Three Young Couples United in Matrimony

KLEIN-RUPLINGER
Miss Florence Josephine Klein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Klein of St. Bridgets, town of Wayne, and Ralph George Ruplinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Killian Ruplinger of St. Killian, town of Ashford, were united in marriage in a pretty spring wedding ceremony performed by the Rev. John B. Reichel at 9:30 a. m. Saturday, April 30, in the St. Bridgets church.

The attendants of the bride were Viola Ruplinger, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid, and Cordell Ruplinger, also a sister of the groom, as maid of honor. Lawrence Klein, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom as best man, and Elmer Ruplinger, cousin of the groom, attended him as groomsman.

The charming bride was attired in a beautiful white satin gown trimmed with lace and wore a long trailing tulle veil. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies and a white prayer book. The maid of honor wore a pink embroidered taffeta gown with a white turban, having a shoulder length veil. Her jacket was of bolero style. The bridesmaid was attired in a blue embroidered taffeta gown with white turban and a shoulder length veil. She also wore a bolero jacket. Both wore white accessories and carried colonial bouquets of briar cliff roses, sweet peas, swansonia and larkspur.

Following the ceremony about 75 relatives and immediate friends were entertained at the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding dinner was served and a reception was held. The home was decorated in the colors of the bridal party—white, pink and blue crepe paper, with white bells in the center. In the evening a big wedding dance was held in the Kewaskum Opera House which was largely attended by relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruplinger will be at home at St. Killian, Campbellsport, R. R., after May 15, where the bridegroom is employed by John Kleinhaus as cheesemaker.

WIESNER-GAHLMAN

A wedding of interest to residents of this vicinity and Watertown took place in the Richmond Catholic church, located near Watertown, on Wednesday morning of this week, May 4, when the Rev. John B. Devers performed the ceremony joining as husband and wife Miss Armella June Wiesner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wiesner of St. Killian and Maurice Gahlman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gahlman of Watertown. The church was decorated with spring-flowers.

The bride was attended by Miss Betty Jane Gahlman, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor. Lawrence Wiesner, brother of the bride, attended the groom as best man.

Attired in a gray suit trimmed with fur and having accessories to match, the bride was a pretty picture. She carried a prayer book and pearl rosary. The maid of honor wore a raspberry colored suit with accessories to match and carried a bouquet of ferns and sweet peas.

SEEFELD-ALBERS

The Lutheran parsonage at Dundee was the scene of a quiet wedding in which Miss Loella Seefeld of Dundee and William Albers of Armstrong were united by the Rev. Walter Stroehlein at 8 a. m. last Saturday, April 30.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Seefeld of Milwaukee, brother and sister-in-law of the bride. The bride was attired in a blue suit with accessories to match. She carried

Wisconsin Beagle Club in Annual Meeting Here

The annual meeting of the Wisconsin Beagle club was held last Sunday afternoon at Jos. Eberle's place in the village. Business was discussed and members of the club again voted 100 percent to hold the annual field trials and beagle show here next fall, either in late October or the early part of November. Kewaskum was again chosen by the club for the event because the members like the village and the treatment received here. Another reason is the excellent condition of the country around Kewaskum for holding the trials. The show will be held in the evening on the last day of the trials and again dogs from all over Wisconsin and out of the state will be entered. Officers of the club for the ensuing year were elected Sunday as follows: President, Jos. Eberle, Kewaskum, re-elected; vice president, Ed. Arthur, Dodgeville, re-elected; secretary-treasurer, S. D. Fell, Oshkosh, re-elected, and field marshal, Tom Heinz, Hartford.

Baseball Team Opens Season at West Bend Sunday

The Kewaskum baseball team will play its opening game of the Badger State league against the Benders at West Bend Sunday afternoon, May 8. The game, which should be another one of those rival thrillers, will be played on the high school field there, starting at 2:30 p. m. Mayor Jos. M. Knippel of West Bend will toss the first ball across the plate. A large following of local fans will accompany the team to West Bend and the game is expected to be largely attended.

Fond du Lac will open the season playing at Kohler Sunday while Grafton will be idle. Grafton was scheduled to play Plymouth but the latter team has dropped from the league, leaving an open date for each team every fifth week. However, another team is being sought to replace Plymouth.

Dramatic Club of St. Michaels to Give Play

The St. Michaels Dramatic club will present the play "Rosemary's Engagement," a three-act comedy, in St. Michael's hall Sunday and Tuesday evenings, May 8th and 10th. Admission 35 and 20 cents. A social hour will be spent after Tuesday evening's performance, featuring the music of Jack Thull and his Texas Rangers. A cordial welcome is extended to all. Plan to attend.

School to Compete at Music Festival

Bright and early Saturday morning, May 7th, more than sixty students will leave the local high school for a motor trip to Columbus, Wis., to participate in the annual district music festival. The girls' glee club, under the direction of Miss Margaret Lea, will sing two numbers in the vocal contest which will take place in the Broadway M. E. church. They are competing with twenty other schools and are scheduled to sing at 9:50 a. m. The school has great expectations for the girls and hopes that they will receive a good placing by the judges.

The Kewaskum High school band will not participate in the tournament this year because it has been too recently organized and the required instruments have not all been made available. However, all the band members are accompanying members of the girls' glee club on Saturday in order to attend the band tournament and see the bands parade. This parade, beginning at 4:15 p. m., will probably be the chief attraction of the day with its thirty-two participating bands marching down Ludington avenue in their colorful uniforms, led by the high-stepping drum majors.

NEW ARRIVAL

Town Clerk Alfred Seefeldt and wife of Kewaskum are the proud parents of a son, born in St. Joseph's Community hospital, West Bend, on Wednesday, April 27.

Many Families Move as New Month Starts

With the start of a new month—May—Kewaskum has been the scene of the hustle and bustle of moving activities as a number of families have entered the village, left it, or changed locations during the past week.

