Workers dig up Main Street in Campbellsport as part of the Highway 67 road construction project going on throughout the community this year. Sewer and water pipes are being replaced along with a reconstruction of the roadway and sidewalks throughout the village. Currently, they are working on phase one which starts at Triple S and goes to Elm Street.

Campbellsport School District Nearing End Of Strange Year

BY ANDREA HANSEN ABLER
EDITOR

As the 2020-2021 school year nears its final month, the Campbellsport School District is continuing to move forward through a once-in-a-lifetime pandemic. Some activities will be coming back and some precautions will remain.

One precaution is mask wearing in the schools. Masks will be required in all school buildings through the rest of the school year.

“Our board approved mask wearing for school twice,” said Paul Amundson, district administrator. “They voted 7-0 to keep the mask wearing through the end of the school year. So, it’s by the board’s authority.

the board controls what happens on school grounds.”

The board voted in August, before school began, to require mask wearing. Then, at their February 4th meeting, the board approved continuing the requirement through the end of the school year. They understand that this may not be a popular decision, but want to do what is best for the district and the students.

“We’re sensible about it,” Amundson said. “The kids are taking mask breaks. We understand we are tired of it, but we are doing what we feel we should be doing. We only have seven weeks of school left, so let’s get through it.”

This requirement is only through the end of this

Kewaskum School District Sees Sharp Decline In Enrollment

BY ANNE TRAUTNER
JOURNALIST

The Kewaskum School District is projected to have 155 fewer students enrolled in the district this fall compared to the district’s total enrollment in the 2019-20 school year.

That is a drop of about 8.5 percent in total enrollment over the past two years. The district is forecasted to have a total enrollment of 1,663 students in the 2021-22 school year, while total enrollment for the 2019-20 school year was 1,818 students.

The decrease in students is due in large part to fewer elementary students. There are 747 children projected to attend elementary school in the district this fall, 126 fewer than the district’s 873 elementary students in 2019-20.

The numbers were presented at the Kewaskum School Board meeting on Thursday, April 8.

The board is planning to hold a meeting to get input from the public on how the district should address the declining enrollment. The meeting is tentatively set to be held at Kewaskum High School on Thursday, April 29, at 6 p.m.

Stop For School Buses

Flashing Red Lights On Bus Mean Stop

BY ANNE TRAUTNER
JOURNALIST

On February 5, a Johnson school bus was hit from behind as it stopped on State Highway 144 near Bolton Drive to pick up a child for school.

The red lights were flashing on the bus, which was headed north, and the stop sign was out.

But the driver of the vehicle that struck the bus had looked down briefly at his cell phone and the radio. He did not see the bus in time, and his vehicle hit the right rear corner of the bus, and then continued northeast into the ditch and struck a light pole.

Luckily, no one was injured. But the vehicle was within feet of striking Carissa Jaycox’s child, who was about to board the bus.

In Wisconsin, school buses use two sets of flashing lights. Flashing amber lights mean slow down because the bus will soon be stopping. Flashing red lights mean stop at least 20 feet from the bus and remain stopped until the red lights turn off and the bus resumes motion. Illegally passing a school bus can result in a fine of $326.

PUBLISHER'S LETTER

On Luminescence

Dear Reader,

Bioluminescence is the light emitted by organisms such as fireflies and deep sea marine life. These creatures illuminate the darkest night and the deepest sea with a self-generated glow that burns through the inky blackness that otherwise would engulf them.

We can use this analogy in our own lives. The human spirit emits a radiance of its own – not in the spectrum visible to the naked eye, yet evident to anyone who is aware of another's soul and sensitized to their sacred essence. Some among us blaze with the brilliant sparkle of pure love, acceptance, and forgiveness, illuminating all around them with their calm peace and serenity. Does that sound like you? If so, shine on!

Rural Writes

BY GA SCHEINOKA

Country life ain't for everyone. Leastwise, not the way those of us who've always lived here do. If our furnace breaks, we turn on the kitchen range (stove top and oven) or plug in space heaters. When the water lines freeze, a trip to the laundromat also means carrying buckets to fetch water so we can wash the dishes, bathe and flush the toilet.

Most urban residents that move out here are too citified to handle these contingencies. They come with expectations of some kind of provincial paradise. An escape from the noise, commotion and hectic pace of the city.

Then can't handle the solitude, the calm, quiet existence. Gotta have some music. Crank up the stereo full tilt.

They don't like the stench from nearby fields. I'll be the first to admit: liquid manure has a pungent odor. Which fades out after a few days. We realize it is the scent of agriculture. That means jobs, the common good of everyone, farmer and non dairy worker alike.

Perhaps there is a false sense of entitlement involved. Developers who want to turn a quick buck buy up valuable farmland, get it rezoned and sell it to folks who want a down home feeling. Just because they can afford to spend a couple hundred thousand dollars to build an estate from the ground up doesn't give them (or anyone) the right to bully citizens who spent their entire lives out here.

Don't like the ways of nature? Maybe you should give it some thought before you choose to relocate. We don't take truck with other folks business but know we have neighbors we can count on if we give them a holler.

Mostly though, we believe in self reliance. Isn't an attitude or a pose. Just a genuine principle that didn't begin with or die alongside Emerson and Thoreau. Either you fully live it... or don't.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I just returned from attempting to vote at the Campbellsport Municipal Building and am very upset. No poll workers were wearing any masks. They sat behind a flimsy plastic barrier, but no masks at all.

When asked about it, they motioned to their barrier and laughed. They thought it was funny. I left rather than enter the room. Everyone I saw enter had a mask on so it was clearly important to them.

The state website said masks were recommended. People who voted in other locations said those poll workers had masks and barriers. I also encountered masks and barriers at the Campbellsport Clinic, Piggly Wiggly, Festival Foods and many other businesses.

I don't think our poll workers were intentionally being inconsiderate and irresponsible, but what were they thinking? What was their supervisor thinking?

John Brandl
Campbellsport resident

Dear community members,

On Thursday, April 8th, the Kewaskum school board convened as they typically do on the second Thursday of the month.

I write this expression in regards to agenda item 7E, which referred to the mask mandate that has been imposed on your children since the start of the school year.

Representative Tim Ramthun exemplified courage, bravery, and what it means to be a true representative of, for, and by the people. Representative Ramthun made the motion to make masks optional rather than mandatory for the entire Kewaskum School District. He acted on behalf of you, the taxpayers and parents of all enrolled students.

He stood up to the status quo to fight for what you wanted! I would like to thank representative Ramthun

Drexel Building Supply Announces Charitable PAULS Program

Drexel Building Supply proudly announces a new charitable initiative: the PAULS Program. Through this visionary build-one-give-one program, Drexel clients have the opportunity to shelter a family in need across the world.

To participate in the program, homeowners or builders commit to building a new single-family home using Drexel's design, supply, and offsite construction services. Once the home project is approved, Drexel will sponsor a newly built home for a family in need through its nonprofit partner — Overture International.

Overture's mission is to empower families in Haiti living in extreme poverty through sustainable social, community, and economic development. The first international community receiving aid from the PAULS program is Haiti. To kickstart the program, Drexel has donated eight homes, one for each of its eight Wisconsin locations.

"In Haiti, the needs are real," said Joel Fleischman, Drexel's president. "There are hundreds of families in need of sustainable housing. Through this program, we can supply happiness by providing quality homes to those in need while also helping boost local economies by generating jobs to build and maintain the homes."

Lisa Hyatt, executive director of Overture International, added, "We're thrilled to be partnering with Drexel Building Supply to expand the opportunities for housing, jobs, and skill-building to the people of Haiti. Collaboration is one of Overture's key strategies, and working with partners like Drexel makes our mission of sustainable development in Haiti even more achievable."

PAULS, which stands for "People Advanced in Using Lumber Systems," got its start during a conversation between Fleischman and long-time Drexel customer Paul Krause. Fleischman asked Krause, who was in the late stages of terminal cancer, what he thought of offsite construction. Otherwise known as panelization, offsite construction involves Drexel assembling the framing components of a home in an offsite warehouse and later assembling them at the home's job site. Krause responded emphatically that offsite construction would be a boon to the industry, particularly for small home builders.

