The 7th grade started the study of Asia. We had our Valentine party Tuesday afternoon. We were examined Monday by the path officer and a nurse who informed us we are all O. K.

Editors: Sylvester Herman and Ralph Habek. Remember the Senior Class play tonight, Saturday. Miss Dean, English teacher, has been away from school this week because of illness. Mrs. Rosenheimer is doing temporary substitute teaching.

INJURED IN AUTO WRECK

Four people, two men and two ladies, driving an Essex sedan, and who according to drivers license an auto license, hailed from Milwaukee, came to grief, when their car went into the ditch about a mile and a half south of here on Highway 55, Monday forenoon. One of the gentlemen's name was John Kraus, 466-38th St., Milwaukee, according to a driver's license found in the car, and the others name was Ray Young, 49th St., Milwaukee. The names of the ladies we were unable to learn. From all appearances the men were under the influence of liquor and no doubt traveling at a high rate of speed, the driver lost control of the machine which left the road and is reported to have turned several somersaults before it finally came to a stop. The occupants of the machine received several cuts and bruises and were brought to Dr. Hausman's office here, where medical attention was given them, after which they returned to Milwaukee on the 2:30 train. The car was badly damaged.

THE DUCHESS OF BUFFALO

Constance Talmadge's new picture, "The Duchess of Buffalo", set a Hollywood record for the number of studios utilized. Camera work on the comedy drama of Russia was carried on at the Pickford-Fairbanks, United, Buster Keaton and Hal Roach studios under the direction of Sidney A. Franklin.

The majority of the scenes were made at the Pickford-Fairbanks studios. Various lots were used because of the amount of space required for the huge sets. Russian castles, theatres, villages and other structures were erected. One of the novel sets at the Pickford-Fairbanks lot was a snow blanketed forest. Real trees were set up and the ground covered with thousands of tons of glittering salt. Big "snow machines," which shave cakes of ice into synthetic flakes, heightened the realism.

Supporting Miss Talmadge in the Hans Kraly story of an American girl who goes to Russia are Tullio Carminati, Edward Martindel, Rose Dione, Chester Conklin, Lawrence Grant, Martha Franklin, Jean De Briae and other well known players. Joseph M. Schenck produced "The Duchess of Buffalo" for First National which will be shown at the Kewaskum Movies tomorrow, Sunday.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Annie Kwinski of 526 1st Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., writes that she became so weak and run-down that she was not able to do her housework. She saw the name Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper and said to her husband, "I will try that medicine and see, if it will help me." She says she took six bottles and is feeling much better.

Mrs. Mattie Adams, who lives in Downing Street, Brewton, Ala., writes as follows: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and since taking it I feel like a different woman."

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grand-children, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women past fifty, say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

Brooklyn Rookie Is Hard Hitter

IF MANAGER ROBINSON of the Brooklyn Dodgers had not secured Harvey Hendrick from New Orleans in the fall of 1926 he would have had the unique and most undesirable distinction of leading a club through last season without a single 300 hitter. This rookie was the lone representative in select batting company. But wait! Can Hendrick properly be styled a rookie? In the first place he is too old for a rookie, being thirty years of age. Then he was up with the Boston Red Sox back in 1921. Then he spent two years on the Yankee bench, and after that went to Cleveland, thence back to the minors and then back to Cleveland again. And yet the season of 1927 marked the first appearance of Hendrick on a major diamond with any regularity.

Hendrick played 128 games for the Robins last year and batted .328. Robbie bought him for an outfielder, and there he placed him at the beginning of the season. But while his batting was up to par, his fielding was not of a nature to gain him space in the headlines.

By the time the season was a month old Babe Herman had slumped so badly in his batting that Robbie was compelled to take this erratic young man out of the lineup and put Hendrick at first base. Hendrick continued to hit, but his first base play was short of major standard.

Robbie was in a quandary. Carey and Stutz were two of the greatest outfielders in the business, and Felix was quite a fly chaser, but not one of this trio was hitting up to 300. Herman, the sensation of 1926, was still in a batting slump and his fielding was erratic. So Hendrick, the lone hitter on the team, had to stay in the lineup.

And he could run bases, too. This husky supple young man from New Orleans stole 29 last season, being third in his league in that line.

