

Incubating and Brooding Chicks

Farmers' Bulletin Outlines Best Procedure in Raising Chickens.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
More than 100,000,000 pullets are needed yearly to take the place of the mature hens retired from the flocks and marketed because they have passed their prime as egg producers. It is estimated that there are more than 300,000,000 hens in the United States on farms and in poultry plants, or an allowance of nearly three hens working for each man, woman and child in the country.

To prepare for more efficient hatching and brooding of next year's crop of chicks the United States Department of Agriculture has issued Farmers' Bulletin No. 1538-F, "Incubation and Brooding of Chickens," which brings up to date the best procedure and supersedes earlier bulletins Nos. 1363-F and 1379-F. It may be obtained by applying to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Hatch Chicks Early.
In particular, farmers and poultry specialists are urged to hatch chicks early in order to bring pullets to the laying age in time to supply the autumn market when egg prices are highest, that is, between late August and January 1, after which the general run of pullets and hens are usually and prices drop to what is usually the low point of the year in April. The use of the incubator and brooder is recommended as the most economical and labor-saving way of reproducing the flock, and also the most certain means of insuring an early hatch. Another advantage of early hatching is that it allows the cockerels more time to build good bodies and cover them with meat. This is true whether they are sold on the generally high-priced July market as broilers, or are held for marketing as roasters for the Thanksgiving and Christmas season markets. "One of the great troubles with the marketing of poultry in the United States," the bulletin says, "is the excessive number of immature, scrawny chickens sent to market. Early hatching will do a great deal to counteract this condition, because the cockerels will have a longer season in which to build a proper frame, and then will have some time to put on a finish."

Careful Egg Selection.
For hatching, a careful selection of eggs is important from the standpoint of profit and for improvement of the stock. The male breeders should be placed in the pens a month before eggs are to be saved. Eggs should be gathered frequently to prevent chilling. All eggs for hatching should be uniform in shape and size, sound in shell and of good size—no eggs weighing less than two ounces should be used. Eggs deteriorate rather rapidly if held longer than five days, and none should be saved for incubation more than ten days.

A new practice advised in this bulletin deals with cooling the eggs during incubation. It has usually been the custom to cool the eggs daily until close to hatching time. The previous bulletin on incubation advised this. "Recently," says the bulletin, "this practice has been discarded generally and seems to be necessary only when the temperature of the incubator has been a little high."

Another new feature is the greater attention paid to the use of electricity in heating incubators and brooders. Particular attention is paid to sanitation in both processes, and it is emphasized that it is well to place brooder coops on different land each year. After a season of use the coops should be removed and the ground cropped and cultivated for a year before it is used again for rearing young chickens.

Other sections give detailed advice as to the details of incubation, the proper location of incubators and brooders, the treatment preferred when hens are used for hatching and brooding, the day-old chick industry, and the care of chicks after the brooding season.

Barnyard Underworld Is Seen on New U. S. Film

The pests and parasites which menace live stock and threaten the welfare of farm families are exposed in their sinister roles in the new United States Department of Agriculture educational motion picture, "The Barnyard Underworld."

The new film, one reel in length, tells the story of a slipshod farmer and his insanitary barnyard. His live stock fall victim to the attacks of disease-breeding worms, mites and lice which infest the sanctuary his carelessness has provided for them. A veterinarian orders a thorough raid upon the haunts of these creatures of the "barnyard underworld" which threaten disaster to the farmer. A general clean-up, disinfecting and rebuilding campaign follows and in the end the farmer reaps the rewards of his vigilance. There is also a thread of romance in the story.

Copies of United States Department of Agriculture films are available for loan without charge other than the cost of transportation, which must be assumed by the borrowers. Prospective users of the film should apply for bookings to the Office of Motion Pictures, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Sweet Clover Furnishes Early Pasture for Stock

Sweet clover furnishes pasture two weeks earlier than common grass and all classes of live stock soon learn to like it. It is especially well suited as a pasture crop for cattle and sheep. Horses do well on it and hogs may be pastured advantageously providing a small grain ration is given and there is sufficient amount of stock grazing such as sheep and cattle to keep it down. Sweet clover not only starts early in the spring but continues through the hot dry months when other pastures are likely to be short.

BIG-HITCH DEMONSTRATIONS OF INTEREST TO THE N. W. FARMERS

Use of Larger Power Units Becoming Quite Popular.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
"Several of our better farmers are working 8, 9, 10, and 12-horse teams, driving them with one pair of lines and actually doing more work than two, and in some cases three, men were doing before."

This comment, received by the United States Department of Agriculture from W. R. Hauser, live stock specialist in South Dakota, is typical of numerous reports pointing out the practical value of big-team hitches. Demonstrations on the use of these large power units for keeping down the cost of crop production have become an unusually popular live stock extension project. Twenty-four big-team-hitch demonstrations in South Dakota last fall were witnessed by a total attendance of approximately 4,000 farmers. In Minnesota 53 similar demonstrations were held late last summer in 26 counties, the total attendance being more than 5,500. F. W. Peck, director of agricultural extension in Minnesota, says that several hundred observers already have obtained the necessary equipment and implements for using big-team hitches on their farms.

The successful use of big-team hitches involves the arrangement of horses partly in tandem for the purpose of avoiding side draft and for simplicity in driving. Experience is demonstrating that the big teams which have been used principally, in the past, for operating large harvesting equipment in the Northwest can be adapted to conditions in the corn belt and other regions having extensive fields. Big teams are especially adapted for plowing, disking, harrowing, and harvesting.

