SANTO DOMINGO CITY RAZED BY HURRICANE

Hundreds Are Dead and Injured; U. S. Rushes Aid.

San Juan, Porto Rico.—First reports to Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt of the tropical hurricane which razed a great portion of the city of Santo Domingo indicated a loss of life numbering upwards of 800, with no part of the interior of the Dominican republic heard from.

The 800 deaths were estimated by President Trujillo. That many had been counted at the time of the conference and it was indicated that the number in the city might go higher.

Major Crockett had been sent to Santo Domingo by the American Red Cross at the instance of Governor Roosevelt. He radioed back to Roosevelt as soon as he had landed that the Dominican capital was almost obliterated.

Santo Domingo.—The specters of hunger and disease following the tropical hurricane confronted authorities here and calls were issued for medical supplies and food.

The city itself was isolated from the rest of the republic and all estimates of casualties and material damages over the country are mere guesses, since the hurricane which struck the capital with such devastating fury is believed to have wreaked similar if not heavier havoc in the interior.

The hurricane raged for four hours. Houses in the aristocratic quarter were razed to their foundations. Dwellings of the poor simply disappeared on the wings of a wind estimated to be blowing around 150 miles an hour.

U. S. Ships 156 Aliens to European Countries

The deportation was part of the campaign of federal immigration authorities to rid the country of undesirable who are here illegally.

LEGGE URGES WHEAT AS LIVE STOCK FEED

Farm Head Also Renews Plea for Reduction of Acreage.

Washington.—A warning that live stock growers must substitute wheat and other small grains for corn in feeding if a normal supply of meat dairy products and poultry is to be produced this winter was issued by Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm board.

In addition to being a measure of economy for the producers, he said in a nation-wide radio address, this substitution should have a beneficial effect upon the situation in the wheat market.

To obtain the best results substitution should begin at once, he continued, by mixing the substitute grains with corn. In this way, the chairman explained, a complete change in the cattle ration at a later date will be averted.

Pointing out that most of the agricultural colleges figure wheat can be profitably included up to 25 per cent in the feeding ration where wheat and corn are selling at approximately the same price, he said:

The shortage of corn, created by the drought, he explained, has brought on an abnormal situation, which would be bettered materially by the substitution suggested, as in his opinion, it would place next year's feed supply upon a fairly normal basis.

Census Figures Reveal 2,500,000 Jobless in U. S.

Washington.—According to figures made public the past week by the bureau of the census, the larger cities in the United States account for the larger part of the unemployment.

The census bureau places the number of unemployed at 2,500,000 in round numbers. The statistics released had to do with cities of 100,000 population and over and showed that in cities of this class more than 3 per cent of the people were without jobs.

Duluth, Minn., had the highest percentage of jobless when the census was taken in April, the figures showed. Of Duluth's total population of 101,417, there were 5,444 persons, or 5.4 per cent, out of work and seeking employment.

London.—A finding against the absentee culprit by a special court of arbitration awarded the Lena Goldfields, Ltd., a judgment for $64,825,000 against the Soviet government for violation of the company's concession for the development of vast mining properties in Russia.

London.—Suicides in England have shown a slight increase. According to the registrar general's statistics issued recently, 4,980 persons committed suicide last year, against 4,882 for the previous year.

New York.—John J. McGraw has signed a contract to continue managing the New York Giants for five years, Charles A. Stoneham, president of the club announced.

Washington.—Imports from Japan during the first six months of 1930 declined more than $75,000,000 to a total value of $108,872,000, according to Commerce department figures made public.

FRENCH FLYERS HOP OCEAN IN 37 HOURS

Coste, Bellonte Greeted as Lindy Was in Paris.

New York.—Capt. Dieudonne Coste and his companion, Maurice Bellonte, the French flyers who brought to a highly successful conclusion the first non-stop airplane flight from Le Bourget field, Paris, to New York city, are engaged in receiving the plaudits bestowed upon them by Washington and other American cities.

Col. William E. Easterwood, who offered the prize for the Paris-Dallas flight, the first of many for aviation pioneering to be captured, specified in his contract that the flyers were not to rest in the eastern metropolis for more than 72 hours following their landing from the ocean flight.

The total of flying time for the entire cruise from Paris to Dallas, approximately 5,700 miles, was only 48 hours 55 minutes and 15 seconds.

Both men responded to the wild cheering and then exchanged greetings in their own language with the French notables at the field. Colonel Lindbergh and his wife were at the field to greet the flyers.

The French flyers were smuggled from the field and were taken to a hotel. Both appeared to be in splendid condition after their gruelling flight, although they admitted great fatigue.

The hardest part of the flight, Coste said, was after the coast of North America was reached. There the Frenchmen ran into bad weather, the fog at times being very heavy.

The demonstration at the field was comparable to the demonstration that greeted Lindbergh in Paris three years ago.

The crowning drama of the French flyers' welcome came at the Hotel Roosevelt when Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, who fought as a German naval flyer throughout the war, and Captain Coste, with nine victories over German planes to his credit, clasped hands and congratulated each other warmly amid a setting of American, French and German flags.

The occasion which brought them all together was a dinner given by the German-American Society of New York in honor of Captain Gronau and his three companions of the Dornier-Wal, which alighted in New York harbor from Germany a week ago.

The French flyers have nebulous plans for a globe circling flight which will take them over both poles, but they would only hint at the ambitious projects.

The Question Mark is certain of another sea adventure, although it will carry a different crew. Coste revealed that Paul Codos, the Frenchman who helped him to set a distance record last year, was coming over to fly the red plane back to Paris. Codos will be accompanied by a mechanic, it was said.

There would be nothing for us to gain by the trip, said Coste. "We will go back by ship."

Washington.—Exports of industrial machinery from the United States for the seven months ending July 31, showed a gain over the same period last year and reached a level higher than at any time in the last nine years.

London.—Suicides in England have shown a slight increase. According to the registrar general's statistics issued recently, 4,980 persons committed suicide last year, against 4,882 for the previous year.

CHANGED THEIR MATRIMONIAL PROGRAM

FRANK SOUTHWICK adored his older brother, John. Everything about Frank was faintly reminiscent of John, even his clothes.

John Southwick sought to find his coat and glasses, bearing down on a table where sat Miss Winnie Stone, looking cool and immaculate in blue linen.

"Going to advertise John Southwick or soup today?" she asked with brilliant smile. "Neither," he answered promptly. "Soup is not today as planned and I wouldn't think of trying to advertise the gentleman mentioned, cause I am sure that is the last he wants."

