

UNAVOIDABLE IS JURY'S VERDICT

According to a verdict returned by a coroner's jury at an inquest held at Fond du Lac last Friday, the four persons who were killed in a head-on automobile collision on Highway 55, about two miles north of Kewaskum on August 13, met their death in an unavoidable accident. The jury was composed of E. J. Schnell, E. J. McGary, J. E. Wickert, J. H. O'Conner, Henry Voell, and Martin Watson. The accident occurred when automobiles driven by Bruno Filon, 747 Junior Terrace, Chicago, southbound, and by Frank Lanzer, 402 Elm street, Menasha, northbound, collided head-on. Mr. Lanzer and his wife, who were the only occupants of the northbound car, were killed, as were Mrs. Filon, wife of the driver of the southbound car, and his mother, Mrs. Anna Swiderski, 3111 Monticello avenue, Chicago. Filon blamed a left front tire blowout for the accident. Sheriff Alfred Vande Zande at the inquest testified the left front tire from Filon's car showed no evidence of a blowout. The tire was produced as an exhibit at the inquest and the sheriff testified that it was undamaged, except for a small break in the steel bead. Filon, in his deposition, read at the inquest by District Attorney L. E. Gooding, also admitted that he had been eating an apple and had been driving with one hand just before the accident occurred. Three witnesses and one deposition were offered at the inquest. None of the witnesses was an eye-witness to the crash, according to their testimony, but both witnesses testified that they heard explosions which sounded like blowouts.

NOVELTY DANCE AT ST. KILIAN POSTPONED

With a good sized crowd already present in the early part of the evening, the orchestra on the job to furnish the music, and all the extra help engaged present to assist, all refreshments packed in ice and lunch bought and prepared, the big Novelty dance which was to have been held at the Schwartz Tavern at St. Kilian on Monday evening, had to be postponed on account of the electric power and lights being shut off, brought about by the severe electrical storm which swept over this section of the state. The current was put out of commission during the earlier part of the evening, and remained so until late at night, when the line was again repaired. Mr. Schwartz, manager of the Tavern, states that his loss is quite heavy. He, however is not discouraged, saying that the postponed dance which will be held on Wednesday, September 10th, will be so much better and is therefore looking forward to a very large crowd. He extends a cordial invitation to the general public to attend.

MAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Carl A. Buelow, 1126 W. Madison street, Milwaukee, was killed on the railroad track just east of the plant of the West Bend Aluminum Co. early Monday morning. Buelow, who was about 35 years old, single had been employed at West Bend for several days last week, where he assisted in the construction of a miniature golf course at West Park. He, in company with two of his friends, John Barron and Frank Schmidt, walked to Barton Sunday evening, it is alleged that Buelow was under the influence of liquor. On their way back to West Bend the unfortunate man lost track of his friends, and laid down to sleep along the track. Monday morning Barron and Schmidt, who had made their night's lodging in a box car, in missing their companion went to look for him, finding him dead along side the track. Coroner Clem Reinders was called, who later brought the body to the Reinders undertaking parlors here. Mr. Reinders through friends of the dead man living at Fox Lake, was able to learn the whereabouts of his mother, Mrs. Emma Buelow who resides at Milwaukee, to which city the remains were taken the same day preparatory for burial.

BARN STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

During the severe electrical storm Monday evening, the large barn on the Joe Matenaer farm, located about a mile and a half south of Kewaskum was struck by lightning. The bolt struck the lightning rod and consequently no damage was done to the building. Mr. Matenaer was in the barn at the time the bolt hit. Neither he nor any of the stock felt any ill effects. This is the second time within two years that this barn was struck by lightning. The first time, the same as this time, little or no damage was done to the building.

WIN AND LOSE AT SOFT BALL

A number of local young men motored to Boltonville last Sunday morning, where they played a double header of soft ball with a team of that place, losing the first game by a score of 8 to 12. In the second game, things however, went different, and the team started the game with a bang, keeping right after their opponents to the finish, when the score stood 7 to 14 with the Kewaskum team at the long end of the scoring. The games as a whole were played entirely for the fun there was in it for both teams, and fun it surely must have been, especially for the locals, until the next day, when there were a number of stiff joints and sore arms to be nursed. The locals took it all good naturedly and are in tip top shape for another round with the Boltonville team.

SERIOUSLY BURNED BY EXPLOSION OF CAN OF NAPHTHA

Mrs. Ernst Gessert, well known young lady of Kewaskum, had a very narrow escape from being burned to death last Friday morning at about 11 o'clock, at her home, when a two gallon can of naphtha exploded. Mr. and Mrs. Gessert reside in the rear part of the Louis Heisler building on Fond du Lac avenue. She had been using naphtha for cleaning, and held the can in her left hand, as she passed the kitchen stove, thinking that the fire had gone out, she looked into the stove and the explosion followed. The flaming fluid ignited her clothing and she ran out of the building to roll in the flower beds and on the lawn. Mr. Heisler, who resides in the same building, heard her cries for help and succeeded in putting out the fire. Mr. Schultz, proprietor of the Republican House, across the street who also heard her cries for help, ran to her assistance, seeing that Mr. Heisler was successful in putting out the fire, he ran into the kitchen where he put out the fire which was burning lace curtains and on the floor. Mrs. Gessert was taken to St. Joseph's hospital at West Bend, where she is now out of danger, and from which institution she will leave some time this week. She was badly burned on her arms, legs, body and face.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPEN MONDAY

Next Monday, September 8th, the Kewaskum Public school will begin the fall term. Principal E. F. Skaliskey, who has spent the summer in Madison attending the graduate school of the University, returned here on Tuesday to look after the arrangements preliminary to the opening of school. He is now enrolling on pupils who completed the rural schools during the past year. He reports excellent prospects for a large freshmen class. All indications point to an enrollment larger than that of preceding years.

The school building has been newly re-decorated and the floors waxed. A new parking place for cars on the southwest corner of the school grounds has been filled in. The school campus, which was landscaped last spring, adds beauty to the exterior of the school. The interior of the building as well as the grounds present an inviting appearance of cleanliness and comfort; an excellent surrounding for your child's education.

The Kewaskum Public School has received the hearty approval of the State Department of Public Instruction and of the University of Wisconsin for the excellence of its school work. Its teachers are well trained for their work, its equipment is mostly new and quite ample for a school of this size. The tax payers of the community may feel assured that the money they spend to maintain this educational institution is efficiently utilized, and every effort is made to give back to the community the highest possible dividends in terms of the education of its youth.

A high school education has become so common in the last decade that every boy and girl should endeavor to secure one. Without it, whether he remains on the farm or becomes a worker in the city, he will be handicapped. With it he will have completed the stepping stone that will lead him on to the road of contentment and success. A high school education is demanded today by practically every profession, and by most forms of labor, such as civil service positions, which in years past gave little consideration to educational requirements. Parents, and especially those from rural districts, are urged to consider the future environment in which their children will live their lives, and to give to their children the richest heritage they can give them—a high school training.

On Friday afternoon the Boy Scouts will hold their first meeting of the year. Scoutmaster E. E. Skaliskey is arranging a ball game for the occasion.

A faculty meeting of the Kewaskum Public School teacher will be held on Saturday afternoon September 6th.

Six new L. C. Smith typewriters have been added to the commercial department during the summer. They were to replace used Remington machines. It is expected that at least two more machines will be needed to accommodate the commercial class which will be larger than usual.

SCHNEIDER'S ARM WINS FOR SAINTS

Vince Schneider who won ten games for the Saints and lost only two, will leave for St. Lawrence College, Mt. Calvary to resume his classical studies there. Al Rodenkirch will take up the mound duties for the Saints for the remainder of the season. Next Sunday the Saints will play Dye Road on the local diamond.