Agricultural Notes

German miller can be seeded successfully any time up to the Fourth of July.

A legume in the rotation increases yield and protein content. The extra margin is profit.

Rust is the enemy of garden tools. It not only wears out the tools but interferes with efficient work.

Don't fail to clean up and whitewash the barns. The white walls make the barn seem lighter and larger, and the work is easier in a clean well-lighted barn.

In bearing and neglected orchards where the presence of fire blight or blight canker is suspected, it is advisable to disinfect and paint all wounds two inches or more in diameter.

A distinct trend among farm power users which is becoming apparent is to add a small tractor of the so-called garden size for odd jobs around the farm.

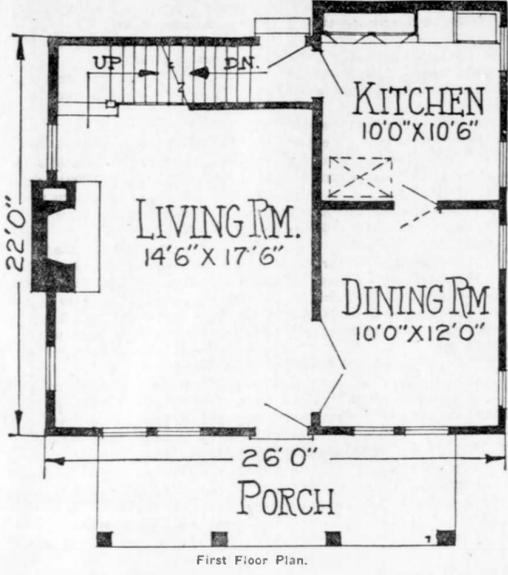

The use of sprayers has been greatly extended among potato growers, following the startling results obtained by 300 and 400 bushel potato club members.

Cultivating a field year after year burns out the humus, and then see what happens. Every big rain, or the melting snow of spring, takes away some of the surface soil.

A good fanning mill, in the hands of a careful man, will last more than 20 years. The spare time in winter can be used to no better advantage than in cleaning up the seed grain.

In those sections where alfalfa is an unqualified success, soy-bean hay should not be looked upon as a crop for the regular rotation but considered more as a catch crop to be used in case of winter killing of the alfalfa.

Attractive Design That Provides for Long Neglected Open Porch

By W. A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only include two-cent stamp for reply.

The decline, during the past few years, of the old-fashioned open porch has been a cause for regret on the part of far more people than one might imagine. Those who have felt this lack are always delighted when they see a design which provides an open porch, and they are prophesying that the near future will see a considerable amount of remodeling activity to provide porches, when the present fad has run its course. Another type of design that is all too rare is the really small house which is attractive and possessed of real architectural merit.

Here we have illustrated a home which combines both of these unusual qualifications. Here is a wide porch extending across the entire front of a simple but charming cottage home. This porch supplies an outdoor living room which will be much enjoyed by the owners during the many months of fine weather which are usual in most parts of this country. Its architectural treatment is just what is required to "make" this little house in the matter of appearance.

The house itself is a simple, gable-roof type, set on a nearly square foundation and with the first floor line almost at grade level. The foundation dimensions are but 26 feet in width and 22 feet in depth, but a surprising amount of space is provided within these dimensions. The front entrance opens directly into a large living room, 14½ by 17½ feet, with a fireplace at one side and the stairway at the far end leading to the second floor directly from the living room. The other side of the house is devoted to an ample dining room and compact modern kitchen, off which is the rear entrance and basement stairway. On the second floor we find two large bedrooms and bath, each bedroom provided with a large closet, while there is still another closet in the hall.

Wallboard Has Many Uses in Modern Home

Wallboard of good quality is valuable in home construction and remodeling from many standpoints.

Its ease of handling makes it particularly valuable to the handy man who does his own alteration work, while insulating and fireproofing qualities of the various wallboard types are now recognized by builders as offering economical but effective methods for new home construction.

Wood fiber, sugar cane fiber, gypsum and asbestos are the chief materials used in wallboard manufacture, and the various types of boards in which these materials predominate are valuable from differing standpoints. Those in which wood fiber and sugar cane fiber are the main constituents have excellent insulating qualities and their usual rough-textured surface forms a good bond when they are used as a plaster base for a wall.

Gypsum and asbestos wallboards, on the other hand, are usually so manufactured that they are fire-resistant or fireproof, and will effectively protect wood framing members from fire. Patented clinching fasteners are now available, so that they can be installed without marring the surface with nail holes, and the joints can be filled with special plasters or covered with wood battens.

Modernizing an attic or basement or lining a garage to protect the car from cold becomes a pleasant evening pursuit, and considerable value is added to the home through the use of convenient wallboard types of those small but effective improvements.

Wall Treatment
What might pass unnoticed in a more spacious residence often draws attention in the smaller, more compact home. Walls are closer, hence their carefully studied treatment is most important.

Lighted Mirror
An electrically lighted mirror for the bathroom places the light exactly where it is needed for shaving, and is a convenience appreciated by the men of the household.

Crudely Split "Shakes" First Colonial Shingles

While siding and shingle exterior coverings for homes did not strictly originate in this country, being largely modifications of existing methods brought over by the early-settler artisans, the availability of the materials and suitability to native architectures give houses sheathed in siding or shingles a distinctly American flavor.

Houses covered with rough-hewn siding boards, or clapboards, and crudely split shakes, or shingles, directly succeeded the first log cabins of the early colonists in this country. These materials have been refined by improved methods of manufacture into types which are individually appropriate to the variations of modern colonial architecture and to the architectures of other countries in American adaptations.