John's amused but sympathetic eyes followed his brother as dejected back at the door. Then he drifted out of the door. Then he called a taxi and was finally deposited before an office building whose tenth floor boasted a suite with "John Southwick, Jr., advertising," chastely and simply lettered on its outer door.

A little later John emerged from the small wash room that adjoined his private office, his hair brushed to a satin sheen, a fresh collar replacing the wilted one, being, in short, a perfect picture of a prosperous young business man about to seek his noonday meal.

He moved with the crowd toward one of the slot places, instinctively reaching for his glasses. No glasses—of course! They were in the pocket of the coat Frank probably was carrying about with him.

He confessed to forgetting his glasses, allowed the girl to get him some salad and ice cream, puzzling all the while over her reference to John Southwick. He was very sure he never had an interest in the man, he asked her to describe him.

"Well," she said naively, "I could give you quite a comprehensive summary of his virtues as I've heard them rehearsed several times a week for a year or more by his younger brother, Frank. But if you want my personal opinion, the girl's tone took on a sudden crispness, "if nothing were an adjective, John Southwick would be its superlative degree."

"Oh, now, Miss—Miss—"

"Stone—Winifred, Stone."

John was not conscious of his own frowning beginning, but he was absolutely certain about the girl's abrupt, and proceeded forthwith to question her brother was so in love with her. "You're wrong, Miss Stone," he went on pleadingly. "No wonder such a bad fellow. No wonder he has formed an opinion with his young ears for so long. In reality, just an ordinary, humble, well-meaning human being."

"Friend of yours?"

"I work in his office."

"I certainly admire loyalty to an employer, but you cannot be sure to give me John Southwick," she said as she arose to go. "Better bring your glasses next time," she said, smiling a friendly farewell.

Argentine Capital Hides Eyesores From Visitors

Here, brethren, is the most wonderful part of Rio de Janeiro: Approaching, you see not a single man-made blemish in the entire scope of the scene—no gas tanks, no coal tippers, no freight docks, no grain elevators, no factory chimneys, no switch yards. These are tucked away out of your sight in landlocked basins or along the banks of concealed artificial canals.

The exquisite beauty of the vista is unmarred and unutilized. It was—or anyhow, almost perfect. I am trying to forget that one minor blotch on the panorama is an electric sign advertising a Yankee motor car tires.

The criminal guilty of perpetrating that atrocity should be condemned to confinement for life in a corral of North American billboards, and for a lifetime he should have, misguided Frenchman who, despite protests from the local beauty lovers and at the instigation of the mayor,

One of the first military bridges to use the floating or pontoon bridge principle was the transportation of troops across the Xerxes, who crossed the Hellespont on a double bridge, one line supported by 300, and the other by 314 rafts.

"You're a good boy," he said, showing his teeth. "You've taken to the lads. A not bad woman! You're a not bad woman!" Linda cried.

CHAPTER VIII
Call to Action
From Washington Brian wrote in a way that revealed his heart with almost cruel clarity. Linda could find no doubt there; only the humility and reverence with which some men approach the women they love. This attitude touched her profoundly. Tenderness was new to her.

But what was to come of it all? When that question persistently arose to torment her she tried to put it aside with all the easy excuses that are the habit of the procrastinator. Brian would go away. Circumstances would separate them; they would both forget. But in these reflections there was no solace; instead, far from forgetting, she found the need for him growing day by day.

There were other troubles. Money. The delayed check arrived from the broker with a stiff notation of the deduction that was credited to Senator Converse. Her cheeks burned when she saw that, and recalled her humiliation. For a moment she felt a stinging desire to look the truth in the face—to be honest with herself.

She was not deceived with this elaborate pretense, but unless she accepted it nothing remained but chaos. The check was comparatively small, but it came at a moment which exaggerated its importance. As if warned by telepathy, poor Linda's creditors seemed to have chosen that morning for a united foray. She was facing a pile of bills and letters, some of them even threatening in a deadly polite sort of way, when the dove of peace dropped the blue slip bearing the signature of Stevens into her lap.

The money vanished. How did it happen? Linda, who thought she had learned the lesson of prudence, discovered her purse almost empty once more. Some new pride within her rebelled against subterfuge with these people who had trusted her, and she paid it freely out to dressmakers and milliners while it lasted. They were placated, and she argued by her to buy again, but she would not, although spring peeped temptingly through the new little leaves of the gray trees in the park.

The shops were full of lovely things, but she bought nothing. The hat she had chosen on that walk with Brian had been the last purchase. A feeling that in some manner an invisible force was closing around her persisted, and there was nothing in the immediate outlook to raise her spirits.

Time crept by, and brought March. She was still in the city—alone, so far as her circle of friends was concerned, for the frightful weather had driven every one away. But she did not miss them. She was marking time until Brian would be gone.

Then, she believed, she would be safe. It would be possible then to come to some conclusion—to look things in the face; return to her old way of living and thinking or to find that other channel her soul was dimly striving for.

But not while Brian was there with his pedestals. That would make it much too hard; better to be silent; far better to let him think of her cold, indifferent, while he was near. Converse wrote her a brief note from Washington, where he had gone into session.

"Why not run down here for a few weeks? There's lots going on and you might amuse yourself playing chapeiron to your friend Anstey and little Miss Trentress."

She was astonished at the surge of feeling those few sentences aroused in her. She had coupled Brian and Daisy in her own thoughts, but this was different. This was seeing them through the world's eyes. This made possibility of conjecture.

Colonial Type of Home Built on Corner Lot Specially Attractive

Rent receipts are a liability. A home like this is a real asset and gives you a standing in your community. This home was selected for its beautiful exterior and convenient floor layouts.

By W. A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 407 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Some homes are designed especially for a corner lot, particularly if the lot is narrow in its extent on one or the other of the streets. For a lot of this character the colonial home is excellent. It may be placed facing either one of the streets because of its design, one end appears to be the front.

A design for a colonial home that may be built either on a corner lot or an ordinary lot is shown in the accompanying illustration. As will be seen, the sun parlor is built on one end and faces the street. This plan can be reversed if it is desired.

The house is 22 feet wide by 28 feet long. It contains five rooms besides the sun parlor, bath and a sewing room on the second floor. The sewing room, it will be noted from the room. This is also large, being 11 feet by 12 feet 6 inches. At the back is the kitchen 8 feet by 11 feet. The stairs leading to the second floor end in a hall at the back of which open two large bedrooms, sewing room and bathroom. One of the bedrooms is 11 feet by 15 feet, and the other is 11 feet 6 inches by 14 feet. The sewing room is 8 feet by 6 feet 6 inches. Off the two large bedrooms are closets of large capacity. It will be noted that these bedrooms are corner rooms and are light and airy.

