questioned, knew not. "Who art thou, mother of so sweet a flower?" "I am the mother of Isaac!"

Mother's High Place in Homes of Nation

We talk insistently and loudly about the opinion-making power of the world and too frequently we think it is generated in those large places of concourse where men foregather for legislation and trade. We seem to think the fine sentiments of life spring out of occasions where crowds wait breathless upon the spoken word. The real place in which the more wholesome influences and convictions of our life are formed is, or ought to be, the home, and in the forming of these influences or convictions the mother holds a supreme place. Cowper wrote one of his noblest poems on receiving his mother's portrait, and much of the inspiration of genius has had its sacred promptings in response to a mother's love.

If, as a nation, we can maintain unimpaired, at its highest worth, the mother influence, we need not be concerned about those things that are most vitally related to our nearest and dearest interests. More important than all our legislation, than all our expanding commerce, than all our piled-up wealth, is the purified purity of motherhood and those mighty influences that make for moral regeneration and the stabilizing of character that cooperation to what is best and noblest in life.

Retribution selected a strange agent in gentle, scholarly Peter Milman. There was the blood of admirals and adventurers in this quiet man living the life of a hermit in a city. When the call came to do battle with an arch crook, fortified in politics and finance, the vigor of fighting ancestors asserted itself. Oddly assorted, too, were Milman's captains—Fleming Bradney, scientist; Floyd Malet, sculptor; Neeland Barnes, international polo player—but the real brigadier of his forces proved to be Nita, the accomplished daughter of Neeland Barnes.

The Consumer Wants The Best

The quality subject is an old one, but the most important one in all branches of the dairy business. It is of the greatest importance in milk production on the farm. The degree of perfection attained on the farm will reflect directly on the quality of the product manufactured or when sold as market milk. The idea that the only thing necessary is to stay within the limit the health authorities will permit is all wrong. The better way is to follow all these rules and then add your own to meet local conditions, with the thought ever in mind to make your milk a quality product indeed. Conditions differ on every farm, therefore every dairyman must plan and work to get his place in such shape that he can easily produce only the best. There is real satisfaction for the producer of quality milk. There is even more than satisfaction, because there is sure to be more money in it in the long run. The consumer of milk or milk products will pay any price he is able to pay, providing he is sure that it is worth the money.

The KITCHEN CABINET

It has long been observed that in regions where fish are regularly eaten in considerable amounts, scurvy is rare, whereas it is very common in many regions because of lack of iodine. Sea foods, such as fish, furnish this element in appropriate amounts to supply the needs of the body.—Doctor McCollum

FOR LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Chocolate is almost universally liked, the world over. It is a food in itself and may be served in countless ways. As a sauce for ice cream, it seems to never lose its popularity. Here is one way to prepare it:

Chocolate Sauce.—Cook the following ingredients in a double boiler: One cupful of milk, two egg yolks one-fourth cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt, one teaspoonful of butter, two ounces of chocolate or one-fourth cupful of cocoa. Cook until the mixture coats the spoon. Serve hot on ice cream.

Cocoa Cream.—Mix one-half cupful of cocoa with one-half cupful of sugar, add two well-beaten egg yolks, then two cupfuls of cream and one-fourth inch stick of cinnamon. Cook until thick in a double boiler. Add two tablespoonfuls gelatin which has been softened in two tablespoonfuls of cold water, stir until dissolved in the hot mixture. Add one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of vanilla and one cupful of heavy cream beaten thick. Cool the mixture before adding the cream. Pour into a mold, chill and serve.

Cocoa Fruit-Fruti.—Use the above recipe for cocoa cream, adding one-half cupful of macerons which have been dried and pounded, one cupful of candied cherries, cut into small pieces, one-half dozen macadamia nuts cut into bits and one-half dozen raisins, one tablespoonful of finely chopped citron and the same of orange peel. Add the last just before putting into the molds.

Chocolate Cake.—Take one cupful of brown sugar, one-fourth cupful of butter, one-fourth cupful of sour milk, one teaspoonful of vanilla, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one egg, and one and one-fourth cupfuls of flour. Beat all well and add just at the last two squares of chocolate dissolved in one-half cupful of hot water. Bake in two layers and put together with orange filling or boiled frosting.