What will Robbie do with Hendrick next season? The fans are wondering. He has announced that Bissonette is to have the first try at the inside sack. And then there will be Carey, Stutz and Tyson in the outfield. What position will that leave Hendrick to play?

TUNNEY NOT BORN PRIZE FIGHTER

Has Dignity Without Being High-Hatfish.

(By IRVIN S. COBB)

I met Tunney summer before last in California. For more than a month we bedded in adjacent billets at the Hollywood Athletic club. I saw him almost daily and I had abundant opportunities to appraise him from various angles. Having won the right to challenge the champion, he was making ready for the meeting which took place that September in Philadelphia. He had not entered upon active training, but between stunts of play-acting before a camera at a moving-picture plant he was conditioning himself.

I came to know him fairly well, and from the beginning I liked him. By my gauge he was altogether likable.

Physically he was the perfect athlete. His muscular movements were graceful and rhythmic; his stripped supple body, with its pinky-white smooth skin, was a thing for a painter to paint. In no way—by his manners, his speech, his unmarred and almost classically handsome face, or by his behavior—did he suggest the conception which has been built up in men's minds as the conception of the typical pug.

I didn't believe he was what we call the born prize fighter; he lacked in his composition the element of tigerish cruelty which a born fighter needs must have. He had dignity without being in the least high-hatfish. He had modesty, but he didn't get to and fro advertising his modesty. I never cared for the specimen who is forever bragging about how modest he is.

Tunney had confidence in himself, but not too much confidence—just enough. I should say, for an up-and-coming contender in a dangerous and difficult line of business.

He was no poser, or my estimate of him is altogether wrong. He might be violating and defying all accepted rules for the common conduct of a paid bruiser by desiring to learn something as he went along, and he might continue, as he has, to affront the tender sensibilities of the run of fight fanciers by reading books and magazines and by going to recitals and lectures and good plays; but on no occasion did I detect him in the act of pretending a greater acquaintance with any subject, literary or otherwise, than he had.

He told me he was of undiluted Celtic stock, but he looked more like a Scandinavian than like an Irish boy. Well, there was much Danish blood in the ancient Irish breed. Off-hand he suggested a well-born, well-bred college football player of Swedish or Norwegian descent. Seeing him strolling across a campus and not knowing who and what he was, you would have said he matched in with the surroundings. You would never have fancied him as being at home in a prize ring.

For a matter of fact, I don't believe he is at home in a prize ring and I look to see him taking himself permanently out of it so soon as he has made enough money at his present trade to satisfy his present desires, and before there is peril of damage to his reputation as an honest fighter by certain dubious and corrupting influences which, according to common rumor, have very definitely undermined the structures of the fight business.

Mind you, I'm not trying to make a hero or a demigod or even a young viking out of a professional scrapper. Merely I am trying to paint a likeness with my own crayons.—Cosmopolitan.

Hurler Ring's Disposal

Recalls Bright Career

Disposal of Jimmy Ring to the Phillies by the St. Louis Cardinals recalls the high spot in Jimmy's pitching career—his work in the lamented world's series of 1919.

Ring stood the Black-and-White Sox on their respective heads in that series, and was the outstanding star of the series for the earnest and honest Reds.

Ring saw several years of real service after that, and as a matter of fact, Sam Breadon, Cardinal owner, counted on some valuable aid from Jim's good arm when the latter was obtained from the Giants a year ago with Frankie Frisch in the trade that sent Rogers Hornsby to the Giants. Ring, however, failed to deliver.

Indian Children Are Heavier Than Whites

When social workers at the Kansas bureau of child research set out to make some individual growth studies of Indian children they found the little brown-skinned Americans so much heavier than the white children of the same age that the ordinary high-weight-age tables did not "fit" them at all. Through the courtesy of H. B. Pearis, formerly superintendent of Haskell Institute, a federal Indian school at Lawrence, Kan., data and measurements were obtained on 21,637 Indian girls and boys from government Indian schools throughout the country, from which a new set of tables were constructed. Contrary to what one would expect, the Indian children were found to be shorter as well as heavier than their white brothers and sisters. The Indian boys ran from one to four inches shorter and from one to six and a half pounds heavier than white boys, while the Indian girls were from one to two inches shorter and from one and a half to four and a half pounds heavier than their white contemporaries.