We welcome Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bennett and son of Oakfield, who over the past week end moved from Fond du Lac into the upper flat of the F. E. Colvin residence on West Water street. The Bennetts, although scheduled to live in Campbellsport, chose Kewaskum instead. Mr. Bennett is foreman of a construction crew of the Mid-West States Telephone company. Two members of his crew are also living here, one with Mr. Bennett and the other is making his home in the Republica Hotel at present. Mr. Bennett, and one of his crew, enjoy playing baseball and at present are trying out with the local team of the Badger league.

Another Fond du Lac family, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Huck and children, just week moved into the front flat of the home owned by Jos. Eberle, next to his tavern on Main street. Mr. Huck is now employed as bartender in Eberle's Beer Garden. He really can "mix 'em," having previously been employed for a number of years at Becker's tavern in Fond du Lac.

The Pollard family, who have been occupying the Eberle flat mentioned above, moved their household goods to New Prospect last week where they will reside for the present. Mr. Pollard is employed by the Kewaskum Aluminum company.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gessner and family, who had been living in the Fellenz tenement home on the corner of First and Railroad streets since September, last Thursday through Sunday, moved their furniture to Jackson where they will reside in the future. We regret to see this large family leave our growing young city.

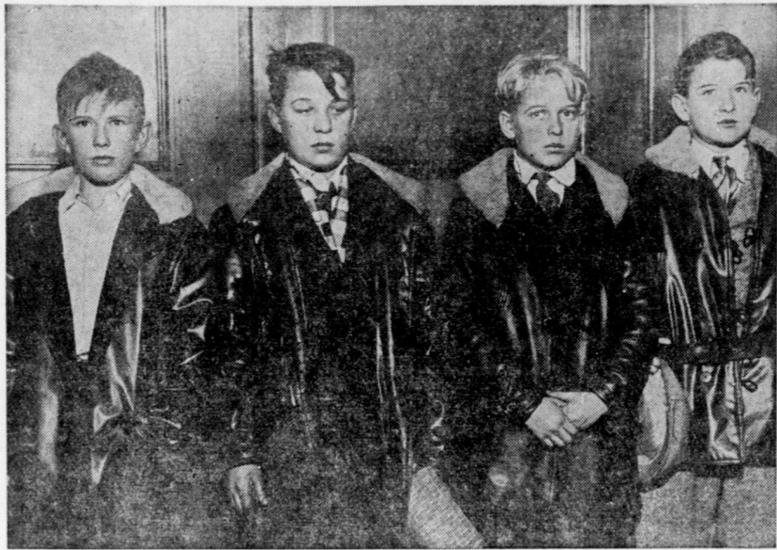

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Colvin last Friday moved from their residence in the Rosenheimer addition to their summer home at Forest lake. They will remain there until next fall when they intend to spend the winter in California, as they have done during several previous winters.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Graf last week moved from the home owned by Louis Bunkelman on South Fond du Lac avenue into the residence of the late Mrs. Fred Belger, running perpendicular toward the east from Fond du Lac avenue at the same location.

Into the flat vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Graf on the avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Klumb moved last week. The Klumbs had been residing in the house owned by Louis Heister, to the rear of his own home and tavern on Fond du Lac avenue.

Confirmation Service
Announcement was made in Holy Trinity Catholic church during mass last Sunday morning of a confirmation service to be held on May 29th. The sacrament will be administered by Archbishop Samuel E. Stritch of the Milwaukee archdiocese. All those who will have reached their 12th birthday by that time and those beyond 12 who have not received the sacrament are urged to register their names, and those of the sponsors, with the Sisters in the parish school as soon as possible.

THEY'RE CALLED CRIMINALS

'Juvenile' Delinquency Is 'Public' Delinquency, Claim Child Psychologists; Parents and Authorities Held Responsible

By JOSEPH W. LaBINE

IT HAPPENED in a midwestern community. Jim was a farm youth who wanted good clothes, candy and cigarettes. His position in life made such luxuries impossible but Jim found a way. Occasionally he'd take (not steal) a chicken from his mother's flock, selling it to the village meat dealer.

Jim began having the luxuries he desired. His dad bought him an old car and Jim instantly became a hero among the community's younger crowd. But one luxury led to another and eventually Jim was taking (not stealing) more chickens. When his mother's supply began diminishing Jim used to take chickens from nearby farmers.

Eventually the meat dealer became suspicious and had Jim arrested. At seventeen, this boy who wanted nothing more than a few luxuries was sent to the reform school for stealing chickens. Who knows what may happen when Jim is freed?

More pertinent still, perhaps, is the question of who is to blame. The neighbors pity Jim's parents and moralize about his deplorable delinquency. Perhaps it was just unfortunate circumstance; maybe no one is to blame.

In crowded Boston the investigator will stumble on a somewhat similar problem. That staid old Massachusetts city is battling the menace of young "thrill thieves," boys and girls who steal automobiles for break-neck midnight rides in a mad, heedless and puzzling search for thrills. The cars are not stolen to sell but are usually found abandoned or wrecked when the joy riders have finished with them. What causes this peculiar mental "kink" in modern adolescents?

But the most fascinating—and probably, fundamental—phase of juvenile delinquency is the boy "gang," a group of neighborhood youngsters who join forces for well-meant companionship and often end up behind prison bars. More than one child psychiatrist, seeking the basic cause of child crime, has placed his finger on the old wooden shack which sits unnoticed on a vacant lot, a "hangout" for boys who have no other source of recreation.

Chicago park police are a separate organization from the regular city police department and are trained to encourage juvenile activities on city-sponsored playgrounds. "A soft ball instead of a gun" is their motto. Boys caught stealing or destroying park property are not arrested but are turned over to the park recreation director for discipline.

he was misused at home and had to look elsewhere for recreation. What many parents forget, say the specialists, is that the physical fact of fatherhood or motherhood does not endow a man or woman with supernatural qualities. The art of parenthood has to be learned the same as anything else.

Listen to Dr. Paul Popenoe, noted counselor on family relations who feels proper parental treatment will dissuade potential child criminals: "The first thing for a parent to do is to keep the emotions of anger and severity on cold storage. A surgeon can't give away his emotions when he has a serious operation to perform, and a parent can't go blind with feeling when he has a problem to deal with in relation to his children.

