Shawano—Tom Prickett, widely known member of the Menominee Indian tribe, died at the Menominee reservation. For many years Prickett was an interpreter there and at one time was a county officer of Lincoln county.

Ladysmith—The case against John Krema, Ladysmith hotel man who was charged with arson, was dismissed in municipal court here for lack of evidence. Krema was arrested on complaint of Boyd C. Ladd, deputy state fire marshal, following the fire which damaged the Manley hotel here Aug. 4.

Kenosha—Plans for a more extensive observance of Columbus day in Kenosha than ever before were made at a meeting here of leading Italians. While Columbus day falls on Oct. 12, the Kenosha celebration will be held on Oct. 16, and Italians prominent in all of the cities of the state are being invited to come to Kenosha and take part.

Superior—When state prohibition officers raided a dense woods near the town of Helen they found a 10-year-old moonshiner tending four stills and cooking a batch of mash. The boy explained that he was working for John Balta. Now Balta faces a bootlegging charge and also a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Waukesha—Dog racing and the 'contributing' and 'refund' system of placing money on the animals will continue unaltered for the time being at the Mound Kennel club track on Highway 19, just across the Milwaukee county line, in Waukesha county. It is indicated, as a result of a jury verdict in Waukesha that the system is not gambling. The jury was out six minutes.

Ashland—Jerry Pero and Paul Moore, Indians charged with murdering M. F. Marx, aged Odanah drugist, last February, were found guilty of first degree murder by a jury in circuit court here. The jury reached agreement after deliberating two hours and fifty minutes. Marx was shot four times and beaten over the head with a stove poker as he lay in bed in his room at Odanah.

Neenah—The Neenah Sportsmen's club, an organization of 300 hunters and anglers, has adopted a resolution endorsing the stand of Gov. Zimmerman against leasing the Horicon marsh to private interests after its proposed restoration as a wild life refuge. The resolution urges the executive to continue to exert his influence in behalf of maintaining the tract for the free use of the public.

Sheboygan—H. W. Jeske, manager of a local cheese factory announces the manufacture of a new five-pound American cheese sandwich loaf, made from full cream milk. The cheese is made into a 50-pound block and cut into five-pound loaves by hot wire knives and then wrapped into tissue paper and placed into an oven under 150 degrees of heat for three minutes. This cheese is not a process product but is first pasteurized in a cheese vat.

Waukesha—Farmers and sportsmen of Waukesha and Jefferson counties are planning to make a protest to Elmer S. Hall, conservation commissioner, against the slaughter of Hungarian partridges which they say will result during the five-day open season for the birds. The farmers claim that considerable money has been spent to help the birds propagate, as they are of great value to crops in that they live upon beetles and insects of all kinds.

Sturgeon Bay—The annual Door county cherry crop is one of the smallest harvests since the cherry industry rose to prominence, showing a total of less than 200,000 cases. In 1925, when the cherry crop was considered almost a failure, the harvest totaled about 225,000 cases. The early cherries in 1925 totaled 103,549 cases, double that of this year, but the late cherries in 1925 totaled 118,871, which is about 20,000 below this year's number. The quality of the fruit this year, however, was far superior to that of other years.

Madison—Mrs. Miriam Noel Wright was granted a divorce from Frank Lloyd Wright, internationally known architect, on the grounds of desertion, by Judge A. C. Hoppmann in circuit court here.

Ripon—Decreased production of peas this year is reflected in statements of the Silver Creek Canning Co., which last year packed 84,000 cases, and only 57,000 this year. The Ripon Canning Co. reduced from 67,000 cases to 33,000 this year.

Florence—The Iron River creamery, owners of the Florence creamery, made 59,422 pounds of butter during June, equal to a ton a day. This record is unsurpassed in the north county.

Ladysmith—William Howard, Glen Flora, had both the high cow and high herd for July in the central Rusk county Cow Testing association. The cow produced 1,572 pounds of milk, testing 4.8 per cent, making 78.6 pounds of butter fat. Mr. Howard's herd of 14 Guernseys averaged 9.22 pounds of milk.

Richland Center—St. Mary's Catholic congregation has just dedicated a parochial school which has been completed at a cost of $30,000.

Green Lake—Twelve poultry culling meetings have been held and one or two more may be scheduled on Green Lake county farms during the week of Sept. 19 to 24.

Marshfield—What is believed to be the largest yield of peas per acre ever recorded in Wisconsin was produced by Roy Fischer when he raised 10,300 pounds of peas, shelled, on four and one-half acres on his farm near here this year.

Waupaca—With the appropriation at the recent legislative session of $150,000 for a World War veterans' building at the state soldiers' home at the Wisconsin Chain of Lakes, near here, plans are being considered for the proposed structure. A three-section building is planned, the main part to be built at once and two wings to be added when needed, according to the superintendent at the home.

Marquette—Transfer of more than 76,000 acres of land to Marquette county, for failure to pay taxes, was announced by John J. Collignon, assessor for Marquette, Oconto and Brown counties. This county has taken tax deeds on 76,640 acres in practically every town in the county. The total number of acres covers approximately 118 square miles and is land upon which no one lives and most of it is owned by non-residents.

Park Falls—Dead head logs, many of which have been under water since the early days when lumbermen drove their logs down stream instead of transporting them by rail, are being removed from the bottom of the Edward Hines Co.'s pond here. From 500 to 1,000 logs are being raised daily. Most of the timbers are hemlock, although pine logs are numerous. Some of them have been submerged for a half century but show no indication of decay.

