Rev. Gadaw, Pastor of Peace Church Resigns

At a special meeting of the congregation of the Peace Evangelical church of this village called by the pastor and held in the church basement last Thursday evening, the Rev. Richard M. A. Gadaw, pastor of the parish for the past nine years, handed in his resignation. The resignation was accepted by the congregation, to become effective this fall.

Rev. Gadaw and family expect to leave Kewaskum in November for Chicago, where he has received a call to be pastor of St. Andrew's Evangelical church. A new pastor must be engaged by the local congregation by that time. Rev. Gadaw was engaged as minister at the Peace church on July 1, 1932, replacing the Rev. John Frohne. Before coming to this village Rev. Gadaw had charge of a congregation in Monticello, Iowa, where he went from Calumet, Wis. The Reverend is 47 years old and has two children.

At the time Rev. Gadaw was engaged at the parish here he was one of four ministers who had applied for the pastorate. He was unanimously voted in by the congregation on the first ballot after delivering a trial sermon both in German and English.

During their residence in Kewaskum Rev. Gadaw and family made many friends and are very well liked both within and outside of the congregation. All of their numerous acquaintances will sincerely regret to see them leave but wish them much success and unbounded happiness at their new pastorate.

At a special meeting of Kewaskum Post No. 354, American Legion, held at J. Eberle's place last Friday evening, new officers were elected as follows: Commander, George H. Schmidt; vice-commander, John C. Reinders; adjutant, Hubert Wittman; finance officer, A. J. Feilenz.

At a meeting of the Washington County Council of the Legion held at Hartford on Thursday night of this week officers were elected and Theo. R. Schmidt, retiring commander of the local post, was elected county vice-commander. Legionnaires from here besides Mr. Schmidt who attended included George Schmidt, Louis Bath and Al. Naumann.

12 Accepted in Army; Two Leave This Month

Twelve of the 16 young men from Washington county were among 138 selectees accepted by the Wisconsin induction board for army service last Wednesday morning after examination in Milwaukee. They are Leroy Gonring, Raymond Zahn, Howard Mayer, Otto Laufer, Kurt Fleeger and Benjamin Tranholm, West Bend; Edward Bebeau, Wauwatosa; Robert Pretry, Milwaukee; Herman Buss, Franklin Blum and John Olsen, Hartford; and Edward Duenkel, Barton.

On Sept. 26 this county will have to supply two men for induction in the army. It was previously announced that no men would be required this month from this county but an increase in the number of men to be sent from the state made the change imperative.

The local board examining physicians are Drs. S. J. Driessel, West Bend and Barton; H. E. Frede, Jackson; J. Gregory Hoffman, Hartford; H. Meyer Lynch, West Bend and Richard Dehnel, Germantown. Dentists are Drs. J. F. Baumgartner, West Bend and R. O. Klink, Hartford. Members of the medical advisory board are Dr. A. H. Heider and K. T. Bauer, both of West Bend. This clinic is in line with a new policy of giving potential soldiers their physical exam as far as possible ahead of the induction date and as close as possible to home.

Mrs. Forest Survis, 29, nee Veron Broecker, formerly of St. Kilian, passed away Tuesday noon, Sept. 2, at St. Joseph's Community hospital, West Bend. Mrs. Survis was the mother of a baby girl, Sheila May, born Monday, Aug. 18.

Besides her infant daughter she is survived by her husband, who lives in Barton, and her parents who reside in St. Kilian. Funeral services were held Friday, Sept. 5, at 2 p. m. from the Kapfer funeral home in Barton to the Fifth Avenue Methodist church in West Bend. Burial was in Newark cemetery there. Rev. Brittain officiated.

Seven of the instructors in the Kewaskum Public school took summer school courses during the past vacation period. Besides the three published last week who attended summer school, namely Prin. Clifford Rose, Lyle Gibson and La Verne Bratz, four others completed their courses recently. Miss Margaret Browne and Miss Viola Daley attended the Whitewater State Teachers college, Miss Grace Ganske took a course at the University of Wisconsin and Miss Jean Loepke attended Jamestown college in South Dakota.

Notice was received recently at this office that Private Leo Wietor, Service Battery, 54th Field Artillery, Battalion Arm'd, has been transferred from Camp Polk, La., to Camp Shelby, Miss. Pvt. Wietor, whose home is at Wayne, was drafted into military service early last spring. He received his basic training at Fort Riley, Kansas, and was transferred to Camp Polk earlier this summer.

Local Public School Enrolls Record Number of 239 Pupils

The Kewaskum Public school opened on Tuesday of this week with the largest registered enrollment in the history of the school, according to Prin. C. M. Rose. The increase holds true in both the high school and grades. A total of 239 pupils enrolled on the opening day, 13 more than last year when the attendance was 226.

Of the number, 143 pupils are in high school, an increase of four over the 139 total of last year. In the grades the 96 total is an increase of nine over the 87 pupils enrolled last year. Forty young people entered high school as freshmen, a decrease by five from the 45 who entered the last term. However, only 30 seniors graduated last spring and a number of new pupils enrolling in the upper classes from other schools accounts for the swelled enrollment.

The freshman class is larger than was anticipated due to the fact that no effort was made to induce pupils who might have enrolled in neighboring schools to come here. The school's merit and the addition of two new school buses this year to transport students are responsible for drawing extra freshmen as well as upper classmen to transfer here from other schools. One bus covers the territory west of Kewaskum and at present carries 33 pupils to school each day while the other makes a circuit east of the village and brings in a load of 32 young people. The buses have a capacity of 64 passengers. Many others come in with drivers of private cars. It is necessary again this year to install additional seats in the assembly hall to provide for the increased enrollment.