"Parents need patience in dealing with their youngsters. They can't treat their children as something to be kicked about or locked up in the closet. They are human beings. When they misbehave, their action must be considered as a symptom, the same as a fever or an ache, and not a cause. If parents go into causes, they very likely will find themselves to blame."

Will Delinquency Decrease? The problem of juvenile delinquency is especially pertinent right now because soon thousands of school children will be released for the annual vacation, many of them left to their own ingenuity to find summer recreation. But each year this problem becomes less pressing, because more communities are instituting comprehensive playground programs for children of all ages. Designed to keep youngsters busy all day, these activities encourage healthy bodies, clear heads and—at night—drowsy eyes that welcome sleep.

Today's "teen age generation is a problem because public responsibility for juvenile delinquency was not recognized until a few years ago. Who can tell but that tomorrow's youngsters, aided by the healthy recreation their communities now sponsor, will forsake crime for a nobler life?

It's possible, so long as we remember the trouble isn't juvenile delinquency, but public delinquency!

Ha-a-lp. The inebriated man came to a tree with rails around to protect it. He wandered round and round and then gave a cry of fear.

"O, help! I'm locked in," he exclaimed.

"O, help! I'm locked in," he exclaimed.

Prisoner—Thank you, sir, I often wonder myself. Sometimes I suspect that they think if I was not locked up I might go away from here.—Farm Journal.

More Like It Jones (offensively)—Didn't I see you going into a low-down public-house the other day?

HALF-WAY WEST

"So you're from the West—ever been shot?"

"No—nothing more than half-shot, I'm glad to say."

Biting Retort Papa glared sternly at his young hopeful.

"Another bite like that, young man," he said, "and you'll leave the table!"

Sonny looked up. "Another bite like that," he agreed, "and I'll be finished."

Kindness First "Have you anything to say before I pass sentence on you?"

"Yes, your honor, I should like you to have lunch first."—Pearson's Weekly.

JOHN DEERE No. 999 Planter

The Choice of the Corn Belt

The John Deere No. 999 has led the field for nearly sixty years. It's the fastest-selling corn planter in the world—un-surpassed for accurate and dependable performance, for its ability to open up a furrow, deposit the right number of kernels per hill, plant them in check, cover them at uniform depth, and press the soil down firmly. Variable drop. Clutch and gears are enclosed and run in a bath of oil, for smooth, quiet, trouble-free performance. Tractor hitch, tongue truck, fertilizer attachment, pea and bean attachment, and a wide variety of seed plates available. Come in and see it.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS CAN BE PREVENTED

The new driver's license regulations prescribed by the Secretary of State require the examination of all persons not previously licensed to drive in Wisconsin. To assist applicants and to educate those drivers who are already licensed, the Motor Vehicle Division of the department of state has prepared a series of official illustrations showing the legal and illegal methods of executing various driving maneuvers. Follow these informative series which will appear in this publication, and request to do your part in helping to reduce the toll of death and injury by practicing safe driving habits. (MVD-1)

FARM AND HOME LINES

Back in 1880, three out of every four farmers owned the land they operated. Good bluegrass sod is the ideal range for chicks although alfalfa or clover ranges are very satisfactory. Fred Hatch of Illinois, has been credited with having built the first silo in America in 1873. Today, two farmers out of every five are tenants and the three who still own their farms have seen their equity in land decline very considerably. On January 13, 1922, nearly five years after the first successful telephonic broadcasts, a license and the call letters WHA were assigned to the University of Wisconsin station. A regular schedule of hours was maintained as early as March, 1920. The soft maple, Carolina poplar, Norway or Swedish poplar, and box elder are fast growing trees, but short lived and easily broken by storms.

County Agent Notes

WASHINGTON COUNTY GETS FARM ALLOTMENTS

Washington county's share in the national acreage that is required to produce what is calculated to be adequate amounts of general depleting farm crops is 103,323 acres. In the county agricultural conservation office these acres are being broken down into township and finally farm allotments. This work is about completed and local community committees met at the court house on Tuesday evening, May 2nd, to review these allotments and to formulate plans for giving the farmers of the county further information concerning them.

SPRAYING FRUIT TREES

Farmers and small orchardists urged by the department of agriculture and markets to avoid spraying fruit trees when in full bloom because of the danger of poisoning bees. The practice of spraying trees while in full bloom is also wasteful, inasmuch as the time to combat worms attacking apple, plum, and cherry trees is just after the petals have fallen.

SEED POTATO TREATMENT

Steps to produce smooth, healthy potatoes on Washington county farms are being taken, these days, as many growers are arranging now to treat their seed potatoes before planting time. The two common diseases which seed treatment helps control are scab and scurf both of which tend to reduce yield and lower market quality. Mercury in the form of corrosive sublimate, also called bichloride of mercury, is the most generally used disinfectant at the present time. When it is used for the hour and a half treatment at the rate of one ounce to several and one-half gallons of water, the chemical is simply dissolved in hot water and diluted. Twenty-five gallons of solution is enough for about 40 bushels of seed.

R. E. Vaughan, plant disease specialist at the state agricultural college calls attention, however, to the fact that while seed treatment is a big help in controlling potato scab, the disease is one which cannot be fully controlled, by seed treatment because so much of the disease lives over in the soil. The soil selected should be somewhat acid and one having enough humus so that it will hold enough moisture. A clover or alfalfa sod or rye sod is good for potatoes.

Growers also find that it helps, when selecting seed to avoid those tubers which show scab spots, and to use those varieties that are known to have some resistance to scab like the Russet Rural. The Russet Burbank is highly resistant but it is not adapted to many of our potato growing conditions in Wisconsin. If it has lone well in your vicinity it is a good quality variety to try. Some of the new varieties like Katahdin and Chippewa, while having many good qualities, are very susceptible to the scab disease. Early varieties are more likely to have scab than late varieties. This is partly due to the fact that they mature under temperature and moisture conditions more favorable to the disease.

