WATERWORKS VOTE CARRIES FIVE TO ONE

KEWASKUM VOTES IN FAVOR OF WATERWORKS

At a special election held here on Wednesday, to decide whether or not city waterworks should be installed here, the result of the election proved that Kewaskum is unanimously in favor of it, carrying the issue by an overwhelming vote of over five to one. There were 187 votes cast of which 156 were in favor and 30 against, one blank vote was cast. Work of installing the system will be started just as soon as possible. The plant to be installed will be of the very best, latest type and model. The lowest bid received to install the plant is $64,175. The bids received on all departments of the plant will be published in a later issue of the Statesman. The contract for excavating and laying pipe will go to the Falls Construction company of Sheboygan Falls, their bid having been accepted pending the approval of the bond issue. Necessary material will be purchased by the village and a site for the pumping plant selected by the village board. An elevated reservoir will be part of the equipment. The local board has estimated that there will be at least 50 patrons to start with.

INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Christ Schaefer Jr., president of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank, was painfully injured last Saturday evening, when he was struck and knocked to the ground by a Ford touring car, driven by Erwin Radtke of the town of Kewaskum. Mr. Schaefer was on his way home from the bank at about nine o'clock, and he walked across Main street at the intersection of Fond du Lac avenue, Mr. Radtke, coming from the north on the avenue, turned down on Main street when he struck Mr. Schaefer. The latter was knocked to the ground. He sustained minor cuts on his hands and was bruised on his body. He was immediately rushed to Dr. Hausman's office where he received medical attention. While the unfortunate man was confined to his home for several days, he is now able to be around. As neither the driver of the car nor Mr. Schaefer could see one another on account of congested traffic conditions the accident was unavoidable. Mr. Radtke was driving at a low rate of speed. Mr. Schaefer wishes to thank all those who assisted at the accident and to Mr. Radtke, driver of the car for the courtesy shown to him after the accident. All is most heartily appreciated.

NEW PASTOR INSTALLED

The installation services of Rev. Gerhard Kanies, held at the Ev. Lutheran St. Lucas church last Sunday evening, were very largely attended. Rev. Aeppler of Dundee, delivered the speech, while Rev. Gustave Kanies, father of the young minister, officiated at the installation. Tomorrow, Sunday beginning at 10:00 o'clock a. m., the new minister will deliver his introductory sermon. Rev. Gerhard Kanies and wife will go to housekeeping in this village as soon as the parsonage, which is now being remodeled, is completed. This will take about two or three weeks.

Thaviu's Famous Band to Play at Fair

An event that will be welcomed by all music lovers and amusement seekers in general is the engagement of the famous Thaviu 52-piece band and grand opera pianist at the Wisconsin State Fair, Aug. 27 to Sept. 1. This year Thaviu has surrounded himself with a company of artists, whose names have been heralded this past winter as extremely prominent in grand opera in Chicago and New York. His chorus has been specially selected and highly trained and the ballet divertissements this season are out of the ordinary and attractive in the extreme. A wonderful mixed quartet will be a feature to add enjoyment to the programs. These people have a repertoire of splendid selections, ranging from operatic airs to old time melodies that captivate the senses and reach the heart strings of the public. The band itself, known all over the world, is as usual a peerless organization, directed by a man to whom good music is his daily food. It has become an American institution, and those who have heard it have learned to love it. A Thaviu program is always interesting, always high in musical value. He is a human dynamo in action and gives his audiences the very best that is in him and his band reflects the talent of the leader. A warm welcome awaits him when he makes his initial bow to the public at the State Fair on Aug. 27.

KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Another life was lost near this city as a result of an automobile accident, the man killed being George Gunder of Milwaukee, who owned and conducted a saloon at 728 Walnut street. Gunder and five of his friends, all of whom are Russian Poles, occupied a Studebaker automobile and were traveling north on their way to Cedar lake to enjoy a swim. When the auto, which was driven by Abraham Jero-genga, also of Milwaukee, had passed the Schovalter cheese factory on highway 55, about eight miles south of West Bend, the car swerved off the road and after turning over several times landed on its top. Mr. Gunder, who was rendered unconscious, was helped out of the car by his associates and as Walter Labott happened along with a sedan, the injured man was brought to West Bend. Mr. Labott states that Gunder, the top of whose head was crushed, lived but a few minutes after being placed in the car. Of the other five in the wrecked auto none were seriously injured, but some received painful cuts. Three came to this city after the accident but hurried back to their homes in Milwaukee. Wm. Laga, one of the men in the car, claims the driver of the wrecked car swerved it to allow another car to pass safely, and in so doing got off the road.
Gunder was about 48 years old, and is survived by a widow and two children.—West Bend Pilot.

DEATH OF WM. KLEINKE

William Kleinke, a well known citizen of the town of Scott, passed away in death at the Sunny View Sanitarium at Oshkosh, to which place he was taken last February, Tuesday, at 5 p. m. Cause of death being tuberculosis. Everything possible was done to save his life, but all proved futile, as his condition kept growing worse until he finally passed away. He was born August 10, 1884 in the town of Scott, Sheboygan county, Wis. On December 18, 1909 he was married to Amanda Brockhaus who with the following children survive: Alpheus, student at Concordia College, River Forest, Ill., Wilbur, Marvin, Frederick and Gladys at home. The remains were brought to the Melahn funeral parlors here, and on Wednesday taken to the home of the deceased from where the funeral was held on Friday at 1:30 p. m., with services in the St. John's Lutheran church at New Fane, Rev. Gutekunst officiated. Burial was made in the adjoining cemetery. Deceased is also survived by three brothers, Carl Kleinke of Oshkosh, Richard Kleinke of Menomonee, Mich., and Reinhold Kleinke of Fond du Lac.

