Dave's Music Center of Kewaskum invites you to a Hammond organ concert to be held on Wednesday, April 1, at 8 p. m. in the Kewaskum High School auditorium.

It will feature the sounds and skills of the bright young professional, John Seng. Regardless of musical taste, you will be amazed at the range of Seng's repertoire on a variety of new Hammond organs from the classics to honky-tonk, big band arrangements, Latin beat and the sounds of the seventies.

Seng has perfected his entertaining style with more than a million miles of performances throughout the country. A frequent TV performer Seng has recorded with many top vocalists. The sponsor of the concert, Dave's Music Center, invites all music enthusiasts to attend. This is the first appearance in this area of Seng, who is well known throughout the music industry. Don't miss it.

by Ruth Held of the Kewaskum Statesman

Bids for an 80 by 140 foot insulated metal municipal garage were opened at a special meeting of the village board Monday night. Apparent low bids for general construction, heating, plumbing, ventilating and electrical work totaled $77,300, which is lower than board members had anticipated.

There were 11 bids for general construction. They ranged from $61,778 to $81,200. Four bids for heating, plumbing and ventilating ranged from $10,552 to $19,850. Five firms turned in bids for the electrical contract with bids from $4,970 to $7,895.

The garage to be built just north of the village sewage treatment plant will contain storage and office areas.

Bids were opened by James Elder of Stone and Robinson, consulting engineers of Brookfield. No immediate action was taken, pending study of the bids. Contracts will be awarded at a special meeting of the board next Monday night.

In other action, the board authorized purchase of a PH electric meter at a cost of $189 for use by the sewage department in testing hydrogen ions.

In a closed session that preceded the bid opening, board members interviewed and approved rehiring of Tom Larsen as director of the summer recreation program and hiring of Miss Kathy Ahl and John Breaker as swimming instructors and life guards. All three are teachers in the Kewaskum Schools system. Salaries were not disclosed.

He "bent ears" as he added, "We Americans are the most save-minded people and then warned those guilty, to clean out medicine cabinets and get rid of pills that are not being used or put them out of reach. The youth of Washington county are playing games. They are cleaning out medicine cabinets and taking pills to school and trading them."

He said, "There is nothing worse than to see someone 'freaked out' on drugs and remarked the best weapon against drug abuse is education — discussion and open questions from the audience."

Woman's Club Told "Handwriting Tattles on You"; Elects New Officers

Members of the Kewaskum Woman's Club were told that "your handwriting tattles on you" when a program titled "Graphoanalysis—the 'Write' Approach" was presented at their Saturday afternoon meeting.

"Handwriting is sort of like an X-ray—it reveals more than what is shown on the surface," Mrs. Jean Friedel of West Bend told her audience. Completion of a course in graphoanalysis at the International Graphoanalysis Society of Chicago taught her that 120 different traits can be checked through one's handwriting, the speaker said.

None of us, she indicated, was reared "perfectly" and traits developed in rearing are revealed in handwriting. One's fears and defenses show up. One's handwriting is as uniquely individual as his fingerprints, Mrs. Friedel said.

The speaker emphasized that graphoanalysis, though not 100 percent accurate, is based on thoroughly tested and researched theories. It is not occult, not mystic and not related to the pseudo-scientific and it is not to be confused with machines that offer a handwriting analysis that specify "for amusement only." Based on 50 years of research, graphology can help you understand yourself and others, she noted.

The first book on graphology was written in the 1600's, according to Mrs. Friedel and in the first century, Nero, the Roman Emperor, banished one of his court because he had treacherous looking handwriting, she noted. Since then, it has been used by such persons as Dr. Albert Schweitzer. It is offered in some colleges in the psychology curriculum, is used by psychologists, by personnel directors and in counseling.

Graphoanalysts are employed on a full-time basis by many concerns in Germany and Sweden, she pointed out.

The slant of one's writing, in varying degrees, indicates one's responses to others, Mrs. Friedel said. Right slants indicate the writer "responds to appeals from the heart." Left slants would show more self-centeredness than an interest in others and often an ulterior motive design. Those traits can be, she indicated, cancelled out by others, however.

