MRS. KRAUTKRAMER PASSED AWAY SATURDAY

Mrs. John Krautkramer, 75, beloved mother of Ed. Krautkramer of Kewaskum, passed away at the home of her son, George, in Beechwood, Sheboygan county, at 4 a. m. last Saturday, Feb. 20, after an illness of two weeks with heart failure.

Born April 26, 1862, in the town of Auburn, Fond du Lac county, Mrs. Krautkramer settled on a farm one-half mile east of Beechwood. The deceased was the mother of five sons, Arthur Krautkramer of Milwaukee, Edwin of Kewaskum, and George, Ervin and Robert of the town of Scott, all of whom survive. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Mathilda Peterson of Muskego Lake, and 15 grandchildren.

The funeral was held on Tuesday, Feb. 23, at 1:30 p. m. from the home of Mrs. Anna Hammen of Beechwood and at 2 p. m. at St. John's church at Beechwood. Rev. Richard M. A. Gadow officiated. Burial was in the Beechwood cemetery.

and a report by the treasurer showed a balance on hand of $62.21 on Feb. 23, 1937. The report also showed nine new members gained by the club during the year. Miss Gertrude Forester, West Bend, chairman of the museum committee stated that the museum is located in the county clerk's office at the courthouse, West Bend, that a number of additions have been made to the articles on display since its inception, and that the committee is ever looking for donations of articles of value pertaining to the early history of the county.

—Newton Rosenheimer Elected—
The election of officers of the Kewaskum County Old Settlers' club, held at the home of Mrs. M. T. Buckley, Tuesday evening, Feb. 25, resulted in the following officers: President, Newton Rosenheimer, Kewaskum; Vice President, Henry O. Regner, West Bend; Secretary, E. G. Franckenberg, West Bend; Treasurer, E. G. Franckenberg, West Bend.

The new officers were called upon for a few words. Judge Buckley seconded previous remarks by Mr. Buckley that the old settlers' club should continue to meet to honor the memory of the real pioneers, that it should more and more become a county-wide institution, and that historical spots in the county be developed and historical facts be developed concerning the county's early life, the latter to be accomplished by high school students in the county.

Following the reception, a very excellent dinner was served by the Dorcas society of Trinity English Lutheran church, West Bend.

—Real Old Pioneers Introduced—
During the course of the afternoon a number of the real old pioneers of Washington county were introduced, among them two who were described as "a pair of twin pioneers." Mrs. Mary Pick, the oldest living born resident of West Bend and Mich. Salter, of the town of Trenton. Both are 86 years old, having both been born on Sept. 8, 1850.

Mrs. Pick gave some anecdotes of her early life, saying that the first meeting of the Washington County Old Settlers' club was held in the hotel built by her father, which was located where the present Geib Hotel annex in West Bend now stands. She related that New Year's day in 1864 was one of the coldest days in history and that the hotel was filled to capacity. A neighbor suddenly came and reported the place on fire, starting from an overheated chimney. She said the hotel burned down in spite of the fact that a bucket brigade was hastily formed to combat the flames. Her father then built the Washington house (now the Geib annex). She remarked on the high prices in her day, saying that coffee sold for $1 a pound.

Among others introduced were Mrs. Eva Lehmann of Wauwatosa, formerly of the town of Farmington, who was present at the first meeting of the old settlers and who will be 85 years old next November; Charles McCormick of West Bend, one of the early teachers in the county; Mrs. Emma Krieger, 81, Rogers Park, Ill., the mother of Ed. Krieger, West Bend real estate man, and Mrs. Floyd Gage of Detroit, Idaho, 80 years old, who attended a meeting of the old settlers for the last time 57 years ago.

FLOOD WATERS DO LITTLE DAMAGE IN THIS VILLAGE

This village suffered but little damage compared to many other places in the state from the flood waters caused by the exceptionally heavy rain and thunder showers (in February) last Saturday night. Due to frozen fields and streams none of the water soaked into the ground but ran off the surface to the lower spots. Saturday's all night rain caused rivers and streams throughout this vicinity and state to overflow their banks and in many cities had floods were reported causing many to be homeless. In Fond du Lac a large majority of the west portion of the city was under water, causing much damage and many families to evacuate their homes for higher ground. Rescuers were kept busy. Creeks were swollen to overflowing and water ran over roads and tracks, causing washouts and train derailments. Some roads were closed for several days in this neighborhood.

In Kewaskum the Milwaukee river raised many feet and overflowed its banks and covered many fields. A number of basements in village buildings were filled with water. Employees at the L. Rosenheimer store were forced to work late Saturday evening and Sunday morning to bail water from the basement to protect their stock. Electric power was shut off for short intervals Saturday evening. Still local people were very fortunate, to say the least, as the worst did not arrive here, as it did in the lower cities.

BIRTH

An eight and one-fourth pound baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Landmann of this village at 8:10 p. m. last Friday, Feb. 19th, at St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac. Congratulations to Paul and Edith. The infant will receive the name of James Stuart.

TWO MILWAUKEE MEN DIE IN WRECK NORTH OF VILLAGE

AUTOMOBILE COLLIDES WITH TRUCK-TRAILER

This village was the scene of much excitement and confusion last Thursday evening when the news was spread among the populace that one man had been instantly killed and another fatally injured in a collision between their automobile and a Northern Transportation company truck about three miles north of the village, and a mile and a half north of the Washington county line, on Highway 45-55, at about 7:30 p. m. The crash occurred between the Koepke farm and that of Robert Bartlett's.

The trailer-truck was driven by Herbert Schwartz, 88 North Lincoln avenue, Fond du Lac, who escaped unharmed. The men occupying the automobile were Charles A. Schlueter, 50, of 2371 North Third street, Milwaukee, who was instantly killed, and Charles Clark, 31, of 2330-A North Third street, Milwaukee, who, being seriously injured, was brought to a local physician's office, and was then removed to St. Joseph's Community hospital, West Bend, where he died shortly after midnight the same night. The men, who were brothers-in-law, were on their way to Waupun to visit relatives.

Schlueter sustained a fractured right thigh, broken jaw and a possible skull fracture. Clark had both legs broken, his skull fractured, a number of ribs broken and other injuries. Everything possible was done at the West Bend hospital in an effort to save his life.

