Christie said she will have eight years of school, plus residency before she officially becomes a neurologist.

While the work at the collegiate level will obviously be more difficult than high school, the two are accustomed to responding to pressure and have figured out how to achieve goals, which will be the central theme of their talk.

"It's just mainly looking toward the future," Butler said, indicating they will tell their classmates to be themselves and "be confident. We are starting over, but we all should go for it (goal)."

Christie agreed and said being in the Student Council has helped her prepare for the future, giving her leadership opportunities which are

The family of late Trustee Robert Stoltzmann received an official Proclamation and much praise for Stoltzmann's 10 years of service to the Village of Kewaskum at the Village Board meeting, Monday. Stoltzmann died in May after a short battle with cancer.

Stoltzmann's wife, Bonnie, daughter Sue (Phil) and sons, Paul, and Scott (Terry) were presented with a framed Proclamation of appreciation for Stoltzmann's dedicated service and compassion for the community.

"It captures our sense of loss as a community," said Village President, Matt Heiser.

After a moment of silence, Stoltzmann's family was also presented with a plaque from the Mid-Moraine Municipal Association, of which Stoltzmann was a member and a plaque bearing Stoltzmann's nameplate from the Village Board.

"We worked with Bob together in this room.... We saw him sitting here behind this nameplate," said Heiser. "I hope you realize, as a lot of people do, when you look at this, you had to sacrifice time away from your

After four years of attending classes, listening to their teachers and absorbing all the materials presented to them, Erica Christie and Megan Butler are finally going to get their chance to talk.

As two of the eight Kewaskum High School valedictorians, they have been selected as the class speakers for Saturday's graduation ceremony, which will take place beginning at 1 p.m. in the school's field house.

Christie and Butler were chosen over the other perfect 4.0s because they won the J. O. Reigle Scholarships. Both are looking at this opportunity very seriously and admit it was a goal as their days in high school progressed.

"We've all been hoping for it, but we all get along really well," Christie said, indicating five of the eight attended Holy Trinity Catholic School together before coming to KHS.

Butler said she had a few anxious moments keeping her string of As going. "Math is my sore class, but somehow I worked it out," she said.

"Working it out" is something both these young women know something about. It is part of their past successes and will be part of their future endeavors, which include studying at the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

"I'm probably going to study education," Butler said. "I'm not sure what I will teach, maybe English or history" at the high school level.

Medicine is where Christie wants to go. Her undergraduate plans include a possible double major in neuroscience and Spanish, and after that medical school.

After a little quick addition,

She stated that she thought that possibly the paper carrier had unintentionally hit the mirror with the Sunday Journal Sentinel.

The officer closed the complaint believing that there was no criminal intent in this case.

On May 17, the Kewaskum liaison officer was advised by the high school assistant principal of a student that had been kicked out of class for swearing and refusing to follow directions.

cused of doing something he didn't do and got mad. He then swore at the teacher.

The student was issued a citation for disorderly conduct as well as a three day out of school suspension.

On May 17, Kewaskum Police were dispatched to Kewaskum Mobil for a shoplifter.

The complainant had two boys with her and stated that she thought the oldest boy took items on Friday and today she observed him putting items in his backpack. She stated that she didn't believe the younger boy was involved. The younger boy did tell her that the older boy admitted to him that he had stolen the items.

The officer advised those in attendance that he would be returning with a PBT since the renters of the apartment were not of legal age and the use of alcohol was apparent.

One of the individuals was of age, but the others were not so they were issued citations for underage alcohol consumption. The renters of the apartment were also issued citations for permitting underage consumption.

Boltonville Church Dedicated as County Landmark

Norbert Dettmann, a resident of Boltonville and the Vice Chairman of the Landmarks Commission reads the plaque placed on the Boltonville Church.

A group of about 20 people gathered Saturday at the Boltonville Church as it, along with three other properties in Washington County, were dedicated as a historical landmark.

Norbert Dettmann, Vice chair of the Landmarks Commission for Washington County and Boltonville historian, addressed the attendees and gave the history of the property. Below is the history of the church as recorded in the new Boltonville Sesquicentennial book that is available for purchase at the Boltonville Sesquicentennial celebration on Saturday and Sunday, June 26 & 27.

The Protestant Church of Boltonville

The Yankee settlers of Boltonville did not have a local church until a special meeting was called in 1872. "In pursuance of a call the citizens of the Village of Boltonville and vicinity met at the hall of H. Bolton & Co. for the purpose of organizing an association to build a church in the Village of Boltonville on this the 22nd day of February 1872. E.A. Duncan was the chairman of this meetig and A. Wescott secretary.

The following resolution was presented and adopted:

RESOLVED: That we form an association for the building of a church in the Village of Boltonviee under the name of the Freewill Baptist Soceity of Boltonville with the express understanding that Orthodox denominations have the privilege of holding religious service in said church when not occupied by the said Freewill Baptist Society and not to infringe on their stated hours of worship.

This was the inital meeting that resulted in the Diesterhaupt brick building that still stands on the half-acre site on Scenic Drive that was donatd by George Lussenden.

During a recent renovation in 1990 by the present congregation a glimpse of the original interior decoration of these enterprising yankee settlers of 1872 was caught. The embossed tin that had been put over the fallin plaster in 1905 was removed and a beautiful forest green interior with stenciling at the top of the walls all around the room was seen. In the center of the north wall was a decaled, pillared archway with stenciled entering "God is Loce" and "Peace Be Within Thy Walls." Along with potbellied stoves for heat this is what greeted their first pastor, Rev. Dwight Moulton in 1872.

The first organ was purchased in 1883 from Mr. Regner of West Bend. The bell in the church steeple was purchased in 1888 for over $300. The original spire on the steeple was damaged by wind and lowered to its present height. Sixt-two members paid subscriptions to build the original building, but by 1900 the Yankees moved on and the church stood empty.

In 1905 the remaining German population under the leadership of Andrew Kraetsch started the Deutschen Evangelical Johannes Gemeinde. The first minister was Rev. Barth of Fillmore. In 1952 the English speaking portion of this congregation decided to split off and join the Zion United Brethren in Batavia. Two years later, known as St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church, the building was renovated. Ministers were shared with Fillmore, Random Lake, Beechwood and Silver Creek as the United Church of Christ denomination.

As of now, the present congregation has merged with St. John UCC, Beechwood and St. Paul UCC, Silver Creek, sharing one pastor, Rev. Robert Seater of West Bend. Interestingly, his ancestral roots reach back to the Thomas Goodman family of early Boltonville.

Boltonville Sesquicentennial Committee Escorts Abe

Abraham Lincoln, portrayed by Bob Rotgers of Menomonee Falls, visited the three elementary schools in the Kewaskum school district on June 3rd. His first-person story telling was enthusiastically received by students and teachers alike. Vivid descriptions of Abe's childhood adventures and family life fascinated the listeners. He chronologically traveled thru the 16th President of the United State's political life and delivered a touching reading of his Gettysburg Address. Abraham Lincoln will appear at the Boltonville Sesquicentennial (150th) celebration on both Saturday, June 26th and Sunday, June 27th at 1:00 P.M. and 2:00 P.M. The public is encouraged to come to Boltonville to hear Mr. Lincoln and to attend the other events planned for the two day celebration. Shown above, left to right, are Ann Enright, Abraham Lincoln portrayed by Bob Rotgers, Cathy Weinreich and Gail Klassen, members of the events committee for the Boltonville Sesquicentennial. Village Board Meets hope you realize, as a lot of people do, when you look at this, you had to sacrifice time away from your husband, your dad...working for the Village."

The emotional presentation is proof that Stoltzmann's service to the village will not be forgotten.