Brevity the Highest Point of Eloquence

The story is told that when Abraham Lincoln was conferring with a committee over a speech the President was to make, he said: "If I am to talk 45 minutes I will not need any time for preparation, but if I am to speak 10 minutes I would like a week to get my remarks ready."

Lincoln could say more in a few words than any man of modern times. In literature and oratory, it has always been the brief, simple, lucid style of expression that has created the most lasting impression.

The late Senator Beveridge was never able to live down the quip of "Mr. Donley," who described one of his oratorical flights in the senate as a "speech we end wait to."

Many of our writers and public speakers should learn with Cicero that "Brevity is a great praise of eloquence."—Thrift Magazine.

Where Husbands Can Shop

"Blissless" shopping for men has now been established by a Detroit department store, which has a "men's corner," where when he wants a present for her he can be painlessly initiated into the mysteries of step-ins, fancy garters, silks, satins, brocades, etc. Here he is made to feel he is in a masculine atmosphere, despite the femininity of the goods and the judicious salesladies who obtain the customer's confidence and then sell him exactly what he needs, greatly to the benefit of his wife, mother, betrothed, or niece, cousins and aunts.—Capper's Weekly.

"Hack" Wilson Performs Well for Chicago Cubs

The word "hack" means a player who is not a regular. Wilson, the most likely to be "hacked" by the Chicago Cubs, showed up at the bat in a way that Wilson is no one else. His name Hack will place him in connection with some extraordinary accomplishment, but he can't be said that he was not the backbone behind the Cubs' offense last year and the big reason for their surprising showing.

When the Cubs took their first tumble in a regular season, when he made the season known. When he made the Cubs win the game, he was the only one who was not a regular. He was the only one who was not a regular.

"Betty Howe" Editor

Dear Kiddies:—

Today I will tell you about St. Valentine's Day.

A long time ago in Italy a bishop, Father Valentine, went about visiting the poor and brought happiness with them. When his little friends were ill, he brought them verses of love and happiness. He took food and happiness to the poor and sick.

One day the mothers planned a party in honor of Father Valentine. They had all the children, Father Valentine wrote verses for the children to read and take home and made everyone jolly.

When he grew old, he could no longer go out so he sent verses of love and good cheer to his old friends. We derived the custom of sending verses to our loved ones from Father Valentine.

In A. D. 270, Father Valentine was martyred in Rome, we celebrate his death day, the fourteenth of February. He was made a Saint because he was so kind and loving.

Here are some questions on the "History of Music" (on the composers.)

1. Who wrote the famous "Wedding March" used for our weddings (mostly)?

2. Who wrote the "Moonlight Sonata"?

3. Who wrote St. Paul's and Elijah (oratorios)?

4. Who wrote the most famous "Preludes"?

5. Who wrote the most famous "Waltzes"?

See how much you know about music the answers of which will appear next week. Your loving Editor,

Betty Stowe.

WISCONSIN STATE NEWS

Madison—Receipts from the state gasoline tax for 1927 totaled $2,717,337.48, as compared to $5,373,666.75 for 1926, the state treasurer's office has announced.

Madison—The question of municipal ownership and operation of the transit system of the Madison Railway Co. will be submitted to Madison voters in April. The referendum was approved by the common council here by a vote of 16 to 4.

Bowling—With the gradual passing of the lumber industry another large Wisconsin sawmill has ceased operations. The Bowling plant has closed permanently after sawing all the available timber in this territory. The mill will probably be dismantled.

Madison—A total of 1,100 students enrolled at the University of Wisconsin last fall are no longer at school, a check-up at the start of the second semester revealed. Of this number, 550 were dismissed because of poor scholarship, and the rest quit voluntarily, according to C. A. Smith, secretary of the faculty.

Merrill—George M. Anson of this city has presented an echo organ to St. Stephen's church at Stevens Point in memory of his late father, L. N. Anson, who formerly lived at Stevens Point. The gift is an addition to the organ given to the congregation by Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Anson on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

Jamesville—Queen Johanna Enterprise No. 590435, a registered Holstein in the herd of the Wisconsin school for the blind, is winner of the first place in the Wisconsin cow testing associations for 1927. She stands at the top of more than 78,000 cows tested in the various associations with a production of 21,883 pounds of milk and 825.6 pounds of butter fat.

