Something Old, Something New

Spring brings romance, but summer brings wedding bells, which are ringing this June for thousands of brides throughout the land.

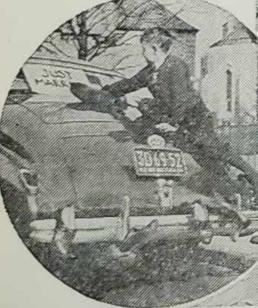

The gleaming reflection of a polished plate glass mirror gives back a vision of loveliness to this bride who has chosen a gown of silk Chantilly lace fashioned on classical lines.

Right: Another popular old superstition demands that the bride and groom be showered with rice after the ceremony, "that the union may be fruitful."

Old shoes mean the bride and groom will walk the path of happiness and contentedness.

The bride must cut the first slice of cake; otherwise, bad luck! This bride won't take a chance!

An old gypsy custom demands that the bride jump over the fire for luck.

Always the groom must carry his bride across the threshold. Result: Prosperity!

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—In the last nine years, this typewriter has reported on the achievements of about 7,000 Americans distinguished in the arts of war and peace.

No. 1 Flier of Navy Got Wings The Hard Way important in a critical hour, the record of this file is encouraging. Hitler has not repeated the axiom that the whole is equal to the sum of all its parts; and that being the case, this onlooker is convinced that we have what it takes, considering, particularly, the requirements for courage and highly specialized ability.

Admiral Towers is the only survivor of the first three men assigned to naval aviation in 1911.

Commander John Rodgers was killed in 1926, and Commander T. G. Ellyson in 1928. Towers himself has had many a close brush with death. It was in May, 1919, that he commanded the transatlantic flight of the wobbly, but determined NC4.

'Cowboy' of Air Thrilled Capital In Sprocket Job

of the then complacent country by riding a clattering chain and sprocket job 30 miles around Washington. In the same year, he coaxed a quaint sort of Currier and Ives plane up to the perilous height of 6,540 feet. It was a national sensation. They began calling him the "ride 'em cowboy" of the air.

When the World war started we had 35 pilots and 55 planes.

Lieutenant Arnold was clamoring for more then, and, as general, he has been out in front the last year, insisting that air strength would decide any modern war.

Adm. Robinson Rates High as Navy Appraiser

tion, he is cast in an important role in the hard-pressing enterprise of naval expansion. He is chief of the navy bureau of engineering, appointed September 13 and appears in the opening arguments primarily as a technician rather than as a policy adviser. When and if there is a decision as to just what we want to defend, what will be needed to defend it, and how much it will cost, Admiral Robinson will no doubt score highly in the technical "information please." He is 58 years old, a native of Eulogy, Texas, was graduated from West Point in 1899 and engaged thereafter in never spectacular, but crucially important naval engineering.

A FRIEND of mine, who until a few months ago had lived in Italy several years, tells me that Crown Prince Humbert of Italy not only is a holdout against the Fascist regime, but that he has a tremendous personal following which he could and would launch against Italy's entry into the war.

My friend believes that his opposition to the axis and the war must have been sharpened by the fact that his wife, the former Princess Marie Jose, is a daughter of the late King Albert of Belgium.

The tall, extraordinarily handsome crown prince never did like the Blackshirts. Although trained in the army from the age of nine, he refused to lead his troops into Ethiopia in 1935. He is studious, somewhat of a bookworm in fact, and devotes much time and energy to his collection of rare books. He reads and speaks five languages and writes critical literary essays for continental journals. He has been especially interested in American literature of recent decades, particularly the novel. His book collection specializes in classical history.

Methods Vary In Treatment Of Hay Fever

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE hay fever season will be coming along soon and thousands of sufferers will be wondering just whether the season will be severe or mild. If much ragweed pollen is being carried in the air they know they are in for a miserable time.

Fortunately the use of injections of the ragweed pollen prevents attacks in a great many cases.

Just why some individuals are attacked and others are not, is not definitely known, but there seems to be two reasons for hay fever attacking this large group.