Clark, with a fractured skull, was reported to have claimed at the scene of the wreck that a third man had been riding in the car who disappeared following the collision. Investigation, however, proved there was no such man. Schlueter was brought to the Miller Funeral Home here and was later claimed by Milwaukee authorities and was removed to his home in that city.

Sheriff Leo Burg and Coroner Dr. H. Meyer Lynch of Washington county answered a call to the scene but could be of little benefit as the crash took place in Fond du Lac county, and was beyond their authority. Fond du Lac County Highway Officers Paul Colman and Albert Lohr responded to a call from Schwartz to the Fond du Lac county sheriff's office about 7:45 p. m. and drove the county ambulance to the scene of the accident. Sheriff Gilbert W. Booth and Dr. A. C. Florin, coroner, followed shortly. The coroner said no inquest would be necessary.

According to Fond du Lac county officers the automobile was driving north on Highway 45-55 and the trailer-truck was headed south. Officers said both right wheels of the truck had been turned on the shoulder of the highway and then had gone into the ditch. Schwartz told officers he saw the car coming and turned the truck off on the shoulder of the highway. Officers said Schwartz reported the truck was going about 28 miles per hour and the automobile in excess of 60 miles. There was ice on the pavement at the point of the accident.

The auto is said to have skidded and struck the truck sideways. It was thrown in the air and hurled backward a distance of 40 feet, landing on its wheels in the ditch. The right front of the auto was badly smashed, its windshield shattered, the top demolished and the right front wheel badly twisted. The front end of the truck was caved in, the undercarriage, springs and axle dented and the cab almost cut off.

Schwartz told officers glass from the splintered windshield of the car flew by him and then the car bounced back down the highway to the position in which it was found.

Both men were pinned in the car, from which they were removed by officers.

The wrecked car bore license plates issued to Kenneth Dornet, 2125 North Kenwood street, Milwaukee. Officers assumed the car had been sold to one of the men killed, or had been borrowed by them. However, ownership of the car was to be checked later.

Clark is survived by his wife, Norma, and two children, Carol, 5, and Harry Charles, 11 months. He had been working on WPA projects as a truck driver. Schlueter, a tannery worker, is survived by his wife and a son, 17.

RENAISSANCE TO PLAY WEST BEND

The West Bend city team has been successful in arranging a basketball game with the world's champion professional Renaissance team of New York City. The contest will be played at the West Bend High school gymnasium Monday, March 1st, at 8:30 p. m. A preliminary game will be played between the Pick Mfg. company and Amity Leather Products company teams, which will start at 7:30 p. m.

The Renaissance team has the best all-time record of any professional team in the world, having decisively defeated such teams as the famed New York Celtics, Buffalo Bills, Olson's Terrible Swedes, Oshkosh All Stars, and every other large professional team in the country of any consequence.

The West Bend Benders have strengthened their team considerably for this game and will have John and Joe Possowitz of the Art Imig professional team of Sheboygan in the lineup that night. Negotiations are also under way to obtain the services of Jack Mann, also of the Art Imig. Mann is considered one of the best professional centers in the game today.

The fans in attending this game can be assured of seeing a very high class exhibition with plenty of tricky and clever basketball.

TO GIVE LECTURE ON CANCER CONTROL AT WEST BEND

Dr. F. L. Rector, the field representative of the central district of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, will speak on the subject of cancer control at the auditorium of the West Bend High school on Wednesday, March 3, at 8:15 p. m. Dr. Rector comes to this community through the efforts of the West Bend unit of the Women's Field Army for the control of Cancer.

Dr. Rector, who now directs the work of the organization in 10 central states, was formerly a research worker in New York City. He has consented to speak in only two other cities of Wisconsin, Kohler and Sheboygan, therefore, West Bend and community is especially fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing this great orator on this important subject. The lecture will be illustrated with placards and lantern slides and followed by a general discussion.

A very urgent request is sent out to the citizens of Kewaskum to attend this meeting and lecture which is of great interest to everyone.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL TEAM TO PLAY IN TOURNAMENT

The Kewaskum High school basketball team, second place winner, which would have shared the Tri-County league championship with North Fond du Lac this season, were it not for the upset in their last game here Wednesday evening when they were defeated by Rosendale, will compete in the Class "C" District basketball tournament on March 3, 4, 5 and 6 in the Slinger High school gymnasium. Other teams competing will be Campbellsport, Grafton, Hartland, Mukwonago, Norris Farm, Pewaukee and Slinger.

Two games will be played on Wednesday evening, and three games on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. Appropriate trophies for first and consolation places will be awarded, as well as gold, silver and bronze medals to the respective members of winning teams.

The first place winner will participate in a regional tournament to be held in Madison on a later date, to determine which sixteen teams of the 22 district winners will be represented in the state tournament.

Admission will be 50 cents per person. Student and adult season tickets for all games will sell at 75 cents and $1.25.

MEMORIAL

In loving remembrance of my dear husband and our loving daddy, Clarence Klug, who died one year ago, February 27, 1936:
Day by day we saw you fade and gently pass away;
Yet in our hearts we always hoped That you would longer stay.
If love and care could death prevent Your days would not so soon be spent, Although life was desired,
It could not be;
Eternal rest was meant for thee. But forget you, no we never will,
We loved you here and we love you still.
It was a bitter pain, a shock severe To part with one we loved so dear.
Oft we think of you dear husband and loving daddy,
And our hearts are sad with pain; All this world would be a heaven Could we have you home again.
Just one year ago you left us,
How we miss your loving face But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place. Sady missed by surviving family.
Mrs. Cyrilla Klug and children

EXPRESSION OF THANKS TO FLOOD CONTRIBUTORS

In behalf of the Red Cross chapter of West Bend, the local workers want to thank everyone who so generously contributed to the flood relief fund, especially Rev. Kanless and his congregation for the large donation of $69.70 for flood relief. The total collection for Kewaskum and vicinity was $219.73. We feel that this is an exceptional showing for a community of this size, inasmuch as so many false rumors have been circulated to the effect that things were not as bad as reported in the flood area. We wish to state, from very good authority, in fact from first-hand information by local people who toured the flooded districts, that matters were even worse than reports pictured them. We were told that entire villages in the vicinity of Louisville, Ky. were wiped out completely and the population left homeless and destitute. Other communities fared just as badly.