Cedar and pine and other durable native woods are used in modern manufacture of shingles and siding, which are frequently stained to enhance their appearance and resistance to weather. Wood siding and shingles have increased their value in themselves, increasing comfort and fuel economy in the winter and keeping the house cool in summer.

Concealed Bed Solves Small House Problem

The concealed bed is a ready solution to the problem confronting householders whose needs have grown beyond the capacity of their homes or where, for any reason, it may be desirable to utilize a living or dining apartment for sleeping purposes.

The beds are made in several types and for various methods of installation. The most familiar is probably the closet type, which swings upright and around into a closet when not in use. Instead of a closet, a hallway or a smaller room may be used, and when the bed is lowered, may form a convenient dressing-room.

The roller type of bed is an independent unit which rolls about on large casters, and may be placed in an ordinary closet. A counter-balancing mechanism holds the bed upright without chance of toppling.

Radio Shrieks, Howls About to Be Banished

Scientific achievement will banish heterodyne shrieks and howls from the radio broadcast band and eventually permit the smooth operation of hundreds of broadcasting stations without interference.

This forecast was made recently by O. H. Caldwell, acting head of the federal radio commission, who declared that for 1928 many interesting possibilities present themselves.

"One of the solutions of the chaos problem will come through single side-band transmission, reducing by one-half the necessary 10 kilocycle separation of stations and permitting effective operation of practically twice as many stations," Caldwell said.

"To explain: The wave which carries the music from a broadcasting station vibrates like a tuning fork approximately 4,000 cycles on each side of the zero of the frequency—it takes up a channel space of 8,000 cycles. When the channels overlap there is interference.

"Single side-band transmission means a reduction of the vibration on but one side of the zero of the frequency."

Caldwell said that progress in the study of practical use of this form of transmission brings the possibility of its use by broadcasting stations.

This does not mean that twice the present 600 stations could operate without interference, but that double the number could operate effectively, or probably 800 might be accommodated in the broadcast band between 500 and 1,500 kilocycles with proper time division.

Caldwell sees possibilities in the broadcasting of chain programs on three or four frequencies instead of 10 to 20 that are used now. This is a technical problem, involving building of broadcasting equipment in which the transmitting frequency may be shifted with facility. The radio commission will not limit chain broadcasting, but Caldwell believes broadcasters may themselves become convinced of its practicability.

The advertising value of radio time would not be reduced by chain broadcasting on a limited number of channels, according to Caldwell. This factor will have a conclusive bearing upon adoption of the new system.

New Method for Cutting Crystals; May Clear Air

The federal radio commission has heard that a new method has been found for cutting crystals which gives them greater accuracy in keeping stations on their assigned waves. If the report is true, it is believed that a lot of interference to broadcast reception may be prevented.

Here is a letter from Commissioner O. H. Caldwell to Commander O'Herlin, of the Naval Research Laboratory, asking for information.

"Indirectly I have learned of some very significant discoveries which have been made in your radio laboratories on methods of preparing piezo-electric crystals, by grinding them with respect to their molecular axes, so that:

"1. Resulting piezo-electrical crystals have definite and uniform temperature coefficient.

"2. Comparatively large amounts of energy can be taken directly from the crystal so prepared (power up to 50 watts direct).

"If I am as above correctly informed about these developments they will be of the greatest importance in solving the present problem of frequency stabilization in the broadcasting field.

"On behalf of the radio commission and in the interest of the millions of listeners whose reception is now spoiled chiefly by the wandering of stations from their channels I am asking if it will not be possible to make available without delay full information as to the methods of preparing these crystals, so that the radio industry and broadcasters may promptly take advantage of these improved methods."

Very Simple Matter to Build Receiving Set

Any amateur who knows how to handle a screw driver and how to bend a piece of wire with a pair of pliers can build a receiving set. The soldering of the connections is reduced to its simplest expression because the wires used and the terminals on all the apparatus are tinned and the soldering, if required, is no difficulty worth mentioning. It is not necessary to have a knowledge to read diagrams of hook-ups. To build any standard circuit, full size drawings are furnished showing plainly the place each part occupies in the assembly and the various wires connected to each one.

What the Click Means

A click should be audible in the loud speaker when the plug is inserted in the jack. The click shows that the "B" battery current is reaching the plates of the tubes. Broken transformer wires or bent prongs on the contacts are generally the cause of the signal not reaching the plates.

Emergency Antenna

An emergency antenna can be arranged by winding about 50 turns of bell wire around the post of a telephone, attaching the end to the antenna post on the receiver.

Best Wood for Loud Speaker

Balsa wood, from which the newest type of radio loud-speaker is made, is the lightest wood known, weighing only a third as much as cork. It can easily be indented with the fingernail.

Shut Off Current

Don't attempt to clean the "B" battery eliminator with the A. C. current turned on.

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Bayer Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If it says Bayer, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it's not! Headaches are dispelled by Bayer Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Bayer—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Makes for Increase in Grain Production

A newly invented German machine, designed to do for occidental grain fields what Chinese coolie labor has done for centuries in the rice fields of the East, is attracting considerable attention on the part of British agriculturists. Instead of sowing seed like an ordinary grain drill, it sets out sprouted and rooted seedlings at the rate of 12,000 plants an hour, one to every square foot. It is asserted that this method of raising grain requires only one-thirtieth as much seed as now used, and that it will yield from three to five times as many bushels to the acre. This is said to be the result of the greater freedom each plant has to develop a more vigorous root growth beneath the soil, and, especially to tiller, or "stool out," above its base. From thirty to forty stalks a plant are usually developed.

