

Menasha, Brandon Whipped by Chev's

The undefeated Kewaskum Chev-rollets ran their victory string to three in a row with two easy wins the past week in an exhibition contest here Sunday night they romped over Menasha, 51-70, and at Brandon Wednesday they copied their second land or Lakes league game, 52-55. The latter win gave the Chev's a tie with West Bend for the loop lead. West Bend beat Horicon, 73-66, Sunday.

In Sunday's exhibition, an open league date, Kewaskum outscored Menasha in every quarter. They took the advantage in the initial period and never relinquished it. The halftime score was 42-31 and the boys increased the margin as the tilt went on.

John Tessar was the Tessar of old. He and Augie Bilgo went on a rampage to score 50 of the team's points. Tessar dumped in 30 points and Bilgo 20. Frankie Krueger added 12 and Fred Engel 10 for other top honors. Pacing the Menasha quintet was Brown with 18 markers and Depnek was right behind with 17.

The 51 points against Menasha and 83 at Brandon Wednesday gave the high scoring Chevrolet cagers a total of 174 points in the two contests. That's really swishing the nets. The victory over Brandon was the second in Lakes play. West Bend also has won two without a setback. These teams meet at West Bend a week from Sunday.

Brandon gave Kewaskum a go of it in the first quarter, which ended in a 16-16 tie. But in the second stanza the Chev power began to show as they outscored Brandon, 24-12. This made the halftime count 40-29. In the remaining two periods Kewaskum outscored Brandon by sizable margins to win going away. Johnnie Tessar and Bilgo, the Chevrolet's scorers, again paved the way for the winners with 29 and 18 points respectively. Tessar scored 16 of his points in the first half and Bilgo made 12 of his in the final half. Jerry Stautz dropped in 11 and Wayland Tessar 10. The big gun for Brandon was their ace forward, Miller, former high school star, who took top honors for the evening with 31 buttons. Hite neck chipped in 12.

This Sunday night Kewaskum entertains Mayville, which team fought it out for the championship with the Chev's last season. Mayville hasn't the team this year it had last but when these rivals clash with Kewaskum a good game can be expected. The game will follow the Mayville-Kewaskum Rivers tilt at 7:30 p. m.

KEWASKUM RIVERS TEAM ALSO WINS OVER MENASHA

In the preliminary tilt Sunday night here the Kewaskum Rivers squad also took on Menasha team (Rudy's) in an exhibition tilt. Kewaskum nosed out the visitors, 55-55 in a close contest.

Kewaskum led at the quarter, 11-5 but Menasha came back to take a 24-18 advantage. The locals had gained a 36-36 tie at the end of the third period and outscored Menasha in the final stanza to cop.

Kewaskum's towering center and guard, Hanrahan and Meisenheimer, were head men in scoring with 18 and 12 markers. Kersten and Techigi were tops for the visitors with 15 and 12.

This Sunday the Rivers team meets Mayville here in a loop contest.

New Fane Church to Have Guest Speaker

Sunday, December 13, the Rev. Paul C. Barth, the director of public relations for the Family Worship Hour, will be the guest speaker at St. John's Lutheran church, New Fane. The service begins at 9:00 a. m.

For many years, ministers, judges and social workers have been alarmed over the deterioration of the home. In many instances home has simply become a place to "eat and sleep and have your washing done." The result: youth delinquency.

Everyone is asking—what can be done? Something has been done. About three years ago a number of consecrated laymen and pastors geared for action. They organized Family Worship Hour to bring Christ-centered messages to the homes of the world. Today about 90 stations the country over carry 15-minute broadcasts into millions of homes.

You are invited to hear the special message which the Rev. Paul C. Barth will bring to our community on the success of the Family Worship Hour.

Scores Friday—North Fondy 61, Kewaskum 53; Campbellsport 75, Rosendale 57; Lomira 49, Brandon 47.

The Kewaskum Indians got off to a poor start in Tri-County conference play the past week by losing their first two games. Graduation took away nearly all of last year's championship team and the team has to rebuild this season, while some other teams have many lettermen back. In the opening loop contest at North Fondy Friday night Kewaskum was beaten, 61-53, and at Campbellsport Tuesday the score was 56-46.

North Fondy took an early lead and finished with an eight-point spread over Kewaskum. George Anderson led the scoring for the Orioles with 18 points and Darrell Ziebel collected 14. Center Koepke led the Indians with 14. The score at the intermission was 23-20. Kewaskum almost closed the gap with a big last quarter.

At Campbellsport the Belles won but failed to run wild over the Indians, as was expected. The Belles have nearly all of last year's strong squad back. Windy Weis and Bob Hatch were tops for the winners with 14 points each and Fred Bleck registered 12. Russ Rodenkirch poured 21 points through the hoops for the Indians to snare top honors. The Belles held a 24-21 lead at the intermission.

3 Evening Schools for Farmers to Start Here

For the fourth consecutive year, evening schools for young and adult farmers of and around the Kewaskum vicinity will be held according to D. W. Scheid, agricultural instructor at Kewaskum High school.

Classes for young farmers are for young men who are approximately 16 to 25 years of age and are interested in farming. These classes this year will be on farm management and will cover assorted material which these young men are interested in. A recreational period will follow the classes for those interested. The first class will be held Monday evening, Dec. 14, at 8:00 p. m. in the Kewaskum High school agricultural room.