WINS SUIT ON FORCED TAX SALE

As a result of a case tried before Circuit Judge C. M. Daviso, Beaver Dam, at the early fall session of court cases at West Bend, a very important decision was handed down that will effect a great many hundreds of pieces of real estate in Washington and Dodge counties, upon which the lawful owners have failed to pay their taxes and which delinquent tax certificates have been purchased by outside uninterested parties. The case in question was that of Henry Holle, Sr., Hartford collector. Mr. Holle had purchased delinquent tax certificates upon a certain piece of property for the past three years. The owner of the real estate in question had failed to pay his taxes. It appears that he did not come himself greatly whether the taxes were paid or not. The result was that Mr. Holle started suit under a new Wisconsin law which permits a holder after three years to start action similar to foreclosure proceedings. The case came before the court August 11. The tract involved was a 40-acre piece of land. In default of payment the courts issued order of judgement, which judgement was put in force. With the sustaining court order and judgement to confront him, the owner made the payments of the delinquent taxes. He not only paid the past taxes but interest upon the certificates at the rate of 15 per cent per annum compounded, the attorney's fees for plaintiff in the action and the cost of court, he being out a sum considerably greater than the original amount of his delinquent taxes.—Hartford Times.

BANKERS O. K. LOAN PLANS FOR FARMERS

Government Will Support State and Bank Credits.

Washington.—President Hoover's drought relief program was brought down to a dollars and cents basis as the banking members of 15 state committees and the heads of five federal agencies agreed upon methods of extending financial aid to farmers.

Headed by Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago, representing Illinois, the bankers, at a conference with federal officials in the office of Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, worked out details of a plan setting up a system of credit corporations in the drought areas, to function in co-operation with the federal reserve and intermediate credit banks.

The financial plan, in substance, is that tentatively outlined by the President and his advisers several days ago. It shifts to the local communities and the states the main responsibility for making money available to the farmers, and the federal reserve and intermediate credit banks backing up the local banks and credit groups through the rediscounting of the farmers' notes.

The decisions of the conference were announced in a statement made by a drafting subcommittee, headed by Mr. Traylor. It summarized the lines of procedure, as follows:

"First, it is clear to us that the primary duty in the premises rests upon the local banker. He is most familiar in his community with the special problems of his customer. He should utilize first all his credit with his correspondent bank. Second, he should offer for rediscount such eligible paper as he may have or can be made to the federal reserve bank or the intermediate credit bank operating in his territory.

"Third, existing agricultural credit corporations should utilize their full available lines of rediscount with the intermediate credit banks. If necessary, capital structures of such existing corporations should be increased in order to make available larger lines of rediscount with the intermediate credit bank.

"Fourth, where no agricultural credit corporations exist and where other credit facilities are not available we urge upon bankers, business men, and farmers that they proceed at once to the formation of agricultural credit corporations. Such corporations should be capitalized upon as broad a basis as practicable and covering considerable areas, in order to attract and hold good management. Such corporations will prove to be valuable to the counties or groups of counties in which they are located not only as an emergency matter but as permanent institutions in aid of agriculture.

"While such corporations cannot and ought not to make unsound loans, yet they can perform a great service in aid of farmers and bankers in affording long term loans and in expanding the financial resources of the communities they serve. Through liberal use of the intermediate credit system this federal agency can be of great assistance in furnishing the cash under the terms of the law to the local agricultural credit corporations and through them to the farmers.

"Fifth, existing co-operative marketing associations should avail themselves of the liberal financial assistance which is offered by the federal farm board. This can undoubtedly be most easily facilitated through increased membership of the local agency and by the creation of new agencies where none now exists for any particular crop."

The Traylor statement added that while the program outlined may not please those who had anticipated a direct outlay of government cash it nevertheless "covers the avenues of assistance now legally available," and that no one should expect aid except within purview of "existing laws and sound business practices."

Prior to the conference statements were received from Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, Ogden L. Mills, under-secretary of the treasury; Gov. R. A. Young of the federal reserve board, Vice Chairman James C. Stone of the farm board and Paul Bestor, chairman of the farm loan board.

Mr. Mills stated concisely that no treasury money is or can be available for drought relief without congressional action, while Mr. Stone explained that the farm board can lend money only through co-operatives. Mr. Hyde stated that financial aid from his department is limited to the $800,000 balance of a seed loan appropriation to several states.

Both Mr. Bestor, speaking for the intermediate credit banks, and Mr. Young, for the federal reserve banks, agreed that their organizations can and will help through the rediscounting of farmers' notes. They made it clear, however, that the notes must have sound security locally.

TWO ARE KILLED AT NATIONAL AIR RACES

35,000 Spectators See Tragedy at Curtiss Field.

Chicago.—A navy pilot and a spectator were killed and 12 other persons were slightly injured when the pilot's plane fell 50 feet to Curtiss airport at the close of a race in which the navy pilot was taking part.

The accident occurred in view of 35,000 race fans watching the program of the 1930 National Air races. It was the first serious accident of the race meet.

The plane fell 50 feet from the end of the bleachers at the south end of the field and landed in an open space between two concession booths. The fact that all were watching the finish of the race and saw the falling plane in time to run to safety prevented further casualties. The dead:

Lieut. Jack P. De Shazo, twenty-nine years old, attached to the Fifth fighting squadron from the carrier Lexington, stationed at San Diego.

Louis Winert, 3304 West North avenue, press agent for the Erlanger theater.

Col. Arthur C. Goebel, last of the five flyers in the Los Angeles-Chicago nonstop derby, made the flight in 9 hours 21 minutes and 9 seconds. His time was 12 minutes slower than the time set by Wiley Post of Oklahoma City, who was declared the winner of the $7,000 first prize money.

Goebel was awarded a second prize of $4,000, and Lee Schoenhair of Akron, Ohio, speed record holder, was third.

Only 49 minutes separated the five contenders, all of whom piloted Lockheed cabin planes streamline, with tin pants on their wheels and engine cowling, indicating that all kept close to a direct route over the 1,760 mile journey.

William S. Brock of the famous flying team of Brock and Schlee was fourth and Col. Roscoe Turner of Hollywood was fifth.

Dijon, France.—A pilot, two non-commissioned officers and the wireless operator of a military airplane were killed when their machine crashed near Courcelles-les-Monts, a few miles west of here.

Two other members of the crew saved their lives by jumping with parachutes.

Ten military aviators lost their lives in France within a few hours. Previously while in defense maneuvers six army flyers were killed when they crashed up at Chavannes, near Chartres.

Rockville, Ind.—Albert J. McKay, thirty-five, and Leland Burford, twenty-four, of Indianapolis were killed when their airplane fell 200 feet near the Turkey Run airport, near here.

Honor War Dead Hohenstein, Germany.—A pantheon dedicated to Germany's dead war aviators was inaugurated recently at the Tannenburg national monument.

Reds Execute Nine Moscow.—Nine men charged with hoarding Russian silver coin were shot for counter-revolutionary activities.

Heat Kills Woman, 118 Lisbon.—The heat wave of the last two weeks had killed many persons, among them the oldest woman in the country. She was Guilhermina Rose Madeira, one hundred eighteen years of age.

5,000 Children in Iowa Choir Des Moines, Iowa.—Without a previous group rehearsal, 5,000 Iowa school children formed a giant choir at the state fair and sang fifteen ballads.

600-Pound Boy Dead of Dropsy Everett, Mass.—Henry D'Antonio, seventeen, known as "Everett's fat boy," and who weighed 600 pounds, died of dropsy in Massachusetts General hospital at Boston.

Hatfield, Noted Feudist, Dead Baltimore, Md.—William Anderson "Cap" Hatfield, known as the last of the Hatfield-McCoy feudists of West Virginia and Kentucky, died at a hospital here at the age of sixty-seven years.

700 G. A. R. MEMBERS IN ANNUAL PARADE

Remnant of Organization at Reunion in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—Union veterans of the Civil war shook the years from their shoulders and marched 700 strong in the sixty-fifth annual parade of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Their steps were much slower than when they strode down Pennsylvania avenue in Washington before General Grant in 1865. The veterans required 90 minutes to traverse the mile long line of march. About 1,000 rode in automobiles.

At the command "eyes right," they looked at the reviewing stand, where stood their commander-in-chief, Edwin J. Foster of Worcester, Mass., and Lieut. Col. Ulysses S. Grant III, of Washington, grandson of the chief of the Union armies.

At their business session the veterans decided to meet in Des Moines, Iowa, next year.