Fair to Illustrate State's Lead in Dairying

State Fair Park, Wis.—"The why and wherefore" of Wisconsin's premier standing as the world's dairying mecca will be demonstrated in the graphic manner at the State Fair to be held Aug. 27 to Sept. 1.
This is the word given out by W. P. Jones, Madison, the new superintendent of the dairy division of the exposition. Mr. Jones, who is connected with the state department of markets and who is a man with many years' practical experience in the dairying and agricultural field, plans to make his phase of the State Fair a model among other similar displays.
Full emphasis will be given to Wisconsin's leadership in the raising of pure-bred dairy cattle and the production of dairy products. In contrast with the policy of the past in posting only small premiums to exhibitors, a substantial increase has been set apart for this year's displays. This course is expected to boost materially the number of farmers who will now take the time and trouble to show their cheese, butter and other products of her majesty, "Queen Dairy Cow."
Seventy-one separate prizes for the best butter and cheese on display will be distributed, while there will be district prizes for the best creamery butter, the state having been cut into eight sections for this competition. The Wisconsin Butter Makers and Cheese Makers' associations will cooperate.
J. E. Boettcher, Madison, and William Schneider, Johnson's Creek, will judge the butter exhibits; Fred Marty, Monroe, foreign cheese, and William Winder, Richland Center, and A. T. Bruhn, Spring Green, American cheese.

Cent-A-Mile Rail Rate to Fair

State Fair Park, Wis.—Special railroad rates of one cent a mile will be effective during State Fair week, Aug. 27 to Sept. 1, according to word just received by Fred C. Borchert, Jr., business manager of the exposition. For children the rate will be one-half cent a mile.

BEST CLINIC FOR KEWASKUM

Washington county will have two best clinics of the Wisconsin Anesthetics association this month of one, according to an announcement made by Miss Margaret Schilling at the city hall building on August 16, and the other will be at Siegl's hall in Geratone on August 17. These month-long clinics are financed jointly by the Board and the W. A. T. A. of the latter organization being through the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

DEATH OF BARFON WAS MURDERED

John Omeron Reinders was at the scene of the murder of Arthur Mitter of Milwaukee, who was found on Monday, July 30. The verdict was as follows:
Arthur Mitter was murdered on July 30, 1928, in the town of Bend, about 80 feet south of the public highway in Nabob, Sheboygan county, causing traumatic hemorrhages.
At the present time no clue has been as to who the guilty party was. A reward of $1000 has been offered by Sheriff Hettrich, who is the chairman of the board of supervisors for in which will lead to the arrest and conviction of the guilty party.

WATER GAME FISH OUT OF MOON LAKE

Fish will be taken in large quantities from Moon Lake in sealing which was started Friday morning. A conservation commission, which will be organized in Forestburg, near West Bend and Sheboygan and Washington counties, is at present overworked with the pickering and crappie which have been removed from the lake. When the Isaac Walton Club of Milwaukee took charge of the lake, the water was also polluted with the Moon Lake preserve. The fish, which have been released along the shore and many wood ducks, have fled from Virginia. No small fish from Virginia have been added to the game recently.

DEATH OF MRS. NICK STOFFEL

Mrs. Nick Stoffel, aged 72 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Stoffel, at the family home on Saturday, following a four day illness. Deceased was born on July 1, 1856 and is survived by a son, John, of Campbellsville, and a daughter, Mrs. L. J. Stoffel, at home and seven grandchildren. Services were held at St. Martin's church in Ashford on Sunday in the adjoining cemetery.

OTHER ONLY CHILD

John Stoffel was received at this office by Mrs. C. H. Hathaway, who had the sad misfortune to lose her only child, Newton, who passed away in Ashford on Tuesday morning. The publisher of the Statesman joins the many sympathizing friends in offering their heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

WOMEN HAVE FINE PICNIC

The Ladies' Aid of the Zion church had a very successful picnic at the home of Mrs. C. H. Stoffel, on Sunday, August 5th. The occasion was the annual picnic of the Washington County Anesthetics' association. The picnic was a success. All were very pleasing and educational and were greeted by capacity.

WOMEN HAVE FINE PICNIC

Adeline Kuster of West Bend and Mrs. C. H. Stoffel were the guests of Mrs. C. H. Stoffel on Sunday, August 5th.

DANISH MACHINISTS INVENT TRACTOR

Danish machinists have solved the problem of hauling heavy loads and artillery, on good roads and bad, at great speed. They have put on the market tractors that are capable of running at a speed of from 25 to 30 miles per hour, on sand beaches, in moors, in water, across ditches, through hedges and wherever it is impossible for a light car to pass. The photograph shows a tractor going up a steep hill.

McKechnie Looks Like Winner

WILLIAM MCKECHNIE, boss of the St. Louis Cardinals, is a living proof of the old adage that he who laughs last gathers no moss. For Bill, forced by Barney Dreyfuss two years ago to walk the plank, has slipped in under the Black Flag boat and struck a marlin spike through below the water line, says a writer in the New Orleans Picayune.

Right now Dreyfuss faces the prospect of watching his scuttled ship flounder miles from the beach while McKechnie leads his Cardinals up the sands on a flight to the treasure cove.

McKechnie, charged with needing help to manage the Pirates to a pennant, is doing a pretty good job of directing the St. Louis team without any help outside of the co-operation he gets unsolicited from the boys on the team.

While Rabbit Maranville's comeback is playing a valuable part in the drive of the St. Louis club, and the work of old Grover Alexander, Frankie Frisch, Jim Bottomley and others must draw them a share of the credit, it is generally agreed that the astute leadership of McKechnie is the leading post on the St. Louis wagon.

McKechnie led the Pirates to a pennant in 1925. The next year, despite Bill's success, dissension arose in the ranks of the team. Dreyfuss, possibly in an earnest effort to correct matters, placed Fred Clarke, once idol of the Pirate fans as a player, on the bench with McKechnie, to represent the business office as assistant to the president or something like that.

