Norm Peters shows off his futuristic car, a 1950s vehicle from Muskego Beach, to 6-year-olds Tristin Douley and Hoyt Martin. Peters refinished the car so that it is wheelchair accessible. The car was one of 350 vehicles on display on Sunday at the Grand Larsony's car show and benefit. It was the 15th and final year that Richard "Kissy" Kissinger sponsored the show.

Kewaskum Is Designated As One Of Safest Places In Wisconsin

By Anne Trautner

Kewaskum has been named the 15th safest city in Wisconsin by SafeWise.

SafeWise is a community-focused safety organization committed to increasing home and community safety, education, awareness and preparedness.

The SafeWise Report released its "50 Safest Cities in Wisconsin" report on Sept. 14. To compile this report, SafeWise used the most recent FBI crime data from 2013 to analyze and rank these cities, which all have a minimum population of 3,500 people.

The Town of Oconomowoc was named Wisconsin's safest city. The Town of Oconomowoc reported no murders, robberies, rapes, or arsons in 2013, and had 30 total crimes for the entire year. Oconomowoc has 0.23 violent crimes per 1,000 people and 3.26 property crimes per 1,000 people, according to the SafeWise report.

Kewaskum had a total of two incidents of violent crime in 2013.

SafeWise cited the Kewaskum Police

Department for contributing to the village's safety record.

"Residents here can rest easy knowing Kewaskum's finest are looking out for them even when they're out of town. The police department offers a vacation house check service where police officers patrol near the home or business to keep an eye out for any suspicious activity while tenants are away," the SafeWise report says.

Kewaskum has 0.49 violent crimes per 1,000 people and 7.17 property crimes per 1,000 people, according to the report.

Classic Car Show Benefits Others

-After 15-Year Drive, Grand Larsony Holds Last Show

By Anne Trautner

Richard "Kissy" Kissinger, owner of the Grand Larsony in Kewaskum, held his 15th and final car show in Kewaskum on Sunday.

"He's put a lot of heart and effort into this every year, it's a big job. Kissy is a really generous person," said Mike Schuster, who has been helping Kissinger with the benefit for over a decade.

More than 350 cars participated in Sunday's show, which benefited area residents Barry Hobelsberger, who is battling kidney cancer, and Tom Kudek, who has liver cancer.

Kissinger started holding the event 15 years ago after Kimberly Paswaters was shot and killed at the Campbellsport Fire Department.

"She had three small kids, and someone said we should do some kind of benefit for those kids, so this came up," Kissinger said.

For the first three years, the car show benefited those children. Then, the show expanded to help others in the community. One year it benefited someone whose house had burned down, another year it helped teens who were in a car accident. It has helped a Vietnam veteran and people battling cancer.

"It is usually somebody that has had medical issues and financial hardship," Kissinger's wife, Deb Kissinger, said.

"We never wanted it to go to one big national charity, we would rather see it stay in the area," said Tom Werner, who has helped Kissinger with the event for the past 15 years. "Kissy puts a lot of work into it. He's done a lot for the community. I think the town does him well with the show."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

It is my sincere hope that the entire village embraces the opportunity to support the Main Street Philanthropy Class. When I read the article in the Statesman about the program recently launched in Kewaskum I was so impressed. The opportunity to be a positive influence in the lives of KHS students is evident on so many levels.

This program will teach or develop skills in project management, organization, sales, business level communication within and outside of the student's peer group and how to work with a group to form a mutually acceptable decision. Along with this, not only the students but the financial supporters of the program will reinforce the adage that it is better to give than to receive.

Learning philanthropy at such a young age will have a lifelong benefit to those in the program and an immediate impact on the financial well-being of the organizations receiving the grants. You really cannot teach community awareness in a classroom. You have to be invested in the process. It has to touch your heart.

The students reward will not be monetary, but they will gain meaningful experience and be introduced to a path in life that makes an impact.

Please welcome this program and embrace the journey.

Sincerely,
 Gary Mlodzik

Two prominent Washington County residents and public officials, Judge Lester A. Buckley, 57, of Hartford and Lawrence P. Berend, 56, of West Bend, Washington County clerk of courts, were apparently instantly killed about 8 p.m. Tuesday in a two-car collision on Hwy. 41 at CTH K about two miles north of Slinger. The deaths occurred when the Buckley car and the auto of a Michigan couple collided in the southbound lane of Hwy. 41 at the intersection. Occupants of the Michigan car Thomas Rowe, 25, the driver, suffered minor lacerations and his wife Vera, 23, suffered severe lacerations and internal injuries. The Rowses were on their honeymoon. Both Buckley and Berend were thrown from their auto in the crash. Both suffered skull fractures and internal injuries and died at the scene. County Coroner Robert Boltz said it was unknown who was driving the Buckley auto. It was believed the Buckley car was traveling west on K and the Rowe auto south on hwy. 41. Authorities said the car carrying Buckley and Berend crossed in front of Rowe's vehicle. It was reported the two men had attended the meeting of the Washington County Bar Association at the Linden Inn prior to the crash.

They received a call from a local woman to rescue a cat from the roof of her home. So Chief Oppermann summoned members of his "cat rescue squad" led by Augie Bilgo, who took their equipment to the scene and rescued the poor pussy.

Andrew Johnson, current publisher of the Kewaskum Statesman, stands in front of one of the pylons that honor past Wisconsin Newspaper publishers. The number -30- is the traditional way of symbolizing the end of a story in journalism. Johnson, along with about 85 other newspaper people, honored the "end of the story" for nine Wisconsin newspaper publishers, including Marcie Harbeck. The names of Harbeck's husband, William Harbeck, and her father-in-law, Donald Harbeck, are also inscribed on the permanent pylons.

So It Goes

By Andrew Johnson

The Wisconsin Newspaper Association annually holds special two-day meetings for the community newspaper staff members at Trees for Tomorrow educational facility in Eagle River.

One of the activities is the annual Memorial Pylon Ceremony where newspaper publishers who passed away in the previous year are recognized. Each year the past publishers' names are added to a stone memorial on the Trees grounds.

This year, there were nine such publishers, including Kewaskum Statesman publisher Marcie Harbeck.

Our news team, including Anne Trautner, Andrea Abler and myself, went to the special ceremony. Nine members from Marcie's family also came to honor her work at the Statesman last Friday.

It is rare that a local newspaper, or any business for that matter, is kept in one family for four generations. Marcie certainly deserves much credit for working at the paper with her husband, Bill, her father-in-law, her daughter Lana Kuehl and her grandson, Andrew Kuehl.

We have begun digitally archiving the pages of the Kewaskum Statesman since my wife and I purchased the paper in June. We thought it would be an important historical record to provide good coverage to the events honoring Marcie.

The Trees ceremony is a sacred recognition for newspaper folks. They often don't get much recognition in their working lives. Marcie and others like her have worked tirelessly for many years to make this a better community.

In part, if it was not for her coming to Kewaskum, I would most likely not be writing this column to you today nor be working for the paper. It is important to have a clear record of those who have shaped the community. We certainly will make sure this is done for this story as well as the others we cover.

The weather in the late morning on Friday was perfect. The sun came out for the outdoor Trees ceremony that was attended by about 85 people.

My longtime friend and publisher of the Kiel Tri-County newspaper, Mike Mathes, was the master of ceremonies. He read the story of each of the inducted newspaper publishers, including the story about Marcie. Lana spoke on behalf of the family about her mother, Marcie, in relation to the paper in Kewaskum.

After the ceremony was done, I had a chance to talk with Lana for a minute. She told me about the time she worked at the paper and observed her dad and grandpa pour hot led into the plastic mat forms to make newspaper pages.

