Loose playing afield cost Kewaskum its fourth straight Badger State league setback on the home field last Sunday afternoon when the alert Kohler team took good advantage of the breaks and bagged a 9 to 3 victory.
The teams were pretty evenly matched on hits and men on the bases but six costly errors paved the route to nine runs for the visitors.
Billy Hill pitched steady ball for his team and was in danger only once, when Kewaskum filled the bases in the sixth inning. He kept the hits well scattered. Marx gave up eight hits in the six and two-thirds innings he pitched which resulted in seven runs. Jagmin, a new man acquired last week, allowed five hits and two runs in two and one-third frames, in his first game with the locals.

Schmidt and Kruetz were the big guns with the bats for Kohler, each pounding out three hits. Mathias also connected for three for the benefit of Kewaskum's cause. Eight hits for extra bases kept the fielders going out.

Both teams scored a run in the first inning, Kohler being gifted with the run when Brabender let Pfister's line drive slip through his hands and by the time the ball was retrieved the runner had romped all the way around the bases. Kewaskum's marker came as the result of a single by Mathias, who took second on an error and scored on Mucha's one base single.

The locals took a 2 to 1 lead in the third inning when Brabender tripped and Mathias singled him across the rubber.
The visitors came back with two in the fourth when Schmidt singled, advanced to second on Brabender's second error and scored on Lonsdorf's single. The latter then moved to third base on a double by Kruetz and pulled a heads-up play by stealing home.
Again in the fifth it was Kohler with another tally as Possewitz reached first on an error and moved up to third on Pfister's double. He scored when Marx committed a pitcher's balk.

No more runs were scored until the seventh when Kohler added three more on a walk to Badura, a triple by Schmidt, another single by Lonsdorf, an error, and a single by Kruetz. At that time Jagmin replaced Marx.
Kewaskum scored its last run in their half of the eighth on a single by Mathias and a two bagger by "Trosky" Mucha.

The visitors brought their score to nine with two counters in the last stanza on Badura's single, Schmidt's third hit, a double, and a third hit by Kruetz—a single. Four of Kohler's runs were unearned.

CROPS, FISH GIVE IN TO TERRIFIC HEAT

The extreme heat and dry weather which has prevailed for the past few days has been doing countless damage. The mercury has reached the top of the thermometers during the daytime and remained there while in the shade recordings of 102 degrees have been made. The weather seems terrifically hot, especially after a cool summer up to this time.

The heat, along with the lack of rain has burned up and is still burning crops at this writing to such a degree that many of them will be total failures.

Fish in the Milwaukee river here are turning up and dying in large numbers due to the heat of the shallow water. Many of the pickerel, bass and other fish recently planted in the river have already been removed from the top of the water. The fish are starved and large catches are being made daily as they bite on almost any bait. Bullheads are biting on minnows and monstrous carp are even being caught with hook and line.

Some Kewaskum residents have been sleeping on their lawns and porches to escape the heat and a group of young men have been sleeping under the stars on the high school grounds the past few nights.

BOYS GOVERN THIS NEBRASKA TOWN

Name Is Boys Town, and Its Guiding Star, Father Flanagan, Has Given 4,000 Homeless Urchins a Fair Chance in Life.

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

Twenty miles west of Omaha, Neb., there is a community with the romantic name of Boys Town. It is just as romantic as its name, for, with the exception of a handful of supervising oldsters, it is peopled entirely by boys of sixteen or less. It has a mayor, a boy chief of police and it is governed by an elected council of boys who live there.

Boys Town! It sounds like something manufactured in a dream!

Upon entering Boys Town, a boy realizes that he is stepping into a new world. It is a lovely, clean, cheerful place. Each flower is a dream that became a reality. Each boy is a dream that became a reality. The boys are taught trades or business pursuits or farming, as their abilities and ambitions dictate. Tennis, baseball, football, track and other sports, as well as sanitary and hygienic education, are given to them.

veloped into an institution made up of 10 large buildings, amongst which are a modern equipped gymnasium containing a swimming pool, handball courts, boxing ring, stage, and an auditorium which has been rated as one of the best in the Middle West.