How one crosses the "t" is most revealing, the group learned. A low "t" bar would indicate fear of failure and consequent setting of low goals; a "way above" bar—a day dreamer; a "t" bar that slants upward—an optimist; a bar that ends at the left side of the "t" stem—a procrastinator and a bar that begins at the stem and extends to the right of it indicates temper.

A short "t" stem indicates individuality; a long stem, vanity; a long sweeping bar across two "t's" as in the word "traits," suggests enthusiasm. The writer who makes his "t's" with a loop to resemble an "l" possesses imagination and a sensitivity to work. "The wider the loop, the more sensitive," the speaker said.

A "light line" writer would be the type who would, for instance, if jilted, forget it while the person with the heavier line would be more deeply impressed for a long time and be more prejudiced," Mrs. Friedel stated.

Four or five paragraphs written on different days and on unlined paper using a pen or pencil "he prefers" is needed for a graphoanalysis. Mrs. Friedel was introduced by Mrs. Gerald Stoffel.

Mrs. Wilmer Falk was elected president of the Kewaskum Woman's Club at its Saturday meeting. Mrs. Ralph Rømmel was chosen first vice president; Mrs. Gerald Stoffel, second vice president; Mrs. Herman Panzer, Jr., secretary, and Mrs. Ervin Seifert, treasurer. The new officers will assume two-year terms in September.

A major item on the business agenda was approval of some changes in the rules governing the club's annual $100 scholarship grant. Rules in effect since the inception of the scholarship in 1954 specified it be awarded to a Kewaskum High School graduate in pursuit of a teaching profession with re-application rights in the second, third and fourth years of college, if satisfactory grades were maintained.

Under revised rules, the stipend is available to a high school senior headed for any college or university in any field of study. There are no re-application rights. Each year the scholarship will be awarded to a new applicant. Members voted to commit the club for one $100 grant and a possible second one of equal value if funds so warrant. It was noted that the primary purpose of a woman's club is not to raise money. Scholarship, need and character are the criteria for selecting the recipient.

The table collection was designated for the Easter Seal Society. Hostesses were Mrs. Oscar Hirsig and Mrs. Mervin Thompson who chose a St. Patrick's Day theme for the tea table.

A political prisoner in Cuba, about to be executed, was blindfolded. The captain of the execution squad asked him if he wanted a cigarette.

"No, thank you," said the prisoner, "I'm trying to quit."

Ambulance Calls

Saturday, March 14, 5 p. m.—Bernard Kuper, 442 2nd St., Hartford, removed to St. Joseph's Community Hospital, West Bend, with injuries suffered in an auto accident on CTH H east of Wayne.

Tuesday, March 17, 5:15 p. m.—Robert Gloede, Campbellsport, removed from Regal Ware, Inc. plant to St. Joseph's Community Hospital.

At 2:04 p. m. last Thursday the West Bend fire department rescue squad was called to Weasler Engineering on Hwy. 45 south of Kewaskum when an employee, Ronald Sarauer, 25, of 130A Prospect Ave., Kewaskum, suffered a right hand injury in an industrial accident. ## SECONDARY THOUGHTS

By the Staff of Kewaskum Community High School

THE GUIDANCE FUNCTION

By Ernest Mitchell

Guidance Departments are relatively new in high schools and were not part of the school when most parents of our present high school students attended. Many different jobs fall into the area of this department and a clear definition of its purpose might be difficult. Perhaps a simple definition might say that the chief purpose of guidance is to give the individual student whatever help he needs at any point in his development. The Guidance Counselor is called a counselor because his primary function is to counsel with individual students and teachers.

Guidance Counselors are responsible for accumulating all of the student's record and keeping it up to date. This includes grades, attendance, test results, school problems and school activities and achievement among other things. These records of course can give the counselor a more knowledgeable look at a student and enable him to help the student get a better look at himself. The guidance function might be classified into three general areas: Educational Guidance, Vocational Guidance, and Personal Guidance. These areas do overlap as they involve specific students and it becomes difficult to categorize counseling as belonging to one particular area. These areas can, however, be used to more simply define the guidance function in a school.