One result of this action was a "round robin" suggestion from the players that Clarke be chased from the bench, Capt. Max Carey, Pitcher Clyde Barnhart and Outfielder Carson Bigbee were suspended and later disposed of as a result of this activity. Then came McKechnie's removal.

Last year McKechnie was signed as coach by the St. Louis Cardinals, to help Manager Bob O'Farrell, who was then serving his novitiate as a pilot. The Cardinals failed to retain the championship to which Rogers Hornsby had led them the year before.

O'Farrell, though a brilliant catcher, fell short of expectations as a manager. The added labors also detracted from his all-around work behind the plate. McKechnie gave O'Farrell and the Card owners the best he had, however, and his selection as manager to succeed O'Farrell was a popular move.

After getting away to a poor start, due to injuries to several of the regulars and the failure of the pitching staff to click as it did in 1927, the Cardinals wallowed about uncertainly for a few weeks. Then they found themselves.

And Bill McKechnie is letting the day's club standings do his laughing—with possible hope that Barney Dreyfuss and his office strategy board are still reading them and weeping, in a copious manner.

Manager McKechnie.

BROUTHERS WAS MIGHTY HITTER Helped Detroit Win Its First World Title.

They had 'em in the early periods of the game—hard hitting, long distance and powerful batsmen—for the home-run hitter is not entirely a product of today. Dan Brothers, Sam Thompson, Roger Connor, Ed Delahanty, Buck Freeman, Gavvy Cravath were mighty batsmen who could hit the unlevaned ball as hard as any batsman since their generation.

Brothers was one of the three hardest hitting first sackers the game ever had. It was Big Dan, Dave Orr and Pop Anson, a trio of noble batsmen who hit .345 or better during their entire careers. Brothers finished his career of 17 years in the big stuff with a lifetime batting average of .348. He holds a record of hitting three homers in a single game.

With the Troy club in 1879, Brothers, who was over six feet in height and weighed 220, in running to second fell on McGlynn, the guardian of the sack. The impact arm fall that followed the collision was so terrific that McGlynn died within a week from the injuries. Big Dan quit the game for two years. In 1881 the Buffalo Nationals induced him to sign a contract. During the five years with the club Brothers won nationwide fame because of his terrific hitting. It was Brothers, Rowe, White and Richardson who formed the Big Four that became so famous the country over.

It was the "Big Four," with the addition of Sam Thompson, that gave the Detroit club its first pennant, also a world's championship in 1887. Brothers was a fast man on the base lines. In eight of his playing years he scored 100 or more runs each year. His average runs for the 17 years stood .091 a game. In 13 out of the 17 years he batted .300 or better.

In 1904, at the age of forty-nine, Dan was playing first for the Poughkeepsie club of the Hudson River league. In a game against the Saugerties club he made two homers and four singles in six times up. It was estimated that one of the homers traveled 500 feet by actual measurement. Today the big slugger is one of the boys who keeps the Polo grounds in fine condition for the younger set.

Temple U. Stadium to Be Completed Sept. 1

The Temple university athletic stadium going up in Germantown, a suburb of Philadelphia, will be completed September 1. For the opening football game with St. Thomas college on September 29, 35,000 seats will be available. The stadium will be dedicated October 13 when Temple lines up against Western Maryland. The stadium will be bowl shaped and ultimately will accommodate 75,000 to 80,000 fans. This will give the Quaker City three big stadiums. Penn can seat over 80,000, while the municipal stadium built during the sesquicentennial also accommodates about 80,000.

"Knockout King" Chaney Credited With 101 Wins

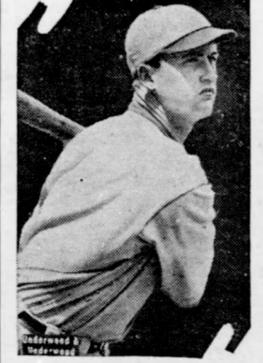

Not so many years ago there flourished a fighter who probably had more knockouts to his credit than any other boxer in the book today. He is George Chaney of Baltimore, dubbed the "knockout king." He wore the name on his jersey, and when he ended his career he had 101 knockouts to his credit.

But his was a built-up reputation, to a certain extent, and his lack of genuine class was proved when, at the height of his career, he fought Champion Johnny Kilbane, and himself took a knockout powder in the third round.

Undeclared Pitcher

Winning nine consecutive games during the season and gaining the distinction of being the only undeclared college pitcher in the East was the record made by Bert Garrett, Rutgers' southpaw twirler, during his first year as a varsity moundsman. He is a brother of Alfred (Bud) Garrett, Rutgers' football captain in 1919, and was himself a substitute halfback on the Rutgers eleven last season.

Ed Walsh, Jr., a Sox

Ed Walsh, Jr., who recently joined the Chicago White Sox. When he was at Notre Dame he had quite a spectacular baseball career, and if he can follow in the footsteps of his dad, the Sox will have made a good speculation.

Siam Likes Golf

Golf has made as big a hit in Siam as the Siamese twins did in the West. The Scottish national game has hit Siam hard, and everyone, from the king on down, does his daily 18. The king is the latest enthusiast. His desire to play, however, is greater than that of the ball was breaking in the real Moore manner. He called to Moore to come over. The latter watched Pigras pitch a score or more of the balls, then declared "Pigras had it, and, moreover, with control."

Schalk Favors Benefit Society for Old-Timers

If Ray Schalk, of the Chicago White Sox, has a pet peeve it is the tough breaks he says down and out ball players get.

"It's a downright shame," said the fiery little ex-manager, "the way many men, who have given the best years of their lives to baseball, are forced virtually to beg for a living in their old age. The average fan does not realize that there are one highly paid player there are scores who receive ordinary pay."

Ray declares the present benefit organization is not functioning the way it should. He says one modeled after the actors' association is needed.

Browns Find Star

The St. Louis Browns, who, incidentally, have shown what can be done by turning a bad team inside out between seasons, have a lad named Kress. Baseball men agree he is about as fine a shortstop prospect as seen in some days, but can anybody picture him continuing to bat .300 as at present? They have not discovered his weakness. Of course, if he slides down even as much as 100 points he still will be worth having around.