Shortly after this conversation, Fleischman conceived a charitable operation that would encourage offsite construction. He added, "There was no doubt in my mind. We would move forward with an offsite construction initiative. And when we pulled it off, we would call it PAULS in his honor."

Homeowners and builders who are interested in participating in the PAULS program can visit the program's website, www.pauls.homes, for more information and program guidelines.

DNR Announces 2021 Keep Wildlife Wild Poster Contest Winners

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is pleased to announce the winners of the third annual Keep Wildlife Wild poster contest. Submitted by fourth through sixth graders around the state, each poster helps spread the word about our shared role in keeping all wildlife healthy, and most importantly, wild.

Blythe Griggs of Campbellsport was one of the grade level winners in this contest.

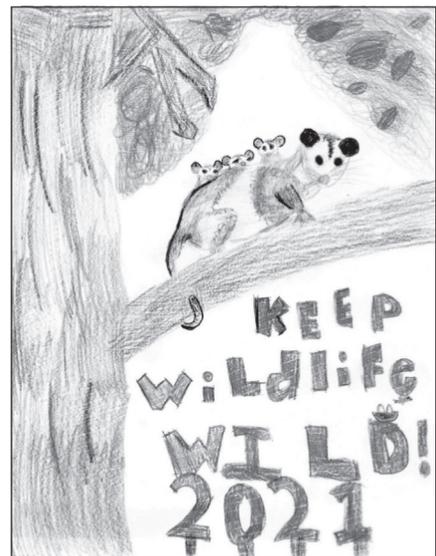

During the warmer months of spring and summer, the frequency of human-wildlife encounters increases, especially those involving young wild animals. While most of these encounters are harmless, there are times when well-intentioned people interfere in wildlife situations because they incorrectly assume a young animal is orphaned.

The Keep Wildlife Wild initiative began in 2014 to provide information about wildlife species' natural behaviors, tips on how to determine if a wild animal is truly orphaned and what to do if someone finds an animal that needs help. The poster contest is a fun way for kids to spread that message.

"We received about 130 poster designs from fourth, fifth and sixth graders across Wisconsin," said Amanda Kamps, DNR wildlife health conservation specialist. "It was a fun and challenging task to narrow down the winners for each grade. The level of artistic ability and creativity of the students is incredible, and we look forward to highlighting these talented young artists."

To view all the winning posters, go to <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/WildlifeHabitat/posterdesigncontest.html>.

Congratulations to all winners! The DNR would also like to thank every student who submitted a poster entry and helped spread the word that a wild animal's best chance of survival is with its mother.

Fourth grade winners — first place, Archer Peterson from Brillion; second place, Nayeli Ostrander from Lodi; and third place, Hutson Conley from Plover.

Fifth grade winners — first place, Mathew Bernier from Beloit; second place, TheaKammerud from Darlington; and third place, Blythe Griggs from Campbellsport.

Sixth grade winners — first place, Miriam Borgwardt from Fond du Lac; second place, Wyatt Orth from Medford; and third place, Kate Mischick from McFarland.

Mueller Wins Ashford Chairman Seat

Only a few contested races were on the ballot in the Campbellsport area.

One of the big ones was for the chairman position in the Town of Ashford. Joe Koch decided not to run after 44 years as the chairman, which left the seat open for anyone.

According to unofficial results in Fond du Lac County, Mark A. Mueller will be the new Ashford Town chairman. He beat Laura K. Parr, 284-120.

County Office

The Fond du Lac County Executive was another big race in the area. Long-time county executive Allen Buechel had competition from Rick Gedemer for that seat. Buechel easily won the race, 11,791-5,069.

Circuit Court Judge

Another county race of note was for Fond du Lac County Circuit Court Judge in Branch 3. Andrew Christenson won a close race over Laura Lavey, 9,142-8,625.

This was an open seat with the upcoming retirement of Judge Richard J. Nuss.

Other elections in the Campbellsport area were pretty straight-forward without any contested races.

Village of Campbellsport

Only three candidates were listed on the ballot for the Village of Campbellsport. Dave Krebs was re-elected village president. Trustees Janet Hafemann and Randy Zieliecke were also re-elected to their trustee positions. Dan Boldt was the only official write-in candidate for the third trustee position on the board.

Village of Eden

All four board members on the ballot for the Village of Eden retain their seats on the Village of Eden Board. Village president Cory St. Mary and trustees Jay Baumhardt, Kevin Goebel and Shea Stahl were easily reelected to the board.

School Board

There were three spots on the Campbellsport School Board with one candidate running for each spot. Danielle Neitzel maintains her seat representing the township of Mitchell and a portion of the Town of Osceola. Keith Peters takes the seat representing the towns of Eden and Byron. Maureen Koch is the representative for a portion of the Town of Osceola and the Town of Auburn.

Town of Ashford

The supervisors for the Town of Ashford — Bob Burg and James Wiesner — were both reelected to their positions. Doreen Ruplinger was also reelected to the position of town treasurer.

Town of Auburn

There will be no change in the leadership in the Town of Auburn. Ken Depperman remains as the town chairman as do supervisors Joseph Woodworth and John Janz.

Town of Eden

All those in office in the Town of Eden will also remain in their positions. This includes chairperson Dick Guell, supervisors Paul Tibbetts and Lee Fowler, town clerk Brenda Gosien and town treasurer Carol Murphy.

Town of Forest

In the Town of Forest, Peter Halbur was elected chairperson. Town supervisors will be Ken Blatz and Thomas Loehr. Town clerk will be Sarah Loehr

Nicholas J. Bert (nee Pankratz), 34, of St. Louis, MO, passed away on April 7, 2021.

Nick was born on July 9, 1986, in Milwaukee, the son of Patrick and Susan (nee Meleski) Pankratz.

On April 6, 2019, he was united in marriage to Daniel Bert in St. Louis.

Nick proudly served his country in the U.S. Air Force and continued his service with the IRS. He enjoyed spending time with his family, friends, and his dogs.

Those Nick leaves behind to cherish his memory include his husband, Daniel Bert of St. Louis, MO; his father, Patrick (Sandy) Pankratz; his twin brother, Dean (Deb) Pankratz; a step-brother, Nicholas "Z" (Mindy) Zolecki; his nieces and nephews, Carl, Susan, Frederick Pankratz, and Eliana Elias; other relatives and friends.

Dolores Emma Petry

Dolores Emma Petry (nee Stern) was reunited with her beloved husband Gilbert, surrounded by her loving family, on March 31, 2021, at age 89.

Devoted Mother of Gary (Judy) Petry, Mary (Dan) Zinda, and Danny Petry. Loving Grandma of Ashley (Grant Howe) and Rory (Elaine) Petry, and Callen, Wyatt, and Emmett Zinda. Great-Grandma of Scout and River. Dear sister of Sylvester (Ellie) Stern and sister-in-law of Elaine Petry. Also loved by other family and friends — especially her 7th Heaven friends.
Preceded in death by her

Nick was preceded in death by his mother, Susan Pankratz; his paternal grandparents, Dean and Vernetta Pankratz; and his maternal grandparents, Anthony and Marilyn Meleski.

Visitation: Nick's family will greet relatives and friends at the Myrhum – Patten Funeral Home, 215 Forest Avenue, in Kewaskum on Thursday, April 15, 2021, from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Funeral Services: Funeral services for Nick will be held at 10 a.m. on Friday, April 16, 2021, at the funeral home in Kewaskum with burial to follow at St. Mary's Cemetery, W4790 County H, Fredonia (Little Kohler).

The Myrhum – Patten Funeral and Cremation Service has been entrusted with Nick's arrangements. Additional information and guest book may be found at www.myrhum-patten.com.

Ursula M. Abel

Ursula M. Abel (nee Thull), age 94, of West Bend, entered eternal life on April 6, 2021.

Ursula was born on August 20, 1926, in St. Michaels to the late Frank and Margaret (nee Stockhausen) Thull.