The house is of frame construction with clap-board siding. This following the colonial design so common in New England and making a most attractive home. Another feature that indicates the colonial are the half fan lights in the end gables opening into the attic.

This is a very attractive and popular home building design. Because its foundation walls are straight and are also the side walls, it is comparatively inexpensive to build. At the same time it provides five large comfortable rooms and all the conveniences to be found in the modern home.

There is generally room to build shelves either at one end or the other; if not, build them overhead. These shelves can be made as wide or as narrow as the space will permit and the use to which they are to be put demands.

Some closets are large enough for a set of deep drawers to be built in, with the shelves above for hats and boxes, etc.

A wonderful place for extra bedding and pillows; or, if the bedroom is small with not enough space for dresser or chest there the extra room for clothing may be found.

Wrought Iron Is Used Now More Than Formerly
Wrought iron has become increasingly important in home decoration of late, and not only in the plan of the modern house itself—in lighting fixtures, grill doors, etc.—but in the furnishings of that home. Whole pieces of occasional furniture are now being developed in wrought iron; among them telephone sets, console tables, coffee tables and small chairs.

Should Open Out
Casements that open inward are not guaranteed to be absolutely weather-tight in all locations. The outward opening casements are very decidedly the more satisfactory.

Painting Point
Paint should be applied only when the surface is thoroughly dry. All surfaces should be clean, smooth, free from dust, dirt, grease, mortar, loose paint and scales.

Insulation Saves Coal, Adds Comfort in Summer
Thousands of homes throughout the United States prove needlessly uncomfortable in winter because the builders, in trying to economize, have ignored one essential item of proper construction, the unseer but very important insulation between the walls.

Freshen With Paint
The body and roof of the house may be still glowing from last year's paint, but freshening here and there would not be amiss. If the lattice work for example, is weather-beaten, much of the neat appearance of the whole house would be lost.

Cutting Sweet Clover for Hay

Many Farmers Make Big Mistake in Allowing Crop to Stand.

Many farmers make a grave mistake by allowing sweet clover to stand too long before cutting for hay. Sweet clover should be cut while it is in the bud stage and not after it is in bloom. The biennial white blossomed sweet clover develops a coarse stem as it is passing through the bud stage. This fact makes it so succulent that it is an impossibility to cure it and poisonous substances develop in the stem. North Dakota has found that many animals have died by the eating of this half-cured sweet clover.

Avoid Spoiled Clover.

We desire at this time to warn our farmers against the putting up of spoiled sweet clover hay, says R. A. Moore of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. Unless one can cut it at the proper time for hay, it is altogether best to leave it run into the seed stage and cut it for seed or pasture the same. Undoubtedly the greatest good derived from sweet clover will be from pasture and from the turning of sweet clover as a soil enricher. For these two great purposes sweet clover has no equal.

Sow With Cereal.

It really pays any farmer, no matter what cereal crop he grows, to sow sweet clover with such cereal crop mainly for plowing under. Often one gets a good cutting of hay in the fall when the sweet clover has been sown with oats, barley, or spring wheat. The fall cutting of sweet clover, as a rule, makes exceptionally fine hay and no evil effects so far have been discovered from the use of the hay which is acquired from sweet clover usually have good hay making weather in August and September, when this first cutting can be taken and do not have the frequent showers that usually obtain in the early part of June when sweet clover is ready to be cut for hay the second year after seeding.

Rat Poison Fatalities Show Material Decline

At the second annual conference of the Eastern Rodent-Control district, held in Washington, it was reported that clippings from thousands of newspapers throughout America indicated a material decline in the number of accidental human deaths from rat poison during 1929.

Since the sales and use of exterminators have not decreased, the conference concluded that the diminishing death rate is due to the increased, nation-wide use of powdered red squill, which is unique as an exterminator in that it is deadly to rats and mice but harmless to humans, livestock, dogs, cats, poultry and even baby chicks. It is highly recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Feeding Soil Bacteria to Release Fertility

"Feed the bacteria and they will feed you," is a slogan that is true in relation to soil fertility, according to O. H. Sears, University of Illinois. Bacteria are largely responsible for the changes in soil whereby soil fertility is liberated to produce good crops.

"Plowing under straw just ahead of a corn crop has a detrimental effect on the corn crop, as the organisms that break down the straw use the nitrates of the soil that should go to corn, while if the straw is plowed under in the fall the straw may favor the utilization of nitrates by bacteria and thus prevent the leaching of nitrates during the dormant season of the wheat plants."

MAKE BITTER WAR ON POCKET GOPHERS DURING SEPTEMBER

Spread Out Poisoned Wheat in Systematic Manner.

Pocket gophers, pests of alfalfa fields, have life habits that tend to lull the farmers into allowing them more security than they deserve. In spring and summer when the alfalfa grower is in his field cutting his hay crop he finds new evidences of the multiplication of pocket gophers in the form of new mounds of loose earth thrown up from the tunnels they dig. It is not until late in September or until October that the mounds multiply. All during spring and summer the pocket gophers are rearing their young and working from the old tunnels, clipping and eating the tap roots and laterals of the alfalfa and causing scanty nourishment or death to the plants. The animals are out of sight, but they are really busy at work. Each pair of old pocket gophers is raising four or five youngsters that are intense individualists and that in fall will strike out for themselves, dig their own burrows, make the fields bumpy and difficult for the hay makers, and prepare for more multiplication the next spring.

The practical procedure for ridding the fields of pocket gophers is to let them make a fair start with their burrows in the fall, and then put out poisoned wheat in a systematic manner so that all may have their fill. In the autumn fields the new burrows can be located easily and effectively, and this is the season when the pocket gophers are laying in their winter board of food.

Too Much Moisture in Alfalfa Hay Is Wrong

Alfalfa hay should not contain over 25 per cent of its original moisture content when put in the barn. Hay that has become wet from dew or rain must be freed of the excess moisture before it is safe to put it in the mow. Hay when put in the barn should have just that amount of moisture which will allow it to settle compactly in the mow when treaded down.

It is desirable to add salt as well as lime when storing partially cured hay during damp weather. Salt and lime when mixed with the hay tend to prevent fermentation and check the growth of molds. Salt also makes the hay more palatable.

FARM FACTS

The ideal seedbed for wheat is firm underneath with a mellow surface.

Low prices for eggs and making room for the growing pullets are two good reasons for reducing the laying flock at the same time the roosters leave the farm.

One of the more common troubles on many farms is overcrowding in the hog house. Hogs compelled to pile up become too hot and the building will likely be damp and steamy.