Adj. Gen. Wilfred A. Wetherbee reported that the membership had declined to 21,080 on last January 1, a decrease of 100,000 in 10 years. The number of posts is 2,238, a loss of 311 during 1929. Forty-two hundred members died during 1929.

Commander Foster told the encampment there would be "no reunion of the Blue and the Gray this side of the great divide." For, he said, the Confederate veterans had refused to parade without the stars and bars and that the G. A. R. would refuse to parade under that flag.

Discussion of pension legislation occupied most of the reports of Foster and John Reese, chairman of the legislative committee. Foster cited recent legislation increasing pensions of veterans up to $100 a month, but asked help in getting increased pensions for their widows, who now receive $30 a month up to the age of seventy years, and then $40 until they are eighty-five.

Reese said, "We asked congress for bread for these widows, but were given a crumb from a rich man's table, as it were."

Canadian '30-'31 Wheat Pool Price Is 60 Cents

Winnipeg, Man.—The Canadian wheat pool announced the initial price on 1930-'31 wheat delivered would be 60 cents a bushel, on the basis of No. 1 northern, at Fort William. This is 25 cents a bushel under the lowest record and 40 cents under the initial payment in every year except 1928 when the big crop caused the first price to be fixed at 85 cents. The initial payment on rye, No. 2, was put at 35 cents, 5 cents higher than the July 15 figure.

The payment on oats, No. 2, C. W., will be 30 cents; barley, No. 3, C. W., 25 cents; rye, No. 2, C. W., 35 cents, and flax, No. 1, N. W., $1.25. "C. W." means "car weight on track."

The same initial payment of 60 cents will be made in all grades of Canadian wheat. The difference in their market prices will be accounted for by smaller subsequent payments on lower grades.

This year there will be little difference between Canadian wheat grades and those in the United States. Canadian wheat is generally of a higher quality and commands premiums among foreign buyers.

Small Grain Harvest Is Good in Lake States

Chicago.—Harvests of small grain crops by farmers in the Seventh federal reserve district have been substantial but prospects at present suggest a corn crop as small as the low yields of 1924 and 1927 unless ample rains come and the usual autumn frosts are delayed, according to a report of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, released for publication a few days ago.

The drought and extreme heat wave caused much deterioration of pastures, the second cutting of hay is light, the report says, and prospects for apples have been further reduced by under-development. In some areas of corn damage, the stalks are being used for feed. It seems probable, says the statement, that live stock operations may be reduced this winter in Illinois, Indiana and Michigan where the drought has been more severe than in other parts of the district.

Corn in northeastern Iowa and northern Indiana appears as good or better than last year, and in Wisconsin prospects indicate the possibility of only a slight reduction from 1929.

Leaves $100,000,000 to Family Clarion, Pa.—The will of Thomas R. Slick, independent oil operator, disposing of an estate estimated at between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000, leaves his great wealth to his family, his widow, three children and his mother.

Ford Plant at Memphis Resumes Richmond, Va.—The Ford Motor company's plant at Memphis, Tenn., has resumed operations with approximately 1,200 men employed. The production schedule calls for 150 units daily.

CAMERA EYE HAD THE NECESSARY EVIDENCE

By STEWART ROBERTSON

NINETY minutes before the opening game of the world's series, two ominous looking limousines, painted battleship gray, slithered to a halt near an entrance to the baseball park. From each clamored four covertly watching passengers who ranged themselves closely around the door of the leading car as a jaunty figure descended into their midst.

The emergence from his bullet-proof fortress to the hard, clear light of an October afternoon caused no apparent tremor in this genial personage as he glanced at the bluish-black curtains and surveyed his guards with a satisfied grin. "Leave us go, boys," he husked. "I been hardly able to sleep all week, waitin' to see championship." The little phalanx laughed knowingly with the proper shade of approval for their superior's delicate wit, and moved slowly toward the gates, winking at sundry policemen en route.

"Camera Eye" Flanagan, posted midway down a ramp, saw the newcomers approaching and as they drew level his glance swiftly catalogued the group, coming to rest on the central figure. "Lo, Rocco," he said briefly, and waited.

"Ah, there, flatfoot," greeted Black Rocco with the arrogance becoming a racketeer beyond the stigma of a tap on the shoulder. "Kinda surprised to see me, hey?"

"A little," admitted Camera Eye. "Thought you'd be too smart to come out in the open where Limpy might take a crack at you. Say, I didn't know you were strong for baseball."

"I'm nuts about it," grinned the other from behind his wall of sentries. "Limpy? Why, he's blew the town. Just yella, that's all."

"Some hat you got there, Rocco," said the detective slowly. "Say, I heard Limpy was cutting in on your profits a while back."

"Oh, yeah?" sneered the gangster. "Well, if you listen good you'll hear some people sayin' them Athletics is goin' to take the Cubs. That kind of dope don't burn so easy. That's why I bought this headpiece—to celebrate, see? Good old Chi! No outsiders can get away with nothin' we want."

The arrival of a major revealed scant notice. A mere governor created not a ripple. Then of a sudden the crowd was on its feet, shouting raucous welcome as the vanguard of substitutes appeared for practice. Four of the eight men turned to watch their chief.

"Now," said Rocco. He rose carelessly with them, strolling down to a rostrum beneath the stands. In a shadowy corner the scarlet hat was transferred to a man about his own build in exchange for one of nondescript back felt. "I certainly wish I could stay with you stiffs," he said enviously, "but this thing's a matter of pride, see?"

"Hurry back," grunted the man, "an' you'll see the last few innin's. Them's the most important, anyhow." He leered wisely.

Rocco swiftly threaded his way to an unfrequented bleacher exit, halted a suspiciously alert taxi and was driven a few blocks across town to where Bittersweet Place ends its short career on the lake front. From there a speedboat carried him out to a blue and orange seaplane, and in five minutes its pilot had it winging north.

The scalloped shore line streamed below him. Waukegan, Kenosha, Racine—and then the plane dipped smoothly to the surface of Milwaukee harbor. Another speedboat detached itself from the green walk of Juneau park and Rocco stepped aboard, his dark face alight with eagerness.

"Just an hour since we left Chi," he said gaily. "You're sure he's there?"

"Two degrees surer than positive," grinned the motorboat runner. "An' he don't suspicion his dame sold him out for five grand, neither. Here's the key she gave me."

A street car brought him to the corner of Eleventh street and he walked quickly down it to a frame house between Wells and Cedar. A moment later he had eased his way into the stuffy vestibule.

A few dragging footsteps heralded an approach.

"Lo, Limpy," said the intruder, as a man appeared in the doorway. "No, don't try that; grab air, you skunk! Cut into my territory an' hi-jack my alky, will you?"

"I didn't know it was yours," gasped

Signatures of Famous Command High Price

The high prices which old and rare autographs bring make collecting them on the grand scale a hobby for wealthy men only. But many autographs are now practically unavailable at any price.

For example, in all the material in all the collections of the world there are only six Shakespeare signatures accounted for, the last having been brought to light as late as 1910, in the British public record office.

This is perhaps an extreme case. Nevertheless, there are scores of other great names which are not to be seen in autograph form outside carefully preserved private or public museums.

The scarcity of several of our "signers" has been commented upon. In the sale of the Theodore Sedgwick papers in 1926, a document signed by Button Gwinnett brought $28,000. In 1927, a letter bearing the signatures of Gwinnett, Hancock, Morris, Middleton, Lewis and Reed (all signers) was sold for $50,000.

The autographs of Washington, Jefferson, Charles Carroll of Carrollton and other leaders of their party are fairly numerous, owing to voluminous correspondence carried by them, but the prices are generally mounting.

Certain important American trios who had more faith in the might of the sword than of the pen and who, consequently, left few autographs or autographs, doubtless could turn their value in good hard cash.

Difference in Flag In military usage in the United States, a "color" is a flag carried by unmounted units that carries the mounted and unmounted units as a "standard," while an "ensign" is a flag flown on all ships and boats.