The complete enrollment by classes is as follows:

OPEN RECRUITING STATION
Staff Sergeant Ralph G. Wheeler, who is in charge, wishes to announce that there now is a U. S. Army recruiting station in the city hall at West Bend. Sergeant Wheeler, who came from the Army Air Corps at Selfridge Field, Mich., wants it to be known that there are vacancies at present in almost any branch of the service. He will be glad to talk over and answer questions regarding any of the various branches.

PRIVATE SCHLOSSER HOME
Private Jacob Schlosser Jr. of Fort Knox, Kentucky, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jac. Schlosser Sr. while on a furlough. Other guests entertained at the Schlosser home that day in honor of their son's homecoming were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Schlosser, Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Halfman and sons, Campbellport, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Brandt of West New York, N. J. and Harold Schlosser of Milwaukee.

Made Personal Radio Operator for Maj. Gen.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Schmidt this week received word from their son, Private Howard Schmidt, a radio operator specialist with the Fifth Signal company of the United States regular army, stationed at Fort Custer, Mich., that he was honored by being appointed as a personal radio operator for Major General B. B. Mesele, the commanding general of the Fifth Division, during the war maneuvers being held in some of the southern states.

During the maneuvers, Private Schmidt will travel with the major general, in the latter's car, and have complete control of the radio.

The headquarters of the Fifth Division, while in the south, is at Camp Robinson, Arkansas. This is the largest war maneuvers ever staged by the United States army, in which nearly 500,000 soldiers are participating, and is expected to continue throughout the month of September. This is the second war maneuvers that Private Schmidt is participating in. During the month of June he was in Tennessee.

Private Schmidt before enlisting in the regular army last February was chief radio operator of the Washington county police radio, with offices in the West Bend jail. Since his enlistment in the army he has received two promotions as a specialist in radio.

Furlough CCC Enrollees
So They Can Aid Farmers
James J. McEntee, director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, today authorized the furloughing of CCC enrollees to enable them to assist farmers and orchard operators in harvesting their crops.

Mr. McEntee said the enrollees would be given temporary leave without pay while working as harvest hands and would return to their camps at the conclusion of this work.

"In recent weeks I have had letters from government officials and agricultural leaders in many states asking that this step be taken," Mr. McEntee said. "In some cases there was no immediate prospect of a labor shortage but these officials desired the added assurance that CCC assistance would be available if needed. The corps has in the past performed many emergency duties in case of fires, floods and hurricanes. In the present case it will not only be performing emergency work, but will be doing a particularly vital conservation job."

Young Mother Dies

Mrs. Forest Survis, 29, nee Veron Broecker, formerly of St. Kilian, passed away Tuesday noon, Sept. 2, at St. Joseph's Community hospital, West Bend. Mrs. Survis was the mother of a baby girl, Sheila May, born Monday, Aug. 18.

WELL-WHAT?
My! What dirty, black water, nobody could drink from that well!

Scared Away
Daughter—Maw, I wish you would stop bossing Pa around so much.
Maw—What's the matter now?
Daughter—Well, every time I get some nice boy interested in me he grows serious and asks me if I take after you.

At the Game
How different are the men who go A hero's praise to swell.
Some cheer because they love him so,
And some just like to yell.

Mathematical
A mother was very much put out because the teacher insisted on a written excuse explaining her son's absence from school following a severe snow storm. Whereupon the mother sat down and dashed off the following note to the persistent school teacher.
"Dear Miss Kitty: Little Eddie's legs are 14 inches long; the snow was 18 inches deep. Very truly yours, Mrs. Franklin Sylvester Johnson."

Reminder
"Johnny, I'll have you behave yourself when you're at home. What would your teacher say if you acted like that at school?"
"She'd say, 'Behave yourself—remember you're not at home now.'"

Important Job
Said Mr. Braggart—Did you know I am now vice president in charge?
First Voice—In charge of what?
Third Voice—Liquid assets; he's the inkwells.

JUDGING
"What do you think of Moseby as a lawyer?"
"I wouldn't let him try a suitcase."

Precise
The new aviator was telling the story.
"According to the instruments Frank fell exactly 6,000 feet."
"No," said his friend, "it was 6,006 feet."
"How do you figure that?"
"Well, he's six feet under."

Skinned
Barber—Will you have anything on the face when I've finished shaving, sir?
Customer—It doesn't seem likely.

LUKE AND ELMER ON THAT SEA CONFERENCE

"What do you think of the eight point program?" asked Luke Twitchell of his brother Elmer.
"Well, Wilson needed 14," replied Elmer. "So you see Roosevelt took six strokes off Woodrow's game."
"And Roosevelt is playing over a much tougher course," said Luke, always the golfer.
"I'll say so," agreed Elmer. "They didn't have so many hidden greens in Wilson's time, the course didn't cover so much territory and there were fewer contestants."
"I suppose it ain't quite right to speak of a terrible war like this in terms of golf," sighed Luke.
"Why not?" snapped Elmer. "It has all the violence, bad manners, cheating and general brutality of the public links game, anyhow."

