WASKUM HIGH SCHOOL COLUMN

Ted Schmidt, local insurance agent, called to the high school assembly, on Fire Prevention. The speaker was practical and well received by the student body.

Margaret Miller, Valedictorian of the much coveted honor of being valedictorian of the graduating class of 1929. Margaret Miller who has completed her high school work with an average of 92. Having the highest grade of any pupil in the class, she was privileged to give the valedictory at the commencement exercises. Margaret Miller chose for her topic the history of development of Kewaskum.

William Hopkins, Salutatorian of the class of 1929. William Hopkins who has completed four years of high school work with an average of 92. William began his high school career at Marshfield, Wis., and came to Kewaskum as a student. The topic of his salutatorian will be the purpose and accomplishment of the Isaac Walton League.

Students who had an average of 90 or more are: Joseph and Ralph Schellhaus, 94.3 and Ralph Schellhaus, 94.3.

The following awards have recently been given to members of the type-writing and stenography classes:

Stenography.—Eighty-word dictation certificate and silver pin to Margaret Miller for taking dictation in five minutes at a net rate of 97.5 words a minute and transcribing with an accuracy of 97%. The student who typed the certificate was Esther Bruesewitz for correct and artistic arrangement of the George Water Artistic Typist's certificate.

Stenography.—A silver pin awarded to the Remington Typewriter Company by John Louis Schellhaus for typing at a net rate of 100 words a minute for fifteen minutes with less than ten errors. The student who typed the certificate was only twenty words a minute.

WASKUM TAKES THIRD PLACE

A series of postponed baseball games between the four schools in the Kewaskum association playing base ball was played off on the Kewaskum diamond last Saturday. Rain the evening before made the diamond slippery and some of the teams playing were at their best. Because of the wet and heavy ball, the batting was better than usual, and the team getting the most runs had more than an even chance of winning. From the gate receipts a profit of $100.00 was presented to Lorima, the winning school. The games and scores were:

Waskum 6, Lorima 8.
Steger 6, Campbellsport 1.
Kewaskum 8, Campbellsport 7.
Steger 1, Lorima 6.

The Kewaskum team is the leader of the Tri-County pennant race having won seven straight games. The local team will play Campbellsport at Campbellsport next Tuesday, and a victory will give the locals a 1000 per cent average for the year.

4-B CLUB MEETINGS WILL BE HELD AT CAMPBELLSPORT

A series of women's meetings will be held at Fond du Lac county next week Tuesday and Wednesday, May 21 and 22. Mrs. Vern Varney, Assistant State Club leader and S. P. Murat, County Agent, for the purpose of organizing boys' and girls' 4-B clubs.

These meetings will be held as follows:

Tuesday, May 21—10 A. M., high school, Room 101; 1 P. M.,—high school, Room 101; 8 P. M.,—high school, Room 101.

Wednesday, May 22—11 A. M.,—Mrs. House, Campbellsport; 1:30 P. M.,—Lorima Hall, Eden; 8:30 P. M.,—Lorima County school, St. Calvary.

These meetings are all public meetings and everyone interested in boys' and girls' club work are invited to attend. Rural boys and girls as well as their parents are especially invited to come to one of these meetings so they may learn more about club work.

Any boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 20 may enroll in club work. Boys may raise a calf, pigs, lambs, chickens, corn, potatoes or a garden. Girls may take up the agricultural projects if they wish or they may take up sewing, canning or baking.

DEATHS OF THE PAST WEEK

AUGUST HELD
August Held died suddenly at his home in West Bend last Thursday evening at 10 o'clock. He was apparently in good health and while kneeling in prayer before retiring suffered a stroke and died instantly. Mr. Held was born April 30, 1882, near Beechwood, and during his boyhood resided at Batavia. On October 31, 1908, he was married to Miss Edna Eisenbraut, and in 1912 the couple moved to Ladysmith, coming to his present home in West Bend in 1918. Besides his wife he leaves to mourn, one child Hazel (Mrs. Earl Weston) who lives with her mother. He also leaves one sister, Emma Held of Batavia, and six brothers, William of Edgewood, Rhode Island, Frank of Batavia, Jac of Plymouth and Henry, Oscar and Albert of Milwaukee. The funeral was held Monday afternoon with services in the Walnut street M. E. church at West Bend. Rev. A. H. Otto officiated, assisted by Rev. F. F. Wolf of Milwaukee. The remains were buried in the Beechwood cemetery.

DEATH OF JONATHAN ODEKIRK
Jonathan Odekirk, a well known resident of Fond du Lac, died Sunday at his home in Campbellsport. Deceased was born May 1, 1850 in the town of Eden. On June 4, 1873 he was married to Martha Tuttle of the town of Auburn. He leaves to mourn, his widow, two children, Mrs. George Yankov of the town of Ashford and William of the town of Auburn, and two grand children. The funeral was held from the William Odekirk home at 1:30 p. m., Tuesday and at 2 p. m., from the Baptist church. Rev. D. C. Anderson officiated. Burial was made in the Union cemetery. The pall bearers were Joe Parrot, Wm. Warden, Fred Habek, Wm. Klabuhn, Herman Marquardt and Adolph Flitter.

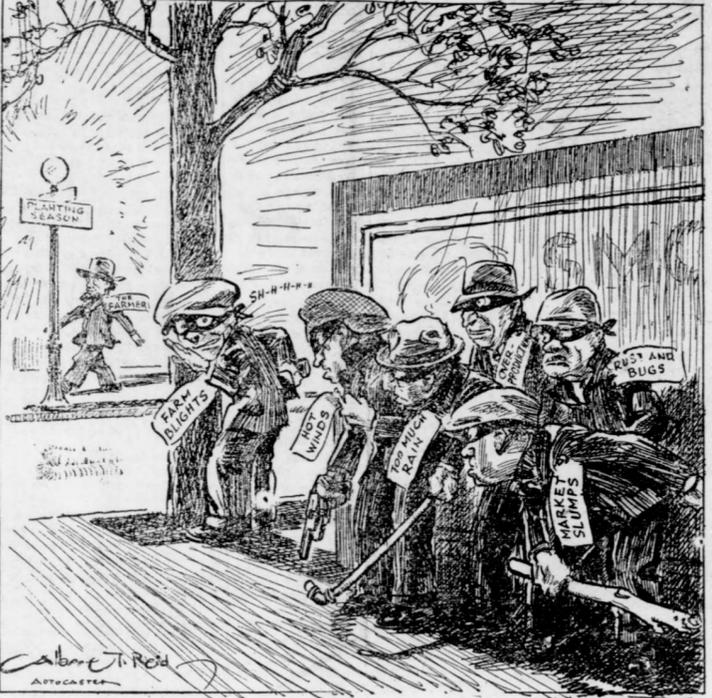

MRS. JOHANNAH WAGNER
Mrs. Johannah W. Wagner (nee Kasten), a former resident of Oseola, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. Behling at Mayville on Friday, May 10th, 1929, following a short illness with pneumonia. Deceased was born February 11th, 1858 in Schovenz Brink Pommern, and immigrated to America on October 26, 1888, settling at Milwaukee, later residing at Marblehead, and Oseola, coming to her present home in Mayville six years ago. She was married to Carl H. Wagner, who preceded her in death on May 10, 1922. Seven children were born of this union, four of whom survive, namely: William of Campbellsport; Henry at Five Corners; Emma (Mrs. M. Glass) of Fond du Lac and Minnie (Mrs. M. Behling) of Mayville. Besides these she leaves four son-in-laws, M. Behling, J. Dam, M. Glass, A. Schultz; 29 grand children and 2 great grand children, to mourn her demise. The funeral was held Monday, May 13 from the Behling residence at Mayville. Rev. Carl Appeler of Dundee officiated. Burial was made in Union cemetery at Campbellsport.

RAYMOND FLASCH
Raymond Flasch, aged 66 years, a former resident of the town of Ashford, died at his home in Kenosha on Wednesday morning. He was the son of the late John M. and Elizabeth Flasch. Mr. Flasch is survived by his wife, one daughter, Irene, one son Leo and three grand children. Two brothers, Peter J. and John Flasch of St. Kilian; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Heisler of Fond du Lac and Mrs. M. A. Jacobs of Beaver Dam. One sister, Mrs. Conrad Mack of Campbellsport, died on December 14, 1925. Deceased was married to Miss Mary Gunsfal of Richmond, Ind., and made his home in Kenosha for a number of years.

AN UNCOMMON VISITOR
Sheboygan Falls is being honored by a visit from Harvard Giddings, 26-year-old pioneer. Mr. Giddings is the pioneer of Sheboygan county, having been the first white boy born in this county. It seems incredible that the first white child born in the county could still be living, in view of the large population and the many prosperous cities and villages the county now has. Nevertheless Mr. Giddings was born in Sheboygan Falls on April 4, 1843, the son of the Hon. David Giddings and Dorothy Trowbridge Giddings. The house in which Mr. Giddings was born still stands.—Sheboygan County News.

GRINDING WEDNESDAYS AND SATURDAYS
Beginning next Saturday and continuing during the summer months, I will grind feed on Wednesdays and Saturdays only. Bring your work in on these days.

TEST OF WATER HYDRANTS MADE

Last Thursday afternoon, the local fire department tested out the city hydrants to ascertain, whether there is sufficient pressure in the water mains now filled with water to give ample fire protection until such time when the city water plant is completed. Fire hose was attached to the hydrants, and when the valves of the hydrants were turned open it was found that there was enough pressure to throw the water about fifty feet into the air, high enough to reach the top of any dwelling house or two story building. This pressure is derived from water filling the stand pipe of the water tower, which is filled with twenty feet from the water tank. After the system has been installed and water is pumped into the tank there will be enough pressure in the hydrants, that in case of fire the fire department will not have to use the fire engine.

A large number of property owners are now connecting their homes with the water mains, and some of them who had a private system in their homes are now using city well water.