One is an inherited tendency toward allergy or sensitiveness to substances and the other is some change in the gland system of these individuals which interferes with the balance of one gland with another or with several others. For instance, the first thought in the treatment of asthma and hay fever is adrenalin or epinephrine—the extract of the adrenal glands, situated one on top of each kidney. This does not cure asthma or hay fever (which, with eczema are closely related) but it eases and usually stops the asthmatic attack and, if applied to the eyes or lining of nose, eases the distress in hay fever.

Gland System May Be at Fault.

That the gland system may be at fault is again suggested by Dr. C. S. Bucher of Champaign, Ill., in Medical World, who, by the use of an old gland extract—the pituitary gland lying on the floor of the skull gland system on the floor of the skull—obtained excellent results in 50 consecutive cases in the treatment of hay fever. With his associates, Dr. Bucher gave hypodermic injections of the extract of the front part of the pituitary gland (15 drops, equal to 18 1/2 grains of fresh gland) once a day for seven days to ten days, then three times a week for two weeks, twice a week for two weeks, and once a week thereafter. About 24 injections were given. This treatment is begun (as with the ragweed treatment) about two months before the usual time for the onset of hay fever.

Lumbago, Sciatica Not 'Natural' Ills

YOU may suffer with an attack of lumbago and sciatica but because you are getting "older," you may think that lumbago and sciatica are the "natural" ailments you must endure. So you apply heat in some form, take aspirin tablets regularly and seem to get along fairly well.

Sciatica and lumbago are not natural ailments but have some definite cause.

I have spoken before of my own attacks of sciatica and lumbago. The first attack was due to injury for which I wore a Goldthwait brace for four years. The second was due to infected tonsils, the removal of which brought relief of pain in 48 hours, and full use of a partly paralyzed leg within one month. The third and fourth attacks were due to infected teeth.

Due to Injury or Infection.

In other words, sciatica and lumbago are due in the great majority of cases to injury or infection. The injury may not be a fall, a blow, a wrench of the joints in lower back and hips. In many cases, it is due to the faulty posture or carriage; in fact, Dr. W. M. Steel, in American Journal of Surgery, says: "Poor posture is the usual 'pre-disposing' cause of lumbago-sciatica. The spinal 'tilt' puts an added pull on ligaments and nerves, with pain in the distant branches of these nerves. 'The poor posture may be due to flat feet or just poor muscular power.'"

"Pain is transmitted down the leg to foot. In mild cases there is morning back stiffness and muscle fatigue, followed as the day goes on by pain over the hip joints, buttocks and down back of legs. The pain comes and goes and is made worse by sudden body twists, lifting, exposure to wet and cold, or infection."

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What causes belching? A.—Most cases of belching are due to a sluggish liver and gall bladder. Other cases are due to gas forming foods—cabbage, onions, lettuce and cauliflower. Q.—Will you kindly advise if citrus fruits and tomato juice are good sources of vitamin B? A.—Citrus fruit and tomato juice contain vitamin B, but are not as rich in it as liver, milk, eggs, whole wheat grains, yeast and peanuts.

War Cuts Sisal Imports

One of America's essential commodities that may be affected by the continuation of European war is sisal, of which binder twine is made. It comes chiefly from British East Africa, the Dutch East Indies, and Mexico.

Twine must be ready with the harvest begins, consequently manufacturers keep their warehouses stocked with sisal fiber that they may produce twine between harvest seasons. Manufacturers say they have enough to enable them to supply twine for the coming harvest but that if European war continues, sisal exports will be reduced drastically.

Concern over sisal supplies felt not only by twine manufacturers but by the federal government, which is now stocking sisal on cordage fiber under the authorization of the President's part of a plan to store "strategic materials" for a possible national emergency.

About the easiest and cheapest way to wash badly soiled painted walls is by using a tri-sodium-phosphate solution, made by dissolving one teaspoonful of powder to one gallon of water.

When preparing foods for fast-freezing, the more quickly fruits and vegetables can be frozen after gathering, the better the quality of the frozen food is likely to be, say extension nutritionists at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

THOSE WEEK-END JAIL TERMS

"Under a new law the courts in New York state may let prisoners serve jail terms on a part-time basis. If the convicted man has a job and must serve thirty days, a judge may let him serve it week-ends or on other specified days."—News item.