PROMINENT CITIZEN INJURED IN BAD FALL

Mr. Adolph Rosenheimer, Sr., one of Kewaskum's most prominent citizens, experienced a very bad and painful fall at about 10 a. m. last Tuesday, upon leaving his home to attend to business matters at the Bank of Kewaskum.

As he was leaving his yard he slipped on the ice which was partially covered with a light snow, and fell on his side, fracturing the hip-bone about two inches below the hip. He also injured his arm in the fall. He was rushed to St. Agnes hospital at Fond du Lac where medical aid was given him. Although Mr. Rosenheimer will be confined to his bed for some time, he is reported as getting along very nicely at present.

Despite a raging blizzard, the final Land o' Lakes basketball game for the Kewaskum team, against the neighboring Campbellsport five, took place as scheduled last Sunday evening here, and resulted in an easy victory for the locals, 45 to 32. A good crowd witnessed the game, considering the very unfavorable weather.

Although playing without Stenschke, regular forward, Kewaskum had an easy time of it, to spoil the visitors' hopes for an upset and, at least one victory over the local quint. Being outclassed, Campbellsport still played a spirited contest, although showing their dissatisfaction with the officiating for no reason except that the regular referee failed to show up in the storm and a substitute from West Bend had to be acquired. However, this created interest in the game.

Kewaskum got the jump on their rivals by taking the lead at the start and increasing it in every quarter. At the end of the first period they led by four points, 11 to 7, and by halftime were ahead by five points, 16 to 11. In the third quarter the locals spurred and netted 15 counters to the visitors' 8, to lead 31 to 19, and in the final period they again outscored the opponents, 14 to 13, to end the game 45 to 32.

Marx, substitute guard, was the standout of the evening by running up a total of 16 points to his credit on 6 field goals and 4 free tosses. K. Honeck, Gibson and Kohn each scored nine points. These nine brought Gibson's total for the season to 157 points, an average of over 12 points a game, in the 13 contests he played. This is a remarkable record and keeps him in possession of the scoring lead in the league. Jaeger was high scorer for Campbellsport with nine points.

Kewaskum, which is the only team in the league so far to have completed all its league games, now has undisputed second place clinched and a chance for first should Cedarburg lose either of its two remaining games against Campbellsport and Port Washington. All Kewaskum can do now is sit back and wait for Cedarburg to lose, which is not very probable, or else be satisfied with second place, which any team should be satisfied with and proud of.

This village was represented by a very good, fighting team this season which well deserves its high position in the league. Splendid cooperation was shown among the team's management and players at all times. The fans were behind the team throughout the season and the boys sincerely appreciated the fine support given them, to which they attribute much of their success. The season was very successful in every way.

The boys will be rewarded by the league later on for their efforts with individual and team trophies according to their final standings.

European Powers Agree on Blockade of Spain to Insulate the War—Farm Tenant Program—Supreme Court Controversy Grows.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

SO FAR as the international non-intervention committee can do it, the war in Spain is now insulated. Representatives of 26 European nations agreed that no more volunteers for either side in the civil conflict should be permitted to enter the Iberian peninsula, effective at midnight February 20; and they laid plans for a complete blockade by land and sea that would prevent the importation of any more men or war munitions. Only Portugal dissented, objecting to establishment of frontier guards on her territory; Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Russia ignored the Portuguese blockade and went ahead with the blockade plans, which are to be put into effect by March 6.

The decisions were reached after France delivered a virtual ultimatum to her fellow committee members to end their bickering and warned Italy she would not stand for "open invasion of Spain." The French were quick to place guards at all strategic points along the Franco-Spanish frontier.

The international naval patrols presumably will not have authority to stop vessels suspected of carrying arms and men to Spain, but will report ship movements to the committee for action and will place observers on the vessels to check cargoes.

Supposing this blockade to be successful, it may well be that the Spanish civil war will die of inanition. Then may be brought about that which the international committee seeks—insurgent mediation between the insurgents and the loyalist government.

For the present both sides are renewing their efforts for decisive victory. The fascists, still driving hard at the "life line" that connects Madrid and Valencia, also are attacking the capital itself again. Their airplanes made two night bombing assaults on the city and its environs, killing a number of persons; and their artillery constantly shells the highways to Valencia.

The loyalist government, at its temporary base in Valencia, took a new mandate of absolute power from all Popular Front parties and mobilized all available man power to oppose the insurgent forces. All military drafts of the last five years were classified for immediate war service.

PRIME MINISTER STANLEY BALDWIN'S government of Great Britain is asking for $7,500,000,000 to finance its "war plan in time of peace," and is meeting with determined opposition from the Liberals, Laborites and others in parliament.

The congestion of dockets in the federal courts is largely due to the inability of aged and infirm judges to perform their share of the work.

Investigation has shown, however, that the second reason is, undoubtedly, the congestion of dockets in the federal courts is largely due to the inability of aged and infirm judges to perform their share of the work.

Commenting on the British naval construction program, Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations of the American navy, served notice that any foreign nations exceeding their navies treaties might expect that the United States would match their construction. He said it was his understanding that this nation was definitely committed to the maintenance of a "navy second to none."

IN A special message to congress President Roosevelt urged legislation to "improve" the present intolerable condition of the 3,000,000 farm tenants, presenting this four-point program:

1. Action to open the doors of ownership to tenants who now have the requisite ability and experience.
2. Modest loans, with the necessary guidance and education to prevent small owners from slipping into tenancy.
3. The retirement by public agencies of land proved to be unsuited for farming and assistance to the families living thereon in finding homes on good land.
4. Cooperation with state and local agencies of government to improve the general leasing system.

Congressional leaders promised immediate action, and Chairman Jones of the house agriculture committee said the Jones-Bankhead

That ancient and absorbing problem, "Why does a chicken cross the road?" has been superseded in a New Jersey town by "When is a chicken an edifice?" It all started when a chicken raiser applied to the Building Commissioner for a permit to erect a chicken coop. Without looking at the plans, the official gave his approval.

REPRESENTATIVES of the soft coal operators met with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, in New York to start negotiations for a new wage and hour agreement for 400,000 miners. Mr. Lewis said to the operators: "There is no friction in our industry. Peace dwells in the coal fields. I hope this conference will be successful in working out a new agreement without loss of time to a single worker."