Safety Council Will Order More Emblems

It was decided to order 100 more of the Washington County Safety Council emblems at a meeting of the council at Slinger at 8 p. m. Monday, May 2. These emblems are plates to be affixed to the license plates of vehicles in the county. As heretofore, they will be sold to motorists at 25 cents apiece. The decision to order more emblems came after it was pointed out that numerous requests for them had been received by council members from motorists in the county.

A discussion was held concerning a sink-hole in the West Cedar lake road at the east Slinger village limits and of water appearing in a low spot on Highway 41 in Ackerville. It was agreed that both present a hazard to safe driving and that steps should be taken to remedy them.

Otto Bartelt of Slinger, a member of the council, pointed out that he was the only Slinger representative on the council. The council appointed Joseph Gundrum and Otto Dhein to serve with Mr. Bartelt on the council.

Chairman Harold Riley announced that members of the safety council will be in Madison on Friday, May 6, to receive an award from Gov. Philip F. La Follette for this county's activities in promotion of safety during 1937. The award will be made during the state safety conference in the Hotel Loraine at Madison.

This county will receive honorable mention in its population group. Five bronze plaques are to be presented by the governor in behalf of the state highway commission to counties that led the state in reduction of fatalities and the successful promotion of safety council programs.

First consideration in making the awards was given to counties with active safety councils. Speakers at the safety conference will include Judge Harry H. Porter of Evanston, Ill., Chief of Police Joseph Kluechsky of Milwaukee; Vice President William Knoelk of the National Safety Council, and Chairman Thomas F. Davlin and Safety Director West A. Burdick of the state highway commission.

The chairman also made announcement concerning the Rock river valley safety conference at Waukesha on May 10 and a safety meeting at Chicago on May 17, 18 and 19. After some further discussion on matters of safety the council voted to hold its next meeting at Germantown at 8 p. m. on Monday, June 6.

Potato Planters

ECONOMICAL machine planting is at its best in the new McCormick-Deering. These modern planters handle small, medium, or large seed with unequalled accuracy. Furnished with them, at no extra cost, are three different sets of interchangeable picker heads.

The McCormick-Deering One and Two-Row Potato Planters have distinctive features you'll like, including a new foot throw-out... and a planting mechanism which starts and stops automatically with the lowering or raising of the furrow opener and covering disks. One lever gives complete control.

Wouldn't you like to come in and see these new McCormick-Deering planters? We will be glad to demonstrate them.

IT CAN BE DONE!

Last year, traffic accidents in this country claimed 39,700 lives—a 4 per cent rise over 1936. Yet, in spite of increased highway travel, 20 states cut their death tolls. The total increase a highway slaughter was due entirely to the other 28 states, where fatalities increased by 10 per cent.

The 20 states which made a start toward solving the automobile traffic problem, weren't "just lucky." In the great majority of cases, their comparatively good records were the result of hard, efficient work. They actually earned the savings in lives and dollars that a reduction in motor accidents involves.

What tools are ready at hand with which to cut down the automobile's toll? The answer is simple enough. First on the list comes unremitting public education—by schools, by civic groups, by governmental bureaus. Second, honest law enforcement under modern highway codes—and that means that every apprehended violator of the statutes must be punished quickly and fairly, that "pull" and "tucker-fixing" must be eliminated. Third, improvement and better lighting of streets and roads, and elimination of "accident prone" locations, are preventers of death.

This doesn't exhaust the list by any means—but these "musts" are vital to any workable accident prevention endeavor. The 20 states that cut deaths last year are to be congratulated. Let them repeat this year—and let the other 28 states follow suit. It can be done.

"Enclosed please find bank draft for $3.00 in payment of two years' subscription to the Statesman. Although there are many new names in your local news, I greet the weekly home paper as an old friend.

"I'm enclosing an article from our Duluth Herald, which tells of my daughter Lucilda's vacation trip into Kenya, East Africa. Lucilda is at the missionary station in East Africa, named Nera, 34 miles south of Lake Victoria. Mabuki is the post office, 10 miles away. Nera is 600 miles inland from Dar-es-Salaam, the port where she landed. Having a dear one in Africa has started me to study that country, and I find it very interesting."

TWENTY CANS OF PIKE PLANTED AT LONG LAKE

Re-stocking activities by the state's conservation commission were started Monday for the spring season in Fond du Lac county when Deputy Conservation Warden Charles A. Schlumpf planted 100 cans of wall-eyed pike fry, in county lakes.

Of these, twenty cans, each containing approximately 40,000 fish, were planted in Long lake, with the cooperation of Matt Schulz. Ten cans were also planted in each of Wolf lake and Lake de Neveu. The remainder of the load was planted in Lake Winnebago. The pike were produced at the state fish hatchery at Abrams.

In the planting efforts are made to distribute the fish through the water as well as possible. The cans are placed in a boat and the small fish dumped into the lake slowly as the boat moves around in deeper water.

GREAT WAR ALLIANCE

Britain and France Will Pool All Their Armed Forces for Defense of Both Nations

Loan contracts totaling $36,657,000 for four cities, covering not more than 90 per cent of the cost of proposed slum-clearance and low-rent housing, were approved by President Roosevelt upon the recommendation of Nathan Straus, administrator of the housing authority.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Anglo-French Alliance

PREMIER DALADIER and Foreign Minister Bonnet of France had a momentous conference in London with Prime Minister Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, of Great Britain, and at its close it was announced that the two nations had entered into a powerful defensive alliance.

M. Daladier

The British government announced that at the breaking out of the next war all food in Britain would be rationed under a controller.

Asks Press Censorship

SENATOR SHERMAN MINTON of Indiana, who succeeded Hugo Black as chairman of the senate's inquisitorial committee, is so vexed with the newspapers that he has introduced a bill providing for censorship of the press. It is as follows: "Any person, firm, corporation, or association that publishes in the District of Columbia or publishes or causes to be transported in interstate commerce or through the mails any newspaper, magazine, or other periodical in which is published as a fact anything known to said publisher or his responsible agent to be false, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $1,000 nor more than $10,000 and shall be imprisoned for not more than two years."

