Good Roads Have Helped Farmers

Those Who Once Grew Only Staples Now Plant Many Good Crops.

The period of phenomenal progress in good road building throughout the United States which has marked the past ten years, has worked an unanticipated and extremely beneficial change in American diet. For every mile of improved highway laid down, some farmer has added to his production of wholesome green vegetables, readily marketable in the nearest city.

This is the odd and interesting point brought out by Earle Duff, writer in the Farm Journal, who points out that good roads are quite as essential to the modern farmer as his agricultural machinery itself.

Change in North Carolina.
"In North Carolina, for example, this amazing change has come about since the passage of the first $50,000,000 state bond issue for good roads in 1921," he points out. "Farms where nothing but tobacco was grown for decades, are now green with truck crops of all kinds. Dairying, too, has sprung into prominence, for it has become an easy matter to ship dairy products to market by truck."

The same change has been wrought by good roads throughout the country. It is shown. Farmers who once depended almost entirely upon one staple crop—corn, cotton, tobacco, wheat—are now going in widely for vegetables and fruits which would have been too perishable to be grown profitably under old transportation conditions. Now, because these commodities can be whisked to market within a few hours, city residents are demanding and receiving a more varied and constantly increasing green diet.

Although the total of surfaced road construction in the country has been phenomenal in recent years, there is still much to be done. Of 257,000 miles of state highways in the United States, approximately 190,000 miles are surfaced, leaving 67,000 miles to be improved. But the gaps are being filled rapidly, the Farm Journal writer points out. Iowa, for example, is at work on a $100,000,000 road program which will mean a paved network covering the state. North Carolina, since it made its first forward step in 1921, has expended $175,000,000 on a system of 7,500 miles of paved roads. Other states are rapidly filling up their unpaved gaps.

Essential to Farm Success.
Farmers who a few years ago opposed road improvements or were dubious concerning their advantages are now conceding that paved highways are essential to farm success.

"Not only individual farmers but farming sections are competing fiercely with each other today," says Mr. Duff. "Certainly a rural community with 250 miles of smooth pavements such as Fulton county, Georgia, is much better fitted to do battle for its share of prosperity than a neighboring county which must do business in 250 miles of mud."

Pasturing Sweet Clover for Profitable Results
Best results in pasturing sweet clover, says J. H. Messman, Madison county, Neb., can be secured by sowing a field of the legume each spring.

In that way there will be both one-year fields and two-year fields available. When seeding sweet clover in native pasture land, J. H. says to disk the ground as early in the spring as possible. Also, give a light covering of manure to the pasture portions which are to receive the clover, says a writer in the Farm Journal.

"Sow sweet clover as early in the spring as you can work the ground," says he. "I prefer corn-stalk ground; I give it a light disking, and follow with a harrow. One cannot get the seed-bed too firm for sweet clover."

Messman says sweet clover is better than native grasses because it remains green even when the weather is hot and dry. In his locality, he does not pasture the crop the first year until about the middle of July, and in a reasonably good year the pasture will take care of one head per acre 'till November or hard freezing weather.

In the second year after planting, Messman turns in stock about the middle of July. Then the cattle are taken off, so that the sweet clover seed crop will mature. Pasturing the crop until the middle of July and then clipping it prevents excessive growth which would prevent the binder handling it easily when harvesting.

Starting a Rhubarb Bed Is Not Difficult Task

A rhubarb plantation may be started from seed or by planting divisions of the crowns. Although it is cheaper to grow the plants from seed, there are two important disadvantages in this method. The principal objection is that only a small percentage of the seedlings come true to type, according to C. R. Sayre, University of Illinois. These desirable seedlings should be transplanted to the permanent plantation when a year old and the inferior seedlings dug out or destroyed. Thus, it requires an additional year to establish a rhubarb plantation when the plants are grown from seed.

Plants propagated by dividing the old crowns will come true to type. This method of starting rhubarb generally is preferred. Rhubarb should be divided and replanted every five or six years. In dividing the old crown for replanting, four to six pieces can be made from each crown. Each division should have at least one strong bud and a good-sized piece of root. The larger the piece, the more vigorous the early growth will be because of the food material stored in the roots.

Increase Average Yield of Milk and Butterfat

Tens of thousands of yearly herd averages, and hundreds of thousands of yearly individual cow records from dairy herd improvement associations have shown that it is well within the range of possibility to double the present average yield of milk and butterfat per cow. In fact, among a hundred thousand yearly milk records, twenty-two thousand were above nine thousand pounds a year. This shows that eventually we may provide an abundance of dairy products for more than two hundred million people in this country without increasing the present number of our dairy cows. It will, however, require more feed per cow because high-producing dairy cows are normally big eaters. They cannot make something out of nothing.