Madison—Dependents who must be supported at the various state and county institutions have increased in the year ending Aug. 1 at the rate of nearly two a day, according to records compiled by the state board of control. The year found the number at state institutions increased from 5,885 to 6,190, a difference of 305, and during the same period the inmates at county institutions increased from 8,769 to 9,147, an increase of 378. Reports on 143 Badger cities have been completed by the municipal information bureau of the University of Wisconsin. The city manager's salary at Janesville is $7,200, at Two Rivers $5,600, and at Rhinelander $4,000. Among mayors, not city managers, Milwaukee's receives the highest salary, $6,500 a year. Only one other city executive, Wisconsin, the mayor of Superior, falls in the $5,000 class. The mayor of West Allis $3,600, and of Eau Claire and Fond du Lac $3,500. TAX REFUND OF YEAR REACHED $103,858,687

Names of Recipients Will Be Made Public in December, Report Says.

Washington.—Tax refunds made by the Treasury department during the fiscal year which ended on June 30 (ended $103,858,687. Of this amount $21,268,000 was for interest. Names and amounts making up the total will be made public in December. The figures were made public in a preliminary statement by Commissioner of Internal Revenue D. H. Blair.

"The total amount of refunds of taxes illegally collected," says Mr. Blair, "which were made during the last seven years, namely, $733,410,776, is approximately 22.04 per cent of the total amount of additional assessments and collections resulting from office audits and field investigations, $3,309,760,988, which have been made during the same period.

Total collections of internal revenue from all sources for the fiscal year 1927 amounted to $2,895,683,129, or an increase of $29,882,235 over the 1926 total of $2,865,800,892.

Collections from the income tax for the fiscal year 1927 showed an increase of $245,818,302, the total for 1927 being $2,210,452,443, as against $1,974,104,141 in 1926. There were increases in the revenue from both corporation and individual income taxes. The revenue from the corporation tax, on which an increased rate became effective, was $1,308,012,582, compared with $1,094,979,734 in 1926. The revenue from individual income taxes, on which rates remained the same, increased from $879,124,407 in 1926 to $911,939,910 in 1927.

Receipts from miscellaneous taxes, many of which were repealed or reduced in the revenue act of 1910, showed a falling off of $216,165,064. Revenue from the estate tax remained at a high level, although it fell off by about $10,000,000 from the previous year.

The revenue from taxes on cigars and tobacco increased from $330,734,288 in 1926 to $376,170,205 in 1927. The taxes on admissions and dues fell off from $344,074,515 in 1926 to $28,376,657 in 1927. Excise and manufacturers' taxes dropped from $150,141,576 in 1926 to $64,030,420 in 1927.

The revenue from special taxes which before the repeal of the capital stock tax amounted in 1926 to $104,046,628, fell off in 1927 to $9,776,072. Receipts from stamp taxes, including those on playing cards, dropped from $54,014,239 in 1926 to $37,345,551 in 1927. Revenue from taxes on distilled spirits and cereal beverages decreased from $26,505,618 in 1926 to $21,394,162 in 1927.

Coolidge Is Welcomed "Home" in Black Hills

Rapid City, S. D.—Welcome back into the Black Hills like an adopted son, President Coolidge has returned to the summer White House after a week's absence, prepared to wind up within ten days the remaining activities he has planned for his stay in the West.

The Presidential party's arrival from Yellowstone National park was sooner than the summer capital had expected. Only a few persons were at the Union railroad station to greet the President and his family. But the entire community of Rapid City is to lay aside its every-day routine and march up to the temporary Executive office some day this week to welcome him "home" and again express its good will and hospitality.

The victory was Jones' third triumph in the national amateur competition. Both he and Evans had won this title twice before. George von Elm of California was last year's title holder, but he fell by the wayside in the second round.

Jones adds the honor of three winning the national amateur title to his distinction to having won the British open two years in succession. He now holds that title.

BIG CUT IN TAXES IS GREEN'S BELIEF

Ways, Means Chairman Predicts $150,000,000 Reduction.

Washington.—Taxes can be reduced by a substantial amount during the coming session of congress, according to Representative William K. Green (Rep., Iowa), chairman of the house ways and means committee.

Mr. Green, who returned to Washington a few days ago to supervise the work of the staff of the joint committee on internal revenue taxation, which is making investigations in preparation for the coming revision of the revenue law, said that he disagreed with the pessimistic statements made by administration officials following a conference between President Coolidge and H. M. Lord, director of the budget.

An aggregate reduction of considerably more than $150,000,000, the estimate attributed to budget officials, can be safely made, Mr. Green believes. The ways and means committee chairman was unwilling to predict the exact amount by which he thinks that taxes should be reduced. It is understood that he expects a reduction of at least $200,000,000 and possibly upwards of $300,000,000.

CALLES PLEDGES TO ACT IN RED REVOLT

Mexican Chief Promises to Protect Americans, Washington Hears.

Washington.—Resting on assurances from the Calles government that the recent Red uprising against Americans and British in the state of Jalisco will be quickly suppressed and the perpetrators of the outrage summarily dealt with, the State department declared that the incident will not complicate diplomatic relations between the two countries.

The latest dispatch from Joseph C. Satterthwaite, American consul at Guadalajara, Mexico, reported that no Mexican federal or state troops had arrived to rescue the 18 Americans and 11 British citizens barricaded in their homes at Etzatlán, about forty miles from Guadalajara.

