15 Persons Injured in 3 Accidents

Ten persons, most of them members of two families, were injured and taken to the hospital early Sunday afternoon following a two-car crash at County Trunks S and G in the town of Auburn, known as Bauman's Curve, about two miles northeast of Kewaskum.

Taken to St. Joseph's Community hospital, West Bend, were Burnham Grider, 44, of Hales Corners, one of the drivers, and members of his family, Betty, his wife, 41; Jennifer, 17; Bruce, 13; and Jon, 9; Floyd S. Tremier, 62, of Milwaukee, and members of his family, Joe, 14; Mary Beth, 10; and Brian, 8, and another passenger in his car, Bernadine Orliński, 30, of Milwaukee. Grider was removed to the hospital in the Kewaskum firemen's ambulance.

Investigating Officer Miles Rahn of Fond du Lac county said that all were treated for miscellaneous cuts and bruises. He reported that the 12:15 p. m. accident Sunday took place when Tremier entered the intersection in the path of Grider's auto.

A West Bend girl and two Menomonee Falls youths were hospitalized early Monday evening with assorted serious injuries suffered in a one-car rollover on County Trunk S, a mile north of New Fane.

Taken to St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, in the Kewaskum ambulance were Randy A. Lindgren, 18, of Menomonee Falls, the driver; Christopher Becker, 18, also of Menomonee Falls, and Miss Janice Bertin, 16, of West Bend. Police said Lindgren suffered lacerations, Becker a possible skull fracture and Miss Bertin a skull fracture, cuts and bruises.

Officer Dan Sondergard of Fond du Lac county, who investigated, said Lindgren's car left the road on a sharp curve at about 6:55 p. m. Monday. The auto plunged down an embankment and rolled over several times in a field.

In an accident at 11:32 p. m. on Saturday on Hwy. 28, about one-half mile west of the Kettle Moraine drive and two miles east of Kewaskum, injuries were sustained by two persons.

Injured were James Backhaus, 18, of R. 2, Kewaskum, scalp lacerations and a bruised right arm, and Nancy Bullette, 15, Kewaskum, bruised right knee and bump on the head. They were passengers in a car driven by Mark A. Schaefer, 17, 1143 Bilgo Lane, Kewaskum. Both were taken to St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend.

According to the Washington county sheriff's office, the mishap took place when the car driven by Schaefer, heading west on Hwy. 28, came around a right hand curve and met a car in his lane heading east. Schaefer took to the ditch on the north side of the highway to avoid a collision. He then lost control of his vehicle, which rolled over and landed on its top, facing north. The Schaefer auto was then struck by a car driven by Russell P. Waldron, 39, of Theresa. Waldron was uninjured.

2 Local Students Attend Red Cross Leadership Meet

JEFF REIGLE AND JEFF SCHLEIF AT GREEN LAKE

In addition to gaining much background on Red Cross programs, 113 high school delegates at the youth leadership training center held at Green Lake, Aug. 21-25, had ample experience in practicing leadership skills and learning what leadership entails.

As one of their exercises in judging what leadership requires, delegates were polled about the qualities they felt are vital for leaders. Heading the list of seven leadership requirements was honesty. Initiative and enthusiasm were close second and third requisites followed by intelligence, cooperation, decisiveness and experience.

When asked about the occupations of leaders in their home communities, delegates answered that clergymen and teachers topped others.

On the national scene respondents listed the president of the United States on 45% of the surveys as evidencing best leadership skills. Another 30% of the youth surveyed felt that government leaders — mayors, senators, governors — exemplified true leadership.

On the agenda for the balance of the week were small craft and first aid demonstrations plus more "talk and think" sessions to give the going Red Cross delegates additional chances to stretch their leadership abilities.

PRESSED FLOWER PICTURES

Linda dries and presses flowers from her summer garden to make pictures which help her keep her garden all winter.

Linda likes summertime and finds that a good way to stretch summer into winter is to dry and press the flowers from her garden and make them into pictures. With these on the walls of her bedroom, she can dream of last summer's garden and next summer's garden with no trouble at all.

Linda waits until the middle of the day, when the sun has dried the dew, to pick the flowers she intends to dry. She removes the leaves from the stems, because they do not dry well at all, and places the flowers between layers of paper toweling, coaxing them to lay flat as she does so.

On top of the flattened flowers she places one or two big, thick books. These weigh enough so that they press the flowers flat, if they are left on top of the blooms for a day or two.