Thereupon he presented the demands of the union, which were promptly dubbed "utterly impossible" and "quite amazing" by Charles O'Neill, president of the Eastern Coal Sales corporation. Chief demands made by Lewis are:

1. A six hour day and a five day week in place of the present work week of 35 hours.
2. An increase in daily wages from $5.10 to $6 in the north, and from $5.10 to $5.60 in the south.
3. Time and a half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays.
4. A minimum of 200 days' employment each year.

The operators proposed a 40 hour week with no increase in wages.

SCAFFOLDING on the Golden Gate bridge at San Francisco collapsed and crashed through the great safety net, carrying with it thirteen men who plunged 200 feet into the bay. Ten were killed and the others seriously injured.

The tragedy, first major accident during construction of the $36,000,000 span, which is to open next May, was caused by a broken roller coaster. The state industrial accident commissioner said an inspector had twice reported that the scaffolding was unsafe, but this was emphatically denied by Philip Hart, president of the construction company.

CHIEF V. McNUTT, former governor of Indiana, has been appointed to the desirable post of high commissioner to the Philippines, at a salary of $18,000 a year and with residence in a huge palace in Manila. Mr. McNutt is still considered one of the possibilities for the Presidential nomination by the Democrats in 1940. It had been thought he might get a place in the present cabinet.

THIRTY-EIGHT Germans have been under arrest in Russia for several months and are held without trial. The German ambassador to Moscow, Count von der Schulenberg, has made "serious" representations to the Soviet government and demanded that a representative of the embassy be permitted to interview the prisoners. Presumably the men are suspected of espionage and sabotage, in connection with the anti-Stalin conspiracy.

ONE officer and five enlisted men of the marine corps were killed and ten others were injured when a 5-inch shell exploded in the improperly closed breach of a gun on the battleship Wyoming. The accident occurred during battle maneuvers off the coast of southern California.

The men killed were: Capt. Edward J. Trumble, Alexandria, Va.; John Bauer, Cincinnati, Ohio; Albert Enos, Cambridge, Mass.; Joseph W. Bozynski, Pittsburgh; Richard Walker, Boykin, S. C.; and Clifford Frye, Johnstown, Pa.

GEN. SENJUO HAYASHI, premier and foreign minister of Japan, in a formal statement of policy to the parliament, said his government would pay special attention to the adjustment of the empire's relations with China, Russia and Soviet Union, and urged those nations to cease their quarrels with Japan and try to comprehend Japan's position and aims in East Asia.

He called attention to the fact that Japan no longer is bound by any artificial limitations, and declared "there shall be no change in our policy of strict adherence to the principle of non-aggression."

Hayashi's cabinet decided on a budget reduction of approximately 8 1/2 per cent; Lieut. Gen. Hajime Sugiyama, the new war minister, objected to any cut in the huge army budget, but it was reduced slightly.

RESTORATION of the Hapsburg dynasty in Austria was openly advocated by Adolf Hitler, German chancellor, who committed his government party to that proposition. He intimated that a plebiscite would be held to decide the question.

Manure, Straw, Needed by Soil

Careful Return of Manure Is an Aid to Land That Needs Potash.

By L. B. Miller, Associate in Soil Experiment Fields, University of Illinois—WNU Service

Careful return of manure and straw to fields provides a "soil security program" for those lands that are on the verge of a potash deficiency. In the growing of corn and grain crops, fully two-thirds of the potash content is in the corn-stalk and straw. If these by-products of the farm are left on the land or are applied as manure, they return some potash to the "soil bank" to be used again.

A study of crop yield data over a 20-year period of soil experiments on the gray soils shows that farm levels were as high with manure as with potash, and basic treatments of limestone and phosphate having been used in each case. The manure was applied at the rate at which with careful management it could be accumulated on any live stock farm.

For the farmer who markets his crops as grain, the problem is somewhat different. At one soil experiment field the corn yields on limed gray soil loam in tight clods for the rotation ending in 1928 were 23 bushels. Since that time yields have declined to 21 bushels.

This decline appears to be caused by potash deficiency for, with the application of oats straw at the rate of two tons an acre for each four-year rotation since 1929, the average of 45 bushels for the last two-year period. This treatment seems also to have satisfied the potash needs of other crops in the rotation. Analysis of the straw showed that each two-ton application contained about as much potassium as is supplied by 110 pounds of muriate of potash.

After limestone and clover have boosted crop yields above sub-marginal levels, farmers will do well to watch for potash deficiency. No tillage farming is a breeder of potash shortage in the soil, but as yields go up, greater demands are made upon soil minerals. When crop growth is sufficient to exhaust the supply of any one of the plant nutrients, the crop is handicapped.

A minimum acreage of soil-depleting cultivated crops such as corn and soy beans, together with the return of manure and straw, will go a long way toward making farms self-sufficient in their potash requirements.

Sash Greenhouses Make Cash Greenhouses Less Work

Sash greenhouses have so many advantages over hot beds for growing plants from seed that every commercial vegetable grower should have one, believes C. H. Nissley, extension professor of vegetable growing at the New Jersey university.

In sash greenhouses, which are usually heated by a wood stove or with a hot water system, seed sowing and transplanting may be done in comfort, even during extremely cold weather, and watering and ventilating are easier because of the larger air space under the glass.

Last winter many of these structures were built. Some of them are located in the heat. With this arrangement, the garage is furnished to the garage and to the washing and packing house as well as to the greenhouse.

These structures are not expensive to build. An 18-sash greenhouse complete with boiler and headhouse, new sash and new materials should cost less than $300, not counting labor. Where sash is on hand, there may be no need of buying new. Instead of purchasing a new boiler, a good second hand one, purchased at a low price, may be used. For permanent structures, a concrete or hollow tile foundation and walls are recommended. Wooden sills are available.

In the Milk Lot

Dairymen who make the highest income from their herds plan their business so that the volume of milk production is maintained in winter months when prices are normally best.

An annual farm inventory will show a farmer just where he stands financially whether he is gaining or losing, and how much. The inventory also provides a valuable property list in case of fire.

A cemetery for cows on Langwater farm near North Easton, Mass., stands as a monument to some of the greatest dairy cows ever bred.

About 2 1/2 million farmers are now marketing some or all of their farm products co-operatively through their 8,400 associations.

Horses free from parasites breed better, work better, are easier to handle and require less feed to keep them in good condition.

The locust makes good fence posts and, being a legume, improves the soil. It grows well on almost any type of soil.