New Idea in Football

The fame of the Shoelers Wonders football team of the Presbyterian orphanage at Lynchburg, Va., is spreading fast. The orphanage team possesses only one football shoe, discarded by the Lynchburg high school. This shoe is used by the player who does the kicking and as soon as the pigskin starts flying through the air, the shoe is discarded. "You couldn't put shoes on those kids if you wanted to," says Dr. William Meginson, superintendent of the orphanage. "I believe that the reason they win so many games is that their opponents make fun of their bare feet and try to step on them. This makes them mad; they dig their toes in and plow through."

If Back Hurts Flush Kidneys

Drink Plenty of Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.
Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Clever Trick Worked

A New Yorker opened a new restaurant in West Forty-fourth street, but not many persons were aware of the fact. So he bought the largest goldfish bowl he could find, filled it with water and placed it in his window with this placard over it: "Invisible fish from Illo de Janeiro." The police have frequently had to drive away the pedestrians who gathered before the window in an endeavor to see the invisible fish. One man tapped on the glass and shook his hat in an attempt to bring the fish out where he could get a better view.

Anthem Regulations

The leader of the Marine band says "The Star Spangled Banner" should never be played as a medley with other songs. At least two bars must elapse before playing "The Star Spangled Banner." Important Announcement to every owner of a Model T Ford

ON MAY 25, 1927, when Henry Ford first announced his plans for making a new car, he announced also that he would continue to make parts for the Model T Ford. He said:

"The Model T Ford car was a pioneer. It blazed the way for the motor industry and started the movement for good roads everywhere. It broke down the barriers of distance in rural sections, brought people in these sections closer together, and placed education within the reach of everyone. We are still proud of the Model T Ford. If we were not, we would not have continued to make it so long."

For twenty years, the Model T Ford led the automobile industry and it still serves more people than any other automobile. Over one-third of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords—an indication of the sturdy worth of the car and its value to people in all walks of life the world over.

The Ford Motor Company will continue to make replacement parts for these cars "until the last Model T is off the road." That is a part of Ford service. That is what Henry Ford meant when he said: "We believe that when a man buys one of our cars we should keep it running for him as long as we can and at the lowest up-keep cost."

Because of this policy a considerable part of the Ford manufacturing plants is given over to the making of parts for the Model T Ford. These replacement parts are made of the same material and in the same way as those from which your car was originally assembled.

Make it a point, therefore, to see the nearest Ford dealer and have him look over your Model T Ford. You may find that a very small expenditure will enable you to get thousands of miles of additional service, and at the same time protect the money you have invested in your car.

Badger State Happenings

Rhineland—Paul Witowski, 12-year-old son of an Oneida county farmer, shot a large lynx that had been chased into a clearing near the Witowski home by dogs.

Racine—When a 15-year-old boy went to hear a morning sermon at St. Joseph's church he fell asleep and didn't awaken until 11 o'clock that night, when he was found by police who had been informed of the boy's disappearance by a frantic mother.

Poyntette—During the last 20 years William S. Jellings has saved more than 5,000,000 board feet of lumber for farmers around Poyntette. There are 370 such portable and small stationary sawmills in the state, so it can readily be seen that the amount of lumber that is produced by the Wisconsin farm woodlots is still a large item.

Rhineland—Rhineland saloon keepers who are convicted of violating the city liquor ordinance will automatically lose their license to sell non-intoxicating beverages, according to a decision of the city council. Notice of revocation of the license will be served by the city manager as soon as the violator is sentenced by the court.

Madison—Wisconsin usually has between 100 and 200 cases of sleeping sickness yearly, according to the state board of health. A recent census of sleeping sickness cases taken by the medical school of the University of Wisconsin showed that physicians throughout the state reported 846 cases of the malady that are being treated at the present time.

Madison—A crease increases for grain crops and decreases in hay and spring wheat are reported by Walter H. Ebling, agricultural statistician of the government crop reporting service. This information is contained in estimates sent in by crop reporters. The largest increase will be in barley, which will increase about 15 per cent. A 12 cent increase in potatoes appears likely.

Oshkosh—J. M. Smick's long-lost cannon was returned to his front lawn as mysteriously as it disappeared from its base there last July 5. The cannon, which weighs more than 200 pounds, was dumped on the lawn late at night by shrouded figures who drove an enclosed automobile with drawn curtains. Smick was unable to give any reason for the gun's disappearance or its return.

Rhineland—Oneida county is considering a proposition to join several northern Wisconsin counties in the erection of a workhouse at some central point where prisoners could be placed at work in the manufacture of merchandise. The county board has appointed a committee to investigate the project. Judge A. H. Reid of the sixteenth judicial circuit, consisting of Oneida, Vilas, Lincoln and Marathon counties, is sponsoring the movement.

Madison—Investigation and public hearings must precede the establishment of a wild life refuge by the state conservation commission. Attorney General John W. Reynolds informed the commission in an opinion. The commission may make orders prohibiting hunting or fishing on an established refuge, he stated, and violation of a commission regulation is punishable by a fine of from $25 to $100, by imprisonment up to a term of six months, or both fine and imprisonment.

Green Lake—Two displays of the European corn borer exhibited at the farm institutes at Markesan and Berlin attracted considerable attention from corn growers in these sections and gave to most of the men their first view of the pest that threatens corn production. The mounts have been distributed by the United States department of agriculture to county agents throughout the corn producing areas of the country. The borer, about three fourths of an inch long, and of a gray color, is shown embedded in stalks of corn in the same manner that it is found in real life.