By that time the flowers are also partly dry. After removing the books, Linda moves the paper towels with the pressed flowers on them to a safe place and lets them dry for a week more. Then she's ready to make pictures.

A frame, perhaps from the dime store, perhaps from an old picture that no one wants, a piece of cardboard that fits into the frame, some glue, a piece of cloth or paper for a background, and the flowers are all that Linda needs to make pictures.

She arranges the flowers on the background cloth or paper to form bouquet, using spike flowers or grasses at the top and rounded flowers nearer the bottom.

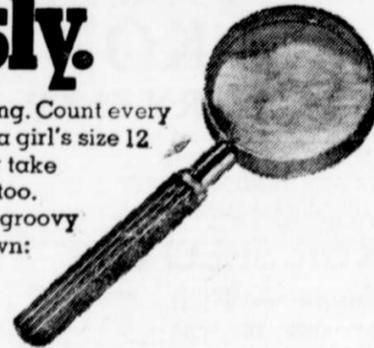

When she has them arranged as she likes, she lifts them, one by one, and puts tiny dabs of glue underneath where the stems were, then replaces them one by one, pressing each onto the glue.

After the glue has dried, she slides the cardboard backing under the picture, places the frame with its glass over the picture and cardboard, then turning the whole thing upside down, she uses little nails called brads to hold the picture in place.

Linda loves to look at her pressed flower pictures and her friends ask her to make some for them. Wouldn't you like to try making them too?

Conservation practices on which ASCS provides cost-sharing with federal funds were shown such as tree planting, wild-life ponds, drainage ditches, sod waterways, diversion terraces, strip-cropping and erosion control. Also areas and fields preserved under various production control programs were pointed out.

The noon hour was enjoyed with a picnic dinner near the wild-life pond on the George F. Nehrbass farm. A short program followed with some remarks by the following: John Hansen, ASCS district farmer fieldman; George F. Nehrbass, ASC county chairman; Donald Sampson, county ASCS office manager; Harold Ryan, soil conservationist; Maurice Hovland, county agricultural agent, and Jack Hammen, forester.

It was pointed out that we all have a stake in conservation of the land, water, wild-life, and forest resources. Cost-sharing ranging from 50% to 80% of the costs is provided through ASCS as an incentive to carry out various practices. Such requests can be made by any agricultural producer and must be made before starting the practice. Soil conservation and forestry service give the necessary technical help and give the recommendations. The ASCS payments are made when the practice is complete and approved.

Why A New University Center In Washington County?

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of three articles providing background information on the UW Center System and the new Washington County Center to be built near West Bend. The new dean of the University Center campus arrives in West Bend Sept. 1.)

When the new University of Wisconsin Washington County Center opens its doors in September 1968, West Bend will join eleven other Wisconsin communities as participants in "the most important development in American higher education in the past quarter century."

This is the description the Carnegie Corporation once gave to two-year colleges in the Wall Street Journal.

The new Washington County Center, a freshman-sophomore branch campus of the University of Wisconsin, will educate a capacity 350 students in a three building construction plan estimated at a cost of $1,353,000.

Of this total, $235,000 has been promised by the federal government under provisions of the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963. The act allows a maximum of 40% of total construction costs to be paid by the federal government.

The University Center in West Bend and another new center in Baraboo, also opening in September 1968, will bring the total university centers in the state to 13. Predicted enrollment for the 11 existing centers for the 1967-68 academic year is 6,905. Approximately 25% of U. S. college freshmen are enrolled in two-year schools. In California the proportion reaches 70% and in Florida, over 50%.

Noting these statistics the National Education Association terms the two-year and branch campus movement "the most spectacular growth phenomenon on the education scene."

In the Wisconsin Center System the university at Madison provides equipment, faculty and educational programming. The local government — city, county or both — provides land and buildings, plus paying the annual heat, power and light and half of the custodial costs.

Plans for the University Center in West Bend call for three buildings. One building will house a 20,000 volume library, a language laboratory and three classrooms. The instructional building will include a number of laboratories, classrooms, a science lecture unit and offices for faculty, administration and counseling.

A dining area, lounge, activities unit and music-lecture theater with seating for 250-270 will make up the third building. Total area of the buildings will be 57,300 square feet.

The center site is just west of West Bend city limits. Located near the northern half of the Kettle Moraine State Forest, the 87-acre site was described as "spectacularly beautiful" by the Center System Chancellor L. H. Adolphson.