Sport Notes

A sport writer predicts old Mike McEigue will quit the first of the year. But he didn't say what year.

Harvard has just announced tickets for the Yale game will be $5 each. Judging from past performances Harvard won't get half that much fun out of it.

Johnny Haas, Northwestern university football player, is reported recovering following an operation for acute appendicitis at his home in Fargo, N. D.

Flying Cloud, who won $5,000 in the 482-mile marathon on the Pacific coast, said he would use the money to help his parents and then would get an education.

Minnesota has one of the greatest players in its football history in prospect for next season. The kicker is Paul Kirk, freshman halfback, who will be eligible for the varsity squad this year.

Leroy W. Krauthoff of Rockford, Ill., a first-class man, has been named manager of the 1928 lacrosse team at the United States Military academy.

After participating in the cross-country "union derby," Wynn Roberts of Wallace, Idaho, made his way back from New York on foot.

BASEBALL NOTES

Babe Ruth continues in a most remarkable way to qualify for successorship to the late alikound of Swat.

Cleveland boasts 30,000 youngsters engaged in amateur baseball in various league tournaments playing hard and soft ball.

During the season of 1905 Big Ed Walsh of the Chicago White Sox, pitched to 1,000 batters—a major league record.

John Shinnier, a cousin of the veteran Ralph, has been turned over to Fayetteville for seasoning by the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Indianapolis American association baseball club will do its spring training in 1929 at Sarasota, on the west coast of Florida.

For three consecutive years, 1912, 1913 and 1914, Eddie Collins, of the Philadelphia Athletics, led the American league in scoring of runs.

Ulyan Shocker, one of the best of the spittling pitchers left in major league baseball, recently was unconditionally released by the New York Yankees.

The sale of Johnny Horan, pitcher, to the Birmingham club for a cash consideration was announced by officials of the Chattanooga Baseball company.

Rusty Saunders, Fort Wayne star, who went from Dallas, Tex., to Waterbury in the Eastern league last season, has been traded by Waterbury to Bridgeport, Conn.

Something we keep intending to look up is the present standing, percentage, etc., of all those minor league teams that licked the New York Yankees in the spring.

Fred Monceville, former Boston college infielder, who joined the Red Sox recently, has been released on option to the Brockton club of the New England league.

Ernest Evans, young shortstop with Portsmouth of the now defunct Virginia league, is on the Buffalo roster, having been signed by the New York Giants and released to the Bisons on option.

Owners of the St. Louis Cardinals are said to be ready to bring Shortstop Gilbert to St. Louis from their Rochester farm. Gilbert's play this season has bordered on the sensational.

Lena Blackburne, who was appointed manager of the White Sox when Ray Schalk resigned, first joined the Sox in 1900. They paid $8,500 for him, a shortstop, which was a high price then.

Among rumored innovations in National league baseball next winter will be the appointment of Henry Fabian, groundkeeper of the Polo grounds, as supervisor of the grounds of the circuit. Along with the appointment of Fabian may come a rule fixing the height of the pitchers' mound.

Joe Shauta, Cleveland twirler, is twenty-eight years old.

An interesting note from the Yankees' bull pen, as transcribed by a New York correspondent: "George Pigras discovered in practice that he had acquired Wiley Moore's slinker ball. He was warming up and noted that the ball was breaking in the real Moore manner. He called to Moore to come over. The latter watched Pigras pitch a score or more of the balls, then declared 'Pigras had it, and, moreover, with control.'"

WOMEN DRIVERS MOST RELIABLE

Safety Engineer Resorts to Science for Evidence to Support Idea.

Logic, psychology and science have been commandeered to build up a stronger case for the woman motorist as a more reliable and safer driver than man.

Coming to her defense this time is Robert Clair, safety engineer and chairman of the taxicab and fleet owners' section of the National Safety Council. Clair discards as unfair the old arguments that were used to prove the superiority of woman as a driver and resorts to more scientific evidence for the defense.

His case is built up on answers sent in by 100 representative men and the same number of women pleasure car drivers, besides verbal statements from 360 commercial car drivers. Asking them whether they believe the average woman driver is as careful as the average man, he finds that 74 per cent of the men reply "No," while 84 per cent of the women shout back "Yes."

On Woman's Side. But the word of these men and women isn't the deciding factor for woman's defense. Clair goes to Dr. F. A. Moss, of the department of psychology at George Washington university, who set out to learn which of the sexes responded more quickly to danger signals.

The tests showed that the women students selected for the tests were as reliable as the men, "if not more so." And they were more consistent. "In concluding his tests," Clair reports, "Doctor Moss stated there is no physical reason why a woman may not drive as well as a man and that he has also found no psychological reason."

But Clair sees the fallacy in exalting women drivers on the basis of accident and license statistics.

Women Drive Less. "The average woman drives proportionately many fewer miles than the average man," he points out. "Thousands of commercial vehicles roll up tremendous annual totals in mileage—20, 30, even 40,000 miles being common."

"Much of men's driving is necessary at the hazardous hours of maximum traffic congestion, while women drive, as a rule, exclusively for pleasure, for convenience or for shopping trips."

"Thus not only does the woman spend many fewer hours behind the wheel than the average man, but her mileage figures are substantially lower."

Nevertheless, Clair insists, science and a newer logic prove woman at least is as good a driver as man.

British Building Wider Highways to Help State

While some of the individual states of this nation have almost as many motor cars as England, the same cannot be said of the development of the system of highways. Although no part of the English road network is designated as a national route, local authorities receive moneys for the movement from the national road fund. In return for this help, the government may acquire a belt of land a quarter of a mile wide along the course of new arterial roads so that the enhanced values developed will benefit the state.