One ewe, raising two lambs in 1934, two in 1935 and three in 1936, made $60 besides wool for H. M. Workman, Vinita, Okla., farmer.

One of the major changes in American agriculture in the last five years is a 6,000,000-acre increase in annual legumes planted alone.

It is estimated that 10 per cent by volume of the total apple crop is lost each year, according to the American Chemical society.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Carrots can be made cooking in cold water for half an hour.

Winter Salad—Mix one celery with one cup of lettuce and half cup of walnuts. Celery and apples into very dice and combine with mayonnaise and cream dressing. Add nuts just before serving. Serve with celery tips.

A good cleaner for glass, hard water, deposits of lime, or one cup vinegar in one gallon of warm water into one or two halves of raw Irish potatoes has been used.

Sometimes ink stains can be removed from the hands by rubbing them with the inside of a peel.

Kidney Pills—Mix one stale bread crumb, one small onion, finely chopped, one-half tablespoon chopped parsley, Season with pepper and moisten with beaten egg. Spread mixture in slices of bacon, or around pieces of lamb's liver, using skewers. Bake in 20 minutes.

Potatoes that are to be fried should stand in cold water at least an hour before cooking.

You can produce your own milk for use in sour-milk by simply adding a teaspoon vinegar to each cup of fresh milk.

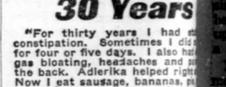

Cane-bottomed chairs should be brushed to remove all dust and then washed with salt and water. This treatment tightens the cane.

Nothing's Blessings

Nothing raises the price of a blessing like its price, whereas it is its abundance which should be taught us its value. These three requisitions to the enjoyment of earthly blessings—a thankful reflection of the goodness of the Giver, a sense of our unworthiness, recollection of the uncertainty of long possessing them.

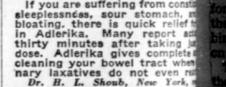

first would make us grateful, the second, humble; and third, moderate.—H. More.

Real Story of Flood Disaster Is Found Behind the Headlines

Humor, Pathos, Heroism, Suffering Are All Part of Central Valley Saga.

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

STATISTICS about the great flood, the havoc it has wreaked and the misery which lies in its wake are staggering in themselves, merely as statistics. But they do not begin to tell the real story of what it is like to be actually face to face with the disaster.

More than a million homeless! Five hundred dead—really more than that. It is certain! Hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of property destroyed. Great cities threatened with famine. Food and drinking water scarce. The suffering is beyond description. Indeed, are these things? But they are too general.

But WSM in Nashville cancelled all programs, at a great loss in revenue, to carry the Louisville bulletins. Yet WSM is WHAS' chief competitor. Heroism was not confined to the saving of human life. Rescue crews often risked their own lives to save dogs, cats and other animals who were floating on debris. One man in a rowboat lost his oars in rescuing a dog from a floating crate. A little while later, the dog, apparently disgusted with an oarsman who couldn't hang onto his oars, leaped out of the boat and swam ashore. Some animals did not fare so well. Those in the Cincinnati zoological park sent two tons of horse meat. All other meat had to be reserved for human beings.

Humanity is for the most part generous at heart. When the Red Cross made it known that $10,000,000 was needed at once, the response was quick and sympathetic. Even those who were caught in the catastrophe wanted to help. One young mother, poorly clothed, said in a shelter house at Sharpsburg, Pa., "I wish I had something to give those poor people. I know what it's like. Last year the nice dining room furniture I got for a wedding gift got smashed to bits. Just little pieces it was when I went home."

They're Not All Generous. One little girl, obviously from an impoverished family, stopped at a relief station and laid a freshly baked loaf of home-made bread on the counter. "Mama sent it," she said. Another little girl, Mary Lynn Eisner, nine, of Cassville, Wis., won the $10 bank night prize in the theater there. She would have liked a new doll or two, but she sent the whole ten to the Red Cross disaster relief fund.

Some flood victims were not so generous or heroic. In Lawrenceburg, Ind., three tiny babies were found in a deserted house. They were cared for at an emergency hospital while authorities searched for their parents. In Cincinnati a "Happer" in gay orange ski trousers and a leather jacket was heard to say, "I wouldn't have missed it for had neglected to provide diapers for babies. A rush call to merchants produced 600. There were other changes in the order of commerce. One building had been a laundry, with many trucks operating from it day by day. Now it is a repair shop for outboard motors, with the tiny craft entering the building through the back door.

There is humor here, too, for even a flood is not without its ironies and its paradoxes. For instance, one of the chief desires of most refugees from the high water is a bath. On the other hand, there is the case of the sharecropper who was being cared for in a Poplar Bluff, Mo., camp, where the doctor in charge had ordered all 800 refugees to take a bath. "Say," the sharecropper protested, "this thing's gettin' serious."

Fat Lady Gets a Lift. In the jail at Parkersburg, W. Va., 63 prisoners didn't mind the flood very much. They were eating fancy "vittles" they couldn't even call by name, supplied by the city's foremost hotel. In Cincinnati, rescue crews heard that a woman had been drowned, and set out to get her. They had to chop away part of her house to take her out; she weighed 400 pounds. In Louisville a rescue party took a woman from a flooded house and rowed her three blocks to safety. Then she wanted to be rowed back. She had left two dollars in the home, she said. The boatmen were gentle, but firm. "Not even for two bucks," they said. Sights to be seen from the rescue boats were not all dismal. There was the truck mired in a ditch beside a flooded highway near Cairo. It was loaded with wax feminine figures clothed in filmy lingerie. A sign hung on one of the models read: "For sale—cheap." Just visible above 20 feet of water in Cincinnati's Third street was the sign, a little weather beaten: "This lot for sale or lease. No interruption from high water."

But perhaps the supreme irony was uncovered by Red Cross relief workers when they opened a package some "charitable" person had consigned to the flood sufferers. It contained six swimming suits. © Western Newspaper Union.

Human nature being what it is, some persons in the flood area parade their wealth before the eyes of envying neighbors. But wealth is no longer measured by money, it's measured by boots. man, Ky. Rescued from their flooded homes in the Kentucky lowlands, they lost no time in marrying as soon as they reached dry ground in Union City, Tenn. Immediately after the ceremony they joined other sufferers in a refugee camp.