"Why meet on a battleship to frame a program for peace and brotherly love?" asked Luke, plainly puzzled.
"Dramatic suspense, color, mystery and all that," explained Elmer. "It ain't so much what you do or say in a crisis like this. It's how you put it over. That meeting had everything but sex appeal."
"All it needed was some John Powers' models," nodded Luke.
"It got across without 'em," insisted Elmer, "but I wonder they weren't used, at that. John Bull and Uncle Sam are out to fire the imagination of the world, kindle the enthusiasms of all friends of freedom and get their message into the mikes and onto the front pages everywhere. And this sea huddle did it."

"Whoever thought Churchill, number one man of the British empire, would leave London, fly to sea and hold a conference with the President of the United States in mid-ocean? And who ever thought the President of the United States could drop everything at Washington to go to sea for the same purpose?" asked Luke.
"It would even have been cut out of a movie script as too far-fetched," declared Elmer. "Get the picture! Roosevelt gets on his yacht and disappears in one of the big moments of history. His disappearance is so complete even the news-reel men can't find him. The suspense is terrific. Democrats everywhere begin to fear something has happened to him."
"And Republicans begin to fear something has not," put in Luke.

"Rumors of a conference with Churchill at sea are spread, but discredited as something that the hair tonic company would delete as incredible even if Gabriel Heatter put it in his radio broadcast," continued Elmer. "Nevertheless it turns out to be the real McCoy."
"Can you imagine the fit Hitler must have thrown when he turned aside from his Russian blitz in what he thought was one of his big moments and realized that Winston and Frankie had grabbed all the headlines?" asked Luke.
"He's still howling," said Elmer.

"What do you think of the eight points themselves?" asked Luke.
"I don't see much new," replied Elmer. "They're just Wilson's old model streamlined and with the fluid drive. But there was nothing wrong with the 14 points except that we forgot 'em too soon."
"Do you think the Roosevelt-Churchill eight points could have been improved?" asked Luke.
"I do," declared Elmer.
"By what?" asked Luke.
"By a ninth point," snapped Elmer. "A ninth point pledging Uncle Sam and John Bull not to go to sleep standing up in the middle of a bowling alley."

Prostigmin For Cure of Bad Breath

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

IN LOOKING for the cause of bad breath, physicians and dentists look first to some condition in the mouth—decayed teeth, spongy gums, infected tonsils, dry catarrh—or to some condition of the stomach and intestines. While teeth, tonsils, gums and stomach and intestine conditions can generally be corrected, the most distressing type due to dry catarrh—seemed to be incurable.

Some satisfactory results were obtained by the use of a little rubber bag filled with water pushed up the nose and where possible into the sinuses and the water kept hot by means of electricity. This softened the crusts and when crusts were removed, the odor disappeared.

Dr. Barton have had good results by the use of prostigmin in clearing up chronic catarrhal and sinus conditions. Prostigmin is in general use for toning up the muscles of the intestine.

Two Chicago physicians, Drs. L. B. Bernheimer and Samuel Soskin, in Archives of Otolaryngology report their experience with prostigmin which acts as does ovary extract estroline in heating up and causing an increased supply of blood to the lining of the nose. The patients sprayed the lining of the nose four times a day with a weak solution of prostigmin.

Results in Twenty Cases.
Twenty patients were treated for periods varying from one month to one year. All other forms of treatment were stopped except washing out the nose once or twice daily so that the prostigmin would be sprayed directly on lining of nose instead of on any mucus that had accumulated. Ozena—the bad odor—was controlled in all the cases, usually at the end of second week. Crust formation was definitely decreased and in some cases disappeared entirely.

Three of the patients stopped treatment for four weeks. In all three cases the crusting, the bad odor and the bad throat returned, showing that treatment must be kept up if the patient is to be kept free of symptoms.

Preventing Spread Of Common Colds

IT IS gratifying to see the interest in backward children now taken by school officials and teachers. Anything that can help the backward pupil—eye tests, ear tests, gland—and other physical tests are made and treatment given to enable the boy or girl to become a useful citizen. Everybody recognizes the value of this work to the health and happiness of these children.

It is, however, difficult to get school boards to make provisions for physical examinations by school physicians and nurses, yet this inspection and health service would not only prevent much absence from school but might save many lives, as epidemics of influenza and colds could be prevented.

The common cold is the most common ailment among children and adults. One case can cause an epidemic that will spread throughout the schoolroom and the whole school, just as it goes through families, factories, and stores. If then this one cause is discovered early and kept apart from others, there will be no spreading of the disease.

In some schools pupils are given a short examination—heart, temperature, and throat—before they return to school after the summer, Christmas and Easter holidays. This has prevented epidemics of colds, mumps, measles and other diseases of childhood from spreading throughout the school.

How can colds be prevented in children and adults? The same rule applies to both children and adults. Don't eat too much and don't allow yourself to get chilled. Overeating means too much acid wastes in the blood and tissues. If the body is chilled at this time, a cold is likely to start in certain individuals.

One Too Many
Young Alec was watching a house painter at work. Presently he asked:
"How many coats of paint do you give a door?"
"Two, my boy," was the reply.
"Then if you give it three coats," said the lad brightly, "it would be an over-coat?"
"No, my lad," retorted the painter grimly, "it would be a waste coat."

SOMETHING ELSE
Why Tell It? It was a very wet night when the Watus.
"Hullo!" exclaimed Watus. "I don't think I dare," Jones retorted. "My feet are very dry."
"That doesn't matter. Just keep your boots on."

Pop—So your engagement to that rich deb is off. I thought you said she doted on you?
Son—She did, but her father proved to be an antidote.