Menasha—Consumers of electricity generated by the municipal plant here have been granted a reduction in rates of approximately 1 cent a kilowatt hour. Profits of the plant enabled the common council to adopt a new service rate schedule this week, putting the reduction into effect immediately. Menasha has the lowest electric rate of any city in the valley.

Madison—Maude Mitchell, Elkhorn, superintendent of Walworth county schools, was elected president of the Southern Wisconsin Teachers' association at the annual convention here. Other officers selected were: First vice-president, J. E. Worthington, Waukesha; second vice-president, O. E. Evans, Monroe; secretary, Vida Smith, Madison, and treasurer, Earl C. MacInnis, Jefferson.

Ripon—Every civic organization in this city will appoint committees to work jointly for the establishment of a city park here. The Ripon Chamber of Commerce is pioneering the move and was the first to name a committee at a special meeting at the city hall. The committees will work under direction of the South Woods Park association, which has the matter of establishing a city park in charge.

Potosi—Farmers of the township of Potosi in the southern part of Grant county purchased a $5,000 chemical fire engine for the protection of farm property. The purchase was authorized by special election. The village of Potosi is a contributor, a field day celebration last fall bringing net proceeds of $1,400. Both country and village will have better service and a company of picked veteran firemen selected from the local volunteer fire fighting force will man the new engine.

Green Bay—An order by Dr. T. J. Oliver, city health commissioner, that all pupils and instructors who are not vaccinated, be excluded from the public schools for a period of 14 days was the latest move made by health officials to stamp out the smallpox epidemic here. Dr. V. A. Gudex, deputy state health officer, has announced that similar action would be taken in other sections of the county. Dr. Oliver stated he will also endeavor to have every employer in Green Bay insist upon the vaccination of their employees.

Sturgeon Bay—Public utilities of Sturgeon Bay, municipally operated, showed an operating profit of $19,893.81 for 1927, according to a report which has been submitted by James E. Johnson, superintendent. The surplus of revenues over operating expenses, depreciation and taxes was $40,476.81, from which interest and principal payments on bonds and a payment of $9,139.58 to the general city fund were deducted, leaving the profit of $19,893.81. Sturgeon Bay operates a water department, electric service, heating service and toll bridge.

Rhinelander—The discovery was made recently that a tract of public land was omitted from township 39, Oneida county, when the original federal survey of the township was made 60 years ago.

Waupaca—Twenty-four head of Holstein heifers were sold by Waupaca county dairyman to M. N. Lawritson of the dairy department of the University of Nebraska at Lawrence. Another large shipment of Waupaca county cattle was made to Illinois.

Madison—Balance of $10,017,378.56 in the various state funds on Feb. 1, 1928, is reported by State Treasurer Solomon Levitan in his financial statement for January, 1928. An increase of $808,070.73 in gasoline tax receipts for 1927 over the 1926 receipts was also reported.

Watertown—Resignation of Frank S. Weber, who has served Watertown for the last 24 years as city clerk, was made to the city council to be effective Mar. 1, the anniversary of the day that Weber first assumed office.

Appleton—Two distinguished musicians will appear at the Lawrence memorial chapel here within the next month. Galli-Curci will sing Feb. 22 and Fritz Kreisler will play Mar. 6.

Waupun—The state tournament for school bands will be held May 18 and 19 in the new municipal auditorium here in connection with the annual meeting of the Wisconsin School Band association.

Greenwood City—While Henry Rodunzal, living near Clark's Crossing, was doing chores, he was kicked by a horse and seriously injured. His father went up to see him, came downstairs, sat down in a chair and fell dead.

Ashland—Found guilty of serving venison to his camp crew on three different occasions, John Kundingger, lumber camp operator near Butternut, was fined $350 and costs in circuit court by Judge G. N. Riejord.

Menomonie—Encouraged by the success of their first concerted action, the robbers of the Bank of Downsview, Jan. 30, Dunn county vigilantes are working out a more closely knit organization of chief, captains and patrolmen, upon the suggestion of Dist. Atty. Farnham A. Clark.