Parrot Speaks His Mind. Flood victims were the favored guests of their more fortunate brethren. Travelers disembarking from first class accommodations on trains arriving at the Indianapolis terminal from the flood area were forced to carry their own bags. "Red caps" fought to carry the baggage of refugees in the coaches, even though they knew there was hardly a chance for a tip. Refugees had precious little baggage to carry, however.

The type of hand packages being carried by the fleeing hordes was indicated by the piles of belongings found between the rows of some 6,000 cots in the Louisville armory, where refugees had spent the night. Mixed in with a pile of sodden blankets were a broken doll, a kitchen pan and a parrot in a badly bent cage speaking slightly warped language. Refugees were wearily searching for their own belongings while trucks waited outside to carry them to places of greater safety. You can't think of everything in an emergency like flood. Red Cross workers who were caring for refugees brought to Columbus from Portsmouth believed they had remembered everything necessary. Then it was discovered that they had neglected to provide diapers for babies. A rush call to merchants produced 600. There were other changes in the order of commerce. One building had been a laundry, with many trucks operating from it day by day. Now it is a repair shop for outboard motors, with the tiny craft entering the building through the back door.

HER TEST
It was a dark and stormy night when the weary husband returned home. "I've been to every shop in town and they can't match that bit of ribbon for you anywhere, dear," he said to his wife. "Splendid!" she cried. "I just wanted to make sure that it really was unique."—Atlanta Constitution.

POLITICAL RELATIVITY
"Now regarding this relativity idea—" began the man who digresses. "I have a high regard for a certain kind of relativity," interrupted Senator Sorghum. "Is there more than one?" "Oh, yes. The man with the most relatives is likely to control enough votes to give him considerable political influence."

MIGHT BE
"I don't know what's the matter with that little man over there. He was so attentive a few moments ago, and now he won't even look at me." "Perhaps he saw me come in. He's my husband."

WISE MAN!
"Doctor, you told me to show you my tongue, and you have never looked at it." "No, I just wanted to write a prescription in peace."

VIEWPOINTS
The one at the small end. "Gee, whatever made me think I could lick that fellow."

Salesman Got Shock

Despite Lack of Current

The vacuum cleaner salesman was waxing eloquent about the merits of his particular machine, but the housewife wasn't impressed. The salesman, not to be beaten, decided that a practical demonstration would convince her. He fitted up the cleaner, and thrusting his hand up the chimney, brought down a handful of soot, which he spread all over the room. "Now madam," he said brightly, "I'll show you what this cleaner can do. Er—where's the switch?" "Switch!" murmured the surprised woman. "We have no electricity!"

THEY DON'T Drink IT ALL

Twenty-five million dairy cows on four and a half million American farms produce more than 100 billion pounds of milk a year. The nation's consumers don't drink all this milk. Only a little over a third of this is in the fluid market.

Until the development of ice cream and later dry and evaporated milk, the only market for this other milk was butter and cheese. Since the turn of the century, however, almost every year has seen additional uses for milk. Each has helped to establish a more dependable year-around market for all milk produced.

For 80 years Borden, through research and seamanship, has carried a leading part in developing uses and markets for milk that have made dairying the greatest source of agricultural income in America.

Speaking for myself and 16,000 other Buick workmen—we're mighty glad to be back on the job! It's been tough to stand by, knowing how eager thousands of people were to get one of these great cars. And it's a grand feeling now to see the wheels turning and the line rolling, and to watch those big, handsome babies pouring out regular as clockwork! There's power in them, and style, and comfort—and when you see them made, like I do, you know they're packed with good, honest workmanship as well as top-notch engineering. We're proud of those Buicks, and the way you've taken to them, and we're going to get yours to you as quick as we can.

"It's Buick again!"

A Checking Account at this bank is worth dollars and cents in protection and convenience. It gives a systematic record of deposits and payments; it gives prestige and credit recommendation in business transactions; and it offers your funds the protection of Deposit Insurance.

Since there is sorrow on this earth, God, give me something more than mirth.

BILLY MINK FEELS HIS BREAKFAST

BILLY MINK had overslept. This was very unusual for Billy. Usually he was watching for the farmer to bring him his breakfast.

Right away he put his nose to the ground and began to run about this way and that way. He was trying to find out if anything had been put there and then taken away.

Billy began to gallop along with his nose to the ground following that smell. He didn't care who saw him.

IF THERE is any salad that appeals with a greater thrill to the eye and taste than the pink, tender and meaty shrimps served in a nest of crisp lettuce, there is something still worth looking forward to in the culinary line.

Electrical storms begin on hot, still days. The heated earth warms the air next to it, which becomes charged with water vapor by evaporation. The absence of wind tends to keep this warm air from mixing with the cooler air above it.

SYNOPSIS
Dr. Greeding, a wealthy and talented middle-aged surgeon, is possessed of seemingly supernatural powers. Occasionally he can do things which ordinary men cannot do. He has a beautiful daughter, Nancy, who is engaged to be married to a young man, Dan. Dr. Greeding is a very successful business man and has a large fortune. He is a very kind and generous man and is loved by all who know him. He is a very successful surgeon and has a large practice. He is a very kind and generous man and is loved by all who know him. off steam at your expense. I'm sorry." She assured him, eagerly: "I was clumsy!" But when he spoke of the vacation he proposed that she should take, she protested: "Oh, I can't just now! With Miss Johnson here, there's no one to handle the work; and I'm not tired, really." "Nonsense!" he said in fraternal kindness. "We'll manage!" After she had left the office, Dr. Mayhew asked: "Who will you use in her place? Miss Ryan?" Doctor Greeding hesitated. He had not considered this problem; but now he smiled in swift appreciation of the fact that luck once more had played his game. But he only said guardedly: "I have some one in mind. Let it rest for now."

He said quizzically: "That's not the same Judith Plank with whom you played tennis last afternoon." "Judith?" she repeated in astonishment, forgetting her mendacity; and then her cheeks were crimsoned, and she retreated from him, white as a sheet. He had only meant to tease her; but by her flight his almost-forgotten anger was a little revived.

But when Doctor Mayhew was gone, he rang for his secretary. "Will you phone Miss Mary Ann Carlisle," he directed, and gave Professor Carlisle's name and address. "Ask her to come in and see me, if she can; say I may have some work for her."