Why was West Bend chosen as the location for another branch of the university's expanding "Third Campus?"

The West Bend site was among several selected on the basis of a school population study. Criterion for site selection was an annual high school graduating population of 1,000 to 1,250 within 29 miles of the proposed center. In the year studied, 1964, high school graduates within 20 miles of West Bend numbered 1,678, well above the minimum.

During one five-year period, 1957-1962, Washington county high school graduates increased 32% and those in neighboring Ozaukee county went up 67%.

The Wisconsin educational plan expects to have a publicly supported two-year (or higher) college within commuting distance of 95% of the state's high school graduates in the next ten years. The projection meets and surpasses the aims of President Johnson's Commission on National Goals which stated that "two year colleges should be within commuting distances of most high school graduates."

State higher educational institutions in Wisconsin include the University of Wisconsin at Madison, the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, nine state universities, the existing eleven University Centers and the two new centers planned for Baraboo and West Bend.

The United States Office of Education has declared that "for sheer effect and impact, the two-year college is one of the most significant developments in post secondary education in this century. And it has yet to achieve its full impact." With educational opportunity expanding in the ways outlined for University Centers like Washington county, that "full impact" is coming closer in Wisconsin.

(The second article of the Washington County Center series will concentrate on the new dean of the center, Dr. Harry J. Maxwell. Dr. Maxwell will arrive in West Bend to begin center organizational work Sept. 1.)

Board Approves Curb and Gutter, Sewer, Water Bids

Adjourned Meeting August 14, 1967
The Village Board of Kewaskum, Washington County, Wisconsin, met in adjourned session with President Tessar presiding and all board members present except Trustee Kral.

Sealed bids for the construction of approximately 3,000 feet of curb and gutter were opened, read aloud and tabulated as follows:

M R Construction, West Bend	$2.20 per foot
Sommers Construction, Shiocton	$2.40 per foot
Klitzke & Felton, Black Creek	$2.41 per foot
J. N. Daul Construction, Kaukauna	$2.63 per foot

All bids were tabled pending verification by the engineering firm.

Informal quotation from Harold Mueller, Campbellsport, and Gabe's Construction, Sheboygan, for the installation of sewer and water mains in the newly annexed areas were also reviewed by the board. These quotations could not be tabulated because of questions which arose concerning some of the items omitted in the quotations and make their recommendation to the Village Board.

The application of William Knop of West Bend for an operator's license was approved upon motion by Trustee Freehauf, seconded by Trustee Herriges and duly carried and the commissioner was authorized to issue the proper license upon payment of the required fee.

Upon motion made, seconded and duly carried, the board adjourned subject to call.

at 5:00 p. m. at the Municipal Building with President Tessar presiding and all board members present.

Upon motion by Trustee Yoost, seconded by Trustee Freehauf and duly carried, the board approved the letting of the contract for the construction of approximately 3,000 feet of curb and gutter to the M R Construction Company on their low bid of $2.20 per lineal foot.

The board reviewed the computation of McMahon Associates of the informal quotations for the installation of sewer and water mains as specified in McMahon's letter dated August 8, 1967. These computations were tabulated as follows:

Gabe's Construction, Sheboygan, Wis.	$8,075.60
Harold Mueller, Campbellsport, Wis.	$9,066.74

The board, upon motion by Trustee Kral, seconded by Trustee Yoost and duly carried, authorized the letting of the contract for this work to the apparent low bidder, Gabe's Construction.

Upon motion made, seconded and duly carried, the board adjourned subject to call.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Miss Tillie Mayer, Kewaskum, who was a patient at St. Joseph's Community hospital, West Bend, since July 18 when she suffered a fractured leg in a fall at her home, moved to the Heritage Nursing Home at Port Washington Saturday. Her address is: Miss Tillie Mayer, Heritage Nursing Home, 1119 N. Wisconsin st., Port Washington 53074.

SPRING SONG

Snowdrops, one of the earliest of the bulbs that bloom in spring, should be planted in early autumn; set 2 inches deep.

Large-flowered crocuses bloom with or after snowdrops, come in bright yellow, lavender, purple, white or striped.

The earlier a bulb blooms in spring, the earlier it should be planted in fall. This means it's time now to order snowdrop and crocus bulbs to plant next month. For they are the first of the bulbs that will make your garden sing "Spring is here."