WHOLE FAMILY HELD IN DRY RAID

Charged with violating the Jones law by maintaining a "beer farm" three miles west of Mequon, a father and mother and one son were held for the federal grand jury under $1,000 bail each, Monday after a preliminary hearing before State Court Commissioner Harry L. Kellogg. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zaun and their son Cornelius, together with four waiters, were arrested late Saturday night by federal prohibition agents, who raided the elaborate farm house resort. The four waiters, Adolph Jahn, George Plehn, Irving Krause and Clarence Schubert, were held under $500 bail each. Agents testified more than 30 "beers" were made before the raid. The resort was frequented by boys and girls of high school age, the agents declared. Commissioner Kellogg in holding the father, scored him for "hiding behind the skirts of his wife." The elder Zaun attempted to show that the property belonged to his wife. "The evidence shows," the commissioner declared, "that Zaun lived in the place. There is nothing introduced to indicate he objected to what his wife was doing."—Milwaukee Sentinel, May 14.

BOLD THIEVES AT LOMIRA

The farm of John Zehren, located northeast of Lorima, was visited by several bold thieves last Tuesday night. The thieves drove up with a car and parked same on the road. The men carried flashlights and went to the hog pen and tried their luck. Their plans were somewhat frustrated by Mr. Zehren who fired several shots. After a check-up in the morning one pig was missing. These thieves were not satisfied but came back again on Wednesday night, and again their attempt went wrong when the farmer fired several shots. Authorities have been notified and a live clue is being followed up.—Lorima Review.

TO CELEBRATE MEMORIAL DAY

At the regular monthly meeting of the Kewaskum Post, American Legion last Monday evening, plans were made to hold Memorial Day exercises here on Thursday, May 30th. The parade will consist of ex-service men, pupils of the different schools and various organizations, and will start at the high school building at 10 A. M. and march through the principal streets and back to the school house, where the exercises will be held in the auditorium of the high school. Attorney Thom. O'Meara of West Bend, will be the speaker of the day. All ex-service men of the World War are cordially invited to take part in the exercises, no matter whether you belong to the legion or not, and all those who have a uniform should wear same. All who take part in the parade must be at the school house not later than 9:30 o'clock. The West Bend Moose band will furnish the music. Poppies will be sold on that day. A complete program will be published in next week's issue.

AN APPARATUS TO KEEP SLENDER AND YOUTHFUL

The Kewaskum Hardware and Electric Company will carry in stock the Venus Vibro Sage, an electrical apparatus for massaging various parts of the body, particularly in an effort to bring back or retain that slenderness and gracefulness now so much in vogue among women and associated with youth and buoyant vitality. The new apparatus, of the Venus Specialty Company representing the youngest of West Bend's diversified industries, consists of an electric motor and belts of various widths, the latter encircling that part of the body under treatment and transmitting more or less powerful vibrating or oscillating movements. Anyone interested can step into the Kewaskum Hardware and Electric store and have same explained to them.

UNITED IN BONDS OF MATRIMONY

ROHLINGER-BROWN WEDDING
A pretty wedding took place at St. Matthew's Catholic church at Campbellsport on Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, when Miss Armella Rohlinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Math Rohlinger of Campbellsport became the bride of Lee N. Brown, son of Leonard Brown of Hartford. Rev. B. July officiated. The couple were attended by Miss Margaret Rohlinger, sister of the bride, and Leo Rohlinger of Fond du Lac. The bride wore a white satin dress of Canton crepe, trimmed with tulle and lace, and wore a veil in cap effect. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and swansons. Miss Margaret Rohlinger was dressed in a light green georgette dress, trimmed with lace and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, and ferns. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding dinner was served to immediate relatives and friends. The home was decorated in green and white. Mr. and Mrs. Brown left on a week's wedding trip through the southern part of the state, and will be at home to their friends after June 1st, on the groom's farm near Hartford.

WITTMAN ASSOCIATED WITH NEW AIRCRAFT PLANT

S. J. Wittman of Byron, a brother of Hubert Wittman, and who two years ago, took up passengers in his aeroplane here, and of late has been in charge of sales and chief pilot for the Pheasant Aircraft corporation of Memphis, Mo., will continue to be associated with the company when the plant is established at Fond du Lac. He will fly the six Pheasant ships now at Memphis to Fond du Lac within the next ten days. It is recalled that Mr. Wittman, the Pheasant company's pilot, finished fifth race in the 1928 transcontinental air race and was driving a standard Pheasant ship in that race. Purchase of a controlling interest in the Pheasant Aircraft corporation of Memphis, Mo., by T. W. Meiklejohn of Fond du Lac an organization of a new company which plans to move the entire plant to Fond du Lac immediately were announced last Saturday. The Missouri corporation was organized in June, 1927 and capitalized at $50,000. When its plant is moved to Fond du Lac, a Wisconsin corporation organized under the same name and capitalized at $100,000 will take over the business.

OPENING OF HARDWARE STORE TODAY

Today, Saturday, is the date set for the big opening of Ramthun Bros. Hardware store. The store is equipped with an entire new stock of hardware and everything is in readiness for the big opening day. A free gift will be given away to all men, women and children. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to attend this grand opening day.

NASH SEDAN DESTROYED BY FIRE

An accident which might have resulted fatally to the occupants occurred on Highway 65, about two miles south of Kewaskum last Sunday afternoon, when an expensive Nash sedan, overturned and burst into flames. There were eight persons in the car, four of them children, all of whom narrowly escaped cremation. One was seriously hurt and some were slightly bruised. Edwin Kroening, Menomonee Falls business man, driver of the car was the one most seriously hurt. Other motorists stopped their cars and ran to the aid of those trapped in the auto. They lifted the burning machine and pulled the occupants out before the entire machine was enveloped in fire. Mr. Kroening and party were headed south on the highway and while driving through the swamp road a Franklin car was approaching from the south and a Buick was coming from the opposite direction. The driver of the Franklin, it is reported, tried to pass the Nash and Buick. Kroening, fearing that there might be a collision, drove his car to the left side of the road and after clipping off several guard posts turned over and then burned up. It is reported that the drivers of the Franklin and Buick cars did not stop. The occupants of the Kroening car were taken to Menomonee Falls for medical treatment.

TRAMP KILLED BY TRAIN

An unidentified man, believed to be a tramp, was killed Saturday night by a North Western train a mile and a half north of Rockfield. The body was found lying near the tracks Sunday morning by section men. Corner Clemens Reinders was called to the scene, and the body was brought here to the Reinders undertaking parlor, where it laid in state until Monday afternoon when it was taken to West Bend and buried in Potter's field. There were no identification cards of any kind on the dead man's clothes. He was last seen here Saturday morning by Station Agent Anthony P. Schaefer, when he was walking on the tracks in a southerly direction. The man was of small stature and carried a small pack containing some clothing and part of a loaf of bread. He was apparently about 69 years old.

Skill Required for Fattening Calves

Breeder Must Now Give More Attention to Feeding Light Animals.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Because of the higher price of beef, smaller families, and a smaller proportion of the population doing heavy manual labor in recent years as compared with former years, the consumer is demanding lighterweight cuts of beef. Cattle breeders and feeders have been gradually adjusting their operations to meet this change.

Instead of feeding the heavier type of beefes commonly marketed 40 years ago at four or five years of age, they are now feeding calves and yearlings and marketing them when they weigh from 700 to 1,200 pounds.

Grow Rather Than Fatten.
On account of the tendency of calves to grow rather than to fatten, more skill is required to fatten them within a reasonable time than is necessary in the case of older cattle. The several phases of the fattening of calves for market are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin No. 1416-F, "Fattening Beef Calves," just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In comparing the fattening of calves and older cattle the bulletin lists several advantages in favor of calves:

The quantity of feed required to make a pound of gain increases as the animal grows older. Calves make from 33 to 55 per cent more gain than mature cattle on the same quantity of feed.

Fat, open heifers, weighing from 700 to 800 pounds, sell nearly as well as steers. Heavier heifers are discriminated against because they have more internal fat and are not so well covered as steers, and because, being older, the possibility of their being pregnant is greater.

Calves can be carried longer than mature steers when unexpected circumstances arise, such as bad markets, a strike, or an embargo, as they will retain their "blood" longer after they are ready to market.

Why Not to Fatten.
On the other hand, it is not always advisable to fatten calves, says the bulletin, for the following reasons:

Fattening calves require more attention and skill on the part of the man feeding them than is the case with older cattle.

Calves of slow-maturing type will not fatten rapidly enough to make desirable carcasses as yearlings. Such calves should generally be carried about two years as stockers before they are fattened.

The total feed required to produce a fat three-year-old steer may be made up of a much larger proportion of roughages than that required to produce a fat yearling. Mature cattle can eat coarser roughages and broken ear corn much better than young cattle.

Mature cattle may be fattened in a much shorter time than calves, as they have only to fatten, while calves grow as well as fatten.

A copy of the bulletin may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Vegetative Propagation Used for New Varieties

New commercial varieties of fruits may be obtained by the vegetative propagation of what is known as bud sports. As applied to fruit trees this term refers to branches which for no apparent reason bear fruit different in size, shape or color, or are different in some other respect from the rest of the tree.

Such bud sports are fairly common and when propagated by top grafting remain true to type according to horticultural experts at the Michigan experimental station. Over 100 of these variations have been under observation for several years by members of the horticultural staff of that station and are being put to tests to see whether they will transmit their characteristics when propagated vegetatively.

Although sufficient time has not elapsed to prove that all of the sports under test will "breed" true to type, some at least are known to have this characteristic.

Most of the bud sports which appear on the fruit trees are inferior to the parent tree, but some few are superior and it is to these that we may look as a source of new commercial varieties.

Wheat Makes Best Feed for Growing Turkeys

Wheat makes one of the best feeds for growing turkeys after the first six weeks' feeding of clubber cheese, and dry bread or rice soaked in sweet milk. Onion tops should be cut up into the cheese and soaked bread feed to give the much-needed green stuff. A good sprinkling of black pepper should be given on these feeds. As they get older, switch over to the grain diet very gradually so there will be no stomach derangement. Middlings with about one-fourth the amount of corn meal added, then moistened with skim milk, make a good morning feed right along, with wheat or other grain for the evening meal.

Difference in Alfalfa Seed Due to Qualities

One cannot study the behavior of alfalfa in different fields without coming to the conclusion that there is a great difference in the ability of various lots of seed to maintain a stand and to resist killing. Examples can be found of wide differences where two lots of seed were sown in the same field. One lot may show much killing out and disease while the other holds its stand in fine shape. That the difference is in heredity due to the inherent qualities carried in the seed can be the only conclusion.

UNTHRIFTY POTATO SEED MEANS PRODUCTION OF TRIVIAL YIELD

Money and Labor Is Wasted Without Proper Start.