Louse medicines, flea and mite medicines, or tick medicines to be given internally to poultry are a waste of money.

The cost of bracing fruit trees with a heavy crop is small compared to the loss, which is likely to result from breakage.

Niggardly feeding of good cows is mistaken economy; likewise, liberal feeding of poor cows is just as poor practice.

To prevent spouting, kill the trunk and root system of the tree by poisoning with sodium arsenate before the tree is felled.

Honey contains, in small amounts, all the minerals required by the human body, such as calcium, iron, phosphorus, potassium, sulphur, magnesium, manganese and chlorine.

The calf's digestive capacity is not large enough to allow it to consume enough grass alone to meet its needs. Some grain should be fed all through the summer as well as in the winter.

Hold It Up

If you should smash your fingernail badly, hold the hand up for at least an hour so that the blood drains out of the finger. This will prevent the blood from congealing at the smashed place and cause an ugly discoloration of the nail.

Sure of One Thing

Infantile Paralysis

From about June 1 until the first week in December, infantile paralysis is most prevalent. The number of cases in this period will be approximately 1,000 per cent greater than in the winter months.

There May be Poison in YOUR Bowels!

STEP out tomorrow morning with the fresh buoyancy and briskness that comes from a clean intestinal tract. Syrup Pepsin—a doctor's prescription for the bowels—will help you do this. This compound of fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other pure ingredients will clean you out thoroughly—without griping, sickening or discomfort.

Poisons absorbed into the system form souring waste in the bowels, cause that dull, headachy, sluggish, bilious condition; coat the tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve-force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The difference it will make in your feelings over night will prove its merit to you.

Dr. Caldwell studied bowel troubles for forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need to make their bowels help themselves. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" as it is called, is the most popular laxative drug stores sell.

UNITE ON MARKHAM —FOR— STATE SENATOR

To the Voters of Dodge and Washington Counties:

My thanks go out to you all for your splendid support during the last four years. Your appreciation of my efforts to better conditions and save money for this district and Wisconsin as a whole, is my reward.

When I gave my consent to stand as a candidate for re-election to the State Senate, my guiding thought was that you desired me to continue the fight for better things in general. My record is my platform. The constant endorsement of my home people, leads the way to knowledge that your continued appreciation of my work at Madison is deserved. One man cannot do it alone.

Will you help to get out the vote? The ballots which are not cast, do not count.

Again thanking you for your kindly interest in my behalf, I am,

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM H. MARKHAM

"I Stand For Lower Taxes and Home Credit"

C. J. Schoenfeld

Beaver Dam, Wis.

Republican Candidate

for

State Senator

Thirteenth District

To the Voters of Dodge and Washington Counties:

I was born in 1861 in a log cabin in the town of Trenton, Dodge County, Wisconsin. My parents were sturdy pioneers, who immigrated from Germany. I am the owner of Prairie Lawn Stock Farm, and have lived on a farm practically all my life.

I have always taken an active part in County, State and National politics. In 1905 I was appointed by Robert M. LaFollette to the Reciprocity Conference at Chicago. In 1919 I was a delegate to the Farmer and Labor Convention at Chicago. In 1924 I was elected a delegate from the second district to the Republican National Convention at Cleveland, Ohio. The same year I was elected a delegate to the Farmer-Labor Convention at Chicago, and was one of the electors, elected on the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket.

In 1918 I was again elected delegate to the Republican National Convention at Kansas City. I was vice chairman of the State Fair Advisory Board under three Governors and served for eight years.

I was President for twenty-five years of the South Trenton Butter and Cheese Factory. For the past eighteen years I have been Vice-President of the Farmers State Bank of Beaver Dam, Wis.

I stand for honesty in government and lower taxes. There is only one way to lower taxes, economize, and spend less in State Government, County, and City Administration. I stand for just taxation, for all classes. I believe the state laws pertaining to the Cheese and Butter industry, should be so remedied, as to put the small cheese and butter makers on a par with the large corporations.

At the State Republican Convention which convened at Oshkosh in June, 1930, we adopted a plank which has been my sentiment for years, namely:—That the wet and dry issue should be left to a National referendum of the people.

Labor—I believe the State with the National Government should try as much as possible to supply work to honest laborers in times of need.

I am opposed to chain stores and chain banks. I pledge myself, if elected to the State Senate, to do all in my power to have such laws passed to put farm credit with the small merchant and labor credit on a par with Eastern bonds and stock loans. What Agriculture needs is the same credit and rates of interest our Government gave to European nations.

Yours truly,

C. J. SCHOENFELD.

Why You Should Vote for J. F. RENARD

—FOR—

District Attorney

Mr. Renard was born in the town of Trenton, Washington county. He is a married man and lives in the city of West Bend. He has worked on the farm of his father's, the latter being one of the pioneers of this county. He has served his country in the American Expeditionary Forces in France. His extensive traveling, together with seven years of business experience before practicing law, has laid the foundation for good business judgment, which he has demonstrated in his court work in Washington county and throughout this state. He has tried court cases in eleven counties of this state. In March of this year he was retained by a group of Wisconsin business men and was sent to Rayville, Louisiana, to fight a large claim against an oil company in that state.

He stands for the highest type of citizenship, integrity and morality, and is nominated for District Attorney on the Republican ticket, and elected, he will give the people of Washington county a good and honest administration. His record should leave no doubt in the minds of Washington county voters

Authorized, published and will be paid for by John W. Mann of Hartford, Wisconsin.

To the Voters of Washington County:

As a candidate for Member of Assembly you are entitled to a statement of my position that you may decide how to cast your vote more intelligently.

A member of the Assembly should be a man so situated that he can devote his whole time to the business of the legislature. There is more to membership in the legislature than drawing one's salary. There are important meetings of committees, discussions on the floor of the Assembly and investigations to be made on many bills that require a great amount of time. If a man is burdened with private business to attend to, he cannot give these matters the time they deserve and as a result your interests suffer.

I promise the voters, if elected to the assembly, to devote my whole time to the job with a view of giving you the legislative service that this office demands.

A candidate for office should be willing to stand on his public record in office. My record as a public servant has been made during seven years as a member of the County Board, four of which I acted as Chairman. During that time I studied the County's problems and made an earnest effort to get all the facts before I acted. The positions I took in County matters must have been just ones, for my fellow members elected me their chairman for four terms.

I promise the voters the same active interest in the problems of our state that I have given in the interests of the County, if I am elected member of the Assembly.

Finally, I invite you to consider my qualifications as to experience, integrity and interest in public matters, before you vote.

JOHN W. MANN

Authorized, published and will be paid for by Jacob J. Aulenbacher.