Acting Secretary of State Robert E. Olds pointed out, however, that Consul Satterthwaite's dispatch does not necessarily conflict with the statement of Mexican foreign ministry at Mexico City, that troops were moving with all speed to Etzatlán, where mines and other property operated by the Amparo Mining company, an American corporation, have been seized by Red Syndicalists.

Mexico City.—Troops have been sent to Etzatlán and American interests will be protected, the Mexico City authorities declare. Numerous mining companies in various parts of Mexico have suspended or reduced operations, the same as the Amparo company, because of the low price of silver and high taxation. The Amparo mines produce for the most part silver, and employ numerous British workmen as well as Americans.

Mexico City.—Troops have been sent to Etzatlán and American interests will be protected, the Mexico City authorities declare.

Numerous mining companies in various parts of Mexico have suspended or reduced operations, the same as the Amparo company, because of the low price of silver and high taxation. The Amparo mines produce for the most part silver, and employ numerous British workmen as well as Americans.

Governor Ramirez of the state of Jalisco has gone to Etzatlán, the Jalisco headquarters of the Amparo company, in an effort to adjust the trouble.

Washington.—Eighteen American citizens and eleven British subjects, are held captive near Guadalajara by Mexican "reds," the State department has been advised.

News of the plight of the Americans was brought to Guadalajara by refugees. Immediately Joseph H. Satterthwaite, American consul at Guadalajara, communicated with the American charge d'affaires, Schoenfeld, at Mexico City, who requested the American foreign office to furnish military protection for the Americans at the Amparo mine.

In giving out news of the Amparo incident, the State department disclosed that on August 21 American Consul Satterthwaite informed the department that he had received reports to the effect that labor agitators from Guadalajara "were attempting to arouse the workmen at the Amparo Mining company to take action against foreigners at the mine in case of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti." Consul Satterthwaite added that in company with the British consul he had called this matter to the attention of the general commanding the federal forces.

The identity of the Americans rescued by military authorities was not disclosed in the dispatches from Guadalajara or Mexico City. The files of the State department regarding the Amparo company, in fact, are very meager. The 1926 issue of the mine's year book in the department's file, however, disclosed that the officers of the company were Americans, maintaining headquarters in Room 502, Drexel building, Philadelphia. The company, which is engaged in mining silver, is capitalized at $2,000,000.

The roster of the company showed the following Americans believed to be at the mine: James H. Howard, general manager; William Howard, assistant manager and mill superintendent; Charles F. Joyce, mine superintendent; W. R. Askew, chief engineer; R. B. Cockburn, purchasing agent; Charles Jackson, electrical engineer; James Towler, master mechanic.

The Amparo mining property is located near Etzatlán, which is forty miles west of Guadalajara.

RADIO

Radio Reception Goal Is Reached

Not More Than 20 Per Cent of Sets Will Reproduce Properly.

By KNUTE PETERSEN. In Radio World.

Great improvement has been effected in broadcasting and reception during the past few years. In the early days even the best transmitting stations used phonographs and player pianos promiscuously before the microphone. Now these stations are using the highest type of available artistic talent directly before the microphone. All "mechanical performers" are prohibited.

At first little thought was given to the modulation. Often it happened that the wave was badly overmodulated. Now the average percentage of modulation occurs on even the loudest passages. Furthermore, the modulation is so low that the second harmonic which is introduced into the signal when the percentage of modulation is too high is negligible.

Not much thought was given previously to quality of modulation over the entire audible scale. Now the modulation is the same for all essential frequencies within a very close margin. At the receiving end the improvement in quality has been slower than at the transmitting end, because many entered the receiver manufacturing field who had no adequate knowledge of the fundamental principles of radio in general and quality in particular.

Accumulation of Knowledge. But knowledge of these things was accumulated and broadcast in technical circles and great improvement in the received programs was the result.

There was no one thing that came first in this general improvement of equipment. The realization that more power was required to operate loudspeakers satisfactorily brought larger tubes. The demand for the low notes in the signal brought large transformers with high inductance primaries and it also brought resistance coupled receivers with high nu tubes. The demand for the low nu as well as the high notes brought cone speakers of large dimensions.

The demand for convenience of operation brought about simplified control in the receivers. At first it was thought necessary to have a variable for every component part of the circuit. As a result there were receivers which had a rheostat for every tube, one or more variable high resistances for oscillation control, one separately controlled condenser to vary tuned circuit together with a vernier control for each, potentiometers for varying the grid bias, taps on the primaries to change the coupling, taps on the secondaries for varying the tuning range, rotatable primaries for changing the coupling, and other variables without number.

"Variomania" Disappears. As a result of this mania for variables, which has been called "variomania," receivers horrible in appearance and well-nigh impossible to operate appeared. At present variables are used only for tuning and for volume control, and these are reduced to the smallest possible number. One or two controls for tuning and one for volume control are now popular. Many sets use a single control for tuning and another for volume control. The result is that the receiver is simple to operate.

The demand for convenience also brought socket power devices. At first these were designed to eliminate the "B" batteries only. Then they were built to include the "C" battery also. Finally attempts were made to build them so as to eliminate the filament battery also. Fair results have been obtained and the prospects for complete success along this line are very bright. In fact, many receivers of excellent performance characteristics are now in operation in which no batteries whatsoever are used.

FOR THE NOTEBOOK

Never use a low-resistance meter to test batteries. A very sensitive set is one using radio-frequency and regeneration. Faulty resistors are the greatest source of "static". The dimmer a tube is burned, the longer it will last. Insulate wires to avoid leakage and short circuits in the receiver. Never expect a resistor to handle more current than its rating calls for. Dirt anywhere in the connections will reduce the efficiency of a receiver. Remember to disconnect the trickle charger before going away on a vacation.