I have not heard anyone talk about newspaper mats for years. I came into the newspaper business in part because my grandfather owned the largest newspaper mat company in the U.S. It was based in Chicago and called Progressive Matrix. My grandpa set me up in the newspapers business and my dad set me up in the business.

Although I don't know for sure, I suspect the Statesman used my grandpa's mats. It is a small world. Family lines like Marcie's family and my family are often associated with the newspaper business. It was an honor and privilege to be at the ceremony.

The Kewaskum Statesman is the official newspaper for the Kewaskum School District, published weekly on Thursdays. As the hometown newspaper, we feel it's imperative to publish news happening in our schools. Being a small family-owned newspaper, we don't have the resources to send a reporter to every event, so we ask for your help in sending us photos and information.

To get your news published in the Kewaskum Statesman, please have your items to us by Monday at 5 p.m. of the week you wish to see something published.

If you have story ideas or something we should look into, please contact our reporter Anne Trautner.

The Boys and Girls Club of Kewaskum isn't quite into the full-blown program mode yet. However, we were able to start some of the more general year-round programming this week. Pictured above is the Backyard Games program. In this program, members play staff-selected and modified playground games on a weekly basis. To make an impact the rules are modified and the skills such as teamwork, leadership, and communication, all which will help their team be successful, is pointed out. It is a simple, yet effective way, to help make a difference in youth.

Little Folks School House Completes Gardening Project

The Bumblebee classroom at the Little Folks School House participated in a gardening project again this year. They started early by collecting and composting. Josh Hundertmark of Campbellsport constructed a compost bin and the children were taught how it was to be used. A small area outside of the building was prepared for planting by Little Folks' right-hand-man, Pete Hesprich. Once ready, the teachers and children planted their seeds. They nurtured their garden all summer long. They weeded and watered and watched their sprouts grow daily. Once mature, they harvested and ate their vegetables. Vegetables that were grown in the Little Folks garden were: orange and purple carrots, celery, peas, green peppers, cucumbers, zucchini, melons, cherry tomatoes, and purple beans. All summer long, there were lessons that went along with the gardening. The Little Folks teachers partnered with Wellspring Educational Center and Organic Farm, who provided information and teaching tools. The children participated in "Veggie of the Month". They learned about a new vegetable, tried new recipes and had testings each month.

Kremer's Korner

—Guest Editorial By 59th Assembly District Representative Jesse Kremer

Observations Of A New Legislator

I am often asked if my most recent occupation as a state legislator is everything that I expected. To be honest, I did not know what to expect. When I ran for office I had no idea what a legislator gets paid, no idea how to draft a law and no idea how to pass a massive state budget. However, since becoming an elected official I have learned many things and have also realized that some commonly held misconceptions about public office are not necessarily reality. Three of those misconceptions are career politicians, lobbyists and partisan politics. First, I have been surprised to find that there are more than a few legislators in our state who are not stereotypical politicians. Our government was never intended to be filled with career politicians, but rather with folks who have worked in the trenches like everybody else and are one day called upon to serve and represent their neighbors in an elected position. These individuals, myself included, are willing to take on the tough issues, act in the best interest of their constituents regardless of what is popular and hold strong to traditional family and solid Christian principles. Second, another commonly misunderstood area of government is lobbying. Many constituents believe that lobbyists hover around the capitol attempting to influence our votes and the legislation that we pass. That is not the case. Lobbyists are experts in their field and serve as spokespersons for a particular industry or group, communicating the wishes of those they represent to legislators and the public to raise awareness on an issue. Lobbyists are extremely knowledgeable in the specific areas that they represent and, as such, are excellent resources when drafting legislation. I will never sign on to any bill or be prodded into voting for something with which the majority of my district and I would not agree.

Finally, the issue of partisan politics. The media often portrays a lot of head butting and stonewalling between Democrats and Republicans. That could not be further from the truth. Although I rarely agree with my Democrat counterparts, I do not disrespect them. When we pass each other in the capitol we not only say hello, but respectfully address each other as Representative or Senator. We joke in committee hearings and amongst each other and, believe it or not, we meet in each other's offices on occasion. It is actually comical at times to witness Democrat committee members turn on the rhetoric when the camera is rolling, just to get that splash on the evening news. As you can imagine, my first eight months has been extremely educational. I look forward to continuing to help move this state forward should you grant me the honor of continuing to serve this district in the years to come.

The Silbernagel Group Shredding Event Was A Success

The shredding event held on September 18 held by the Silbernagel Group was a success. Three tons of papers were collected in three hours. This paper will be taken to local paper mills where it will be made into consumer products as cups, napkins, paper towels.

According the 2015 Earth911, one ton of shredded paper saves 17 trees, 380 gallons of oil and 7,000 gallons of water. This means the community of Kewaskum saved 41 trees, 1,140 gallons of oil and 21,000 gallons of water in three hours. Thank you

Kewaskum. And many of our homes now have a little more room and are better protected against identity theft.

The next Community Shredding Event sponsored by the Silbernagel Group will be held on May 20, 2016.

Kewaskum Kiwanis Turkey Shoot Raises Funds To Help Community

The warm sun was a welcome sight for the Kewaskum Kiwanis on Saturday, Sept. 12 as members finished their final preparations for their 64th annual Turkey Shoot.

Crowds started arriving before 10 a.m., looking for deals from the Regal Ware truck loaded with pots and pans. By 10 a.m. the sounds of the rifles, shot guns and pistols could be heard in the West Bend/Barton Sportsman's Club, located off Friendly Drive. Bow and arrow events attracted many people as well, as enthusiasts tried to win their turkey for Thanksgiving.

For those who weren't interested in shooting for a turkey, there were raffles throughout the day with chances to win one.

In addition to turkey raffles, there were 50/50 raffles, gun raffles and the big prize raffles held throughout the day.

Winners of the 10 main prizes were: Weber gas grill – Alissa Hartman; 12 Bird Pheasant hunt – John Beistle; Regal Ware cookware set – Rick Schumaker; 42-inch LG LED Television – Melissa Kratz; four-person sporting clays – Heather Rettler; Husquarna chainsaw -Jim Dorn; $250 Fleet

Farm Gift Card – Rob Johnson; $500 BP gas card – Dave Donath; $500 Piggly Wiggly gift card – Cam Nelson; and a Ruger American .270 gun – Marilyn Edwards.

The following organizations contributed to the event: Kewaskum Piggly Wiggly, Kewaskum BP, Kettle Moraine Appliance and TV, Barton Small Engine, Tennes Ace Hardware, Wild Wings Hunt Club, West Bend Barton Sportsman's Club, Barton Small Engine and Cedar Lake Sales.

It took many people to run this event and all should be proud of what they accomplished, especially Kewaskum Kiwanis Club members Mike Heberer and Jim Dorn, who spearheaded this event.

So whether you won a turkey or not, remember that the Kewaskum Kiwanis Club will be back next year for the 65th Annual Turkey Shoot the first Saturday after Labor Day.

The Kewaskum Kiwanis Club meets every Monday night at the American Legion in Kewaskum. The meeting starts at 6 p.m. with a great meal catered by Gateway Café and Catering with the business meeting following.

New members are always welcome as we continue to focus on our main objective, the youth of the community.

Kewaskum Farmers' Market Is Main Attraction

By Anne Trautner

All summer long, people flocked to the parking lot on Main Street in on Thursday mornings to purchase vegetables, fruit, herbs, flowers, crafts and homemade items at the Kewaskum Farmers' Market.

"We have had many weeks that have been almost sell-out weeks," said Julie Dierks, who was responsible for starting the market at its new location this year. "It helps all the businesses here. It helps the community, and it helps the other vendors and the farmers."

Until this year, the Kewaskum Farmers' Market had been held in the parking lot behind the American Legion off U.S. Highway 45.