Many Help Work Farm.
"Our farm, of 320 acres on which four barns are located, produces partial upkeep of the boys. It is equipped with machinery to plant and harvest its produce," Dan continues.

"The print shop, which is part of the office building, contains enough machinery to publish 110,000 copies of the 16-page magazine published monthly by the boys. All other printing necessary for the maintenance of our Home is done by the boys.

able them to grow into healthy, vigorous men. The average efficiency of health maintained over a period of years is 98 per cent.

Mayor Tells His Story.

Only 18 months ago, the unusual community was incorporated as a village. It has a second-class post office, and if you write a letter to anyone there, your reply will come postmarked "Boys Town, Neb."

"First," says Dan Kampan, "let me call your attention to the spirit of the homeless boys which are trained by coaches at Boys Town."

"Every instructor at Boys Town realizes the spirit of co-operation involved in the making of good athletic teams. Last year this spirit was brought out by the splendid is composed of a football field, tennis courts, baseball diamond, and a cinder track. Upon these fields 200 homeless boys build strong bodies and strong minds by participating in various sports. Most of these sports we find that the most popular are football, baseball, tennis, basketball and all water sports.

Jan. 15 Election Day.
"The band, which is known all over the United States, is made up of 50 pieces, all boys under the age of eighteen. The popularity of our musical organizations is proven by the invitations for personal appearances in our neighboring states, such as banquets, picnics, parades and sport programs.

"On January 15, 1936, Boys Town held its second annual election, for the purpose of electing a governing body. In the voting booths installed, each boy voted a straight ticket for one of the two parties, the Help Boys Town and the Build Boys Town. After this the votes were counted in the presence of both candidates for the mayoralty. When the results were announced it was found that the Help Boys Town party was the victor by nine votes! The party consists of a mayor and six commissioners, each having his various duties and assignments to fulfill.

"Among the most important of these duties is that of disciplining the boys, which is accomplished through the City Council and a Board of Advisors headed by Father Flanagan, which meets twice a week to discuss various points concerning the welfare of the boys. This is but one of the chief duties of the governing body. Other duties are taking care of minor infractions of rules and boys who cause disturbances by fighting and continuous disobedience.

Father Flanagan and Boys Town insist "there is no such thing as a bad boy." They have seen too many youngsters, once characterized as "bad boys," grow, after given a home, friends and a fair chance in life, into men who have become leaders in the business and social world.

Keep Young Pigs Away From Worms

Better Than to Doctor Them After They Have Become Infested.

By H. W. TAYLOR, Extension Service Specialist, North Carolina State College, WNU Service.

Plow up that wormy old hog lot and plant it to some crop. Roundworms are very injurious to young pigs. It is better to keep them away from worms than to dose them with worm medicine after they have become infested.

A few days before farrowing time scrub the sow thoroughly with a brush, using soap and warm water to remove dirt and worm eggs. Then put the sow in a clean field containing a suitable forage crop where there have been no hogs for at least 12 months.

Keep other pigs and hogs away from the clean lot, and keep new born pigs away from old, dirty hog lots. Leave the pigs on pasture until they are at least four months old. If possible, leave them there until ready for market or until they can be turned into the corn fields.

For summer pasture, plant soy beans in rows, cultivate them twice, and turn in the pigs when the beans are about 12 inches high.

Pigs after being farrowed should be castrated, weaned, and started on full feed two months later. Fill the self-feeder with shelled corn and fish meal or tankage so the pigs can help themselves.

When cottonseed meal is cheap, it may be mixed with the fish meal or tankage in equal parts. Soy bean meal or peanut meal may be used in place of cottonseed meal in the mixture.

Corn should not be mixed with other feeds. Put it in a separate compartment in the feeder.

All pigs and hogs should have access to a mineral mixture made up of ten pounds of superphosphate, ten pounds of lime, and two pounds of salt.