In other business, Fire Chief, Mark Groeschel reported the ambulance calls for May were at a record high. He reported the fire department responded to two fire calls, four with the Jaws of Life, 45 ambulance runs and 49 transports. He said 31 of the 45 ambulance runs were in the Village. "I don't ever remember having that many in one month," Groeschel said. "That's a record." Groeschel said on average, the fire department responds to 23 - 25 ambulance calls per month.

"Thank everybody for their hard work," Heiser said.

Jerry Gilles, Director of Public Works presented a review to the Village Board on the 2003 Water Quality Report. Gilles said a copy of the report is available at the Village Hall.

Gilles also gave an update on the Storm Water. "We've not done anything with sump pump notification," he said. "But, don't flood your neighbor." He said sump pumps should not be emptied into the sanitary sewer because it could cause a backup. Gilles said no major problems have been reported, however if overflow problems did occur they would most likely be from homes built before 1962, which are directly linked to the sanitary sewer. He said new development would not be to blame for any sewer overflow.

Dan Schmidt, Village Administrator added that the Village is currently at 53 percent of capacity, averaging 400,000 gallons a day at the plant, which can hold 750,000.

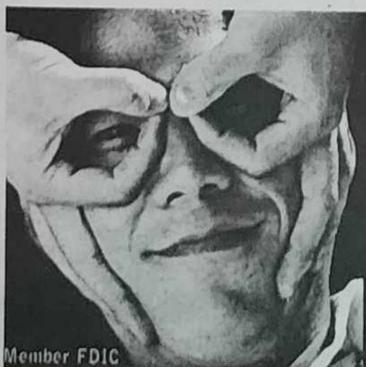

With safety in mind, the Village Board approved to place two permanent stop signs on Stark Street at the intersection of Wil-A-Be Lane. "The biggest problem is the cars," said Police Chief Richard Knoebel. "When you drive 25 in a residential, that's fast. That's what you drive on Main Street."

Trustee Kevin Scheunemann disagreed with making the stop signs permanent. "I'm not a fan of putting in something permanent to fix a temporary problem," he said. "The day you take the stop signs down and there is an accident, it's a liability," Knoebel said. "It's a possible liability for the Village."

"I don't like to be guided by fear of law suits," Scheunemann said, "So, I'm going to vote against it." And he did. However, it was passed 5 - 1.

At the end of the meeting, Scheunemann asked that a discussion regarding the function of the Economic Development Advisory Committee be put on the agenda in the next few months. Schmidt suggested the EDAC be discussed at a board meeting in early fall.

LeMahieu to Seek Second Term in Assembly

Rep. Daniel LeMahieu

State Representative Daniel LeMahieu (Oostburg) announced recently he will seek a second term to represent the 59th Assembly District in Madison. The 59th Assembly District covers parts of Washington, Fond du Lac, Dodge, Ozaukee and Sheboygan Counties.

"It has been a privilege to serve the residents of this district in Madison the past two years," said LeMahieu. "I have been able to work on a number of issues for my constituents and was able to pass three bills that were signed by Governor Doyle during my first term."

Most notable was a bill that brought $13 million of additional federal money into Wisconsin for county nursing homes. Nearly $3 million of that money ended up in the counties in the 59th Assembly District.

"I was also able to work on ideas that would have changed the shared revenue formula to better serve rural areas and legislation that would have brought changes to the medication/arbitration laws that tie the hands of local governments when they try to control their costs. Those efforts were vetoed by Gov. Doyle," said LeMahieu.

"We accomplished a lot this session but a lot of work still needs to be done. The challenges include more job creation, improving our tax climate and the high cost of health insurance."

"I look forward to representing the 59th Assembly District for another two years addressing these challenges and continuing the work I started this term."

Rep LeMahieu serves on four committees of the Assembly: Urban and Local Affairs (Vice Chairman), Aging and Long Term Care, Small Business and Rural Development.

If you have any concerns or questions for Rep. LeMahieu call toll-free 1-888-534-0059, 920-564-3392 (Oostburg) or email at Rep.LeMahieu@legis.state.wi.us.

Chief of Police Orders Extra Enforcement in Construction Area

Kewaskum Police officer Tom Bauer patrols the Riverview Drive construction area. Drivers have been using the closed road making it difficult for construction crews.

By Andrew Kuehl
STATESMAN MANAGING EDITOR
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman.com

Kewaskum's Police Chief, Richard Knoebel remembers a time when "Road Closed" signs meant the road was closed. According to him, area drivers aren't taking heed to signs placed at the northern and southern ends of Riverview Drive.

The village embarked on a large construction project this past May. This project has closed Riverview Drive from Werner Drive to Main Street in the village.

A detour was provided for drivers and village officials did their best to provide maps and signs. This newspaper printed the map for residents.

After an accident late Tuesday morning Knoebel decided he needed to do something more to get people off the road. He has ordered officers to enforce the road more heavily and issue citations for those who do not obey the signs.

According to Knoebel no one was injured in the crash that occurred after a dump truck backed into a car that was following it.

Many of the drivers who have been obeying the signs have made up their own little detour of Werner Drive, through the Homestead Hollow subdivision and onto Stark Street. Drivers' speed has been a concern there and Knoebel says officers will be providing radar enforcement there as well.

Lastly, Knoebel asks drivers to leave the road signs in place.

Habitat for Humanity of Washington County is a non-profit, ecumenical housing ministry with the mission of eliminating poverty housing in Washington County by making decent housing a matter of conscience. Houses are constructed primarily by volunteers, using both donated and purchased materials.

Families are selected on the basis of need, ability to purchase a home, and willingness to contribute their hours of labor. Habitat homeowners live, work and pay property taxes in Washington County.

Bike Northwoods Tour to Make Stop in Kewaskum

BY JUDY HARLOW
STATESMAN CORRESPONDENT
jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

According to signs on both ends of the community, the official population of Kewaskum is listed at 3,274, but come the night of Tuesday, June 22, that number will increase to approximately 3,700.

The boost in the total will come because 400 bicycle riders will be cruising into town sometime during the afternoon and will either pitch a tent on the Kewaskum High football field or find a place to bed down in the gymnasium.

The cyclists are part of the Bike Northwoods Tour, and among the regulars on the tour in recent years is Dave Drexler, veteran industrial technology teacher and coach at the middle school and high school.

"This year, they're starting at Baraboo," Drexler said recently, reporting from its start on June 20th, the route heads to Waupaca, then to Waupun, and finally Kewaskum on the third night of the scheduled week-long trek.

"We're averaging 65-70 miles per day," Drexler went on, noting the cyclists will take off Wednesday morning and move on to the next stop, Manitowoc and finally Kewaskum. The final destination is Sturgeon Bay, with an optional extra day in Door County.

The Bike Northwoods Tour started out as a fund raiser, according to Drexler, who said currently it is under the direction of the Bike Federation of Wisconsin, but the cyclists do not necessarily have to be member of the organization to participate.

A husband-wife team from Madison, Eric and Kathy Schramm, are in charge of organizing the trip. Several years ago, they were interested in raising money for the Federation, so under their company called Two Bicycles and A Map LTD, they organized a ride called Northwoods to Capitol Town in 1998.

In addition to this ride, they have put together a couple additional rides that go to Europe. One of them takes place in France, according to Drexler, who reported, "I went over there last year ... It was just fantastic!" Drexler said one of the days, the group was able to watch the final leg of the Tour de France, and he said it was a great thrill to see Lance Armstrong ride into Paris.

Back to this year's event, Drexler said while the cyclists stay in a community, they support local businesses and service organizations who take the opportunity to serve food or sell them souvenirs.