"That farmers' market had been going about 30 years. It was just a very sad, depressed market. We wouldn't have customers for half an hour at a time," Dierks said.

So Dierks decided to do something to boost sales and attendance. In January, she approached the village board with a petition signed by Main Street businesses.

"Unanimously, they said yes, please," Dierks said.

"I think this is nice because you get more traffic," said Darlene Pesch, who has been selling products from her and Harold Pesch's hobby farm near Auburn Lake for years.

This year, the new location attracted new vendors, such as Simon McGhee, who sells his father's baked goods.

"We mainly do the West Bend market, but we live right across the street, so we decided to do this one too," McGhee said.

For the most part, business has been good, especially when the weather cooperates, McGhee said.

Vendors have sold a wide array of vegetables. Organic garlic, beets, celery, rhubarb, tomatoes, corn, peppers, celery, kale, zucchini, rhubarb, cauliflower and herbs have been displayed on the stands.

Flowers and baked goods are also offered, as well as homemade pickles, jams, soaps, dog treats, clothing, jewelry and crafts.

"The first week of October we will be offering 50 broiler chickens. We are raising them right now in pasture. They are organic, very healthy birds," Dierks said.

Dierks' farm-fresh eggs have been a big hit.

"We bring coolers full of eggs, and we sell out every week. We have people here at 8 a.m., when the market opens, to get the eggs," Dierks said.

Local farmer Gene Schultz, who is 78, started selling his produce 43 years ago.

"I do all the seeding and the vegetables. I try to seed 3,000 seeds a day, individually in little cells," said Schultz, who owns Mayfield Nursery. "My great-grandfather lived to be 94 doing this, eating what he grew. So darn it, he set the precedent now."

The cost to be a vendor is $25 for the season.

"The cost is very minimal," Dierks said. "I know the West Bend downtown market is $280 for the season. They draw a lot more traffic than we do, but you know what? I would prefer to be at a smaller market myself. I mean, there you are up against 80 other vegetable vendors."

Customers seem to prefer the Kewaskum market as well, with many regulars coming back each week, Dierks said.

"We have had a lot of people say they don't like to fight the traffic down there, so they would rather come here," Dierks said.

Moving the market has helped breathe life back to businesses along Main Street, especially after the road had been closed all of last summer for construction, Dierks said.

Market Lessons

Not only do customers get produce when they come to the Kewaskum Farmers' Market, but they receive helpful advice as well.

Fresh cauliflower can be frozen, Schultz told patron Tammy DuFour.

Natalie Soper learned how to get jam to gel without using pectin or sugar when she shopped at Biggie and Bubba's Busy Bees' stand.

Dierks offered a tip to customers Jim and Nancy Harmon about how to keep bugs away from their organic green peppers: plant dill next to them.

The vendors themselves have learned lessons by working at the farmers market. Dierks, who is expecting her 10th child in February, said the farmer's market is a good learning opportunity for her children, whom she home schools.

"Most of the kids have their own gardens, so they are little entrepreneurs as well," Dierks said.

In addition, preparing for the market is a fun project for the kids, she said.

"They love watching all their stuff grow. We sit down at supper every night, and they just say, 'Look at this, we grew all of this. I mean, every single night we go through the plate, and all the kids get so excited. Even our four-year-old is eating kale, because they know that we grew it. It is fun for them,'" Dierks said.

Plus, the children learn how to make change and interact with customers, Dierks said.

When asked what their favorite part about working at the market was, 12-year-old Sam Dierks and 10-year-old Joe Dierks, true capitalists, did not hesitate to answer.

"Selling," they said.

2015 Winter Drive: Keep Our Community Warm This Winter!

Even here in Kewaskum, there are many families struggling to meet their basic needs. Some families are not as fortunate as others. By donating clothing or boots for winter weather, you are relieving the burden of poverty and bring the gift of happiness to people in our community.

Basic needs are a real struggle for some families. Warm winter clothing gives a child newfound freedom to play more, learn more and do more. Warm winter clothing gives an adult a new sense of worth, dignity and the courage to keep moving forward.

The Silbernagel Group along with the Kewaskum Food Pantry is sponsoring a collection for winter jackets, coats, fleece blankets, throws, mittens, hats, scarves, sweaters in good condition and new winter boots in all sizes for females or males, infant to adult. Clothing and new

Kewaskum Middle School Students Celebrate Healthy Living

By Anne Trautner

Music blasted as Kewaskum Middle School students played soccer, dribbled basketballs, tossed footballs and ran around the track.

As the youth exercised, different students announced their favorite healthy snacks over the loudspeaker.

"Bananas," one student said, and the crowd cheered.

"Let's hear it for yogurt," Jeffrey Grotenhuis, a physical education teacher at Kewaskum Middle School and an advisor for the Fuel Up To Play 60 program, after another student announced her favorite snack.

The hubbub was a kickoff for the school's Fuel Up To Play 60 program, a national school nutrition and physical activity program.

"Fuel Up To Play 60 is a program at Kewaskum Middle School where we encourage you, the students, the teachers, the community, to make healthy choices by eating a healthy diet and getting exercise, 60 minutes every day," Grotenhuis said.

Held during the school day on Sept. 11, the kickoff event spurred many middle school students to log their first mile of a 100-mile challenge. Over the course of the school year, the students are encouraged to walk or run 100 miles outside the school day.

"One component to our Fuel Up To Play 60 program is a Hundred Mile Club. A hundred miles! How many people think they can run or walk 100 miles?" Grotenhuis asked the students. "From now until the end of school, it's about half a mile a day. That's about eight or nine minutes of walking every day."

Many of the students participated in the 100-mile challenge last year, School Principal Julie Skelton said.

"The Fuel Up To Play 60 actually has quite an impact on our school. Not only do they organize things like the kickoff, but they also help organize all the tastings each month for the new vegetable of the month. We confer with them whenever we are looking at adding more activity to the day or if we have to change things up with their recess," Skelton said.

The Fuel Up to Play 60 program, which is created in partnership locally with the Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board and the NFL in cooperation with USDA, is in more than 73,000 schools nationwide. The goal is to empower students to eat healthy, be active and make positive changes in their schools and communities.

Skelton said she thinks the program has been successful.

"With the kickoff and things like that, the kids really do appreciate it because they are more active. With the tastings, it really actually has increased the amount of kids willing to try some of those vegetables and things that they otherwise would not have tried," Skelton said.

Some of the students serve as ambassadors for the program.

"They do take their ambassador roles very seriously. That is their job, to help get kids active and healthier. They help promote that all the time.," Skelton said.

Other students look up to the ambassadors, Skelton said.

This is the third year the middle school has participated in Fuel Up To Play 60, Skelton said.

The program is held at other schools in the area, including the i4Learning Community School and Farmington Elementary School. Farmington Elementary recently received a $500 grant from Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board/Fuel Up To Play 60 to support the program.

Wisconsin Newspaper Association Honors Former Kewaskum Statesman Publisher

By Anne Trautner

Marcie Harbeck, who published the Kewaskum Statesman for more than 30 years, loved the newspaper business.

"Other than her kids, that was her life," Harbeck's daughter, Lana Kuehl, said.

Harbeck, who died Jan. 5 at the age of 95, was honored at a ceremony in Eagle River on Friday, Sept. 18. Harbeck was one of nine former Wisconsin newspaper publishers whose names were enshrined on the Wisconsin Newspaper Association Foundation Memorial Pylon.

"Grandma thought it was such an honor to publish the village's newspaper. For her to be up here, is just phenomenal," Harbeck's grandson Andrew Kuehl said.

The pylon sits on the campus of Trees For Tomorrow, a nonprofit organization formed in 1944 by a group of Wisconsin newspaper and electric utility companies dedicated to reforesting northern Wisconsin. The 30 acres of forested land is now used as a convention and education center.