She married Glendon C. Abel on September 25, 1946 at St. Michael Catholic Church in St. Michaels. Glendon passed away on June 18, 2016.

Ursula was a homemaker for many years, and special aunt to Cyrilla and Victor's children, whom Ursula helped guide and advise as they were growing up and entering their adult years.

Ursula was a member of St. Vincent de Paul Society for many years. She was also employed at the St. Vincent de Paul Store in West Bend for 24 years. She was manager there for 18 years. Ursula helped the Hartford St. Vincent de Paul Store with their start-up operations.

She enjoyed the family lake home, traveling, and the most important thing to Ursula was her family.

Ursula is survived by her eight children, Russell (Mary R.) Abel, Barbara Johnston, Paul (friend Kathy) Abel, Diane Abel, Michael (Mary B.) Abel, Beverly (Jeff) Kenkel, Kathleen Abel, and Randall (Robin) Abel; 14 grandchildren, Corey, Tara, Brett, Laura, Mark, Carrie, Robyn, Rachel, Ryan, Ashley, Jordanne, Kelvin, Mitchell, and Arianna; as well as great-grandchildren, and sisters-in-law, Mary Rose Thull and Gloria (Stan) Krajewski, and other relatives and friends.

In addition to her parents, and her husband, Glendon, Ursula was preceded in death by her brothers, Norbert (Marilyn) Thull and Edmund Thull, and sisters, Cyrilla (Victor) Moser and Lucina (Gilbert) Moser; and brother-in-law, Earl Burgemeister.

A Memorial Mass will be held on Thursday, April 15, 2021 at 12 noon at St. Mary's Immaculate Conception (406 Jefferson Street, West Bend, WI 53090).

The family will greet relatives and friends on Thursday at Church from 10 a.m. until the time of Mass with Father Carlos Londono officiating.

Burial of Ursula's cremated remains will take place on Friday, April 16, 2021 at 11 a.m. at Washington County Memorial Park in West Bend with Father Nathan Reesman officiating.

The family would like to thank the doctors, nurses, and staff at Froedtert Hospital Wauwatosa & West Bend, Cedar Lake Health and Rehab, West Bend Fire Department, and Cedar Hospice for their care and compassion.

Myrhum-Patten Funeral & Cremation Service has been entrusted with Ursula's arrangements. Please consider signing our online guest book (www.myrhum-patten.com) to share your condolences with the family. Cards addressed to the family may be sent in the care of Myrhum-Patten Funeral and Cremation Service, 1315 W. Washington Street, West Bend, WI 53095.

2021 Public Safety Telecommunicator's Week

Forty years ago, Telecommunicator's Week was created by a dispatcher in California to raise awareness with the public of the hard work and dedication of dispatchers.

In 1991, a formal proclamation was made by Congress, signed by President Clinton, designating the second full week in April as National Public Safety Telecommunicator's Week. This year, Public Safety Telecommunicator's Week is April 11th-17th.

The Fond du Lac County Communications Center is a civilian-run 911 center that serves 17 fire departments, five ambulance services, 10 first responder groups and nine law enforcement agencies throughout the county. In an average day, the dispatch center receives over 350 administrative calls and 75 911 calls. Because they are a voice and are not publicly seen, it isn't often realized the important work they do.

"A large part of a dispatcher's responsibilities is to share a person's worst event or experience ever, get them the help they need and stay connected to them, if needed, until responders arrive. Then they hang up and do it all over again," says Bobbi Hicken, director of communications and emergency management for Fond du Lac County.

"The dispatchers in Fond du Lac County are second to none. I am so proud of the work they do on a daily basis and am happy to shine a much-deserved light on the amazing job they do," says Hicken.

An open house allowing the residents to see the dispatch center is normally held during this week, however, due to safety precautions in place because of COVID-19, we will not be having one this year.

LORI KREIS
KEWASKUM LIBRARIAN

When I was a child, I don't remember receiving an allowance. We did have savings accounts and received money on our birthdays, holidays and randomly from generous relatives. We were taught to save our money instead of spending it and that principle carried me through my years well into adulthood.

When I began babysitting as a preteen, I would ride my bike to the bank to make a deposit as soon as I could. I kept my saving book in my bedroom and loved when I made a deposit because the interest I had accumulated would be typed into the book. Babysitting was fine, but I started working in a restaurant as soon as I turned 16.

I continued to make my deposits into my savings account and spent very little except for necessities such as gas. Way back then, interest rates were pretty amazing and by the time I moved out of my childhood home, I had a nice sum to get me started as an adult.

We are heading into the tail end of Money Smart Week, which this year has been exclusively virtual. It is sponsored by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and promoted by the American Library Association.

Money Smart Week encourages financial well-being through programs offered for all. In going virtual, there are daily webinars and videos focusing on specific financial topics that you can view anytime all week. Along with the videos are helpful resources. This is all on www.moneysmartweek.org at no cost to you.

Much of the information provided for financial literacy this year centers on supporting the needs of low to-moderate income households — those most affected by COVID-19 — to encourage greater financial well-being in their communities. However, the information is beneficial for all because learning about becoming more financially secure helps everyone.

We are showing our support for Money Smart Week at the library. There is a nifty workbook we printed for elementary age children that we encourage you to take before we run out. It is filled with fun activities your kids can do alone or as a family. Additionally, there are money smart books for all readers on display throughout the library for checkout.

I encourage literacy of all types including financial. Learning to budget, manage your money and live within your means is vital for a prosperous life. I might never have had formal financial literacy training but had good role models as a child that showed me the value of savings and investing. I hope you take advantage of the free information provided for Money Smart Week either in the library or from your home.

Hope to see you soon.

Transparent Languages Available Through The Campbellsport Public Library

The Campbellsport Public Library is pleased to announce the availability of Transparent Language Online for Libraries, a complete language-learning system with courses and lessons designed to build listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills. Transparent Language Online allows learners to explore a new language in the comfort of their own home, at the library, or on-the-go.

Through the Research Tools page on the library's website at www.campbellsportlibrary.org, the community will have unlimited access to more than 110 languages, including English for speakers of over 30 languages. Transparent Language Online for Libraries is packed with pronunciation practice, speech analysis, grammar, writing activities, and vocabulary-building activities. This extensive language-learning program works on virtually any computer or mobile device through a web browser or mobile app.

This easy-to-use learning site even offers lessons for children. KidSpeak™ is a fun, age-appropriate online language course designed for children ages six and up. Accessible through Transparent Language Online, KidSpeak introduces your children to English, Spanish, French, Italian, and Mandarin Chinese.

The program teaches words and phrases suitable for learners' age, needs, and interests. More than 40 activities, puzzles, and songs guide young learners through the basics, along with a cartoon "friend" who speaks the language. KidSpeak™ works on computers, tablets, and phones - so your little ones can learn on the go, at home, or in the library.

Please see your Campbellsport Public Library librarian for more information on how to access this service or go to www.campbellsportlibrary.org, click on Research in the blue box, then click Visit Research Pages. You will find Transparent Languages under the Language link on the right side of the page.

About Transparent Language, Inc.

At Transparent Language, we leverage our expertise in technology, learning, and language to build innovative language-learning and teaching software for use by US Government agencies and organizations, as well as hundreds of public libraries, thousands of schools, and millions of individuals. We are serious about language learning. We care about all languages, regardless of commercial value.

We believe that great language technology not only changes the user experience; it transforms the economics, logistics and reliability of language learning. Transparent Language is headquartered in Nashua, New Hampshire, USA. Visit them on the web at www.transparent.com.

What Was Lost (13): Advice To Find Arrowheads

BY KARL MCCARTY
CONTRIBUTOR

Springtime is the season where some look forward to searching the fields for Native American arrowheads. Recently I had some students at Oakfield High School who were interested in going for a pick, so this article is for those just starting to hone their skills on the elusive search. The following are some considerations when heading to the fields for picking.

(1) Consider the soil surface exposed. Fields that are still plowed have more surface area to pick than a field which is now flat and planted. Logically you will find more rock based artifacts if you are looking at more open soil. Surface area on a plowed field also has cuts to the ground, exposing rocks at different angles to the eye. Keep in mind soil is often turned over in the fall, so many enjoy picking after the harvest season.