Poor seed will not produce a good crop of potatoes no matter how much labor and money are expended on fertilizer, spraying and cultivation, according to K. H. Fernow of the New York State College of Agriculture. Good seed must be relatively free from virus diseases, true to variety and in good condition.

An inspection of seed shows whether it is badly sprouted, shriveled, or affected with black heart or freezing injury but only by examination of the growing plants can freedom from virus diseases be determined. To obtain healthy seed maintain a seed plot in which control methods against virus diseases are used, or else purchase seed from some one who uses control methods.

Some growers buy enough good seed each year to plant an increase plot from which they obtain seed for their main planting the following year. Such a practice is satisfactory only if the good seed purchased is planted at a distance from potatoes which have a relatively large amount of degeneration diseases and if conditions are not too favorable for the spread of virus diseases within the plot. At present there is no way to know absolutely whether seed is free from virus diseases but the use of certified seed usually results in healthier stock. The fields from which such seed comes have been inspected by the state college and have been found to contain only a small amount of virus diseases.

Train Brooder Chicks

The quickest way to get baby chicks brooder, broke, and accustomed to the runway, feeding room and exercising run of the brooder is to give them as leader one of the older chicks, preferably a chick about three weeks older. It is surprising how quickly chicks will learn to follow this leader, to scratch as he does, to go in and out as he does and to make themselves at home.

Around the Farm

It pays to treat seed grain for smut.

Proper pruning and spraying are essential to grape production everywhere.

If you have idle land on your farm it will pay you in the long run to start some trees on it.

Good forestry practice is as much a part of good farming, as is good cropping practice.

Leafy, small-stemmed hay, cut before it is too mature and properly cured without being rained on is best.

The larger potatoes especially for cattle should always be sliced to prevent choking on the part of the animals.

Don't forget that the early thinning of vegetables to a stand means increased production and earlier maturity.

As feed crop on the farm, barley is commonly considered at least 90 per cent as good as corn, pound for pound, as a feed for live stock.

Nothing is gained, and the trees may be injured, by pruning in hard freezing weather, for then the wounds dry out and do not heal so well.

Cultivation serves the purpose of conserving moisture and keeping down weeds, so the number of cultivations will depend upon the amount of moisture and weed growth.

Bordeaux mixture is used the world over to combat fungous diseases of the grape. Get spray bulletins from your congressman or from your agricultural and mechanical college.

Pigs Follow Steers

Pigs should be put in the feed lot with steers being fattened for market, for they will gather all grain dropped by the steers and clean up the grain scattered around the feed bunk. The pork produced from this feed, otherwise wasted, will add materially to the profits from steers. Pigs weighing from 100 to 150 pounds are the best size. Smaller pigs are not so well able to look after themselves running among the steers. As soon as the pigs are fat enough for market they should be sold.

Plenty of Sunshine

The successful hog raiser has come to appreciate sunshine more and more. Modern hog house plans provide for admission of plenty of sunlight to the pens. Hogs require an abundance of fresh, pure air, which should be furnished without subjecting them to injurious drafts. They suffer much in a close, confined, poorly ventilated place. Sunlight should sweep all parts of the floor each day, to destroy disease breeding organisms.

SAME PRESCRIPTION HE WROTE IN 1892

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as today. People lived normal lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings. The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe bowel stimulant.

This prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative. It has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds, fevers. At your druggist, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. B.B. Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

400,000 Women Report Benefit

by actual record
"Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

A questionnaire enclosed with every bottle of medicine has brought, to date, over 400,000 replies. The overwhelming majority—in fact, ninety-eight out of a hundred—says, "Yes." If this dependable medicine has helped so many women, isn't it reasonable to suppose that it will help you too? Get a bottle from your druggist today.

Three Outfield Slugging Stars

Imposing Trio of Cub Hitters.

There was a lot of speculation over the National league loop last spring as to what the Cubs would do with Cuyler added to their outfield that already boasted of Wilson and Stephenson. It was trilled about that here were three 350 hitters on one team and they would crush their way through all league defenses. But Stephenson fell off 20 points in his hitting and Cuyler, a demon in the springtime, always slumps in hitting in midsummer, so the Cubs fell just a few games short of the flag.

They are talking average and what he will do for the Cubs this year. But the Cubs still have this potential outfield. All three of these men are what they call natural hitters. They have the eye, the stance, the swing and the aptitude of the free-handed slugger, and men of this type are always dangerous and always apt to come back with a 350 average. Even though they did not play up to their full form last season there is no doubt but that this trio, on their records, rank with the Yankee trio as the two best outfields in baseball at this time.

during the years of 1924, 1925, 1926. He is twenty-nine years old and played six seasons on the big time. His batting slump of the past two seasons is inexplicable. He is fast, keen, smart and takes excellent care of himself.

Hack Wilson has had a brief but troubled career on the big time. When he came to McGraw in 1924 he blossomed early that spring into a corking fielder, a fast runner, a slashing hitter and an aggressive and popular player. The Polo fans doted on him. But he went into a batting slump in midsummer that changed the cheers into a wraith of raspberry. The next spring he could not hit at all, so McGraw sent him to Toledo with a string attached. The string slipped or broke or something and Wilson became Toledo property. When he fell back to double A he suddenly found himself and began to slug the ball. The Cubs grabbed him to the draft next winter.

Stephenson once hit .371 for Cleveland in the American league. That was back in 1924. He was an infielder then, and his defensive play was so weak that it did not offset his big batting average. They finally let him go to Indianapolis. He slugged his way back to the big show, this time appearing with the Cubs as an outfielder. He worked like a Trojan to perfect his outfield play and finally succeeded. He hit .338 in 1926 and .344 in 1927, and became a star. Stephenson came from the University of Alabama and is twenty-nine years old.

Here is an outfield capable of hitting right at the .350 mark. Add Hornsby with his .400 batting punch to all this dynamite and you have offensive power that is sure to gain a lot of ground in any campaign against any foe.

STONEHAM LIKES GIANTS' CHANCES

Owner of Team Believes New Yorkers Will Win Out.

In the opinion of Charles A. Stoneham, president and principal owner of the Giants, his club is one of the four which will fight it out for the pennant and he believes that the Giants under John J. McGraw have enough of an edge on the three others to turn the tide in their favor, barring the possibility of serious injury to important players at some critical period of the race.

"McGraw has brought back from the South a well balanced team that has overcome its greatest weakness of a year ago," he said. "That weakness was its inexperience. The young fellows who lacked experience last year now have it and the additions we have made have added strength where it was needed. "The race will not be an easy one, from what I can observe and from what Manager McGraw tells me. The Cubs, Pirates and St. Louis must be reckoned with. But if the fight really is among these three clubs and the Giants, you will find the Giants in every scrap and battling to the last. I think McGraw has put together a fine team. The pitching is much improved, the catching should be greatly bettered and the reserves are strong. McGraw is very keen on having reserve strength and he seems to be pretty well satisfied with what he now has.

"I said the fight looked as if it would be among four clubs. As a matter of fact, it may be a much different race, with several other clubs making trouble. "Everything considered, I feel optimistic about the Giants coming through. I have taken a leaf from Manager McGraw's book, however, and refuse to be precise about our winning. There are such things as flukes and I would hate to conjure one up to injure our chances."

Big League Prospect

Vincent Chiment, third baseman of the Lafayette university baseball team, on whom all scouts of the big leagues are keeping their eyes these days. Chiment is a star around the hot corner, while at the bat he is steadily improving. His coach, Bill Coughlin, former major league star, says Vince will go a long ways in pro baseball.

Plaster That Absorbs Sound Coming Into Use

Assembly rooms and auditoriums have long afforded engineers and architects problems in acoustic correction. In large rooms of this character, where orators address many people, echoes and excessive reverberation and confusion of sound must be anticipated and its distracting effect upon the attention of listeners prevented. Hospitals, hotels and apartment houses find a sound-absorbing material on upper walls and ceilings particularly restful to the occupants. In this machine age of many distracting noises the home owner is now considering methods for elimination of noise.

A sound absorbing plaster may be used as a finish coat over gypsum plaster, lime and sand plaster or upon concrete. This plaster can be floated to produce a flat semi-smooth surface. It lends itself readily to the creation of a variety of decorative finishes. Each texture may be further enhanced by color. A specially prepared acoustic paint must be used, which may be purchased in a variety of colors. One coat is usually sufficient to give the desired color effect, although two or more coats of shades of the same color are practicable.

Silencer for Engine

It is sometimes necessary to take heroic measures to preserve our silence. Consider the problem of the Tucson Light and Power company, which has a Diesel engine with an exhaust pipe 32 inches in diameter, the roar of which could be heard for 14 miles. To overcome the tremendous and unbearable noise which the engine would develop a Maxim silencer has been built which weighs 26,000 pounds, is seven feet in diameter and is 20 feet long. The first silencer of this type was six inches long and went on the end of a gun barrel.

Looks

Senator Edwards is the subject of a story that they are telling in Trenton.

It seems that the senator made an anti-prohibition speech at a Trenton banquet, and was congratulated on his eloquence by a politician who had been changing from wet to dry and dry to wet every month or so for the last seven years.

"Splendid, senator!" said the politician. "I never heard a more brilliant and moving speech. And yet you don't look like an orator, either."

"Maybe not," said Senator Edwards. "And no more do you look like a weathercock."

Jerusalem's Population

The present population of Jerusalem is between 64,000 and 65,000. It is believed that the population of Jerusalem in the time of Jesus was about the same, somewhere between 60,000 and 70,000. Three hundred years before a Greek historian estimated the population at 120,000.—Pathfinder Magazine.

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

Thirty-three pilots have since 1876 drawn pay from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Rube Robinson and Jimmy Johnston are starting their twenty-first seasons in the Southern this spring.

Joe Witry and Fred Linderstrom with the New York Giants are graduates of Loyola university in Chicago.

Yam Faryan, Birmingham catcher, is starting his thirteenth season behind the bat. He hit .389 last year.

Frank Seyboth, two years ago the fastest outfielder in the Piedmont league, now is a catcher with Charlotte.

Joe Judge, first baseman, thinks the Washington team is 35 per cent stronger this year than it was last season.

Frank Gilhooley, Jersey City manager, has played in the International league in 12 seasons, including the last one.

Only three of the 1925 Cardinals are on the present roster. They are Bottomley, Huines and Sherdel. The rest have gone far, far away.