"It is a splendid venue. For those who have toiled in Wisconsin's journalistic vineyard, this is hallowed ground," said Bill Haupt, former Wisconsin Newspaper Association president and publisher of the Lodi Enterprise. "They have modeled citizenship through our profession. These monuments reflect our gratitude for their inspiring examples."

The names of Harbeck's husband, William Harbeck, and his father, Donald Harbeck, are also engraved on the memorial.

Marcie Harbeck was born in Milwaukee and moved to Kewaskum when she was a child. In 1938, she married Bill Harbeck, whose father, Don Harbeck, had owned the Kewaskum Statesman since 1917.

In 1954, The Kewaskum Statesman was passed on to Marcie and Bill Harbeck, who ran the paper for more than 30 years. The Harbecks passed the paper on to their daughter, Lana Kuehl, who in turn passed it on to her son and his wife, Andrew and Nicole Kuehl. The Kuehls sold the paper to Andrew and Laura Johnson earlier this year.

Marcie Harbeck is survived by two daughters, eight grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren. Many of the family members came to last week's ceremony in Eagle River.

Just as his parents had done for him years ago, Andrew Kuehl showed his two sons, Hunter and Riley, the names of their ancestors on the memorial.

"I was truly born with printer's ink in my veins, as those are my first memories," Lana Kuehl said.

Working under her parents' guidance, Lana Kuehl witnessed technological advancements in the newspaper business over her lifetime.

"From where the newspaper business was, almost in its infancy, to where it is today is just mind boggling," Lana Kuehl said.

Lana Kuehl remembers her family using cardboard mats to create ads and wheels to figure out what size pictures should be. She remembers the belt tearing on the folding machine when her father would fold the papers, and family members sewing up the belt.

She recalls her grandfather setting the newspaper, letter by letter.

"Each letter was in its own cubicle, with a separate one for each capital letter and lowercase letter. That's 52 letters, and they knew where each little cubicle was by heart," Lana Kuehl said.

One of Marcie Harbeck's jobs was using the linotype machine.

"You never heard a swear word, ever, out of my mother's mouth, unless she was behind the linotype," Lana Kuehl said.

The newspaper business took up much of her family's time, and Lana Kuehl remembers falling asleep on top of the press as a child.

"How I climbed up there, I'll never know. It went almost to the ceiling. When I wanted to play or I wanted to take a nap, I'd go to the top of the press," Lana Kuehl said.

Two generations later, Lana Kuehl's grandson, 16-year-old Hunter Kuehl, remembers playing and taking naps on a pile of newspapers.

In addition to publishing the newspaper, the family printed various jobs.

"As a matter of fact, usually around Easter weekend, the firemen would have their picnic, and that was one of the biggest runs, with about 10,000 tickets. I wanted to get out of Good Friday services, so I told my mother I'll print those tickets," Lana Kuehl said.

Although Marcie Harbeck's family no longer publishes a newspaper, the family lives on in newspaper posterity at the Trees for Tomorrow center in Eagle River. It is a place that unites the family lineage with newspaper professionals everywhere.

"At the end of the day, our labor complete, and the paper put to bed, our Wisconsin newspaper family gathers here, at Trees," Haupt said. "We renew bonds with our sisters and brothers who walk a similar path, and we gather here in this garden to remember those whose service continues to inspire us, like the call of the loon or the lope of a whitetail. Today, and in the future, we will gather on this ground to honor our legacy and renew and strengthen our professional commitment."

A Brief History Of The Kewaskum Statesman

Charles E. Krahn founded the Kewaskum Statesman on Oct. 5, 1895. George Schmidt purchased a one-half interest in the paper in April 1909 and became the sole owner in September 1910.

In 1917, Don Harbeck and Art Schaefer purchased the paper from Schmidt. Schaefer died in 1932, and Don Harbeck became the sole owner.

Upon Don Harbeck's death in 1954, Don Harbeck's son and his wife, Bill and Marcie Harbeck, purchased the operation and served as publishers until selling to their daughter, Lana Kuehl. Marcie Harbeck worked part-time for the paper until 2004.

The Statesman office was located at 250 Main St. from 1935 until 2004, when it moved to 355 Main St. In 2006, it moved to 240 Main St.

On May 28, 2015, Andrew and Laura Johnson purchased the Kewaskum Statesman and moved the office to 1032 Fond du Lac Ave.

Prochnow's On Target; Indians Burn Ripon With The Passing Game

By Judy Harlow

Anyone who thinks Kewaskum is a one dimensional running football team, better think again.

The Indians also have a potent passing attack, which they unleashed on host Ripon Friday night to the tune of a convincing 43-6 victory, their fifth straight of the season.

Senior Michael Prochnow completed 17 of 21 passes, torching the Tigers for 261 yards and three touchdowns. All three scoring aeri- als came in the first half when the Indians raced out to a 33-0 lead over Ripon, which has only won seven football games in the last five years, and only one this fall, that coming last week against Campbellsport.

"We just took when they gave us," KHS coach Jason Piittmann said about going heavily to the pass. "He (Prochnow) was making good reads and threw the ball well."

Piittmann said Ripon concentrated on stopping the Indians' ace running back, Brandon Thull, and they also put two defenders on Charlie Witek, and, "That opened the other guys. (Eric) Doll, (Josh) Baker and (Steven) (Nurkala) had big nights!"

Baker was Prochnow's favorite target on this night. The five-foot, 11-inch, 170-pound speedster was on the receiving end of seven passes, covering 88 yards. Baker hauled in an eight-yard strike with 8:30 left in the second quarter. It was his first touchdown of the year.

Fellow senior Doll made some big catches for the winners. He caught four passes for 81 yards, a 20.2

yards per catch average and one touchdown, the Indians' first of the night on their first drive.

Then there's the dependable and versatile Nurkala, who is a real threat coming out of the backfield. He also caught four passes for 71 yards and scored on a thrilling 41-yard play midway in the first quarter.

Fullback Berat Elmazi caught a pair of passes, for 21 yards and sophomore Tony Steger added one for seven yards.

With the yardage from this game, Prochnow pushed his season passing total to 752 yards, including 505 yards in the three conference wins. Against Ripon, he had an impressive quarterback rating of 138.2.

Oh, the Indians did run the ball, too. Brandon Thull went over the 100-yard mark for the fifth time this year, grinding out 107 yards in 25 carries and three touchdowns, bringing his season total to 16. The 4.3 yards per carry was Thull's lowest mark of 2015, but winning is more on his mind than individual accomplishments.

Piittmann said Thull's longest run was between 10 and 20 yards, most of the others were in the shorter one to four-yard range. "A lot of tough yards," Piittmann said, adding, "Ripon has a good defense."

So does Kewaskum, which halted the Tigers series after series. "We really controlled possession," Piittmann said. "Ripon had just one first down at halftime. They were three and out most of the time."

The key to this effort, according to the coach, was "Our front five stuffed them," referring to the play of Adam Fechter, Ben Watzig, Jason Hanson, Tommy Strom and Patrick Krier. Ripon was limited to 72 yards rushing and 36 passing, and some of that yardage came near the end of the game when the reserves were playing for KHS.

Also cited were the three Indians who had interceptions, Baker, Scott Hiltunen and Zach Thull. "They were in good position," the coach said.

Shawn Timm scored Ripon's lone touchdown a 68-yard run early in the fourth quarter.

Kewaskum added touchdown number six, a one-yard run by Thull, early in the fourth quarter and finished off the game with a 30-yard field goal by sophomore Cade Peterson. Piittmann said he asked Peterson what his range was in the pre-game warmups and he answered he was good from 20 yards in. "We got to the 18, so I thought let's give it a shot, and he made it," the coach said.