CROP INSURANCE PLAN UP TO FARMER TO WORK OUT HIMSELF

Good Rotation Systematically Handled Is Best.

"Soil fertility is the best insurance against crop failure and damage by adverse weather conditions," says L. B. Miller of the University of Illinois. He states that a good crop rotation, systematically handled and reinforced with mineral and organic fertilizers, constitutes a crop insurance policy which guarantees greater dividends than the annual premiums amount to.

Many years of cropping on Illinois farms and on the soil experiment fields of the agricultural colleges have shown that in the average or normal seasons farming of this sort pays returns greater than the cost, he reported.

When the unfavorable season comes along the soil fertility crop insurance prevents disaster and hardships in much the same way that fire or theft insurance do when a loss is suffered. There is the added advantage that the crop insurance has been paying its

Getting Chaff in Wool Quite Costly Mistake

Farmers might as well throw away 20 per cent of their wool as to allow the fleeces to become filled with chaff, seeds and burrs during the winter, according to H. G. Zavoral, extension live stock specialist, university farm, St. Paul, who says that too much wool is being discounted because growers do not take sufficient pains to keep the fleeces clean. Wool containing foreign material has to be put through an extra process for cleaning which, according to wool buyers, costs approximately 20 per cent of the value of the wool, or from 5 to 8 cents a pound.

When such fleeces as hay, straw and oats are thrown over the sheep, chaff and burrs fall into the wool. For this reason, feed and bedding either should be provided while the sheep are away from the barns or racks, or else care should be taken not to carry or throw the hay or bedding over the backs of the animals. Racks for feeding roughage should be constructed with the sides vertical instead of sloping.

That COLD

Colds come suddenly. You can often end them just as quickly! Take Bayer Aspirin the moment you've caught one. A single sneeze should be the signal, or the first sign of congestion or headache, or soreness. Exposure to cold and wet isn't half so serious when you've learned to protect yourself with Bayer Aspirin. For the speedy relief of colds, headaches, neuralgia or neuritic pain, and even the acute suffering caused by rheumatism, there is nothing so sure and so safe as genuine Aspirin tablets stamped Bayer. They make a marvelous gargle, too. See proven directions in every package.

More Likely Amount
Taking up once more the old man's question, "What would you do if you had $1,000,000?" my answer was "First, I would count it over again to make sure that it wasn't just a dream as I expected."—Elmer C. Adams, the Detroit News.

An Ailing Child

Are you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or the gentle relief of constipation, to allay a feverish condition, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so.

You can tell from the recipe on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

Way to Happiness Simple says California Physician

After 28 Years' Practice Describes Natural Treatment which Keeps People Well

"AFTER over 28 years of the study and practice of medicine, during which time I have treated and supervised the treatment of almost every variety of human illness," writes Dr. Martin J. Dobson of Los Angeles, "I believe I have discovered the greatest blessing that has been bestowed upon the human family. Statistics show that of all classes of persons, physicians and nurses live to a ripe old age than any other class of people. I believe this is no doubt due to the fact that they know more about the importance of daily elimination.

Dr. Dobson's Discovery
"The remedy I am speaking of is colorless, tasteless, harmless to the most delicate alimentary tract, from infancy to old age. It is non-habit-forming, and it is essential to the smooth running efficiency of the human body, which needs lubrication just like any other machine.

"This remedy is Nujol.

"Most human ailments can be traced to the alimentary tract for either the main or the contributing cause, and most of these disorders can be prevented or cured through proper cleansing and regulating by the administration of Nujol as per instructions on the bottle and wrapper."

In the last few weeks we have received over 5,000 letters from people all over the world, telling us how Nujol has helped them to harmonize and success by keeping their bodies internally clean. You can buy Nujol in sealed packages at any drug store. It costs but a few cents, but will make you feel like a million dollars.

Start Nujol tonight. Use it regularly for two weeks, and learn joy and the happiness that comes from buoyant, zestful health!

Wisconsin News Briefly Told

Sheboygan—With the restoration of the Horicon marsh assured, the efforts of conservationists will be turned to an attempt to bring about restoration of the Sheboygan marsh.

Birehwood—Efforts are being made by local former service men to reorganize Birehwood post of the American Legion. Several years ago the post was in a flourishing condition with a large membership, but of late interest in the organization has waned.

Madison—Temporary injunctions and notices of one-year paddock proceedings have been served in the last few days on 57 saloon and roadside owners in the western district of Wisconsin. Most of these were in and around Superior, where federal prohibition agents recently made a big cleanup.