Dazy Vance, the speedball hurler of the Brooklyn club, is reported to get $25,000 a season. This is the highest price paid to any pitcher in organized baseball.

Manager Bill Clymer of the Buffalo Bisons turned a helping hand to the Hagerstown Hubs of the Blue Ridge league when he optioned Catcher Pytlak and Pitcher Gilbert to the Blue Ridge entry.

Walter Nufer, an infielder who played with Omaha a decade ago, is back with the Barney Burch Reds. A deal was closed for his services. Omaha giving Outfielder Ted Thrune to Topeka in exchange for him.

Joseph Wineand, a catcher of Martinsburg, Pa., and Leslie Watson, an infielder of Altoona, have been signed by the Hanover club of the Blue Ridge league. Both are nineteen years old.

There will be an "Earl Johnson day" in the Eastern league this season and the popular Albany pitcher who was named the most valuable player in the circuit last season will be the recipient of honors. President Herman Weisman will present the player with a suitable trophy, either a cup or a watch.

Mary Browne Lands Job

Mary K. Browne, former national women's singles tennis champion, has been selected as women's tennis instructor at Ohio State university. It was announced. Miss Browne was singles champ in 1912, 1913 and 1914 and held the doubles title in 1912, 1913, 1914, 1921 and 1925.

Johnny Evers Feels Hopeful of Braves

Johnny Evers, the former "human crab" of baseball, is sort of a polyantha in his new job as assistant manager of the Braves under Judge Emil Fuchs. He sees great seasons for Lester Bell, infielder, and George Sisler, first sacker, and thinks the spirit of the club is excellent. "It looks as if we are going to have a good hustling ball club," Evers wrote to his brother, Joe Evers of Albany.

League Is Disbanded

The Utah-Idaho league directors have voted to disband the circuit. This drastic and unexpected action was taken. It is claimed, because Pacific Coast league clubs, which have been backing several of the entries in the little mountain loop, have withdrawn their support. At the time the magnates decided to call it quits only the Salt Lake City club had Coast league backing, this coming from the San Francisco Seals. The Utah Idaho developed many youngsters.

Sport Notes

A veteran backfield is intact for the University of Pittsburgh football team.

Jin Thorpe, famous Indian athlete, is said to be muscle-bound at the age of forty-four.

Chick Meehan of New York university is considering two football teams for next fall.

Michigan has a hard football schedule with Harvard, Iowa, Ohio, Illinois, Purdue and Minnesota.

Bobby Ocock, speed skater, will captain the University of Wisconsin winter sports team next year.

Indiana led the nation in basketball attendance with nearly 10,000,000 fans turning out the past season.

Only two men are lost from the New York university line, but the two were stars, Al Lassman and Bob Barabee.

Oklahoma A. & M. wrestlers have won an even dozen championships since 1921—three national and nine sectional.

Referees officiating at games played by the Canadian Professional Hockey league will in the future wear numbers so that the fans may know their identity.

Dick Harlow advised his Western Maryland football men to go out for the lacrosse team this spring. Dick thinks lacrosse a fine conditioner for the gridiron squad.

After 12 seasons of steady campaigning, Tipity Wlitcher has run his last race. The fourteen-year-old steeplechasing gelding started 266 times and won 78 races.

George Koljac, Rutgers swimmer, didn't lose a single race he swam during the recent intercollegiate season. He took part in 20.

Franklin H. Hoyt of Newton has been elected captain of the Williams hockey team for next year. He is a member of the junior class.

Gordy Brown, captain elect of the 1929 football team at the University of Texas, is not likely to play next fall. A knee injury threatens to ruin his career. He is a tackle.

Before Planting Time, Make Sure YOUR Planter Is Right

McCormick-Deering "100 Series" planters combine old, proven principles with a simplified design which insures greater accuracy, a wider range of adaptability, and easier ways of adapting the planters to the different requirements. They have been taken a number of years to perfect this combination. The result is a series of planters, which have no untried features. Their superiority lies in the manner in which these proven principles are combined and applied. The McCormick-Deering "100 Series" planters are furnished both as check-row planters and drills. The check-row planter can be quickly set for drilling, and only a moment is required to change it to power-drop for bunch-drop drilling. The pea-and-bean and other attachments are of an improved design, and can be quickly installed both on planters and drills. If you are looking for a planter that will plant your crops accurately and that requires minimum attention, it will pay to ask us to demonstrate a McCormick-Deering "100 Series" planter.

With the Wisconsin Legislature

Madison—Gov. Walter J. Kohler has signed the Goodland bill for an organization of the state highway commission.

As soon as the bill is published it will become law and Gov. Kohler will appoint three full-time members of the new board at salaries of $8,000 a year.

Two bills relating to proposed new election methods were killed in the Wisconsin senate.

Proposal to rescind the tax exemption privilege of churches which permit political speeches to be made from their pulpits were defeated 47 to 33 by the Wisconsin assembly.

The creation of a complete new educational administration for Wisconsin has been unanimously recommended by the assembly education committee.

Deadlock of the Wisconsin senate over the Schlegel reciprocal inheritance tax bill was broken and the upper house will meet tonight to catch up with its work which has been delayed almost a week by a filibuster.

Future primary elections in Wisconsin will be held the third Tuesday in September instead of the first Tuesday under an act passed by the legislature, subject to approval of the governor.

Reconsideration of its favorable vote on the Iels bill to tax street railways and all public utilities operating street railways at the local rate rather than the average state rate was refused by the Wisconsin assembly.

The assembly passed the administration bill, abolishing the departments of cement purchasing, superintendent of public property, printing board and engineering, and placing in their stead a bureau of purchases and a bureau of engineering as part of the proposed governor's advisory council.

The lower house killed the Keller bill to bring University of Wisconsin law school graduates under the same examination Marquette law graduates are forced to take for admittance to the bar.

Manitowish—Knights of Pythias and the auxiliary, the Pythian Sisters, will hold their annual state convention here Aug. 26, 27 and 28.

Chippewa Falls—The Chippewa County Council of American Legion posts was formed here as the first step in getting every eligible service man in the county into the organization.

Madison—Nearly $1,500,000 was paid for compensation and medical attention due to injuries to Wisconsin workmen's eyes in four years, the industrial commission has reported.

Fennimore—Farmers about Castle Rock, northeast of here, marketed their striping tobacco here to the tobacco pool, disposing of about 35,000 pounds, at a price range of 8c to 14c.

Bloomer—Holstein dairymen have formed a local club to help organize Chippewa county breeds, as has been carried on in Barron county.

Madison—Farmers of Wisconsin will plant at least 45,000 acres of clover, alfalfa, soybeans and other plants of the legume family this year.

Blackwell—The Flanner Co. sawmill here has started sawing hardwood logs that are the product of a second logging of lands which the company cut over 20 years ago.

Wausau—Thieves entered the plant of the Kleinheinz Dairy Co. and carried away a safe weighing 800 pounds. They blew it open in the country about five miles north of here and got $50.

Madison—Intensive burberry eradication work will be undertaken this year in Dane, Rock and Grant counties and in a few sections of Walworth county, according to plans of Ralph M. Caldwell, state leader of the eradication project.

Darlington—When 35 blocks of pavement, gutter and storm sewer have been finished here this summer, Darlington will have four miles of pavement, which officials here believe will surpass any city in the state under 2,000 population.

Madison—Wisconsin's cost of training and maintaining its national guard units is far below that of the nation as a whole, which has an average cost, according to the Wisconsin National Guard Review, of $238.22 a year for each man.

Madison—Dunn County No. 1 Dairy Herd Improvement association retained its leadership of Wisconsin's 145 organizations during March, reports A. J. Cramer and Roy T. Harris.

La Crosse—The Vernon County Guernsey Breeders' association held its fifth annual consignment sale at Viroqua, and 121 animals were listed and sold of which 38 were pure bred males, 25 pure bred females and the remainder grade females.

Galesville—Gale college here will hold its seventieth commencement during the last week in May and preparations are being made for a more elaborate program than in other years.

Wisconsin Rapids—An epidemic which has swept through at least 30 dairy herds in Wood county, causing loss of thousands of dollars to dairy farmers, may be conquered by a new vaccine developed at the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn.

Milwaukee—Market quotations: Butter—Creamery, fresh extras, tubs, 42c; extra firsts, 41c@41 1/2c.

Chicago—An American missionary, Rev. Herbert Smith of Zionville, Ind., was murdered by Chinese bandits at Singly, in southwestern Kweichow.

London.—The Labor party has issued a pamphlet entitled "Freedom of the Seas," declaring that never again can one nation's blockade of the seas be effected and that any attempt would soon be abandoned under determined American opposition.

Paris.—Prof. Albert Einstein, famous German mathematician, has been awarded an honorary doctor's degree by the University of Paris, the first granted a German since the World war.

London.—The Labor party has issued a pamphlet entitled "Freedom of the Seas," declaring that never again can one nation's blockade of the seas be effected and that any attempt would soon be abandoned under determined American opposition.

RIOTING COLLEGIANS CLOSE DES MOINES U

Fundamentalist - Modernist Controversy Is Cause.

Des Moines, Iowa.—Riots at Des Moines university, forecasting a fundamentalist-modernist controversy rivaling the Dayton (Tenn.) "monkey trial," became a national affair with points of interest in Chicago, Buffalo and Los Angeles, as well as Toronto, Ont.

A legal battle was forecast when students announced plans for an injunction to prevent closing of the university. The students appeared as usual and demanded that classes be held. Their position is that they have paid tuition and are therefore entitled to continued instruction.

Dr. T. T. Shields, leading fundamentalist warrior in the Baptist church, closing the school "indefinitely" and discharging the entire university personnel, from president to janitors, were echoed in these developments:

1. A legal battle was forecast when students announced plans for an injunction to prevent closing of the university. The students appeared as usual and demanded that classes be held.

2. Dr. T. T. Shields, driven out of Des Moines through fear of student violence, proceeded to Buffalo, N. Y., to present his side before the Baptist Bible union.

3. A Chicago trustee of the university revealed that charges involving Doctor Shields and Miss Edith Rebmam, his secretary and secretary of the university board, had been voiced by opponents of the university administration.

4. Associates of Doctor Shields blamed the situation on an attempt of modernists to wreck the school because of its avowed fundamentalist policy. At the same time a statement was made by Dr. Arthur E. Bennett, ousted dean of the college of education, denying that a fundamentalist-modernist dispute was responsible and stating the rift was due to the oppressive pro-British and pro-Canadian sympathies of Doctor Shields and his secretary.