(2) Pick areas that seldom get turned. One collector noted his affinity for good hayfields, which endure multiple years in avoiding the plow. Once the year finally comes to rotate crops, that land is first on the list to pick. In addition, the fewer times the soil is turned, the more likely the artifacts you find will not be broken by implements. Hay fields are particularly long standing fields for multiple years.

(3) Consider plant waste in the location. As the seasons change, observe future spots based on what type of plant remains are still in the fields you will pick in the future. If corn stalks stay in the plowed field, the visibility of exposed rocks will diminish. Compare this to old soybean fields, whose waste will more likely be chopped up for bedding before the winter. Once this ex-soybean field is turned over, there is almost no plant debris in your line of view.

(4) Wait until a rain. Many collectors point out it is best to search after a rain hits the soil in the spring. It will be muddy when you walk in it, but stones are clearer. Some say a heavy rain is best, others like searching after a light drizzle or even in the rain. Remember that this is okay if the field isn't planted yet, but boots will collect newly planted seeds if it is muddy. Always respect the farmer allowing you to walk the soil.

(5) Pick all the rocks. I find it interesting that many collectors push that you have to be out after a rain. However, it might be much more practical to search thoroughly by picking all rocks. When all sizes of rocks are on your picking list, you won't miss as many. Farmers appreciate them out of their fields so they don't damage implements (haybine, for example, when cutting the hay later in the summer). Furthermore, picking up

This piece found in the eastern third of Fond du Lac County might be just some debris during the creation of a larger artifact nowhere to be found. However, one should be careful to jump to that conclusion, because some pieces might be used in a way we can't initially imagine. This is why one should consider keeping all their flint pieces. Given the way this piece can be held, it's quite possible it is actually a tool fully intact.

all stones forces you into the soil more, slows you down, and assures you have covered the area in question.

(6) There are more than just arrowheads. Keep all options open on what you can find. If you widen your search, you are going to be more successful. Looking for a pristine arrowhead is always possible, but looking for Native American rock tools increases your chances.

This is another reason why you should pick all rocks, as stone tools requires that you are considering all stone sizes. People have a tendency to think that the only Native American tool to look for is an arrowhead. This causes people to miss all the Native American tools that are NOT arrowheads.

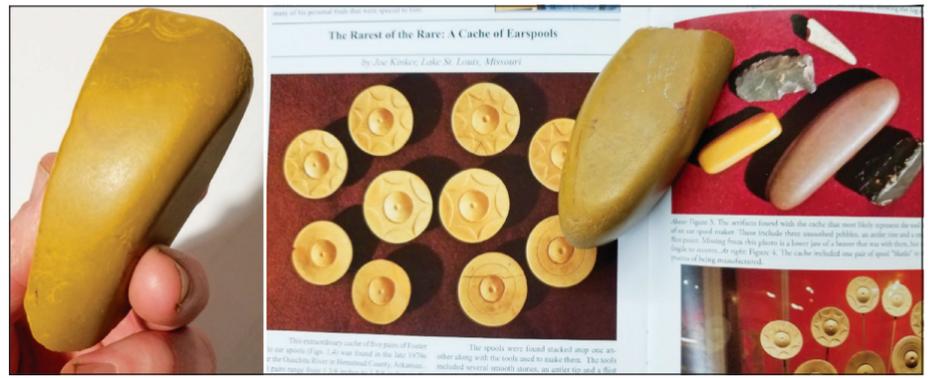

When all you have is a hammer, everything looks like a nail. And when you think that the big find is an arrowhead, your eyes are seeing what the mind wants. Stock up on your knowledge of non-arrowhead tools.

The intention is to have more articles on this in the future. The nice thing is because so many farmers and landowners did not see beyond arrowheads, many of the other artifacts still lay on the soil despite impact of settlers on the land since the mid-1800s.

(7) Be selective with pickers. If you

Here is a small collection of shards and flint pieces from central Fond du Lac County. Although they are not arrowheads, they are evidence that the collector was clearly in the right spot for finding Native American artifacts.

This image shows a potential tool used to make ear spools, which are earplugs that were worn and buttoned through a hole in the earlobe. They were disproportionately larger than the typical earring today, and requires a much larger hole in the lobe. A collector from eastern Fond du Lac County was able to label the find because of the Central States Archeological Journal. The tool found, sits on top of the article about ear spools and the cache that came with it (January 2020, Volume 67). The solo photo gives a side view of the unnaturally polished and shaped stone.

This is an unfinished arrowhead found in eastern Fond du Lac County. Please keep pieces besides pristine arrowheads as there are many experienced people who might be able to offer a second opinion on a piece's importance later.

own land, be very selective of who you let search on it. Your land has lots of history, when some random person comes along to look for artifacts they are sometimes interested more in their collection than the local history of the property.

This is not to offend those who search and respect property owners. However, retention of history is an important land ethic. For farmers who worked hard on the land for generations, their history should be retained in the family or for future landowners.

Likewise, the same respect should be for the native people before them. With this in mind, it is odd that one would outsource this history to a person who doesn't have the same pride as you do when it comes to your landscape's story.

(8) Consider the hot spots. Besides newly plowed fields, other "must-check" locations are newly developed areas that have never had soil overturned by modern day equipment. Also, wild animals like water, so the springs and rivers that fed them were ideal campgrounds for Native Americans, if not their hunting grounds.

The soil close to wetlands is often the last to be planted, so such fields might be available longer to pick after other fields

This image shows three arrowheads and one likely discarded piece made of the same quarry materials. From flakes to full arrowheads, all pieces of Native American works are important in filling in a story of where, how, and why such pieces were made. The shortest piece is likely a failed attempt of an arrowhead, but matches the same color as the other three pieces. All four likely are from a quarry in Fond du Lac County. photo by Karl McCarty are already planted. Another place to consider is newly tiled fields put in place before the next growing season — get to those spots before the soil is settled back over the drain tile.

(9) Pay attention to all flints. Call them what you want: flints, chips, shards. They are those pieces you see that look like leftovers from an arrowhead's construction. Don't be disappointed, keep all of them and note where you found them.

It clearly means native peoples met there. You are in the right place! Consider watching flintknapping on YouTube to identify leftovers of the arrowhead making process versus ordinary chips of stone.

(10) Take someone young along. It is very important to establish a tradition in respecting the land's history. I have noticed that many interviewed on searching for artifacts note their hobby started when they were children.

For many, searching for artifacts is just as traditional as opening Christmas presents. These gifts on the land, however, are more durable and can mean more. They are permanent in the form of rock, and offer a great time for connecting.

Some even take advantage of the turkey hunting season and keep their eye out after coming back from the turkey blinds. One father did warn, however, that the wet field can bog down the boots of children, which can drain their energy. So you will likely want to pick on drier soil when modeling this to youth.

(11) Minimize purchasing artifacts. One of the neatest things about artifacts is collector's pride in finding them. Often when you buy them, you don't know where they came from.

Remember that the story is what means the most: this can only happen if you find them yourself. It is very hard to put a price on artifacts, but at some point it is also offensive. It just seems odd to sell artifacts for profit, because what is most important is that where they were found is documented for posterity.

(12) Document thoroughly. Do your part in documenting where exactly you found the artifact. This includes the county, township, section, and specifics down to the field and the location. Consider taking a picture when you find it, preferably still in the soil. Nowadays with digital photography on the phone,

Happy 74th Birthday in Heaven, Mike,

on April 17

Hon,
Love you more.
The family loves and misses you.

Marge Frank and Family

The Central States Archeological Journal is a publication existing for decades. The articles included will significantly expand your mind on what can be found in the fields of Wisconsin.

Many of those who search for arrowheads have better luck when the fields had a recent rain. Rocks are much more visible, as seen in this Ashford field after a light shower.

pictures are automatically dated and stored, this provides a padded backstory when you are documenting later.

(13) Acquaint yourself with publications. My favorite is the collections put together by the Central States Archeological Journal. This publication has impressive pictures of recent and old finds from various states, and will expand your mind to the possibilities of what is on the soil.