CHAPTER VII

Love's Labyrinths

restlessness. She wearied of going about and wearied of her gowns and the meaningless jargon of her friends. She began to think of quiet, cool, simple spots; to visualize what she had never known. She found herself remembering every step of that pilgrimage made with Brian Anstey in that snowy dusk, and the little houses with their lamps and red fires. She would arouse herself from these memories, try to elude them, try to hate them, but it was no use. Time and time again they returned, each time with the humble plea of peace.

She dressed herself carefully for that first dinner with Brian. It would be simple, because he must not spend much money entertaining her. She contentedly remembered that he was poor.

She chose the plainest frock in her wardrobe, and had the misfortune to look more lovely than ever against its plainness. Her beauty shone starkly; she had not quite lost that faint exaggeration of every point that women always found a flaw. At the last moment she flung the double strand of pearls—Courtney Roth's sardonic present—around her neck. She was transformed at once to splendor, but when she saw this she tore them roughly off and tossed them into their case. She wanted nothing like that to have a place in her hour.

She knew from the first that Brian adored her, and so sweet was the knowledge of this unaccustomed gift that she yielded deliberately, closing her eyes to consequences. She thought she could draw back in time.

One night there was a party with the Fentresses, and she watched the pretty blond girl grow pale and flush under a word or look from Brian, who was entirely unconscious of it all.

"She loves him," thought Linda. "Poor little thing! She has everything, she has done everything to please, and I who have done nothing—"

She felt suddenly humbled and ashamed. She ought to go away and leave these two alone. They would come together as naturally as two birds alone in the sky.

"Pretty, aren't they?" said Simon Fentress at her ear. He was watching Brian and Daisy with a rather sardonic smile that he afterward turned upon Linda.

"Youth is always charming," she said.

How those beady black eyes looked into her.

"Now, you are young, too, only a couple of years older than Daisy, and yet you are not youthful. You've been taught things my girl will never know."

"Because she has money," Linda finished as frankly as he.

"Not entirely. It isn't in the child to know. She likes muslin frocks." His eyes traveled over her long, graceful figure. "How shortsighted brought me before her vision of the march of her twenty-four hour gown, for it had lasted no longer than that, she knew."

What after she met Brian Anstey she said to think of marriage again.

She consciously, though, marriage ceremony did not enter her head. She would have checked her lips in its birth, if her conscious had not been dragged by the artless, unconscious that knows so well how to give its victims unaware.

She could have argued herself out of it with a poor young man if love were not upon her and if blinded eyes with beauty and silenced her and destined her with dreams. She never thought of marriage but she came to chafe at the life she led.

The handsome rooms she occupied, the costly trifles, the parties, the met in the woollens of today. No matter how dressy, no matter how sporty there's a woolen weave for every occasion. The range includes every type from wool lace as delicate as a cobweb and sheer crepe as exquisite as chiffon to mannish woolen mixtures of infinite variety.

For early fall wear, the subject uppermost in the minds of designers is that of the daytime frock made of a novelty woolen weave. A favorite material for the dress typed to town and travel wear as well as to schoolroom and office is the woolen weave that gives the impression, when looked at casually, of being a heavy and smart tweed, but which is in reality so sheer as to be almost transparent.

Color mixtures contribute strikingly to the effect of these loose-woven tweeds. Such unusual combinations are employed as garnet, raspberry and black or perhaps a mingling of yellow, brown and green with flecks of white and black. However, notwithstanding the lure of color, the vogue for black-and-white still persists.

Flecked, nubbed effects, broken diagonals, plaids, checks and stripes and coarse rope-farm basket weaves are interpreted in terms of black and white as often as they are in color. These patterns are apt to be very indefinite or they may elect to strike a daring note after the manner of the loose-woven woolen which gives such distinction to the dress in the upper picture. In this model the stripes are interworked in a very designful way.

Brims Aslant
The diagonal line of the brim is a new thought in hat silhouettes and one that will perhaps only become obvious with the advent of autumn. In this the brim is raised on one side and sweeps down at the other, permitting trimming to be tucked beneath the uplifted side of the brim.

Costume Slips
It requires four seams instead of two to make the better fitting costume slips the form without a wrinkle. For none other than the princess line looks well beneath the current frocks. Crepe de chine still is the favored medium.

Diagonal Closing
A new two-piece navy blue crepe frock, with all its edges piped in green plique, is cut with its blouse diagonal, tying shut on the side.

WOOLEN WEAVES ENTER NEW ERA; EXCITING FUR SEASON IS SEEN

A NEW era has dawned for woolen weaves. In the fashionable world no theme interest out-ranks that of the new woollens. Their daintiness, their sheerness, the lacy texture of some of them, their novel nubbings and fleckings and ingenious patternings make one feel that in their weaving almost miracles are taking place. Every costume requirement, so far as texture and effect is concerned, is

The hat which this young sophisticate wears is as interesting as the dress. It is one of the new wide brimmed felts such as milliners are showing for early fall wear. The black-and-white ensemble note is carried out in that the crown is black, the brim being white.

Taking Up Furs.
All signs point to a most exciting "fur season." Not a dull moment in the program of furs as planned for the coming fall and winter months. Among other things a most thrilling renaissance of fur accessories is in prospect. We are going to wear with our suits or frocks, our ensembles and our furless coats the most fetching and the most novel fur fantasies imaginable can picture.

The favored scarf of 1930 trends to flat stole types. The muff which "be-looks to the set" is apt to be any shape, either a pillow type or a square affair, or perhaps round like a football, but regardless of its shape it is almost certain to be tres petite.

As to scarfs even the simplest types have a jaunty and a style all their own such as lends an air of distinction to any costume with which it may be worn. Since flat furfs yield readily to fabriclike manipulation, the majority of fur accessory sets are fashioned of such pelts as astrakhan, Persian lamb, galyak, kidskin or lapin in white or dyed any color desired.

The little fur neckpiece worn with the furless cloth coat pictured is typical of the trend in scarfs for fall. Being of beige galyak it enters into perfect color harmony with the coat which is styled of African brown woolen of velvety texture. In the making of this coat much attention is given to detail, which in this instance takes the form of seamed sections around the neckline, thus achieving the slenderizing snug fit which is so characteristic of this season's models.

FAVORITE SANDWICHES

During the late summer and early fall when the call of the wild fills every heart, we need to pack the lunch box with tasty, nourishing foods. As sandwiches are one of the important food combinations, a variety from which to choose is desirable.

Sausage Sandwiches.—For a bunch of husky lads with good digestions prepare rolls with small fried sausages placed inside. Or cut the cooked sausage into very thin slices, add a dash of mustard, horseradish and a lettuce leaf and cover with a slice of plain buttered bread.

Bermuda Onion Sandwiches.—Spread thinly sliced bread with butter or mayonnaise. Cover half the slices with thinly sliced onion, sprinkle with a bit of salt, cover with a leaf of lettuce dipped into mayonnaise and finish with a buttered slice on top. Cut into triangles and sprinkle lightly with paprika.

Beach Sandwiches.—Pass cold rare beef through the meat chopper twice, using a fine knife for the second grinding. Season with salt, celery salt and tomato catsup, worcestershire sauce and grated horseradish; moisten with mayonnaise. Spread bread with butter, add a pinch of mustard and cover with the seasoned beef and top with a slice of buttered bread. Cut into triangles and serve with ripe olives and sour pickles.

Lobster, Eggs and Cucumber Sandwich.—Chop very fine the meat from a lobster, add three finely chopped cooked eggs and one medium sized cucumber finely chopped; if fresh and the seeds are tender, do not peel; add grated onion and moisten with mayonnaise. Use as filling for white bread spread with crisp lettuce leaves. Cut into triangles or strips.

SEASONABLE GOODIES

All fruit juice of whatever kind should be carefully saved. Use for flavor in various drink combinations, pudding sauces and for thinning mayonnaise.

Punch and Judy.—Boil two cupsful of water and two cupsful of sugar for five minutes. Put a quart of strawberries through a sieve and add to the sirup. Cool, add two-thirds of a cupful of lemon juice and the juice from a can of grapefruit. Chill thoroughly and serve. The grapefruit may be kept on ice for another meal, to be served in a fruit salad or cocktail.