"The Booster Club is going to be serving a dinner. There will be 250-300 people they will feed," Drexler said, indicating the riders appreciate being able to purchase a good dinner at a reasonable price.

Some of the communities make money by having scouting groups transport the riders' luggage from the group's truck to the camping side for $2 apiece or offering an evening campfire with musical talent or story telling for a nominal fee.

As a friendly welcome, some communities have lined the road into their towns with signs that say, "Three miles to the shower."

As a little bit of incentive, the tour offers the "Best Overnight Town Contest," with the town or city with the friendliest welcome for the cyclists winning a free bicycle rack from DERO valued at $250. The riders vote on which community earns the title for providing the best overnight.

Getting in shape for a tour of this length takes some preparation and roadwork, and Drexler said, "I haven't gotten in a lot of riding with coaching (middle school track), but I will be ready to go."

The groups ranges in age from 10 to 74 with the average age 38-45, according to Drexler, who said, "It's a sight-seeing tour ... You have a lot of family groups that will go."

This year's tour will travel through some very beautiful portions of Wisconsin, including Devils Lake State Park, the Horicon Marsh National Wildlife Refuge and the Kettle Moraine State Forest. On the final legs of the tour, the riders will get good looks at some of Lake Michigan's finest beaches.

Some people use the tour as part of their vacation. "It's a way of getting away," Drexler said, indicating any people who want more information on the tour can contact him by calling (262) 626-8427.

Bike Northwoods Tour also has its own website at www.BikeNorthwoods.com.

Molenda, an art teacher from Kewaskum Middle School was recently named a Herb Kohl Educational Foundation fellow. Molenda is one

Every semester the juniors and seniors in Mrs. Carol Martin's child development classes put what they learn about dealing with children to practice as they host community preschoolers at the high school. This semester 27 area children came to what was to many, their first preschool experience and the high schoolers were determined to make that experience a positive one. They succeeded because "school" for the children didn't start until 10 but Jack Paul (son of Mike and Karen Paul) was ready to go at 8:30. His mom, Karen, tried to explain that he had to wait until 10, but Jack announced that he was just going anyway and would "sit on the steps and wait for them to open." The "teachers" also shared in his enthusiasm as they prepared activities age-appropriate for the children.

Kim Krogman, Amanda Magnus, Kayla McCormack, Karen Ott, Zach Potter, Nicole Sabish, Melissa Schmidt, Nicole Thull, Jamie Treptow, Beth Vogt, Luann Zander and Hannah Zapf.

Next school year the classes will be hosting a winter session held in December and January and another session for second semester in May. If any parent wishes to enroll their child, please call Mrs. Martin at the high school at 262-626-8427, ext. 4104 once school starts or watch for enrollment information in the Statesman.

of only 100 teachers to receive this recognition and both Molenda and Kewaskum Middle School will be awarded a $1,000 grant.

A selection committee chose fellowship recipients based on their ability to inspire a love of learning in students, motivation skills and for their leadership and service inside and outside of the classroom. Molenda uses a Harvard-based student-directed learning model called Arts PROPEL. She has been a teacher at Kewaskum Middle School for eight years, and has 20 years of teaching experience in the Milwaukee area.

"I'm a crazy idealist," Molenda said. "I make a big deal out of reviewing their own work."

In an Arts PROPEL classroom, students approach the art form along three crisscrossing pathways including production--students are inspired to learn the basic skills and principles of the art form by putting their ideas into music, words, or visual form; perception--students study works of art to understand the kinds of choices artists make and to see connections between their own and others' work; reflection--students assess their work according to personal goals and standards of excellence in the field.

Molenda said Arts Propel is very personalized "There is an ongoing dialog with the students."

"They have ownership of this. The artwork that kids do should be important to them. It should be real in their world," she said. From gardens to gargoyles, paints to plants, Molenda's passion for teaching is designed to open the minds of her students.

For Molenda and her students, their art is real and sometimes living. Molenda and her students have created landscape art on the front lawn of the middle school. Not just, "flowers around the flagpole," Molenda said. Working with UW-Platteville and Mayfield Nursery, Molenda and her students created a landscape design for the entrance of the school. "I'm always talking about being inventive...I said, we're not just going to go planting. We're going to go native."

The kids came up with the plans for the 50 X 150 foot area and presented the idea to the school board. "The kids were very energetic," she said.

Within six years, Molenda and her students have created circled paths, put in benches and even fired up a 30-inch gargoyle, which will catch rainwater and spit out water from its mouth onto clay lily pads. "It's just a riot.... It's a place for kids, and kids like to hang out, so it has to have areas where they can just be hanging out."

Molenda's garden of learning also allows the kids to explore. The student's cook the elderberries in fall, make wreaths out of the red dogwood and wild grapevine to sell and also profit from cards they have made using photos of their flowers. Molenda said the students harvest all of the seeds in fall and have a seed sale. The kids do all of the labeling.

"The kids just get really excited. They have such creative ideas," Molenda said. Molenda has also changed the view of the school, inside, outside and upside-down. She said artwork is displayed throughout the school, on the door to the art room and also on the ceiling in the cafeteria.

"Everybody's art is good," Molenda said. Each student has one piece of art in the schools annual art show. "Everyone is doing their best...It's the process of learning that is so important."

Molenda also shares a lot of herself with her students. Every spring she brings the students to her 24-acre personal paradise where she is very involved in organic gardening, prairie restoration, painting, and bird watching. When Molenda is not teaching, gardening, painting, cooking, traveling or hiking, she also enjoys skiing and is a ski instructor at Sunburst Ski Hill. "I just really enjoy working with the children," Molenda said. "Everything is always new. It's an opportunity for new things to happen, new growth."

The Wisconsin Newspaper Association, Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, Wisconsin Council of Religious and Independent Schools and the Cooperative Educational Service Agencies co-sponsor the Kohl fellowship program.

U.S. Sen. Herb Kohl established the program in 1990. The foundation has since awarded $4.8 million to Wisconsin educators, students and schools.

Arriving at Summit Camp

Nikki tries her hand at snow golf on a fun day.

BY SHERI BALDIKOWSKI
STATESMAN FEATURES EDITOR
sbaldikowski@kewaskumstatesman.com

After spending a night at Kangerlussuaq in Greenland, Nikki Airaudi, left there on Tuesday, April 29th at 9 a.m. arriving at the Summit Camp by 11 a.m. The Summit is not a city, it is a camp located on the highest part (approximately two miles) of the Greenland Ice Cap fairly centrally located on the continent.

The summit is 200 miles from the nearest city and supplies are flown in with the people when they arrive. Tents are pitched in the snow and most sleep in sleeping bags in the tents, while the labs are located in more of a permanent shelter.

Gear was put on a sled attached to a snowmobile and both went right to the "big house" where Nikki met her colleagues. They could not get too much done that day as the wind kicked up and changed one of the warmest days of the year from a minus five degrees to a minus sixty-one degrees with the wind-chill.

Nikki was amazed at what a good job her arctic gear did keeping her warm. Even though the large tent that they slept in was somewhat heated, and the sleeping bag that Vecopolar supplied was designed to work in extreme cold, Nikki had a little trouble falling asleep that first night at camp because the sun doesn't completely set.

On Nikki's first morning, April 21st, she awoke to the sounds of others in the tent moving from one side to the other, pushing on doors, walking around. She sat up and discovered that they were snowed in! Nikki's roommates, Andreas Beyersdorf from UC-Irvine and Donna Sueper from Georgia Institute of Technology, could not get the door open so they were searching for an emergency exit.

They found one, and Andreas climbed out and shoveled out the doorway so they could get out. Now she knew she was definitely at the frozen tundra!