Chippewa Falls—Persistent electrical interference with radio reception has so annoyed this city that a Radio Listeners' club organized recently has raised nearly $300 to finance a campaign to eliminate interference. At a meeting last week the club decided that the fund was large enough to start the drive at once.

Milwaukee—Two suits claiming $32,000 damages as the result of an automobile accident last June were filed here against W. Frank Cunningham, prohibition director for the eastern Wisconsin district. The suits were filed by S. E. Cummings, a truck driver, and Doris Horn, both of Kansas City, Mo., near where the accident occurred.

Superior—A small fragment of saw steel which he had carried imbedded in a finger for more than 40 years was exhibited to fellow workmen by James Nollan, a sawmill employe here, after it had been removed by a physician. The fragment, which was an eighth of an inch long, had caused him no inconvenience until a few days ago, when infection started.

Neenah—Officials of Neenah are looking for a new jail to be used temporarily in case there is need for one. Fortunately there were no prisoners when the fire swept the southwest portion of the city hall, causing damage estimated at $20,000. The jail quarters, police department rooms, mayor's office and city engineer's office all were badly damaged.

Tomah—Following condemnation of the old sewage disposal plant which has served this city many years, Tomah will soon issue $20,000 worth of bonds for a new plant to be installed in the spring. A double hopper bottom tank with sludge bed will be built and pumps will be installed to lift the sewage in case of high water. Sludge will be removed by portable dewatering pumps.

Appleton—As a result of discussion of soil fertilization and its relation to larger yields per acre at the Horticulture farmers' institute, County Agent Gus Sell has received 14 applications from farmers for complete soil surveys of their farms and 24 for partial surveys. The surveys are made by the soils department of the Wisconsin college of agriculture at a cost to the owner of the farm of about $5.

Chippewa Falls—Kiwaniis here began an active drive for a municipal auditorium for Chippewa Falls, something the city has lacked since the auditorium was condemned about 10 years ago. The decision to start the drive was made at a recent meeting and was adopted as the club's main objective for 1930. A subscription campaign is planned, details of which will be announced in a few days.

Madison—Three children were burned to death and their parents and one other child were burned seriously in a fire caused by an overheated stove that destroyed their home here. The dead are: Babe Christensen, 4; Phyllis, 2; and Edna, 10 months old. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Christensen, and Irene, 6, were rescued but were burned so badly they were not expected to live. They are in a local hospital. The fire discovered about 7 a. m., was beyond control and firemen were able only to save the three.

Madison—Wisconsin's treasury is wealthier by $170,500 because the highway commission contracted last December for cement to be used in 1930 road construction, it was revealed here. Foreseeing a possible increase in cement prices, the commission accepted bids rather than usual for 3,500,000 barrels of cement. The commission was informed by mill owners that the prices had increased from 10 to 25 cents a barrel over the costs specified in the state contracts. Had the state been forced to buy its cement at current prices, the cost would have been $170,500 more.

Green Lake—Gov. Kohler is asked to become a candidate for re-election in a resolution adopted by Green Lake county republicans. The resolution states: "Our nation and state are directed and guided toward prosperity, peace and civic righteousness under the skillful leadership of President Hoover and Gov. Kohler."

Platteville—Beekeepers of Grant county will ship a carload of honey to Germany. Part of the car will be made up at Potosi and the remainder at Prairie du Chien.

Platteville—Wisconsin's tallest farmer, George Reed, who stood seven feet, six inches in height, is dead. He was 60 years of age. Preferring the simple life of the farm to the color of several circuses he had opportunities to join, Reed had lived a short distance east of Platteville for many years. He was found dead in bed.

Platteville—The Farmers' Shipping association here sent 236 carloads of livestock to markets in 1929, gross receipts amounting to $361,545.25. The association has 400 members.

Monticello—Receipts of livestock sales made during 1929 by members of the Monticello Shipping association amounted to $237,865, an increase of $25,000 over the preceding year. Exactly 172 carloads of stock were sold.

Beaver Dam—Thirty-five farmers of this vicinity have enrolled in a farm night school which is being conducted by L. R. Larson, agricultural instructor at the Beaver Dam high school. The class meets each Monday night for 12 weeks.

Barron—The Barron County Holstein Breeders' association sold 1,338 head of cattle for a total of $219,508 in 1929. Secretary F. J. Krehnbiel reports that 75 carloads were shipped. Pure bred cows averaged $177, pure bred heifers $147, bulls $116, grade cows $127, and grade heifers $91.

Stonebank—Dragged by a tractor into a team of horses, Hanford Whitaker, 49, was killed on his farm near here. One of the horses kicked him on the head, fracturing his skull. Whitaker had left the tractor in gear and was starting it when he was caught in some manner and dragged about 25 feet.