Signals that are too weak for the loud speaker may be heard on the headphones. The life of a tube is prolonged by supplying the filament with constant current or with constant voltage. Discard "B" batteries when the voltage has dropped one-third, or when a 45-volt battery registers only 30 volts. Miss Bertha Brainard is the direct-best radio reproduction, and either in almost as good as original.

In the competition between the phonograph and the radio the phonograph had the early advantage of greater talent. Nearly all the great artists of voice and instrument makers. Radio had to take what was left. At first there was not much to take, but now practically all the great artists are available to the radio.

Radio has one advantage over the phonograph, and that is that its program comes to the listener right in the middle. The phonograph music is bought in the store deliberately at no comes waiting through space so that he who listens may hear by simply tuning in on it. A peach plucked off the tree is much more delicious than a peach fished out of a tin can. In the same tree, or even the same branch, but the canned peach grew on the tree did not stop growing more delicious until the moment it was plucked. The plucked peach ripened in the sun, the canned peach ripened in the shade of a warehouse, or perchance under the action of a chemical. So it is with the music from the phonograph and the radio. The phonograph record has been perfected in a studio and deprived of some of the human element. The radio rendition is the result of growth and it is alive and vibrant.

The artistic phase of radio by all ways outrun the technical development. In the early days when "mechanical performers" were used, technical equipment at both the transmitting and receiving ends was so poor that nothing but the magic of the tuning sustained interest in broadcasting.

First-Class Artists Now. Later, when mediocre human talent was employed, the technical equipment improved a little but still the reproduced programs were mediocre. Now when artists of first magnitude perform before the microphone, the average reproduction is of first order.

Of course the frequency bands of a radio receiver which gives the illusion of reality, but such realism is made too plentiful. The defect lies mainly with the receiving equipment. The listener will not be satisfied with distorted radio. The general buyer is learning fast.

Poor reception is not now so much a matter of technical development of receivers as with the exploitation of radio. It is well known how to build receivers capable of fidelity of reproduction, but there are many sets built which cannot reproduce any program properly. And these sets are in daily use. They serve well to impart news and useful information to their owners, but they are not able to create the illusion of reality.

It is safe to say that more than 90 per cent of the sets in use today are in this class.

Constants of Wave Meter Should Not Change in Use

It is essential that the constants of a wave meter should not change in use. Some slight difficulty has been experienced with vacuum tube wave meters, owing to the necessity of substituting a new tube when

Make Sure of Your Corn Harvest

THERE is no uncertainty about corn harvest when you have a McCormick Corn Binder on the job. No matter whether the corn is tall and straight, short and crooked or down and tangled, McCormick Corn Binders gather all of it and tie the stalks into snug, firm bundles with even butts. Bundles are deposited on the ground without breaking ears from stalks—a detail of smooth, certain operation. In down and tangled corn the gathering points, which have a wide range, slip gently under the corn and with the aid of special down-corn elevating chains straighten it before it is cut. The knotters are the same as those used on McCormick grain binders. They tie with absolute certainty. There are many features on McCormick Corn Binders that will recommend these machines to you. Come in and let us tell you all about them.

New No. 17 Plymouth Pilgrim Ensilage Cutter

WE have named this latest model Plymouth the "Pilgrim" because it incorporates the virtues of sturdiness and simplicity and retains the tried and tested original Plymouth principles of cutter construction. In over twenty-five years of building ensilage cutters we have found nothing equal in efficiency to the original Plymouth four feed roll, cylindrical cut design. The Pilgrim retains this tried, tested and perfected design and differs only from previous "Plymouths" in mechanical refinements and improvements, achieved through precision manufacturing with improved jigs and fixtures. The new Pilgrim features are: All steel construction throughout. Longer and deeper feed box. Raised edges on feeder chain slats. Unobstructed access to feeder rolls. Deeper serrated top feed roll with greater grabbing action. Sheet steel coxer over rollers. Stronger and accurately fitting side castings. Extension of knife heads outwardly and using longer knives lessening the obstruction and facilitating the entrance of the cutting material into the blower spout. Shortest and direct connection from feed cutter exit into the blower. Five fan blade blower with closely fitting blades to fan case. Flanged blower pipe connections. Adjustable deflector for changing delivery into silo. Rigid and full length channel steel truck frame. New and improved cutting bar with removable steel blade without taking out the cutting bar. Simplified gear shift feed for throwing in or out of gear, and quick change length of cut. All these features have been incorporated in the Pilgrim with no price increase. In fact, large scale manufacturing enables us to offer the Pilgrim at a price well within the reach of every farmer. Your dollar has greater purchasing power than ever before. See your dealer today.

Winter Layers Help the Profits

Poultry Prices Usually Highest During Fall and Early Winter.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Prices of farm eggs as well as of live and dressed poultry are usually highest during fall and the early winter months. Profits from the farm flock can be materially increased by taking advantage of this market situation in handling the flock, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Timing production to the market demand can be accomplished best by hatching early and by having early maturing strains.

Revenue From Eggs.

Most of the revenue from the farm flock is obtained from eggs. It is important, therefore, to develop the flock from good laying strains. This requires careful selection of hens that mature early, that lay best after they begin, that seldom go broody, and that lay well throughout the late summer and fall.