Peach Dainty.—Line six sherbet glasses with coconut—the freshly grated is best when obtainable. Place a halved peach which has been dipped into lemon juice on the coconut outside up. Cover with any fruit juice sweetened and fill the cavity with a spoonful of orange marmalade or any preserve. Cover with whipped cream and top with a bit of the marmalade.

Ice Box Pudding.—Roll one-half pound of graham crackers on the bread board. Cut two cupsful of dates into small pieces with wet scissors. To the dates add one-fourth of a cupful of milk, a pinch of salt, crackers, one teaspoonful of vanilla, two cupsful of quartered marshmallows, one-half cupful of chopped nuts and one cupful of thick cream whipped. Form into a cylinder shaped loaf, roll in graham crackers and wrap in waxed paper, let stand twenty-four hours. Serve cut into slices with whipped cream and a maraschino cherry for garnishment. This serves twelve.

Fruit Cookies.—Sift two cupsful of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, add one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of sliced dates, one-half cupful of shortening and two-thirds cupful of sugar well creamed together, one beaten egg, two to four tablespoonfuls of milk and one-half teaspoonful of flavoring. A mixture of almond, lemon and vanilla is good. Mix well and drop by spoonfuls on buttered baking sheets. Bake until a delicate brown and firm to the touch. This recipe makes three dozen cookies.

Golden West Cake.—Cream one-third of a cupful of butter with one cupful of sugar, add two well beaten egg yolks. Sift one and three-fourths cupfuls of flour with two and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-fourth teaspoonful of soda and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Add the dry ingredients to the creamed mixture alternating with one-half cupful of grapefruit juice and one-third of a cupful of the pulp freed from the membrane. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and bake in two layers. Put together with lemon filling and cover with powdered sugar, butter, icing flavored with the grated rind and enough juice of grapefruit to make of the consistency for spreading.

Army and Food
The expression "An army fights on its belly," or one very similar to it, "An army, like a serpent, goes on its belly," has been attributed to Frederick the Great. Another saying, attributed to the duke of Marlborough, is "No soldier can fight unless he is properly fed on beef and beer."

Arabic Prevails
Arabic is spoken by the greatest number of people in Palestine near Jerusalem.

CAR OF ANCIENT VINTAGE MOVES SWIFTLY

MOTOR TRUCKING FARM PRODUCTS

Surveys Show Many Farmers Are Now Selling Direct to Truckmen.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The constantly increasing use of the motor truck in transportation of farm products and its far-reaching effect upon the farm marketing system are engaging the attention of the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture, which is making an extensive study of the motor truck in its relations to marketing.

The bureau's survey consists of determining the importance of truck receipts of the fruit and vegetable supply in some of the leading market centers of the country; and in ascertaining the volume of truck movement as compared with movements by rail and boat from representative producing areas. It will determine also the situation with regard to the re-distribution of produce from the large market centers to smaller communities in their trade areas.

Now Sell to Truckmen.
Preliminary surveys by the bureau show that many farmers who formerly hauled or shipped produce to market centers now sell direct to the so-called truckmen-merchants. These itinerant merchants buy supplies on speculation and may haul to one of a half-dozen or more consuming markets within a radius of 200 to 300 miles; or they may peddle their loads in small towns or rural districts. Truckmen-merchants in many instances make it possible for producers to sell products of a grade and condition which it would be impractical to ship by rail.

Produce handlers in market centers complain that the marketing of these supplies has a depressing effect on prices of shipped-in produce, since it frequently results in an oversupply at the market.

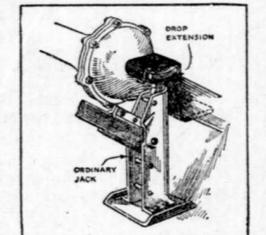

Business Increasing.
The motor truck has extended the local supply area of a market beyond the distance formerly within wagon haul and many specialized crops are now being hauled by truck from producing areas for distances up to 600 miles. The truck eliminates much of the handling and re-hauling of the produce on farms and in markets. The business has increased tremendously in recent years, and furnishes an increasing proportion of the market supplies. The bureau is compiling the daily motor truck receipts at several markets, and it is hoped that the present survey will indicate methods of developing more complete market news reports on this phase of the produce business.

THE MOTOR QUIZ

(How Many Can You Answer?)
Q. Why should the top of the car be kept clear of snow and ice?
Ans. Because of the bad effect on the fabric.
Q. What causes failure of lights to burn?
Ans. A blown fuse, discharged battery, worn out bulb, or faulty switch.
Q. What is the cause of dim lights?
Ans. Weak battery, short circuit, improperly connected wire, or dirty or faulty switch.
Q. In cleaning spark plugs should the porcelain be scraped?

Extension for Jack Is Handy for Emergencies

The illustration shows a way to form a drop extension out of a heavy piece of strap iron. This drop extension will prove extremely useful in cases where it is necessary to get under the axle when the jack itself is too high. Do not attempt to make the drop extension out of light strap iron. The steel must be so thick that there will be no chance of the weight bending the lower angle and permitting the axle to slip.

The base area of many types of jacks is neither wide enough or long enough. They work well on hard surfaces, but are quite likely to tip over if an attempt is made to use them on sand or soft ground. This is particularly true when an extension is used. It is, therefore, desirable to fit an extra base to the jack as shown.—Popular Science Monthly.

AUTOMOBILE FACTS

Say it with brakes and save the flowers.
Unavoidable Accident—One where all the members of the jury have cars, too.
Have your brakes ready for testing; indeed, it is a good thing to keep them that way always.
Probably the laziest man in the world is the motorist who waited all day in Kansas for cyclone to blow up a flat tire.
At least this is fine growing weather for the development of filling stations and miniature golf courses. Close your eyes and then open them and you'll see.
It is more important that tires be kept properly inflated in summer. Heat is rubber's natural enemy. Under-inflated tires, flexing more, generate much more heat.
The average driver takes more time shifting from first to second than from second to high gear. That is because the throw usually is longer and the direction of movement changes.
Usually advice concerning the spring U-bolts is to do with keeping them tight to avoid spring breakage or to improving riding comfort.
Exasperated by a woman driver, a Californian pulled her from her car, turned her over his knee and spanked her. Is this a precedent?
"The Rights of Pedestrians" is an article in a current law review. Using this as a foundation, the primary class in punning might try something along the line of "rites."

Self-Control Prominent Attribute of Socrates

Socrates was a graduate of the school of hard knocks who learned to talk by talking and to preach what he had himself practiced.

His two main tenets were self-control and self-knowledge, and here he was a pioneer. He was a man of few words, and his words were hard to hear. He was a man of few words, and his words were hard to hear. He was a man of few words, and his words were hard to hear.

he would not have belonged to the Anti-Nicotine league. No, his doctrine of self-control seemed to be this: "I can do with, and I can do without, and I trust that you can do the same." Or, as he put the matter when present at the fair: "How many things there are which I do not need."—Woodbridge Riley in "Men and Morals."

Preparing for Emergencies
Pat called upon his friend Mike, and found him sitting in his shed with the much-mended inner tube of his bicycle wheel over his knee.

"Puncture, Mike?" he asked sympathetically.

The other shook his head.

"Then why are you covering the tube with all those patches?" inquired Pat wonderingly.

"Well, you see," explained Mike, "when I do get a puncture it'll be already mended and all."—Weekly Scotsman.

UNITE ON MARKHAM FOR STATE SENATOR

To the Voters of Dodge and Washington Counties:

My thanks go out to you all for your splendid support during the last four years. Your appreciation of my efforts to better conditions and save money for this district and Wisconsin as a whole, is my reward.

When I gave my consent to stand as a candidate for re-election to the State Senate, my guiding thought was that you desired me to continue the fight for better things in general. My record is my platform. The constant endorsement of my home people, leads the way to knowledge that your continued appreciation of my work at Madison is deserved. One man cannot do it alone.

Will you help to get out the vote? The ballots which are not cast, do not count.

Again thanking you for your kindly interest in my behalf, I am,

Respectfully yours,

Unmeasured Winds

The strongest winds are those of tornadoes and have never been measured. Plausible estimates based on the effects of these storms run up to 400 or 500 miles an hour in some cases. The strongest winds ever measured instrumentally blew at the summit of Mount Washington, N. H. January 11, 1878. The indicated velocity was 186 miles an hour, but certain necessary corrections reduce this to about 140 miles an hour.