This resolution was the answer of the board of trustees of Des Moines university to charges against Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the board, and Miss Edith Rebmam, its secretary.

The board of trustees of Des Moines university in special meeting convened to consider certain complaints and rumors touching upon the personal integrity of the president of the board and of the secretary-treasurer, after an exhaustive inquiry of many hours, in which documents, the deans and certain students were examined, hereby repudiates with the profoundest indignation the very suggestion that either of the said officers of the board would in either word or deed condescend to any course incompatible with the highest standards of Christian integrity and honor.

Monroe, Mich.—Five persons were killed, four seriously injured, and twelve others received minor injuries when a Cleveland to Detroit bus of the Greyhound lines struck the rear end of a truck belonging to Motor Freight, Inc. The dead are: H. Westerman, forty, of Chicago; Mrs. Emma Maretius, sixty-six, of Los Angeles, Calif.; Frank Cinderlich, twenty-one, of Centerville, Iowa; Mildred Proctor, sixteen, of Painesville, Ohio; F. J. Glaff, forty-two, of Detroit, Mich.

Washington.—In addition to being groomed for an around-the-world trip this summer, the Graf Zeppelin is destined to show its silver sides to the white wastelands of the Arctic before another year has passed.

London.—An American missionary, Rev. Herbert Smith of Zionville, Ind., was murdered by Chinese bandits at Singly, in southwestern Kweichow. After assassinating the missionary the bandits rifled his clothes and other effects and fled with his loot, according to the dispatch.

Gibara, Cuba.—Paul Muller, German sailor, arrived here after a safe crossing of the Atlantic in a 25-foot lifeboat called the Aga. He used a sail as well as oars to propel his craft.

London.—The Labor party has issued a pamphlet entitled "Freedom of the Seas," declaring that never again can one nation's blockade of the seas be effected and that any attempt would soon be abandoned under determined American opposition.

Paris.—Prof. Albert Einstein, famous German mathematician, has been awarded an honorary doctor's degree by the University of Paris, the first granted a German since the World war.

DECLINES PRESIDENCY

Caracas, Venezuela.—General Gomez, president of Venezuela, who was unanimously re-elected by congress, has declined, explaining that he feels his long tenure in office, virtually since 1909 except for intervals, has fulfilled his duty and he now desires to return to agricultural pursuits.

HOOVER PLANS TOUR OF MEXICO, PANAMA

Washington.—President Hoover plans a wide travel tour of the United States and a visit to foreign shores immediately after adjournment of congress.

His trip will keep him constantly on the go from seven to eight weeks, ending with a short vacation at his old home at Palo Alto, Calif.

For the most part he will travel through the southern states. He has invitations from practically all of them and plans to accept as many as possible. He also expects to board a battleship on a tour of the West Indies, a visit to Panama and Mexico.

Naturally the President will be able to remain in any one place only a short while, so for the time he is touring the United States he will virtually live on a special train.

He contemplates visiting Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, the Gulf states and a number of resorts in Texas. From there he probably will go to the Pacific coast, where he will board a battleship for his foreign cruise.

The President's itinerary may either take him direct through the Panama canal and thence to the West Indies, after which he will visit Mexico, or he may land on the west coast of Mexico and go overland to Mexico City.

Philadelphia.—Peter Thomas, a plasterer, finding himself the center of unpleasant neighborhood gossip, planned to kill his wife, his three children, a stepson, and himself. The stepson, who had been ordered to stay home from school, remembered it was examination week and stole out the back door. Thomas' plans were carried out otherwise, except that his own wounds probably will not prove mortal.

Chicago.—Chicago painters obtained the five-day week in a working agreement for a three-year period, concluded between their union and the Decorating and Painting Contractors association.

HOOVER TAKES LEAD IN FARM AID FIGHT

Also Hopes to Bring Peace in Tariff Muddle.

Washington.—President Hoover has assumed leadership in an effort to extricate farm relief and tariff legislation from the growing impasse in the extra session of congress, and to close the widening breach on the Republican side of the senate.

Enactment of farm relief legislation in time for application to this season's crops appeared to hinge on the contest between the house and senate over the right of the senate to incorporate the controversial export debenture plan in the legislation.

Washington.—By a vote of 47 to 44, the senate, defying the recommendations of the President, defeated the motion of Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, to strike the export debenture amendment from the farm relief bill. Defeat of the Watson motion is accepted as meaning that the export debenture provision will remain in the measure when it passes the senate.

Thirteen Republicans, including Senator Borah of Idaho, lined up against the Watson motion, and for debentures, with 34 Democrats.

In favor of the Watson motion, on the roll call, were 42 Republicans and only two Democrats—Senators Ransdell of Louisiana and Wagner of New York.

In addition Senators Walsh of Massachusetts and King of Utah, Democrats, were paired in favor of the motion and Senators Shipstead of Minnesota, Farmer-Labor, and Kendrick of Wyoming, Democrat, both of them ill, were paired against it.

The vote aroused intense interest because of the closeness of the situation and speculation as to whether the administration would be upheld or defeated on an issue on which the President, in a recent letter to Senator McNary, went emphatically on record declaring his opposition to the export debenture plan. It is the first congressional defeat for the White House since the extra session opened.

While it would be possible to have another test on the Watson motion of its equivalent when the bill goes from committee of the whole to the senate proper, there is little indication it would change the result provided all senators were present or paired.

Despite the fact that administration forces received an undoubted setback in the vote, and while it was said the export debenture amendment will remain in the bill when it passes the senate, this does not mean it will go into the law.

The house is expected to reject it overwhelmingly, and may refuse even to receive the bill on the ground that export debentures involve a revenue question which should originate in the house. In any event, rejection by the house is considered assured.

That body will stand by the President and eventually the senate will be compelled, it is generally assumed, to recede from its position in order to get a farm relief bill passed without undue delay. Since a shift of two votes would reverse the senate attitude and inasmuch as the house will have a large majority against the debentures the senate will doubtless back down rather than the house.

Supporters of the debenture plan in the senate say they will put it into the tariff bill if it fails in the farm bill.

The debenture section of the farm bill would provide for the issuance of certificates to exporters of surplus farm crops for an amount equal to the same products. The debenture certificates would be acceptable as cash in payment of import duties.

The section would put a debenture rate of 2 cents a pound on cotton, which is on the free list.

Invoking of the debenture plan, under the terms of the senate bill, would be left to the discretion of the proposed farm board and would not be compulsory. The section provides a guard against excessive overproduction by providing for a graduated reduction of rates whenever overproduction is forecast in products subject to the debenture.

Square Type Farm Home Will Appeal to Many Prospective Home Builders

Life is only what we make it. With a pleasant home of this type and its beautiful setting of flowers and shrubs, life could be enjoyed to the fullest extent.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Modern architectural design has done much to make attractive the old-fashioned square hip roof farm home. By the addition of a sun parlor at one side and an old colonial entrance door and entry at the corner, the square type home shown in the accompanying illustration is made one that is out of the ordinary and one which will appeal to a great many prospective home builders.

This is not an expensive home to build as its foundation walls are nearly square and there are no angles in them. The size of the house is 22 feet by 25 feet. The living room reaches directly through the entrance door is 21 feet long and 11 feet 6 inches wide. At one end is an open fireplace and at the other are open french doors leading into a sun parlor which is 7 feet 6 inches by 14 feet deep. At both ends of the side of the sun parlor are three double-hung windows reaching through a door opening in the dining room 6 inches by 13 feet. A stairs opening out of the living room go to the second floor and end in a central hall out of which are the three bedrooms. One of these rooms, 9 feet 6 inches by 11 feet 6 inches, is designated on the accompanying plans as a play room. It is large enough for a study room should the need of it require it for that use. The two bedrooms are corner rooms being 11 feet 6 inches by 12 feet the other 11 feet 6 inches by 12 feet 6 inches.

The basement of the main house as the house supplies main rooms for a heating plant and storage. Prospective home builders in this design of the square type home an opportunity to see a most attractive and comfortable minimum of cost.

Housewife in Favor of Concrete Floors. The fact that concrete floors are fire resistive is a strong argument in favor of introducing them into the building of houses and residences. They have been found to be dry and healthful, and when these floors are immediately above basement rooms that are heated will be found to be actually much warmer than ordinary construction. The fact, too, that they are nonabsorbent and consequently easily kept clean makes them popular with many housewives. They do not squeak or vibrate and are soundproof. Such floors can be stained and then waxed. They can also be given an enamel finish. Sometimes, when the surface has just been placed and is still soft, Dutch tile can be laid, which gives the floor a vivid appearance. Frequently colored concrete tile are used to harmonize with the rest of the room and the walls.

Home With Central Hall Proves Popular Now. Probably the plan most frequently utilized for the house of moderate size is the central hall type, with living room on one side, dining room on the other. To the visitor entering the front door, he is friend or foe, 90 per cent of the first story is spread open before his eyes. And if he but take the logical next step forward, behold! he will be up the stairs and right into the sleeping quarters.

Mahogany Is Favored Wood for Furniture. Since the early part of the Eighteenth century mahogany has been one of the most favored woods in the manufacture of furniture. However, it

House With Attached Car Space Popular. The attached garage, accessible from the house without going outside, is becoming extremely popular in the modern suburban home, or, in fact, in any home where the space on the property permits.

White Ceilings. Contrasting white ceilings with other and many decorators have gone far as to advocate dark ceilings, too, claiming that they are the room, and should be considered such.

Stencil Designs Make Child's Room Charming. Owing to the great variety of stencil designs which are now on the market, the problem of decorating a nursery wall in a manner to interest the child's fancy is extremely easy. These stencils include designs of nursery and fascinating characters of nursery rhymes. Apart from their charming effect their light, their educational value is notable.

Wall Paper. Wall paper is valuable from a natural standpoint, as well as from a decorative one, for its color and signs, properly used, can do a great deal to remedy structural faults and the February American Home.

An Adventure of the Scarlet Pimpernel

BY THE BARONESS ORCZY

CHAPTER I

Sir Andrew's Story

They are impossible, Sir Andrew is saying, raving, ranting about this latest exploit of the Scarlet Pimpernel, the man who doles out his golden sympathy, his radiant face, his glowing and grateful hearts—Gordon.