No Sale
Lawyer—That'll be $10, please. Client—What for?
"My advice!"
"But I'm not taking it."

Circulating
He—The bank has returned that check of your father's.
She—Isn't that fine? What can we buy with it next?

No Wonder
"My father lost money on everything my brother makes."
"What does your brother make?"
"Mistakes."

"You can't loaf in the race for news..."

Buying Wisely

In these days people are buying wisely. They study values more closely than ever before, they compare prices. The buyer today studies advertising carefully, and the seller can use advertising and obtain better results than when money is more carelessly spent. Advertising nowadays pays—both buyer and seller.

pared for this sudden attack, and could only retreat in the face of overwhelming force. Expeditionary forces set sail from both the Mediterranean and the Far East.

ships. Aided by a heavy fog, troops from the Orient established bridgeheads on the Pacific Coast. Intelligence Officer Benning was assigned the grim task of reporting developments to his superior, Colonel Flagwill, who was stationed in Washington.

in the diplomatic pouch and was shot here from Washington by air courier, it may have some importance."

Benning slit the envelope open with a paper-knife. A message on a single slip of paper, which bore no signature, read:

"Mon Capitaine, I presume you may know already that M. Bravot is in your country under masquerade in the hope of redeeming himself in Van Hassek's favor."

Benning passed the note to General Flagwill and said, with a thoughtful smile: "That note from our little French girl startles me, sir. Rather a coincidence to receive this just when Bravot has been on my mind today. I've had a hunch the fellow might be around somewhere."

Flagwill stood up and took from the pocket of his coat a pair of silver oak leaves. He handed them to Benning and said: "Here's your new insignia of rank, Colonel, with my affectionate best wishes."

Shortly before nine o'clock, Benning wound his way in Flagwill's sedan through the endless troop convoys to the landing-field. In his dispatch case were the secret orders that would put Holling's Fourth Army into the attack. Four planes were lined up at the field to carry as many field-officer couriers with orders that would put the group of four field armies into action.

Benning's pilot, stiff and erect at attention beside his fuselage, saluted punctiliously. In his present pre-occupation it was only Benning's long habit of sharp observation that picked up the minor inconsistency of a pilot with goggles fixed over his eyes before he climbed to the cockpit.

As Benning searched the pilot, he saw the officer's body stiffen. Benning's hand drove to his holstered service pistol as he picked out in the moonlight his fellow's profile. The masquerader flashed into action at the same instant. With swift, even deliberation Benning leveled his weapon and pressed the trigger. Bravot sank to the ground.

Pilots and ground crew rushed up. Benning leaned over the fallen man and stripped off the goggles. Floodlights were switched on, a hurried search made for Captain Trench, pilot of the plane. Trench's body was found in the shadow of a nearby hangar, a knife thrust through his heart.

Benning hastily searched Bravot's uniform. In a canvas dispatch case he found cleverly counterfeited orders for a prompt withdrawal of three divisions from an important salient in enemy lines east of Sacramento.

In the small hours of the morning, occupying the plane put him down at Carson City. A military automobile took him north around Lake Tahoe, thence west into the slopes of the Sierras.

Columns plodded on, silent shadows in the night, an endless caravan of men moving to the front. Daybreak was close at hand when he reached the Fourth Army's advance command post.

The army commander took the dispatch from Benning, broke the seal, and read with a visible tightening of jaws.

"The United States asks no terms. We mean to destroy the armies that have invaded our shores and then we will hold to an accounting those predatory powers that are responsible for international brigandage. That is our last word to our enemies, until you come before us on your knees in the humility of utter defeat!"

There had been glorious days as well, as the months drifted by. There had been that day of two months ago when the Third Army, reorganized, reinforced, and invincible, crashed down across Texas to drive the invader south of the Rio Grande.

Behind the passes of the Rockies there was formed this great army whose fighting reserves now marched into the west. Long, patient months this had taken, months that had tried the courage and resources of the country.

Benning turned from his reflections to the realities of headquarters. Dusk was falling, the skies were filling with planes, planes that pointed their noses to the west. The vast caravan of men and guns moved on in its endless rhythm as it emptied the huge training camps of the Salt Lake Valley of their half-million men.

At headquarters he checked his personal effects, musette bag, belt and pistol, map-case, field-glasses, raincoat, steel helmet. The buzzer from Flagwill's desk rang at eight o'clock. Flagwill was now a two-star general with the assignment of chief of staff of the western group of field armies.

"Smells to me like a crush note," Flagwill said, sniffing at a small line envelope and handing it to Benning. "But since it came from Paris

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

Painting Ceilings QUESTION: What is the best method for painting the ceiling of my house? It is a very high parlor floor ceiling in one of the old-fashioned brown-stone houses. I am now removing the old calcimine. Would it be better to give this ceiling a prime coat of shellac as a sealer, or a coat of aluminum; to be followed by two coats of flat white? Would you advise two coats of flat paint or a semi-gloss paint? What is the best material to use for filling in cracks and crevices in plaster?

Answer: Shellac or aluminum as a sealer are not necessary. Follow the manufacturer's directions on the can of the particular paint that you are using. Directions will be given as to the proper thinning of the paint for a prime coat. A flat white paint is preferred for ceilings in a home. To fill cracks of any size use a prepared patching plaster, which is sold in most paint stores. Small cracks can be filled with white lead paste thinned with turpentine to a fairly thin paste.