"Nancy!" he called. She stopped, half turning. "You mustn't ever lie to me, Nancy," he said sternly. She hesitated, facing him doubtfully; but after a moment she descended to meet him ascending. On the step above her, she said appealingly: "I'm sorry, Father. I—a girl—"

Yet outwardly there was no change in the routine of his days, except that he saw more and more of Mary Ann. He no longer disturbed himself so much about Nancy and Dan. Nancy had agreed with him as to the wisdom of delaying for a while any formal announcement of her engagement, and he had always banked on his luck. He did so now, assured that this man for whose death he felt responsible was better out of the world than in it, a treacherous feeling of infallibility took lodgment in his mind.

Doctor Greeding touched her shoulder affectionately, guarding his tones. "No reason why you shouldn't tell me and your mother," he asked quietly. "I was afraid you wouldn't—"

Doctor Greeding found in this discovery a surprising satisfaction. He had since the tragedy moved warily, like a stranger in a great power-plant who avoids contact with the machinery about him, lest he loose forces beyond his understanding and control. But now, seeing that the man for whose death he felt responsible was better out of the world than in it, a treacherous feeling of infallibility took lodgment in his mind.

Then, before she could either assent or demur, he said: "Good night. It's late, my dear." "She hugged him warmly. 'You're sweet!' she whispered. 'Good night, Father!' And ran up the stairs."

He followed more slowly; and in his own room, the door closed behind him, he stood fixed and rigid, frowning. But in the end he dismissed Nancy for the present from his mind, and opened the volume he had brought upstairs.

Next day Doctor Greeding was not his usual self while in the operating-room. Ordinarily he worked without conscious effort, smoothly and swiftly; but today each procedure required a conscious concentration.

Doctor Greeding was instantly on guard. "You know him?" he asked. "Only through his book," Jerrell said. "That is an able piece of work. A textbook not only for college classes, but for business men, and investors too."

Even while he spoke, he realized suddenly that he disliked Miss Rimes intensely. She was an efficient nurse; but he recognized now that she was a dark, unlovely woman. He had never before thought of her except as an automaton; and his physical distaste for her lent an unintended heat to his rebuke.

Doctor Greeding was instantly on guard. "You know him?" he asked. "Only through his book," Jerrell said. "That is an able piece of work. A textbook not only for college classes, but for business men, and investors too."

She smiled at him. "Nonsense, Ned. You know I never worry about you, my dear!" "You never need to," he assured her gently.

Doctor Greeding was instantly on guard. "You know him?" he asked. "Only through his book," Jerrell said. "That is an able piece of work. A textbook not only for college classes, but for business men, and investors too."

"I saw the accident," he explained. "It—touched me. For no particular reason, I am inclined to do something for his family, if they need help of any kind." He was not blind to the approval in her eyes as she promised to investigate.

Subsequently, Mary Ann reported that the man was an automobile mechanic; and he had been, on that particular evening, in haste to come to the hospital, where his wife was about to be delivered. "But the accident has its compensations," she confessed. "He appears to have been a worthless sort. He used to be a chauffeur in a nice family; and the daughter of the house eloped with him. I went to see her, last night. She told me that after they were married, when her husband realized that her father would not support them, he was furious; and since then he has mistreated her abominably. Now that he's dead, she's going home, forgiven, happier than she could ever have been as long as her husband lived!"

Doctor Greeding found in this discovery a surprising satisfaction. He had since the tragedy moved warily, like a stranger in a great power-plant who avoids contact with the machinery about him, lest he loose forces beyond his understanding and control. But now, seeing that the man for whose death he felt responsible was better out of the world than in it, a treacherous feeling of infallibility took lodgment in his mind.

The Doctor chuckled. "He will care what he eats, as long as he can be with Nancy," he pointed out. Mrs. Greeding suggested: "Mr. Jerrell has been here so much, while Dan was away. I think Nancy has enjoyed seeing him."

"Give Dan a chance to repair his fences then," Doctor Greeding retorted. He saw her surprise, and said with a chuckle: "I'm not taking sides, Myra. I'm for a fair fight and let the best man win. Dan's probably all right. If he's anything like his sister, he's an able young man. Mary Ann has done very well with him. She's much the best nurse I ever had."

"You mean that we should invite Mary Ann too?" she asked doubtfully. "Of course," he assured her. "And Professor Carlisle. Make it a family party!"

Mrs. Greeding in the end, although with clear reluctance, agreed. Professor Carlisle and Dan and Mary Ann would come to dinner on Tuesday night.

Doctor Greeding had heretofore, save on the occasion of their first meeting, seen Mary Ann only in street clothes, or in her nurse's uniform; but tonight he thought he saw her for the first time. Her gown described, he could not have discerned, knew only that it was a harmonious blend of her. Yet she seemed to him so radiant that it required a conscious effort on his part to control his tones and make them no more than casual.

He took refuge in jocosity. "Dan," he announced, "we've a special treat for you tonight. A friend of ours sent Nancy a salmon, and we're having it for dinner!"

It requires not much encouragement to lead a fisherman to talk about fishing, and Dan was full of reminiscences of his trip. The dinner-table conversation was almost a monologue. When Mrs. Greeding rose at last, she said: "Ned, I expect Professor Carlisle and Dan would like a liqueur, and to smoke their cigars here."

She and Mary Ann and Nancy went into the other room; but Doctor Greeding saw Dan's eyes follow them, and he said amiably: "No need of your staying with us, Dan. I think Nancy has some design on you. Go along and see."

So Dan grinned, and he too disappeared. Doctor Greeding sat at one end of the table, the Professor at the other; for Professor Carlisle had filled the pipe which he preferred to a cigar, and the Doctor had no desire to come near the source of that scent so offensive to his nostrils.

For a little, nothing was said. Then Doctor Greeding remembered certain matters almost forgotten; and he said, making his tone casual: "Professor, Mrs. Greeding tells me that you gave her, that evening at the Jordans', quite a lecture on poltergeists. She had so much to say about it that I came home and read up on the subject myself. Do you seriously think there is any truth in these tales?"

Worthy of Your Pride!

MOTHER, between you and me, Sis is getting to be a little show-off. Last night when Dick called, there she sat, big as life, right in the middle of things chirping about the new dress you made her; how you used a remnant left over from one of your dresses, and got it finished in one afternoon—she even had Dick feel the material.