Two classes for older farmers will be started on "Field Crops and Soils." One will start Thursday evening, Dec. 17, at 8:00 p. m. in the Kewaskum High school agricultural room. The second group will meet at Washington rural school starting at 8:00 p. m. on Tuesday, Dec. 15.

There isn't any charge for any of these meetings and nothing is sold or advertised. Scheid pointed out that attendance was very good at these meetings last year and he hopes for good attendance again this year. Films will be used at most of the meetings.

He concluded that it is important to be at the first meeting if at all possible.

Now Is the Time to Kill Rats, Mice

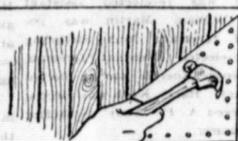

Rats and mice move indoors when the mercury drops, so be prepared for the annual invasion. Pest control specialists say that an effective anti-rat and mouse

Clean Up Rubbish campaign includes these three steps:

1—For good sanitation, remove all rubbish piles and stack lumber and firewood neatly on racks at least one foot above ground level. 2—Buildings in which grain and feed are stored should be rat-proofed, if possible. Informative bulletins on ratproofing may be obtained from your county agricultural agent.

Third and most effective measure in the autumn anti-rat campaign is baiting. Outstanding among the available rat and mouse killers is warfarin, a potent chemical discovered in the laboratories of Dr. Karl Paul Link, Biochemistry Dept., University of Wisconsin, by Drs. Mark A. Stahmann, Miyoshi Ikawa, and Link. Many communities are now achieving a "rat-free" status by using warfarin bait in local campaigns.

Ratproof Buildings

This particular bait kills all species of rats and mice common to the United States; it is a slow killer and does not create bait shyness; no pre-baiting is required; no tolerance develops; it is easy to use; it may be used in any climate or season at any temperature; it is comparatively safe to use; and it may be purchased as a concentrate or a ready-mixed bait.

Place Rat Bait

In using warfarin bait, it must be made available to the rats and mice at all times. Bait stations—shallow containers protected with a board or a wooden box—are usually examined every 48 hours. A limited number of permanent bait stations will kill newcomers and control reinvasion.

Science Seeks Jet Stream Schedules

Record-breaking flights of today may be the scheduled airline runs of tomorrow when science announces it has time tables for the jet air streams.

Moreover, when these schedules are compiled, accurate weather forecasts months in advance could be a commonplace. The jet streams, meteorologists are fast coming to believe, are responsible for major weather patterns.

Bombers Found Them

Old as the earth itself, jet streams are not the fierce ghost winds of the ionosphere, nor the thermals used by glider pilots. They were unsuspected until World War II, says the National Geographic Society. Then Japanese bombers, flying above 10,000 feet, incredibly reported that west-east winds of 250 miles an hour, more than three times hurricane velocity, were stopping them dead in air.

Since those days, science has learned that the northern and southern hemispheres each have a jet stream, almost invariably blowing from west to east. Neither is found below 10,000 feet nor above 40,000. Speeds of the winds may reach 300 miles an hour.

Paths of these jets are narrow. Military pilots who now regularly search them out report that flights of a few hundred miles usually will take them entirely across a speeding jet.

Nobody knows for sure what forms them, but some believe it is confluence, meaning the coming together of masses of cold and warm air. In winter, the northern hemisphere stream speeds generally above the Gulf of Mexico, while in the summer it moves north, to the latitude of Oregon.

Jet Streams Meander

Unfortunately from the point of view of those who would learn their secrets, jet streams curve, meander, zigzag, speed up and slow down, sometimes even stop altogether. Obviously, when the pattern behind all these gyrations is found, modern aircraft, particularly jets which perform best at high altitudes, will be able to find a roaring tailwind or avoid a headwind.

Just as obviously, the nation which first knows about jet stream schedules is going to have to have a big military advantage. Bombers and guided missiles high in the jets can move faster and farther. Because of the military angle, much research on jet streams has been cloaked in secrecy.

Meteorologists, however, have disclosed some of their weather findings. When a jet stream curves southward, for example, it may suck in cold polar air, bringing cool weather in its wake. Conversely, a turn toward the north can create a void into which hot air from the tropics immediately rushes. Some say last summer's heat wave was caused by a particularly erratic jet stream.

Much of the jet tracking is done with weather balloons. Recently,

American Legion Plans To Fete Korean Vets

A mammoth statewide American Legion and local community project is expected to begin in all sections of Wisconsin this month with the awarding of "Certificates of Honor" to all veterans of the Korean war.

The plan is to award the certificates to every Korean veteran in public ceremonies conducted jointly by local American Legion posts and community officials. Certificates bear the signatures of Gov. Walter Kohler, Jr., and of Dept. Cmdr. Gordon W. Roseleip.

First to use the certificates in public ceremonies honoring Korean veterans was Eau Claire, where, led by Johnson-Nicoles post No. 53, a gigantic event was held October 29th. All Korean veterans in the Eau Claire area were asked to attend, and an added feature of the occasion was a memorial service in memory of those men who lost their lives during the Korean conflict.

The award of the certificates, it was pointed out, is made not only by the Legion, but by the entire state of Wisconsin, attested to by the signature of its chief executive.

Insurance company statistics tell us men die at an earlier age than women. Which proves chivalry is dead; otherwise the ladies would be going first.