Ford at White House

ONE of our greatest industrialists, Henry Ford, was the President's guest at luncheon and it was expected that something important or at least interesting would come out of the encounter. But, officially, it was "just a pleasant family meeting such as might take place at a wayside inn."

Phone Cable Spans 100 Miles, Will Cover 3,800

When used with the terminal equipment the speaker's voice is split up 20 times between New York and Philadelphia. There are 20 loops in the circuit, each having a one-way amplifier. The voice passes through each amplifier 20 times, giving a total amplification of 400. At the sending end the various conversations are gathered together and sent over the one cable, then at the receiving end they are separated. The cable also is adapted to the transmission of television.

Corn Belt Revolt

FARMERS of the Middle West are in open revolt against the AAA corn crop control program, and the movement, started in Macomb, Ill., was spreading so fast throughout the corn belt that officials of the Department of Agriculture were considering possible modification of the program so as to allow individual growers larger allotments. The Illinois farmers formed the Corn Belt Liberty league, and growers from Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri and Minnesota who attended the meetings of the league went home to promote the organization of branches in their states.

Co-operate for Recovery

ROOSEVELT in his efforts to bring about economic recovery was offered by 16 leaders of business and industry, prominent among whom were Owen D. Young, General Electric board chairman, and Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank of New York. Their statement, made as individuals, was given out by John W. Hanes of the securities exchange commission. It was laid before the President, who pronounced it excellent.

"National Progressives"

BIRTH of a third national party, known as the National Progressives, was announced at the much heralded meeting of the La Follette followers in Madison, Wis. The gathering was brought about by Gov. Philip F. La Follette, who delivered the main address before the throng in the University of Wisconsin live stock pavilion. Not nationally known Progressives were present, and details of the program are yet to be adopted. The party already has a symbol, a red circle on a white background with a blue cross in the center.

Warren for Comptroller

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT was reported to have decided on the appointment of Rep. Lindsay C. Warren of North Carolina to the vacant position of comptroller general of the United States, with its 15-year term. Warren is chairman of the house committee on accounts and has served frequently as an assistant administration leader of the house.

End Tax Exemptions

PROMPT legislation was asked of congress by President Roosevelt to remove tax exemptions on income from all future government bonds, federal, state and local, and on all government salaries. In his special message the President said existing exemptions resulted from judicial decisions and could be eliminated by a "short and simple statute" which he felt the courts would uphold.

Earle Ousts Margiotti

THAT very unconvincing war among the Pennsylvania Democrats grew bloodier daily as the primary date drew near. Gov. George H. Earle, who seeks the senatorial nomination, was enraged when Attorney General Margiotti accused two prominent Democrats of taking a $20,000 bribe to bring about legislation favorable to local brewers. Those two men are supporters of Earle, and when Margiotti refused to substantiate his charges the governor ousted him and all his deputies. Margiotti is an independent candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. There have been other charges of corruption, and a grand jury was getting ready to investigate them.

Can't Raise Wire Rates

THE federal communications commission, by a vote of 5 to 2, denied the nation's telegraph companies the right to increase domestic telegraph rates 15 per cent. The companies had argued that the increase was necessary to offset dwindling revenues and higher expenses.

Cave-Man Teeth Found

Fossilized teeth estimated to be 100,000 years old have been found in the mysterious Sterkfontein caves near Krugersdorp, South Africa, and they are believed to have belonged to a prehistoric South African close to the missing link. The owner evidently lived on the meat of primitive elephants. The skulls indicate the Krugersdorp cave man was nearer to man than to the chimpanzee in intelligence. Sterkfontein caves extend four miles.

Washington—An inquiry comes from my old home town in Missouri, asking, in effect, Time G. O. P. What are the Republicans doing? The letter, quite obviously from a follower of that old Democratic stalwart, former Sen. Jim Reed, explains that the writer would like to see Democratic party machinery back in the hands of Democrats, but it is complicated that the Republicans have provided little opposition to the New Deal left-wingers. The further complaint is registered that many of the Democrats in congress have failed to set forth "cold facts" about New Deal spending.

I have paid very little attention to Republican party affairs for quite awhile for the simple reason that Republican partisans, either as a party or individually, have been doing nothing. They have a chance now to do something. Whether they will become really active, remains to be seen. They have been quarreling among themselves, snarling, fighting, letting petty jealousies keep their ranks split wide open. But let's take a look at their picture now to see whether there is any real hope. It will be recalled that during the fight against the Roosevelt plan to pack the Supreme court with six new justices, the Republicans kept very quiet. That is, they were quiet as far as surface indications go. Beneath the surface, they were busy helping the Democrats fight off that nation-wrecking scheme put forward by the New Dealers. I believe everyone regarded that as good political strategy. By refusing to make the Supreme court packing plan a partisan issue, the Republicans kept a lot of ammunition out of New Deal hands. That fight was led by Republican Democrats like Senators Wheeler of Montana, Burke of Nebraska, Rep. Hatton Summers of Texas and others like them.

But the Supreme court battle was followed by a cleavage in the ranks of the dominant party in congress, and the Republicans failed to follow up their jobs as the opposition party. They failed to take advantage of many opportunities. In fact, nothing was done at all until the government reorganization bill was pushed onto the stage and President Roosevelt made that legislation an issue. It may be said that the Republicans did nothing of consequence in that fight, but they voted with the real Democrats at the finish. That was the vote that killed the reorganization bill. Theirs was the vote which, had it been taken under the British or French parliamentary system, would have forced resignation of "the government" because it showed lack of confidence in the executive.

And, now to the present. In the last few weeks, there have been signs that ought to be heartening to the rank and file of the Republican lists. They are, however, just signs, as far as any honest appraisal goes. The Republican national committee has selected Franklyn Waltman, a Washington newspaper correspondent, to take charge of and reorganize the party's publicity set-up. Mr. Waltman is a fine writer, one of Washington's best. He has spent some fifteen years as a political observer. He has courage and imagination; perhaps not as much imagination as Charles Michelson, of the Democratic national committee, but he is young and vigorous.