To the Voters of Washington and Dodge Counties:

My candidacy for the Republican nomination as State Senator is intended to appeal to all of the industries of the district and the state. I make no particular bid for the votes of any particular class or faction.

Four years service as a member of the Assembly and thirteen years as a member of the County Board have given me the experience which I think is necessary to qualify me for the position. In all of my dealings, whether as a private citizen or as a public official, I have always acted and voted with the purpose of providing the most efficient government at the least possible cost. If nominated and elected to the State Senate, that purpose will be continued.

This senatorial district is made up largely of farmers. When our farmers suffer, the result is felt by every other industry in the district. Make our farmers prosperous and all of the people in the district will prosper with them.

I was born and raised on a farm and am still living on and operating one. I know the farmers' needs and their requirements. They have the right to expect and I feel that I am qualified to represent them wisely and properly in the State Senate.

The voters may feel assured that I shall appreciate their support at the polls and that, if I am elected, I shall give my best efforts to serve them honestly and efficiently.

Signed:

JACOB J. AULENBACHER.

WEST BEND NEWS ENDORSES CANNON FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Nominate Cannon Next Tuesday

The News feels proud of the fact that it was instrumental in promoting the candidacy of John A. Cannon for district attorney. We have met many voters and everywhere we hear this statement made, "Cannon is the man for district attorney." This opinion is expressed in all parts of the county, showing that the voters followed Mr. Cannon's advice, "to get to the record behind the picture." He is a clean cut young man, was the way one person expressed himself. Another who heard him try a case in court last spring said, "He is a match for the best lawyer trying cases." A town chairman voiced his opinion in these words, "I would like to see John elected for the reason that the county board needs a man of his ability to guide them in legal matters." One of his neighbors who knows Mr. Cannon intimately said, "John is a very good fellow and if elected his neighbors will be proud of him as a public official." The frequency of these remarks makes the News feel that it was justified in supporting Mr. Cannon.

Authorized, published and will be paid for by John A. Cannon of West Bend, Wis.

Bob Shawkey's Start on Mound

BHIND the scenes in the baseball life of Bob Shawkey, manager of the Yankees, looms the story of an obscure storekeeper in a small northwestern Pennsylvania village who foresaw the possibilities in the lanky youth.

Harry Truman, minor league and semi-pro pitcher in his younger days, stopped one afternoon to watch a gawky youth playing ball on a vacant lot in Sigtel, Pa., a tiny oil town. The youth was Shawkey.

Manager Bob Shawkey.

Sensing possibilities in the youthful hurler, Truman took him in hand and for two years coached him in pitching for control. Back of the Truman barn Bob Shawkey practiced throwing nothing but a straight, fast ball for two years, and at the end of that time he could hit a tiny mark on the side of the barn at the regular pitching distance.

When the kid catchers of the village could no longer hold Shawkey's fast ball, Truman hired a professional catcher to clerk in his store and train with his pitching find on the side.

When Shawkey became proficient enough in control to satisfy his teacher, he was taught the intricacies of the curve ball. Curving balls between two posts, pitching at a barely discernible mark on the barn wall and the everlasting drilling in control constituted Shawkey's daily fare for three more years.

Then Truman declared the time had come for Bob to begin his career in baseball. A tip to a manager friend and Shawkey made his debut in organized baseball in Pocatello, Idaho.

Batters Don't Strike

With Count Three Balls

Very rarely do batters swing with the count three balls and no strikes, although the next pitch is to be a strike if the hurler can make it.

"Only two men ever hit against me with the count 3 and 0 and got home runs," says Sergt. George Connally, of that large army of former Chicago White Sox. They are called the anti-Grubbers.

Those batters, he added, were Pat Collins and Tom Angley. Collins turned the trick when he was a member of the New York Yankees. Angley did it last spring while he was a Blue. Kansas City was playing in Toledo and led by a run in the eighth inning. Three balls were thrown to Angley and the fourth was a strike with nothing on it. It disappeared over the right field wall.

Connally recalls the time he went in to relieve Urban Faber in a game against the Yankees in the last of the tenth with the bases filled and Babe Ruth at the plate.

"And when the Babe hit the ball four or five miles out of the park the boys rushed up and patted me on the back," grins Connally. "They said that was the way to get the runners off the bases."

Five Events Paid for

Seventeen Navy Teams

Receipts from four football games and one basketball contest nearly supported athletics at the Naval academy during the past year. In fact, these five contests yielded enough revenue to take care of all the 17 competitive sports.

The football games included those with Notre Dame at Baltimore, Princeton at Princeton and with Penn and Dartmouth at Philadelphia. The basketball game was with the Penn at Philadelphia.

The Naval academy's share of the four football games was $314,093.37, and it received $1,623.20 from the basketball game with Pennsylvania. The total expenditures in connection with the 17 sports was $317,275.12.

The largest sum devoted to any sport is spent on football, the figure being $84,697.86, while rowing, which does not produce any income, cost $54,093.20.

Roush Refused $15,000,

and Now He's Forgotten

Because he refused a salary of $15,000 from the Giants, Eddie Roush, one of the best center fielders in the National league, has been forgotten. Roush drew a total of $70,000 from the New York club during 1927, 1928 and 1929. He was asked to accept a cut in pay and when he refused he was allowed to drop into obscurity. He has been under suspension since his failure to come to terms, and if he ever should agree to sign, he would be traded or released. The case of Roush is a lesson for prospective hold-outs next year. The magnates are determined to put a stop to demands for unreasonable contracts. Roush, because of his stubbornness, has lost $15,000 and a place in the spotlight. He has been a high-salaried star for more than 15 years and, fortunately, has saved his money. As a ball player he has passed on.

Does Television Fight

Broadcast Violate Law?

A television broadcast of a one-minute bout between Tuffy Griffith and Stanley Harris broadcast over WMAQ, the Chicago Daily News radio station, has brought up the subject of transporting fight pictures from one state to another.

The fight by television was received in Cincinnati, according to W. S. Edgeman of that city, and no doubt was seen in other states. A federal statute prohibits the interstate transportation of motion pictures of a bout coming under this ruling.

The broadcast from WMAQ was television's first real bid as an entertainment feature.

Line on Players

A good way to get a line on young ball players in the major leagues is to listen to comments by players on opposing teams. The other better than that of the player's teammates. There have been a number of good recruits introduced this season, but if the "enemy" has the correct information, A Lopez is the best find of the National league and Dib Williams in the American.

Sport Notes

Night boat races are being staged in Paris.

John Killullen, heavyweight champion of the New York A. C., will enter Yale this fall.