Special Headlight Now Shines Around Curves

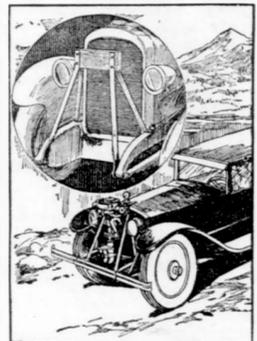

Hazards of driving the automobile at night are reduced by a special headlight so adjusted that a wide beam is projected to both sides of the road, without glare to approaching cars and with better illumination of the highways on curves, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The lamp plainly shows the road before the driver turns. It is not intended to take the place of the regular spot or headlights, but for special service on winding roads.

Minnesota Bars Hitching

One of the new highway laws in Minnesota prohibits the standing of any person or persons in the roadway and soliciting rides in an automobile; hitching toboggans, sleds or bicycles to motor vehicles; coasting cars down grade with gears in neutral; jumping in or on to a car without consent of the owner; pasting of posters of bathing beauties or campaign cards or other signs on windshields or windows. All cars must have a windshield wiper.

Bracket Holds Outboard Motor on Front of Auto

Many campers pass up the pleasures of an outboard motor because they have no space to carry it. The drawing shows a convenient method of disposing of the motor without sacrificing any space. A wooden bracket is attached to the front end of the car as indicated. A 1 by 7 by 12-inch oak board is supported on 1/4 by 1 1/2-inch iron brackets bolted to the frame of the car. Two 1/4 by 1 1/2-inch bars extend from the board to the front spring bolts, to give rigidity to the bracket. The length of these bars varies with each particular make of car, but if the top edge of the board is located about 3 inches below the top of the radiator, the height will usually be suitable. The outboard motor is attached to the bracket as indicated, and it will not obstruct the air circulation to any appreciable extent.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Proper Type Spark Plug Vital to Car Efficiency

Informing car owners of the importance of proper type spark plugs in order to obtain the best performance from an automobile, H. Rabezana, research engineer, says in part: "When a plug is too short it does not bring the firing points far enough into the combustion chamber. Good ignition under this condition is impossible. The motor is bound to be sluggish and inefficient."

"A plug that is too long extends too far into the firing chamber. This will cause the lower end of the plug to become overheated, resulting in igniting the fuel too early."

"The correct length of plug fits so that the bottom of the spark plug shell is just flush with the inside wall of the cylinder head and the spark gap extends beyond into the combustion chamber."

"To get maximum power and efficiency from an engine it is absolutely necessary that the proper type spark plug be used, as recommended by the manufacturer's spark plug chart."

AUTOMOBILE ITEMS

Probably nothing can run up more mileage and get nowhere than can a cruising taxicab.

Now that the season for skid chains is past, see that they are laid away in a place where they will not rust.

Undoubtedly the cave man was occasionally chased into his cave to seek refuge, but never by something on wheels traveling at the rate of 40 miles an hour.

Women in Italy are showing an increased interest in driving their own cars. They may be seen attending lectures and demonstrations, and many of them learn to be mechanics before they are drivers.

There were no motor vehicles in Turkey prior to the World war. The registry at the present time includes 6,000 passenger cars, 1,500 motor trucks and busses, 3,000 tractors and 400 motorcycles.

But at that, when a woman driver sticks out her hand you know she's thinking of doing something.

At a recent auction in Ireland two automobiles were driven away by the highest bidders for 31 cents each. But a wheelbarrow at the same auction brought $2.37.

Rubber is scheduled for a rise in price on account of predicted scarcity. This news comes just as a price war on casings and tubes is on. This proves the elasticity of rubber.

The Kitchen Cabinet

The Kitchen Cabinet is a masterpiece of modern design, combining beauty and utility. It is built with the finest materials and is finished with a durable, non-staining surface. The cabinet is designed to fit snugly into your kitchen, providing a convenient place for your dishes and glassware. It is a must-have for any modern kitchen.

CHEESE A GOOD FOOD

Europe shows is part of nearly all diets. In the United States, the consumption of cheese is not as large as in Europe. Its popularity is increasing each year. Particularly in this country, the Swiss cheese, which offers a wide variety of tempting menus, is becoming more popular. Only butter, however, is more valuable for use as a spread.

Hog House With a Saw-Tooth Roof Gives Full Benefit of Sunlight

By W. A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all problems pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as an editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on the subject. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1327 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and you will receive two-cent stamp for reply.

The saw-tooth colony hog house was originated in Iowa where hog raising has become a pretty exact science among the farmers of that state. It is so designed that when the building is placed on the site facing the south direct sunshine is admitted through the windows on the low part to the pens on the near side and through the windows in the monitor house and prevent the small pigs from becoming chilled. Sunlight also helps in their growth and prevents leg weakness and other troubles.

This house is 32 feet long and 24 feet wide. This size permits the installation of nine pens all facing a feeding alley which runs through the center of the building. In one corner there is a feed room.

The house is set on a concrete foundation with a concrete floor so that the troughs may be built at the same time the floor is laid. Removable partitions separate the pens, and the floor is covered with an open plank platform raised slightly so as to prevent the pigs from being chilled by the concrete floor. Guard rails run on three sides of each pen so that the mother sow will not crush or smother the young ones.

The building is of frame construction and is designed to get the most from the least expenditure for material and labor. Accompanying the floor plan is a cross-section of the building giving some details of construction and showing the dimensions of the materials used. Also there is a plan of the front of the pen partitions.

to the rafters before lath and plaster are put on.

Or an insulating rock lath as a base for plaster may be used in place of wood as a false base for plaster, or an insulating mineral wallboard can be used to provide walls and ceilings for the attic rooms.

These means of insulating comfort in the rooms below are all right if the owner wishes to make new rooms in the attic. But how can the home be insulated when this rather extensive improvement is not desired.

It can be done by putting the insulating material directly on the upper side of the lath and plaster which forms the lower-story ceiling. In houses with unfinished attics the lath and plaster are exposed through the ceiling rafters. The work of installing the insulation is so simple that it can be done by the householder himself in a short time.