Grantsburg—According to statistics just released, Burnett county is maintaining its position as one of the leading Wisconsin counties in the production of alfalfa. In 1927 the acreage of the legume was increased 1,000 acres over 1926, and in 1928 it further advanced 1,500 acres, giving the county a total alfalfa acreage of 6,950.

Madison—Every county in Wisconsin has been completely tested for bovine tuberculosis and all reactors have been removed, the department of agriculture and markets has announced. Fifty-two counties have been placed on the modified accredited list after retests showed that less than one-half of 1 per cent of the cattle reacted.

Appleton—Outagamie supervisors, at their February session here, voted to defer action on organization of a county vigilante system until next November, when the annual meeting is held. The system, as proposed by the Outagamie County Bankers' association, which would provide half the $3,000 necessary to equip the guards, was opposed by some of the board members.

Fennimore—The city council made several salary changes at its meeting last week. Officials receiving increases are: Mayor, from $100 to $150 annually; aldermen, from $75 to $100 annually; city clerk, from $75 to $100 a year; health officer, from $75 to $100 a year. The city attorney's salary was cut from $150 to $100 annually.

Madison—Corporations operating under the small loan act are not responsible when fraud is committed by one of their suboffice managers, whose licenses can be cancelled without effecting the status of the corporation, the attorney general ruled here. In cases, however, where the corporation itself has violated provisions of the act, then all its individual agency licenses must be cancelled, the ruling stated.

Madison—A total of 414 persons who suffered from occupational diseases in Wisconsin during 1929 were benefited under provisions of the workmen's compensation act, it was announced here by the state industrial commission. Of this number, 82 were workers in metal products, 36 were vehicle workers, and 39 were engaged in building construction. Agriculture was listed fifth in the vocations that presented occupational diseases. In the last ten years 3,919 occupational disease cases have been compensated at an expense of $570,204 in indemnity and $140,088 in medical costs.

Crandon—Law violators who are sentenced to serve terms in the Forest county jail may hereafter expect to be put to work grubbing brush and stumps or the county poor farm. Instead of being given leisurely vacations within the jail. The county board voted to increase the tillable land on the farm to enable the county charges to raise more of their own food. The county owns a 320-acre tract, of which only 60 acres is cleared. Sixty more acres will be cleared this year by jail prisoners with the help of the farm personnel. Last fall three successful farmers were placed in charge of the management of the county farm.

Racine—The Racine county board cut the fees of Coroner W. F. Kisow from more than $1,000 to $454, following receipt of an opinion from the attorney general that the coroner was entitled only to fees for actual inquests and not for investigations.

Weyauwega—Judd Starks, Weyauwega, lost a team of horses valued at $500 when he drove onto thin ice on a lake here. The team plunged through "rubber" ice which had formed in a space from which ice previously had been out.

Nellsville—The Farmers' Educational and Co-operative union, which induced local merchants to stop the sale of substitutes in competition with butter, will now turn its efforts against the chain stores of this community and neighboring towns, using the home production argument.

Monticello—Receipts of livestock sales made during 1929 by members of the Monticello Shipping association amounted to $237,865, an increase of $25,000 over the preceding year. Exactly 172 carloads of stock were sold.

SECURITY PACT NOW UP TO NAVAL PARLEY

Political Questions Interfere With Progress.

London.—Delegates to the five-power naval conference now face a period of intensive negotiating in a field which must be described as political rather than naval before they can reach the essentials of their task.

The new barriers raised by the French and Japanese memorandums have brought to the fore a series of questions which, although only obliquely concerned with the main business of the conference, have been so astutely posed that the conference must step aside from its main course to find their answers.

After a week-end in which to think over the two memorandums, the delegations appear to have agreed unanimously to halt what looked like a promising discussion of figures to enter the political arena.

Foremost on the schedule is the "security" agreement which France has demanded as the price of reducing her naval program, the size of which has dismayed the other powers.

The invitation in the French memorandum was taken at first to apply only to a Mediterranean security pact. It now appears that the French have broadened their bargaining ground and would listen to proposals for security on the Atlantic or the process spoken of as "putting teeth into the Kellogg pact," both somewhat nebulous projects at present.

Under whatever name, the proposal looks so large that the other delegations have not been able to dodge it. It looked, until the French and Japanese statement writers got busy, as if the road were clear for discussion of actual navies and limitations. From the change of front in all the delegations, it appears to be an inescapable fact that the conference has been somewhat rudely thrust into another path.