(14) Respect the Native American perspective. One of the major problems with American archeology is that many can be focused on artifacts. Although this is important, please accustom yourself to Native American beliefs. Respecting Native American values is very important.

For example, many Natives believe that the land's previous souls are on the earth, and they guide the present. With this in mind, such spirits would know one's intentions: to honor the land's history — or to essentially be an artifact thief and sell the item online. All it takes to distract is a song of a bird, a honk of a car, or a piece of garbage.

When one is focused on the true preservation of Native American heritage with sincerity and compassion, the land and spirits will be good to you. You are finding the relics of those who came before you, it is just good karma to respect those past beliefs. Good luck hunting.

A Native American artifact collector from central Fond du Lac County holds a very small stone piece in this photo. Although some might consider the flake broken leftovers while making an arrowhead, it's quite possible what is held here is actually a functional tool given the ease of the finder's thumb placement. This is just another reason to keep such flints made by Natives despite initial conclusions that they are useless because it is not an arrowhead.

“It is a very substantial forfeiture for a moving violation, and it’s because of the safety factor,” Washington County Sheriff Martin Schulteis said. “There is a reason these buses are made visible. They are big, they are yellow, they’ve got flashing lights. It is to keep the kids safe.”

Under Wisconsin law, school bus drivers are required to turn on flashing amber warning lights at least 300 feet before stopping in a 45 mile per hour or greater speed zone or at least 100 feet before stopping in a less than 45 mile per hour speed zone.

“Our school bus driver, knowing the nature of this area and how fast everyone drives, gives the civilians an extra 100 feet. She puts that yellow amber light on at 400 feet to give them more time to slow down for the stop,” Jaycox said.

Lori Heisler, manager of the Kewaskum bus terminal, said that she feels the most important thing in keeping the road safe is for drivers to be more attentive.

“Too many people do not pay attention while they are driving,” Heisler said.

Several signs are located on Highway 144 near Boltonville to warn drivers that state law requires vehicles to stop for school buses when they have red lights flashing.

This sign is located on Highway 144 near Boltonville to warn drivers to stop for school buses when they have red lights flashing. PHOTOS BY ANNE TRAUTNER

Signs

This past September, on the first day of school, a vehicle sped past the school bus when it was stopped and had red flashing lights on Highway 144.

Jaycox and her neighbor called authorities, and signs were installed. There are now two signs on both sides of the road warning drivers to stop for school buses with flashing right lights.

One pair of signs is white with black writing that alerts drivers, “Stop For The School Bus Flashing Red Lights, State Law.” The other pair of signs are bright yellow with a picture of a school bus with flashing red lights.

Heisler thinks that perhaps it would help to add flashing lights to the signs before and after school.

“Flashing lights might help draw attention to the signs. People become complacent to things when they drive past them every day,” Heisler said.

Seeking Solutions

County officials addressed the traffic issue on Highway 144 during the Washington County Traffic Safety Commission meeting on March 3.

A total of 10 people from the Boltonville area, including Jaycox, showed up for the meeting. They all were concerned about speeding vehicles and would like to see the speed limit reduced along that stretch of highway.

“From our standpoint, speed is a controllable factor,” Jaycox said.

However, the Wisconsin Department of Transportation conducted a speed study of that stretch of the highway and did not recommend reducing the speed. Jaycox would like another study to be done.

“The speed study was done on Wednesday between 10 and 11. Well, at that time you don’t have the school buses and traffic. It didn’t reflect our primary concern whatsoever,” Jaycox said.

The Washington County Sheriff’s Office monitors the area when possible.

Since it is not possible for law enforcement to always be present, Jaycox and her neighbors have tried to help identify cars as they speed past the stopped school bus. They try to get license plate numbers and the make and model of the speeding vehicles. But it’s not easy.

“When people are going through at 55, 60 mph, it’s next to impossible to get a picture with just my camera on my cellphone,” Jaycox said. “And then during daylight savings, when my daughter got on the bus at 6:30 in the morning, it was dark outside. So when I am there trying to take a picture, I just got pictures of blurry headlights.”

The bus driver is trying to help as well. She even purchased a camera that can go on the dashboard in the bus, but it is not a high-end camera system, so it is still difficult to get clear photos of license plates as they speed by.

“Thank God, the bus driver does everything in her power that she can to try to aid. We are so thankful for her and her watchful eye,” Jaycox said. “But she, too, is trying to watch the children to make sure they can board safely, that all these people stop, and now she is trying to catch a license plate.”

“The safest thing is to be alert when you are driving, and slow down and stop for school buses,” Schulteis said.

“The flashing yellow lights mean that the red is coming; it is just like a traffic light. People do need to stop,” Jaycox said. “One accident like this is one accident too many.”

About 40 community members joined the school board members at the April 11 meeting for a presentation explaining current options for the proposed referendum. The list of priorities included 1936 building, gym space, classrooms, safety and security, science labs, tech ed/STEM, music rooms, and cafeteria. Two options were proposed after an overview of the project goal. Pros and cons for each of the two main options were shared with the group. It was stated that no matter which option is chosen, community support is critical.

Many former FFA members of the Campbellsport High School FFA program attended the end-of-the-year banquet. This was the 75th anniversary of the program. Those attending reminisced about their time in FFA and looked through scrapbooks and newspaper clippings.

In February, the Eden Elementary School PTO began working to create an environment in which Eden students understand the importance of helping others and giving back to the community. The Eden PTO continues to conduct a shoe collection drive to raise funds for the Eden Volunteer Fire Department and First Responders.

The Eden Firemen's Association will be hosting a street dance in celebration of the Eden Fire Department's 100th anniversary. The event will be held June 4.

Campbellsport High School announced the February Students of the Month. Included are Miya Herrick, Tanner Zocher, Graham Goebel and Jose Hernandez.

Nimmer Marine held an open house on April 9 at its new location on the corner of Highway B and Kelley Road, just outside of Eden. The open house also marked the business' 35th anniversary.

Daniel's Landscaping won a gold award from the Wisconsin Landscape Contractors Association's Excellence in Landscaping Awards on a landscaping project the Campbellsport company did at the Liebentrau residence in Brookfield.

Joseph Van Lanen, 75, Adell, passed away April 6.

Campbellsport Police Chief Randy Karoses warned citizens about a phone scam. Someone let his office know that a woman with an accent had called asking for verification of the checking account numbers. This is a scam as banks do not call people to verify account numbers. A few days later, someone else in the community received a call and began asking questions. The caller realized what was going on and hung up. The FBI is investigating similar scams and sent a form to Karoses asking people who have been contacted to fill it out to help with the investigation.

A group from Marian College recently returned from Mississippi after spending spring break helping repair an elementary school in Canton, Mississippi. One of the nine students who made the trip was Julie Twohig of Armstrong. She is a 2003 graduate of Campbellsport High School. When the opportunity to help hurricane victims came up, she knew this was the way she should spend her spring break. The clean-up included roof repairs, cleaning, removing books and materials damaged, painting, restoring lockers, washing windows, and any other work needed at the elementary school.

Author Jerry Pallotta asked youngsters to help him write his Christmas book by finding animals that could pull Santa's sleigh. Winning the contest was Emily Ellenbecker from Campbellsport Elementary School. Because she won the contest, Pallotta visited the school and held an assembly for all students, and he gave a Christmas book to every kindergarten student in the school.

The Campbellsport Board of Education, during the April 17 meeting, got its first look at a proposal to reinstate the associate principal position at the high school. According to District Administrator Dan Olson, the need is there. The associate principal position was replaced with a junior high principal in 2001. The board of education should make a decision at the May 1 meeting.

Waucousta Lutheran Grade School is celebrating its 25th year of service to the community. For its entire existence, the school has been under the same management.

For many years, Brian Breuer's dad and uncle made their own maple syrup. After Joe passed away, Brian wanted to begin making his own syrup in his father's honor. Three neighbors decided to join the enterprise. For the past two years, the group of neighbors and their families have been producing maple syrup. Adults and children have specific jobs, but everyone helps taste test the final product.