"Kindness is like the sun. Everywhere the kind man goes, he brings into being priceless things—golden sympathies, radiant faces, glowing and grateful hearts—Gordon."

"Good things to eat. A delicious frosting to place on a sponge cake or any other loaf or layer cake for that matter, is: Golden Orange Frosting.—Mix the grated rind of one orange with three tablespoonfuls of orange juice and one teaspoonful of lemon juice, the yolk of one egg and confectioner's sugar enough to spread. Mix the rind and fruit juices and let stand fifteen minutes. Strain into the beaten egg and add the sugar needed."

"Coffee Macaroon Parfait.—Take two packages of coffee junket, prepare with milk according to directions. Turn into a freezer and let stand until firm. Add twelve macaroons or a cupful of the crumbs and one cupful of whipped cream. Pack in ice and salt and freeze."

"Sirloin Steak Julienne.—Cut sirloin steak an inch thick into three-inch squares. Roll in seasoned flour and brown on both sides. Place the browned squares in a baking dish, add a teaspoonful of honey for each square, cover with tomato purée. Now place a layer of onion and celery cut into strips over each, using four strips for each serving. Cover and bake slowly for two hours. Uncover and bake for fifteen minutes."

"Salmon Turnovers.—Chop fine one hard-cooked egg and one can of salmon. Mix one-half teaspoonful of cornstarch with a half cupful of milk over a slow fire. When thick add the salmon, one tablespoonful of butter and season to taste. Prepare a rich pie crust and cut the size of a saucer. Wet the edges with cold water, put one large tablespoonful of the salmon mixture in the center of each square, fold over and press the edges well together. Cut small slits in the top and place in a hot oven to bake."

"Stuffed Lamb Chops.—Take ten chops cut very thick. Split each chop, being careful not to separate the meat from the bone. Put a tablespoonful of butter in a hot frying pan, add one tablespoonful of chopped onion, cook slowly for five minutes, add one-half cupful of mushrooms, one teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and cook five minutes; now add a tablespoonful of flour and two tablespoonfuls of stock and cook until thick. Stuff each chop with this mixture before it cooks. Press lightly together and broil. Season well before serving."

"Homemade Candy Doesn't Last Long, but it is much enjoyed while it lasts. Just now while candy is more highly respected as an energy producer, mothers of growing children will find it easier to consent to candy making in the home. Old-fashioned taffy, molasses candy, brittles of various kinds are all easy to prepare and are recommended as good exercise for the gums and teeth."

"The one trouble which amateur candy makers find disturbing, is the habit sugar has of graining. In making fondant, the foundation for bon bons and creams, add three tablespoonfuls of white corn sirup to the two cupfuls of sugar and one-half cupful of water, then the mixture will be smooth when cooled and beaten."

"Foulkes forthwith to satisfy our curiosity." In a moment Sir Andrew Foulkes found himself the center of attraction. He was in his element; a worshiper of his beloved chief, he was called upon to sing the praises of the man whom he admired and loved best in all the world. Had the bevy of beauties around him known that he was recounting his own prowess as well as that of his leader and friend they could not have bung more eagerly on his lips.

In the hubbub attendant on settling down so as to hear Sir Andrew's narrative even the popular Sir Percy Blakeney was momentarily forgotten. The idol of London society, he nevertheless had to be set aside for the moment in favor of the mysterious hero who, as elusive as a shadow, was still the chief topic of conversation in the saloons of two continents.

The ladies would have it that Sir Percy was jealous of the popularity of the Scarlet Pimpernel. Certain it is that as soon as Sir Andrew Foulkes had started to obey his highness's commands by embarking on his narrative, Sir Percy retired to the farther end of the room, and stretched out his long limbs upon a downy sofa, and promptly went to sleep.

"Is it a fact, my dear Foulkes," his highness had asked, "that the gallant Scarlet Pimpernel and his lieutenants actually held up the chaise in which the Comte de Tournon-d'Agény and his family were being conveyed to Paris?"

"An absolute fact, your highness," Sir Andrew Foulkes replied, while a long-drawn-out "Ah!" of excitement went the round of the brilliant company. "I have the story from madame la comtesse herself. The Scarlet Pimpernel, in the company of three of his followers, all of them disguised as footpads, did, at the pistol point, hold up the chaise which was conveying the prisoners, under heavy escort, from their chateau of Agény, where they had been summarily arrested, to Paris."

"Inside the vehicle M. de Tournon-d'Agény, with his wife, his young son, and two daughters, sat huddled up, half dumbfounded with terror. They had no idea who had denounced them, and on what charge they had been arrested, but they knew well enough what fate awaited them in Paris. The revolutionary wolves are fairly on the warpath just now. To prove their love for France, lovely France, whose white robes are stained with the blood of her innocent children; and to show their zeal in her cause, they commit the most dastardly crimes."

"Madam la comtesse assured me that her husband, and, in fact, all the family had kept clear of politics during these, the worst times of the revolution. Though all of them are devoted royalists, they kept all show of loyalty hidden in their hearts. Only one thing had they forgotten to do, and that was to take down from the wall in madam's boudoir a small miniature of their unfortunate queen."

"And for this they were arrested?" "They were innocent of everything else. In the early dawn after their summary arrest they were dragged out of their home and were being conveyed for trial to Paris, where they were about equal to those of a rabbit when chased by a terrier."

Reliable Houses Best for Seeds

Gardener Should Know Something of Trade and Various Methods.

Vegetable gardeners should be careful to purchase their seed from widely known, reliable seed dealers only. This precaution is urged by A. M. Binkley, associate professor of horticulture at the Colorado Agricultural college.

To buy seed intelligently, the gardener should know something of the seed trade and of the methods and conditions under which it operates. This business, like many others, Mr. Binkley says, is somewhat dependent upon the character of the men in it, and it is therefore necessary to know the reputation of the concern with which one proposes to do business.

Know Seed Dealer. Not all seed is produced under careful methods and no seed house handling a general line of vegetable seed can grow all of its supplies. A few grow a large proportion, and some buy it all. The buyer should know or become personally acquainted with local seed dealers and ascertain their standards of business.

The best companies are extremely careful in buying and handling, and are earnestly seeking to satisfy reasonable expectations. It costs more money to produce high grade seed, and as long as the planters are willing to buy seed from the lowest bidder, there is no inducement for the seed producer to exercise a high degree of care in the selection of better seed stocks.

Pay for Quality. While high priced seed is not always a guarantee of quality, it is not often that carefully selected stocks can be sold at the price of cull stock. The vegetable grower should be willing to pay for quality in seeds.

Inquiries concerning the origin of the seed to be purchased should be made. One should also learn to judge whether statements made in seed catalogs are based on facts or mere opinions.

Feeding Brood Sow to Keep Her in Condition

In feeding the brood sow, it should be borne in mind that there are some factors to be considered that do not arise in feeding hogs for market. Not only must the sow be properly nourished to keep her in good condition, but provision must be made for the unborn pigs by providing feeds of muscle and bone-building character. Such feeds as shorts, middlings, oil-meal, tankage, ground oats, alfalfa meal, and skim milk fed in connection with corn will usually give good results. Barley may be substituted for all or part of the corn, particularly if there is a tendency on the part of the sow to become too fat. It is impossible to say definitely what feeds are best and in what proportions they should be used, as the feeder must be guided by the condition of his sows. Young sows will require relatively more protein than older sows.

Early Pullets for Eggs Are Quite Satisfactory

A more satisfactory winter egg production will be obtained from early hatched, vigorous, and well-grown pullets that carry a surplus of flesh. Late hatched, slow-maturing pullets should be culled from the laying flock and only the well-grown birds of desirable type should be kept. The culling out of the late hatched pullets removes one of the most common sources of roup infection and may tend to prevent the disease from gaining a foothold in the flock.

Agricultural Squibs

Sweet clover should be sown in the spring.

Pruning of young trees may be done at any season when the tree is dormant.

Another agricultural surplus which hurts the farmer is the surplus of low quality produce.

Leaving machinery standing outdoors increases farm expenses and cuts down profits.

Good seed potatoes are one of the most important factors in securing maximum yields of tubers.

The peach presents a peculiar problem in that it reaches maturity and begins bearing at a very early age.

Various crops are used for green manure but golden millet seems to find favor in some of the grape sections.

Fertilizer should not be put where it will come in direct contact with the roots of the tree.

In many orchards and gardens, the yield of fruit or vegetable is closely related to the available soil moisture.

Flax is not likely to prove satisfactory on fields which are weedy. New breaking is, therefore, a particularly good place to grow this crop.

Success in co-operative marketing associations depends primarily on sufficient volume, efficient management, and loyalty of members, says North Dakota bulletin.

If young geese are good size and well matured, there is no reason why they should not be used in breeding line the first year, although they should be better the next two or three years.

Wheats are the most dangerous enemies of crop yields, year in and year out. Yet, year after year, thousands of acres of valuable small grain crops are planted with uncleaned, bin-run seed.

ACCESSORIES SHOULD MATCH; ADD BOWS, SUBTRACT SLEEVES

FROM simplest dressmaker and milliner to most exalted couturiere and modiste, from bootmaker to handbag specialist, jeweler, glove-maker and scarf designer, the whole world of fashionists have gone matchmaking. This idea of matching this, that and the other of costume accessories has added a very zestful and exciting note to the apparel program. Not only are the stylists who set the mode charged to play up their most intriguing creative talents, but the clientele which they serve are inspired to make of shopping an art. For with fashion's demand for a "perfect match" no longer can a woman who would dress successfully by casually or impulsively buy this and that which happens to strike her fancy. Rather must she cultivate to a nicety the study of color values and related design, in order to exercise that fine discrimination in her selections such as will so correlate her attire that each costume will stand out unified and individualized.

Mode Calls for Matched Accessories

The matching vogue plays no favorites. Accessories are expected to match whether the costume be the simplest sort for sportswear or for the street ensemble, or for resplendent evening attire.

In the picture are shown several intriguing "sets." The felt hat banded with the identical silk print of the large kerchief scarf which is knotted nonchalantly about the shoulders presents an appealing idea—especially when the gay print is in vivid tone.

The newest thing in scarfs is the narrow long kind, such as the one sketched with the matching pocket-book in this illustration. A combination such as this gives tone to any street costume.