Both the Americans and British admitted that the best situation was held by France. To let the French naval program pass as outlined by Premier Andre Tardieu is frankly held impossible by the British and hence of necessity by the parity-claiming Americans. They have had to accept negotiations on the grounds chosen by France. Even the method of approach is deemed impossible.

It is announced in conspicuous proximity to Ambassador Dwight Morrow's recent interview with Foreign Minister Grandi that the work of the week will be to bring Italy into the general conversations which last week were limited to France, the United States and Great Britain. The Italians have accepted the gambit and a statement from Signor Grandi is expected within a few days.

Neither the British nor the Americans are willing to make direct offer of the "security guaranty" demanded by France. As one American described the procedure decided upon, the rival French and Italian claims will "be played against each other" in hopes of finding an opening for a compromise which the larger powers can accept with dignity.

New York.—Senator David A. Reed, member of the American delegation to the London naval conference, spoke over the radio from London, his address being broadcast by the Columbia system. He thanked the American people for their support of the delegation, and said the delegates were aware that America desires a first class navy, while at the same time is anxious for reduction in armaments.

"When results begin to come," he said, "they will come fast, and in the meantime we trust that you will not become too impatient." Reed has been greatly encouraged by the plain evidence of support from public opinion at home in America.

Farmers Form 'Sons of Wild Jackasses Club'

White Bear, Minn.—The first "Sons of Wild Jackasses club," the purpose of which is to "bray for fair treatment for the farmer," was organized here with a list of 200 charter members.

Robert Freeman of St. Paul is the founder of the organization which adopted its name from the words which Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire recently hurled at insurgent senate Republicans.

A white badge, the size of a half dollar and bearing the silhouette of a jackass with his hind feet in the air, presumably in the act of delivering a kick, is the emblem of the club.

Urges U. S. to Regulate Coal

Washington.—Government regulation of the coal industry, to "show what can be done to stabilize employment and make the business profitable," was advocated by Secretary of Labor Davis.

Deny Plea of Murderers

Phoenix, Ariz.—The Arizona state board of pardons and paroles denied the petition of Mrs. Eva Dugan for commutation of the death sentence. She is to hang here February 21 for the murder in 1927 of A. J. Mathis, aged Tucson, Ariz., recluse.

MAY LOSE CONTROL

John L. Lewis.

Chicago.—A move to reorganize the United Mine Workers of America and wrest control of the international organization from John L. Lewis, the international president, has been launched by the Illinois mine union group which has been fighting Lewis and others. A call for a reorganization convention in Springfield, Ill., March 10, was issued.

SAYS U. S. BUSINESS IS ON SOUND BASIS

Chamber of Commerce Makes Report on Conditions.

Washington.—A "high degree of business solidarity" is reflected in recent reports to the national business survey conference. It was announced by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The reports which come from among 170 trade organizations indicate, the chamber announced, that "the effort to advance certain activities with a view to general business stabilization is well sustained and in some instances strikingly effective."

"Information from these and other sources," the announcement continues, "reveals that construction programs are being accelerated, that advantage is being taken of the present seasonal lull in a number of industries to make improvements and repairs, and that plans for future activities are going forward without interruption."

"Telegraphic reports to the National Electric Light association from 85 per cent of the industry, submitted to the business survey conference, indicate that total expenditures for new construction to be made in the first quarter of 1930 will be $198,000,000. This is 10 per cent in excess of similar expenditures for the first quarter of 1929 and reflects acceleration of the construction program."

"Orders for equipment and materials in the first quarter of 1930 will total $180,000,000, also an increase for this period.

"For the year 1930 orders for equipment and materials will total $465,000,000, and expenditures for new construction $400,000,000."

Chicago.—A comprehensive highway pavement program, to be carried out in Cook county during the years 1930, 1931 and 1932, was made public by the joint committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Chicago Regional Planning association. The program calls for an aggregate expenditure of $22,443,000 in the three-year period.

Fight on Bogus Trade Schools by Engineers

Chicago.—A nation-wide campaign against fraudulent trade and correspondence schools will be started immediately by the American Association of Engineers, according to an announcement from the organization's Chicago headquarters.

Plans call for appointment of a committee of leading engineers to co-operate with state and federal officials in exposing spurious mail-order schools, particularly in Chicago, New York, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington, Milwaukee and St. Louis.

"A five-year investigation by the association revealed staffs of 3,000 to 4,000 menagerially paid instructors with 20 or more high-pressure executives drawing large salaries," said the announcement. "Stock companies broadcasting synthetic education in any of 200 subjects were capitalized as high as $10,000,000 and may have had 100,000 students, usually drawn from small towns in western and mountainous sections."