Miss Prague of 1946 said recently that Communist beauty judges are more interested in the number of bricks a girl can lay a day than in her pulchritude. In other words, they prefer what a girl can build to hers.

HOLY LAND ROCKS—Part of a 100-ton shipment of rocks from historic Biblical sites is unloaded from the SS Excellency at a Jersey City, N. J., pier. The shipment arrived from Haifa, Israel, with material to build an authentic "Garden of Israel" at Beth Israel Memorial Park in Woodbridge, N. J.

BROKEN HOMES — Heavy masonry was no match for the furious floodwaters that recently engulfed Oliveto and other towns in the southern Calabria region of Italy. More than 100 were killed and 3000 were made homeless, including this forlorn family of Oliveto.

"Mister Fixum's Handy Hints"

BY ERNIE GARDNER

RAIN SHELTER FOR THE GARAGE

Rainy weather, snow and ice, garage doors frozen shut, always bring to mind the need for some type of shelter over the garage door.

The plan illustrated, shows a garage with an A-type roof. It can be used, however, with any type roof.

The simplest plan is to build trusses as illustrated. Build enough that you can space them 18" to 24" apart, the full length of the shelter.

Assemble the trusses by nailing to the two back and one front 2x4s. Raise and nail the back 2x4s into the front wall studs. It is a good idea to use about 3 bolts through the top 2x4, and through 2x4 cleats across the studs in the attic of the garage.

If you wish the ends cut off as shown, it should be done at this time.

Install posts at the two corners of the shelter, to give it the necessary support. If the posts are not desired, some sort of angle brace should be used. An anchor hole will have to be drilled in the cement apron or driveway to hold the bottom of the post in place. The hole may be located with a plumb bob and line.

Install wood trim around the front edge as illustrated. If wood ceiling is to be used, the trim should extend far enough below the 2x4 to leave about 1/2" rim after the ceiling is installed.

Install wood sheathing for the roof. This should be solid, and extend about 2" out over the edge. Install shingles to match the roof. Metal flashing should be installed as illustrated. This should be painted after it has weathered several months.

If you would like the shelter to have an artistic touch, build trellises for flowers at the ends.

Paint all exposed wood to match the garage. This is probably a good time to repaint the garage.

THE TERRIBLE TEENS Part II

4. How Can We Help The Teen-ager?

Only by understanding him—and that, too, is no small order!

Every teen-ager, whether he admits it or not (and he probably doesn't) is insecure. That's the first thing to understand about him. Unable to face his inner insecurity, he takes it out in being rebellious against authority—any authority, all authority. Since his parents are closest to him and he feels their authority most, naturally he rebels against them. But remember, his behavior is the result of just exactly the same human reactions that you had at his age, except that it has been modified by today's changed circumstances. It may not have been borrowing the family car that you quarreled about with your Dad, but almost without a doubt, you resented his authority in some other respect.

5. What Should Be The Parents' Role in Adolescence?

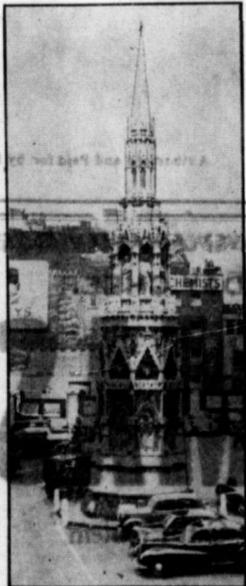

Remember, adolescence is not just a meaningless series of trials and tribulations that young people and parents have to go through. Whatever your particular teenager's behavior, his response in this critical period are the result and outgrowth of his earlier years.

Adolescence is a testing ground for life; it offers the youngster the chance to try out whatever training you've consciously or unconsciously given him in developing his social and emotional traits. And practically, you can't change his traits—you must accept him as he is.

The role for parents is to try and understand their teen-age Sally or Tom. They must come to look upon adolescence as a self-weaning on the part of the young one away from his parents through a new self-direction of his activities. The boy or girl seeks freedom and independence. Their staying out late at night; their using (or abusing) the family car, their studying or not, at their own sweet will, are but inward signs of their striving for independence. And we do want to develop an America or self-reliant, independent individuals, do we not?

To make quick dessert waffles mix a beaten egg with two-thirds cup of buttermilk; add to a cup of gingerbread or ginger cake mix gradually, stirring until smooth each time. Bake on hot greased waffle iron until done. Serve immediately with butterscotch sauce and whipped ice cream.

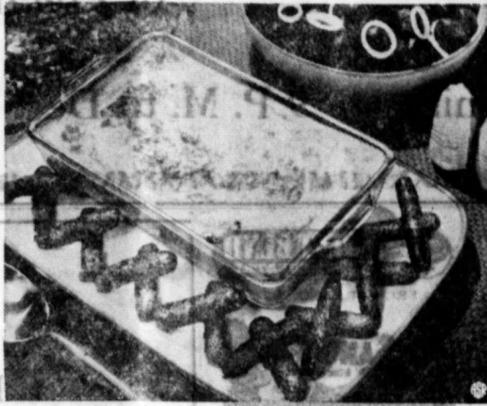

Stocks of grain are at a near-record high this year in the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia, which supply nearly all the cereals and feedgrains moving in world trade.