CONGRESS
PRIMARY ELECTION
Tuesday, Sept. 16, 1930

The "Sheboygan Press," the largest newspaper in the largest city in the second Congressional District, under date of June 10, 1930, contained the following editorial, recommending Mr. Kading for re-nomination.

"RECORD OF REAL SERVICE"

"Honorable Charles Kading member of Congress from this district will be a candidate to succeed himself in the coming primary, and by virtue of his record he is entitled to re-nomination. This paper has been in close touch with the Congressmen during the past two years and we can speak with first-hand information when we say that he has been alert in the interests of the people of his district. * * * he has been guiding the destinies of the new federal postoffice for Sheboygan, which has now reached a stage where recognition of our needs has been given attention. What is true of Sheboygan is true of other cities, towns and villages in the district. He has been liberal from every point of view, heeding the wishes of the people of the district irrespective of their political affiliations. That is the kind of a man that can best serve the district."

McCormick-Deering Corn Binders Save Time Cutting Corn

WHEN your corn is ready to cut, depend on the McCormick-Deering Corn Binder to do this heavy job for you, quickly. It has a record of successful, reliable performance throughout the corn belt. It does the work of 5 to 7 men. The McCormick-Deering gets all the corn in the leaning and down stalks. The throat of the binder pushes the corn over against the elevator so that cutting and carrying to the binding mechanism is positive. The reliable McCormick-Deering assures binding every bundle. Short corn binds equally as well as tall corn, because the binder pan, which provides evenly butted bundles, has a wide range of adjustment. Clear, open sides permit easy removal of undergrowth. The shielded gear drive excludes trash and undergrowth and gives long life. A bundle loader can be furnished at additional cost. Let us show you these features that have made the McCormick-Deering the popular binder among corn growers.

The Eskimo are very fond of music. Their native music consists chiefly of songs, chants and melodies, many of which possess considerable musical rhythm. Although the tunes to which they are sung are very crude, they can be traced to keynotes. The melodies especially are said to be very pleasing and a number of them have been published with corresponding music.

Sport Notes

Now that miniature golf is so popular somebody might start a miniature tree-sitting contest.

A curfew is now demanded in Chicago for miniature night golf. A club would be more effective.

The new stadium being built at Notre Dame will seat 55,000, twice as many as the old stands held.

Sammy Byrd, Yankee outfielder, rejected an offer to become a golf professional in order to remain in baseball.

Art Neff boasts the distinction of ritching four shut-out games during the first month he was with the Braves.

Ben Tincup, the ancient Indian pitcher, is still going good for Louisville, though his work is mostly in relief roles.

Fresco Thompson, Philly second baseman, who has been ridden all season by fans, is certain to be traded next season.

A miniature golf course has been installed on the river packet Betsy Ann, operating between Pittsburgh and Louisville.

There are fifteen golf clubs in or within the suburbs of Seattle, Wash., besides a score of baby courses, driving courses and putting greens.

Johnny Dobbs, veteran manager in the Southern league, says infielders with football experience advance rapidly because they have learned to use their hips.

Charley Short, famous fighter, but for some years a referee, has officiated in 8,392 bouts, but most of them were between college men, four and five fights in one show.

KNIFE THRUST TO SILENCED CUBS

Incident of Now-Famous World Series Game.

"You can kill a fellow with sugar-coated words, if you know how." Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis is responsible for this bit of philosophy, which had its inception in the world's series dugouts.

The commissioner broke down the other day and confessed the truth about the now-famous world's series razzing incident.

"Both the Cubs and the Athletics were cutting loose a line of adjectives at the other that would have shamed Dumas or Victor Hugo," he said.

The commissioner decided something had to be done. He first called in the umpires.

"If any of those players start 'ridling' in the same kind of 'dugout English' they used yesterday, throw the man that does it out of the game and I'll take his world's series cut away from him. If you cannot locate the right player, then eject the manager."

Landis next called over Managers McCarthy and Mack. He repeated his warning. Two minutes later the managers held clubhouse meetings and informed the players the judge was on the warpath.

The game started and all was silence. Finally Mickey Cochrane dashed over near the Cubs' dugout and speared a foul fly. After making the catch he turned and sneered at McCarthy's men:

"Hel-lo-o, sweethearts," he rasped cuttingly.

The New York Football Giants, with Benny Friedman, former All-American, as their star, will play five of their seventeen professional games this season at night. Three night games will be played at the Polo grounds, one at Newark and one at Portsmouth.

Robert Maranville, sparkling of the Braves, and who possesses possibly more color than any other player in the National league, recently accepted a Boston sport writer's invitation to dinner in a swanky eating place in New York.

Impressed by the ritzy surroundings, the Rabbit walked with his most dignified front to a table to which a bowing headwaiter took himself and host. Seated, he started on a good story.

"Pardon, Mr. Maranville," a waiter broke in, "will you have a serviette?" The Rabbit looked up, then grinned. "Hell, no, boy! I ain't had anything to drink in more than a year now."

If the big league home-run hitters do not slacken their pace, 1,000-home runs are due to be hit by both circuits this year. They have been averaging one and one-third home runs per game all season.

There is a possibility that both big league individual records for home run hitting also will be broken, for the pace setters are now ahead of any past schedule.

"If you think Abbie Booth is a pretty fair football player, wait until you see a lad named Crowley romping around next fall for Yale," remarked Ralph Irvine Sasse, Army's new head football coach, as we were having a midsummer gridiron pow-wow. "They tell me Crowley will be another sensation at New Haven."

Sasse thinks Harvard as well as Yale will be among the strongest of eastern football outfits this year, with the prospect that the annual classic between these two ancient rivals will be one of the best of the campaign.

Army plays both the Crimson and Blue, which happens to be why Ralph Irvine Sasse is devoting some early thought to the subject.

Baseball now is as popular a sport in Japan as it is in the United States.

Purdue won the Big Ten title last fall, says Jimmy Phelan, because Swedish exercises made the men fit to stay in the game.

Every member of the Temple university football squad must go through a thorough physical examination before he is allowed to report to the training camp. This examination includes a testing of the heart and lungs; condition of the teeth, and a special examination of the blood.

Lee Roy Mahaffey, who has made good as a member of the pitching staff of Connie Mack's world champion Athletic nine this year, is lefthanded in everything he does except pitching and batting. He can hardly throw the ball at all with his left hand.

Because of his great speed Bob Shawkey is planning to make a center fielder out of Dusty Cooke.

Helen Wills' Return

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody has announced that she would play in both the women's national championship tennis tourney and the Wightman cup matches next year, as well as in California tournaments at Los Angeles and San Francisco this fall.

New York City, decided not to change the so-called lively ball.

Texas has furnished more baseball players to the big leagues than any other state in the Union.

Red Faber, now forty-one, won the only three games the White Sox captured in a 16-game stretch this season.

Waite Hoyt, American league pitcher, is not the only undertaker in baseball, Curt Walker of the Reds being another who plans to work at this trade when his playing days are over.

In Thomas, scout of the A's, is under orders not to look at any recruits who stand less than six feet.

In one season, 1887, bases on balls were scored as hits, giving batters all sorts of inflated .400 batting averages.

Dick Rudolph, one of the aces that pitched Boston to a pennant and world's championship in 1914, still hurls occasionally in the low ranking minors.

Seeing Big League BASEBALL

By BILLY EVANS
Sportswriter, Big League Umpire and General Manager of the Cleveland Indians

In the old days the umpires often permitted the player to remain in the game after using verbal epithets that would just about cost the umpire of today his job unless he met them with drastic measures. When the player gets rough, treat him much rougher, was a version much employed in handling situations in the old days. The late Tim Hurst was a past master at this style of umpiring. Tim was never at a loss for words and there was a tobacco flavor to everything he said. It was Tim Hurst, who, years ago, when President Johnson, peeved at the way the American league games were being delayed, wrote his umpires for suggestions as to how they might be shortened, replied:

"Dear Ban—if you are really in earnest about shortening the games, why not try seven innings?" As far as I know, Tim Hurst was the only umpire who ever addressed Mr. Johnson as Ban. Likewise, such a reply as sent by Hurst would have been funny to the American league head from no umpire other than Hurst.