San Francisco's Seals will inaugurate night baseball in the club's new $1,500,000 park in 1931.

Bitsy Grant, little Atlanta tennis marvel, keeps in condition by playing basketball during the winter.

Bob Hays, former Missouri athlete, will coach the Wake Forest (N. C.) college football team this fall.

Paul McBrayer, Kentucky' all-Southern basketball guard, will try out for an end on the football team.

It seems to be only a matter of a few weeks until American ingenuity produces a vest pocket golf course.

Sport writers call it "Tom Thumb" baseball in the Nashville plant of the Southern association, due to the park's small size.

Bryan M. Grant, Jr., clay court tennis champion of the United States, is only five feet four inches tall and weighs 118 pounds.

In 1,500 professional boxing matches held in New York state since last December, only 22 have ended in fouls. All were main bouts.

The White Sox recently tied the American league record by making five double plays in one game against the New York Yankees.

Since 1922 Bobby Jones hasn't allowed a year to pass without winning either the United States open or amateur golf championship.

Seven college football games will be played at the Yankee stadium and five at the Polo grounds in New York city during the coming season.

Umpires in the American league have been instructed to keep an account of baseballs driven into the stands or over the fences.

William "Young" Stribling, heavy weight boxer, holds the record for the number of fights in a year, 55, and for knockouts scored, 120 in all.

Jim London, wrestling champion of several states, is one of a family of 13, who with their father were active in sports in his native Greece.

A baseball pitcher who explains that he never is very good until hot weather arrives shouldn't have had many excuses for defeats this season.

It is calculated that contestants in this season's British-open golf tournament who played through to the end covered about 30 miles on foot.

Jockey Laverne Fator has piloted almost 1,000 horses to prizes totaling well above $2,000,000, but has never led the winning list of jockeys for a season.

SPRING DRILLING GIVEN APPROVAL

St. John of Ohio Favors Some Out-of-Season Work.

L. W. St. John, director of athletics at Ohio State, believes that some regulation should be put on spring drills of varsity squads, but he is not in accord with the idea put forward at Wisconsin to abolish these practices entirely.

"Several years back," he says, "I attempted to get the Big Ten directors to set some limitation on regularly organized spring football practice—namely, to limit it to a certain number of weeks with a certain number of periods. I still feel that some limitation of this sort will eventually come. I think it will always be necessary to have a certain amount of out-of-season work in different lines of athletic activity for the proper carrying on of physical education course work. To attempt to abolish all out-of-season practice would be illogical and impractical. It would lead to a certain amount of evasion and suspicion. A certain amount of out-of-season football practice will always be desirable and serve to lessen the pressure in the fall.

"With regard to basketball, I feel that some regulation as to the starting of regular varsity practice in the fall is desirable and that some such limitation as to spring basketball would be quite in order, although again, to abolish all such out-of-season work would be a serious mistake."

Jack Bentley, former Baltimore and Giant first baseman, and left-handed pitcher, now with the York club of the New York-Pennsylvania league, announces that this is his last year on the diamond. Next year Bentley will link arms with a New York brokerage firm, and take his place in the ranks of the football stars, just out of college, selling stocks and bonds.

When Luque, the Cuban, pitches for the Brooklyn club of the National league, all the newspapers in Havana take a play by play account of the game.

At national open championships, professional golfers are announced only by their last names while the amateurs are honored with the prefix "Mister." At the Western Open championship at Indianwood all golfers received the prefix "Mister." The amateurs were not distinguished from the professionals.

This policy was pursued after the announcer on the first day introduced one pair as follows:

"Mr. Walter Hagen and Chick Evans."

Leslie S. Gordon, president of the Western Golf association, decided that all contestants would be "mistered" after that.

Whereby the Western Golf association institutes another much-needed reform in tournament golf.

Jeff Dickson, the London boxing promoter, writes Trevor C. Wignall in the London Express, some weeks ago went to Vienna for a holiday. There he met a man who fired him with stories about Russia. Straightaway he hired an airplane that took him to Riga, and the next day he leaped another plane that rushed him to Leningrad. Among the first things discovered was that in the Soviet government there is a minister of sport. Dickson called on him, and mentioned that he would like to promote a bout in Leningrad between Primo Carnera and Max Schmeling.

He was heavily frowned on. The minister of sport gave him to understand that professional boxing was barred in Russia, but he added that every encouragement was given to the amateur sport.

Christy Flanagan, ace of the Notre Dame backfields of 1925, 1926 and 1927, has been signed as assistant varsity football coach for Purdue.

Flanagan won unanimous selection as all-western halfback and mention on a number of all-American teams. His best remembered feat occurred when in playing against the Army in 1927 he broke loose for a run of 87 yards that yielded the winning touchdown for Notre Dame, which triumphed 7 to 0.

When the Cubs blew up in the 1929 world series some of the members of the club expressed fear that the Chicago fans would be down on them this year. Actually quite the reverse has been the case and record crowds have been storming Wrigley field. The crowds which attended the recent Giant-Cub series exceeded those of the two world series games played at Chicago in 1929.

Of course every country has its national sport and traditions appertaining thereto. In Spain they throw dumb darts at the bulls and in America they throw pop bottles at the umpires. You pay your money and you take your choice.

SLEEVES FEATURE OF FASHION; MILLINERS TURN TO VELVET

HAVING victoriously passed through the sleeveless age, fashion's followers are now entering the sleeved era. Such a medley of sleeve ideas as the advance styles for fall and winter are ushering in! Leg o' mutton sleeves on the way, "angel sleeves" to grace the evening gown, sleeves which begin to widen below the elbow, sleeves of elbow length which flare over lace, lingerie or embroidfur trimming is arranged so as to accent the lower part of the sleeve, sometimes to an exaggerated degree. Frequently the puff which reaches from elbow to wrist is made of flat fabriclike fur matching the huge collar.

To Be Velvet Season.

According to the shadows which coming millinery events are casting before, it is going to be "all ered sleevelets, and langes to this: the erstwhile sans-sleeve décolleté dinner gowns are taking out themselves sleeves.

This revival of sleeves is especially emphasized in connection with the new all-over lace frocks, for lace continues to be a favorite theme for the dinner gown.

A lavishness of detail is centered on the long close-fitting sleeves of dinner gowns made of monotone chiffon and other similar materials. This elaboration usually begins at or below the elbow, the lower portion being intricately worked with beads. Frequently, floating panels are attached at the elbow, lending a most picturesque aspect to the silhouette.

velvet" for fashion's followers this season. At any rate, velvet is having its day, not only in relation to suits and frocks but the milliners are especially enthusiastic in regard to velvet for fall and winter.