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

Canned Corn in Harvest Time Treat

A golden corn pudding patch inside a sausage fence is the kind of harvest-time dish that reaps lots of compliments for the cook. Both the pudding, which is made from a can of cream style corn, and the sausage links can be baked together in the oven. Place the sausage links in a shallow baking pan, and put in the oven a half hour before the pudding is done.

Cream style corn, good in puddings, cream soups and souffles, is produced by cutting off the top portions of the kernels and scraping the remainder from the cob to produce a rich creamy mixture. Since the cooking is done after the corn is sealed in the can, flavor and nutritive values are kept intact.

Corn Patch Pudding

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 1-pound can cream style corn
- 2 eggs, well beaten

Melt butter, add flour, salt and sugar. Stir to a smooth paste. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in corn and well-beaten eggs. Pour into greased casserole 6x10-inches and place in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 1 hour or until set. Serve with sausage links arranged criss-cross around pudding.

YIELD: 4 servings.

By Betty Ann

The vogue for hip hugging lounging pants has really caught on with teen agers. And no wonder. The style is particularly becoming to their lithe forms, says Betty Ann.

But if your figure is not typical of your group, do reconsider before purchasing a pair. Resolve either to get rid of excess fat or stick to less form fitting outfits.

Of course, it is hoped that the former is your decision. Once you get going, you won't find the exercises too bothersome. And when you have shed these inches and can slip into the slinkiest of trousers, you will have happy proof of the value of self-discipline.

Since posture causes prominent buttocks, before starting other exercises do this: Stand straight and squeeze buttock muscles together, pushing hips forward. Learn to walk while holding muscles taut in this manner. They will gradually assume the flattened position naturally.

Touching the floor with your hands without bending your knees will help to slim thighs and buttocks. Do it slowly.

The old rocking chair exercise is also good. Sit with feet crossed, hands on knees and rock back and forth on hips.

Just because you've put your shoes back on now that the sands have cooled, doesn't mean your feet still aren't one of the most important parts of your anatomy. Out of sight, they should be as healthy, pretty and comfortable as they were in your barefoot sandals last summer.

Feet take a pounding every day, and each night they should have a little pampering. If you have calluses, for example, ward them away with a pumice stone when you bathe. Glide it over the calluses every day and watch them disappear. The systematic use of a creamy lotion will go a long way in coaxing rough heels back to a smooth finish.

Use a brush on your feet to stimulate circulation and discourage red patches, forerunners of corns. In cutting toenails, be sure to cut the straight across and never shorter than the flesh at the end of the toes. Ignore shoes which are too narrow across the vamp and you'll never have an ingrown toenail.

Help prevent athlete's foot by thoroughly drying feet after bathing. Ringworm infection thrives on moisture. Discourage perspiration by sprinkling deodorant talc on the feet after your bath or shower.

Pecan Roll Cookies
One-half cup butter, 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar, unsifted; 1/4 teaspoon vanilla; 1/2 teaspoon almond extract; 1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour; 1/2 cup chopped pecans; whole pecan halves.
Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar and beat until creamy and fluffy. Stir in flavorings. Add flour in several portions, beating after each addition. Add nuts. Shape small portions of dough into rolls about 2 inches long and one-half inch in diameter. Press a pecan half on the top of each cookie. Bake on buttered cookie sheet in a moderate oven 350 degrees, 10 to 15 minutes. While hot sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Cool on cake racks. Makes two and one-half to three dozen cookies.

Orange Coconut Pie
One unbaked nine inch pastry crust; 1 package coconut fudge mix; 3 large eggs; 1 teaspoon grated orange rind; 1/2 cup orange juice; 1/4 cup melted butter; 1/4 cup pecan halves.
Prepare pie crust from your own recipe or from packaged pie crust mix. Put fudge mix into bowl. Add eggs, grated orange rind, orange juice and melted butter. Beat with rotary beater until thoroughly blended. Stir in pecan halves. Pour into unbaked crust. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes until filling is set. Cool. Serve with whipped cream. Serves 8 to 10.

About Your Home

By FRANCES DELL
The holly is a favorite winter decoration. It is associated with Christmas and all the festive occasions during the Yuletide season. This coupled with its sparkling beauty, makes it the most popular evergreen in most sections of the country.

Holly is especially adaptable as a hedge and will thrive in either sun or shade. In fact, holly will remain more nearly uniform in color and texture than any other hedge, except perhaps the yew.

Besides being beautiful, a holly hedge can be a source of income. If you have ever bought a sprig of holly at Christmas time in a large city, you know how much each small branch is worth.

The only hard part of growing holly is establishing it. This can be made easier if you use plenty of oak leafmold when planting. You should add more every two years and keep a blanket of oak leafmold over the roots at all times.

Chemical fertilizers should not be used on hollies. No food, other than oak leafmold should be given unless growth seems slight and color somewhat light. If this condition occurs, use cottonseed meal and tobacco in early spring or fall or both times.

Cultivate sparingly. Don't worry about soil. Holly grows equally well in sand, gravel, clay or rock. The most important thing to remember is to use lots of oak leafmold, and give the plant plenty of water. A good watering once a week, until the plant is established, is most necessary.

Cleanser Deodorizes, Sanitizes

This housewife cleans refrigerator with new cleanser that sanitizes and deodorizes.

"MAN'S BEST FRIEND" INDEED

On his farm near Hewitt the sleeve of Martin Dahl's jacket caught in the corn picker. With hand and forearm mangled he pulled back and partially stalled the machine. But how to get free? Mr. Dahl called his faithful dog, never far away, indicated by signs and speech what he wanted. The dog went to work with a will and chewed the sleeve fabric to a point where Mr. Dahl could jerk free of the menace.