The size of the flock is an important factor to consider also. Maintaining about 200 or 400 birds enables the flock to be divided to advantage for breeding purposes. A flock of 200, for instance, can readily be divided into two units, 50 yearlings and 150 pullets; and a flock of 400 into 100 yearlings and two units of 150 pullets each. The pullets are used primarily for egg production and the yearlings for breeding purposes. Yearlings are preferable to pullets as breeders because usually they lay larger eggs, which hatch into bigger chicks. Moreover, the yearling hens have gone through a molt the preceding fall, and thus have had a rest prior to the breeding season, and for that reason they usually produce stronger chicks than pullets. A still more important reason for using yearlings as breeders is that they should be only the best birds of the pullet flock of the preceding laying year, and the continuous selection from year to year should assist greatly in improving the quality of the pullets raised each year. Farmers should give more attention to the selection of their breeding stock every year and flock units of about 200 or 400 birds will enable them to do this to advantage.

Hatch Pullets Early.

Since pullets normally do not begin laying until they are at least seven months old, it is important that they be hatched early enough to permit laying during the season of high prices—from October to February. These and other points of interest to the farm flock owner are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1224-F, now ready for distribution. Copies may be obtained, as long as the supply lasts, by application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Removing Spray Residue From Apples and Pears

A progress report has been issued by the Oregon experiment station dealing with experiments on the removal of spray residue from fruit.

REPAIR ALL FARM BUILDINGS BEFORE WINTER WEATHER COMES

Particularly Wise to Arrange House for Machinery.

Construction of the necessary out-houses and sheds and repairing the barns and other buildings is a good job to occupy one's attention before cold weather comes.

The buildings usually constructed during the late fall consist of implement sheds, poultry houses and hog houses, states Prof. David S. Weaver, agricultural engineer. Where concrete foundations or floors are to be used, it is best to put these in before hard freezing weather comes.

"This work is not expensive when the labor on the farm is used," says Professor Weaver. "The prospective builder should talk the matter over with his lumber dealer and see how little cash it takes to put up a shed in which to house the machinery. We find that there is a depreciation of about 15 per cent each winter in that machinery allowed to stand uncovered and exposed to the weather. Sometimes, this amount of depreciation on high-priced machinery will pay for constructing the building in which it should be housed."

Repairs are necessary, also, especially in the dairy barns. Professor Weaver states that the less food required to maintain the body heat of

Hay for Colts

A colt from six months to a year in age should have about all the hay he will clean up, preferably a good clover free from dust. If clover or alfalfa hay is not available, then timothy hay will be necessary. For grain, feed about 1 pound of oats to every 100 pounds of live weight of the colt. If you wish faster growth put a small allowance of linseed oilmeal with the oats. It is also advisable to allow the colt a carrot or two every day if you have them; it will keep him in shape.

Varieties of Currants

There are a great many varieties of currants on the market. Perfection is one of the very best. However, this plant does not have the strong, upright growth that many other varieties have. It needs to be pruned rather severely. Otherwise the fruit clusters will not be as large and handsome as this variety is capable of producing. Of all the varieties of currants this one requires heavier pruning than any of the rest.

This is a very pertinent question in the northwest particularly where large quantities of sprays have been applied in an effort to keep the codling moth in check. The growers seem to be faced with the options of removing the excess spray material before the fruit is marketed, to use less arsenic, or else to substitute some other spray for insect control.

The following suggestions are made as a result of the preliminary work that has been under way. The removal of spray residue by wiping and brushing has not been entirely satisfactory. No form of mechanical cleansing thus far tested has proved effective under all conditions. More or less injury to the fruit and the spread of decay organisms may result.

Experiments with solvents have shown that certain acids and bases will remove spray residues in varying degrees of effectiveness. Of the many compounds tested, none has proved to be superior to hydrochloric acid. It was found to be effective in removing not only arsenicals, but also such forms of residue as lead, copper and lime, and has not injured the fruit when properly applied.

Foundation Stock Most Important Turkey Item

In deciding on the breed of turkeys one will encounter the same kind of problem as deciding on a breed of chickens, or other live stock, except that with turkeys there are fewer breeds, so the task should be an easier one. Whatever breed you decide upon, select birds as near standard, or even larger if possible, providing, of course, you do not forget type. Length of shank and thigh, if out of proportion, should not be mistaken for size.

Good length with full, rounded body and breast indicates value. Size and strength of bone indicate constitutional vigor, which should be maintained through the selection of the best at all times.

Oats to Fatten Lambs

That oats equals corn for fattening western lambs is shown in the cooperative tests just completed by the Agricultural Experiment station at Purdue. These two popular midwest grains were fed in rations containing cottonseed meal, corn silage and clover hay. Oats not only proved its value as a substitute for corn, but replaced over 40 per cent of the roughage in the ration as well. Common opinion has indicated that oats has never equaled corn for fattening lambs.

Bullnose in Pigs

Bullnose occurs in young pigs up to six months old. The snout or nose is short and wide or enlarged; the breathing is labored, with a snuffling noise, when fed or exercised; later the difficult breathing occurs all the time. There may be mucus or bloody discharge from the nose, and periodic attacks of suffocation. It is said to be due to congenital defects in short-nosed swine, also to foreign bodies getting into the nose and to germs such as the green pus germ.

Twirling Ace of the Pirates

To Lee Meadows, one of the few bespectacled pitchers in the big leagues, the Pittsburgh Pirates owe much for their splendid showing this season. Meadows has been a consistent winner all year.

Football Star Wins Virginia Golf Title

Keeping your head down while playing football also holds true with golf, Charlie Mackall of the Charlottesville Country club has learned. Mackall has just won the Virginia state amateur championship.