Madison—Wisconsin's special legislative session cost approximately $8,484, according to the secretary of state's office. Five bills were enacted at this session, appropriating a total of $4,004,689. Of this total $4,190,889 was for the normal schools; $400,000 for a new industrial school for girls and $5,000 for the Wisconsin special train.

Madison—The state highway commission voted to discontinue the policy of having virtually all of its meetings open to the public. It was decided to conduct all meetings as executive sessions unless otherwise specified in order that members would have full freedom of discussion in important matters, according to R. C. Bretting, chairman.

Spooner—The potato program at the Spooner branch experiment station for 1928 is already under way and Prof. J. G. Milward is now making arrangements for the planting of large blocks of certified triumph seed from tuber indexed stock in upper Wisconsin. There were several hundred acres throughout the state planted with this improved seed last year and this year the Spooner station will distribute about 800 bushels to growers for increase purposes.

Wilton—Telephone matters in this village are rather mixed up following a raise in rates allowed by the state railroad commission. Farmer patrons held a meeting recently and unanimously decided to have their telephones taken out if the raise goes into effect. The telephone company practically has decided not to arbitrate. Business men say their phones will be of no use if the farmer patrons discontinue. There are 270 rural patrons on the Wilton line and 170 out of Ontario.

Madison—The university is brought closer to the average individual through a plan by which courses of university grade may be studied in vocational schools, according to an announcement of Chester D. Small, dean of the extension division of the University of Wisconsin. The extension division and the vocational schools of the state will co-operate. The extension division plans to conduct local classes or short courses in regular college subjects when requested to do so by business or industrial groups.

Green Bay—Capt. John Pierce Macy, 64, a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln and one of the few Union officers who stood in the reviewing stand with the president when he reviewed the army of the Potomac shortly after the close of the Civil war, died at his home here following a short illness. Capt. Macy was a veteran not only of the war between the North and South, but of the Indian wars as well. He served as a first lieutenant at several western army posts, fighting Indians until the outbreak of the Civil war.

"LINDY" FLIES FROM HAVANA TO ST. LOUIS

Makes Long Trip Through Fog and Rain—He Has Visited Fifteen Nations.

New York—Following is the log of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's Pan-American "good will" flight, begun in Washington December 13 and ended at Lambert field, St. Louis, Mo.:

Table with columns: Date, Place, Flying Hours, Miles. Includes stops in Washington, Mexico City, Guatemala City, Belize, San Salvador, Tegucigalpa, Managua, San Jose, Panama, Colon, Cartagena, Bogota, Santo Domingo, Port au Prince, Havana, and St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is home again. Driving his limousine partner, the Spirit of St. Louis, in a nonstop flight from Cuba, he arrived at his home base about fifteen hours after he bade good-bye to his friends in Havana, which was the last stop on his tour of good-will through Mexico, Central America, a portion of South America, and the tropical islands that lie off the southeast coast of the United States.

He arrived in typical Lindy fashion. With unerring skill he had battled through fog and rain that would have discouraged a less intrepid flyer, and when he put his plane down at the new Municipal field, he crawled from his cramped cabin and with no more ceremony than is displayed by a pilot who has made a before-breakfast jaunt, shook hands with his reception committee, talked briefly, and then was whisked away to the Harry Hall Knight residence in St. Louis county.

He was the same emotionless Lindbergh who on several occasions previously had visited St. Louis with world acclaim beating around his head. To see the tall, angular youth

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

In smugged flying trust calmly alight from his plane, entrust it to willing mechanics and then walk into the government hangar for a formal greeting of his friends, one might never have guessed that here was the most talked about man in the world.

Bested by inquiries about his plans, Lindbergh replied: "I have no plans beyond flying the mail next Monday."

But that did not mean he was going back to a special mail service. He will make a special air mail flight through his old St. Louis-Chicago route Monday and Tuesday.

Lindbergh admitted he was tired. And why not? Since December 13 last, when he set off from Washington for a nonstop flight to Mexico City, he and his partner, "Wee," have traveled 9,500 miles in 119 flying hours. They have visited fifteen countries and everywhere have been acclaimed with the highest enthusiasm.