GUEST MEALS come often in the weeks ahead with many supper parties and friends "dropping in." Developing a specialty dish will make fall and winter entertaining easy and successful. Why not try a barbecue pork roast?

A luscious barbecue sauce brings out the best in most meats—pork, beef, or chicken. "A Jewel" of a sauce is made with condensed tomato soup, onion, garlic, vinegar and other seasonings. Since pork is in good supply, this is a fine time of year to cook a pork roast—barbecue style.

A big beautiful pork roast, fixed barbecue style, brings cheers from everyone, cowboy to school-boy. The sharp-rich barbecue sauce can be rounded up in a hurry. It's a blend of tomato soup and lively seasonings.

Brown potatoes in the oven while the roast is cooking. And about supper time, you can toss a green salad. Finish the meal with a dessert of apple pie and cheese. (With the pie made ahead of time—you will be a relaxed hostess and among happy guests.)

Over-Barbecued Pork
1 pound pork loin (1 1/2 cups) condense tomato soup
1/2 cup finely chopped onion 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup finely chopped celery 2 tablespoons ketchup or vinegar
1 clove garlic 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1/2 cup brown sugar 4 drops Tabasco sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard

Place pork in a shallow pan and roast in a slow oven (325° F.) for 2 hours. Combine remaining ingredients for sauce; mix well and pour over roast. Continue cooking for 1 1/2 hours, basting frequently. Serve hot barbecue sauce over pork slices. Makes 8 servings.

Jesus Christ Came Into Our World To Save Sinners

By EDNA MILES

GETTING the house clean faster each morning is the aim of every housewife. Usually, the starting point for the morning cleanup is the bathroom. Wet towels, scattered powder and spattered tile make for complete disorder.

One of the newest aids in getting the bathroom slick and shiny in no time is a smooth, white cleanser that turns golden when it's wet. With this sudsing cleanser, the housewife can banish bathtub rings and bacteria quickly and effectively.

When she proceeds to the kitchen, she'll find this cleanser removes grease faster, dispels food odors that cling to the hands, splatters, stains and food preparation surfaces.

She can, in fact, test it by rubbing her hands with the cut surface of an onion, shaking cleanser over hands, rinsing and sniffing at hands. She'll find the odor gone.

The housewife in a hurry will find that this cleanser works equally well in hot or cold water, in hard or soft water. It's easy on the hands, has a fresh, clean smell.

For weekly cleanings, it can be used when you're cleaning out the refrigerator.

Cicadas Bed Down For Next 17 Years

On lawns, in woodlands, along highway edges from Vermont to Georgia and west to the Mississippi, billions of tiny, wormlike creatures late this summer tumbled to the ground from the tips of twigs where they were hatched.

Each gray larva, no more than one-twentieth of an inch long, has buried itself in the soil. Some are only a foot below the surface. Others may be still digging and will go down to ten or even twenty feet.

When each feels that it is deep enough to be safe from the frost, it will hollow out a little cave—perhaps a quarter of an inch across—next to the root of a tree. The cave will be its storehouse, for the juice of tree roots is the pap of baby cicadas or "17-year locusts."

The larva will grow; it may even move to another root; and it will shed its skin several times before next it sees the light of day—on a soft May morning in 1970!

Suspended Drama

Thus, with the new generation of Brood Ten—the Great Brood—of periodic cicadas put to bed, one of Nature's longest and strangest dramas of the insect world rings down the curtain. There will be revivals, as there have been from time immemorial, but there are never more than six revivals in a century.

The 1953 appearance of the locusts, hatched from eggs laid in 1936, came off as scheduled. Last May, stirred by some mysterious signal, as many as 40,000 cicada nymphs entered from the ground to the night under a single large oak tree. Stealthily, they moved to the nearest bush or tree and started to climb. Some reached the high limbs but more got only part way up when the need for one last shedding of the skin seized them.

Clinging to the bark with their lobsterlike claws, the immature cicadas pulsed rhythmically. The old skins soon split down the back and out crawled the full grown 17-year locusts. By morning, the creamy-white creature had turned dark. Their eyes were red as fire. Their metallic wings—with the characteristic black W at the base which the superstitious say foretells war—were dry and ready for flight.

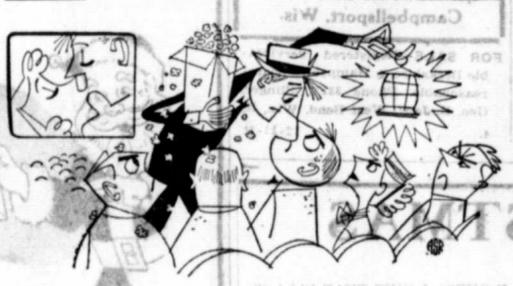

Sound of Drums

The abdominal drums sported by the males were ready to begin their tireless sounding of four quite distinct notes—the prolonged burr, the "Ph-a-a-roah" which reminded the Pilgrim Fathers of the locust plagues of Egypt, the low continuous purr, and the loud squawk of surprise or fright.