30 to 40 Leaves Needed to Produce Good Peach

How many leaves are required to produce enough food to develop a good peach? Experiments by the United States Department of Agriculture indicate at least 30 to 40 leaves are necessary. Forty to fifty leaves are required to develop a good-sized apple, and about 50 for an orange.

Producers of large peaches provide larger leaf areas—more than 40 leaves per peach—by thinning the fruit closely. This permits the peaches left on the tree to get more food from the leaves. When the fruit set is light for the entire tree—but perhaps heavy on certain branches and the leaves plentiful—the fruit may be left unthinned.

After a damaging freeze fruit may set only at the base of the shoots. When this occurs the leaves on the bearing and nonbearing shoots will under favorable conditions produce peaches of good size and quality although the fruit may be only a few inches apart.

Change Color of Onions

Science has taken another stride forward in saving the farmer thousands of dollars a year by "painting" onions a golden-brown color. Minerals are used instead of ordinary paints and the onions grow golden brown in color with thick skins instead of a lemon yellow with thin skins. The painting is done with the application of copper sulphate on muck soil, according to Prof. J. E. Knott of Cornell university. Farmers, the professor said, found it difficult to sell their onions as long as they remained a lemon-yellow color with thin skins.

Cow Barn Fertilizer

The liquid from a cow barn can be applied as a stimulant to the garden, but it will not take the place of a complete fertilizer, according to an authority. Its composition will probably vary. It is applied to hurry growth. It should not be used when the ground is dry, as the roots might take it up so rapidly as to cause injury. Apply when the soil is moist, after a rain. It is usually given at intervals of two weeks; there should be rain or irrigation between applications.

Growth of Corn

Corn probably grows most rapidly on warm nights. According to the United States bureau of plant industry, the rate of growth is influenced by many factors other than the formation of food materials through photosynthesis, and the protosynthetic products themselves may require further change before being utilized in growth. Some plants actually grow more rapidly at night under ordinary conditions than they do during the day.

The Hay Supply

While grass and legumes are important from the standpoint of soil improvement, they are equally as important in producing adequate fodder for live stock. Too often farm animals suffer from insufficient hay or pasture when a little planning and seeding would have provided ample. Yields vary considerably, but hay, if properly cured or stacked, will keep in good condition for many years, so it is possible to put up a surplus hay in good years.

Bumblebees and Clover

Because bees have such "one track" minds they are ideal allies in a field of clover or in an orchard. For example, the farmer knows that when he has a field of clover in blossom some bumblebees are going to do nothing but work clover, visit clover blossoms and no other blossoms will divert them. There will be no mixed program of clover, dandelions, or wild flowers while the bumblebees are occupied with that field of clover.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—The arrival of the first robin does not guarantee the immediate arrival of spring but when the first robin is observed, folks generally consider that there is little left of winter. An out and out bolt by an individual in party politics likewise does not guarantee important defections, but, like the arrival of the early robin, an individual bolter, if he be a man of consequence, has a story of its own to tell. A bolt in party politics never attracts attention unless the bolting individual is of some consequence and, therefore, has a personal following. Thus it is that when we observe a bolt by a nationally known individual from his lifelong political affiliation, we immediately understand its significance. The scope of this significance, however, is the thing that concerns us.

Nearly everyone knows now that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, Democratic Presidential nominee in 1928, has made known that he cannot support President Roosevelt for re-election. They know as well that the four other individuals who asked the Democratic National convention to push Mr. Roosevelt aside and nominate a Democrat can be classified as important individuals along with Governor Smith. No one dare say that former Sen. James A. Reed of Missouri, former Governor Ely of Massachusetts, Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state in Woodrow Wilson's administration and Daniel F. Cohalan, one time Tammany chieftain, are unimportant in politics. They have consistently figured in Democratic party councils and thus it becomes apparent that these five robins presage something more than just their own departure from the ranks of Roosevelt supporters.