The win was Kewaskum's third straight in the new East Central Conference. Berlin, also 3-0, was a 55-7 winner over Waupun, while Plymouth, 2-1, blasted Kettle Moraine Lutheran 55-20. Games against Berlin and Plymouth are coming up on October 2 and 16, respectively.

The Indians' next order of business, according to Piittmann, is continuing to improve and eliminate mistakes. "We still have too many mental errors," the coach said. "It's the little things that are going to make a difference" in the big EC games coming up and in the playoffs. "That's on our to-do list, and first we want to get that fourth (conference) win so we know we are in for sure."

Kewaskum is at Waupun Friday night. It should be a big night for Thull, who is a pretty good bet to go over the 1,000-yard mark for the season. Thull, who has drawn attention from several Missouri Valley schools and members of the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, has carried the ball 99 times for 885 yards.

"We're hoping for a fast start so we can get confidence early," Piittmann said.

East Central Conference standings (tie) Kewaskum and Berlin, 3-0; 3. (tie) Plymouth and Winneconne, 2-1; 5. (tie) Ripon and KML, 1-2; 7. (tie) Campbellsport and Waupun, 0-3.

Schedule for September 26: Kewaskum at Waupun; Winneconne at KML; Campbellsport at Berlin; Ripon at Plymouth.

KHS Golfers Gearing Up For Conference Test

By Judy Harlow

While the Hartford girls golf team was the big story in the Wisconsin Little Ten mini-tour finale (and all season), Kewaskum finally had a full team for the meet held at Hartford CC, and the Indians did well.

Hartford won the meet with an impressive 171 on scores of 38, 40, 46 and 47. Next came the combined West Bend East/West team at 186, followed by Watertown, 193; Beaver Dam, 199; Oconomowoc; and Kewaskum, 259.

With the win, the Orioles were a perfect six of six in mini meets.

"Our best showing as a team this season," KHS Coach Amy Uhlig said about the Indians. "I am happy about the experience that our young kids are gaining this year, even though it's tough to be at the bottom of the pack each week."

About Leah Wilde's successful nine-over-par 46, Uhlig said, "Leah continues to be consistent, but I'm hoping she has a round in the 80s stored up for the 18-hole conference tournament next week."

Grace Kober was next with a 64, followed by Taylor Cook, who had her best round of the season, a 67. Tina Bolek shot an 82.

Current WLT standings: 1. Hartford, 6 points; 2. West Bend, 14; 3. Watertown, 21; 4. Beaver Dam, 25; 5. Oconomowoc, 25; 6. Kewaskum, 36.

On September 19, the Indians played in the Appleton West Invitational. While they didn't have enough golfers to qualify as a team, Wilde and Cook both provided highlights.

Wilde first an 85 on rounds of 47 and 47, and Uhlig said this was "definitely something she needed to give her momentum as we head into the conference tournament (September 23)."

Cook finished with a 65-58-125, a round Uhlig was very pleased with. "Her ball striking has come a long way, and I hope this is a turning point for her," the coach said, reporting Kober missed the meet because of illness.

The day before, the Indians took fourth in the Washington County

Scramble held at Erin Hills and won by Hartford, which came in with a 32 and 38 for a 70.

Wilde and Bolek teamed up for a 38, while the Cook/Kober team had a 51.

"The girls had a blast out there and as always, we were so incredibly thankful to have the opportunity to play there again," Uhlig said. Erin Hills is hosting the U.S. Open in 2017.

On September 14, two members of the team competed as individuals in the annual Sheboygan Invitational played at Sheboygan Town and Country Golf Course.

Wilde finished in a tie for 23rd place with a 47-47-94. Except for a pair of eights, "She was solid," Uhlig said.

Kober, playing 18 holes for the first time, came in with a 57-62-119. "I thought she had a very nice showing," Uhlig said. "(I am) Hoping she can continue to build consistency for her game for the remainder of the season."

DePere claimed the team title with a 358, five shots ahead of Cedarburg.

KHS Spikers Overcome Injury, Lineup Changes To Win Silver Title

By Judy Harlow

Even with two players missing from the starting lineup and another girl going down with an injury in the second match, Kewaskum's volleyball team managed to win the Silver Bracket of the Fall River Invitational held last Saturday.

The Indians started the day going up against host Fall River, which featured KHS coach Laine Leitzke going up against his mother Ruth's team, and it was a real battle, which Fall River won 25-22 and 25-19.

"We were right there and just quite couldn't get the win," the KHS coach said, reporting Fall River, which has just 138 students and competes in Division 4 in the WIAA tournament series, had a very good club and wound up second overall on the day.

In the next match vs. Dodgeland, the Indians struggled a bit after losing Elizabeth Lightner to an injury but rallied to win 23-25, 25-20 and 15-7. Leitzke said sophomore Brittany Williams came in to finish up at the end and did a nice job.

New Lisbon proved to be the better team in match number three, winning 25-13 and 25-21, and Leitzke said with Lightner out, one girl at home sick and another at a wedding, "We had to change our lineup to something a bit different than what we are accustomed to doing," Leitzke said. "We wish we could have that match with New Lisbon back with our normal lineup."

With their 1-2 record, the Indians were placed in the Silver Division where they defeated Horicon 25-17 and 25-10 and beat Dodgeland for the second time, 25-20 and 25-23. Sometimes facing a team in a rematch during a tournament can be difficult because the other team is motivated to avenge its loss, but Leitzke said, "To the credit of our girls, they pushed through and didn't let Dodgeland take a set.

For the day, Amanda

Schaller and Hailey Schicker were the leaders in kills, with 17 and 13, respectively, while Hailey Kleinhans, Morgan Kappler and Sarah Butschlick each chipped in with 10.

Kleinhans was far and away the assist leader with 40, while Ellie Landreville topped the diggers with 34. Butschlick, Schicker and Schaller each had three blocks, and Kleinhans had the most aces, seven, while Butschlick and Schaller chipped in with six and five, respectively.

No report was received on the match against Ripon.

Kewaskum, currently 6-14 in overall matches, is at Waupun tonight (Thursday). The Warriors are the defending Eastern Wisconsin Conference champs but are struggling this season so perhaps the Indians are catching them at the right time. On Saturday, Kewaskum travels to Oshkosh for the Titan Tussle.

Little By Little, Soccer Team Is Getting Better

By Judy Harlow

Progress is being made by the members of the Kewaskum High soccer team, but it still isn't significant enough for the Indians to win games.

Last week, Kewaskum came out on the short end of a 3-0 decision to Waupun, which was followed by a 5-1 home loss to Berlin.

"It's starting to sound like a broken record, but we are playing better soccer," KHS coach John Kenworthy said. "I am proud of the progress we are making."

The story of the loss to Waupun was the Warriors' size and strength. "Waupun is a physical team, and we are frankly too small and slight to match up consistently," Kenworthy said, reporting Joe Sanborn was a bright spot for the Indians as he came up with four shots and connected on 89 percent of his passes.

"Overall, I felt our offensive shape was far better than in previous games," the coach went on, but, "Unfortunately our outside midfielders were responsible for the majority of our turnovers off of the dribble, meaning that they were not even in the process of trying to shoot or pass the ball."

Cited for their fine play were defensive midfielder Nate Heniadis, who had to drop back and play defense when Hayden Koralewski pulled a chronically tight hamstring before half, and keeper Conner Enright with his 12 saves and accurate distribution of the ball.

About the game against Berlin, Kenworthy said, "We had some opportunities in the first half, but the shots did not fall." The coach liked the fact freshman Matthew Krautkramer brought energy off the bench and earned two good shots.