One of the first experiences the entering high school student and his parents have with the Guidance Department comes shortly before the new student enters high school. A great effort is made to explain the subject offerings available and to furnish guidelines by which parent and student can select the proper course for their son or daughter. The first two days of school, orientation meetings to provide an introduction to high school are planned for entering freshmen each fall. After school begins, all students are scheduled for individual conferences with a Guidance Counselor to discuss the student's schedule, his future education plans, his vocational interests, and any other school problems. At this time all students are encouraged to schedule themselves for a conference with the Guidance Counselor whenever he feels the need for it.

Vocational Guidance must necessarily be closely related to Educational Guidance and counselors begin early to help students plan for the work they expect to do when they become adults. Information on college, Vocational-Technical school and all other post high school educational institutions is available in the library corner and in the Guidance Office. The student's high school program is planned with future job preferences in mind and many counseling interviews are used to help students plan their future.

Most students turn to their Guidance Counselor not only with problems of an educational or vocational nature, but also with problems of a personal nature. The counselor does not have answers for all student problems, but he does have the time and the techniques required to assist individual students in working out solutions to personal problems. Counselors use all of the information they have concerning a student and try to get him to take a clear look at himself and the problem. Possible solutions are discussed but the final solution to the student's problem must rest with him. Helping students make a good self-evaluation is a very important part of guidance because it helps them to make realistic and mature judgments and better adjustments to problem situations.

In summary, we might say that the guidance function is to individualize the school program by offering counseling on a student to counselor basis in an attempt to help each individual student get the best possible education at Kewaskum High School.

"You look tired."
"I am. I've been all over town trying to get something for my husband."
"Had any offers?"

tion in France. Mrs. Schlosser is the former Ruth Runte of this village. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dettmann of Boltonville also received a telegram informing them their son, Pvt. Vernon, was wounded in action in Germany.

A card was received by the editor from a Kewaskum High School graduate of 1930 and a former resident of Beechwood, Andy O'Connell, who now lives at Greenbelt, Md. Andy, who often stayed in this village while attending high school, subscribed for the Statesman and writes in part: "I have often wondered about the trend of current happenings in the haunts of my KHS days. Though quite a few years have elapsed since that time, I believe I'd find numerous moments of enjoyable reading of the activities of many of my former associates. Best wishes to you and the rest of my KHS friends.

Village, Other Communities Issued Stronger Pollution Orders by State

17 AREA COMMUNITIES, COMPANIES ON MILWAUKEE RIVER RECEIVE ORDERS

Twelve villages, two cities and three industries in the upper Milwaukee river watershed have received amended anti-pollution orders, the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) said this week.

West Bend and Cedarburg are the cities. The villages are Adell, Butler, Campbellsport, Fredonia, Germantown, Grafton, Jackson, Kewaskum, Menomonee Falls, Random Lake, Saukville and Thiensville. Federal Foods at Thiensville, Foremost Foods at Adell, and the Kiekhaefer-Mercury plant at Cedarburg also received orders.

All 17 communities and companies were ordered in June, 1968, to begin work on new or improved facilities for treatment of domestic sewage or industrial wastes. At that time, the requirements were in line with recommendations of the Lake Michigan Enforcement conference and with state water quality standards. The conference has since issued new and stronger recommendations, as follows:

- All effluents discharged into surface waters in the Lake Michigan basin must have secondary bio-mechanical treatment, or its equivalent, by December 1972.

- Municipalities and industries with a population equivalent of 2,500 or more (8,750 pounds of phosphorous per year) shall remove 85 percent of the phosphorous entering their treatment facility on an annual basis. DNR reserves the right to order compliance with this provision in any situation where surface waters are being over-fertilized.

- All effluents containing disease-causing organisms or their biological indicators must be continuously disinfected.

- Systems in which storm and sanitary sewers are combined, or which receive large amounts of clear water, must either treat the combined wastes or separate out the storm and clear water, with compliance by July 1977.

Municipalities and companies involved, and the major points in the orders, are as follows:

Village of Adell — Continuous disinfection of effluent by May 31, 1970, and begin use of an existing holding pond by the same date.

Village of Butler — Join the Milwaukee Metropolitan Sewerage District by December, 1972.