There are now giant-size snowdrops available that will look like a white veil in your garden if planted in quantity. These bulbs are so inexpensive that you can afford to plant dozens of them. Crocuses, too, are cheap enough so anyone can buy a hundred bulbs without straining the budget.

Neither of these are bulbs to plant in rows, like prim hyacinths; they're bulbs that soon will form colonies, so they should be set where they can spread. Place them under trees or in odd corners of your yard, anywhere that they can remain undisturbed for years.

Of course you want them to look natural and the way to do this is to first roughly outline the area in which you are going to plant with a line on the ground, made by finger or trowel. Within that area, toss a handful of either bulb into the air and plant the bulbs where they fall.

Neither kind needs to be planted deeply. If you are setting them in a lawn area, realizing that you then cannot mow the grass until their leaves have browned, just tip back sod with a narrow trowel, insert a bulb into the hole, and replace the sod. In a cleared area, set crocuses only an inch deep, snowdrops two inches.

While snowdrops have only one flower color—white, with more or less green on the tips of the petals, crocuses come in several colors: white, bright yellow, lavender, purple and striped (purple and white). You can mix colors or use separate hues to create color schemes, just as it suits your taste.

But one thing is certain—you won't have the blooms in your garden next spring unless you plant the bulbs this fall.

SEMI-FINALISTS IN CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT

The Hon-E-Kor Tuesday Night Men's league ended for the season Tuesday. Cain's Clobberers are the new champions for 1967. Runner-up position goes to Bill's Slicers and No. 3 spot to the Wild Ones.

The men's club championship tournament is now underway with the first two matches played last weekend. Quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals will be played this coming weekend and all finals will be completed by Labor Day Monday. Losers in tournament play are eliminated in each match.

have not completed their quarter-final match to date.

Swat fest was quite an experience. A twenty-foursome started off tee No. 1. High score was eliminated after each hole. Everyone golfed so well that only one player at a time was eliminated at the first three holes. Thereafter the drop-outs grew in number. Lila Stahl emerged the winner. A trophy to Lila!

Luncheon was an hour late because it did look more like an Easter egg hunt than a golf course. Did you ever see 22 ladies walking down the fairway singing "Happy Birthday?" The gals were consoling Doris Sippy for being eliminated on No. 2.

Class event for the day was for the longest drives on No. 4. Winners were: A. Marion Lane; B. Marie Wietor; C. Margaret Mehring; D. Janet Koch; E. Gertie Backhaus. Janet Koch sank her approach shot on No. 7.

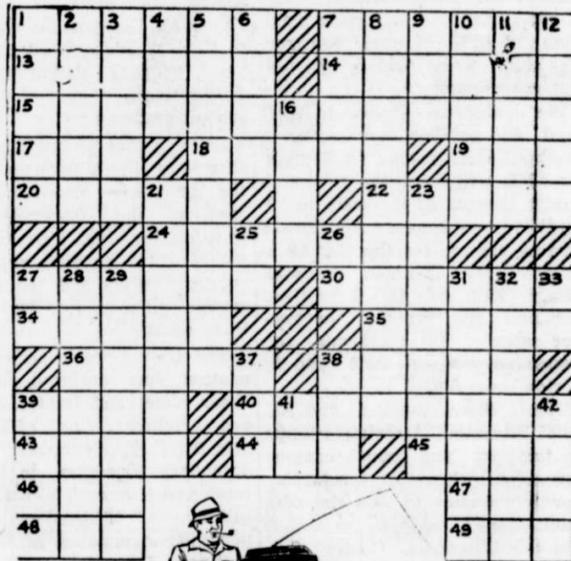

Bridge scores were: Joyce Coughlin, 3760; Doris Sippy, 3,700; Eleanor Fellenz, 3,330, and Frances Rohlinger, 2,920.

Hon-E-Kor ladies participated in monkey foursome. Each lady carried only one club and all four played the one ball. Winners of the event were: 5 iron, Joyce Gruber; 7 iron, Joan Eggers; 3 wood, Joan Dricken, and putter, Paula Hron.

Bridge winners were Adeline Tessar, Ruth Held, Eleanor Marx, Lou Kerry and Marge Zehren.

Congressman Steiger attended the Washington County Fair, Port Washington Fish Day celebration, Cedar Grove Holland Day and the Random Lake Firemen's parade all in one day. Sure glad we don't have to pay him by the mile.