As part of the educational part of this trip, Nikki got to spend time with several of the researchers there on an individual basis experimenting on their particular field of expertise. One day was spent with Barry Lefer, a researcher from The National Center for Atmospheric Research (NCAR) in Boulder, Colorado. Barry's part of the summit project is photochemistry. One of the things he monitors is the level of good ozone in the atmosphere. We need ozone in the stratosphere (second layer of the atmosphere) to protect us from harmful ultraviolet rays from the sun.

There are really three types of ultraviolet rays. They are UVA, UVB, and UVC. You have probably heard of UVA and UVB because those are the rays that sunscreen helps to protect you from. Ozone protects us from some UVA, a little UVB, and all UVC rays. It's a good thing, too, because UVC rays are the strongest, and we'd be fried if the ozone wasn't there!

Barry used an instrument called a photosensor, which measures how much sunlight is making its way to the earth's surface, and, a photometer to measure how many molecules of ozone were present in the atmosphere. What is scary is that if you could take all of the molecules that are protecting us and stack them on top of each other, they would only be as thick as two pennies stacked on top of each other!

It isn't bad though, because that is really all the ozone we need to do the job, it sure makes you think about making sure we take care of the little bit of ozone we do have!

Another day was spent with Mac Cathles, a research assistant for Cold Regions Research and Engineering Laboratory (CRREL), which is a division of the Army Corps of Engineers. With Mac, they first had to dig a 50cm snow pit with a saw as the snow is too tightly packed to use a shovel.

Once the walls were smoothed with the edge of the saw, you could see the layers of snow which included areas of thin ice formed by the sun fusing crystals together. Several samples were then taken of these layers of snow using a special tube which was attached to a drill. Samples were then tested for permeability, which is the ability of the air to flow through the snow.

Working with Jack Dibb and Kelly Bridges from the University of New Hampshire involved yet another aspect of testing. They are studying the acids that exist in our atmosphere. These acids exist in small amounts in Greenland, but in other places, especially in larger cities, they exist in larger amounts.

Small amounts of these acids in our atmosphere are not a bad thing, because there are many natural ways that these acids are created, but unfortunately, there are many human actions that are putting more of these acids into the air than should be there, which necessitates this type of research. Jack collects the samples and Kelly takes the samples and runs them through a machine called an ion chromatograph. This machine is able to separate each of the different acids, and detect how much of each is present in the samples.

Similar to Jack and Kelly, Andreas Beyersdorf, UC-Irvine, also takes samples, but he analyzes the samples for a measure of the chemicals called hydrocarbons and halocarbons.

Hydrocarbons are made up of atoms of hydrogen and carbon, while halocarbons are composed of halogens and carbon. These chemicals are mostly pollutants and our cars and power plants help create them, which also stresses the importance of this testing. Nikki got to help Andreas by actually entering some data on these experiments, making her feel like a real scientist!

Nikki got to work with several other scientists as well while there, learning each area of their expertise and the importance of all of them on the future of our atmospheric conditions. They are all collecting and testing samples for different characters in the supreme quest to find out what exists in the atmosphere so we can correct it for a better way of life.

All of the research involves a horrendous job with the collecting of numerous samples, many of which must be secured in white "clean suits" and plastic gloves so that nothing will contaminate the sample. The articulate testing of the samples must be done on highly sensitive equipment and the data all logged in appropriately.

During her stay, Nikki witnessed many unusual things characteristic of the area that she notated so others would experience the wonders of this ice cap through her eyes. For instance, it was interesting for Nikki to see that the airplanes had rocket boosters on the sides as they are sometimes needed on a runway made of snow since it is difficult for the plane to get up the speed needed to take off without them.

To Nikki, it was amazing how beautiful the area is when the sun shines. Everything sparkles and you can see the "diamond dust" (small flakes of snow in the air) shining everywhere. They also have what is called a "sun dog" which are formed when the ice crystals high in the sky have light reflecting through them forming a type of arctic rainbow.

"Fun" things included a cook-out and a round of snow golf, without any birdies, since the temperature was -35 degrees.

Nikki often enjoyed a "treat" in the evening when they would all make ice cream and then use liquid nitrogen which freezes it almost immediately. As time went on Nikki even actually started to like the local Musk Ox meat prepared at Summit Camp! She compared it to the U.S. staple, beef roast and she was glad she found out it was so much better than when she originally had it on pizza.

Much to Nikki's surprise, she experienced one really nice day there when it was sunny, no wind, and a temperature of -2 fahrenheit, which feels like 30 degrees Wisconsin weather, since it is so dry there. It was a real treat for Nikki to walk around without her parka and snowpants, and be able to be comfortable in just fleece.

Throughout the summer, each time a Herc-130 plane comes to the camp it brings fuel to fill the "fuel bladders" where the fuel is stored so that in winter, when planes do not come there for three months, the people that are there will have enough fuel to go through the winter.

It is unimaginable how much precision must be used when packing up all the gear and equipment on two 88" X 108" pallets which cannot weigh over 5,000 pounds each.

The plane arrived for their return bringing in a new group of scientists. One involved a NASA researcher testing a system that they may want to use on Mars. Another group of German researchers were also coming in and they were trying to install a seismograph on the ice for measuring tremors.

Nikki says she feels very honored to have been a part of this entire project.

Education... It's Everyone's Business

TABOR

You probably have heard people speak of TABOR and you may or may not know what it is. TABOR stands for Taxpayer Bill of Rights. In writing this article, I am not trying to sway or attempt to persuade anyone to be for or against it, just to share some thoughts and questions that you might wish to consider.

My first reaction to the concept of TABOR is this: "Who wouldn't want their taxes cut or frozen?" That's a no-brainer. We all want to pay fewer taxes, but you need to know the impact TABOR would have on you as an individual as well. After reflecting on TABOR, the most obvious question to me was: If taxes are cut, or frozen, what services will I be asked to live without, or have less of? I think that is an extremely critical part of the TABOR equation. No scare tactics, just knowing what you're willing to do without or have less of. I think it is a legitimate question to ask, before you vote. This information you could get from your local governmental leaders.

Other questions might be: If TABOR is such a good idea, why is it that legislators have not sought input or opinions from their own constituents? Why haven't the people been part of the process? Why are the legislators pushing for a constitutional amendment without holding open forums, hearings and discussion groups to inform people of the pros and cons of the legislation? How can people make an informed decision if they don't know both sides of the issue? The way this is being handled reminds me of an editorial cartoon printed about 5 months ago in an area newspaper. In the first cartoon frame there is an irate taxpayer jumping up and down and is yelling at an elected official that he wants and demands a tax freeze. In the second frame it shows this same taxpayer, this time after the tax freeze became law, jumping up and down and yelling at the same elected official, but this time he's yelling about losing services. It is like the old saying, "Be careful what you wish for because you might get it."

My point is simple. I am asking you to contact your elected representatives in the Senate and Assembly and say you want information on both sides of the issue. Ask questions like: Why all the secrecy? Why is only one side of the issue being published and emphasized? What's the hurry? Is this political or is it truly financial? Why aren't they holding public hearings on such an important issue as TABOR?

If it's a great idea, let the electorate in on the discussions before asking them to cast their vote. After all, isn't that what makes our country so great? In this country we have not only the freedom to vote, but also the freedom to ask questions so we will be able to make an informed decision, a decision best suited to our individual needs.

Burmester Announces Alternative Education Grants

MADISON - State Superintendent Elizabeth Burmester announced awards of 14 new alternative education grants totaling $1 million, designed to help public school districts educate students who are at risk of school failure.