Mackall's work on the gridiron at the University of Virginia brought him a place on the composite All-Southern. He is more than six feet tall, tips the scales at a little better than 200 pounds and is hailed at the university as an ideal type of athlete.

Mackall is a powerful driver and a good putter.

Farrell Adds Another

Johnny Farrell of New York has increased his string of golf titles by winning the Massachusetts open. His score for the 72 holes was 255. Walter Hagen of New York was second with a score of 260. Recently Farrell won the Metropolitan open, the Shawnee open and the Eastern open.

Sport Notes

To Molenda, Michigan halfback last year, will play pro football this fall.

Most hurdle races in England are run on the turf and not on the cinder sprint paths.

Ten-round, no decision bouts have been sanctioned in Alabama by a recent legislative act.

Robert Kinsey, a Californian, will represent Mexico on that country's Davis cup tennis team.

Rollins college in Florida has signed Sam Hill, an Illinois graduate, as football coach for next fall.

Jack Hutchinson of Chicago won the last open championship played at historic St. Andrews in 1921.

Charles T. Hill, Penn crew captain this year, was an awful bust as an oarsman in his sophomore year.

Practically every track team of national prominence was entered in the recent A. A. U. meet at Lincoln, Neb.

Tom Longboat, famous old-time Indian runner, won a four-mile veterans' race at Hamilton, Ont., arranged as part of Canada's jubilee celebration.

Maryland is the latest state to join the nationwide attempt to repopularize amateur harness racing. The old Prospect park track in Baltimore has been rebuilt and races will be held each Sunday afternoon.

Only seventeen years old, Al Sauley is serving his second year as golf professional at the Madison (Ind.) Country club, where he holds the record for the course.

Five names are engraved on the eighth Longwood bowl, the New England lawn tennis classic annually decided at the famous Boston club. Bill Johnson won the first leg in 1921, Bill Tilden in 1922 and 1923, Dick Williams in 1923, Fritz Mercur in 1924 and Gerald Patterson in 1925.

BASEBALL SQUITS

Tom Connolly, dean of major league umpires, no longer works back of the plate.

Erving Hadley, sensational rookie with Washington, is just a few years off the Brown campus.

Jack Ryan, a semi-pro from Memphis, Tenn., has been signed for a trial by the St. Louis Cards.

Emil ("Irish") Meusel, veteran outfielder, has been unconditionally released by the Brooklyn Robins.

Because fans razzed him for three errors in one game, Eddie Murphy jumped the Rochester club recently.

Wayland Dean, pitcher for the Chicago Nationals, has quit the Cubs and intends to play independent baseball.

The race for home-run honors for 1927 is the main feature of the American league season with the Yankees.

Jimmy Dykes has been slamming the ball hard since he has been stationed at first base for the Athletics.

When Herman of the Brooklyn Dodgers is on the bench the fans holler for him; when he is in the game they holler at him.

Bill Murphy, sensational young pitcher of the Hollywood club of the Coast league, is headed for the New York Yankees.

Bissonette, one of the leaders in hitting in the International league, was shooed away by Wilbert Robinson this spring.

The Giants announce that they have purchased a left-handed pitcher by the name of Bill Walker from the Denver club for $25,000.

Ruth, in his writings, says the Chicago Cubs have no outstanding stars except two pitchers. What does Ruth call Wilson, for the love of Hack?

Texas league fans are being treated to an unusually tight pennant race this season, with less than 200 points separating the first and last teams.

Ken Penner, pitcher for the San Antonio club in the Texas league, recently pitched two consecutive games without issuing a single base on balls.

It would take some time to figure up just how many games the Yankees have won on home-run drives this season, but it is certainly a large number.

Bill O'Hara, who has succeeded Lee Fohl as manager of the Toronto club, has been road secretary, business manager, coach and scout for the Leafs for a period of years.

Ernie Pickett, county clerk in Liberty, Texas, has been playing with the local ball club for the past 32 seasons. He recently won a hard-fought game for his team with a timely hit.

Dick Kinsella, famous scout of the Giants, is responsible for the discovery of more stars than perhaps any other individual living. One of his best "finds" was Freddy Linstrom.

Leslie Mann, veteran outfielder, recently unconditionally released by the Boston Braves, is now playing for the New York Giants. To make room for Mann, Joe Bush, veteran pitcher, was released.

Connie Mack used to win pennants when he was robbing the cradle for ball players, but when he threw in the reverse and started cheating the grave out of prospects he fell down with a thud.

A broken kneecap, which caused Connie Mack to discard Joe Hauser, has not kept this first baseman from leading the American association in stolen bases and hitting close to the top of the list.

Walter Newman, pitcher for the San Antonio club in the Texas league, reached for a ball under a roll of canvas near the stands and was bitten by a snake. Prompt attention at a nearby hospital prevented any serious effects.

Wear Red or Purple Trunks in New York

Prize fighters hereafter will be required to confine themselves to red or purple trunks, the boxing commission ruled. With one fighter wearing red and the other purple, it was believed the difficulty of spectators in faraway seats being unable to distinguish which man is which, will be eliminated.

WALTER JOHNSON IS NOT THROUGH

Bucky Harris Satisfied Barney Still Has Stuff.

Walter Johnson, veteran pitcher of the majors, is discouraged at his slow start this year and more than once has wondered if the end is at hand. When he failed to halt the Yankees in New York he seemed disconsolate, for he appeared to have as much stuff in that game as he ever had, though not quite so much smoke.