This "sign" is significant because there has been no trained publicity man at Republican headquarters for the last three months, and the man who occupied the post before either was unable to do anything or was not allowed by his superiors or the factional strife within the party to accomplish anything. So, I say it is important to realize that the "voice" of the party is apparently going to be employed again.

Rep. Joe Martin of Massachusetts, who is chairman of the Republican congressional committee, and his assistant, Republican leader of the house, is now being heard from by no doubt but that the free mail privilege has been abused viciously.

Signs of Awakening

But it may be of interest to know that there have been few if any convictions for violation of the free mail privilege. Post Office department officials were unable to recall any prosecutions, although there had been some indictments, since the present arrangement went into effect in 1937. The incident involving Messrs. Taylor and Russell calls attention to the tremendous amount of mail that is carried free of postage. Last year, according to postal records, 1,107,252,468 pieces of mail were carried under free provisions. Of these 669,352,068 came from members of the house and senate. If postage had been paid on all of the mail, the amount would have been $33,713,305. Postage on the congressional mail was estimated at something in excess of $20,000,000—which indicates how much less campaigning costs after a politician is once elected to house or senate.

PWA Projects Given O. K.; Will Cost $1,016,686,130

Washington.—The Public Works Administration has made public a list of 2,765 approved PWA projects estimated to cost a total of $1,016,686,130, which are ready for an immediate start if congress appropriates new PWA funds. The list represents projects examined and approved by the PWA examining division but for which no allotments have been made. All projects were approved on the basis of 45 per cent grants, under the old PWA program, which was halted last June by President Roosevelt. PWA officials emphasized that the list did not mean that the projects necessarily would be started, but that revival of the program rested with the states and municipalities should congress supply funds for the new program as recommended by the President. The projects, officials said, are ready for construction at once.

Indian Flapjacks

Mexican Indians grind corn for tortillas on the three-legged metates. The corn is soaked, then ground, and water added to make a paste. It is kneaded, then shaped like a thin pancake on the palms, and cooked. It seems almost uncanny the number of tortillas that are consumed.

TO VIOLATE an age-old Sioux law, and to do so in the presence of a few hundred Sioux warriors whose weapons still glistened with the white blood of the Custer massacre, to do such an unheard-of thing and get away alive, such was the distinction that came, rather suddenly, to one of the smallest men ever seen in the ranks of the Mounted. The "untouchables" of India had little on the old-time Indian medicine men, when it came to keeping fellow humans at a distance, and one of the most famous of "untouchables" among American Indians was Sitting Bull, medicine man and mad magician of the hard-fighting Sioux.

After the frightful butchery at Little Big Horn, the Sioux knew that if they stayed where they were they would soon have thousands of American soldiers on their necks, men who would wreak the fullest measure of revenge for the terrific slaughter of Custer's brave troops. It was a case of fight, or fly, so after much debate and wrangling, the Sioux decided to fly to Canada, to Manitoba, and seek sanctuary under the British flag until the excited Canadian soil, and the Northwest Mounted Police began to be a bit curious about the newcomers, so an inspector and ten men were dispatched to contact the Sioux and find out what they intended to do in regards to the future, whether they intended to stay in Canada and become "wards," or if they planned raids and depredations against the white settlers in Canada.

After much peace-piping and parleying Sitting Bull, the spokesman, assured the police inspector that the Sioux were on a peaceful mission and that after a breathing spell they would probably return to the United States. Satisfied, the inspector and his men returned to quarters. The Sioux settled down to the more or less uneven tenor of their semi-savage ways. Things went along quietly until some of the braves grew restless and staged a horse-stealing foray. This was mistake number one. Mistake number two was that they had been foolish enough to steal some of the best horses from the Northwest Mounted Police, and among these was Inspector Allen's favorite mount. This was, as Allen put it, "a bit too thick," so with two men he returned to the Sioux and demanded that all the stolen horses be at once brought to him. Sitting Bull shouted and waved a few times, and soon some of the stolen horses were led up to the Men of the Mounted.

"Where's the rest of them?" queried the inspector, quietly. "Find 'em yourself," said several Sioux simultaneously. As time passed other horses were found and the Men of the Mounted were feeling quite lucky, except for the fact that the inspector's horse had not been found. Then came a moment when Inspector Allen saw his horse, and his rider was Sitting Bull himself. Giving the sign of friendship, Inspector Allen, head and shoulders shorter than any Sioux brave around him, and probably half the size of Sitting Bull, pointed to the black mare, and said: "My horse. You must give it back . . . to me."

"My horse . . . Pony Soldier," shouted Sitting Bull. "That horse carries my brand, my mark," said Allen, softly as he moved close enough to have Sitting Bull's left knee come under his clean-shaven chin.

"My horse!" screamed Sitting Bull. At this hundreds of Sioux warriors, sensing trouble, closed in on the quarrelling pair. Allen stood his ground, however. Again he parleyed with Sitting Bull, and again received a flood of abuse and insolence and a threat of sudden death.

It was then that Inspector Allen violated a Sioux law as old as the Sioux, the law that decreed sudden death to anyone offering or committing violence upon the sacred personage of a tribal medicine man. Bracing himself, and reaching upward, Inspector Allen caught firm hold of Sitting Bull, yanked him out of the saddle, and landed him squarely on his sacred sit-down. As a tremendous and deafening uproar broke out, and several braves made dangerous passes at Allen, the latter vaulted swiftly into his saddle. Without showing any of the nervousness that he certainly must have felt, Inspector Allen sat at stiff attention for a minute or two, then nudged his horse and guided it deftly through the pack of howling Indians. Fifteen minutes later, with all but a few of the stolen horses herded for the trip back to quarters, the inspector and his two men rode quietly out of the Sioux encampment. Allen carried with him the distinction of being the only white man ever to man-handle the great and sacred Sitting Bull, and live to tell about it.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

The Adventures of Peter Rabbit

By THORNTON W. BURGESS
BUSTER BEAR had told Old Man Coyote and Reddy Fox and Granny Fox and Hooty the Owl that if they wanted to catch whoever was hiding under the pile of brush in the Green Forest which they had been watching so long he would pull it to pieces for them, but they would have to come up very close, so that whoever was hiding there couldn't get away. So, little by little, each watching the other sharply, Old Man Coyote, Reddy Fox and Granny Fox had crept in nearer and nearer to the pile of brush until they were close to it. Reddy had chased Peter Rabbit under there early in the day, so he must be there now.