Shoes-to-match is the latest hobby of the mode—which means that fashionable shoes are this season made of anything from straw or designful cotton prints to the most exquisite silks and novelty fabrics. The pocketbook and shoes circled in the upper right corner of the picture are handsome embroidered crepe de chine.

Now that April has fulfilled the traditional promise to "bring forth

ing their beauty. Gay print rolles, crepes, dimities and handkerchief line make up a goodly part of modish washable fabrics which, being sheer, lend themselves admirably to the soft "dressmaker styling" now so much in vogue. Hand embroidery on this material finds favor with the mode this season, for to the woman skilled in needlecraft means "opportunity knocking at the door."

Boil until the mixture makes a soft ball when dropped into cold water. Cool slightly then beat until creamy, adding a teaspoonful of vanilla. Put into a greased pan and mark off into squares."

"Nut or Coconut Brittle.—Melt two cupfuls of granulated sugar in a smooth frying pan over medium heat, stirring from the bottom, so that it will not burn. Add one tablespoonful of butter, a few grains of salt and a pinch of soda. Add two cupfuls of nut meats or coconut, pour into a greased pan and mark off into squares."

"Fruit Roll.—Put one cupful of dates, figs, raisins and nuts through the meat grinder, moisten with a teaspoonful of orange juice and pack into a cracker box or small tin to mold. Cut into slices, wrap in paper and it is ready to keep for several weeks if kept in a cool place."

"Fruit Omelet.—Beat one egg, adding the grated rind of part of an orange, one teaspoonful of juice, a few grains of salt. Peel one orange, removing all the white membrane and cut into very thin slices. Sprinkle with a teaspoonful of powdered sugar. Melt two teaspoonfuls of butter in a hot omelet pan, add the egg mixture, cook over low heat, shaking the pan. Roll and fold and sprinkle another teaspoonful of sugar over the omelet. Serve with the sliced oranges around the omelet."

With the Wisconsin Legislature

Madison—Gov. Walter J. Kohler has signed the Goodland bill for an organization of the state highway commission.

As soon as the bill is published it will become law and Gov. Kohler will appoint three full-time members of the new board at salaries of $6,000 a year. The new board displaces the present part-time body made up of three appointive and two ex-officio members, Dean F. E. Turnure of the University School of Engineering, and E. F. Bean, state geologist.

A large delegation came to the capitol to see the governor also sign the Slagg bill officially establishing Left Erikson day.

Two bills relating to proposed new election methods were killed in the Wisconsin senate. One by Senator Glenn D. Roberts, would have provided that county officers should run on a nonpartisan ticket at the primary and the two highest would be the candidates at the general election. The other, by Senator Robert Caldwell, would have provided for maintaining party lines at the primary election. Under its proposed ruling, a voter would have been obliged to ask for a party ballot, his name would have been taken and then it would have been required that he vote for that party at the following election.

Proposal to rescind the tax exemption privilege of churches which permit political speeches to be made from their pulpits were defeated 47 to 33 by the Wisconsin assembly.

The bill, by Assemblyman Charles A. Hudlog, provided that any church permitting a political speech from its pulpit should be forever required to pay taxes. An amendment defining "political speech" and making the tax paying period for one year only, was offered by the author of the bill and also was defeated.

The creation of a complete new educational administration for Wisconsin has been unanimously recommended by the assembly education committee, to include an elective state board of education which will supersede all agencies and subsidiary boards to regulate the board of university regents, the board of normal school and the vocational education board.

Deadlock of the Wisconsin senate over the Schniege reciprocal inheritance tax bill was broken and the upper house will meet tonight to catch up with its work which has been delayed almost a week by a filibuster. The senate by a 17-10 vote refused to grant the assembly's request for return of the bill. Prediction that the measure will be killed by conservatives in the Wisconsin senate was made by leaders in that house.

Future primary elections in Wisconsin will be held the third Tuesday in September instead of the first Tuesday under an act passed by the legislature, subject to approval of the governor. The assembly concurred with the senate in passage of the Blanchard bill making this change, but killed the Beggs bill which carried additional provisions for a simplified ballot without party columns.

Sen. Thomas M. Duncan's "yellow dog contract" bill was passed 66 to 8 by the Wisconsin assembly. The bill prohibits coercive contracts restricting the right of employees and employers to belong to labor organizations or employers' associations, or of producers and purchasers of agriculture, horticulture and dairy products to belong to co-operative or trade associations. The bill now goes to the governor for approval.

Reconsideration of its favorable vote on the Reis bill to tax street railways and all public utilities operating street railways at the local rate rather than the average state rate was refused by the Wisconsin assembly. The assembly, which previously advanced the bill to a third reading by a 44 to 40 vote, refused to reconsider that action by an even larger margin, 54 to 38.

The assembly passed the administration bill, abolishing the departments of cement purchasing, superintendent of public property, printing board and engineering, and placing in their stead a bureau of purchases and a bureau of engineering as part of the proposed governor's advisory council.

The lower house killed the Keller bill to bring University of Wisconsin law school graduates under the same examination Marquette law graduates are forced to take for admittance to the bar.

Chippewa Falls—The Chippewa County Council of American Legion posts was formed here as the first step in getting every eligible service man in the county into the organization.

Madison—Nearly $1,500,000 was paid for compensation and medical attention due to injuries to Wisconsin workmen's eyes in four years, the industrial commission has reported. In the years 1924 to 1927, 2,767 such injuries resulted in permanent damage to 575 eyes.

Fennimore—Farmers about Castle Rock, northeast of here, marketed their stripping tobacco here to the tobacco pool, disposing of about 35,000 pounds, at a price range of 8c to 14c.

Bloomer—Holstein dairymen have formed a local club to help organize Chippewa county breeds, as has been carried on in Barron county.

Madison—Farmers of Wisconsin will plant at least 45,000 acres of clover, alfalfa, soybeans and other plants of the legume family this year.

Blackwell—The Flanner Co. sawmill here has started sawing hardwood logs that are the product of a second logging of lands which the company cut over 20 years ago.

Kewaskum—Fifty of the best Guernsey and Holstein cows that can be bought in this vicinity are being shipped to President Hoover's new estate in Maryland and Virginia.

Wausau—Thieves entered the plant of the Kleinheinz Dairy Co. and carried away a suite weighing 800 pounds. They blew it open in the country about five miles north of here and got $50.

Madison—Intensive barberry eradication work will be undertaken this year in Dane, Rock and Grant counties and in a few sections of Walworth county, according to plans of Ralph M. Caldwell, state leader of the eradication project.

Darlington—When 35 blocks of pavement, gutter and storm sewer have been finished here this summer, Darlington will have four miles of pavement, which officials here believe will surpass any city in the state under 2,000 population. The cost of the new work, $100,000, will be included in the 1929 tax levy.

Madison—Wisconsin's cost of training and maintaining its national guard units is far below that of the nation as a whole, which has an average cost, according to the Wisconsin National Guard Review, of $208.22 a year for each man. The average expenditure for Wisconsin guardsmen last year was $46.10.

Madison—Dunn County No. 1 Dairy Herd Improvement association retained its leadership of Wisconsin's 145 organizations during March, reports A. J. Cramer and Roy T. Harris. The average production of the 524 cows in the Dunn organization was 38.1 pounds of butter fat, as contrasted with an average of 25.8 pounds for other Badger associations.

La Crosse—The Vernon County Guernsey Breeders' association held its fifth annual consignment sale at Viroqua, and 121 animals were listed and sold of which 38 were pure bred males, 25 pure bred females and the remainder grade females. The total received from the sale was $13,338. A six-year-old cow that sold for $240 and a yearling bull that sold for $250 were the highest priced animals in their respective sexes.

Galesville—Gale college here will hold its seventeenth commencement during the last week in May and preparations are being made for a more elaborate program than in other years. Twenty-five will be graduated. The college was founded in 1859 as Galesville university, a Methodist school. Twenty years later it became a Presbyterian college and 27 years ago it was taken over by the Norwegian Lutherans.

Wisconsin Rapids—An epidemic which has swept through at least 30 dairy herds in Wood county, causing loss of thousands of dollars to dairy farmers, may be conquered by a new vaccine developed at the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn. The epidemic, regarded at first as a form of mastitis, or inflammation of the udder, began about a year ago in a few isolated cases. Cows attacked by the malady appear to recover, but after about a two or three week interval the milk strikes again. One cow is known to have had six attacks. Dr. V. P. Norton, Wisconsin Rapids veterinarian, said that he had treated about 150 cows in from 25 to 35 herds.

Madison—Wisconsin's death rate for January, February and March was higher than for the winter period in 1928, a review by the state health department shows. Influenza is blamed. In the three months 9,127 deaths were reported, a rate of 12.5 a thousand of population. The rate was 10.4 for the same period in 1928.

Tomah—The local American Legion post has "adopted" the former fire department band of this city, which will now be known as the Legion band.

RIOTING COLLEGIANS CLOSE DES MOINES U

Fundamentalist - Modernist Controversy Is Cause.

Des Moines, Iowa.—Riots at Des Moines university, forecasting a fundamentalist-modernist controversy rivaling the Dayton (Tenn.) "monkey trial," became a national affair with points of interest in Chicago, Buffalo and Los Angeles, as well as Toronto, Ont.

The riots and the subsequent order of Dr. T. T. Shields, leading fundamentalist warrior in the Baptist church, closing the school "indefinitely" and discharging the entire university personnel, from president to janitors, were echoed in these developments:

1. A legal battle was forecast when students announced plans for an injunction to prevent closing of the university. The students appeared as usual and demanded that classes be held. Their position is that they have paid tuition and are therefore entitled to continued instruction.

2. Doctor Shields, driven out of Des Moines through fear of student violence, proceeded to Buffalo, N. Y., to present his side before the Baptist Bible union.

3. A Chicago trustee of the university revealed that charges involving Doctor Shields and Miss Edith Reban, his secretary and secretary of the university board, had been voiced by opponents of the university administration. The riots followed exonerated Doctor Shields and Miss Reban of the charges by the board of trustees after a 24-hour session.

4. Associates of Doctor Shields blamed the situation on an attempt of modernists to wreck the school because of its avowed fundamentalist policy. At the same time a statement was made by Dr. Arthur E. Bennett, ousted dean of the college of education, denying that a fundamentalist-modernist dispute was responsible and stating the rift was due to the oppressive pro-British and pro-Canadian sympathies of Doctor Shields and his secretary.