The Wisconsin Alternative Education Program was established in 1999 and is designed to address the education needs of students who meet the statutory definition of being at-risk. Selection criteria may include poor attendance, failing grades, discipline problems, drug and alcohol issues, and criminal behavior among others. "There is a tremendous need for alternative education programs in our state, to allow us to serve all our students in an environment in which they can succeed," said Burmester.

Applications were submitted by 48 school districts. Fourteen applicants, representing 16 school districts, were recommended for funding beginning with the 2004-05 school year. Grant amounts varied from $30,000 to $95,000. Grant funding is available for five years, with 100% funding for new or expanded programs for the first three years, 60% funding in year four and 40% funding in year five. The 14 new grants bring the total number of programs currently funded to 99, with active alternative education programs in every regional cooperative educational service agency (CESA) in Wisconsin.

Some alternative education programs are held in existing schools or in other buildings owned by school districts. Other programs may consist of moving at-risk students from a traditional education setting to an alternative site at a storefront, community center, business, or workplace or another setting where additional services, teachers, or other resources are available to help meet student needs.

Kewaskum High School was awarded the grant initially last year, and the upcoming 2004-05 school year will be the second year of the five year grant. KHS Principal Christine Horbas stated that the grant money may ONLY be used to help reduce the ninth grade failure rate and help the ninth graders with their transition into high school.

Campbellsport also received a grant this year in the amount of $70,000.

ship opportunities which are very valuable.

"We had a pretty good corps group that liked to put in the time to get things done," she said.

Time was at a premium for both young women, who were very active in extracurricular activities in school. Butler listed volleyball, National Honor Society and FHA (Future Homemakers of America) as three of her favorite activities, while Christie was class president for two years, played soccer, was in Peers to Peers, Key Club, jazz band, swing choir, HOPE (Help Our Planet Earth), yearbook and forensics. And in a couple weeks, she plans to participate in a week-long Habitat for Humanity experience with people from the Peace United Church of Christ.

Instead of flying solo on the task, they have decided to work together on the speech, and each will present several minutes of their ideas to the other 155 graduating seniors, their families and friends.

Will either feel the pressure of being class speaker?

"I get a little nervous, but I like doing it," Christie said.

Butler said her parents have helped relieve the stress. "They just said, 'Don't worry about it. You'll be OK.'"

The Meaning of Sports

By: Michael Mandelbaum

Some people might laugh at them, but conspiracy theorists say that there are lots of "things" going on that we don't realize are happening. And who knows? Maybe Elvis really is alive and maybe the Lone Gunman theory holds no merit. But how would you feel if you knew that there was something really sinister afoot in your hometown, something that could affect your family, your friends, and the way of life you've come to enjoy? There's something happening in Missoula, Montana, and in "In the Moon of Red Ponies" by James Lee Burke (c.2004, Simon & Schuster), Billy Bob Holland isn't going to let it happen much longer.

Billy Bob Holland, former Texas Ranger, moved his wife and son to Missoula following a bad accident in which his partner was shot and killed. There are awful memories floating around in Billy Bob's head, including the time Wyatt Dixon kidnapped Billy Bob's wife, Temple. Billy Bob worked hard to put Dixon away, but now Dixon's out of prison, and hanging around the ranch. Dixon claims he's changed, and that he wants a shot at a decent life. Temple says that if he continues to come around, he'll get shot, all right.

Because of the bad memories, Billy Bob left the Rangers and is now a lawyer, and his first client is a Gulf War veteran. Some say that Johnny American Horse is a lunatic. Some say he's got "medicine".

Others call him a common drunk, but the fact is that American Horse is a crazy-as-a-fox environmental activist, and there are people who want to see him dead. Johnny American Horse was deeply embroiled in the break-in of a laboratory owned by a powerful man who's involved in chemical weapons trading. Some important information was stolen, somebody has it, and the man wants that information back.

When Billy Bob tries to help American Horse, he puts his ranch in danger. When he tries to protect American Horse and his wife, Amber, from the government and from a twisted cop named Darryl McComb, Billy Bob puts his reputation in danger. And by the time he knows the truth of what's going on, Billy Bob's life - and the lives of his family - are in very big danger. It's rare that I find a book that I feel compelled to read from cover to cover all in one day; "In the Moon of Red Ponies" is one of those books. James Lee Burke is a storytelling maestro, orchestrating colorful references that sing the praises of the land that Billy Bob loves so much. Although Wyatt Dixon is supposed to be a murderous psychopath, I found myself actually liking him because of Burke's skillful manipulation of Dixon's character.

It's no coincidence and it's no conspiracy... western fans, mystery fans and fans of a good thriller will like this book a whole lot.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

Sell your development rights in order to help preserve farm land?

Do not be deceived!

Individual property ownership and control are one of the foundations of a free nation. But even though the romantic notion of preserving farm land seems to be an innocent motive, the political forces at work behind the scene tell a different story.

For in 1995, during the annual State of the World Forum (an event that began through the Gorbechev Foundation), Mikhail Gorbechev said the following: "The environment will be used to seize government and private lands to aid the formation of The New World Order."

Likewise, while our ears were being tickled by the antics of the Clinton/Gore administration, that administration signed an illegal treaty with the United Nations. In that treaty, the jurisdiction to over 68% of our Nation's parks and historic sites was handed over to the United Nations. And even though our Congress is fully within their rights to disannul that treaty, they do nothing.

In addition, our own County Highway Department has been steadily revising construction codes that severely restrict and deny individual access and egress rights onto our own public roads, from our own land.

Your desires will vanish away when you return to the dust. However, if you want to restrict the development of the land that you control, or if you want to increase the minimum lot size on the land that you control, you can do so through your own Title Deed to that land that you control.

All of those freedoms were granted to you through the wisdom of the generations that came before you, which includes a minimum lot size of 40,000 square feet. It is therefore, your Constitutional duty to allow those freedoms of individual control to remain intact for the generations of your family that will come after you, and for all other generations that will come after you.

Do not rob your neighbors of their freedom, of their God given rights, or of their money, just so you can satisfy your own desires that will vanish away when you return to the dust.

At one time, we sang a song that said, "This is my land, this is your land, from California to the New York Islands..." But now, have we become so selfish as to only say, "This is my land, this is my land?" Have we made water, and dirt, and animals our Gods?

The rural characteristics of peace that I knew did not come from the water, from the dirt, or from the animals. It came from the pure character, and from the wisdom, from the love of our Creator that made all of those wonderful things. Will you not understand? Or will you sell out heritage of freedom from money and for selfishness? Will you deceive yourself and say, Peace, Peace, when there is no peace, because those stupid, hippy, commune(ist) philosophies are taking over our land?

BUSINESS NEWS

Dislocated Workers To Receive Assistance

Governor Jim Doyle announced today the availability of additional employment services for workers who lost jobs or suffered reduced work hours as a result of increased imports. Employees from Quad Tool and Design, Incorporated at 8565 State Road 45 in Kewaskum may be eligible for these services.

"I am pleased that we are able to offer additional assistance to these workers. Wisconsin's hard working and highly motivated workers have faced some tough economic times and this additional funding will allow us to get these folks back on their feet and back into the workforce," said Governor Doyle. "These individuals and their families need and deserve this assistance."

The services, administered by the Department of Workforce Development and local Workforce Development Boards, are available through local Job Centers. The services are funded through the Trade Adjustment Assistance program and include a comprehensive array of retraining and reemployment services tailored to meet the needs of the individual workers. Major activities and services, for which these workers may qualify, are:

Training for employment in another job or career.

Income Support, known as trade readjustment allowances (TRA).

Job Search Allowance to cover expenses incurred in seeking employment outside normal commuting areas.