"When I read items like this in the papers these days I never know for certain whether I am reading the funny papers or a report of an actual fact," declared Elmer Twitchell today. "Maybe sentencing men to the hoosegow for breaking the laws and then arranging it so the sentence won't interfere with their lives very much is a swell idea, but it still leaves me dizzy."

"I always thought the idea of a jail sentence was to teach a law-breaker a lesson and make him feel crime didn't pay, but if a fellow who cracks a safe, sticks up a bank cashier or ambushes a peaceful pedestrian knows that, even if convicted, the jail term won't be much of a hardship, I give up."

"The whole theory of punishment used to be that it would at least cause some inconvenience. The authorities used to hold that a term in stir was bound to take an offender away from his regular pastimes and industries. Nobody seemed to feel that these terms should be arranged so the prisoner would hardly notice 'em."

"It is going to seem funny to me, at least, when I read of a judge saying: 'I find you guilty as charged and sentence you to 60 days in jail. Would you like to serve it all in one lump?'"

"Naturally the prisoner is going to reply: 'Well, I tell you, yerronor, I have a job when I work at it, and it would be a favor to me if I could get back to it and go to jail only after my working hours.'"

"Just how would you like this jail term arranged?" the judge is going to ask.

"I do not work Tuesdays or Fridays, judge. Tuesdays I go to the ball game, but I would be willing to go to jail Fridays. It rains on a lot of Fridays, anyhow."

"Well," the judge will say, "under this new law I guess Fridays in jail for you will be all right. Would you be able to fix it so you could report at the jail Thursday nights?"

"Not very well," the prisoner will reply. "My work is rather tiring and I would rather go to jail early Friday morning, say around ten o'clock."

"Couldn't you make it eight o'clock?" the judge will plead.

"Not without great inconvenience," the prisoner will reply.

"Very well, I will compromise and make it nine o'clock," the judge will reply.

"It is all very interesting if somewhat disturbing," concluded Mr. Twitchell. "I hope the rest of the country don't copy the idea."

MEMORY
I remember once, so long ago,
A sweet springtime in the rain—
When a boy took me out riding
Whom I never met again.
We drove into the country,
Where the fields with grass were green,
And saw a weathered apple tree—
The first one we'd ever seen.
It's boughs were bridal robed in white,
There in the rain it stood.
The boy stopped near and wondered
If a few stolen blossoms would Destroy its grace and beauty—
If it still would be the same.
I can smell the rain-washed petals,
But I cannot recall his name!
—Sue Saltus.

Where Statues Wore Hats! Mystery of Easter Island

Science Finds Creators of Intricate Script Were 'Long-Eared' Artists.

ON EASTER DAY, 1722, the Dutch Admiral Roggeveen landed on a small Pacific island, which he named after the day. He must have thought that he was landing in a nightmare, for the shores were ringed with gigantic stone statues, wearing tall red hats, and standing on high platforms with their backs to the sea. And the whole island was literally covered with statues! They still stand there today.

Later visitors made further odd discoveries. It seemed that the inhabitants had suffered a devouring national passion for sculpture. Hardly a boulder or an outcrop of rock had not been turned into an enormous bust, a fantastic head with enormously long ears. At the same time, they discovered wooden tablets and other objects

Briton's Hoarding Was Quite Easily Explained

Rationing of gasoline had gone into effect in England.

"Thank goodness I had the foresight to get in a store of petrol before rationing began," said the young man. "I've enough to last me a year."

The motorist who overheard him was indignant and went straight to the authorities. Investigations were made.

The young man smiled when the official demanded an explanation. "But I only have a couple of pints."

"A couple of pints! You said you had enough for a year!"

"So I have. It's for my cigarette lighter. I don't run a car."

covered with a complicated script. This started a series of the most extraordinary theories, including suggestions that Easter Island had been occupied by Red Indians, Egyptians, and the lost tribes of Israel. But nobody managed to put forward a reasonable explanation of how this diversity of races got there, or went away when their work was done!