Old Iron Sink QUESTION: What kind of paint can I use on an old iron sink so that it will be rust-proof, and will look a little like what it is not; just an old iron sink?

Answer: Unfortunately, there is no kind of paint or similar finish that will stand the effects of hot water and soap. The only treatment for an iron sink is to take off all traces of rust and discoloration to the bright metal, using sand, steel wool and kerosene. When the sink is once cleaned, it should be wiped dry every time it is used, and immediately wiped with an oily cloth. All of this calls for a great deal of effort, and it would be much more practical to substitute an enameled sink for the iron one. Plumbers and dealers in second-hand building materials should be able to supply a used sink at no great cost.

Knife Handles QUESTION: How can I refinish the wooden handles of kitchen knives, after the varnish has worn off? Answer: Wash them in a strong solution of trisodium phosphate or washing soda; about a cupful to a quart of hot water. This solution removes paint also, so you should be careful not to splash it on painted surfaces. Rinse the handles in plenty of clear water; then let them dry thoroughly. Rub down with fine sandpaper until the wood is smooth, wipe with benzine, being extremely careful of fire. Finally, coat the handles with a good quality, quick-drying varnish. (It should be borne in mind that knife handles are not supposed to be dunked in the dishwasher.)

Oil Burner Selection QUESTION: Two correspondents ask me to say which is the best of several oil burners they are considering. The value of an oil burner to the owner is not in the burner itself, but first in the skill with which it is installed; secondly, in the continued interest of the installer after the burner has been paid for. In these days all oil burners of good make will burn well, and if properly installed, will do a good job of heating. Satisfaction, however, depends on the installer. Get from each company a list of the local people using their burners; inquire of each one his opinion of the installer as to integrity, permanence in business and general reliability. Pick the installer who has the best reputation.

Preventing Condensation QUESTION: During the summer my cellar is damp from condensation. How can I keep it dry? I wish to set up a moving picture studio there and moisture would ruin the equipment.

Answer: Condensation is due to the contact of warm and damp air with the cool masonry of the walls. One remedy is to sheathe the masonry with insulating board, plaster on lath, or something else that will prevent air from coming into contact with it, and that will be warmer than the masonry. If you have a chimney flue that is not connected, open it to the cellar to provide continuous ventilation.

Broken Marble Top QUESTION: The marble top of an old bureau has been broken. How can I mend it?

Answer: The marble top of your bureau is so thin that no cement will hold. To repair the break, the marble must be supported from underneath. To do this, fit a piece of plywood or plasterboard inside the frame of the bureau and at such a height that the marble top will just rest on it. Cover the plywood or plasterboard with casein glue and work this glue into the two parts of the break. After hardening this should make a solid joint. You can get casein glue at a hardware store.

Flue Connection QUESTION: Is there any danger from fire where the flue from a gas water heater is connected into the chimney directly over the oil burner stovestack flue?

Answer: There is no real danger in this hook-up, but it may have a detrimental effect on draft conditions in the boiler. If the flue from the water heater must be connected to the main chimney it is advisable to keep the two openings into the chimney as far apart as possible, otherwise the draft of your house-heating boiler may be impaired.

Christ of the Andes

The year 1902 was a great peace year for the two great "A" and "C" South American republics, Argentina and Chile. Great Britain had successfully mediated a boundary dispute between the two nations which had almost turned the neighbor republics into two armed camps.

To cement the boundary agreement, Chilean and Argentine delegates agreed to a reduction of armaments May 28, 1902. The women of Buenos Aires commemorated these peace pacts by supplying the necessary funds to erect the huge bronze statue of Christ on the Andes frontier between the two republics.

Another's Pattern

One of the most unfortunate phases of specialization in modern industry is the one of the initiative faculty. There are millions of people in this country who never really think, never act on their own responsibility. They do not have to. They are simply cogs in vast machines. They follow the pattern marked out for them. They never try to make one.

What Foch Told General Who Couldn't Hold Line

There is a fine story being told of Marshal Foch. One day during the last war when the position of things was critical and further retreat would have endangered the whole line, one of his divisional generals sent him a message saying that he could not continue to hold a certain line of trenches which had become untenable. In reply, the marshal sent him this message: "If you cannot hold on, you must advance." It is a great motto for life, and the power to advance in such circumstances is where the great test comes.

That Nagging Backache

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood. You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Vanished Men BY GEORGE MARSH

Around the campfires in the Canadian wilderness men began muttering over the mysterious disappearance of six frontiersmen who had hit the Chibougamau Trail and never returned. They were in terror of Jules Isadore and his right-hand man, Tete Blanche. But Garry Finlay, brother of one of the missing men, marched into the forbidden country with two others and Flame, his giant airdale. Neither bullets nor poison could hold them back. At last, scorched by the leaping flames of a forest fire, they solved the mystery of the missing men and brought retribution upon the murderers.

Today's Facts About this Modern Light Source

For the same amount of electricity, you can get TWICE THE ILLUMINATION by using new fluorescent tube lights in your factory, store or office. It has greater sales and attraction value. Its size and shape plus a choice of seven colors open up new ideas for creative design.

Fluorescent lamps are extraordinarily cool. The surface temperature is so low that the lamps can be touched without discomfort. The even spread of light along the entire surface reduces glare to a minimum!

We will be glad to give you the facts about fluorescent lighting. How it can give you the right kind of lighting at the lowest cost.