Meeting since September 2015, the Long Range Planning Committee for the Kewaskum School District has made public the facility needs. The district is now preparing to mail out a survey in May to all households within the district boundaries to determine the feasibility of renovating or rebuilding Kewaskum Middle School and Kewaskum High School in order to meet those needs. The survey will help determine the amount of money taxpayers are willing to invest in their schools.

The Kewaskum Statesman is available online as an e-edition or an exact replica of the printed newspaper. Recently, the quality of the e-edition has been improved and now is presented in high definition. The navigation within the e-edition has also been improved.

A suggestion box has been placed in the Kewaskum Public Library for people to submit ideas for activities. The suggestion box will remain near the book return inside the library for the next several months. Sessions will most likely begin in the fall. Emily Goad, the new head librarian, said she hopes the sessions will help the library connect with more people.

In celebration of Earth Week, volunteers came out to Mauthe Lake to help plant trees throughout the recreation area on April 16. The trees are helping to replace the ash trees that have been cut down over the past couple years because of the Emerald Ash Borer.

The Grand Larsony received the 2015-16 Commercial Sponsor Award for its continuous support of the New Fane Kettle Riders at the recent Landowner Appreciation Dinner held April 2.

Sixth grade students at Kewaskum Middle School are being creative with STEM activities. In Brett Zimdars' technology and engineering class, students learn about Newton's laws and the effects they have on everyday items. As part of the coursework, students set forth to create CO2 cars. Students had to design their cars and problem solve along the journey of car construction. Size restraints were in place.

The Kewaskum School District has been awarded $103,448 as part of a $4.9 million class-action settlement with the Wisconsin Education Association Insurance Trust. The lawsuit, filed four years ago, sought the recovery of federal funds distributed under a program enacted as part of the Affordable Care Act.

A record that had stood for 20 years at Kewaskum High School was broken April 12 when Jason Hanson cleared 6'7", which is also his height. The previous record of 6'6" was set by Travis Jacak in 1995. At last year's state track meet, Hanson tied for sixth place with a mark of 6'2".

The first day of competition at the United States of America Snowboard and Free Ski Association's National Championship didn't start well for Ayrton Lehmann, a sophomore at Kewaskum High School. But he obviously recovered as Lehmann finished with a total of 3,070 points, which gave him 11th place.

The Kewaskum Village Board was all ears Monday night as the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce presented plans to build a maintenance-free, 10'x20' kiosk on the village property next to the Eisenbahn Trail in the downtown parking lot. Aaron Laatsch, representing the chamber, stated the goal in erecting the structure is to promote business along the bike trail. Money to fund the project is coming from the annual golf outing and the brat fries.

Members of the Kewaskum Board of Education got their first look at the district operating budget for the 2006-07 school year at the April 10 meeting.

The board has until June 30 to make revisions and then pass it on to the voters at the annual meeting in July. The projected tax levy is $9,145,882 and the tax rate is projected at $8.54. Open enrollment continues to plague the district as 158 students will be leaving the district at an estimated cost of $934,570. The 40 students coming into the district are estimated to bring in $236,600, with a net open enrollment loss of $697,970.

Work will begin in mid-June at Kewaskum Middle School on a new freezer/cooler unit. The board accepted a bid from Milwaukee-based Fein Brothers, who will supply and install a new unit at a cost of $31,790. The current unit is the original from the building's construction in the 1960s.

Over 100 people turned out for the annual Easter Egg Hunt in Riverhill Park, organized by the Robert G. Romaine American Legion Post 384.

The Town of Scott Sanitary Commission received a surprise this week regarding the road construction taking place on Highway 28 in Batavia. Construction workers have come upon five locations where sewer laterals leading to houses will need to be lowered in order to make way for the new laterals. The project could end up costing the township an extra $1,000.

Alex Waranius was recently awarded the rank of Eagle Scout at a Court of Honor held by Kewaskum Boy Scout Troop 744. The Eagle Scout Award is the highest honor awarded by the Boy Scouts of America. Alex is now counted among the top four percent of all Scouts in his achievement of the Eagle Scout rank.

The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce's 17th Annual Appreciation Dinner and Style Show is set for April 26.

The Kewaskum Kickers won first place at the Concordia Indoor Soccer Tournament. The Kickers are coached by John Berst and assistant coaches are Nate Kenworthy and Austin Flanders. STRANGE YEAR from page 1 school year and the board will decide later what to do for the 2021-2022 school year.

“We firmly believe and are optimistic that we will not be mandating masks next school year,” Amundson said. “It would be your choice if you want to wear one. We feel we will be ahead of it (the virus) by the fall.

“We are looking forward to getting back to school as we know it then. To be able to see smiles on the kids’ and staff’s faces will be great.”

Though the mask wearing stays in place, the district is also trying to open things back up a little bit. For example, fall sports are going on now and spring sports will be starting soon at the high school. A play featuring Campbellsport High School students and put on by the Campbellsport Community Theater is being held in the auditorium this weekend.

“The school has Prom happening on May 1st,” Amundson said. “It is modified a bit, but we are having it. We have a high school play happening in May and a band concert.”

Some classes are starting to go on some field trips. Again with some modifications and precaution, but the students are being allowed this opportunity. Graduation is being planned for Sunday, May 23.

“We are opening up things,” Amundson said. “We are relaxing some things that we had in place in the fall.”

Building Projects

As this school year comes to a close, so does the referendum building project. The main part of this project was a demolition and rebuild of part of the middle/high school building along with substantial remodeling to that building.

A few other minor projects have been going on since that main part was completed. Almost two years ago, upgrades to Eden Elementary School were done. This included new energy-efficient lighting and new HVAC infrastructure.

Currently the final phase is being completed at the high school building. If you have seen dumpsters and activity near the greenhouse, this is what is going on.

“We are finishing off referendum projects,” Amundson said. “We are redoing the HVAC in the north hallway. That will be done this summer. As we do that, we are also replacing lighting to energy efficient lighting.”

In addition, work continues on the soccer and softball fields. The outfield of the softball field and the southern end of the soccer field are being upgraded for better drainage. This is something that has been a constant problem on those fields.

As part of this project, CHS students will be participating at the end of the upgrade. Students in the ag department will be helping to reseed the field as part of their class. The district is excited to be able to add a learning component to this project.

“The students will be finishing up the seeding on that for us,” Amundson said.

Other basic maintenance projects will also be happening this summer. “At CES, we are probably going to be working on the eaves (between the roof and brick) on the building,” Amundson said.

Curriculum Focus

Now that the major building project are completed, Amundson said it is time to start focusing more on the curriculum side of things.

“I call it the era of bricks and mortar,” Amundson said. “We’ve been focused the last six years on that.

Now it will be a more focused look on improving instruction for all students. There will always be roofing and windows to take care of and we want to keep working on that too.”

But the district staff wants to really focus on academics now that the buildings are complete. They want to be able to utilize the advantages they now have with this updated building.

“We’re trying to find ways to improve learning,” Amundson said. “Campbellsport is a great school district and we have a lot of good things, but we do have some improvement we could do.”

One of those areas is the proposal of all day four-year-old kindergarten pilot program. This would be a new option for families who feel their youngster would benefit from an all day program.

“There are academic gains to it,” Amundson said.

The early childhood teachers presented the idea to the school board at the Monday, April 5, meeting. They explained that the half-day program will still take place, but all-day would be an option for families.

If no families want to place their child in the all-day program, then the district will stay with only half-day classes. But if there is enough interest, there would be both half-day and all-day.

“We will just see how it develops,” Amundson said. “We think there is merit to it.”

Board Meeting

The school board has rescheduled its next board meeting. It will be held this coming Monday, April 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Originally, it was scheduled for April 26th.

The reorganizational meeting for the board will be held with the Monday, May 3, meeting.

A decline in enrollment has been predicted for years, due to decreasing birth rate in the area. Various studies have shown that the district will see a declining enrollment until 2025 or 2026 before the enrollment number flattens out, according to District Administrator James Smasal.