Relocation Allowances for approved relocation expenses to relocate to a new area of employment.

DWD Secretary Roberta

Gassman said, "This federal funding will increase our capacity to serve all workers in the area, as we reconnect unemployed workers to employment as quickly as possible."

Outdoor Adventures

By: Mark Walters

Rain Delay on the Oconto River

This loon's nest was destroyed by high water.

Hello Friends,

Sometimes being an outdoor adventure writer requires improvising. This week I had to improvise.

My 3-year-old daughter, Selina, and I were supposed to go on a canoe trip on the Oconto River in Oconto County. We left home and went to Oconto Falls where we met up with Max Meyer. He was going to help me shuttle my vehicle from the starting point of the trip to the ending point.

Unfortunately, it was Memorial Day weekend and lots of rain caused a one-day delay and then a cancellation of our trip the following day.

Instead of canoeing, I spoke with Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources wildlife biologist Wayne Hall. Sorry Selina, and thanks Max and Wayne!

Wayne works out of Sandhill Wildlife Area in Wood County and is an old friend of mine. We spoke about how flooding affects wildlife and a few other topics.

A couple of weeks ago when I wrote about wild hogs in Crawford County, I predicted someday they would spread to much of the state. They are spreading!

Two years ago, Wayne saw a large boar in the Black River State Forest in Jackson County. Last week I read that another biologist also has had several encounters in Jackson County.

Walters' prediction: These very prolific and unwanted critters are here to stay.

I believe in fighting for my state, and since I have a small game license, I will shoot and eat every boar that I legally can.

Getting back to high water, it causes lots of problems for ground nesting birds such as turkeys, grouse, pheasants, and ducks. There were only 12 days in May that it did not rain.

A wet hen can often mean a dead hen sitting on a nest of eggs. A wet hen puts off scent which increases her chances of being eaten on the nest. Constant rain also requires a hen to spend more time on the nest to keep the eggs from cooling off.

Most grouse hatch the last week of May, and the chicks are extremely vulnerable to hypothermia the first 48 hours of life. Damp conditions or cool temperatures can cause hypothermia. Pheasants can also take a serious hit from cool, damp conditions. In literally thousands of cases, maybe even more across the northern tier states, entire nests have been lost simply to flooding.

The good news is, whether you're a hen turkey or a mallard, most ground nesting birds will re-nest.

Four years ago, I took a picture of a loon that was sadly being washed away by high water. Many people are unaware that loons cannot walk on dry land. Their legs are set too far back on their body, which makes it nearly impossible for a loon to walk.

If you see a loon on land, there is a good chance it is in trouble.

In my travels, I average about 500 miles a week behind the wheel. As you can well imagine, I see a lot of road kill deer. In Wisconsin we have become hardened to road kills simply because there are so many.

Wayne Hall told me that in Wisconsin, most fawns are born during the last week of May. Whenever I pass a dead buck in velvet, I am saddened by the loss of a potential trophy and quality experience for a hunter. What really saddens me this time of year, is when I see a dead adult doe and realize that somewhere close by is a fawn waiting for its mama.

I asked Wayne how old a fawn has to be to have a chance to make it on its own. The answer was complicated, but pretty much no fawn under a month can survive without its mother. Most fawns that make it to August will have learned enough about browsing to have a decent chance to survive.

As you can see, I jumped around to cover some of what I think are some pretty interesting and currently realistic subjects.

Support our troops!

KEWASKUM WATER UTILITY

Quality On Tap!

Our Commitment  Our Profession

Kewaskum, WI

Water System Information

This report shows our water quality and what it means.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Jerry Gilles at the Department of Public Works, telephone 262-626-4310, 1002 Fond du Lac Avenue, Kewaskum, WI.

We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. Regularly scheduled Village of Kewaskum Board meetings are held on the first and third Monday of the month at 8:00 PM in the Municipal Building, 204 First Street, Kewaskum, WI. Notices of meetings are normally posted at the Kewaskum Post Office, St. Francis Bank and at the Municipal Building. Notices are also sent to The Statesman, official newspaper for the Village, WBKV radio and the West Bend News.

The Kewaskum Water Utility routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. The following tables show the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1st to December 31st, 2003.

Health Information

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at (800-426-4791).

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Sources of Water

Source id	Source	Depth (in feet)
2	Groundwater	503
3	Groundwater	460
4	Groundwater	360
5	Groundwater	280

A summary of the source water assessment for Kewaskum Waterworks is available at: http://prodmtex00.dnr.state.wi.us/pls/int er1/pk_swap_web.p_swap_s ummary?i_ro_seq_no=1387 89

Educational Information

The sources of drinking water, both tap water and bottled water, include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife. Inorganic contaminants such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming. Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff and residential uses. Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff and septic systems. Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which shall provide the same protection for public health.

Number of Contaminants Required to be Tested

This table displays the number of contaminants that were required to be tested in the last five years. The CCR may contain up to five years worth of water quality results. If a water system tests annually, or more frequently, the results from the most recent year are shown on the CCR. If testing is done less frequently, the results shown on the CCR are from the past five years.

Additional Health Information

While your drinking water meets USEPA's standard for arsenic, it does contain low levels of arsenic. USEPA's standard balances the current understanding of arsenic's possible health effects against the costs of removing arsenic from drinking water. USEPA continues to research the health effects of low levels of arsenic, which is a mineral known to cause cancer in humans at high concentrations and is linked to other health effects such as skin damage and circulatory problems.

Definition of Terms

Term	Definition

Even the little glitch at the end of the week, a 13-5 non-conference loss to West Bend West on Saturday, didn't put a damper on the excitement coach Dave Donath is feeling about his Kewaskum High baseball team.

The Indians (4-1 in the EW, 5-2 overall) won four Eastern Wisconsin Conference games, starting with a clean sweep at Two Rivers by respective scores of 11-6 and 14-2, followed by a 7-3 victory over Sheboygan Falls on Thursday and a 14-4 win over previously unbeaten New Holstein on Friday.

Kewaskum was only down to West 3-2 going into the fourth inning when the roof caved in on Abe Foerster, who was responsible for three of the four runs the Spartans scored in that inning. West added six more runs the final three innings for the win.

West pitched by committee against the Indians, with Jamie Wiedmeyer going the first three innings, giving up two runs on three hits. Schultz took a turn in the fourth and fifth, limiting the Indians to three runs, then along came Ross Hausmann to finish up.

"The last two innings were perfect for him ... no runs, no hits," Donath said. "They're (Spartans) solid, from pitching to the outfield, and they hit the ball. They're the best team we've gone up against, that's for sure."

Tim Trott led the Indians, going 2x3 with an RBI.

Matt Parrent chipped in with a double and an RBI, and Josh Meyer was responsible for bringing three runs in, two on his single in the second and the other on a ground out in the fourth.

Matt DeLong smacked a pair of doubles for West.

In the decision over New Holstein, Brett Zimdars picked up his first pitching win of the year, holding the Huskies to seven hits, striking out four and walking just two.

"He threw strikes," Donath said about Zimdars, adding the defense "made the plays when they had to."

Brandon Prom had a big day at the plate, going 3x4, with two runs scored and four RBI. He singled in the third, singled to drive in two in the fourth and duplicated that effort in the fifth.

Freshman Dan Shea singled with the bases loaded in the second inning when the Indians scored three runs.

Jon Olla chipped in with two hits and drove in a pair.

The game ended in the fifth via the 10-run mercy rule.

Against Sheboygan Falls, it was Josh Meyer (2-0) pitching a complete game, giving up nine hits while walking none and striking out two.