The Indians were down 3-0 at half, but Kenworthy said, "We did not quit," with midfielder Sean Brockmann taking the challenge on his shoulders and making a beautiful run in the second half. "He made a beautiful pass to attacking midfielder Noel Bindrich, who found a seam and ably shot the ball into the back of the net."

Also cited for good play was outside defenders Devon Buck, who was playing very capably before taking an accidental kick to the head and suffered a concussion. "The concern of the Berlin, parents, coaches and players was a class act on their part," Kenworthy said. "Devon was fortunate he was able to walk away."

With the two losses, Kewaskum is 0-5 in East Central play and 0-9-1 overall.

Rohlinger Prevails With Birdie On Third Extra Hole

By Judy Harlow

After a nine-year drought, Jim Rohlinger is back in the winner's circle of the Kettle Moraine Amateur Golf Tournament which was held this past weekend on the Blue and White Nines at Hon-E-Kor Country Club.

Rohlinger, who now lives in West Bend but grew up on the HEK course where his dad, Norb, is a charter member, overcame a one shot deficit on No. 17 to pull even with Ethan Geidel and then used a birdie on the third extra hole to capture the title.

"It was a real good day ... tension back and forth," Rohlinger said. "It was fun."

Geidel had a one-shot lead after the first day, shooting a three-over-par 73 in Saturday's opening round. Rohlinger started with a 74, while former champion Craig Anderson and Jay Krueger, the current Hon-E-Kor men's champion and defending KMA champion, were next in the standings and made up the foursome for the final day of play.

Both men shot 35 on the Blue Nine Sunday so "I was still down by one" at the turn, Rohlinger said, reporting he was happy with the way he was playing but concerned because he hurt his back on the sixth hole.

"Up to the sixth hole, I was getting up and down," Rohlinger said, but when he pulled his drive on No. 6, "I pulled a muscle in my back," and from then on he had pain, especially on the follow through off his shots. "After I hit the ball, it would just tighten up."

Still, Rohlinger forged on, and on No. 11 (White No. 2), "Ethan had an unfortunate four-putt," meaning the match was tied. Not for long, however, as Geidel came right back and birdied No. 12.

Geidel continued to lead with pars on Nos. 13 and 14 and a birdie on No. 15, and then it was Rohlinger's turn to battle back. He did so on the peninsula hole, No. 17, which has determined the winner of several former KML titles and was significant again Sunday.

Rohlinger said he hit first and put his drive smack dab in the middle of the fairway, a spot both Geidel and Anderson wished they could have duplicated. They didn't however. Anderson put his drive in the Milwaukee River on the left side, while Geidel drove his ball into the water on the right.

Anderson eventually took a triple bogey on the hole, while eliminated his chances of winning, while Geidel made a five, and Rohlinger said he hit onto the green and two-putted for a routine par.

Geidel was happy to make five, considering he was 200 yards from hole and hitting his third shot. "I hit the green and made bogey," he said, indicating he didn't realize he needed a birdie to win on No. 18. "Honestly, going into 18, I didn't know my standing. I was just trying to play the best I could," he said, indicating he left his birdie try one roll short of going in.

When both men parred No. 18, they ended the 36 holes of regulation with 145s, Rohlinger's on a 74-71, and Geidel with his 73-72. So the two men headed back to the first hole on the Blue Nine to begin a sudden death playoff, which started with both men "burning the edges" of the cup on birdie tries, settling for pars.

On No. 2, Rohlinger said the two also recorded par fours, so the marched on to the par-five, third hole, and the approach shots were the determining factors. Geidel hit a branch on his second shot, then chipped on, to the left of the cup, which Rohlinger said was "a pretty tough putt."

"It made my putt a little easier," Rohlinger, who had settled a nine-iron to within seven feet, said.

Geidel three-putted for six, while Rohlinger drained his for a birdie and the win.

"I thought I had a good shot, but it nicked a couple branches and came right down," Geidel said. "I just couldn't keep it low enough."

No. 3 can be a tough putting hole with the pin in the front right. One the first try, Geidel said he hit it past and couldn't get the comeback try and had to settle for a bogey.

Even though he just missed winning, Geidel was happy with his play. "This is the best I've ever done in it (KMA). "On Saturday I scrambled, and Sunday I hit the ball very well but couldn't make my putts," he said. "I wasn't upset about it (taking second). Jim played well."

This capped a good year for Rohlinger, who said he did not play well during 2014, but dropped his handicap three shots in '15.

And is he happy about winning the title for a second time? "I am, except for my back. I will be going to the chiropractor tomorrow," Rohlinger said.

Eighth Grade Gridiron Survive Defensive Struggle

The Eighth grade Gridiron and Slinger Red battled in a defensive struggle with Kewaskum holding on for the 14-8 victory, improving their record to 2-0 on the season.

The game started quickly with the Kewaskum defense forcing a fumble on Slinger's third play from scrimmage and recovering it around Slinger's 30 yard line. From there, it only took two runs, one for 24 yards and the touchdown run of eight yards for Running Back J.J. Thull to punch it into the end zone for the Indians. Thull's two-point kick went through the uprights to make the score 8-0 Indians, early in the first quarter. After the initial score the teams traded several punts with the offenses unable to get anything going. Right before the end of the first half the Slinger's Quarterback threw a pass up for grabs which was intercepted by safety Ty Cook, and he returned it inside the Slinger 15 yard line with time for one more play before halftime. Cook's pass, intended for tight end Jay Horning, was broken up at the goal line to keep the score at 8-0 heading into halftime.

Kewaskum received the second half kickoff and again it only took two plays for the Indians to score with the touchdown coming on a 57 yard touchdown run by Thull. The two-point kick failed this time so the score was 14-0 in favor of Kewaskum. Just like the first half, after the initial score the defenses again took over. Slinger did manage to march it inside Kewaskum's 5 yard line but again fumbled the football and the Indians recovered. After a punt by Kewaskum, Slinger was able to put a drive together that ended in a touchdown. The two-point kick was good and the score was 14-8 with about two minutes remaining in the game. Slinger attempted an onside-kick, which was recovered by the Indians.

The offense for the Kewaskum was then able to get a first down and then took a couple of knees to seal the victory.

The Indians were lead offensively by running back J.J. Thull who had 12 carries for 117 yards and two touchdowns. The Indians offense for the second consecutive game didn't commit a turnover. The defense on the other hand forced three turnovers for the second consecutive game and had a solid overall group effort in helping to secure the victory. The next game is at home against Thiensville-Mequon White on Saturday, Sept. 26, at 9 a.m.

Fifth Grade Gridiron Has Two Great Games To Start The Season

The season opener for fifth grade Gridiron team was on Sept. 12 against Greendale. Kewaskum beat Greendale 12-6 with an amazing interception by Carson Rolf for a 50 yard touchdown.

Kewaskum hosted Nicolet on Sept. 19 for their second game of the season. The first quarter was full of a lot of action. Nicolet advanced down field quickly for the first score. Kewaskum answered back as quarterback Owen Parish pitched the ball to Carter Curtin for a 20 yard touchdown. The extra point attempt by Dillon Steger was blocked leaving the score 6-7 at the end of the quarter.

Second quarter had the defensive duo of Hunter Loser and Dillon Steger holding Nicolet on their fourth down attempt. Kewaskum took over on the 48 yard line with one minute and thirty seconds left in the half. Nicolet defense held the Indians on the fourth down and the score was 6-7 at halftime.

Kewaskum's third quarter drive had running back Donovan Zillmer breaking through the defense line like a cannon. Zillmer ran 70 yards for a touchdown. Parish completed a pass to Derek May for the extra point. Kewaskum was able to pull ahead 13-7.