Well, Elsie, you can't blame the child's appreciating herself in a new dress. How about ourselves? Didn't you say your jumper was the talk of the Tennis Club meeting yesterday? And haven't I been spending more time before the mirror since I made my new "Stylish Stout" model? I actually feel like a new person in it—imagine me being vain at my age!

Oh, Mother, you're not vain and you're as young as any of us. You just were lucky to find a particularly flattering style for your figure. That soft jabot makes you look lovely and the whole thing is so slenderizing. And only an expert like you could make such a dress.

It isn't being expert, Elsie, it is choosing a pattern that is deftly designed and giving full step-by-step instructions on how to proceed.

Several Blouses. I'm going to make another blouse for my jumper soon, Mother. I always admired that white pique shirt of Dick's, so I think I'll try it for my blouse, since the pattern is a lot like a man's shirt in design.

It sounds good to hear you interested in making something for yourself. Maybe you girls will turn your Bid-or-Bi Club into a Sew-Your-Own before long. You can never tell, Mother, you never can tell!

The Patterns. Pattern 1229 comes in sizes 14 to 20; 32 to 42 bust. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for the jumper and 1 1/2 yards for the blouse. Pattern 1847 is available in sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. Pattern 1882 is designed for sizes 2 to 10 years. Size 4 years requires 1 1/2 yards of 39-inch material.

Uncle Phil Says:

Determination Gets Results
A man who wants anything wishes for it, but he doesn't wish long if he is determined. He gets busy. If virtue is its own reward why shouldn't the lack of it be its own punishment? Everyone knows what he ought to do; quite often, it is the disagreeable alternative. Kindness is one of the virtues, that, once a man has it, he rarely loses. It is just as well to be aggressive. Any man would rather stand up for himself than take a back seat.

Helping Genius
If we can't have genius ourselves we should be kind of glad to hold the ladder for another. Indignation over the sins of others gets no man into heaven. It would be a wonder if wonders ceased. Don't worry about what the world is coming to. The world has always been coming to something and "coming to."

Few See Through Disguise
One reason why so few recognize Opportunity is because it is disguised as hard work. One touch of scandal makes the whole world chin. Why does the man who smiles when you refer to his level head get mad when you happen to call it flat?

Scrap of Humor
Disturbing Foreman—Why are you leaving? Riveter—Oh, I don't mind hammering rivets all day long, but the next man to me hums incessantly.

Going My Way?
New York chauffeurs enliven many occasions by their wit. One driver drew up when he saw a pedestrian directly in his way, leaned over, and very politely inquired: "And now, sir, may I ask what are your plans?"

Despite That
Joe—Dearest, I want you to marry me. Dotis—But have you seen father? Joe—Many times, but I love you just the same.

"THE STUDENT COUNCIL"

Some time ago the teachers of the high school proposed a plan to settle all problems and disputes that arise by enacting a student council. This council is composed of 10 members, one from the freshman class, two from the sophomore class, three from the junior class, and four from the senior class. All students accused of misbehavior or misconduct must report to this council which will penalize accordingly as the council sees fit.

This student council was adopted so that the students could have a part in conducting the problems and affairs of the school, but, although the council has been in operation for over two months, it has never yet been allowed to take part in a single case. This shows that the student council is not interested in the welfare of the school or the student council is not strong enough to demand its power.

GRADES

The grammar room club met last Friday. After the business meeting, a short program was given.

The seventh grade geography class has started a unit on "The Growth of Industrial Germany."

The eighth grade nature class has started a review of "Wisconsin's Wild Flowers and Trees."

The grammar room English pupils are practicing public speaking through the broadcasting system. Each member of the class has a chance to act as master of ceremonies.

The third grade has begun the new text "How and Where We Live" in their social studies class.

The pupils of the fourth grade geography class have begun to study Switzerland.

IN THE CLASSROOMS

In American history we are beginning the study of a new era which began with Harrison's administration. We are hoping to understand the new political questions that came to the fore in the new era and to set forth the controversies over the tariff and the money question during the new era.

In Latin we are studying the passive infinitives.

The unit on "Nature of Light" is now being studied by the physics class. Some of the interesting things we discovered are that light travels 186,000 miles a second and that the longest wave length of visible light is about eight ten-thousandths of a millimeter while the shortest wave that can be perceived by the eye is about four ten-thousandths of a millimeter. Besides these facts we studied the path of light which includes how images appear to the eye, the different types of shadows and eclipses.

The study of economics has now replaced social problems. The first chapter in the new text explains what economics is. The study of economics includes all of the most important and interesting features of human life. For example, it teaches us how wealth is produced, and it helps us to understand the organization of corporations, tariff, why prices are high and low, and many other interesting things.

Geographical Aspects of Transportation now forms the chief study of the geography class. This unit shows how modern life depends upon transportation, how railroads have replaced, to a great extent, water transportation, and how the cost of transportation of goods varies as to the different methods.

GLEE CLUB

This year Kewaskum High's a cappella chorus did something which is out of the ordinary to celebrate the anniversary of our first president's birthday.

We were asked to sing at the Old Settlers' meeting at West Bend and our contributions were "Dear Land of Home" and "I Love Thy Kingdom." The chorus went down in cars driven by the high school boys.

AROUND SCHOOL

This week marks the end of another six weeks' period.
Last Friday afternoon during the activity period an impromptu pep meeting was held in the assembly. The occasion, of course, was the game with Oakfield, which proved to be a victory for our boys on their own floor that evening.

"DEPEND ON ME"

The days everyone was waiting for are here. In case somebody doesn't know what we mean, we'll tell you. February 26 and 27 are the dates you must all have marked on your calendars as red letter days, for it is on those two evenings that the senior class play, "You Can Depend on Me" is being presented.

If you want to have an evening of good entertainment, be sure to see "You Can Depend on Me."

K. H. S. DEFEATS OAKFIELD; TIED FOR FIRST PLACE

Kewaskum moved into a tie for first place by defeating Oakfield by a score of 21 to 18 here last Friday evening. Kewaskum started out slowly and at the end of the first quarter the score was 9 to 2 in favor of Oakfield. The second quarter saw Kewaskum outplay their opponents and the score at the half was 12 to 9 in favor of the locals.

The second half was a nip and tuck affair with Kewaskum holding on to their three point lead until the final whistle.

C. Werner was high scorer with 10 points.