ADD ZEST TO MEALS WITH JELLIES AND RELISHES (See Recipes Below)

YOUR PANTRY SHELF!

Half of tang and zest as autumn... these recipes tailored to fit your canning cupboard. Crisp relishes, sparkling jellies, bright tomato catsup, and pickles of cucumber and peach—what a selection you'll have for your meals a festive board!

YOUR CANNING SHELF

- *Bread and Butter Pickles
- *Watermelon Pickles
- *Pickled Fruit
- *Tomato Catsup
- *Concord Grape Jelly
- *Grape Conserve
- *Recipe Given.

Spice the fruits from your orchard or carefully chosen material from the market and you will always have something of a surprise to add to mealtime.

Served as a meat accompaniment, garnish or a relish whole, luscious fruit decorated demurely with cloves, ripened and mellowed in heavy syrup, fills menu demands beautifully.

*Pickled Fruit.

- (Makes 5 to 6 pints)
- 2 cups vinegar
- 5 cups brown sugar
- 2 1/2 cups each, brown and white sugar
- 2 tablespoons whole cloves
- 2 sticks cinnamon
- 4 quarts peaches, pears, or crab-apples

Cook sugar, vinegar, spices 20 minutes. Select firm fruit, remove the thin skins from pears and peaches, if using them, but do not pare crabapples, rather leave them with skins on.

Stem the grapes and crush them thoroughly. Add the water, bring to a boil, cover, simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly bag and squeeze out juice (about 4 cups). Place sugar and fruit juice in large saucepan, mix, and bring to a boil over a very hot fire.

Put up a batch of tomato catsup offers pleasure in more ways than one.

*Tomato Catsup.

- (Makes 5 to 6 pints)
- 4 quarts of tomatoes, quartered
- 2 large onions, chopped
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 2 cups vinegar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons whole allspice
- 1/2 tablespoon whole cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons whole black pepper
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard

Simmer tomatoes, onions, sugar, and vinegar 2 hours. Tie the all-spice, pepper, cinnamon and cloves in a bag and add with the remaining ingredients, and continue cooking for another hour.

LEAVES from Uncle Sam's Notebook

In Defense of the Crow

In North America the crow is practically omnipresent. His harsh, yet somehow cheerful cry, is known to practically every American child excepting those living in the larger cities.

Because the crow will eat practically anything that comes within the range of his sharp eyes, because he is frequently caught in the very act of carrying off eggs or baby chicks, because he hovers over the corn fields to pluck up the sprouting kernels—for all of these reasons he has often been hunted relentlessly and has acquired a reputation as the farmer's No. 1 enemy. This situation just goes to show how unwise it is to judge by appearances. Those who have seen the crow engaged in these depredations have either chosen to forget, or perhaps have never known that the bird also destroys great numbers of field mice, gophers and snails; that he is a scavenger, effectually cleaning the bones of carion thus destroying what might otherwise become obnoxious; and that more than two-thirds of the animal food of the crow, or about one-fifth of his whole diet is composed of insects, many of which are among our most destructive agricultural pests.

For example, the crow is very fond of beetles. They constitute about 7.5 per cent of his yearly food and most of them are highly injurious, such as the May beetles the larvae of which are the white grubs so destructive to lawns and pastures, the click beetles and their young, the wireworms, the various families of weevils, and some of the ground beetles.

Another 7 1/2 per cent of the crow's diet is made up of such unpopular insect citizens as grasshoppers, locusts and crickets, all of which are far more dangerous to agriculture than even the beetles.

The individual crow may be a very interesting bird. At one time the writer found a crow with a broken wing flopping about in a back porch. The bird was protected and fed (the time was mid-winter) until the wing healed but, although complete freedom was given him, he remained on the place, roosting in an ironwood tree in the back yard.

Crows commonly nest in the tops of high trees and rear from three to seven young, yearly. It is during the rearing of the young that the crow is most liable to carry off eggs and young chicks. Protecting the poultry yard from his attacks at that time is advisable and may be done by hanging out pieces of bright tin or glass that will swing in the wind or by stretching strands of cord over the poultry runs at a height of six or eight feet.

OTHER DETERRENTS

Since damage to sprouting corn or other grains is one of the worst offenses chargeable to the crow, some means of discouraging the attack appears necessary. To this end, many farmers apply coal tar to the seeds, thus making it unappealing to the birds. The coal tar is used in the proportion of about a tablespoonful to half a bushel of seed grain, the grain having been first heated in warm water and then drained. The grain must be continually stirred, after the application of the tar, until the grains are evenly coated. After drying it may be used in a planter.

Inasmuch as the crow is demonstrably both useful and harmful, it seems best to quote from the U. S. department of agriculture concerning their unprejudiced estimate of him, and to let the reader place the crow's status for himself. A recent bulletin says:

"The crow is best known to the farmer for its pilferings in corn, sorghum, and other fields. Notorious also are its raids on outlying nests of turkeys and chickens. The sportsman views the crow as a menace to nesting game birds, both upland species and waterfowl. . . . Unimpeachable evidence, however, shows that under many conditions the crow exerts a beneficial economic influence. . . . Despite general belief, to the contrary, the crow is esteemed in some farming sections. Curbing the crow in its destructive tendencies, when necessary, but at other times permitting it to render the good services of which it is capable, appears to be the most reasonable attitude to assume toward the bird."

Further information concerning the crow's value and his control may be had by sending five cents to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., and asking for Farmers' Bulletin No. 1102.