Only Hooty the Owl did not come in close. Hooty remained right where he was in a tall pine tree, where he could see all that went on and could swoop down when the time came.

"It's a lot of work to pull over that pile of brush," said he, "and I don't want to do it for nothing. You must be near enough so that when Peter Rabbit runs out he will have no time to dodge before one of you has him."

At last the others were near enough to suit Buster Bear. Hooty didn't know what it meant, but he began to suspect that there was some joke, and he leaned forward to watch more closely.

"Are you ready?" asked Buster. "Ready," replied Old Man Coyote, "Watch out, then!" cried Buster Bear, and straightway made the brush fly in every direction. The air was full of sticks.

"Oh!" yelled Reddy Fox, as one hit him sharply across the face. "Hi!" yelled Old Man Coyote, as a big stick hit him in the ribs. "Look out what you are doing!"

"Watch out, then!" cried Buster Bear, and straightway made the brush fly in every direction. The air was full of sticks.

FARM TOPICS

ALLOW FRESH AIR, SUN, FOR CHICKS

Range Outside Advised for the Young Birds.

By Roy S. Dearstine, Head of Poultry Department, North Carolina State College, WNU Service.

The chicken is primarily an out-of-door bird, not a "hot house plant."

Yet in bad weather, birds need some protection against cold, rain, and drafts. Many poultrymen have a tendency to confine their birds more than necessary.

On warm, sunny days give the birds, especially the young chicks, a chance to range outside. Exercise in the sunshine will help develop vigorous birds.

But the ranges should be clean. It is better to keep chicks inside a clean house than to turn them out on a dirty range.

Poultrymen who buy their chicks will find it pays in the long run to buy only good quality chicks from reliable sources. State blood-tested chicks from the near vicinity are usually best.

Don't overcrowd chicks or growing birds. Give them plenty of fresh air without exposing them to drafts. But don't overheat them, either, for this will lower their vitality.

It is also a good idea to watch laying birds carefully. In the season of heavy laying they are sensitive to changes in feed and management.

To prolong production in the spring, start feeding a wet mash at the first sign of a slump. Give the mash early in the afternoon, placing it in troughs in such quantities as the birds will readily clean up in 20 to 30 minutes.

Bees Find Nectar Supply Varies as to Localities

Local conditions, soils, and climate seem to influence the nectar supply of plants from which bees gather their raw material. Science has not solved nearly all the problems raised by the bees in their search for honey material. W. J. Nolan, bee specialist in the United States Department of Agriculture, notes that alfalfa is a good nectar producer in the area west of the Mississippi river, but is of slight importance to the east. Buckwheat honey is well known for its dark color and characteristic flavor but nearly all of it comes from a relatively small area near Lakes Erie and Ontario; elsewhere in this country buckwheat is a honey plant of only slight importance. White clover is widely grown and is a first-class honey source, but in certain localities it gives the honey bee little or no nectar.

Protecting the Waterfowl

Grazing by cattle and other domestic animals destroys waterfowl food and cover and frequently causes the loss of eggs due to trampling. On areas frequented by large numbers of waterfowl, grazing should be confined by fencing to protect the best nesting cover, says Successful Farming. Small grains like barley, oats, or wheat should be broadcast on waste lands where practical. Such grains, relished by game birds, augment available food supplies and tend to hold game on the farm.

In the Farm Lot

A 10 by 12 foot brooder house will provide ample accommodation for 100 or even 200 day old chicks.

In recent years many poultrymen have found that local markets are best for both live and dressed poultry.

Unless cows have an abundance of pure water to which they can go at any time, milk flow will be affected.

Jumbo eggs must weigh at least 28 ounces per dozen. They are worth more than other eggs because of their size.

In the United States, the cotton-picking season averages 100 days and is the most costly operation in the industry.

Ten hens entered in a New York egg laying contest recently established an average production record of 308 eggs per bird in 51 weeks.

Mouse girdled apple trees may be restored by bridge grafting, in which young active scions bridge the gap across the ruined bark of the tree.

Most of the market ducks in the United States are of the White Pekin variety.

Well cured green alfalfa and clover hay make very good sources of green feed for poultry.

In 1937 the Department of Agriculture reported 3,030,000 sheep on farms in the state of Montana.

American agriculture is now said to use more machinery than any other one industry in this country.

The hens need to be happy to do their best.

Poultry is kept on 85 per cent of all farms in Minnesota.

Wool is being bought while still on the sheep in Argentina.

The egg yolk contains virtually all of the vitamin alphabet.

Platforms for water fountains keep chicks out of filth that collects around the fountains.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HERE an embroidered border is plainly shown. No pattern is necessary. Book offered here with contains other interesting borders of this type. Space your stitches just as they are here. The embroidery should be done in a light and a dark color. Use all strands of six-strand mercerized embroidery thread. Color suggestions are—dark and lighter blue thread on white material—dark green and light yellow on light green material—black and bright blue on pale yellow—deep rose and brown on pale pink.

Baste 1/4-inch deep hems around both mats and napkins. Working from right side with double thread, make two rows of running stitches in the dark color, as at A, catching through the hem. Thread a blunt tapestry needle with the light thread and weave through the running stitches keeping needle pointed to the left as at B. Next, weave back again, as at C, still pointing the needle to the left.