And presently, after a brief season of clumsy flying and frolic, the silent females were ready to lay their 400 to 600 eggs. With single-minded purpose, they sought out the tender limb-tips of their favorite trees—oak, hickory, apple and peach. With their sharp, two-edged ovipositors they made a series of gashes in the twig and laid ten to twenty white eggs in each small gash. Exhausted from their labors, they fell to the ground or water, food for birds, and squirrels or fish.

Now as summer's end, the eggs laid last May and June have hatched. Earth itself will shelter and nourish the young while a generation of men moves and passes above them. And when Spring comes in 1970, there will be for the Great Brood of periodic cicadas a not inglorious resurrection.

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

Need A Lantern?

No matter how you see it—vitamin A has eye appeal. It plays a role in keeping eyes and skin healthy. Lack of this vitamin produces night blindness.

The victim of night blindness is the motorist who in the twilight strains to see approaching traffic, or the theatre-goer who upon coming into the dimly lit movie from the bright foyer gropes blindly for his seat. This difficulty in seeing in dim light or adapting to darkness is the most clear-cut effect of the lack of vitamin A. Night blindness is a dietary disease. It can be cured by eating foods rich in this vitamin.

The role of this vitamin is also skin deep. Too little vitamin A may cause dryness, itching and scalding of the skin over the entire body. Shortly after this vitamin was discovered, it was thought to have some effect on control of colds and respiratory infections. Research, however, has failed to show that fewer colds occur among persons receiving supplements of vitamin A than among those persons who eat a well-balanced diet.

For an A plus diet, eat plenty of liver, milk, eggs and green and yellow vegetables. Table fats contribute vitamin A, too. The generously buttered slice of enriched bread offers a tasty way in which to get important parts of an adequate diet—needed vitamin A from the fat. Vitamins, minerals and protein from the bread, and energy from both. Vitamin A, as such, does not occur in plants, but is present in the form of a brilliant yellow substance—carotene. Yes, this carotene paints the carrot orange, and carotene received its name from this vegetable. The body produces vitamin A from carotene. Vitamin A is a fat soluble vitamin and needs the help of a digestible fat for its absorption. Fish liver oils have long been known as rich sources of vitamin A. However, it is manufactured extensively in the laboratory today.

A constant flow of new inventions, and an ever-adequate supply of petroleum are both essential to our national defense. National Patent Council believes the depletion allowance granted to the petroleum industry is justified by increased petroleum discovery and production which has inspired. The Council is now asking Congress for a patent depletion allowance on income from patents as a similar incentive to inventors and investors to keep America ahead in its struggle for survival. The Council points out that patent income becomes totally depleted when the patent expires at the end of 17 years from date of issue—and that the invention, as always, may be made obsolete by a better one at any time.

Bible Comment: Jesus Christ Came Into Our World To Save Sinners

CHRIST JESUS came into the world to save sinners of whom I am chief," wrote Paul to Timothy in 1 Timothy. When Paul called himself the chief of sinners he was probably remembering his days as a persecutor, holding the garments of those who stoned Stephen to death and breathing out threatening and slaughter against those of the new-found faith.

No such dark blot of violence may be upon us. But if we say we have no sin, as John reminds us, the truth is not in us. So Jesus came into the world to save us, and He died for us. In what spirit, then, do we approach those last sad scenes in the life of our Lord, His death and burial? Are they to us only tragic events in a far-off past?

All that is well, but it is not enough. Are we mere observers or are we participants? A Negro spiritual asks pointedly, "Were you there when they crucified my Lord? And there is more than plaintive melody in that challenging question."

We know how Paul would have answered it. The experiences of Jesus as He moved toward Calvary, was crucified, buried and rose again were so real to the Apostle that he wrote: "I am crucified with Christ; nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me, and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loveth me."

That is the perfection of faith and of Christian experiences, to which, possibly, few of us attain. We are so content to follow the Master afar off, but too often we lack the courage of the faith that we profess.

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

From the end of October through November, your chances of catching a really big musky or pike are at least 25 times better than in summer. Maybe even 50. Fishing now does not call for special skill nor a knowledge of how to find good spots because the fish are ranging widely, seeking all the food they can find.

Usually water of about six to 12 feet deep is the best bet now, and trolling anywhere within these depths you are likely to pick one up. Give special attention to the neighborhood of reefs, small islands and towards the ends of long points.

You won't need any special tackle but be sure your line is in good condition. The test line to use depends largely on your experience in handling big fish and on how cool-headed you are when things happen suddenly. Among guides and other experienced anglers, 20-pound-test is about standard for musky and large pike. On a reel that has a drag, this test line will do for anybody. But the less experienced man whose reel has no drag should use heavier. Use a wire leader. If you're casting, eight inches is enough, but you can use slightly longer when trolling.

Some anglers think that for these big fish you don't need a lure much larger than moderate bass size. Discussing this in Sports Afield magazine, Jason Lucas says that this time of year when they're feeding so ravenously, he prefers to offer them a pretty good mouthful.

Nearly all agree that a shiny spoon is best at most times—but should it be spinning or wobbling, with feathers or bucktails, and if with the latter, what color? I don't think it matters much just so it has reasonably good action of some sort. Carry along a good-sized plug for the times they don't seem to want a spoon. Lucas suggests one of a slimmer fish shape and with pike-scale finish. Some lures of this type are finished in the middle and some aren't. It doesn't matter which you use, just so it runs moderately deep.