The Indians struck early, scoring four times in the first on a walk to Shea, a stolen base, and RBI single by Olla, followed by Parrent's two-run double and an RBI double by Dave Wicklund. Parrent ended up with two doubles and three RBI.

Donath had picked the Falcons to be a contender in the EW. "It was only their second game," Donath said. "I guess it was a good time to get them."

Two dozen hits produce twin wins

In the doubleheader at Two Rivers, the Indians put on quite an offensive show. In the opener, three big innings left little doubt who was in charge. Kewaskum scored three runs in the top of the first and four more in the fourth and again in the fifth.

Sophomore Ross Stockhausen was the man-of-the-hour for the Indians. Stockhausen went 3x4, including two doubles that brought home four runs.

Josh Meyer went 2x2, with two runs scored and two RBI, while Jon Olla was 2x5, and Nate Steiner chipped in with a hit that produced a pair of runs.

"We're hitting the ball," Donath said, reporting he also got good pitching from Brandon Prom, who went the distance and picked up the win, striking out six and walking three.

In game two, Kewaskum had 10 runs by the top of the third and the game was over two innings later, via the 10-run mercy rule.

Stockhausen picked up two more hits, but this time Prom took offensive honors, blasting a 3-run homer in the first inning and later chipping in with a double.

"Matt Parrent had a good second game," Donath said, reporting the freshman athlete was 2x3, with a triple and three RBI.

Abe Foerster won the game, giving up just four hits in the five innings against the Raiders.

A's Win Two Games Before Losing to Hustisford

By JUDY HARLOW
STATESMAN CORRESPONDENT

The Hustisford Astros home talent baseball team played the role of spoiler in the Kewaskum Athletics triple header weekend.

Riding the arms of Jim Witt and Jami Kaul, the visiting Astros blasted the young A's, 13-1 in a Rock River League game, after the Kewaskum team notched a 4-3 exhibition victory over host Manitowoc on Friday night and a 5-3 victory over host Slinger on Saturday afternoon.

Witt limited Kewaskum to just three hits in his seven innings of work in picking up the win. He struck out five and walked three, and his reliever, Kaul, finished up the game, throwing two innings of shutout ball.

Bob Ogi took the loss for Kewaskum, but unlike a couple of his earlier outings, he did not give up a lot of walks. In seven innings, he walked just three and fanned five, giving up nine earned runs and 14 hits.

"We didn't give him a lot of offensive support," Jim Ziegler said, reporting the A's lone run came in the seventh on a double by Tony Fitts, which was followed by Noah Koch's double.

The other A's hit was a single by Adam Sarauer in the fourth.

"Combined they (the two Astro pitchers) faced just 33 guys," Ziegler said of the Astros' pitching duo.

Clutch hits help in win over Slinger

Player/manager Jason Strobel helped trigger a pair of 2-run rallies in the first and third innings, and Matt Millonig drove in a run with a sacrifice fly in the Rock River victory at Slinger.

Ziegler led off the game with a single, but losing pitcher Scott Estes got the next two Kewaskum hitters to strike out, so the situation suddenly became bleak. Enter Strobel, who tagged a double to score Ziegler, and Jake Panzer followed with a run-scoring single.

In the top of the third, Ketter reached on an error, and Jake Wilson followed with a double, putting runners at second and third for Strobel, who was more than happy to add a couple more RBI to his total, this time with a triple to right-center field.

Ziegler went 2x4, with two runs scored and two stolen bases, Panzer was 2x4, and Millonig brought in an insurance run with his fly ball with Ty Schill on third after singling and advancing to third on Adam Beck's double.

Ziegler got the win. He pitched seven innings, limiting the hosts to eight hits, while striking out three and walking just one. Steve Ketter provided successful relief, limiting Slinger to no runs on two hits the final two innings.

Ziegler was in a couple jams but was bailed out by fine defensive support. In the third, Slinger loaded the bases with no outs, but Ziegler got Brad Geldnich to hit into a 1-2-3 double play. Ziegler ended the inning by getting the next man to hit into a ground out.

"Geldnich helped us out twice," Strobel said, reporting in the fifth inning with one out and two men on base, Geldnich popped out to the catcher while trying to bunt. Alex Gray followed with a line drive that bounced off the fence in left field. When Gray decided to try for second, he was thrown out on a throw by outfielder Matt Millonig to the cutoff man, Ty Schill, who threw a perfect strike to Jake Wilson at second.

It was homer time

In Friday's win over the Manitowoc Bandits, a pair of home runs helped the A's. The first was provided by Ketter, who smashed a 2-run blast in the fifth. Schill had walked just ahead of Ketter, who ended up 2x4.

Josh Stoffel had given the A's a quick 1-0 lead with his dinger in the top of the first inning.

Mike Techtman picked up the win for the A's. He went six innings, giving up five hits and four walks, while striking four.

Ketter got the save for his three innings of work, giving up just three hits.

Techtman and Stoffel are not normally on the Kewaskum roster but were invited to play with the A's for this exhibition encounter.

With the split, the A's are now 2-2 in Rock River play and 4-4 over. They host Lannon, the Tri-County Nite League defending Grand Champions, on Saturday and play at Hartford (RR) on Sunday. There is a possibility the A's might play a second game at Rubicon on Sunday. Strobel said he would know about the extra game by today. To contact him, call 920-420-1269.

Indians Top G'town, Get Blasted by Kiel

By JUDY HARLOW STATESMAN CORRESPONDENT jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

Already in the young prep baseball season, the Kewaskum High players have shown they are a resilient group.

On May 28, the Indians were the victims of a no-hitter by Kiel's Brad May and less than 24 hours later, they smashed two home runs and a triple to defeat Germantown 5-3 in the first round of action in the annual Germantown Tournament, which had to be canceled after two games because of rain and wet grounds.

"We got one game in, and it was a good one," KHS Coach Dave Donath said Sunday, reporting two games were completed in the eight-team event before the fields became unplayable.

Down 1-0 going into the fifth inning, Josh Meyer gave the Indians hope of scoring with a 2-out single and a stolen base. No. 3 hitter, Ross Stockhausen came up next and within two pitches was down to his final strike. Stockhausen battled to foul off several pitches, according to Donath, who said he worked the count to 2-2, then "laced a triple to right field."

Looking at the fact Stockhausen battled through 10 pitches before finding the one he wanted, Donath said, "It was a great at bat."

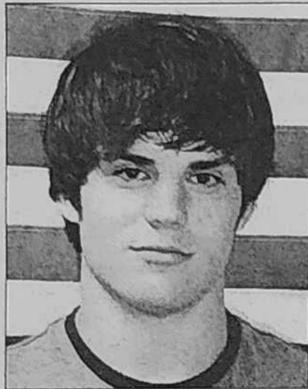

Cleanup hitter Jon Olla wasted no time getting a pitch he wanted. "He came up and smacked a home run to left ... first pitch," Donath said. "That put us up 3-1."

The Indians had one more home run coming in the top of the fifth. With Brandon Prom on via a single, Dave Wicklund, who hasn't played baseball for three years, bombed a homer to right.

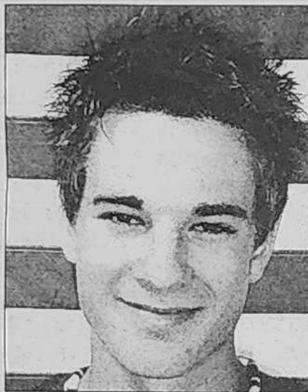

"That was our five runs," Donath said, reporting Wicklund went 2x3, with two RBI.

Kewaskum had seven hits, one more than the Warhawks, who were held pretty much in check by Meyer, who went 6 and 1/3 innings before Donath called on Prom to finish off the game and add his first save to his resume.