Designers working with velvet are striving for the unique, and consequently they are manipulating it with an originality which gives it a refreshingly new aspect. The whole scheme of things is "different," from the actual handling of the material itself to the very pose of the hat on the head, not forgetting the new "lines" and colorings as expressed in terms of velvet.

Perhaps the most striking note sounded for early fall (some there are as shown to the right in the picture. This style-wise young woman is wearing a beret of dainty white velvet which is shirred and draped as only a milliner-born can do.

The swanky cap-fitting model, centered to the left is part of black felt and part of white velvet. Each of these little chapeaux is designed to set back on the head so as to "show your curls and look pretty."

When it comes to "draping" the model at the top has it. In draping the black velvet, the designer has kept in mind the trend to wide effects at the sides.

The last hat in this group is fashioned entirely of wide sapphire blue velvet ribbon. Fashion is also highlighting the black velvet hat with a touch of turquoise blue.

Latest Autumn Hosiery

Much Deeper in Color

Sheer to the point of seeming perishable, the silk stockings made for autumn are much deeper in color. With black first as a costume and coat color, what will be worn in the realm of stockings? Black in the lightest of gossamer weights is the high style note. But it must be an expensive stocking if it is to appear perfect. Next in importance is gun-metal, deepened to a neutral and blackish tone.

Very, very smart will be the dark gun-metal in the sheers of chiffon hose. Neutral shades also will be worn with blue, red and green authentically indorsed for autumn costumes. The beige shades will have mauve undertones darker than those worn during the summer. Inasmuch as the newer stockings have that attractive dull surface which makes for sheerness, colors can reasonably and effectively be deeper and darker.

HOME MADE ICE CREAMS.

There is no other sweet that can take the place of the delightful nutritious and refreshing frozen creams. In no other country is there a greater number of variations in the ways of serving ice cream than in our own country.

One must remember that the freezing of a dish destroys some of the flavor and sweetening, so that these need to be increased in amount more than for ordinary cold desserts.

New York Ice Cream.—Beat three eggs and blend with one-half pound of granulated sugar which is added to one pint of scalded milk, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of cornstarch, and well cooked about ten minutes. Strain and cool, add one to two teaspoonfuls of vanilla, and one cupful of whipping cream, stiffly whipped. Freeze as usual.

Buttermilk Sherbet.—This is a delightful change from the ordinary frozen cream. Take one-half cupful of lemon juice, the grated rind of half a lemon, one and three-quarters cupfuls of sugar, mix well and turn into a quart of good rich buttermilk. Stir until dissolved and freeze as usual.

Lemon Ice Cream.—Anything as delectable as this should be more often served: Mix one cupful of sugar with four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, or one-fourth of a cupful. Let stand in a warm place until the sugar is well dissolved, chill, add a pint of scalded and cooled cream and freeze.

Molasses Candy Ice Cream.—Scald a pint of cream, cool it, then add one-half pound of molasses candy well crushed. Leave until dissolved, then flavor delicately with a drop of oil of peppermint and freeze.

Cucumber Ice Cream.—Scald three cupfuls of heavy cream, add one-half cupful of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Chill and add one and one-quarter cupfuls of cucumber pulp from which the seeds have been removed. Freeze and serve in cucumber boats with sandwiches, for a luncheon or supper.

THIRST-QUENCHING DRINKS.

Long ago before a mixed drink was ever thought of, the lemon was the king of fruit, used for refreshing, healthful drinks as well as served hot, for medicinal purposes. Today it is more popular and more widely used, as it is needed to give zest to almost any other fruit drink.

For those who like to have a tinkling drink to offer a friend in a hurry, the fruit juice mixed with the sirup is a great convenience. Take one and one-half cupfuls of lemon juice and add three cupfuls of sirup. Bring to a boil and cook for ten minutes, then bottle and place in the ice chest. Use the sirup in glasses of water and ice without any further preparation. As table-spoonful or two to a glass is sufficient.

Lemons as well as oranges are rich in vitamin C. They are recommended as the best kind of a preserver for the teeth. Mix lemon juice and salt and use as a cleanser of teeth and gums. Add water and use as a mouth wash. It leaves the mouth feeling refreshed and stimulated, is especially good for the gums, to harden and keep them firm and healthy.

Raisinated.—Put one pound of raisins through the food chopper, add a quart of water and bring to a boil, then stand over night. Add the juice of two lemons, two tablespoonfuls of the sirup and pour into glasses half filled with cracked ice.

Quality Punch.—Take three cupfuls of orange juice, one cupful of lemon juice, two and one-half cupfuls of pineapple juice, one cupful of sirup and one pint to a quart of water. Stir and chill, adding ice to make two quarts. A small bottle of charged water always adds to the flavor of a punch.

Fruit Punch (for Fifty).—Take one cupful of crushed strawberries and their juice, one cupful of water, two cupfuls of sugar, the juice of five lemons and five oranges, one grated pineapple, three-fourths of a cupful of chopped cherries, iced water and one quart of charged water.

Coffee Caramel Parfait.—Scald one and one-half cupfuls of milk with two tablespoonfuls of ground coffee, add one-half cupful of caramelized sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt to the strained milk and coffee. Beat two egg yolks with one-half cupful of sugar and add to the other ingredients. Cool, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and one and one-half cupfuls of cream. Pour into a mold and pack in ice and salt for four hours.

John J. Rosenheimer

Republican Candidate for

Member of Congress

SECOND DISTRICT

Comprising Columbia, Dodge, Jefferson, Ozaukee, Sheboygan and Washington Counties

TO THE VOTERS OF THE SECOND CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Since my friends have honored me by asking me to become a candidate for Congress from this district on the Republican ticket, and this being my first venture into politics, I feel that you have a right to know something about me.

I am a country boy born in the village of Slinger 51 years ago, the son of John Rosenheimer and grandson of Lehman Rosenheimer, pioneer merchants in this part of the country. My father served as postmaster of Slinger for 40 consecutive years. He also was a member of the Washington County Board for 27 years. I mention this to show that I bear an honorable name.

Starting as a boy I helped manage the Rosenheimer brick yards, at the time one of the leading industries in Slinger. Nearly every county through which I am now campaigning greets me with houses, churches, schools and places of business constructed from the brick that we manufactured.

I am one of the firm of Rosenheimer Bros., known state-wide as operators of one of the oldest and leading summer resorts. I operate a 250-acre farm in Slinger, a farm that has been in the family since 1849.