Keep your hooks sharp—these fish have hard mouths. Set the hook well by several hard tugs. And here's the secret of being practically certain to land any large fish that's well hooked: having pulled quite hard in setting the hook, never again during the battle put on that much pressure. Then the line can't break or the hook straighten.

A French cook knife with an almost straight cutting edge is excellent for mincing vegetables, and for cutting sandwiches. It can also be used for carving.

Handy Jim's FIXIN-UP TIPS For Farm and Home

Make Your Own Puzzle
THE handyman with a jigsaw will find it enjoyable to make map puzzles. Here's how to do it: Obtain a colored map of the country to be "puzzled." A good starter is the U. S. A. Now cut two pieces of Masonite 1/4" Preswood so their widths and lengths are an inch greater than the dimensions of the map. To one panel glue the map securely. Next jigsaw the map along the political subdivisions. When the sawing is completed, there will be the individual pieces, plus an overall outline in the rectangular Preswood. To start the sawing operation, it is necessary first to drill a hole in the panel large enough to admit the blade at one of the boundary lines.

Take the outline remaining from the panel which has been jigsawed and glue it to the other piece of Preswood. You then will have a backed-up frame for the puzzle. It's a good idea to bore a small finger-hole through the backing panel so that a piece of the puzzle may be pushed out when you want to disassemble the pieces.

Apply a coat of clear lacquer so that the puzzle may be cleaned easily.

As the family becomes adept at fitting together a puzzle cut along the boundary lines of the map, the puzzling feature can be increased by making the pieces of odd shapes without regard for boundaries.

Learning geography by the jigsaw puzzle method is fun for the whole family, and the knowledge gained is important in today's divided world.

YELLOWTAIL
© 1953 National Wildlife Federation

It is not surprising that a description name such as Yellowtail should be applied to more than one fish. The commonest application is to members of the genus Lutjanus, which genus covers broadly a group of fishes known as the Red Snappers but including also a number of other "snappers."

In the Caribbean area the name "Yellowtail" is applied to a fish which is in general red but darker above and silvery beneath but shows a number of lighter streaks. The tail of course is yellow and in young animals the iris is a bright yellow. This fish Lutjanus vivanus may be called the Silk Snapper or Pargo de lo Alto. It is found most commonly in the West Indies area where it feeds on the bottom and assumes a muddy taste. In spite of this it is found in the markets of the area. It reaches a weight of 40 pounds.

On our West Coast the counterpart of this Yellowtail is probably the Yellowtail Snapper, Lutjanus argentiventris, which is found from the Gulf of California south to Ecuador being most abundant probably in the Panama area. The fore part of this fish is rose colored and the rear is yellow. A group of blue spots below the eye may form a streak of varying definition. This fish reaches a length of 2 feet.

Ranging from Florida south to Brazil in the Atlantic is a fish commonly called Yellowtail that is commonly under a foot in length. This is the fish we show in our illustration. It is a blue gray in general color and shows lines and spots of yellow. The fins as they show in the colored stamp issued by the National Wildlife Federation in 1953 are yellow. The tail is deeply forked and the top of the head is devoid of scales. There are some yellow spots on the upper half of the body. This fish is Ocyurus chrysurus. Since it is relatively common near shore in inlets and lagoons and since it feeds night or day near the surface or at considerable depths and since it is frequently abundant, it is a popular fish with sportsmen. This fish should not be confused with the California Yellowtail, Seriola dorsalis, which is featured as a marine game fish in so much of our literature of the outdoors.

The California Yellowtail ranges from Central California to Baja, California and into the Gulf of California. It is rare north of Point Conception. It occurs in schools and when a sport fisherman gets into such a school with suitable bait and tackle he has a real holiday. I listened to one fisherman down in Mexico tell of such an experience last fall in a way that made my mouth water. The California Yellowtail weighs to 80 pounds and may reach a length of nearly 5 feet in size. This makes Westerners scoff at Easterners when it comes to talking about Yellowtail. In 1951 this fish was the 12th in value and volume in California's commercial fisheries. This catch, taken for the most part in Mexican waters, is landed usually at San Diego or Los Angeles and most of the fish reach the cannery. The color is metallic blue to green above, silvery beneath with a brassy horizontal stripe and a yellowish green tail.

The National Wildlife Federation through articles such as this tries to help you appreciate that a common name such as Yellowtail should be recognized as being

Casterets Rescue Was Relief To "Cave Men"

Speleologists, a group who breathe sighs of relief this summer when Norbert Casteret, after anxious hours, was brought safely out of the earth's deepest known cave, the 2,395-foot Lepineux cavern near Pierre St. Martin in the western Pyrenees on the Franco-Spanish border.

M. Casteret is a French speleologist—cave explorer and expert well known in this country through translations of his books, and for illustrated articles published in the National Geographic Magazine.

The first National Geographic Magazine story by M. Casteret, printed in August, 1924, announced the finding near the French village of Montespan in the central Pyrenees, of the world's oldest statues. Clay figures of long extinct animals, they were molded by Cro-Magnon men and had lain hidden for at least 20,000 years in a pitch black cave. Casteret reached only by diving at great risk through a flooded tunnel.

Another article appeared in March, 1953, and described the awesome ice caves of the Pyrenees, galleries filled with glacier ice that may have been formed in the dawn of time. Nine thousand feet up in the mountains, "Casteret Grotto" and others the explorer found near it are the highest known ice caves.