Eau Claire—Atty. H. R. Gilbertson, after pleading guilty in circuit court here to a charge of embezzlement of fines while acting as municipal judge following the death of the late Judge Henry McInnis a year ago, was sentenced by Judge James Wickham to state prison for two to four years. Judge Wickham sentenced Gilbertson also to two to four years for a statutory offense of which the attorney had been convicted by a jury earlier last week. The sentences are to run concurrently. The amount of the alleged embezzlement to which the prisoner pleaded guilty was $1,031.

Waupaca—Waupaca county farmers are circulating a dozen or more petitions in the county asking that the office of county agent be re-established. The petitions will be presented to the Waupaca county board at its spring meeting.

Milwaukee—Two kind strangers who offered to help Frank Fischer load his household goods on a moving van, led to his undoing. Among his "household goods" was a 50 gallon still. The strangers were prohibition agents.

Janesville—Willis Dodge, 96, one of the oldest residents of Rock and Walworth counties, who drove a stage coach on the Janesville-Bacine line before the Civil war, died at Avalon, 10 miles from here. He claimed a record in having attended the Walworth county fair every year for the last 75 years.

Fond du Lac—Federal padlocks were hung on the doors of the Blue Room cafe and the Eagle Inn, two of five Fond du Lac places raided by government dry agents early in January.

Loyal—Leo Botzen was fined $50 in district court on a charge of violating the game laws. Officers testified he had 24 muskrat skins in his possession when arrested.

Ripon—As a result of demonstrations on the use of commercial fertilizers and information given out at fall and winter meetings, amounts of the commercial material that will be used on Green Lake county farms in 1928 will show at least a 50 per cent increase over that of any other season.

Oshkosh—Official permission to substitute 15 motor busses for most of the street cars still doing duty here is being sought from the commission council. The Wisconsin Power & Light Co. proposed no changes in transfers or fares. This proposal would take all tracks off downtown Main street at the repaving this summer.

Madison—Forty applications to enter 65,000 acres of cut-over land in northern Wisconsin to development under the new forest crop law have been received by the state conservation commission, C. L. Harrington, superintendent of parks and forests, reported here. The major part of the land is owned by large lumbering concerns.

Madison—Instructions to county judges on the issuance of new drivers' licenses for children between 14 and 16 years will soon be sent out by the department of state. The legislature in its second special session authorized extension of the drivers' license to certain children. Upon the request of their parents and approval of a county judge.

Merrill—When Irving Wilson, Plainfield resident, was brought into court here recently in connection with a forgery charge, it was revealed that he is the father of 15 children, including three pairs of twins. Wilson is 33. In addition to being "daddy" to his own numerous progeny, Wilson is a grandfather.

Madison—The state highway commission at a recent meeting approved a bill now pending in congress drafted by Congressman E. E. Brown, providing a share for Wisconsin of $9,116,250 as federal highway aid from sale of surplus war supplies to the French government. The aid, if obtained, may be applied on state trunk highways and interstate federal systems and would be available if the state appropriated a sum equal to 20 per cent of the federal grant.

Reedsburg—Six federal prohibition officers in a raid seized 300 gallons of alcohol, three stills with a total capacity of 2,700 gallons, and a total of $40,000 in equipment at the Collins dog farm near here. Officers believe they have discovered a Wisconsin oasis which has been supplying Chicago with illicit liquor for the past several months. Besides the alcohol, 69,000 gallons of mash were found in a large two-story outbuilding, evidently used as the distillery. The raid, which is one of the largest in the history of prohibition enforcement in Wisconsin, was headed by Ray Nye, federal prohibition officer at Madison, Sheriff W. H. Ode and Deputy W. H. McLeish, Baraboo, assisted the federal officers.

Racine—A fight to prove the state gasoline tax illegal on the ground that it is discriminatory and unconstitutional was started by the city government of Racine. Resolutions authorizing the city attorney to take any court action he sees fit was referred to the common council's committee as a whole. It is almost certain that they will be passed at the next regular meeting. The resolutions were drawn up after receipt by the council of an opinion by City Attorney Martin R. Paulson holding that the gas tax law was illegal for ten different reasons. Chief among these he claimed was the fact that "it operates as a denial of constitutional guarantees of equal protection of the laws" and is not uniform in operation.

Milwaukee—Market quotations: Butter—Creamery, fresh extras, tuba, 48c; extra firsts, 46@47c. Cheese—Twins, 22@22½; daisies, 22¼@23c; young Americas, 23@23½; brick, 23@23½; Limburger, 25@25½. Eggs—Fresh gathered farms, 29@29½. Poultry—Fowls, 26@26½; springers, 35c; old roosters, 19c; turkeys, 28@30c; ducks, 26@30c; geese, 16@18c. Potatoes—Wisconsin, sacked white, cwt, $2.00@2.10. Appleton—Three hundred and eight foremen from Fox River valley industries were awarded certificates to show they had completed a year's safety work. D. D. Fenhill, Chicago, said the reason for so many accidents was the American tendency to take a chance.

Waukesha—George D. Puffer, 74, a resident here since 1891 and for many years prominent in the butter and cheese industry in the state, died at his home after a long illness.

Tomahawk—Several thousand small trees from the state nursery at Trout Lake and several hundred trees from Bradley park here will be planted on the property fronting on the Wisconsin river this year under the direction of the reforestation committee of the local Kiwanis club.