I was one of the organizers of the Farmers' State Bank of Slinger in 1913, and of which I have been, and am now a director and assistant cashier. Because of my banking connections I believe that I know something of the ills that affect our present financial situation as related to the small money lender as well as the borrower.

I cannot bring you records of what I have done in politics, but the success that I have achieved as a business man and farmer I hope to achieve for you as your Congressman. I stand for and am in favor of:

- 1—Immediate construction of the Great Lakes Waterway.
- 2—An agricultural tariff sufficient to save the American market for the American farmer.
- 3—Legislation to curb chain banking.
- 4—Conservation of our national resources.
- 5—Modification of the Volstead Act, so as to remedy the wrongs which have been brought about by Prohibition.

Please remember that it will be the primaries that will spell my victory or my defeat. If nominated I will wage an active campaign at the fall election, and if honored to this high office, I will endeavor to the very best of my ability to give the people of the Second District an honest, equitable and fair representation in our national legislative body.

Upon that basis I solicit your support.

Yours very respectfully,
JOHN J. ROSENHEIMER

THE KIND OF MAN NEEDED

(From West Bend Pilot)

In the history of our country it was the farmers who fired the first shot for liberty—a shot that was heard around the world. The time has now come when the farmer and the laboring man must fight a battle to save themselves from becoming slaves to the big fellows—the soulless corporations without nobleness of mind. The farmers must assert their rights. And if the voters of Washington county send "Joe" Russell to represent them in the assembly chamber at Madison they can rest assured that he will never lose an opportunity to fight for their rights, for "Joe" has in him the fighting blood of his Irish ancestry. Prosperity for the farmers means prosperity for the businessman and laboring-man as well. All too long has Wisconsin been governed by the zealous politicians, the result being that the laws enacted were in their interests more so by far than in the interest of those who were good enough only to place them in office. Let us get down to common sense and reason out why we are getting nowhere in the way of beneficial laws which, in turn, will mean lower taxes. Let's forget these old party labels and unite on a man who will represent all in Washington county and work for all counties of Wisconsin. Such a man we have in "Joe" Russell, the farmer and stock-raiser of the town of Erin. He has no axe to grind, nor does he belong to any faction now so bitterly opposing each other. But he has a level head, knows how to use it, and can be depended upon to make a record of which all Washington county voters may well be proud.

COUNTY PAPER ENDORSES DISTRICT ATTORNEY PETERS

At the primaries this September 16th, there will be various candidates seeking the favors of the voters for various county offices. In county affairs, where candidates can get about and meet most of the voters, it requires no great amount of effort for one to form conclusions as to the fitness and ability of those in the campaign.

In the matter of district attorneyship for Washington county, J. M. Peters, practicing lawyer of Hartford, incumbent in that office for the past two years, throws his hat into the ring and will seek to win the nomination upon the Republican ticket at the primaries.

Mr. Peters has spent the greater part of his life in Washington county. He is a son of our well known townspeople, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Peters, operators of the Wiley House, and owners of various properties here. For the past six years Mr. Peters has been engaged in the practice of law. He is qualified to practice before the State Supreme Court of this and adjoining states. During his school years at Marquette, he always stood high in his class and was a most popular member of the student body.

In the matter of age, Mr. Peters is young enough to be ambitious and most active. In this respect he has proven himself one of the most active district attorneys the county has had. He is not radical, the sort that keeps everyone in hot water and jails filled with innocent people who may unconsciously violate some one of the 6,000 laws upon the Statutes.

During his two years' experience in the office, Mr. Peters has come in contact with the workings of county government. There has been no outside demonstration or no general expression of dissatisfaction as to the way he has carried on the work of the office. This assuredly is a most strong recommendation for him. Mr. Peters has been conscientious about the duties of his office. He has been willing and obliging at all times to work with committees or listen to the complaint of individuals.

Viewing the activities connected with the district attorney's office during these past two years, we do not believe that there are any who can conscientiously state that they have not received the consideration that they might have been entitled to, if they had matters that could rightfully be brought before the district attorney.

Mr. Peters is a hard campaigner, and through the past two campaigns that he has made he has met nearly every voter within the county. There is little doubt but what he will put up a strong fight for renomination and unquestionably will receive the favors of the majority of voters.

YOUR VOTE

Will Help Pile Up a Record-Breaking Plurality for Governor Kohler

Vote Tuesday
SEPT. 16th

ACTIONS speak louder than words

Back of Governor Kohler's candidacy is a record of real achievement, not mere promises. This record of some of the things Governor Kohler has done is the best guarantee of what you can expect from him during the next two years.

- 1—Improved labor conditions by knocking out "Yellow Dog" contracts (prohibiting employers from forcing workers to agree not to join union).
- 2—Secured fair distribution of Old-Age Pensions.
- 3—Assured 8-hour day on public works through new authority given the Industrial Commission.
- 4—Authorized labor unions to arrange for group insurance for their members.
- 5—Compelled maintenance of full crews on detached locomotives running on main lines.
- 6—Has increased allowances made by State to farmers whose cows have been destroyed due to tuberculosis, from $20 to $35 and for registered animals from $45 to $70.
- 7—Assured dairymen continued fight against spread of tuberculosis among cattle by triennial tuberculin tests in areas already tested.
- 8—Created full-time Highway Commission in interests of better roads and road-building economy.
- 9—Consolidated all State agricultural departments into Department of Agriculture and Markets . . . in interests of Wisconsin farmers.
- 10—Secured State expense control thru full-time budget department.
- 11—Consolidated State's nine trust funds into one . . . in interests of safety and economy.
- 12—Centralized all State purchases in single bureau for greater purchasing economy and efficiency.
- 13—Promoted child welfare through the adoption of a Children's Code affording protection to unfortunate children . . . one of the most constructive pieces of social legislation ever passed in America.
- 14—Protected State against confusion and legal expense of unconstitutional and contradictory laws by vetoing "foot" bills.

Wisconsin is firm for Kohler. Wisconsin is loyal in its faith in good government, efficient government. Wisconsin refuses to be misled by radical bickerings and false charges. And Wisconsin is going to the polls Tuesday to register a record-breaking plurality for Kohler.

The best guarantee you can give Governor Kohler is your vote for his entire ticket — a vote for a cabinet that will work with the Governor, not against him.

Your vote at the polls Tuesday — the vote of your neighbor next door and of your friend around the corner — will count far more than today's intention to vote. Now is your chance to help the cause of good government. Now is your chance to shatter a campaign of false accusations, and innuendo waged by professional office-seekers against Wisconsin's great Governor. Take advantage of it. Make your vote count. Vote for Kohler.

A vote for the entire ticket is the best support you can give the Governor.