Adam Gliniecki was outstanding on defense with three consecutive tackles holding them at fourth and sixth. Nicolet finished their drive with a touchdown of their own. Kewaskum was unable to answer and the third quarter ended with a score of 13-13.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter, Kewaskum defense again made some excellent tackles, with Cale Fedorski enforcing a loss of yards on the third down. Nicolet pitched the ball to their running back to attempt a fourth and 15 but Brody Kral put an end to that. Kewaskum took over at the 42 yard line with six minutes and 10 seconds left in the game. Parish completed a pass to Derek May for a five yard gain. Then Ryan Cook carried the ball for eight yards followed by Curtin for another first down. Excitement was growing in the stands as Kewaskum was first and goal. Parish pitched to Zillmer and he ran in for another touchdown. The extra point was no good leaving the score 19-13.

At the end Nicolet had just over three minutes to try and score. Kewaskum defense again held them to fourth and 15. Unfortunately, the quarterback sneak got pass our defense and Nicolet scored.

It was an exciting and tough battle for this 21 man squad and they walked off the field finishing their second game with a close score of Kewaskum 19-Nicolet 20.

Indians Keep Winning Despite The Loss Of A Key Player

By Judy Harlow

The skill level has been improving steadily this fall, and the girls on the Kewaskum High tennis team also showed great resiliency last week when they hung together and defeated Ripon 4-3 with their number one player, Jeray Riffel, on the sidelines.

"We were trying to hold on to our fourth place standing in 11-team (East Central) Conference when we learned Monday (September 14) our number one singles player suffered a severely sprained ankle on Saturday evening during a club soccer match," KHS coach Peter Garcia said.

Garcia said he took the "next man up attitude," and told his players all they needed to do was get one win one in singles and sweep the doubles, and that's exactly what they did.

"I couldn't be more proud of the entire team," the coach said, reporting Breanna Trepes, who moved up from No. 1 JV to play at No. 4 singles, won the final match to pull out the victory.

Kewaskum 4, Ripon 3

Singles: No. 1 Hunter Garcia lost to Maggie Raddatz, 0-6, 2-6; No. 2 Maddy Lehmann lost to Emily Goyette, 1-6, 0-6; No. 3 Julie Vollmar lost to Rachel Pepler, 1-6, 1-6; No. 4 Breanna Trepes beat Dayron Coehoorn, 6-3, 6-2

Doubles: No. 1 Julia Cotter/Laura Weishan beat Katelyn Scoville/Lauren Cook, 7-6 (7-4), 1-6, 6-2; No. 2 Morgan Wenzlaff/Sammie Wiskirchen beat Nicole M a g i n / S h a n n o n Kannenberg, 6-2, 6-3; No. 3 Kassidy Lange/Hana Preder beat Danielle Prellwitz/Alyssa Schmuhl, 6-0, 6-2

Two days later, the Indians made the long trip to Two Rivers and came back several hours later with a convincing 6-1 win over the Raiders.

"A few games into the match the rains came," Garcia said, reporting the players got back in the bus and headed for the YMCA in Manitowoc where the match was played on just three courts.

With Riffel still out with the ankle sprain, the coach moved Hunter Garcia up from No. 2 to No. 1 where she dominated November Seizert, 6-1, 6-2. Also winning in singles were Lehmann, Vollmar and Trepes. All were dominant, Garcia said.

The Indians won two of the three doubles matches, and Garcia pointed out the 6-0, 6-1 win by Morgan Wenzlaff and Sammie Wiskirchen at No. 2 was that duo's fifth conference victory in seven tries to date.

Kewaskum still has three conference competitions to go. If it wins two of the final three matches, Garcia is fairly certain his team will end up in fourth place, but it won't be based on individual match totals but team wins. "Prior to this year, conference standings were based on total flight conference wins," he said. "Apparently this year conference standings will be based on total matches won. It seems a 7-0 win will count the same as a 4-3 match."

With this new format, the Indians are currently 5-2, with remaining matches against Kewaunee, Chilton and perennial power Roncalli.

Kewaskum 6, Two Rivers 1

Singles: No. 1 Garcia beat Seizert, 6-1, 6-2; No. 2. Lehmann beat Lauren Sosnosky, 6-2, 6-2; No. 3 Vollmer beat Hannah Niemojuzki 1-0 Two Rivers forfeited after the first game; No. 4. Trepes beat Katelin Nelson, 6-0, 6-3 Doubles: No. 1 Julia Cotter/Laura Weishan lost to Megan Snosoky/Barry Weier, 6-7 (4-7), 2-6; No. 2 Wenzlaff/Wiskirchen beat Emily Johnson/ Hannah Shimanek, 6-0, 6-1; No. 3 Kassidy Lange/Hana Preder won by forfeit.

KHS will travel to Chilton this afternoon (Thursday) for a conference match.

EC standings: 1. Kohler, 8-0; 2. Roncalli, 5-0; 3. Plymouth, 4-1; 4. (tie) Kewaskum and Sheboygan Falls, 5-2; 6. Ripon, 3-4; 7. (tie) Kewaunee, Waupun, Chilton, Kiel, 1-5; 11. Two Rivers, 0-5.

Goeden Doubles His Pleasure, Clinches Second Straight Plymouth Title

By Judy Harlow

Local race car driver Don Goeden likes to finish what he starts.

Goeden, who opened the 2015 Plymouth Dirt Track Racing season with feature wins in two of the first three nights of action, won a heat race and the 30-lap feature on the final night to wrap up his second straight Sprint Car title.

"We had a good set up, a good crew, a good maintenance program and good sponsors," Goeden said Sunday night, a week after concluding the 2015 season. What he did not mention is the #10w bright red sprint car team has a smart and experienced driver, who know how to find the fastest part of the track and puts on good shows night in and night out. His numbers certainly support that statement.

Goeden started 16 shows this summer and made the A-main race every one of those nights. "We had eight total wins out of the 16 nights," Goeden said, adding, "We had no DNFs (did not finishes) and the lowest we finished was ninth" in any feature race. Goeden was also in the top five in 13 out of those 16 shows, which was another top mark for the year at Plymouth.

Goeden finished the year with 1,258 points, with Plymouth's Brandon McMullen second at 1,180 and Jimmy Melis, also of Plymouth, in third place with 1,130 and West Ben's Paul Pakorski fourth with 1,102 points. Another area drive, Kewaskum's Shane Wenninger, placed seventh with 926 points.

It looked like Goeden had a lock on the points title before the September 12 closing show even got underway, but Goeden said, "No, I had to run good and finish the races." When he won the second heat race and McMullen hit the wall in the same race, then the Championship Hood Racing Team began to celebrate.

"We started third in the heat, and we won that one," Goeden said, adding, "We started sixth in the feature and won that," taking the lead on Lap 5 and never looking back. "There were a couple of re-starts but we held 'em off." Pakorski finished second in the race.

McMullen's crew did get their car back on the track for the feature but had to start in the back of the pack and moved up to seventh, not enough to overtake Goeden but enough to secure the runner-up spot in the final standings.

"The track was fast that night. It was good all over,"

Goeden said, indicating he used the middle for a good portion of the race, then went to the bottom of the track where he continued to run well.

Afterward, Goeden said he, the car owners, Bob and Dawn Hood of Waukesha, the crew and many of his fans enjoyed their season accomplishments. "The Pub in Mayville brought in food. We just hung out in the pits and celebrated," Goeden said, grateful for the opportunity he received from the Hoods to drive full time again and for his sponsors for all their support. Top sponsors included: The Pub, Valley Hydro Excavation, Mark Schairer Excavation, the Iron Buffalo Saloon and Blue Leaving Company from Kewaskum.