There are several types of insulators that may be used in this way. One should be chosen which is so light that it will not make the lath and plaster sag, which is dry so it will not stain the plaster, which is fire-resistant and has high insulation value. Such a material is granulated cork, but while it is of excellent insulation value, it is the most costly of insulators.

Another is a powdered gypsum filler intended especially for thermal insulation. This is cheap.

Galvanized Iron Needs Washing Before Paint
If the galvanized iron has been exposed to the weather for six months or more, it needs no further treatment before painting.

New galvanized iron, however, should have a good wash with strong vinegar before applying any paint. The first coat of paint should be red lead, which is the best-known protective material for all exposed iron surfaces. Over this coat of red lead paint you may apply a white lead paint in sufficient number of coats to cover the bright red color.

Generally, two coats of white paint will do this. The white lead can be tinted in any color desired.

Some of Old Meadows Best Abandoned Because of Lack of Demand.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Declaring the hay acreage of the United States is overexpanded at the present time, Edward C. Parker, hay marketing specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture, told the twentieth annual convention of the Farm Seed Association of North America, at Chicago, recently, that timothy and timothy-mixed hay acreage may be expected to decrease during the next decade.

The least needed and least productive meadows in our overexpanded acreage, he said, are the old timothy meadows in the East North Central and North Atlantic states, and the prairie meadows in the North Central and South Central states. Some of these old timothy meadows, he predicted, will be abandoned or converted into permanent pastures because the demand for timothy in the cities and southern markets is insufficient to absorb all the surplus hay possible of production on these lands.

No Logical Facts for Forecast.
"Looking further," Mr. Parker declared, "to that time when the present downward trend of live stock population ceases and an upward trend begins, we have no logical facts on which to base a forecast that timothy acreage will increase and return to its former extent. The hay habits and requirements of the country have changed materially in the past twenty years and when the need for a greater hay acreage does arise we may expect that the increase will be largely of alfalfa, clover, soy beans and other annual legumes."

It should be remembered, however, the speaker pointed out, that there are extensive areas in that part of the United States between the Atlantic seaboard and the Missouri river and north of latitude 36 degrees that are naturally adapted to the growth of timothy and in which the soil areas suitable for alfalfa, clover and other legumes are limited, so that the present timothy acreage will not be supplanted wholly by other hay crops. A material substitution of timothy-and-clover-mixed acreage for pure timothy acreage is highly probable.

Man's Dignity Dented When Beard Went Out

Possibly the first big mistake that our generation of men made was to discard whiskers. We committed social suicide with the razor. Consider the flowing beard as the breastworks of authority. How often it concealed the weakness of mobility of the face, gave poise, steadiness and distinction. A child could not have a beard, neither could a woman. Not even a suffragette could have a luxuriant one. Every utterance emerging from a beard had oracular worth, mystery, and an Olympian quality making for command.

The naked face was the beginning of our dishonor. The ancients knew better. Dowie knew better, the late King Ben knew better, and the Bible, too, is against it.

Why should a man make himself appear childish and effeminate and hope to maintain status? Can you blame the women and children for concluding that we are all alike, irrespective of sex or age?—Allan Hoben in the Atlantic Monthly.

Office Boy—What's worryin' the boss?
Stenographer—He just found out his son will be allowed to graduate from college this year.
Where a great many fail, somebody is bound to get rich; he gets what they had.

The Wrong Test
Mother—You have disappointed me, Willie. I left those turts on the sideboard just to test you.
Willie—It's a shame you didn't try me with doughnuts.
Mother—Why, dear?
Willie—Because I hate 'em.
A miser is known by the money he keeps.

Free Lighting Plant

If you want a Carbide Gas Lighting Plant, we get you a modern plant complete for $50.00. These have been used only six months. Plants years old you can have FREE, just for hauling from the farms where they were replaced with electricity. Why pay big profit to agents when you get plants just as good as new for $50.00. The son these carbide plants are for sale is because owners wanted electricity which is safer, more reliable, less expensive and can be used for power.

Semi-Solid Buttermilk

These "LABELS" are your ABSOLUTE ASSURANCE that you are FEEDING GONDENSED BUTTERMILK containing always 2 per cent PURE BUTTER FAT, and not CONDENSED SKIMMED MILK that NEVER CONTAINS more than a HALF of ONE PER CENT FAT. The "YELLOW BARREL" was once your ASSURANCE that you were FEEDING Semi-Solid Buttermilk. But NOW you must look for the ABOVE LABELS BECAUSE Semi-Solid Buttermilk in YELLOW BARRELS is being IMITATED but not DUPLICATED.

It is just as important to know that there is a GOOD PRODUCT inside the BARREL, as it is to know that there is a GOOD EGG inside the shell. Semi-Solid Buttermilk IS UNIFORMLY GOOD means LESS MORTALITY and GREATER PROFIT from your poultry and hogs.

Multiply Your Man-Power By Seven

McCormick-Deering Corn Binders are built in two types, horizontal and vertical. Both are light-draft, long-lived machines that do hard work quickly and easily.

When you go into the corn with a McCormick-Deering Vertical or Horizontal Corn Binder you are equipped to do the work of from 5 to 7 men with corn knives. You sit in comfort while you are doing it. Instead of turning the stalks into loose, unwieldy stalks that are hard to handle, the McCormick-Deering bundles and ties the stalks for fast handling without loss of labor or corn. This is especially true at harvest and afterward.

Feed silage you especially need the fast, sure work of McCormick-Deering Corn Binder. With the binder in the field a McCormick-Deering Ensilage Cutter at the silo, the stalk can be turned into the highest grade of silage, at a cost because the fast-working equipment handles the stalk when it is at its best. We have this new McCormick-Deering for you to see and try. Come to our store and we will show you the many fine features that this binder offers.

ment, I was horribly disappointed and— You will forgive me, will you not, Miss Dismore?