In a game at New York one day, Hurst was umpiring the plate, and I was working the bases. Jack Chesbro was pitching for New York, Jack Kleinow catching, Jim Deleahanty, then with Washington, was the batter. In those days Chesbro had a fast breaking spittball. With the count two balls and two strikes, Chesbro threw a spitter that Hurst ruled a ball. Both Chesbro and Kleinow disputed the decision, Catcher Kleinow taking Hurst seriously to task. Hurst, more to end the argument than for any other reason, said to Kleinow:

"We will put it up to Deleahanty. Where was that last one, Jim?"

"Right through the heart of the plate. Calling that one a ball established the belief that you are blind," Hurst was in a rage.

"Hit the next one, for you're out, no matter how high, low or wide it may be," he fairly bellowed. Catcher Jack Kleinow knew that Tim Hurst was a man of his word, also knew that Tim was mighty sore. Despite the fact that the count was three balls and two strikes, he signaled to Chesbro for a waste ball. Not quite comprehending Kleinow's intentions, Chesbro shook him off, but he came back with the same sign. Chesbro threw a ball a foot wide of the plate, and as Deleahanty started to jog down to first base, sure he had received a base on balls, Hurst was heard to shout:

"Strike Three!" and that's what it was, despite the strenuous protests of the entire Washington club.

Tim Hurst, a New Yorker by birth and desire, was one of those who figured you were just existing when not in the big city. The idea of staying overnight in Philadelphia, only 90 miles from New York, was the height of folly to Hurst. So when umpiring in Philadelphia he always made it a point to get an early train out of North Philadelphia for New York. The 5:17 was his favorite and he invariably made it.

In those days Sunday ball was not played in New York. It was a Saturday afternoon and St. Louis was playing in Philadelphia. With no game on Sunday, getting the 5:17 on Saturday meant that Hurst would not have to come back to Philadelphia until Monday at noon. When the Athletics came to bat in the eighth inning, St. Louis was beaten about 13 to 2. Jack Powell, who was pitching for St. Louis, noted that Tim looked at his watch as the inning started. That gave him an idea.

"Don't worry about the 5:17, Tim, you're not going to make it today, I'm too wild." Hurst realized that Powell was purposely passing the batons in order to make him lose his train. The next three batters were "Topsy" Hartzel, Rube Oldring and Danny Murphy. Hurst called them out on nine pitched balls, although not one of them was within a foot of the plate. Topsy Hartzel roared, but Oldring and Murphy, wise to what Tim was doing, gleefully watched Tim call them out. He made the 5:17.

Umpires may be a necessary evil, but no one connected with the game is more deserving of credit than the men who pioneered as umpires. In the old days one man handled the ball game, now in some games there are three umpires, and in a world series, four of them. Baseball owes much to such veterans as Bob Emslie, Hank O'Day, Tommy Connolly, the late Jack Sheridan, "Silk" O'Loughlin and Tim Hurst.

Pruett Helps McGraw

Herb Pruet, veteran National league twirler, is having a good year with the New York Giants and his work has done much to keep McGraw's team near the top in the flag race.

Cattle Feeding Plant Equipped for Storage and Self-Feeding

By W. A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all problems pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on the subject. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 467 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Everything points to a low price for corn this fall and winter and, as a consequence, growers of corn will find it more profitable to market their crops through live stock than to make it a cash crop. By ensiling some of the crop and husking out the balance, cattle feeders will have a good stock of low-priced feed this fall. In order to make feeding operations profitable, buildings that will house the cattle and roughage and the grain racks, together with silos, are needed. Cattle that are kept in a dry lot and practically unprotected from winter weather, use up a great amount of feed to produce body heat rather than to put on flesh and fat, which are what buyers pay for. The cattle feeding plant shown is an open stable floor with equipment for hay storage and hay self-feeding. Between the two silos at the front is the feed storage room and feed mixing room. The equipment used to cut down the labor of feeding the animals is indicated on the floor plan. A cross-section of the barn and some of the details of construction also are given. In the cross-

What Can You Afford to Pay for a Home?

No young couple should attempt to buy a home until they are ready to pay down at least 25 per cent of the cost in cash, warns Willard K. Denton, president of the Metropolitan League of Savings and Loan associations, writing in Good Housekeeping Magazine. Nor should a family attempt to buy a home whose cost is more than three times the sum of the family's annual income, advises Mr. Denton, whose organization members finance the majority of owner-built homes in New York area. Thus, if a man earns $3,000 a year, he is justified under normal circumstances in planning to buy and pay for a $15,000 home, including the cost of ground, in a period of ten to twelve years. To illustrate the financial advantages of buying or building one's home as opposed to renting, the expert presents tables showing the expenditures of two families living on the same scale over a period of 12 years. The one renting a house at $100 a month and

Control Noxious Perennial Weeds

Chlorates of Calcium, Sodium or Magnesium Are Effective.

Noxious perennial weeds which cause heavy losses on many farms can be controlled under certain conditions by spraying with chlorates of calcium, sodium or magnesium. It is indicated by tests conducted by the Colorado Agricultural College. Although more definite information is needed before final recommendations can be announced, a recent survey of plots of weeds throughout the state where killing tests were made gives some light on the problem, according to Bruce J. Thornton, assistant botanist for the Colorado experiment station, and T. G. Stewart, extension agronomist at the college.

Observations made during this survey indicate that the best results from these chemical sprays may be obtained as follows:

1. Allow the perennial weed pest to reach full maturity, and perhaps make a few seeds.
2. Use two pounds or more of chlorate salt per square rod in a fine spray evenly distributed over the foliage.
3. Spraying the weed during the late afternoon or evening seems to give the best results.
4. Follow-up treatments are necessary, using the same strength of solution, late this summer or next year. The amount of material required will be determined by the number of plants re-appearing in the area sprayed.

These are only tentative recommendations. It is emphasized. Additional experimental and demonstrational work is now under way in many sections of the state, and more complete results will be announced as soon as they are available.

Danger of Fire. Farmers are warned that there is serious danger of fire in using sodium chlorate. Calcium chlorate gives ap-

SEEK LARGER SUPPLY OF NEW AND SUPERIOR INSECTICIDE

Malay States Urged to Grow Rotenone-Bearing Plants.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Finding rotenone, a new insecticide, superior to materials now generally used for insect control, the United States Department of Agriculture is urging the Malay states to grow rotenone-bearing plants on a commercial scale for the American trade.

This new insecticide is found in quantities up to 7 per cent in the roots of the South American "cube" plant (pronounced cooby), up to 5 1/2 per cent in Derris roots, and to a lesser extent in three other plants. The cube now grows in a part of South America where the climate is similar to that of the Malay states and surrounding countries.

R. C. Roark, insecticide specialist of the Department of Agriculture, advances the theory that Derris plants

Remove All Old Canes From the Berry Patches

Immediately following the harvest of both blackberries and raspberries the old fruiting canes should be removed. The removal will destroy many diseases and insects harmful to the berry patch and additional non-shipment will be given. The new canes which are left at this time the new vigorous canes to be cut. On account of the tendency of the blackberries to produce new and rather weak shoots, they should not be thinned until spring. This may be done at the time the laterals are shortened. Blackberries are thinned to leave strong vigorous canes about 3-10 inches apart.

Sodium Chlorate Must Be Handled Carefully

One of the most important precautions in the use of sodium chlorate as a weed spray is its inflammability. Large quantities of sodium chlorate were used throughout the United States in the last two years and several workers were severely burned. Sodium chlorate does not catch fire quickly but burns rapidly after once started. Fire must be kept away from all articles such as clothing, rubbish, refuse, and any other inflammable material which has been sprayed with sodium chlorate.

Put Apples in Pit

Apples can be kept satisfactorily by burying them in the ground, advises the Farm Journal. The quality of some varieties such as Ben Davis or Russet is improved by burying. The pit should be eight or ten inches deep in a well-drained location. The apples placed in it should be covered with straw and when the temperature is down as far as 20 degrees the straw should be covered with three or four inches of earth. In colder weather another layer of straw and a second layer of earth should be added. No ventilation is required.