Fire Loss $2,000,000 at Kimberly

Capetown, South Africa.—Fire destroyed the Theater Royal and several shops in the heart of the retail shopping district of Kimberly. The damage was estimated at approximately $2,000,000.

Marines to Get Nine Fighting Planes

Washington.—The navy department placed with the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor company an order for nine fighting planes, costing $117,562, for the use of the marine corps.

MAY COME TO RESCUE OF EX-SERVICE MEN

Showdown Expected Within Coming Two Weeks.

Washington.—Following four weeks of hearings by the World War Veterans' committee, legislation for the relief and compensation of ex-service men is expected within the next fortnight to approach a showdown stage in the lower house of congress.

Excepting the wet and dry issue and possibly the Philippine problem, the question of how best to meet the needs of World War veterans has been the outstanding topic in the house during the present session. Further proof of the interest in this legislation has been shown by the fact that 191 veterans' bills have been introduced. The committee hearings have been well attended.

Out of the basketful of measures pending, three or four have been singled out during the hearings as having the best chance of passage or at least of reaching the floor for a vote.

The most far reaching of these is the Rankin bill, introduced on December 19 by Representative John E. Rankin (Dem., Miss.), ranking minority member of the veterans' committee. The same bill was presented to the senate by Senator Kenneth McKellar (Dem., Tenn.) January 16. This bill would extend the presumptive period of veterans' ailments from January 1, 1925, to January 1, 1930, and in addition would bring constitutional diseases within the presumptive provisions.

The veterans' bureau has estimated the cost of this relief measure at $44,000,000 annually, and that it will grant compensation to 77,714 pending disability cases, most of which are of doubtful validity under the present laws. Included among the claims are 25,205 involving neuropsychiatric diseases, 18,986 tuberculosis and 13,712 circulatory system diseases.

Some house leaders fear the financial consequences of the Rankin bill and its proponents have charged that they plan to have it abandoned during hearings before a joint committee on "the whole problem of veterans' relief." There also is persistent talk of switching to a pension bill. Supporters of the measure, however, insist they will force a roll call in committee and on the floor of the house.

Representative Rankin told the house that his bill, once it came to a vote, "will pass ten to one in both houses."

Chairman Royal C. Johnson (Rep., S. D.) has announced that on February 19, following two more days of hearings confined to members of the house, he will name a subcommittee of the veterans' committee to draft an omnibus committee bill to amend the World War veterans' act. It is planned, he said, to have the omnibus measure submitted to the house leaders for approval by March 3 so that on that day it may be brought up and passed under suspension of the rules.

The omnibus bill will include a dozen or more amendments to the veterans' act, now incorporated in separate bills and designed to clear up the ambiguities and other features in the act disadvantageous to the veterans.

A third important bill which is almost certain of passage is an amendment to the adjusted compensation act introduced by Chairman W. C. Hawley (Rep., Ore.) of the house ways and means committee.

The Hawley bill would extend the time of application for adjusted compensation from January 2, 1930, to January 2, 1935. Its enactment would validate the 21,000 applications received by the War department since January 2 and subsequent applications during the period just before the expiration date for application and in addition returned 29,000 imperfect applications to veterans for correction.

"The only important veterans' bill which thus far has been enacted by congress at this session was the Rogers hospitalization bill appropriating $15,000,000 for hospital construction."

Russ to Have 17,000,000 in Air and Gas Defense

Moscow.—Under a special five-year plan adopted by the Soviet Volunteer Society for Aerial and Chemical Defense, which is a powerful civilian arm of the regular Red army, navy and aviation forces, Soviet Russia will have 17,000,000 persons in various branches of air and gas defense by 1934. There are now 5,000,000 so engaged.

In unfolding the plan Alexander Malinovsky, undersecretary for the society, said the authorities would increase the number of aviation schools from four to 25 and train thousands of pilots.

The number of aviation groups will be increased from 500 to 2,500. Volunteer detachments numbering 31,000 and embracing 6,000,000 members will be engaged in the protection of habitations from gas attack.

Italian Unemployed Reach 462,948

Rome.—The number of unemployed in Italy on January 31 totaled 462,948, showing a normal seasonal increase, comparing with 461,890 on the same date a year ago. The January figure was an increase of 59,200 over December.

Design That Will Appeal to the More Conservative Home Builders

There is nothing striking or novel about this home, but it should appeal to many of the more conservative home builders as one which will stand its appearance through many years because of its lack of passing fashion influence.

By W. A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 437 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

While there is nothing striking or novel about this home, it should appeal to many of the more conservative home builders. The picture shows how attractive the exterior of a house may be made by the use of awnings, flower boxes, and flowers and shrubs around the foundation walls. This is not an expensive house to build, and has all the features of a modern up-to-date home including a sun room and a balcony above.