Of course I said that I would, and I begged his pardon for laughing. I tried to explain about the involuntary contraction of the facial muscles superinduced by, etc.; but he didn't seem much interested. As soon as I had stuttered to an end he said it was all right, that he quite understood; that no doubt he had been abrupt, but——now that he had spoken—would I do him the great favor of trying to familiarize myself with the idea, and would I remember that I would always find him waiting, and so on? Really, it was a very neat little speech, earnest and well delivered. But I couldn't forget how he had looked and acted a moment before.

Perkins came around the corner of the building with the horses just as he finished; and Mr. Paul bowed and went away before I could really say anything worth setting down here.

I was about to call to Fred when I happened to look at Perkins; and then I kept on looking.

He was staring after Mr. Paul with the blackest face I had ever seen on a living man. He had thrust his head forward like a snake about to strike; almost he seemed to have flattened his forehead.

"Perkins!" I screamed. "What are you doing?"

Perkins jumped. Then he drew back his head and straightened up. "Naething! Naething!" he grumbled. "Can't you see?"

"What I mean is, Has a Poor Man a Right to Ask a Rich Girl to Marry Him?"

"But you were glaring at Mr. Paul," I protested, too amazed to resent the old man's rudeness. "What's he ever done to you?"

"I never said he's done anything," returned Perkins, more calmly. "No, but you looked as if he had. Why, Perkins! You looked frightful. And at Mr. Paul, too. Why! He couldn't have done anything to make you hate him. He's one of the nicest men I know."

"I'm no hating him, miss!" Perkins had recovered himself almost wholly. "It's a braw callant he is; and most people are liking him, particularly the lassies—particularly the lassies. It's fair against reason that I should be bating him, miss."

Just then Fred came up (he had been waiting in a summer house built in imitation of the Parthenon) and I turned to him for an instant. When I looked back Perkins had hitched the horses to the rack and was shuffling away. So I perforce pushed by curiosity into the back of my mind and ran into the house to get into my riding clothes.

Just inside the library window I ran into Dad. I had clean forgotten that he was there.

From the 'Dismore's Folly' story.

HIS BUSINESS BUILDER

Two men waiting on the corner for the lights to change got into a conversation.

"See that man over there? I owe my fortune to him," remarked one of them.

"Who is he?" remarked the other.

"He is a pie maker who supplies 95 per cent of the restaurants in town."

"Hub! And who are you?"

"I am the millionaire dyspepsia tablet manufacturer."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

CHAPTER II

"It never rains but it pours!" I always used to think that this was a fool proverb, but I began to change my mind about it very soon after Mr. Paul's proposal, for that was the beginning of the chain of events that shook our household and that stirred a good big part of New York. I don't mean that it was the cause of them, though perhaps it was, to some extent. But it certainly led up to them.

The second episode followed immediately after the first.

When Father told me to run along I hesitated for a moment. I wanted to ask him what he meant by saying he must take me into his calculations, but in the end I went without speaking. I went for several reasons: First, Fred was waiting; second, I was a good deal excited over Mr. Paul and I wasn't at all certain "what I was at" (as the darkey said); and third, I was pretty sure that Father wouldn't explain. Father had a way of saying things that seemed inscrutable for the moment but that always turned out in the end to be simple; he never explained them, leaving it to me to do that; and I sometimes suspected that they were like the sayings of the Delphic oracle—framed so as to be correct whatever happened. I don't know, though. Father was a wise old bird; he could foresee the future as accurately as any member of the Prophet's union that ever lived—more accurately, in fact; for he was seldom content with prophesying. He went ahead and helped to make his prophecies come true. I really believe that in the ten minutes that elapsed between Mr. Paul's stepping out on the porch and my meeting Father—it could not have been more than ten minutes—he had seen what was coming and had mapped out a plan for a campaign to meet it.

However, I did not stop to think of that then. I ran along to my room and put on my riding togs slowly. I had half a mind not to go riding at all. But I went at last, chiefly— I laugh now when I think of it—chiefly because I did not want to disappoint Fred, who had been very insistent in asking me for this ride.

Josephine had usually gone riding with us, but on this particular day she stayed at home on plea of a headache. It was not until long after that I learned that Fred had not asked her to go, and that even my conscientious sister could have a headache to order when she thought it advisable.

So Fred and I went alone.

From the first, all four of us were skittish. The two horses were dancing all over the place; I was troubled over Mr. Paul; and Fred was nervous as a cat, probably preparing to lead up to the subject he had in mind.

I'm bound to say, however, that he went up to it like a little man as soon as he got the chance, which was just as soon as Gypsy quieted down enough to let him range alongside.

"Miss Edith," he began, "want to ask you something." He seemed rather breathless, but I took no special notice of it. Anyone sitting on Ranger had a right to be breathless.

"Ask away," I laughed. "Speech is free."

Fred chuckled, but he didn't seem to be very virtuous. "That's just the point," he declared. "Is speech free?"

"Isn't it?" I didn't know what he was driving at, and let him set the pace.

"Sometimes it isn't. It isn't free around the district attorney's office. If it was I could pull off the biggest scoop I've ever had. But I don't mean anything like that. What I mean is, has a poor man a right to ask a rich girl to marry him?"

A Personal Matter

Mrs. P., who was down in the seventies, and admitted it but declined to be classed as elderly, was buying host at the local store. The young woman clerk, desiring to be helpful, spread out the contents of a box saying, innocently:

"We're selling a lot of these to old ladies."

Mrs. P. smiled. "But I want them for myself," she said gently.

WHAT THE OTHER DID

She—My first husband never swore like that when he mowed the lawn.

He—My first wife never made me mow the lawn.

No Parking

When Noah sailed the waters blue, He had his troubles same as you; For forty days he drove the Ark, Before he found a place to park.

The Born Moocher

Householder—Ah! I've sold that roller and those garden tools you've come to borrow and have gone in for chickens.