The district has made efforts to increase enrollment over the last several years. Facilities have been improved and the district has had higher student test scores.

“Over the years, a lot of people have put in a lot of time and a lot of effort, trying to make this an attractive school district. I believe that we have increased the student achievement by well over 15 points, which is unprecedented in how well our kids are performing on a year-in and year-out basis,” Smasal said. “We have spent a lot of time trying to do research in everything in our power to make this district as attractive and comprehensive as we possibly can.”

In 2009, the district had a total enrollment of 1,981 students. Enrollment declined each year for the next three years, until total enrollment fell to 1,841 students in 2012. Enrollment then stayed fairly stable each year until the 2019-20 school year, when it dropped to 1,818 total students. This year, the total number of students went down to 1,741 total students.

“I believe we have tried to do things out of the ordinary [to increase enrollment],” Smasal said at last week’s meeting. “We have consistently been in the top with Moraine Park Technical College, as far as articulated courses and trying to do everything in our power to make us attractive, especially at the high school level.”

However, the district covers a large geographical area, which can make it difficult to attract students from outside the boundary lines.

“We are a 156-square-mile district that encompasses a lot of the Kettle Moraine. We have the most miles driven by the bus company of any school district that they service in the state. We have a lot of geography, and there has not been a lot of new housing going on,” Smasal said.

The district is currently conducting a longitudinal study to determine how many students are open enrolling in and out of the district.

According to last week’s presentation, there has been a decrease in the number of births across the state every year since 2014.

In Washington County, the population has been increasing every year since 1980, but the trend has been significantly slowed over the last 10 years compared to other 10-year stretches of time. In addition, the percentage of people ages 55 and older in Washington County has been increasing since 2010, according to numbers presented to the school board last week.

The Kewaskum School District is projected to have 80 students in 5K next year, down from 108 5K students currently in the district. Over the past 10 years, the number of 5K students in the district has been as high as 131 5K students in 2014 and as low as 107 5K students in 2013.

Next year, Kewaskum Elementary School is projected to have 465 students; the school has a capacity of 875 students. Farmington Elementary is projected to have 174 students; FES has a capacity of 460 students. And at i4Learning Community School, enrollment is expected to be at 107 students, with a capacity of 175.

for asking the hard question that we’ve all wanted asked.

However, fellow board members pushed back and the motion failed 1-4-1. Tim Ramthun has never wavered to anyone, and has always stood up to do right by those he serves. Thank you for always being there for we the people, Mr. Ramthun!

I believe COVID is real, not some made up disease, but over-blown. I also believe that parents and children should be given the right to do with their bodies as they see fit. It’s a double edged sword so the answer should be left to the people.

Openness, honesty, and transparency is what I have always sought from my elected officials. That’s not what we the taxpayers have received however in regards to the numbers of COVID-19 in our schools. The administration refrained from posting data and not share them with you the parents/taxpayers. If there’s nothing to hide and masks are the savior why hasn’t administration willingly shared these numbers?

A few questions:

- How many kids have contracted COVID-19 during the school year while wearing a mask?
- Do children wear masks properly?
- Do children wear a new mask every time it is proper to do so?
- What federal, state, or village law/ordinance has a student broke if they do not wear a mask?
- How many children have been issued a citation or arrested for not wearing a mask?
- Most importantly, has the Kewaskum School Board sent a survey to taxpayers, parents, and children to get their insight and views on the mask mandate?

A few facts:

There is no federal law that requires you to wear a mask.

There is no state law that requires you to wear a mask.

There is no village ordinance that requires you to wear a mask.

On March 18, 2021, Washington county lifted all COVID-19 restrictions.

On March 31, 2021 the Supreme Court ruled Gov. Evers order unconstitutional, in essence lifting the state mask mandate.

I understand that private businesses have every right to impose whatever rules they see fit but the Kewaskum School District isn’t a private business, it’s a public entity funded by you the taxpayer. So what did the majority taxpayers decide? Wait... you weren’t even asked! Several board members put their personal opinions and fears above your wishes.

I applaud the school district, board members, administration, and teachers for pulling together as a team to keep our schools open. But isn’t that your job? You want an extra pat on the back for doing your job? Taxpayers and parents like you have sacrificed so much during COVID. We all pulled together as a community to do what was right. We put politics, self interests, and agendas aside for the betterment of the children. Isn’t that who were here for?

I ask the board president or any board member to request a survey be sent out to the community in regards to a mask mandate. Then listen to the people!

We live in a free nation in which the people are supposed to be free from an overreaching government. Isn’t it time we started acting like it?

Sincerely,
Bradley A. Petersen

James And The Giant Peach This Weekend

Come and enjoy a wonderful story with great songs. The story of James And The Giant Peach was written by Roald Dahl and will be performed by Campbellsport High School students through the Campbellsport Community Theater.

Lahdalord, played by Linnea Teske, is the teller of the story, leading us through the twists and turns of this tale. It is the story of a young orphan, played by Samantha Zimdahl, who is turned over to his two aunts, played by Kayla Bertram and Rebecca Volz.

They make James' life rather miserable and so Lahdalord helps him through magic. However, the magic goes awry and causes five bugs to become human sized. The bugs are played by Simon Strupp, Adam Cissa, Taylor Ours, Isabelle Sabish and Jon Thelen. The five of them and James begin an adventure in a giant peach and form a rather odd family.

The rest of the cast — Mercedes Herrmann, Josh Bath, Hannah Thelen and Mollie Gilles — play multiple parts in the show. It is a crazy and fun show with different styles of songs throughout, lovely ballads, calypso and jazz. The cast is busy perfecting songs and dances as the weekend approaches.

Masks are required to attend the performances.

Tickets for the show are available at True Value and Twohig Funeral Home in Campbellsport or from any cast member or by calling 920-533-4375. The show is being performed Friday, April 16, and Saturday, April 17, at 7 p.m. and Sunday, April 18, at 1 p.m. in the Lang Auditorium at Campbellsport High School. Tickets are $8 in advance and $10 at the door.

Come and enjoy a wonderful show.

and treasurer Lori Kraus. Constable for the township is Ann Kiehnau.

Town of Osceola

Tom Thompson was reelected the chairperson for the Town of Osceola. Supervisors will be Terry Leininger and newcomer Dean Kranig. Kay Wege remains the town clerk.

Cheryl Kutz was on the ballot for town treasurer and received the most votes, but she is moving out of the township and resigned the position. There were two registered write-in candidates for the position — Julie Nolan and Mindy Immel.

According to County Clerk Lisa Frieberg, neither received enough votes to beat Kutz. So, the town board will need to appoint someone to the town treasurer position at its next board meeting. Most likely it will be one of the two registered candidates, but it will be up to the town board. To find out how to apply for the treasurer position, check out the Town of Osceola legal notice in this week's paper.

Kewaskum School Board Approves Administrative Changes

The Kewaskum School District's two elementary school principals will serve in new administrative roles for the district during the 2021-22 school year.

On Thursday, April 8, the Kewaskum School Board approved hiring Jody Heipp, current principal of Kewaskum Elementary School, as the pupil services director, beginning July 1. In addition, the board approved hiring Jake Flood, who is currently the principal at Farmington Elementary and i4Learning Community School, as the district's new curriculum director, beginning July 1.

At the April 8 regular school board meeting, the board accepted the resignation of Taryn Kroll, who is currently the district's pupil services director, effective June 30, 2021. The board voted to approve Heipp as Kroll's replacement following a closed session.

The curriculum director position opened up for the new school year last month when the board voted to promote Dr. Mark Bazata from the position to become the new district administrator, beginning July 1. The current district administrator, James Smasal, has announced that he will retire on June 30.

Heipp has been employed in the district for the past 10 years and has led the staff and students of Kewaskum Elementary School to improved test scores in both English language arts and math on the Forward Exam. In addition, under Heipp's leadership, Kewaskum Elementary became a Recognized School in the areas of math, reading and behavior. Heipp has two master's degrees, one in special education from UW-Oshkosh and one in educational leadership from UW-Madison.