Goeden said the Plymouth track had another successful season. "They had full crowds every night," he said, indicating even though the regular season has concluded, he intends to race in a special show coming up on Saturday, October 3, Officials at the third-mile track are bringing in drivers from the IRA (Interstate Racing Association), along with those who pilot 410 and 360 Sprint Cars for what should be a good show for racing fans.

Excellent Breeding Conditions Mean Wisconsin's Northern Zone Waterfowl Hunters Should Look Forward To Another Good year In The Field

Hunters looking to head out into the wetlands for the North Zone duck season should find good numbers of ducks when the season opens Saturday, Sept. 26, according to Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources staff.

"Although a few areas in the southern half of Wisconsin have begun to dry out, areas in northern Wisconsin have received abundant rainfall recently, and waterfowlers should have potential for a good hunting season," said DNR migratory game bird ecologist Kent Van Horn. "Continental breeding surveys reported a record numbers of ducks this spring - these surveys span 60 years. However, even with excellent continental breeding indications, local water levels and scouting will be the most important factors when pursuing ducks this fall."

New in 2015, opening day shooting hours will now begin one-half hour before sunrise (previously 9 a.m.) - this change is a result of a shift in public desires.

Many of the ducks harvested in Wisconsin are produced from locally nesting ducks breeding in the state's wetlands. According to Van Horn; mallards, wood ducks, green-winged teal and blue-winged teal are the four most abundant ducks in Wisconsin's fall hunting harvest.

The daily bag limit statewide is six ducks, including no more than:

- four mallards, of which only one may be a hen;
- one black duck;
- two canvasbacks (an increase from 2014);
- three wood ducks;
- two pintails;
- three scaup; and
- two redheads.

Five mergansers may be harvested daily, of which no more than two may be hooded mergansers; 15 coot may be harvested daily. For 2015, the possession limit has been increased to three times the daily bag limit.

The duck season in the northern zone opens on September 26 and continues through November 24.

"As always, hunters who do the early legwork — scouting for good wetland conditions and observing what areas birds are using — will have the most success," said Van Horn. "Hunter survey data in Wisconsin show that duck hunters who scouted three or more times harvested an average of 14.7 ducks, while those who did not scout harvested an average of 4.8 ducks per season."

Licenses and stamps required for duck hunting include a Wisconsin small game license, a Wisconsin waterfowl stamp, and a federal migratory bird stamp. The federal duck stamp will now cost $25

(an increase from $15 dollars) — a change suggested and supported by waterfowl hunters nationwide. There has not been an increase in the federal waterfowl stamp since the 1990s — a $10 increase will help protect additional upland and wetland waterfowl habitat.

The federal stamp can be purchased at a U.S. Post Office. Hunters will also have the option of purchasing the federal stamp privilege at DNR license vendors for an additional $2.50 surcharge. The purchase will be noted on their license, but the stamp itself will arrive weeks later in the mail.

Waterfowl and other migratory bird hunters must also register each year with the federal Harvest Information Program, which places them on a list of hunters that may receive a mailing asking them to provide a summary of their harvest. HIP registration is free and can be done at the time hunters purchase their licenses, but can always be added later on if a hunter decides they may pursue migratory game birds.

State licenses and stamps, permits, and HIP registration are also available through Wisconsin's Online Licensing Center.

For more information regarding waterfowl hunting in Wisconsin, search the DNR website, dnr.wi.gov, for keyword "waterfowl."

Avian Influenza In Wild Birds

Several federal agencies are working in cooperation with the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources to collect samples related to the research and surveillance of avian influenza in wild birds. This surveillance will help monitor for the virus during fall migration. Wild birds from targeted areas throughout the state will be sampled between now and spring 2016.

Avian influenza is a viral disease common in wild bird populations with many different subtypes — most do not cause obvious signs of disease in wild birds or have the ability to infect animals other than birds. While strains currently detected in the U.S. have caused mortality of domestic birds, they have not resulted in any illness in humans.

Samples will be collected from live-captured birds during DNR banding efforts and from hunter-harvested dabbling ducks, such as blue-winged teal, mallard, wood duck and Northern pintail. Federal staff will also be located at boat landings and other hunter access points this fall to sample ducks from willing hunters.

To learn more, search keywords "bird diseases."

A draft ordinance will be reviewed at the next Village Board meeting.

The Village Board discussed allowing the Kewaskum Kiwanis to store a file cabinet of documents in the Municipal Building basement. There was some concern about having sufficient space. Bob Flasch checks out an old pickup truck Sunday at the Grand Larsony's car show and benefit. The truck reminded Flasch of an old Dodge pickup that he had bought years ago for $25. Flasch had the truck tuned up and brake lines installed and sold the truck for $75.

Cars from across Wisconsin and Illinois gather in Kewaskum on Sunday for the Grand Larsony car show. This year's show benefited cancer patients Barry Hobelsberger and Tom Kudek.

The Grand Larsony car show and benefit in Kewaskum on Sunday attracts car collectors from across Wisconsin and Illinois. A total of 350 cars participated in the event, while another 100 were turned away because there was not enough space.

The first year, 98 cars participated in the event. The show has grown larger every year, Kissinger said.

On Sunday, cars came from as far away as Kiel, Tomahawk, La Crosse, Madison, Kenosha and Illinois to participate in the show. Each car paid $8 for a spot in the show, with all the money going to the benefit.

Last year, the event raised $11,000. On Sunday, it looked as though it would exceed that total.

While about 350 cars were featured in this year's show, another 100 cars were turned away because there was no more room, Kissy Kissinger said.

The weather has cooperated each year, except in 2013 and 2014, when it poured, said Ann Ruplinger, who has volunteered at the show since its beginning.

"People still came to this car show. We made as much in the rain. People brought canopies to set over things. Cars remained here, which shocked me. It was awesome," Ruplinger said.

A lot of volunteers help make the annual event a success. The American Legion and Modern Woodmen of America also contribute.

"Kissy starts going around for door prizes in the spring," Deb Kissinger, said. "People are very generous."

Kissy Kissinger hopes that someone from the car community will take over and continue the annual event.

"My husband turns 65 next year, so it's getting to be too much. It is a lot of work," Deb Kissinger said.

To publicize the event, Kissy Kissinger and other car enthusiasts pass out flyers at other car shows throughout the state.

"You've got to want to go to a lot of car shows throughout the year and hand out posters," said Kissy Kissinger, who has four collector cars. "A lot of my buddies go to shows on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays and hand out posters. We handed out about 4,500 posters this year."

Kissy Kissinger has been bringing his vehicles to car shows across the state every Sunday since May and passing out flyers for the Grand Larsony event. Occasionally, he goes to shows on Thursdays and Saturdays, he said.

"Kissy, he goes to a lot of car shows, a lot of those places require their members to come here and support. It is phenomenal what it has done in 15 years," Ruplinger said.

Many of the car collectors like going to the shows and sharing tips about their autos with one another.

"Cars are a big community," Werner said. "It's a good time."

Spectators enjoy the show as well.

"I remember these cars. It brings back memories looking at them. I used to have a Studebaker like that," said Bob Flasch, pointing to a blue automobile. "I thought it was the ugliest thing back then. Now I think they are so cool. Boy, if only I had kept it. It's a dirty, rotten shame. I wish I still had it."

Tony Schallitz brought his 18-month-old son, Wyatt Schallitz around to see the cars.

"He loves cars. The louder the better," Tony Schallitz said.

Christine and Cherisse Le Jeune enjoyed seeing the old cars, especially a green Tornado that reminded them of the one they had growing up.

"There is a great display of cars. It is a fun event," Christine Le Jeune said.

Car enthusiasts gather in Kewaskum on Sunday for the Grand Larsony car show and benefit. A total of 350 cars were displayed at the event. Richard "Kissy" Kissinger has organized the event for the past 15 years.