Let Nothing Be Wasted.
If the housewife wishes to train maids or children in the art of thrift, she herself must set the example. It is the little things and the small wastes, that, multiplied by thousands, make great waste in homes.

It takes but a moment's thought to turn off the light when leaving a room even for a few minutes and the turning off of gas or electricity in cooking before the dish is removed, should become a fixed habit.

How many women leave the soap floating in the dishpan long after it is needed, or fail to save small bits of soap too small for other use for the soap shaker? The same habit is noticed when any cleaning is done about the home, soap floating in the pail instead of resting in a dish where it may be used when needed.

A few crumbs of bread are such trifling things that they are beneath the notice, and it is often in many homes that such food is thrown into the fire to burn, when little birds are suffering in the cold for food. Small pieces of bread and crumbs can be saved for countless uses: For an grain dishes, for puddings, stuffings and always can be used to feed the birds, if too stale for food. If we could learn never to destroy food it would be a great step in good training.

China and good crockery are so expensive that we need to be very careful of the household supply. When washing dishes, be careful of the taps, or faucets and place the dishpan so that the handles are not in the way when handling the dishes. Little nicks spoil pretty china and they are easily made by striking handles or faucets.

Use triplets or double dishes on the burner when cooking, thus two or three dishes may be cooked at the same time, saving heat.

When making gingerbread, instead of a cupful of hot water add a cupful of leftover coffee; this will save the coffee and improve the cake.

Carbohydrates, which yield carbon, hydrogen and oxygen, produce energy in its most economical form. The molecules of fats and carbohydrates are in different arrangement, so different combinations result.

Small bits of butter, too small to be of any use, if kept and bit by bit added when saved, there will be plenty to season a dish of vegetables.

When there are several slices of stale bread, butter them, lay in a baking dish, cover with finely chopped or grated cheese and pour over a custard, using an egg to a cupful of milk, with a bit of salt and a dash of cayenne. Bake in the oven until the custard is set and the dish well puffed. This makes a fine luncheon or supper dish.

Middle Ages Coinage

Mark was the name of a coin pretty general throughout Europe during the Middle Ages. The unit of the present coinage of Germany is called the mark. The old English mark was worth 13s 4d, that is $3.25; but in the Middle Ages the purchasing power of money was fully three times that of today.

NAILHEAD TRIM IS POPULAR; NOVEL EFFECT IN SPORTS WEAR

FOR a change, why not trim the new frocks or coat with nailheads instead of with beads? Nailheads are newer and they are smartly adaptable to daytime modes.

Gold nailheads in two sizes dotted here and there add greatly to the attractiveness of a navy-blue crepe or satin frock. They are equally as effective as a border for the neckline of the coat.

It is an artful motif of nailheads which supplies a most fetching decorative note to the gown in the picture. The conventional flower worked on one side of the blouse is a popular idea this season. When done in steel also, many felt hats being designed with them in all-over patterning. Anything for novelty, that is the mood of the mode. The stylist answers the challenge by introducing metallic effect into knitted construction. An increasing number of sweaters, jumpers, knitted coats and jersey frocks are showing a tendency to yield to the lure of gold and silver. One of the charming ideas is the white jersey frock whose jumper is embroidered in all-over gold and silver design after the manner here pictured. Sometimes the metallic note is expressed in an actual interknitting of nailheads as is the motif in the picture. It carries a convincing style message. Slippers of neutral tone gray kid were carefully selected for wear with this costume of dark-green crepe, thus carrying out a color scheme of gray, steel and green for the ensemble.

As one considers this handsome costume comes the thought of how charmingly it could be developed in the popular black and white. The flower motif would be very effective worked in large white porcelain beads or in tiny pearls. White kidkin slippers scuffed with an alspike of black, or with fancy designed inlays, gold and silver threads rather than an embroidery. Sweaters and coats whose stripes interwork their coloring with glittering tinsel are among smartest showings.