TRAINING TOMATOES TO STAKES

In gardens where space is at a premium the practice of staking tomatoes is recommended. After the plants are set, drive a strong stake about four feet high alongside each plant. As the plants develop, remove all side shoots while they are small and tie the main stem, having five or six clusters of fruit, to the stake with soft twine or strips of muslin. The increased number of tomatoes that can be grown will help lower the family budget.

SASSAFRAS

The sassafras is an American yellow-red flower. The bark of its root yields an aromatic oil, used not only medicinally as a tonic and astringent, but also as a flavoring, particularly in certain kinds of candy.

FORGET-ME-NOTS

The lovely little blue flowers, known by this name, are hardy perennials which thrive best in a cool, moist location and bloom most profusely in spring and fall.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—In Europe a few years ago, this courier got a strong impression that old Karl Baecker was slyly giving the Germans the breaks, in his guide book "Explorers-Writer Prepares Guides On Latin-America" the comparative interest and importance of European show places. His son carried on in the long run of the decades the Germans contrived to reveal Europe to millions of visiting Americans—particularly school teachers—through their eyes.

Hence one finds satisfaction in the news that the South American Baecker is being worked up by a man of German birth who is also a thirty-second degree American. He is Earl Parker Hanson, engineer, explorer, geographer and writer, preparing guides to all Latin-American countries, under sponsorship of the Nelson Rockefeller committee.

It is revealed that the guides will spot up their material against a background of "cultural and historic discussions." That might be more effective than sending down hoofers and spooferes, as we have been. Two volumes, containing about 800,000 words, will have been prepared at the end of this year, under Mr. Hanson's direction.

Mr. Hanson was born in Berlin, of American parents, in 1899, came to this country in his early youth, attended the University of Wisconsin and did graduate work at the University of Chicago. He was the editor of technical publications, beginning his exploring career in Iceland, followed by wanderings in the Canadian sub-arctic, where he became a friend of Stefansson.

In 1931, he made studies of terrestrial magnetism for the Carnegie institution in the basins of the Amazon and Orinoco and thereafter described the expedition in his notable book, "Journey to Manaos." Mr. Hanson didn't need a guide book to tell him where Adolf Hitler was heading. Several years ago he was on record with a sharp warning that we'd better do something about Iceland—that Hitler was staking it out as a stepping stone in this direction.

O WEN D. YOUNG'S farm near Van Hornsville, N. Y., is something quite unlike the traditional Sabine farm of the retired careerist, or sentimentalist. The Youngs started farming around those parts in 1710 and Mr. Young, battling for the milk farmers at Albany, says he is "more of a returned farmer than a retired industrialist."

The former head of the General Electric company and the Radio Corporation of America, away from home for a spell and now back with money in his pockets and garlands of honorary degrees, is in dead earnest about farming and about a fair milk price for farmers. He has been in the campaign for many months now. Better luck to him than the "returned" American Presidents had. Starting with Jefferson, there were six of them who returned to their farms and they all finished in the red.

Mr. Young has been the country's champion dollar-a-year man, but he thinks that's too much to ask for the farmers. There was a drive to make him President in 1931, which he hastily sidestepped. He said he didn't think he had the right kind of training to sit in the White House.

He was a farm boy, then a Boston lawyer, his "earned run" among his college degrees being from St. Lawrence university. He is vigorous and happy at 67, 6 feet 2, a bit heavier than when he was running corporations, and he still smokes a pipe with a 10-inch stem. He retired as chairman of the General Electric company in 1939.

Some historians think traditional American democracy was possibly strangled in the contention between the Hamiltonian industrialists and the Jeffersonian agrarians. Mr. Young is somewhere in between. His career has widened the area of "common ground."

IN 1919, Col. Gerald C. Brant flew from Houston, Texas, to Washington, covering the 1,505 miles in 910 minutes. It was a big story and there was a lot of head-shaking about these firebrand aviators going plum hog-wild. That's the Maj. Gen. Gerald C. Brant now commanding the Gulf Coast air corps training center. They're getting under way to train from 12,000 to 15,000 pilots, taking full advantage of year-round flying weather down there. He's from Charlton, Iowa, a West Pointer, and has plenty flying experience.

FRITZ TODT, who built the German Siegfried line, is commanding engineering troops, building and repairing railroads and vehicle roads in the wake of the German push into Russia. Known as "Uncle Todt," designer and builder of the great German Autobahn road system, he has commanded greater engineering armies than perhaps any man in history—at any rate since the pharaohs. A common roadwork laborer after the World war, he was an early follower of Hitler and became a high-ranking storm-trooper.

Household Hints

Before using new tinware, rub with lard or frying fat, and heat thoroughly in the oven. This prevents rust.

To remove mildew from a leather bag, rub with petroleum ointment and allow it to remain on bag until mildew comes off easily.

Tomato bisque will not curdle if one-half teaspoon baking powder is added to tomatoes before adding milk.

Parsley can be dried in a very slow oven, cooled, crumbled with the fingers, and stored in a covered jar for future use.

When making pea soup always throw in a slice of bread. It prevents the peas from sinking to the bottom of the pot and burning.

If the cement floor of your cellar has a rough finish, paint with a special paint used for this purpose and sold by paint dealers.

After a number of dustings Venetian blinds usually need a good soap-and-water bath. Go over them with a soft sponge frequently dipped in warm, mildly sudsy water. Rinse thoroughly with warm water applied on a soft cloth or sponge. Wipe dry with soft cloth.