I make this statement notwithstanding the declaration by James A. Farley that he would not dignify their statement with a reply. Of course, Mr. Farley as postmaster general, chairman of the Democratic National committee, chairman of the New York State Democratic committee and delegate to the Democratic National convention, necessarily was a very busy man at the time the Smith statement, refusing support to President Roosevelt, was released for publication. Nevertheless, I am in a position to know that the Smith statement threw quite a scare into New Deal ranks. Frankly, they did not like it.

Trouble in Europe

It seems that the basis for this nervousness is rooted in the clever scheming of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, who is something of an economic dictator under Hitler. Dr. Schacht is a brilliant negotiator. He understands economics, trade and finance as well as any man in Europe today and when you couple such knowledge with diplomatic keenness, you obviously have a man capable of accomplishing results. Dr. Schacht is employing the method he knows best, namely, economic understandings, in making new connections with central European power and the Balkan states. These countries always have looked to England and France for protection, especially since so many new states were created as a result of President Wilson's idealism. To see Dr. Schacht cleverly and cautiously gaining good will among those peoples causes France and Italy, and to a somewhat extent, Great Britain, to wonder what is always to happen. Those nations always have been nervous about German plans. Probably the bulk of their fear was inspired by German silence and by the swift manner in which German moves have been consummated. However that may be, the fact remains that none of the important powers in Europe know what to expect as a result of the activities in which Dr. Schacht is now engaged.

Lemke Third Party

In the case of Italy, an economic weapon in the hands of Germany might easily prove disastrous because Italy virtually exhausted her gold reserve in the late war and her government cannot go on much longer in furnishing purchasing power for her people. France has been able to open certain markets to the little entente and to the Balkans and has, in addition, provided some financial aid. Thus, when Dr. Schacht on the back and points out where markets can be made for them in Germany, France and Italy quickly develop cases of jitters. It seems that Austria and Hungary cannot depend fully on Italian markets because of the low gold reserve in Italy. In the meantime as well, France has been losing millions in gold as her own domestic situation has been embroiled in a political whirlpool. The Austrians and the Hungarians and some of the other central Europeans recognize that unless France gets straightened out, there will not be purchasing power available there for their surplus produce. So, Dr. Schacht is cultivating what appears from this viewpoint to be a fertile field.

Case

There is no information from abroad at this time pointing conclusively to early conflict of arms. Yet, there are those in a position to understand European conditions and European psychology who think that a clash is not far off. They recall the antecedents of the World War and it must be admitted that there is a strange parallel evident today.

Representative Lemke stayed out of the political picture. He has the backing of Father Coughlin, the Detroit radio priest, and his national union for social justice and he has the backing of the remnants of the late Huey Long's share-the-wealth adherents. In addition, the Townsend $200-a-month pension followers will be found behind Lemke to some extent. I have observed these third party movements many times before and usually they have failed to live up to expectations. They nearly always have developed fights among themselves because the very nature of and the very reason for their existence lies in their varied conceptions of what government ought to be or ought to do. Their sincerity precludes them usually from compromise and when politicians refuse to compromise, their organization, whatever it may be, naturally disintegrates.

The Truth About Golf

There has been so much mystery, bunk and high pressure salesmanship surrounding golf that many a would-be golfer has hesitated to take it up, and many who have taken lessons have soon struck snags which have hindered their pleasure in the game. It is true that golf is a game you cannot learn by yourself, because there is no such thing as a "born" or "natural" golf swing. But there is so much health and pure enjoyment to be had out of fairly well-played golf that it is worth while making the few sacrifices the game demands.

There are some things the human being does naturally, such as walking, running, striking with the right hand, throwing or catching a ball. Other things, like the golf swing, are unnatural; therefore the muscles must be trained and set in those unnatural channels. Golf players call it "grooving a swing". And there are simply no shortcuts to it. Only one thing will "groove" a muscle so that it performs an unnatural action naturally, and that is practice, practice and more practice. The whole hubbub about golf revolves around the fact that human beings are lazy. They don't want to work for their fun, and practice is work. They are forever looking for short cuts, or easy ways to learn. —Paul Gallico in Cosmopolitan.