English Basement

An English-type basement raises the first apartment well off the ground level and provides plenty of light and ventilation in the basement, where can be installed either a central or individual heating plant, the laundry and storage for the occupants of the two apartments.

Face Brick

Face brick is a popular medium being used to modernize old homes. Very often an attractive, colorful home is salvaged out of the old house at a fraction of the cost that a new dwelling of similar appearance would entail.

Vets Recall Memories of Ban on "Blackjack"

Veterans who knew General Pershing when he first was called "Black Jack," back in the days of the Philippine insurrection, answered to roll call in the Baltimore War memorial recently and organized the Maryland branch of the Eighth Army Corps association.

While all of those present did not serve under the man who was to become the commander of the American troops in the World war, they recall General Pershing's famous order prohibiting the playing of the game of blackjack in his troop of the Fifth cavalry.

They told how news of the order, which was posted on the company bulletin board, spread throughout the island army and was laughed at by such men as Harbord, Sumner, Ligtget and others who a few years later were to become famous in their own right—Baltimore Sun.

One of Oldest Legends, That of Wandering Jew

How long the story of the "Wandering Jew" has been in circulation, and what was its origin, are questions on which there is no evidence to base replies. But it is certain that from the period of its first writing it became more prevalent than ever in various homes.

It was not till later that the aspect of eternal wandering was introduced, and this was possibly encouraged by the fact that at intervals persons claiming to be the original "Wandering Jew" made their appearance in different parts of Europe.

According to the Italian astrologer Guido Bonatti, the wanderer passed through Fortle in 1267. Philip of Novara, a famous jurist who resided for a long time in Jerusalem, writing in 1250, refers to one Jehan Boute Dieu as one proverbially long-lived, suggesting that the legend was then well established in Jerusalem.

She Lost 19 Pounds of Fat in 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote—"My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses. Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast. Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat." Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts is carried to every organ, limb, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.

Designate Two Cows as Champions of Colorado

Two pure-bred Jersey dairy cows owned by the Colorado Agricultural college have just been declared champion register of merit cows in their classes for Colorado during 1929, by the American Jersey Cattle club.

Certificates to this effect have just been received by Prof. George E. Morton, head of the animal husbandry department at the college, from Lewis W. Morley, secretary of the club.

One of the cows, Campestral Queen, has been designated as the champion register of merit cow, class AA, with a record production of 453.26 pounds of butter fat in 365 days.

The other, Fox's Leora Dewdrop, has been declared the champion register of merit cow, class AAA, for the past year, with a record butter fat production of 394.45 pounds in 284 days.

The college dairy herd is in charge of B. W. Fairbanks, associate professor of animal husbandry.

Bright Shiny Yellow Corn Best for Fowls

Watch the corn supply that you are buying from the elevator and try and obtain bright shiny yellow corn. Sometimes an order of corn may contain a lot of black or brown kernels or grain that smells musty or shows signs of mold. Such corn is not good for chicken feed. It seems that a dog can eat a spoiled product and disgorge it and immediately reduce the unfavorable effects. The unfortunate chicken that eats spoiled corn, tainted canned goods or moldy or decayed feed, must allow the material to pass through the entire digestive system. That is why hens must have clean feed in order to thrive and lay. The old idea that anything was good enough for scavenger hens has probably killed a lot of good hens.

Woman Takes High Rank

Dr. Marie Wedel, the first woman in Hungary ever to be appointed to a full university professorship, is a mineralogist by profession and for a number of years has been director of the mineralogy section of the National museum in Budapest. She is now professor of the same subject in Debreczin university.

Grouch Never Popular

The grouch is a pain in the neck even to himself. When you are an enemy to every one, it is natural that every one should be an enemy to you. But when you are friendly to everybody, you'll find them that way toward you, too.—Grit.

A Sour Stomach

In the same time it takes a dose of soda to bring a little temporary relief of gas and sour stomach, Phillips Milk of Magnesia has acidity completely checked, and the digestive organs all tranquilized.

Once you have tried this form of relief you will cease to worry about your diet and experience a new freedom in eating. This pleasant preparation is just as good for children, too. Use it whenever coated tongue or fetid breath signals need of a sweeter. Physicians will tell you that every spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Get the genuine, the name Phillips is important. Imitations do not act the same!

Perfect dyeing so easily done!

DIAMOND DYES contain the highest quality anilines money can buy! That's why they give such true, bright, new colors to dresses, drapes, lingerie.

The anilines in Diamond Dyes make them so easy to use. No spotting or streaking. Just clear, even colors, that hold through wear and washing.

Diamond Dyes never give things that re-dyed look. They are just like at all drug stores. When perfect dyeing costs no more—is so easy—why experiment with makeshifts?

You Can Build Economically Now

Now is the time to build that "home of your dreams" or to make needed improvements in the old one. You can secure money at favorable rates, material prices are reasonable and there is plenty of labor available. It will probably be many years before these economic factors will again be so advantageous, if ever.

But, whenever you build, play safe. Use only materials of proven value. For example, in structural lumber for the framework, there is nothing equal to Native Hemlock in this rigorous climate of its growth. You are always sure of getting the genuine when you specify that the official brand of the Northern Hemlock Manufacturers Association (shown below) must appear on every board or piece. This grade-mark is also your assurance of uniform standard sizes and guaranteed grades. There is a lot of valuable information on lumber in the free pamphlet "Vital Factors of Building Construction," issued by the Association. We recommend you write for a copy to the Northern Hemlock Manufacturers Association, Oshkosh, Wisconsin.

JOHN MARX

A RESOLUTION

Authorized, published and will be paid for by George Evans of Iron Ridge, Wisconsin.

Whereas, Honorable Herman Bilgrien, former State Senator from the Thirteenth Senatorial District of Wisconsin, is again a candidate for that important office; and whereas he held that office from 1919 to 1926 with great credit to himself and his constituents, having been ever mindful of the interests of the farmer, the laborer and the conductor of small enterprises and businesses; and whereas, as a token of appreciation of the services rendered by the soldiers of the World War, he caused to be erected to the memory of these boys from the village of Iron Ridge and the Town of Hubbard a magnificent memorial of granite and caused their names to be engraved thereon, thus making a permanent honor roll for them; and whereas we sincerely believe that if again elected to this office, Mr. Bilgrien will continue his efforts in the interests of the laborer, the farmer and the conductor of small enterprises

Now, therefore, we the undersigned, members of the American Legion of the village of Iron Ridge and the town of Hubbard, do hereby highly resolve that we deeply appreciate the labors and achievements of Mr. Bilgrien and that we will promote his candidacy in all honorable ways and do all that we can honorably do to bring about his election to this office. We hereby pledge ourselves to stand by him in this campaign and to ask all members of the American Legion in this district to support him for this office.

(Signed) George Evans

WHY WE ARE FOR CANNON FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

With a view of getting the fact relative to the fitness of John A. Cannon for District Attorney the News feels that it is only justice to its readers to present the result of a study it has made of his record. There is an old saying to the effect that a boy is father to the man and this holds true with Mr. Cannon, for his success as a practice attorney must have resulted in a large measure to the thoroughness with which he prepared himself for the law profession, for we find that in the state bar examination of 1925 he was among the first five in a class of 201. Immediately upon opening an office in West Bend this training evidenced itself by a constant growth in his law practice. His knowledge of the law fits him to give sound and accurate advice which wins for him the confidence of his clients. This training further shows itself in the way he conducts his cases in Justice and Circuit court, winning for him the respect of those who have business in those courts. In going over the Circuit court calendar we find Mr. Cannon had 34 civil cases since the March term of 1928. It is the judgment of jurists and attorneys that Mr. Cannon has been unusually successful in trying cases.

The News feels that it is warranted in the interest of public service in making these facts public, and that the selection of Mr. Cannon as the nominee of the Republican party will be assured if the voters are made acquainted with his fitness for that office.—West Bend News, August 17.

Authorized, published and will be paid for by John A. Cannon, West Bend, Wis.