Tobacco tops the gift list with men in the service. They've said so themselves in survey after survey. A gift of a carton of cigarettes or a tin of smoking tobacco is always welcome, and more than welcome the week before pay day.

Advantages of Difficulty

Difficulty is a severe instructor, set over us by the supreme ordinance of a parental guardian and legislator, who knows us better than we know ourselves; and He loves us better too. He that wrestles with us strengthens our nerves and sharpens our skill. Our antagonist is our helper. This amicable conflict with difficulty obliges us to an intimate acquaintance with objects, and compels us to consider it in all its relations. It will not suffer us to be superficial.—Burke.

FAMOUS ALL-BRAN MUFFINS. EASY TO MAKE. DELICIOUS!

They really are the most delicious muffins that ever melted a pat of butter! Made with crisp, toasted shreds of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, they have texture and flavor that have made them famous all over America.

- KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN MUFFINS
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 cup All-Bran
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup baking powder
- 1/2 cup cream shortening and sugar; add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Stir flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 6 large muffins, 3 inches in diameter, or 12 small muffins, 2 1/4 inches in diameter.

Try these delicious muffins for dinner tonight or for tomorrow morning's breakfast. They're not only good to eat; they're mighty good for you as well. For several of these muffins will add materially to your daily supply of what physicians call "bulk" in the diet, and thus help combat the common ailment of constipation that is due to lack of this dietary essential. Eat ALL-BRAN every day (either as a cereal or in muffins), drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation due to lack of "bulk." ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

CAMEL—THE CIGARETTE OF COSTLIER TOBACCOS

NO FURNITURE SHORTAGE AS YET

ELIZABETH MacRAE BOYKIN is so far, so good. . . that's the opinion view of this furniture shortage. . . for a stroll through any department in town will reveal no alarming gaps. There's a store of everything now. . . What the furniture stores in store is a different proposition. The mahogany outlook is the one being heard the most talk about. It is quite true that the fine material in the building of an essential and ships as well as for various other defense uses. The situation with regard to furniture is not as bright as it might be. In the place there are large stocks of mahogany furniture already made and in the use of furniture departments. There are stocks of both lumber and mahogany to run them for the present and very little of this would be available for the qualifications of the government's needs.

(Clerk Book of Village of Kewaskum).
PIONEER PHYSICIANS—Of necessity in the formation period of any settlement, pioneers were their own physicians. People kept a store of medicinal herbs and teas from which they made infusions as the need arose. Those with neighborly assistance, advice, and nursing kept the settlers in good health in spite of the lack of physicians who in primitive days could not find enough paying patients to make their stay among them possible.

John Schwendener was Kewaskum's first M. D. He was the son of Michael Schwendener, who immigrated to this country from Switzerland, and settled in the town of Wayne in 1847, but moved to the town of Kewaskum about 1863. The doctor was born in Switzerland in 1847; he was educated at Fond du Lac and at Warrenton, Mo. In 1873 he began the study of medicine with Dr. Senn of Milwaukee, and graduated at the Chicago Medical college in 1878. He married Lena Schuppert, daughter of John Schuppert of the town of Polk, a clergyman of the Baptist church. In 1881 the doctor was the only physician of Kewaskum. (Western Historical Company, History of Washington and Ozaukee Counties, 729).

SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT—In the early days, the sanitation system of Kewaskum was, of course, primitive. However, as the settlement grew in numbers individuals made some provisions for the proper disposal of sewage.

(Picture—Main street, looking east of railroad, 1920.)

On March 8, 1922, the village passed Ordinance No. 33, providing for the construction of a sewage system and sewage disposal plant. This was to include all the streets. P. E. Kaminsky of Berlin, Wis., placed the lowest bid for sewers at $12,512.16. Jorsen Construction Company of Denmark, Wis., placed the lowest bid for a disposal plant—$4,320. Jerry Donahue was the man in charge of the engineering company. (Information obtained from Mr. Carl Schaefer, village clerk).

WATER DEPARTMENT—The beginnings of the water plant date from the days when greater protection against fires was sought by the citizens. The city at the time was built largely of wood and, therefore, the smallest fire could easily grow into a conflagration. After acquiring various pumps and other fire-fighting equipment, the city fathers decided to make water available for the pumps at the main business sections. Heretofore, the only water available was from private wells; or, when the length of water hose possessed by the fire department could reach, the waters of the Milwaukee River or the Minnie Creek were used. The citizens, however, at least a part of them, continued to demand a better water supply, it being difficult to keep individual wells sanitary and uncontaminated from surface water or sewage. To meet this demand Ordinance No. 37, authorizing the village to construct

AUTO RACES AT DODGE CO. FAIR

At the wheel of a Rucker Arm race car, said to be far too fast to drive with open throttle on any circular track, Vick Roth of Omaha, Neb., will compete in the Dodge county fair dirt track championship auto races on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 10. The biggest field in history will compete in the seven events, officials report.

● Jules Isadore, the big fur man of the Waswanipi country, thought he was quite secure. He had the Indians scared to death. And "the land of the long snows" would never yield up the secret of the six missing men.

But Jules did not reckon on the determination of one Carry Finlay, who came up from the South to find his brother, Bob. He did not know about that air-raid. Nor could he foresee how love might intervene to make his daughter an ally of the man he sought to eliminate.

The crackle of forest fires and the ping of bullets quicken the tempo of this adventure yarn of Hudson Bay country. Read it—