Oceola—Herman Getkin, 35, died from the effects of burns received when a heating stove, by which he was standing, exploded. Getkin had put soft coal in the stove and evidently did not open the draft.

SENATE COAL PROBE TO HEAR OPERATORS

West Virginia and Ohio Mine Owners Called; Quiz May Continue Two Weeks.

Washington—A broad view of operating conditions in the coal industry of the United States is contemplated by the senate committee on interstate commerce which has summoned to its coal probe many mine owners and managers, chiefly from Ohio and West Virginia. It is indicated that the investigation will be continued for at least two weeks.

Indiana and Illinois mine operators are divided over action following expiration of wage agreements April 1. A meeting of Illinois owners has been called for April 25 in Chicago to adopt a plan of action.

Among those summoned to the senate investigation are: W. H. Coolidge, chairman of the Island Creek Coal company, West Virginia; George Wolfe, Beckley; Josiah Kelley, Kayford; James Elwood Jones, Poca; Lee Ott, Charleston; J. G. Bradley, Dundon; D. W. Boone and James D. Boone, of Lookout; A. C. Wood, Fairmont; all of West Virginia. H. T. Wilson, Columbus, Ohio, and R. H. Cross, of Boston, Railroad officials have also been summoned.

George M. Jones, Toledo millionaire and one of the largest coal operators in the Middle West fields, has accepted telegraphic service of a subpoena.

Washington—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., laid before the senate coal investigation committee a new plan to solve the bituminous coal problem. It differs completely from the method the committee is pursuing.

He urged legislation permitting coal companies to consolidate to curb overproduction. He upheld the principle of "collective bargaining" between operators and miners.

It was multi-millionaires' session, with Rockefeller and Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, and R. B. Mellon, brother of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, as witnesses. All stressed the industry's trouble as overproduction.

Rockefeller, differing with the committee's procedure of calling operators, nine union officials and miners before it, suggested this plan:

Have the senate committee meet with the operators and settle the problem of overproduction. Then call in the representatives of the coal-carrying railroads and work out a solution of the transportation problem.

Next call in the distributors of coal and get their advice on distribution problems.

Last, but most important, having reached this stage, call in the representatives of the miners and work out a fair and just solution of contracts and wages.

Rockefeller was being quizzed by T. C. Townsend, union counsel, on the Consolidation Coal company of West Virginia, in which Rockefeller holds the stock control.

Rockefeller had denied the Consolidation had broken its contract with the miners, explaining the mine had been forced to close because of losses, and later reopened after reaching an agreement with employees.

It was then explained that the committee's purpose in calling Rockefeller and Schwab was to get the viewpoint of the "big men" in the coal industry on some solution of the problem.

R. B. Mellon of Pittsburgh told the committee the Mellon family did not hold a controlling interest in the Pittsburgh Coal company. He approved the company action in terminating the miners' wage agreement and operating an open shop "because the company was losing a lot of money."

Mr. Schwab denied union charges that he was party to an alleged wholesale conspiracy to destroy the United Mine Workers of America.

He declared the government should permit industry to effect consolidation for the public good. "I think it is a bad situation when 500 mines in central Pennsylvania are operating when ten could do the work. Consolidation would help immensely."

Biggest War Memorial Grove to Be Dedicated

Philadelphia.—The largest World War memorial grove in the country will be completed in Philadelphia and dedicated next May, when 100 additional oak trees will be planted in the Memorial grove, near Belmont mansion, West Fairmount park. The committee was organized in May, 1925, and during May, 1926, four acres were purchased, 170 trees planted and the grove dedicated to the memory of the great sacrifice of Pennsylvania men and women who died in the service of the United States and the allied armies of the World war.

$225,000,000 TAX CUT IS TO BE MAXIMUM

President Coolidge and Mellon Agree on Reduction.

Washington.—Despite a gain in March income tax collections thus far over 1927 figures, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has expressed the opinion that there will still be a smaller margin of revenues for tax reduction this year because of appropriations being made by congress.

The daily treasury statement showing the total of income tax collections up to March 29 gave $385,054,469 as having been received at the treasury since midnight March 15, whereas, for the same period last year a total of $358,504,665 had been cashed. This maintains 1928 collections at over $6,500,000 in excess of last year. A few days ago, however, the excess was about $18,000,000.

In March of last year the treasury collected $516,000,000 in income tax payable in the first quarter, and was able to estimate the total collections for the year on that basis. It had been expected that the first quarter 1928 collections would not reach this figure, but if they do it is regarded as an indication that business conditions throughout the country are more favorable than various surveys have indicated.

Revenues from income tax, both personal and corporation returns, will net the treasury this year in the neighborhood of $2,165,000,000, it has been revealed.

Secretary Mellon is of the belief that even though 1928 collections approximate those of last year, there is no hope of more than moderate tax reduction. Both Secretary Mellon and President Coolidge have set the maximum of reduction at $225,000,000. President Coolidge has already let it be known that he feels congress should now withhold all but highly important appropriations if this cut is to be realized.

Former Municipal Court Judge Is Counterfeiter

Chicago.—John Stelk, a Chicago municipal court judge from 1914 to 1920, was found guilty by a jury of counterfeiting the seal of a notary public. He faces a penalty of from one to twenty years in the penitentiary in the event his motion for a new trial is overruled. The jury disregarded the testimony of five aliens and Chief Justice Olson of the municipal court that Stelk was insane. The former judge was caught a year ago in the midst of a plot to obtain through a system of forged deeds property valued at approximately $500,000. He was arrested and indicted before he was able to make any money from his elaborate scheme.