Bucky Harris does not agree with the theory offered by the sharps that Johnson is singing his swan song and plans to use his veteran pitcher occasionally during the summer and open in the games of the fall.

"If the race is close and we are up in the fight," declared the boss of the Nationals, "you will see Johnson in there bearing the brunt of the pitching, for the weather at that time of the year is just suited to him. He may also be called to wipe up the close games when an experienced cool pitcher is needed if some of the younger flingers blow toward the end of the game."

"Johnson can't work as often as he used to and his poor start this year was due to his long lay-off with a broken ankle. In the game against the Yanks recently he flushed a lot of stuff. He will react to his normal condition as the season advances and will be ready by the time the pennant fight is on if we are in need of his services."

Bennie Tate agrees with Harris that Johnson is not through. "Think of it," said Tate, "Walter ranked seven, including Ruth and Gehrig in succession in one inning, Lazzert and Collins in another and then Meusel and Lazzert. That shows he had something."

"There never has been a player who reflected greater credit on baseball than Walter Johnson," President Ban Johnson of the American league said. "In his 20 years in major league baseball, he never has had an argument with an umpire and has never been put out of a ball game."

Ty Cobb Very Shrewd in Business Transactions

"Old Scout" says that the talk about Ty Cobb running a base hit into a million is not merely a figure of speech, for those who have followed his business career say he has been as shrewd an investor as he was a runner on the paths to baseball fame.

That the $75,000 Connie Mack is paying Cobb is not what influenced him solely to join the Quaker City outfit, a Philadelphia veteran writer who is conservative in his writings tells of a motor trip he had with Cobb several days ago, just before the Georgian left for Atlanta.

While money was not the subject of the conversation during the ride, Cobb took out a broker's receipt he had for 1,000 shares of General Motors stock which he bought back in 1923 for 13%. He still has the 1,000 shares. The stock that cost Cobb $13,000 a few years ago is worth about $125,000 today, and it has paid about $8 a share annually, which shows Cobb was in on a nice proposition just when he was beginning to go down hill in baseball. Other investments have been even more profitable.

One Golfer in Scotland Plays Game by Lamplight

Playing throughout the night by the aid of acetylene lamps, W. Bruce Sutherland of Edinburgh has beaten the golf endurance record set up by H. B. Lumsden in 1910.

Mr. Lumsden started at 2:30 in the morning and completed 12 rounds of the Balgowrie course, Aberdeen, finishing at 9 p. m. after playing 216 holes.

Mr. Sutherland, at Craiglockhart, started at 8:15 p. m. and played for 2 1/2 hours. In this time he completed 14 full rounds, 252 holes, beating Lumsden's record by two rounds.

SUITS OF NOVELTY TWEEDS; FOX FUR NECKPIECE POPULAR

SEEKING enlightenment as to fall suit trends? Well, here is a "just word" model which speaks for itself in its mannish tweed fabric, its short skirt with its adroit plaits at one side and its swagger-cut coat. It is Marion Nixon, she who holds forth in moviedom to the delight of vast audiences, who has stepped into the autumn picture clad as you see.

With this eminently correct and "easy-to-look-at" suit Miss Nixon wears a ravishing red suede vest. It tones the whole outfit. A bit of the red suede escapes from the vest to do is the "nifty" thing for general wear. Bravo for the girl who has remained constant to her fur neck-piece throughout torrid summer days. Now is the time of her reward, for autumn breezes do begin to blow, and what so "cozy" as well as satisfying to her vanity on a fleete fall day, as a good-looking fur about shoulder and throat.

To say that those fashionable neck-pieces are "foxy" describes them in more ways than one. From the modish standpoint they are all of that. When it comes to the fur itself every duty as a boutonniere and on the pocket and collar as a "note of color." A sports felt hat of tan, with matching shoes and bag, give a perfect fluency to this ensemble.

The sturdy rough tweed suits now so fashionable are directly in contrast to the elaboration movement of woman's costume which marks this season. For that reason they achieve a more than usual distinctiveness. As to length of skirts, this depends whether one is considering the subject from the American or Paris standpoint. French couturiers are inclined to somewhat longer lengths, but women here, especially the dapper ones, are proving quite defiant, many of them insisting on continuing a display of knees. Of course Paris usually wins in the finals, but just now brevity is the rule, especially for the youthful style enthusiasts in America.
Another item of interest—the smartest suits have not an inch of fur in sight as actual trimming, this because branch of the fox family tree is represented in autumn's style parade. There is pointed fox in all its glory, blue fox, red, platinum and beige. As to white fox it holds its own triumphantly, regardless of the fact that it has been doing strenuous duty the whole summer through.

Imagination cannot picture anything more "swanky" in the way of a fall costume or suit enhanced with a flattering fox scarf. The autumn land scape will be crowded with just such a fox neckpiece never fails to enrich the dressy three-piece ensemble as this pictures so charmingly proves.
With the smart tweed suit of an autumn vogue, there is nothing so swag-gery as a handsome fox fur piece, preferably in beige or in platinum.
Perhaps the newest in fox fur pieces are the double or twin animal types. These two-in-one models are necessarily luxuriously long, joining as they do two furs at the back of the neck, which is in keeping with the trend to

Requires More Wealth to Be Called Rich Now

A recent survey shows the wealth of America has risen one-third in five years, but it requires much more wealth to be a rich man today than it did years ago. In presenting the citizens of Bethel, Conn., which was his boyhood home, with a bronze fountain, P. T. Barnum said in his presentation speech:
"Esquire Tom Taylor was a large, majestic-looking man, of great will force, and was considered the richest man in Bethel. Mr. Eli Judd was marked second in point of wealth. Every year I took $12 to Esquire Tom Taylor to pay the interest on a $200 note my father owed him. I also annually carried $4.50 to Eli Judd for interest on a $75 note which he held against my father."
"As these wealthy men quietly turned each note fixed away in a package till they found the note of my father, I trembled with awe to think I stood in the presence of such wonderfully rich men. It was estimated that the richer of them was actually worth $3,000."