Long-Eared Artists.

Then science took a hand. First of all, local legends were investigated, and the islanders told of a migration in the past from a distant island in the west. Proof came from one of the Gambier islands, over a thousand miles away, in the form of another legend. It told of a defeated chief setting sail to find a new home for his people. Local legend also told of two distinct races inhabiting Easter Island, the "long ears" and the "short ears."

And here again, science found the proof; for skulls found on Easter Island show that migrants came, not only from the Pacific islands, but also from the Australasian islands.

The "long ears" were the artists. It was their tribal custom to stretch the lobes of their ears, and they wore hats for ceremonial purposes. They were the creators of the intricate script which cannot be read, but, defeated by the "short ears," they have faded away and left no one to tell their story.

So far science can speak with authority, but science cannot say why the islanders who migrated to Easter Island should have progressed so far beyond those of their race who inhabit other islands.

CHARITABLE THOUGHT

Party Chatter
A woman on a party line took down the receiver, but the line was in use. She heard another woman remark, "I just put some beans on to cook, so I thought I'd call you up." Some time later the first woman again tried to use the line. The other two women were still talking. Impatient to make her call, the first woman broke in, "Madam, I smell your beans burning." There was a scream, receivers slammed, and the line was open.

The Kewaskum team went to Elkhart Lake for its game Sunday and submerged the nine of that village under a barrage of runs, the final score being 18 to 4. The victory was the team's third straight of the season and kept the club in first place in the league with Adell, which has played 2 more games.

Errors were largely responsible for Kewaskum's big score. The locals scored their 18 runs on 11 hits. Elkhart being guilty of 13 errors, which should pass as a new high. Honeck started the game and was removed to tryout Kudek after 6 innings, at which stage Kewaskum led 12 to 1. Between the two they allowed the Lakers 8 hits. This was Kudek's first assignment as a pitcher and he displayed a good arm although his control was lacking because of no practice in that line. He gave up 3 runs and 3 hits in 3 innings but walked 4 and hit 3 batters. Honeck allowed 5 hits and 1 run in 5 innings. Bartel was called in to catch several innings after Theusch banged up a finger.

Elkhart talked a run on a double and 2 singles in the first inning. They did not score again until the eighth, when 2 more were added. Their final marker came in the ninth.

Kewaskum scored 1 run in the first when Bartel started the game off with a single. Uelmen sacrificed and an error let him home. The second run came in the second without a hit on 2 errors. Two more were scored in the third on 2 walks, sacrifice, and a single. The next 3 runs were brought home in the fourth on a triple, single, and 2 errors. Five runs were scored in the fifth on 2 errors, 3 singles and a triple by Kudek. Kewaskum made it 13-1 in the seventh on an error and singles by Prost and Kudek. A single by Prost and 2 more errors in the 8th made it 14-1. The last 4 runs were scored in the 9th on Dorn's double, a walk, 2 stolen bases and 2 errors. Bartel took batting honors with 3 for 5.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Mrs. Marie Brockhaus, who passed on to her eternal rest two years ago, June 11, 1935. She lies under a shallow cover of dust, the grave which we plant and decorate. Underneath these calm plants creep these words:

What was the world to me—
My Jesus is my treasure,
My life, my wealth, my all,
My friend, my love, my pleasure;
My heavenly happiness and bliss eternally.
Jesus loves me, this I know,
For the bible told me so.
The heavenly gates He opened wide,
And called for me to stay,
With Him close beside.
Our mother, Lord, Thy command,
Blessed Jesus, here we stand;
Our faith looks up to Thee
Now hear us when we pray,
We miss you, mother, every day,
We never can forget your voice,
These words of love, we hear them still.
O praise the Lord for saving grace,
We'll meet you yonder, face to face;
The home above together share,
In answer to our mother's prayer.

142 Get Diplomas at Rural Commencement

At the new grade school auditorium in West Bend Wednesday evening, May 29, parents and friends of the Washington county rural school graduates of 1940 sat amazed and delighted with a commencement program that was entirely different from that of previous ceremonies that the schools had given.