Champ Borrower—Oh—er—that reminds me—we've visitors to tea and I wonder—er—could you lend me a few eggs?

An Ancient Problem

"There was no parking difficulty in grandfather's day," remarks an exchange.

Long, long, before, brother, You forget the difficulty Noah had with his ark.

CANNIBAL

He—One of my mates at college ate 28 hard boiled eggs on a bet.

She—Why, the cannibal!

All Depends

How many miles to the gall? I drive right on with Ross, I stop and pet with Sal, And that's the way it goes.

Wouldn't Do It Again

Judge—Have you ever been convicted before?

Defendant—Yes, I was caught bathing at a private beach once.

Judge—And since then?

Defendant—Since then I've never taken a bath.

A General Response

"Any response to our advertisement for an office boy?"

"Nine boys are in line, two elderly men and five girls."

The Wrong Arm of the Law

First Lawyer—What are you looking so sour for, Cavendish?

Second Lawyer—After I got all through getting my man acquitted on the most eloquent plea I've ever made, I find out he was really innocent.

Poor Memory

First Monk—What's Mr. Graffe got a knot tied in his neck for?

Second Monk—That's so he'll remember the things he has to get in town today for Mrs. Graffe.

Allowing Plenty of Time

Parcel Post Clerk—On that live turkey the postage will be a dollar and thirty cents.

The Poultryman—Guess I'll start him on four bits' worth of stamps. I expect he'll lose enough weight on the way to make that about right before he's delivered.

Proof

"Did you water the fern, Nora?"

"Sure, mum. Don't you hear the water dripping on the carpet?"

THE FEATHERHEADS

Still Missing

Felix—I've looked all over the house for my vanity and I can't find it!

Well, I didn't take it—no mere man could take a woman's vanity away from her.

Don't be so fresh!—and get up so I can see if you're sitting on it!

Great guns!—all this fuss over a two-inch looking glass with a mirror in the hall a yard long!

Here it is under the cushion!—and here's my curlers and my scissors!

Oh boy!—there's my screw-driver and that book of directions for the radio!

Look under the other cushion and see if you can find the patience you lost when you first missed those things!

"The only way for a man to learn all about women is to get married."

"And study the ways of his wife?"

"No. Listen to what she tells him about other women."

Few Ranked Voltaire in Passage of Wit

Leon Trelch, indefatigable searcher in the French Bibliotheque Nationale's forgotten nooks, came upon some moldy sheets of paper recently that upon close examination turned out to be verbatim reports of some of Voltaire's conversations.

Here are two short translations. After the first production of Oedipus, some young seigneur slipped Voltaire familiarly on the shoulder, saying: "That was first rate, Voltaire!"

The poet replied: "To you I am Monsieur Voltaire!" To which the noble shot back: "Do not forget there is a big difference between you and me!"

"Certainly," came Voltaire, "I carry my name and you drag yours."

Ramond came to visit him once, "I have no less than eighty-three bodily ailments," shouted Voltaire to his visitor, "I have just counted them up."

Ramond noticed the table loaded with pious works by famous church fathers, with strips of note paper sticking out everywhere. "Ah," said Ramond, "you have read the fathers, after all!"

"Yes," replied Voltaire, "I have read them, monsieur, but believe me, I will make them pay for it!"—Exchange.

Mark Twain a Believer

Mark Twain (Samuel Clemens) was not affiliated with any church or religious organization. He was what is usually called a "free-thinker," that is, he did not accept the Scriptures as inspired or authoritative spiritual writings. He was often accused by his enemies of dealing with sacred things in a somewhat irreverent manner. Upon one occasion Mark Twain wrote: "I have never seen what seemed to me an atom of proof that there is a future life. And yet—I am strongly inclined to expect one."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Youth Laughs Last

A professor at George Washington university failed to show up on time for class. The young men waited 15 minutes. No professor! The class evaporated. Next day the teacher avowed he had been "constructively present" because his hat had been on his desk. On the third day the instructor entered the classroom to find the usual chaos, each with a hat upon it. American humor is still "constructively present."—Lafayette Journal and Courier.

Where the Shoe Pinched

The Strong Man from Norway was booked on the breaking paving stones with a sledge-hammer on his wife's head. It was a wov, as we used to say in the old country. Suddenly his bookings were switched. They put him on the small time, where he had to do four and five shows a day.

He did it for several weeks, then canceled his contract. "What's the matter?" they asked him. "Is your wife getting headaches?"

"Oh, no, it isn't that," apologized the Strong Man, "but I'm afraid she's getting fallen aches."—New York Graphic.

Announcing the New Utility Truck

-another Sensational Chevrolet Value

4 Speeds Forward • 4 Wheel Brakes

Typical of the progressive design embodied in the new Chevrolet Utility Truck is a four-speed transmission with an extra-low gear, providing tremendous pulling power for heavy roads, deep sand and steep hills—and reducing to the very minimum the starting strain on motor, clutch and rear axle—

—powerful, non-locking 4-wheel brakes, with a rugged emergency brake that operates entirely independent of the foot brake system——and a new ball bearing worm-and-gear steering mechanism, which even includes ball bearings at the front axle knuckles!

And in addition, there are all those basic features which have been so largely instrumental in Chevrolet's success as the world's largest builder of trucks!

Come in and get a demonstration of this remarkable new truck. You'll find that it offers every feature needed for dependable low-cost transportation—and we can provide a body type to meet your individual requirements.

How Quality Affects You

Pocketbook and Ours

More and more purchasers of manufactured products are demanding quality in the things they buy. This is only natural. The stocks in our stores to select from, good roads to travel over, Uncle Sam's mail service to serve us, all have a tendency to buy easier and quality merchandise easier secured. If there is any one place where quality means more than in milk production we have not been able to locate it. We can very easily take up the question of over-production by simply producing a product that merits a demand for it, and to do so requires quality milk.