In construction this home reminds one of a New England design, as the lower part has the wide shake shingle siding, which has been popular for centuries in New England. The shake shingle is a great deal thicker and considerably wider than the ordinary roof shingle, and when treated by a special process can be made to have the silver grayish tint that marks the living room is 23 feet wide and 12 feet deep. The sun room which adjoins it at the right is 9 feet 6 inches deep by 13 feet wide. An open fireplace at the other end of the living room is a feature which will make the room attractive and cheery in winter. An unusual feature of this house is the location of the stairs which is between the living room and the dining room, and the stair hall is the connection between these two rooms. The dining room is on a corner and is 11 feet by 13 feet. The kitchen is about 9 feet square and adjoining it is a breakfast room with a small dinette set. The stairs lead to a central hall on the second floor. At the head of the stairs is the bathroom, and on the other three corners are bedrooms. One is designated as a play room in the plan, but it is large enough for a bedroom.

This home is one of those designed for a rather large lot, as the house over all is 34 1/2 feet wide. Trees and shrubs are needed to give this an artistic setting.

Average Wooden House Rots in a Few Years
Although the average American wooden house is attacked by decay within a few years and is usually rotted to worthlessness with two generations, there is no reason why it could not be preserved for two, three or more centuries, says Prof. Emanuel Fritz, wood technologist of the University of California.

Carelessness, and not the perishable quality of wood itself, is to blame for the costly decay of the average frame dwelling, asserts the expert, writing in Good Housekeeping Magazine. Decay is evidence that the wood is holding a moisture content of more than 20 per cent.

Cheap, careless construction proves more expensive in time than the care and added expense necessary to make a house waterproof, he points out. The factors which usually bring about decay and which can easily be eliminated are: Poorly fitted joints, shingles, and door and window sills which permit water to enter and remain in the cracks; failure to insulate all parts of the house from the moisture of the ground with a masonry foundation of at least six inches; failure to ventilate the space between ground and floors where heat and moisture quickly develop the decaying fungi, and failure to see that no mounds of earth or rubbish are left under the house to convey moisture to the parts of the building which they touch.

Woodwork Should Be Prepared for Painting
All outside woodwork should have at least three coats of paint. Each woodwork may have three or four depending upon what finish is desired. New wood for painting should be cleaned and freed from stains and may afterward show through the paint. All the knot holes should be sealed up with shellac so that the pitch will not afterward exude through the paint. It should be sanded down and made perfectly smooth and clean. Above all, it must be dry.

Cement Plaster Makes Garage Walls Fireproof
Ideal garages are, of course, fireproof. Many useful methods of building garages at moderate cost have been developed. Cement plaster is an excellent material for such use. One of the best systems for building

Common Brick Field Enlarged by Skintling
Skintled brickwork stands unquestionably as the most radical development in masonry construction in the last 500 years.

Next to it was the face brick, produced by various treatments of its surface, giving it an attractiveness which no other brick had possessed. Then comes the recognition of the clinker brick, that long unnoticed Cinderella of the refuse pile which is now the favored pet of the architects.

No other masonry departures have affected brick so decisively as have these three. Up to the time some ingenious brick-maker cleverly "inkered" the face brick to make it a thing of ew and unusual appeal the common brick had had the exterior brick wall field all to itself. But the American love of change, of something new, speedily shifted popular favor to the new material.

Now skintled brickwork, which is simply an irregular laying of the color common bricks to produce a mass textural wall effect of all allure and charm, is winning the errant American favor to a mon brick.

"Well, now, the wife wouldn't like any rudeness," answered Maidstone placidly. "I suppose he's got a right to go in the house, or out of the house, as he likes. You go back to your store, Phil Amory; you'd ought to be in bed. Good-night."

"Bassett isn't married," I told him. "The warden is," he sniggered. "Very pretty wife, too."

IOWA STARS WILL PLAY BASEBALL Players Include Willis Glass- gow, Noted Halfback. Five University of Iowa stars will continue their athletic careers as pros this summer in baseball. They are Willis Glassgow, All-American half-back, who has signed as an infielder with the St. Louis Cardinals; Francis Mulrooney, pitcher, who is going to spring training camp with the Boston Red Sox; Mac Brown, pitcher, signed by the Cardinals; Forrest Twoogood, south- paw hurler, who goes to the same team, and Virgil David, another southpaw, who goes to the Cincy Reds.