This difference lay not only in the colorful ensemble of 142 graduates grouped together and actively taking part in the graduation, but in a difference that was of much greater significance than that. The graduates themselves, with their teachers, had decided to present the phase of activity that had interested them and was challenging to them throughout their school period.

It was shown that school rooms are not four walls void of personality—not today. Schools have character. One school is pretty, clean, comfortable, and pride is taken in keeping it so. The other, down the road, is colorful with its pictures of other lands, costumes, and children's drawings. On the other, schools have character, for the children and teachers are personalities. Another difference lay in the fact that in each school the part of the commencement program for which that school, or group of schools, was responsible was practiced within the township. Children rehearsed in school rooms on platforms of 9 by 16 feet and to a school audience of eight or 12 pupils and then adjusted themselves on graduation night to a stage of 25 by 30 feet and spoke to an audience of close to 1,000 people. This was accomplished with only one rehearsal of the entire group.

There is a great change that takes place in people when they do something together, each doing his own part well for the good of the whole—a big whole. This difference is a basic one. It is putting democracy to work at the elementary school level.

The gifts that were presented last Wednesday evening by the graduates to Uncle Sam (County Supt. M. T. Buckley) were gifts of these qualities: gifts of working together, playing together, assuming responsibility, and acquiring a background for a well-informed citizenship.

The parents were amazed when the results were placed before them, for it had all taken place with so little disturbance in the schools due to the fact that the sketches portrayed by the several schools were a part of the school day. The parents were delighted when their children made contributions so worthwhile to the excellent program.

Mrs. Margaret J. Williams, county supervising teacher, acted as co-ordinator of the program and built the framework in which all these interactions could be shared without duplications. She developed a pageant to which the title, "America, Here We Come," was given. In tableau, chorus, the dance, and in line, the story was told beautifully and effectively.

Safety Council Meets; Disbands For Summer

A lengthy discussion on general traffic safety measures, particularly on what to do about the problem of speed, was the main feature of the Washington County Safety Council at the Slinger, County Safety Council on Monday evening. The village hall on Monday evening. Refreshing meeting was well attended. Refreshing meeting was served by the Slinger members of the council.

As this council has no law recommending the speed of motor vehicles done to control speed of motor vehicles, and no recommendations were made, it was voted to recommend to the Commonwealth Telephone company that a pole owned back some distance from Highway 41. It was felt that this pole now stands too close to the highway.

Following a suggestion of the council at a previous meeting, it was recalled that a reflecting type stop sign had been installed on County Trunk P at its intersection with Highway 45-P at its intersection. It was reported that 55 at Dheinsville. It was reported that from a number of traffic signs in the county and that other signs had been subjected to tampering. The council recommended that offenders, if caught, be dealt with harshly.

It was voted to suspend meetings of the council during the summer months due to the fact that many members are on vacations during that period. The next meeting, consequently, will be held at 8 p. m. on Monday, Sept. 9, in the county highway commission building in West Bend.

Now One Woman Lost 20 Pounds of FAT

Lost Her Prominent Hips
Lost Her Double Chin
Lost Her Sluggishness

Gained a More Shapely Figure and the Increase in Physical Vigor and Vivaciousness Which So Often Comes With Excess Fat Reduction.

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do. Why not be smart—do what thousands of women have done to get off pounds of unwanted fat. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate your bowels and kidneys—cut down your caloric intake—eat wisely and satisfyingly—there need never be a hungry moment!

Keep this plan up for 30 days. Then weigh yourself and see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Just see if this doesn't prove to be the surprise of your life and make you feel like shouting the good news to other fat people. And best of all—a jar of Kruschen that will last you for 4 weeks costs but little. If not joyfully satisfied—money back.

HAROLD CHANNING WIRE presents

Marked Man

● Your favorite writer of Western stories returns with a gripping new range-land mystery yarn. "Marked Man" is tops in excitement—it's as thrilling as the clatter of six-guns, as colorful as the old West itself. It's a story of two-fisted action, one that will leave your ears ringing with the loud thunder of cattle boots.