Readers who have received their copy of Mrs. Spears' book on Sewing, for the Home Decorator, will be pleased to know that Book No. 2 is now ready. Ninety embroidery stitches, fabric repairing; also able settings; gifts; and many things to make for yourself and the children. If you like handwork you will be pleased with this unique book of directions for every article illustrated. Postpaid upon receipt of 25 cents (coin preferred). Just ask for Book 2, and address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Informality Seems Order of the Day In Modern Furniture as in Manners

By BETTY WELLS
YOUR butler will look down his nose at the casual furniture now in fashion. If you have a butler. But informality is the order of the day, in decoration as in manners, and current exhibitions of new interiors stress this trend with a dash.

You'll see maple, plywood, but it's done with a lot of contemporary style. For instance, in a little bedroom we noted the other day, the poster bed and chest were of a honey color maple and the wall paper was a mellow little old diamond-checked flower design with a good deal of rose in it, some green and an ivory ground. A white bedspread, very crisp and starched looking, white voile curtains and a quilt in white and green, all carried out the pleasant New England character of the room. But for accent there were two button back upholstered slipper chairs in chartreuse green finished with a cotton rope fringe.

And Aurelia Hunt, a friend of ours, has just designed some exuberant modern-provincial pictures, also for a bedroom. They're of complemented by a painted Swiss chest, by a painted peasant decoration on the alcove wall above the bed and by the comfortably patterned American hooked rug on the floor. The walls were painted in a dusty apricot color, with turquoise wood trim; the curtains were plain.

shrivelled in size to an enrollment of only 50 students. Doctor Morgan quickly adopted a plan whereby students would alternate between study and actual field experience, a process which attracted wide attention. The enrollment swelled to 700 and Antioch was placed on the map.

This achievement was responsible for Doctor Morgan's appointment to the TVA directorship in 1933, when the TVA directorship in 1933, when he was recommended to President Roosevelt by James M. Cox, 1920 presidential nominee.

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

Do We Benefit by Them?

Parents of young eighth grade graduates send their youngsters to a well recommended high school with the idea in mind that they are going to work all day long, each day that they are in school, to gain more knowledge and acquire individual initiative which probably would not be found at home. It is true that the youngsters go to school for that reason, but there are many parents who do not realize that extracurricular activities are fully as beneficial as the subjects that are presented during those four years of high school.

Athletics, for instance, such as football, basketball, baseball and track, develop the physique of young boys and gives the student an opportunity to meet different types of individuals.
Speaking, as a second illustration, including forensics and plays, gives the student an opportunity to overcome self-consciousness. Getting up before a group of individuals to speak is not an easy matter. He not only has to have confidence in himself, but he has to put himself into his speech no matter how short or how long it is.

A third illustration is singing. Everyone is not gifted with sweet melodic voices, or can carry a tune. I think we should try to acquire the best possible results with the talents we have. With the splendid opportunities most every high school provides, I think anyone who does not take part in a glee club, or some similar organization is doing himself or herself a great injustice. This applies to band organizations also. Of course every individual does not find it possible to buy an instrument and take lessons, but those who can afford instruments certainly should join the band. Music, according to my estimation, is fully as important as speaking.
One has to learn to cooperate, and do his very best each time that the group gets together for practices.

Any student who is a high school graduate can tell you, from his own experience in these extra-curricular activities—if he has taken part in any —that he has benefited just as much from them, as he did from the general line of subjects offered during the four years of high school.

SCHOOL NEWS

The sophomores in our English work have been composing poems and writ-most interesting radio program. We are also making posters for music week.

The biology students, having completed the study of the root system, have begun the study of "Flowers and Fruits." This includes the study of the parts of the flower and the processes that must be performed before the fruit will form.

The Latin class is translating the part of the fourth book of Caesar's Commentaries, which is a book about Caesar's wars with Gaul (France).

The world history class is now studying how the French people rose up against autocracy and aristocracy. This uprising is called the French Revolution.

We seniors are reading the plays of the grand old master, William Shakespeare. In class we are reading the tragic play "Macbeth." Outside of class each member is reading the tragedy,

"Julius Caesar," and a comedy of their own selection.

During the time of Shakespeare, it is interesting to note that there were no women actors on the stage; all the women's parts were taken by young boys, dressed as women.

The clothes that were worn were not prints and the colors were not very vivid; they were purple, gold, red and black. The purple dyes were taken from a small mollusk from the Near East.
The gold threads with which the clothes were embroidered, were made in almost the same way they are now, in threads were dipped in melted gold. The red dye was taken from the bark of trees, and the black was wool from the black sheep.

During this time buttons were just beginning to be used. Prior to this buttons were used as ornaments to decorate the clothes of the wealthy people.
It was considered bad etiquette to be seen without a wig. The wigs were all ways white and they were not changed to suit every dress. It is also interesting to know that 16th century folks went to fashionable schools to learn smart slang expressions and the latest swear words.

The following poems have been written by members of the sophomore English class:

SPRING

Happy are the little birds
All fluttering on the ground,
Busily picking up little twigs,
To make a nest so neat and round.

All the father birds unite;
And in sweet harmony they sing.
They sing from morning until night;
Their beautiful notes spell "Spring."

The mother bird is busy too,
For she has her children to rear.
There isn't much else for father to do,
But to tell us that spring is here!

LITTLE BROOK

Oh little brook that ran past my door,
I hear your song no more.
The ice is thick upon your breast,
While below you lie at rest.

Children run and skate upon the ice
Where once your water ran so nice.
Still there will come a day,
When all the ice will float away,
And spring again will be in the air,
We will see your waters fair, sparkle
in the sunlight there,
And the moon will reflect upon you in the night.

And as I sit upon my porch once more, I Will watch you, little brook, run past my door.

SONG OF THE BROOK

As I walked beside a brook one day,
I seemed to hear the water say,
"I have been in many lands,
I carry sands from many strands.
In me the little fishes play,

And live the whole long day.
In me the water lily grows,
And at my side the willow stands,
Just as a king, it seems to command.
In summer, little boys like to swim,
In me they paddle and wade and splash,
They yell and shout and soon they clash!
Then, refreshed and hungry, home
they scam,
Hoping that mother has bread and jam.

And now, I'll rove and roam some more,
Hoping that I haven't been a bore."