Flaming Tree Falls on Automobile; Six Killed

Leaf, Miss.—Five school children, ranging in years from seven to fourteen, and the driver of an automobile conveying them home from school, were killed when a giant burning pine tree toppled upon the automobile, demolishing it and burning the bodies almost beyond recognition. Two other pupils were seriously burned and injured.

To Stabilize Greek Currency

Athens.—Minister of Finance Kapandareas in a speech on the budget, said the government had paid the last cent of floating debt and is making preparations to stabilize its currency.

PROSECUTOR DOUBTS OFFER TO TELL ALL

Atlee Pomerene Does Not Take Fall Seriously on Teapot Dome Proposition.

Cleveland, Ohio.—"The story Fall tells will be intended to exonerate Fall," Atlee Pomerene, former senator and special prosecutor in the oil case, said here in commenting on the statement of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall that he would "tell all" in connection with the leasing of Teapot Dome.

"Albert Fall's offer to expose everything is a ruse," Pomerene remarked. "He has been given two opportunities and has refused both times. This will not differ materially."

Washington.—Attorneys left here for El Paso, Texas, to get Mr. Fall's story, in which he has promised to "tell all" in the Teapot Dome oil case.

Washington.—Justice Jennings Bailey ordered the Harry F. Sinclair-Albert B. Fall conspiracy trial separated, stipulating that Sinclair is to be tried alone on April 4.

The wealthy oil operator and the former secretary of the interior were to have faced the court together on April 2, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease. William E. Leahy, counsel for Fall, presented affidavits to show that Mr. Fall's life would be greatly endangered by being forced to make the trip to Washington at that time. Government counsel did not oppose the postponement and moved for the separate trial, which was granted.

Fall has stated a willingness to "tell the whole truth" about the oil reserve leases in a deposition to the court, but special government counsel held this could not lawfully be used at the retrial here unless the defense requested it.

After Sinclair's trial for conspiracy in connection with his lease from Fall of Teapot Dome a little more than a week hence, the criminal litigation still to be threshed out will be:

Similar charges against Fall.

Bribery charges against Edward L. Doheny, growing out of the Elk Hills lease.

Bribery charges against Edward L. Doheny, Jr., in connection with the same transaction.

Charges of acceptance of a bribe against Fall, arising out of his lease of the Elk Hills reserve to Doheny.

Indictment against Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, for refusing to answer questions propounded by the senate investigating committee. Stewart pleaded not guilty to the indictment, March 15, and was given 20 days to prepare his attack.

Appeal of Stewart from Justice Bailey's decision upholding senate committee's right to arrest him for contempt.

Contempt proceedings against H. M. Blackmer of the Midwest Refining company for refusing to heed a subpoena seeking him as a government witness in the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy case.

Appeal of Sinclair from a three months' sentence for contempt of the senate.

Appeals of Sinclair, W. J. Burns, and W. Sherman Burns, detectives, and Henry Mason Day, Sinclair official, from their conviction of criminal contempt for shadowing the Fall-Sinclair jury. This brought about a mistrial of the case now severed.

Blackmer is one of the three important witnesses who fled the country and spurred repeated requests that they return and aid the courts and the senate investigating committee in completing the history of the celebrated oil cases. The others are H. S. Oster and James E. O'Neil.

Oster was president of the Continental Trading Company of Canada, whose overnight profits from an oil deal consummated in the United States were distributed in the form of Liberty bonds among various oil officials, including Sinclair.

The self-fabric scarf is also an outstanding feature in junior coat styling. These scarf collars are variously enhanced with tucks or self-toned embroidery or a bit of dainty fur across the scarf ends.

Young girls are also taking keen delight in coats of cloth which introduce the silk kerchief trimming. That is, a triangle print scarf of silk is attached to the coat by being drawn through slots cut in the cloth.

FRUIT SALAD

A fruit salad is always a delightful part of any meal; they not only add to the palatability but lend color and attractiveness to the table.

There are a few things to be observed in fruit salad-making. All dinner salads should be very light and the dressing on the French order. If for luncheon, cheese, whipped cream, marshmallows or nuts may be used and the salad thus forms the principal dish, for both the noon and supper meal.

Orange Sandwich Salad.—Cut large seedless oranges into one-fourth inch slices after they have been peeled. Put these together with the following mixture, forming a sandwich: Mix together one cupful of chopped canned pineapple, one-half cupful of finely diced celery, one-half of a green pepper finely shredded, moister with French dressing, using the recipe below. Place the sandwiches on crisp lettuce leaves, garnish with sliced maraschino cherries and pass more of the dressing.

Ginger Fruit Salad.—Take one cupful of canned white cherries, one cupful of diced orange, one-half cupful of preserved ginger with its syrup. Pit the cherries and mix with the other fruit, pour over the syrup and set away to chill for an hour or more. Drain well before serving and add the ginger cut into bits. Dress with a whipped cream dressing to which some of the ginger syrup is added.

Tropic Salad.—Select half as many bananas as there are guests to be served. Dice the fruit and mix with half their quantity of celery, pitted white cherries and grapefruit cut into sections. Moisten with mayonnaise and heap the fruit in the banana boats. Serve on lettuce garnished with a red cherry or with pimento cut into bits.

Many Good Things. Do not keep the meat plunk for expensive cuts of meat, but serve the cheaper meats often on it.

Make croquettes from lamb, chicken or any leftover meat and place them in the center of a hot well greased plunk. Place around these small green peppers, seeded, parboiled and filled with your creamed vegetable, cover with buttered crumbs. In between the peppers place shoestring potatoes, parboiled and cooked in fat. Bake until the whole is brown.