This resolution was the answer of the board of trustees of Des Moines university to charges against Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the board, and Miss Edith Reban, its secretary: "The board of trustees of Des Moines university in special meeting convened to consider certain complaints and rumors touching upon the personal integrity of the president of the board and of the secretary-treasurer, after an exhaustive inquiry of many hours, in which documents, the deans and certain students were examined, hereby repudiates with the profoundest indignation the very suggestion that either of the said officers of the board would in either word or deed condescend to any course incompatible with the highest standards of Christian integrity and honor."

DECLINES PRESIDENCY

General Gomez.

Caracas, Venezuela.—General Gomez, president of Venezuela, who was unanimously re-elected by congress, has declined, explaining that he feels his long tenure in office, virtually since 1909 except for intervals, has fulfilled his duty and he now desires to return to agricultural pursuits.

HOOVER PLANS TOUR OF MEXICO, PANAMA

Southern States Also Included in Two-Month Trip.

Washington.—President Hoover plans a wide travel tour of the United States and a visit to foreign shores immediately after adjournment of congress.

His trip will keep him constantly on the go from seven to eight weeks, ending with a short vacation at his old home at Palo Alto, Calif. For the most part he will travel through the southern states. He has invitations from practically all of them and plans to accept as many as possible. He also expects to board a battleship on a tour of the West Indies, a visit to Panama and Mexico.

Naturally the President will be able to remain in any one place only a short while, so for the time he is touring the United States he will virtually live on a special train. He contemplates visiting Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, the Gulf states and a number of resorts in Texas. From there he probably will go to the Pacific coast, where he will board a battleship for his foreign cruise.

The President's itinerary may either take him direct through the Panama canal and thence to the West Indies, after which he will visit Mexico, or he may land on the west coast of Mexico and go overland to Mexico City. The general assumption, however, is that the President will visit Panama first, then go through the canal. From there he plans to go to Porto Rico, Cuba and the Virgin Islands, and then cross the gulf to Vera Cruz for the much shorter and more comfortable overland route to Mexico City. He will return to Vera Cruz, board the battleship and return to the United States at the most convenient port.

Kills 3 Children and Wife Ill in Hospital

Philadelphia.—Peter Thomas, a plasterer, finding himself the center of unpleasant neighborhood gossip, planned to kill his wife, his three children, a stepson, and himself. The stepson, who had been ordered to stay home from school, remembered it was examination week and stole out to the back door. Thomas' plans were carried out otherwise, except that his own wounds probably will not prove mortal. Thomas summoned a taxicab and drove to the Jewish hospital, where his wife had been ill for two months. He advanced towards her with a term of endearment and, drawing the pistol with which he had slain the children, sent three bullets through the woman's chest, killing her instantly. Turning the gun on himself, Thomas fired twice into his body and fell to the floor. In his pocket attendants found a knife with a 12-inch blade.

HOOVER TAKES LEAD IN FARM AID FIGHT

Also Hopes to Bring Peace in Tariff Muddle.

Washington.—President Hoover has assumed leadership in an effort to extricate farm relief and tariff legislation from the growing impasse in the extra session of congress, and to close the widening breach on the Republican side of the senate.

Enactment of farm relief legislation in time for application to this season's crops appeared to hinge on the contest between the house and senate over the right of the senate to incorporate the controversial export debenture plan in the legislation.

Washington.—By a vote of 47 to 44, the senate, defying the recommendations of the President, defeated the motion of Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, to strike the export debenture amendment from the farm relief bill. Defeat of the Watson motion is accepted as meaning that the export debenture provision will remain in the measure when it passes the senate.

Thirteen Republicans, including Senator Borah of Idaho, lined up against the Watson motion, and for debentures, with 34 Democrats. In favor of the Watson motion, on the roll call, were 42 Republicans and only two Democrats—Senators Ransdell of Louisiana and Wagner of New York.

In addition Senators Walsh of Massachusetts and King of Utah, Democrats, were paired in favor of the motion and Senators Shipstead of Minnesota, Farmer-Labor, and Kendrick of Wyoming, Democrat, both of them ill, were paired against it.

The vote aroused intense interest because of the closeness of the situation and speculation as to whether the administration would be upheld or defeated on an issue on which the President, in a recent letter to Senator McNary, went emphatically on record declaring his opposition to the export debenture plan. It is the first congressional defeat for the White House since the extra session opened.

While it would be possible to have another test on the Watson motion or its equivalent when the bill goes from committee of the whole to the senate proper, there is little indication it would change the result provided all senators were present or paired. Despite the fact that administration forces received an undoubted setback in the vote, and while it was said the export debenture amendment will remain in the bill when it passes the senate, this does not mean it will go into the law.

The house is expected to reject it overwhelmingly, and may refuse even to receive the bill on the ground that export debentures involve a revenue question which should originate in the house. In any event, rejection by the house is considered assured.

That body will stand by the President and eventually the senate will be compelled, it is generally assumed, to recede from its position in order to get a farm relief bill passed without undue delay. Since a shift of two votes would reverse the senate attitude and inasmuch as the house will have a large majority against the debentures, the senate will doubtless back down rather than the house. Supporters of the debenture plan in the senate say they will put it into the tariff bill if it falls in the farm bill.

The debenture section of the farm bill would provide for the issuance of certificates to exporters of surplus farm crops for an amount equal to one-half the duty on imports of the same products. The debenture certificates would be acceptable as cash in payment of import duties. The section would put a debenture rate of 2 cents a pound on cotton, which is on the free list.

Invoking of the debenture plan, under the terms of the senate bill, would be left to the discretion of the proposed farm board and would not be compulsory. The section provides a guard against excessive overproduction by providing for a graduated reduction of rates whenever overproduction is forecast in products subject to the debenture.

Airport Experts Meet to Discuss Problems

Cleveland.—Airport experts of the country held their first convention here under the sponsorship of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, for the purpose of compiling information on airport construction, field lighting, radio, weather service, insurance, and other common problems. Square Type Farm Home Will Appeal to Many Prospective Home Builders

Life is only what we make it. With a pleasant home of this type in its beautiful setting of flowers and shrubs, life could be enjoyed to the extent.

By W. A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Modern architectural design has done much to make attractive the old-fashioned square hip roof farm home. By the addition of a sun parlor on one side and an old colonial entrance door and entry at the corner, the square type home shown in the accompanying illustration is made one that is out of the ordinary and one which will appeal to a great many prospective home builders. This is not an expensive home to

As its foundation walls are nearly square and there are no angles in them. The size of the house is 22 feet by 26 feet. The living room reached directly through the entrance door is 21 feet long and 11 feet 6 inches wide. At one end is an open fireplace and at the other are double french doors leading into a sun par-

Housewife in Favor of Concrete Floors

The fact that concrete floors are fire resistive is a strong argument in favor of introducing them into the building of houses and residences. They have been found to be dry and healthful, and when these floors are immediately above basement rooms that are heated will be found to be actually much warmer than ordinary construction. The fact, too, that they are nonabsorbent and consequently easily kept clean makes them popular with many housewives. They do not squeak or vibrate and are soundproof. Such floors can be stained and then waxed. They can also be given an enamel finish. Sometimes, when the surface has just been placed and is still soft, Dutch tile can be laid, which gives the floor a vivid appearance. Frequently colored concrete tile are used to harmonize with the rest of the room and the walls.

Home With Central Hall Proves Popular Now

Probably the plan most frequently utilized for the house of moderate size is the central hall type, with living room on one side, dining room on the other. To the visitor entering the front door, he is friend or foe, 90 per cent of the first story is spread open before his eyes. And if he but take the logical next step forward, behold! he will be up the stairs and right into the sleeping quarters.

Mahogany Is Favored Wood for Furniture

Since the early part of the Eighteenth century mahogany has been one of the most favored woods in the manufacture of furniture. However, it

House With Attached Car Space Popular

The attached garage, accessible from the house without going outside, is becoming extremely popular in the modern suburban home, or, in fact, in any home where the space on the property permits. One of the features that can be included in the attached garage is the inclusion of a room for the maid above it. The rear stairs—and rear stairs are a desirable feature in any home—can also be located in the garage, thus double access to the garage from both floors is not such a bad idea either.

White Ceilings

Contrasting white ceilings with dark and many decorative have gone far as to advocate design in color, too, claiming that they are part of the room, and should be treated as such.

Wall paper is valuable from a structural standpoint, as well as a decorative one, for its color and designs, properly used, can do a great deal to remedy structural faults and the February American Home.

It costs very little to recondition a MODEL T FORD

THE Ford Motor Company is making a new car, but it is still proud of the Model T. It wants every owner of one of these cars to run it as long as possible at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Because of this policy and because of the investment that millions of motorists have in Model T cars, the Ford Motor Company will continue to supply parts as long as they are needed by Ford owners.

So that you may get the greatest use from your Model T, we suggest that you take it to the nearest Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of any replacement parts that may be necessary.

You will find this the economical thing to do because a small expenditure now will help to prevent costlier repairs later on, increase the value of the car, and give you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of only $2.60 you can have your generator put in first-class condition. A new universal joint will be installed for a labor cost of $3. Overhauling the carburetor costs $1.50; steering gear, $3.50; radiator, $7.50. A complete overhauling of the rear axle assembly runs between $5.75 and $7 for labor. An average price of $22.50 covers the overhauling of the motor and transmission.

These prices are for labor only because the need and number of new parts depend on the condition of each car. The cost of these parts is low, however, because of the Ford policy of manufacturing and selling at a small margin of profit.

QUALITY GOODS BEST SELLERS

Dairy products are bought and sold according to fixed market quotations. These quotations fluctuate according to supply and demand. The farmer is getting about all he can get, until the consumer is willing to pay more for dairy products. The consumer will not pay more until he places a higher value on them. To teach the consumer to place a higher value on milk and dairy products, improve the quality of your milk, make your product better. Clean methods in production, and immediate cooling after milking will turn the trick. Quality satisfies the buyer that he is getting his money's worth no matter what the price happens to be.

MEMORIAL

In memory of our dear son Raymond Greib who passed away May 19, 1926:

We are sad within our hearts. Lonely are our hearts today. For the one we loved so dearly. Has forever been called away. We often sit and think of him. When we are all alone.

For memory is the only friend That grief can call its own. But oh a brighter home than ever. In heaven is now his own. Sadly missed by his mother and grand mother.