Village of Campbellsport — Adequate treatment facilities by Dec. 1, 1972, with elimination of excessive clear water by May 1974 and elimination of sewage bypass outlets by July 1977.

City of Cedarburg — Continuous disinfection by May 31, 1970, and 85 percent phosphorous removal by Dec. 1972.

Federal Foods, Thiensville — Adequate treatment facilities by Dec. 31, 1970.

Foremost Foods, Inc., Adell — Performance study on existing facilities, which do not function adequately, or necessary improvements by Oct. 1, 1970.

Village of Fredonia — Continuous disinfection by May 31, 1970, performance study of existing facilities or improvements for adequate treatment by December 1972.

Village of Germantown — 85 percent phosphorous removed by Dec. 1972, adequate treatment by June 1971.

Village of Grafton — 85 percent phosphorous removal by Dec. 1972, continuous disinfection by May 31, 1970, eliminate clear water or treat it by December 1972, and eliminate sewage bypass outlets by July 1977.

Village of Jackson — Continuous disinfection by May 31, 1970, and adequate treatment by Jan. 1, 1972.

Village of Kewaskum — Continuous disinfection by May 31, 1970, adequate treatment by December 1972, and enforcement of existing ordinances to keep industrial wastes from entering the storm sewer system.

Kiekhaefer-Mercury, Cedarburg — Eliminate discharge of oils and wastes to Cedar creek by July 1, 1970, and discharge of colored materials by Dec. 1, 1970.

Village of Menomonee Falls — Adequate treatment to include 85 percent phosphorous removal, by December 1972, or join the Milwaukee Metropolitan Sewerage District by Dec. 31, 1972.

Village of Random Lake — Continuous disinfection by May 31, 1970, adequate treatment by December, 1972.

Village of Saukville — Continuous disinfection by May 31, 1970.

Village of Thiensville — Continuous disinfection by May 31, 1970; adequate treatment to include 85 percent phosphorous removal by December 1972; elimination or treatment of clear water by December 1972, and elimination of bypass outlets by July 1977.

CITY OF WEST BEND — Adequate treatment to include 85 percent phosphorous removal, elimination of clear water or its adequate treatment, all by December 1972.

In most cases, the companies and communities must submit, to DNR, annual reports outlining progress made toward satisfaction of these requirements, beginning next Nov. 1.

Commissioner on Aging to Meet With Area Sr. Citizens

Congressman William A. Steiger this week announced that U. S. Commissioner on Aging John B. Martin will conduct a fact-finding tour of Sixth District senior citizen facilities on Friday, March 20. Martin's tour is being made at Steiger's invitation.

The 1971 White House Conference on Aging will be launched this year during preparations for Senior Citizens Month in May, 1970.

Wisconsin's participation in the White House Conference begins on Friday when Commissioner Martin, will visit senior citizen facilities at Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Campbellsport and West Bend.

Commissioner Martin is the highest ranking federal official on programs and projects for older Americans. The purpose of the visit is to offer opportunities to senior citizens to express their opinion on the needs of elder people.

Martin's visit will provide a chance for those most immediately concerned to suggest the subject areas which should be discussed at the White House Conference. The fact-finding mission is also designed to allow area senior citizens to estimate their own role in helping to improve and make life more satisfying in the later years.

Commissioner Martin will meet with Fond du Lac area senior citizens at 10 a. m. Friday, at Rosalind Apartments, 15 North Marr St., Fond du Lac.

West Bend area senior citizens are invited to discuss their ideas and suggestions with Commissioner Martin at the West Bend Senior Citizens Center, 401 East Washington, at 2 p. m. Friday.

Martin will be at the Campbellsport Senior Citizens Center, Village Hall, at 3:30 p. m., Friday to meet with Campbellsport and Kewaskum area senior citizens, and answer questions. The public is invited.

At 8 a. m. Friday, Martin is meeting with Oshkosh and Winnebago County senior citizens for coffee at the Bethel Home, 225 North Eagles St., Oshkosh.

A soldier turned to his bunkmate, a young private. "Hey! Did you borrow my toothpaste?" he asked.

"No," replied the other, "I don't need no toothpaste. My teeth ain't loose."

Drive carefully.