Lindbergh refused to discuss the probable effect his visit would have on Pan-American relations, merely remarking: "I would rather someone better qualified than I would discuss those things."

He did, however, discuss the possibilities of aviation in the countries he has visited. "So far as I was able to determine," he said, "there are no greater obstacles in the path of aviation in the tropics than in this country. I believe air lines between the United States and the Latin American republics are practicable. Such transportation also is feasible between the South American republics. There is nothing to retard its progress once it is started."

Jefferson City, Mo.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is to be employed by Dwight Davis, secretary of war, to give up all stunts and dangerous flying because he is too valuable to aviation and the nation.

Ask $12,729,000 for Dry Work Washington.—The house has been asked to authorize an appropriation of $12,729,000 to provide for the prohibition bureau in the next fiscal year.

Japanese Snowstorm Kills 13 Tokyo.—Violent snowstorms in the north of Japan have caused a number of deaths, damage to shipping and a general disruption of communications. The bodies of 13 fishermen were washed ashore. Many others are believed to have been drowned.

LATIN LEAGUE PLAN IS HALTED BY U. S.

Former Secy. Hughes Wins With Plea for Sovereignty.

Havana.—The United States is unalterably opposed to conferring upon the Pan-American union any authority enabling it to function as a superstate encroaching on the sovereignty of New World republics.

This was made plain before the sixth Pan-American conference in a speech to the first commission by former Secretary of State Hughes, chief of the United States delegation.

Hughes' words followed a renewal of the assault by Ambassador Honorio Pueyrredon of Argentina on "economic barriers" as obstacles to the development of Pan-Americanism.

With instructions from his government in Buenos Aires, Doctor Pueyrredon officially recorded his determination not to sign a project for the organization of the union which failed to include a specific declaration against economic barriers.

Mexico renewed its attempt to compel the elimination of the American secretary of state as chairman of the governing board of the union.

The upshot was: First—The union project was approved without the inclusion of the declaration demanded by Doctor Pueyrredon.

Second—Mexico abandoned its attempt with a few words to the effect that apparently the other delegates were determined to retain Hughes as chairman.

Third—The commission adjourned until later in the week in the hope of devising means for sending its project direct to the foreign offices of the 21 republics. This would obviate embarrassment arising from the split between Doctor Pueyrredon and the Argentine ministry over the economic issue.

London.—Thirteen members of an official inspection party investigating the Haig coal mine at Whitehaven, Cumberland, were killed by a gas explosion. The party included two government inspectors, mine agents, and a mine manager, a local colliery association official, and seven miners' deputies.

The investigation party consisted of twenty-one members, but a second group of eight men who followed the investigators did not reach the explosion area. Those survivors, dazed and partly roused, fought their way to the pit shaft, a distance of two miles, half crawling, half walking, guided only by the wagon lines.

Four explosions occurred. The last and most violent was heard at the pit top. It threw the men at the pit head off their feet.

The place where the thirteen men were killed was more than two miles underground.

Four men were killed two months ago in the Haig pit, which was closed then. The inspection was being carried out with a view of reopening it. When the sealed section was reopened it is believed gases rushed out, causing the disaster.

Moscow, Russia.—Twelve men were killed and eighty injured at the Rutchenko coal mine in the Don basin when a German foreman toasted sticks of frozen dynamite for blasting.

Chicago, Ill.—Latest efforts to adjust wage and working rule differences between union coal diggers and mine owners in Illinois ended in failure, with no further joint meetings scheduled.

The temporary agreement now in effect will expire on April 1, and, if present conditions prevail, Illinois miners will resume a suspension of operations which began on April 1, 1927.

Illinois coal operators asked for a reduction of the present per day wage scale from $7.50 to $6, the pay for tonnage to be 84 cents a ton and the period of contract to range from one to five years. The miners' representatives rejected this proposal.

SAY NEGLECT CAUSE OF BIG MINE BLAST

Officials Admit Hollinger Catastrophe Could Have Been Prevented; Many Dead.

Timmins, Ont.—Tons of refuse, powder boxes, nitroglycerin, soaked sawdust and other highly inflammable material, carelessly dumped in an abandoned stope of the world's largest gold mine, caused the Hollinger catastrophe. It now is admitted by Hollinger officials.