Speleology has long been a recognized science. In addition to establishing purely sporting records, speleologists have done valuable work in geology, anthropology, biology, and geography. They have aided hydroelectric engineers and influenced international relations.

Found Garonne Source
When Spain planned to divert a subterranean river into an electric generating plant, these daring men explored underground to prove their theory that the stream was the source of the important Garonne River in France. Diversions might have curtailed the Garonne's flow and affected the whole economy of its valley.

In Mammoth Cave, Kentucky and Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico, the United States has respectively the largest and second largest caves thus far discovered. Like most big caves everywhere, they were formed by the dissolving action of slightly acid water upon limestone.

In the United States, cave hobbyists call themselves "spelunkers." No claustrophobes need apply for membership in their societies, for a true spelunker thinks little of crawling long distances through passages so narrow that movement is only possible while his crawler's breath is exhaled.

For icy calm in such a passage, M. Casteret furnished the classic example. He had a head-on encounter with an irate badger, a creature with dangerous teeth and claws. Avoiding the panic that might have tightened his muscles and wedged him in the tunnel, the speleologist, coolly backed out as fast as he could, leaving the badger in full charge of the passage.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK — Happenings in the far-off kingdom of Saudi Arabia may postpone the showdown on petroleum imports which threatens to pit the large world-wide American refining companies against the smaller domestic producers whose only wells are in this country.

King Ibn Saud, who died a week ago, left his once-turbulent realm to Emir Saud, one of his 40 sons, with the Emir Faisal, another son, as "crown" prince. This leaves 38 sons, any one of a dozen of whom might become the center for a revolution. Because the Western world is looking on it is unlikely there will be a massacre such as once served to remove such possible foci of unrest.

Returning employes of Arabian-American Oil, whose wells provided Ibn Saud's fabulous income, have reported over the last year that no fewer than five factions in the kingdom have told the oil company they were taking over when the king died. Each warned the oil men against lining up with one of the rival factions.

If trouble does break out, it will provide a good opportunity to close down the Arabian wells, stop pouring more crude into a saturated market and take the heat off President Eisenhower regarding controls on imports.

PRECEDENT-BREAKER—Sometimes flouting tradition awards in a merchandising way as spectacular as in sports, styles or staging.

When Schenley Distributors, Inc., began weighing the idea of packaging its best seller, Schenley Reserve, in a gift decanter, two objections sprang to every one's mind. First, decanters cost so much more—for glass, labels, stopper and cartons—that no one ever had been able to "afford" them for use in the popular-price field. Second, decanters are a big Christmas seller, but no one ever heard of their being bought in September, October or November.

The bolder spirits at Schenley had their way, however, and the decanter package, at no advance in price, went on sale in September. Results? Excellent! While no distiller had ever sold more than 125,000 cases of a whiskey in a decanter in any season, Schenley passed the 125,000 mark in a month and marched on toward the biggest fall season in the brand's history.

THINGS TO COME—A little late for the current season, a junior football helmet of acetate plastic, with a lining of leather-covered foam rubber, can be had in your Little League's head size. . . . A photo-flash battery to fit the Continental flash-guns becoming popular in this country is being imported. . . . A new slide projector claims to be so well cooled that slides can be left in projecting position overnight. . . . Plywood with one layer of wire reinforcing, strong but still capable of being cut with a saw, is being tested on the West Coast.

TIMELY REMINDER—With the decline in government sponsored shipping, which required that 50 per cent of foreign-aid cargoes be carried in American ships, a Senator sounds a timely warning:

"The beneficiaries of a strong national maritime policy are not solely the ship owners and operators . . . but all the people of all the states, for every single region in this country contributes to and shares in the benefits which flow from the construction, the maintenance, and the operation of our merchant fleet."

The speaker was Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, addressing the Robert L. Hague Merchant Marine Industries Post of the American Legion in New York City.

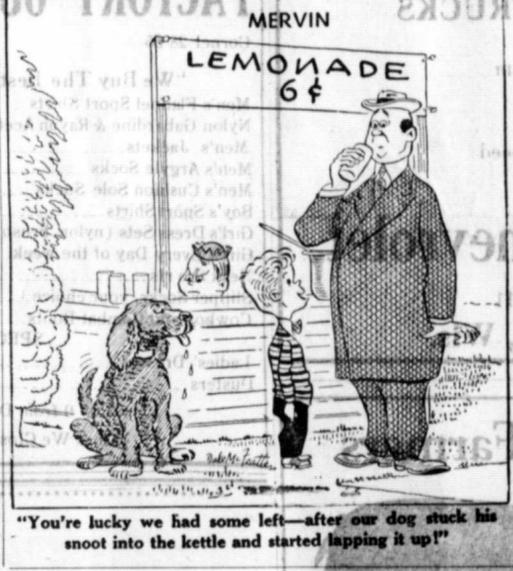

OFF, BUT STILL GOOD—Factory layoffs have been rising since mid-year from the low rate of late 1952 and early 1953, the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Commerce reports. Manufacturing firms let out workers during September at a rate of 15 per thousand employed, compared with 13 per thousand in August. Hiring rate was 40 per thousand employed in September; 43 in August.

Added layoffs were more marked in the durable goods industries group, said the Bureau. Automobile makers, machinery plants, and primary metal refiners were particularly mentioned.

Even so, the rate of separations remains remarkably low by any standard except that of the postwar boom.