Rats

London has always had a large rat population, but now it is assuming menacing proportions.

The old English black rat was almost displaced by the Norwegian variety, which in turn is being driven out by the small black "ship rat" that can get into places no other rat could reach. Rodents of the latter type have even been known to travel on telephone wires.

Now a new brand has been discovered in large numbers in the neighborhood of Piccadilly. They are albino rats, with pink eyes, white hair, and white skins, and are quite as fierce as the other kinds. It is suggested they have bred from escaped tame specimens.

Chicks in Airplane Ride

Within a day after they had pecked their way into the world 350 chickens took an airplane ride from their native city of Sussex, England, to their present home in the Rhine-Hessian village of Gernshelm. Hardly were they out of their shells when they were packed in a crate, rushed to the Croydon airport, and taken by airplane to Cologne. There a truck rushed them to the railway station and a fast passenger train tumbled them in their new home before sundown. Not a single chick was lost on the trip, and all chirped most of the way and on arrival. They were taken into Germany to improve certain German strains.

No Mercy

A woman who had parked her car in the congested district and noticed a policeman in the office, inquired of a colored man who was standing near as to the policeman's attitude.
"Does the officer place stickers on all cars that are parked overtime, or is he inclined to be reasonable?" the woman asked.
"Lady," the colored man replied with deep feeling, "he ain't no mercy."

Seeing vs. Hearing

"My husband always wants a front seat."
"Mine does, too, at the Follies; but a rear seat is good enough for him in church."

Soviets Buy Horses

For the Soviet government, $19 per head was paid for 29 odd head of horses at Ashcroft.

The more lawn some people have to mow the more they borrow the mower.

"Surrey Woe Water"

Much local interest has been aroused by the fact that the underground stream known as the "Surrey Woe Water" has recently been flowing fairly rapidly along the Caterham valley, an occurrence which, according to ancient tradition, presages some world-shaking event. The stream is supposed to appear above ground every seven years, and the recent rising was rather later than usual. It is thought that heavy rainfalls assisted to bring about the flow, as the hills round about are full of water.

Following Up

"Doctor," said a woman to her neighbor at the table, "can you tell me who that horrible-looking man is over there?"
"Why, yes, I can. That's my brother."
"Oh, pardon," stammered the woman, all flustered; "I ought to have known it by the resemblance."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Fox Fur Gives Style Touch.

of the vogue for the separate fur piece. Every one who can afford it is going to own a beige or platinum fox fur scarf this fall.

Seems as if browns are to have their inning this season, lovely chestnut shades, cocoa, deep leaf tones and the like, which of course establishes the color trend for novelty cloth suits. More formal type suits appear in black and also in leaf-colored broad-cloths, but it is the sports suit which ward heavily furred effects for fall and winter.

In neckpieces there is also a marked tendency to wear sable. This fur, by the way, is receiving marked attention in the styling of garments of distinction.

Flat-fur coats richly collared and cuffed with fox are conspicuously present in advance style showings.

Sports Bodices

Bodices are often seen with side closing in both one and two-piece sports dresses. In many cases the line is marked by buttons which are usually decorative only.

Painted Felt Hats

Small felt hats are extremely chic this year painted or stamped with modernistic designs such as wavy stripes. Others are painted to resemble snakeskin.

Flowers Trim Summer Hats

The smartest version of the new flower-trimmed hats is a small turban of deep violet grosgrain ribbon with a crown entirely made of tiny pinkish mauve sweet peas.

Fall Fabrics

Already the fall fashion prophecies are coming in. Soft, heavy yarns to lace treatments distinguish the new fall fabrics. Fall dress fabrics are said to accent light weight.

ATTEMPTS WRECK OF FREIGHT TRAIN

JUNEAU—Swinging a pickaxe about his head and defying a large crew of workmen George Cardinal, 21, attempted to wreck a freight train near here by placing a dynamite across the track in front of the approaching train. Cardinal became enraged when discharged by the foreman of the track gang and boarding the motor car of the "little train" used by the crew ran a short distance down the track, where he was halted by another part of the gang. Leaving the motor he placed the crowbar on the rails and swinging the pick in one direction he was overpowered from behind and the crowbar was snatched from the rails just before the locomotive passed over the spot. Cardinal was later arrested in Reeseville by a railroad detective and confined to the county jail at JunEAU to await trial before the circuit court.

Do You Enjoy Eating Tough Beef?

Probably not, as most people prefer tender, juicy meats. Well it is the same way with milk customers—naturally they prefer a fine quality of milk, as good milk has a flavor, that is practically unequalled by any food product, and bad milk is about the most disgusting article of food that can be placed on the table. While at present the demand for milk is good, yet if every pound produced, was of the highest quality, our problem of demand would be settled for all time. It is not a case, nor has it ever been, of too much milk, but rather altogether too much poor milk. Good milk calls for more milk and poor milk calls for less, simple isn't it? Let us all pull together for better milk, and if every one helps it will be easy.