"It was all so unnecessary," said Noah Timmins, Hollinger president.

He denied, however, that mine inspectors' reports, complaining of the practice, had ever been referred to the directors.

A complete investigation of the first major tragedy in northern Ontario mining history will follow the coroner's inquest, which opens this week.

Timmins, Ont.—The bodies of the thirty-one men who were entombed in the burning Hollinger gold mine have been recovered. This brings the total of dead to thirty-nine out of the fifty-two miners who were entrapped. The rescue parties worked swiftly to recover the bodies. It was some time before the fire could be overcome sufficiently to enable workers to descend into the shafts, which were full of fumes.

The recovery of the bodies and the control of the fire is mostly due to the efforts of the United States bureau of mines' crew and its car of special apparatus.

When the powder magazine was reached by the search parties all detonators were removed. Fear that fire might reach the magazine had caused officials great anxiety. The mine extends under the town of Timmins and an explosion of the magazine might have caused an even worse disaster.

London.—Thirteen members of an official inspection party investigating the Haig coal mine at Whitehaven, Cumberland, were killed by a gas explosion. The party included two government inspectors, mine agents, and a mine manager, a local colliery association official, and seven miners' deputies.

The investigation party consisted of twenty-one members, but a second group of eight men who followed the investigators did not reach the explosion area. Smith Resigns and Is Reappointed by Small Springfield, Ill.—Within five minutes of the time United States Senator-elect Frank L. Smith submitted his resignation to Governor Small, the governor had issued an order reappointing Smith to serve out the unexpired portion of his own term.

At the same time the governor issued a proclamation for a United States senatorial primary on April 10, and an election in November this year.

RADIO

Rheostat Used to Step Voltage as Line Drops

Although the modern tube type of the uncritical type which permits quite large variations in its operating voltages, it is frequently found necessary to provide some adjustment in power units to compensate for line voltage variations. This is particularly true in rural districts, where the line voltage has sub par regulation that it will fluctuate between 90 and 120, depending on the load. The line is most heavily loaded at night, when most of the listening-in is done. This results in the poorest reception when the best is wanted.

Regulator tubes have been designed for the primary of the power transformer. These have not been found very satisfactory and some other form of regulation is usually advisable. As an alternative either a rheostat in the primary circuit of the transformer or a tapped primary should be used. The rheostat has the advantage of permitting close control, but this is not really necessary.

Several manufacturers have found it advisable to use a transformer tapped for 105 and 115 volts. A two-way switch is then used to change the primary connection when the line voltage normal is considerable. This should normally be necessary only once each day when the heavy evening load follows the smaller fluctuations.

Getting Improved Tone From Old Style Radio The tone quality of the old style radio set, with its small and inefficient transformers, can be materially improved by one or more simple and relatively inexpensive changes.

Recently some interesting experiments along this line were undertaken by the Durbler Condenser Corporation's laboratory staff. Their suggestions are given as follows:

First of all, substitute a power tube for the usual 201-A tube in the last stage.

The next step is to provide a speaker filter, comprising a thirty-henry choke and a four-mfd., 400-volt filter condenser. This prevents the direct-current component from flowing through the loud-speaker windings, eliminates demagnetization and improves volume as well as quality.

A 0.02 to .006-mfd. micadon may be placed across the loud speaker, to lower the apparent tone and to reduce static background.

Lastly, a tone—no volume—control should be made up of three micadons of .0005, .001 and .0015-mfd. capacity, respectively, with a three-point switch, shunted across the secondary of the second transformer.

How Long Do You Listen in on Radio Programs? Time as an element which has to be considered in the production of power equipment for radio operation is really a vital factor, according to the National Electrical Manufacturers' association.

A recent survey made by the socket power committee of their radio division, based on the per cent of listeners using radio receivers in excess of any given number of hours per week, shows that about 1-10 of 1 per cent of all radio listeners use a set in excess of 140 hours each week; 1 per cent in excess of 100 hours, 10 per cent in excess of 50 hours, 30 per cent in excess of 45 hours, 50 per cent in excess of 35 hours, and 80 per cent in excess of 30 hours.