"Meyer pitched great. He ended up walking a couple leadoff men," Donath said, reporting his starter walked the first man in the fifth, but then when the Germantown base runner slipped while starting to steal, KHS catcher Olla drilled the ball to the shortstop (Garrett Donath), who tossed to (Matt Parrent) for the 2-6-3 putout.

Ross Stockhausen

Josh Meyer

"That was huge," Donath said. "We executed the run-down perfectly ... and we didn't have any errors."

Indians get smoked 10-0 in EW opener

"We got no hit. Brad May pretty much dominated us," Donath said of Kiel's left-handed ace. "He's a senior and he pitches well."

The game was halted after five innings, via the 10-run mercy rule.

Kiel got seven runs in the second inning. The freshman Parrent started and did OK in the first inning but complained to Donath that his arm was a little sore. He started the second but never finished. Brad Zimdars came on in relief.

Kewaskum's lone runner was Prom, who drew a walk in the top of the fifth.

"That guy (May) is going to shut down a few people," Donath said, reporting May throws the ball hard, has a good curve and an effective changeup.

The Indians are now 0-1 in EW play and 1-2 overall.

Donath Among Division Two Best; KHS 4x400m Relay Takes Sixth

Amanda Magnus, shown above, participated in the long jump competition where she earned an 11th place finish with a leap of 15' 10.75".

LA CROSSE — Memorial Stadium on the UW-La Crosse campus served as a huge outdoor classroom on Friday and Saturday when athletes from all over the state gathered for the annual WIAA State Track and Field meet.

What some of the students learned is their hard work the past two to three years paid big dividends. Others found out there are still lessons to be mastered to earn a spot on the victory podium.

The athletes representing Kewaskum High School had mixed results, with Amanda Donath's fourth place in the 400-meter dash and the sixth-place finish by the girls 4x400 relay the major highlights of the weekend.

The KHS girls team wound up with eight points, good for a tie for 28th place. The boys scored one point, thus the Indians ended in a tie for 69th.

"They gave it 100 percent," KHS Coach Jerry Gosa said Monday. "It's obviously hard to duplicate the effort from the first day. They ran season-best times on Friday ... The legs were not quite there on Saturday."

Donath ran well in Friday's qualifying and in the finals, she came in with a time of 59 and .57 seconds (59.57) .80 of a second out of the third spot.

"My start could be better," Donath had said Friday after running a 59.49, a new school record. What Donath liked was having to run a leg on the 4x200 relay first because "It helps to get a full 200 in ... you're completely warmed up."

"I'm going to get those girls," she promised about the two girls who beat her in the prelims, but when places are divided by hundredths of seconds, sometimes that can be difficult to do.

The 4x400 relay team posted the third best time Friday, with Rachel Dums, Amanda Magnus, Sam Droese and Donath combining for a 4:04.47, and they were just .42 of a second off that mark in the finals, giving them a sixth overall (4:04.89).

Columbus won with a sizzling 3:58.13, dethroning defending champion Kiel (4:00.70), which competes in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference with Kewaskum.

"Amanda ran well," Gosa said, indicating her split in Saturday's relay was in the 58s, very good considering, "She ran four 400s in two days."

The foursome of Garrett Donath, Zack VanWormer, Nick Bartley and Eric Nass moved up one place, from ninth in the preliminaries to eighth overall with their time of 3:30.3. Like the girls on the relays, all of them return. Nass is a junior and the other three are sophomores so the future looks very bright for this group.

The 800 relay team (Donath, Magnus, Lindsay Keller, Jessie Butler) missed earning another team point when it finished ninth overall at 1:49.29.

"One of their handoffs was a little bit shaky," Gosa said. On Friday, they ran a 1:47.53.

Dums also missed a top-eight place by one mark, running a 48.32 in the finals of the 300 hurdles.

The talented junior suffered some anxious moments on Friday when she just made the finals after having prob-

Dums stormed out of the blocks and reached the first hurdle before the others in her heat, but she got out of rhythm on the next hurdle and had difficulty getting back into sync the rest of the way, but she still posted a 47.87.

When all the results were posted and she wound up with the eight-best time, Dums broke into a huge smile, and Gosa told her, "You live to run another day."

Unfortunately, the difficulties continued Saturday, so Dums was unable to reach her goal of being among the top six.

Nass missed making the finals in the 400 by two places after running a 51.62. Nass started a bit slow and was unable to overcome his early nervousness or hesitancy.

Considering he started running the open 400 about a third into the season, Nass had a great year. Gosa said the work he put in the past winter catapulted him from being an average athlete to the team's MVP and a school record holder.

Magnus finished 11th in the long jump competition, leaping 15 feet, 10.75 (15-10.75) on Friday, right after running a leg on the 4x200 relay team.

Piwoni's Bid to Qualify For State Falls Short

By JUDY HARLOW
STATESMAN CORRESPONDENT
jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

Playing very close to his season average, Kewaskum High sophomore Chad Piwoni posted an 87 in the June 1st sectional tournament at the Evergreen Golf Course near Elkhorn. He missed qualifying for the WIAA Division 2 State Golf Tournament.

Piwoni, who averaged 44.5 strokes per nine holes this season in Eastern Wisconsin Conference play, shot nines of 44 and 43 for his 87 on the par 72 layout.

"As a sophomore, Chad gained valuable experience for his junior and senior seasons," KHS Coach Glenn Eichstedt said, reporting it took a round of under 80 to advance to the state tournament, which was held at the University Ridge Golf Course near Madison on Monday and Tuesday, June 7-8.

Among the nine individual qualifiers, Piwoni finished seventh. No information was available on how Piwoni fared in comparison to all the players from the nine teams that survived the regional competition at Quit Qui Oc.

The medalist was O'Brien of Racine St. Catherine. He fired a 6-over-par 78.

Host Elkhorn claimed the sectional title, coming in with a score of 333 from its top four players. Taking second and also advancing to state was New Berlin West with a 340. The New Berlin team had to survive a playoff with East Troy to earn the second and final spot.

From the area, Kettle Moraine Lutheran wound up fifth with a 356, while Kiel, the runner-up in the EW, was sixth at 357, and Campbell sport finished last with a 376.

The scores were reportedly a bit higher than normal because of winds and intermittent rain.

"Chad's future looks optimistic," Eichstedt said. For that matter, the same can be true of the Kewaskum High team, which returns four of its five varsity players, including Luke Koch, Adam Lehnert, Jason Jahnke and Piwoni. Only Ryan Koepke will be lost to graduation.

"She missed by that much," Gosa said, holding his hands apart by seven or eight inches and explaining Magnus took off that far back from the end of the board, so she could have gone over 16 feet.

"I wasn't as pumped up as I usually am," Magnus said. "I could tell it just wasn't there. I'm just glad I made it here."

The 4x100 relay (Butler, Katie Patterson, Magnus, Dums) also fell short of placing with a time of 51.0, which breaks the old KHS record.

From first to 10th, there was just a difference of .80 seconds in the preliminaries.

Gosa summed up the two days by saying, "The effort level was great. If they work hard and get stronger, they'll have the opportunity to improve on their first visit to the state meet."

Like mother, like daughter

KHS junior Lindsay Keller comes from good track blood lines. Her mother, Diane (Bremser) completed in track when she was in high school, and she, too, participated in the state meet, which in those days, was held in Madison.

"It was 1980," Diane Keller said Friday, recalling how she, her cousins Barb and Laurie Wilson and Julann Zemlicka, now Retzlaff, ran together on the 4x400 relay. It was the year track switched from yards to metric.

"We won," Keller said, and their time of 4:03.2 is still the school record for the event.