Newest in the category of sweaters is the slipon knitted entirety of gold, silver and bronze thread in a manner most enchanting. Often, also, colored jersey shows an interworking of horizontal metal stripes.

Very conspicuous sweaters both as to design and color are worn with plated solid-colored jersey skirts—especially white. As summer advances more and more will filmy lace-knit or if you please, black slippers piped with white would "complete the picture."

Speaking of nailhead trimming, sometimes an entire blouse is starred with gold or silver nailheads. Then, too, nailheads are used to embellish fancy sleeves. In the same class with nailhead effects is that of the tiny "pocketbook clamps" which are pressed about the edges of cuffs, collars, belts and pockets. A dress of dark crepe or satin thus trimmed may handsomely add a gilded or silvered belt.

The use of nailheads as a trimming extends into the realm of millinery sweaters make their appearance. Sweaters knit of chenille with metal stripes are among lovely novelties.

Two items which render the distinctive touch to knitted costumes are color and necklines, ranging from subtle blend to dazzling contrast. As to necklines, there is a distinct preference for the collarless type describing either a V-line, square, round or boat shape.

The bow-at-the-neck fad has entered the domain of the knitted blouse or sweater. It is usually posed at the side of the square neck or at some strategic point near the shoulder.

Favor White or Purple Corsage

White or purple corsages are the favored ones of the moment. Violets in white or purple shades, sweet peas, white gardenias and small cluster flowers in white or purplish tones are being worn by those who follow fashion's trend in the smallest detail.

The Square Neckline

The square neckline continues to be popular for evening as well as daytime costumes.

New Hat Decorations

Many of the newest hats have a bit of trimming at the back. The smartest of these decorations is a tiny curled ostrich feather placed just at the center of the back to emphasize the new round crown and ripple coque brim.

Bags to Match Shoes

New bags that match shoes are of patent leather in the new garnet color in iridescent effects.

100,000,000! A World's Record!

and we helped!

A world's record was established at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, O., when the one-hundred-millionth pneumatic motor vehicle tire was made.

100,000,000 tires! Enough to fill 55,524 freight cars—a train 420 miles long! Enough tires to make a chain twice around the earth!

No wonder the workmen cheered as the whistles howled.

We got a thrill out of it here in our local Goodyear Service Station. We helped Goodyear win that record.

One of the reasons for Goodyear supremacy is Goodyear Service.

Here, in your community, we deliver the Service that Goodyear puts behind every tire it makes.

We sell Goodyear Tires. And from the hour we put a Goodyear Tire on your car until it is finally worn out, we want to do everything possible to help you get trouble-free mileage from that tire.

First of all, we know how to apply tires correctly, removing rim rust and making certain that the wheel runs true, that the tire is properly inflated.

And then, if you will drive in at regular intervals, we will check inflation and examine your casings for any sign of unnatural wear, or accident.

There is no charge for this service. If repairs are needed we make them at small charge.

You don't have to take this service. You can put on Goodyears and run them as you please. But if you want the most economical mileage it is possible to get, use Goodyear Tires and Goodyear Service.

Come in and learn the price of a Goodyear Tire to fit your car. See the new-type All-Weather Tread Balloon, the World's Greatest Tire. If you want a low-priced tire let us show you other Goodyear-made tires. The complete Goodyear line includes a tire for every car, at the price you want to pay.

The World's Greatest Tire

Above you see the Goodyear Tire that is speeding Goodyear sales all over the country. This is the product of the great experience obtained in building millions upon millions of passenger car tires.

It is the new-type All-Weather Tread Goodyear Supertwist Balloon!

Until this new type Goodyear you never saw a quiet, smooth-running balloon tire with equal traction. Safe, surefooted, skidless, this tire has in its tread's center sharp-edged diamond-shaped blocks which seize, grip, and hang-on.

Until the coming of SUPERTWIST cords, causing fatigue and shoulder-break were the arch-foes of balloon tire performance. Since Goodyear developed this amazingly elastic and durable material these troubles have virtually disappeared.

Until now "cupping" and "pot holes" were characteristic of tread wear in balloons. The specially-designed new-type All-Weather Tread meets this issue squarely and insures long, slow, even wear.