Sausages partly cooked to insure their being well done when the rest of the food is brown, is another good planked dish. Place the sausages in a row on the plunk, lay apple rings dipped in sausage fat, sprinkled with sugar and salt around the sausages and surround with mashed and seasoned sweet potatoes put through a ricer, or pastry tube.

Liver if fried on one side and placed cooked side down on the plunk may be served hot with timbales of spinach.

Jellied Vegetables.—Soak two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water. Pour over this one cupful of boiling water to which a half teaspoonful of beef extract or vegex has been added, add a half teaspoonful of salt and a few grains of cayenne; when the gelatin is dissolved add one tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Set this liquid over ice to stiffen, add to it one cupful of finely shredded cabbage, one green pepper shredded, and two pickled beets cut into dice. Turn into wet molds or one large one and chill. Unmold and serve with sliced cold meat.

Shrimp Cocktail.—Fresh shrimps are much to be preferred to the canned variety, but the latter are most satisfying. Place a tablespoonful of chili sauce, a dash of catsup, a drop of tabasco and a half teaspoonful of fresh horseradish in a cocktail glass with salt and a dash of pepper. Hang the shrimps around the glass and serve very cold.

Liver Loaf.—Parboil a pound of liver and chop fine. Mix with one-half pound of good sausage and one cupful of bread crumbs, then add seasoning to taste, with poultry dressing, salt, pepper and cayenne. Add one beaten egg and one-half cupful of milk and bake for forty-five minutes.

Perfection Sweets.—Pack layers of sliced cooked potatoes in a well-buttered baking dish, alternating with bits of butter and salt and thinly sliced mellow apples; sprinkle liberally with light brown sugar. Pour over a cupful of hot water and bake covered until the apples are soft, then uncover and brown. Dot with marshmallows and when golden brown serve.

WESTERN GIRL STRENGTHENED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Manchester, So. Dakota.—"I was in a terribly weak and run-down condition when a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it and after a short time I felt better. We are a family of five and live on a 360-acre farm, so I have quite a good deal to do both indoors and out. At first I was unable to do anything and had to have a girl, but after taking the Vegetable Compound I finally gained my strength back and also gained considerable in weight. I will gladly answer letters from women in regard to your medicine."—Mrs. Otto J. Gezer, R. F. D. 1, Box 20, Manchester, So. Dakota.

Apple Monuments. A well-known monument to apples, in the form of a pillar, was erected in 1895 at Wilmington, near Lowell, Mass., to the Baldwin apple. There is also a tablet in the town of Camillus, Onondaga county, New York, on the original site of the Primate apple tree. Another monument in New York is the monument to the Northern Spy, erected in 1912 at Bloomfield. The Wealthy apple is commemorated by a monument at Excelsior, Minn. This was unveiled in June, 1912.

The BABY. No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill. fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. It's delicious! Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's a sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea; or need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Just one warning: It is genuine Fletcher's Castoria that physicians recommend. Other preparations may be just as free from all doubtful drugs, but no child of this writer's is going to test them! Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

Gas Spoiled Sleep, Made Her Dizzy

"For years I suffered from gas and constipation. Used to get headaches and dizzy spells. The first dose of Adierika gave me relief. Now I rest well."—Mrs. B. Brinkley. Just ONE spoonful of Adierika relieves gas and that boated feeling so that you can eat and sleep well. Acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes old waste matter you never thought was there. No matter what you tried for your stomach, Adierika will surprise you.—Otto B. Graf, Kewaskum, Wis.

CHEESE MARKET

Plymouth, Wis. March 23—On the Farmer's Call Board today 685 boxes of cheese were offered for sale and all sold as follows: 585 cases of cheese at 22 cents and 100 square prints at 22 1-4 cents.

PURE FOOD AND BEST QUALITY

To the milk dealer and milk products manufacturer this means "clean milk" right from the beginning, and prompt cooling to keep it good. This is distinctly the farmers own problem. All milk is good when it comes from the cow, there is no difference commercially in the quality and purity of milk as it flows into the pail. It is then one hundred per cent good. The difference in quality comes later, if the temperature is not immediately lowered to the point where bacterial growth is retarded. All milk producers should give this matter their best attention.

Old Fences Made New At Slight Expense

IT DOESN'T take much time nowadays to keep fence lines stock-tight and in good repair. Not if you use these quick driven Red Top Steel Posts. You can drive 20 or 30 Red Tops in an hour. And the fencing is stretched in a jiffy so that it will never pull away. This means that you can get a lot of fence repaired even in odd moments. It's pretty risky business letting fence lines go hang while waiting for a time when work is slack to put them in shape. The damage to wire or chain-link can come from just one weak spot. It may be larger than the entire expense of keeping the fences in good shape. An ounce of prevention is certainly worth while here. Keep a small stock of Red Tops on hand and get one of these One-Man Drivers. Then when you see a wood post going bad simply drive a Red Top alongside, take out the wood post and fasten the fencing to the steel post. These Red Tops will stop any farm critter you've got on your place. Personally guarantee Red Tops and we are authorized to make adjustments promptly. Red Tops are not an experiment. They are a proved success and have been giving a good account of themselves in thousands of farm fence lines. We needed the Red Top line because we believe it is the best value. That's the way we try to buy all lines of goods. We expect our business to grow on the basis of giving you a full dollar's worth for every dollar you spend. Come in and see us when you're in town. Get our prices on posts and the other materials you're needing. Prices are mighty reasonable now on posts and other special items.