Cat's-Whisker Tuning Solves Fan's Problem A St. Louis radio fan has discovered that his crystal set is capable of bringing in either two local stations by a very careful adjustment of his cat's whisker.

His discovery was made during a recent fight broadcast, which he was extremely anxious to hear from KSD, but suffered interference from another station which was transmitting a religious program, the management being opposed to the broadcasting of prize fights. Careful manipulation of the dials was of no avail. However, the listener found that by readjusting his crystal detector the fight was heard perfectly.

Should Be Fully Charged Here's a tip for radio fans. If for any reason a storage "A" battery of the lead plate type is to be stored away for some time it should be fully charged and the electrolyte removed. The electrolyte may later be poured in the battery charged and put into operation.

Protect From Dust and Dirt A set mounted on a panel and not in a cabinet allows the entire system to be exposed to the ordinary dust and dirt of the air. Such a set should be inspected, especially around the condenser plates, which generally collect 90 per cent of this dust and dirt, thereby greatly cutting down the efficiency of the condenser.

Soldering Wiring connections in a radio receiver should be soldered to insure a perfect electrical joint. This is particularly true in circuits carrying radio-frequency currents. Soldering also serves as a means of making a permanent connection and preventing loose joints which cause noises and loss of signals.

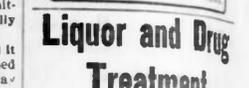

Test for Headphones A very simple test for phones is to wet the tips and then touch them together. A distinct click should be heard in the phones. This is due to the small voltage generated by the contact. If this click is not heard the phones are not very sensitive.

MATERIAL increases in wages were granted in the year 1927 by various boards of arbitration under an Act of Congress providing for arbitration as the method of settling wage disputes.

In 1926 the "North Western" system lines employed 56,237 individuals whose aggregate wages were $93,026,264. This amount was distributed over a large territory, briefly stated as follows:

Illinois	$23,872,164
Wisconsin	26,005,004
Michigan	3,393,241
Minnesota	9,326,249

Total	$93,026,264

In addition the "North Western" system in 1926 paid for materials and supplies, including fuel and equipment, $39,425,591. A very large proportion of this money was paid out by various companies to their employees in the form of wages.

The "North Western" system also paid taxes in 1926 to the nine states in which it operates in the amount of $8,212,027, and to the Federal Government in the amount of $2,340,364.

COOLING CREAM OR MILK!

Just as necessary as producing clean milk, is the need of immediate cooling. After milk is taken from the cow there is a short period during which bacteria does not multiply, but after that it will spoil in a few hours. If cooled to seventy degrees no bacteria will grow for about six hours. When cooled at once to fifty degrees milk will keep several days. Never mix a warm batch with cold milk. Before mixing, cool to the same temperature. Don't cover cans until cooled. Then keep them closed.

Never Drench Cattle

It's Dangerous

Here's the Prescription that SAVED the $50,000 Bull LAXOTONIC And Here's What the Owner Himself Says:

"DR. DAVID ROBERTS, Waukesha, Wis.
Dear Dr. Roberts:
"I thought you would be interested to know that my Holstein sire, Sir Pieterje Ormsby Mercedes 37th, has fully recovered from his attack of paralysis of the bowels.
"You may not know that this bull was held for ten days without an action of the bowels in spite of the fact that we had given him ten pounds of salts and two quarts of raw flaxseed oil without effect. Of course we thought it was constipation and treated him as such, never thinking of paralysis of the bowels until you arrived and examined him and pronounced it that. Your statements at that time decided me to always treat stoppage of the bowels as though it were paralysis and not constipation, for as you say the treatment for paralysis will overcome both constipation and paralysis. That has been proven to me.
"When I think of your little 50c box of Laxotonic saving this $50,000 bull I cannot help but feel that it is too bad that all cattle owners and breeders do not know of your valuable preparations, as well as your wonderful skill in the treatment of cattle troubles so clearly demonstrated in saving this animal. I want you to know that I appreciate the prompt attention that you gave this bull, in spite of the fact that the weather was below zero and the roads were drifted and he was 150 miles from you. You will please find enclosed my check to cover your account.
Yours very truly, (Signed) John Erickson."