Man With Great Baseball Punch THE man with the great record, the man with the great punch and the man with more baseball instinct and intellect than any player in the game today, is Rogers Hornsby, who plays second base for the Chicago Cubs. Hornsby is thirty-four years of age but he never has played any better baseball than he did last season for the Cubs. He's been a while of a performer at the bat and in the field as well as a pace setter and an inspiration to all his mates.

Whoooping Cough One of Childhood's Great Ills Whoooping cough is one of the oldest known of child diseases, yet there are no certain treatments or preven- tive measures known. And many parents have the wrong idea about whooping cough. They regard it as a child disease that every child must have, and take little trouble to guard their children against exposure, regardless of age. But that is what makes the death rate from whooping cough greater than that from scarlet fever, measles and diphtheria combined. It has been estimated that whooping cough is twenty times as fatal for children under five years of age as for those beyond that age. Thus approximately 95 per cent of the deaths from this disease occur in the pre-school age group. In time of epidemics or even in isolated cases, the American Public Health association advises parents to keep children, particularly those of pre-school age, away from all un-

Smart Dogs Die Young Ten thousand white ones and sixty black ones! Go read 'em, Shep! This command was supposed to have been given to a certain sheep dog in Montana, and presumably he thereupon rounded up the sheep and counted them. But the dog's death has been estimated to have cost the owner a fortune. It is a strange thing that when anyone tells a tale of some extraordinary animal, be it dog, horse or cat, he usually adds as an afterthought, "He's dead now, poor fellow." In fact, some one with time to spare ought to make a study of the high mortality rate among canine and other animal wonders; and after satisfying himself on that point, he might turn to a closely allied topic, the regrettable longevity of cheerful humans. —From "Sheep," by Archer B. Gillilan.

A Getaway He was an artist of the impression- ist school, he had been known to sell pictures, but it didn't happen often. He was carrying some of his work to an art dealer's, when he met a fellow artist. Suddenly he quick- ened his pace. "What are you hurrying for?" asked his comrade. "See that man over there?" was the reply. "Yes, what of it?" "Well, he is a creditor of mine. Like impressionistic art, he looks better from a distance."

Robins' Spring Song Detroit Shot $35,000 in Schuble Last Year Detroit shot $35,000 in Heine Schuble, shortstop, last season. Just a losing gamble, Schuble will be with the Beaumont club the coming season. His was a strange case last season. He went to the Tigers rated a great fielder, but he proved a much better hitter than was expected of him and his fielding drove him out of the league. With Schuble in the short field, the Detroit pitcher was in a fretful state of mind during his tenure on the mound. He figured every grounder to Schuble a boot. Heine would go along making sensational plays and then cut in with an error on an easy chance at a critical moment and the game would go boom. Manager Harris had Schuble in and out of the game throughout the season. But always when he came back Heine would bob up with an error or a batch of them, nullifying whatever brilliance he had shown afield and at bat. He never steadied in his play.

Football Records Count, Not Flippant Guesses Adam Walsh at a recent dinner to the Yale football team in Jersey said that the Elis could have defeated Har- vard in five out of seven games. The statement, in view of the vagar- ies of football, all the things that may happen in a game, will not be regarded as wild, whatever may be said about its good taste. Nor, on the other hand, would a Harvard statement that the Crimson could de- feat Yale five games out of seven be unjustified. Any statement concern- ing football, for that matter, may be justified, in theory at least. But, after all, what goes down in the records are hard and cold figures showing what Yale, for instance, did in one game out of one. They pay off on the one game that was played, not the several that might have been played.

Playful Orsatti Will Stick to Right Field Ernest Orsatti, the aggressive little Italian, who is expected to be the Car- dinals' regular right fielder again in 1930, reports that he has had five teeth extracted, and that he expects to go through the next campaign with- out the aches and pains which handi- capped him last season. "Nobody else has a chance at that right field job," Ernie writes. "It is mine. I've had five teeth yanked and there will be no more neuritis or sinus trouble next year. I'm in fine con- dition. Have been boxing four or five times a week, but not with any idea of taking on Shires."

Sutton a Comeback George Butler Sutton, sixty-six, the billiard player with the fancy goatee and flowing mustache who won the 1824 billiards championship more than a decade ago, has removed his facial adornments and is now attempting a comeback. The game of horseshoes is played at Nebraska School for the Blind at Nebraska City. Several totally blind youths have become very proficient at pitching. The Kentucky Derby of 1930 will be run on Saturday, May 17, accord- ing to an announcement by Col. M. J. Winn, executive director of Churchill Downs. The spring meeting will be opened Saturday, May 10, and will close Sat- urday, May 31, after nineteen days of racing. Whichever, Harry Payne Whitney's colt, rules in the winter derby book as a 4 to 1 favorite. Other classy ones have their followers.