"I am truly humbled, honored and blessed to serve in this leadership role in the Kewaskum School District. In the last 10 years, I have witnessed immense growth through the collaborative efforts of our students, families and staff. I look forward to continue building on our academic, social and emotional successes of the whole child with the entire school district and community," Heipp said.

For the past four years, Flood has been the principal at Farmington Elementary and i4Learning Community School. During that time, both Farmington and i4Learning have been designated as Significantly Exceeds Expectations on their school report cards. He is currently working on his doctorate degree in Leadership for Advancement of Learning and Service.

"We have earned the reputation of academic excellence in Kewaskum. In my four years in the district, it is evident that the main ingredients to the aforementioned success is our dedicated staff, hardworking students and supportive families. I am honored to have the opportunity and responsibility to continue to be an integral part of our continual academic growth moving forward," Flood said.

With the internal promotions, the district is positioned to continue its track record of high academic success and effectively preparing students to be college and career ready, according to Bazata.

"Jody and Jake understand and appreciate the values of this community, and they possess a wealth of knowledge in how to successfully lead an organization. They both bring a high level of expertise and skill to their new positions in improving student learning and effectively developing our teachers and staff," Bazata said.

Help Shape Deer Hunting In Wisconsin

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announced the public is invited to weigh in on recommendations beginning April 12 for the 2021 county-level antlerless deer harvest goals and the 2021 white-tailed deer hunting season structure.

Now is the chance to share your thoughts on the preliminary recommendations provided by County Deer Advisory Councils (CDAC) for the 2021 deer hunting season structure. Anyone interested in helping shape local deer herd management preferences can submit comments online April 12-25. The online input tool for public comment will be available on April 12 on the DNR's CDAC webpage.

Each county in Wisconsin has a County Deer Advisory Council to provide input and recommendations to the department on deer management within their county. Each CDAC is made up of representatives from different interest groups that provide recommendations to the DNR on deer management within their county.

Councils work with local DNR staff to schedule meetings, provide community outreach and an opportunity for public input, review population data and deer impacts on forests and agriculture, develop recommendations on county population objectives and create annual antlerless harvest quotas.

To view each county's recommendations, go to <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/Hunt/cdac>.

After the public comment period closes on April 25, CDACs will reconvene between May 3-7 to consider the feedback and determine their final recommendations for the 2021 deer hunting season. All CDAC meetings are open to the public and will be held virtually via Zoom. Find the most current information on meeting structure, dates and times on the DNR's CDAC webpage.

The DNR and the Wisconsin Natural Resources Board (NRB) will present the final county-level recommendations for approval in June. If you have additional questions, please email: DNRCDACWebMail@wisconsin.gov.

DNR Recruiting Next Class Of Wisconsin Conservation Wardens

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) encourages anyone with a passion for helping people and protecting natural resources to apply to be a part of the next class of conservation wardens.

The 2021 DNR conservation warden application period opened April 12 and the DNR will accept applications for approximately two weeks. Learn more about this remarkable and critical career and apply at <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/WardenRecruitment>.

"DNR Conservation wardens serve everyone who depends on our natural resources, and that means every person in our state. Building a diverse team of conservation wardens is critical to our success," said DNR training director capt. Cara Kamke. "We have an effective training program to help newly-hired staff find success in this unique career, and we hire people from a wide variety of backgrounds. No prior law enforcement experience is required."

Conservation wardens are credentialed law enforcement officers who work throughout the state, enforcing natural resource and recreation safety laws, educating the public on conservation topics and providing law enforcement services on state parks, forests and trails.

"We work in the big cities and the rural areas throughout Wisconsin, providing a voice to our natural resources and ensuring the safety of the people who enjoy and depend on our environment," said DNR Conservation Warden Marcus Medina.

The work conservation wardens do on state properties is also a critical part of the mission. Working in state parks, forests and trails offers unique experiences mixing both traditional and natural resources law enforcement duties.

"What we do now will directly impact the environment and resources we will pass on to future generations," said DNR Conservation Warden Vong Xiong. "My best day as a warden is knowing I made a difference. Nothing lasts forever if you don't take care of it, and that's why I became a Wisconsin conservation warden."

DNR conservation wardens work cooperatively with other law enforcement and public safety agencies at the local, state and federal level of law enforcement and emergency response initiatives. Conservation wardens also respond to natural disasters and public safety emergencies. Partnerships and relationships play a big role in the success of the conservation warden team. The DNR regularly partners with local communities to help educate them, solve problems and address concerns.

Part-time conservation warden positions also are available. Interested candidates can apply once and will be eligible for both full and part-time opportunities.

Hundertmark Is The Glue To Cougars Defense

A defender in soccer is a very valuable position that sometimes gets overlooked. The forwards usually get all the glory for scoring goals and the goalie can steal the spotlight with some magnificent saves or a clean sheet. But the last line of defense in front of the goalie can make or break a team from letting people through for a one-on-one on the keeper.

Senior Dylan Hundertmark is one of those special key players on the Campbellsport High School boys' soccer team. Hundertmark has been a starting defender all four years on the varsity for the Cougars. An exceptional "team player," Hundertmark is a two-year captain and the anchor to the CHS defense.

Dylan is fast and athletic and rarely let's anybody get behind him. Hundertmark has a strong leg to boot and even gets into the offensive mix when the Cougars are in the other team's third taking corner kicks and hanging around at the top of the 18-yard box.

Hundertmark is the April featured "Athlete of the Month." Dylan was a first team All-Conference defender as a junior last year. His coach Tyler Writt describes Dylan as one of those kids you want on your team. "He's a very hard worker on the field and a super role model for the younger kids."

His passion for the game was evident last Saturday at Kewaskum when the Cougars beat Mayville 4-0. Dylan and his teammates stayed around to cheer and encourage their JV teammates to a victory after the varsity game.

Dylan has been a fine leader in school taking part in the school's Leadership Program with Mr. Griesemer, the athletic director at CHS. Dylan is an honor roll student carrying a 3.482 grade point average. He is ranked 27th in his class of 92 and is the son of Josh and Crystal Hundertmark. Dylan currently works at the Piggly Wiggly in Lomira. In his free time he loves to fish, go for a nice long run, and play video games with his friends.

Here are some of Dylan's favorites:

Food — Burgers, pizza, and Chinese

TV Show — Avatar: The Last Airbender

Movie — How to Train your Dragon

Music — Christian rock

Athlete — Lionel Messi (the great Argentine soccer player that plays for Barcelona)

Teacher/Class — Mr. Ellenbecker/social studies

High School Memory — Last year making two goals from near the half way line, for people that don't know soccer dimensions, it's a long shot!

NCAA Championship Memories

As I wrote this in the late afternoon on Monday, April 5, I took note that tonight is the NCAA Men's Basketball National Championship Game. While I will not be able to see part of the game live, I do anticipate a great match up between Baylor and Gonzaga.

I think back to Final Fours and Championship Games that I remember as I grew up. The first championship game that I have real vivid memories of is the game that really transformed basketball on many levels.

It was the 1979 game between Magic Johnson's Michigan State Spartans and Larry Bird's Indiana State Sycamores. That game was a huge springboard for both men as they then jumped to the NBA and really changed professional basketball for the better with their match-ups with the Lakers and Celtics.

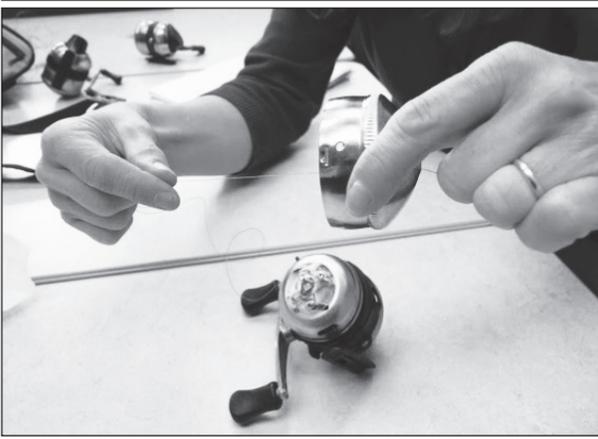

Being an Iowa boy, as I've stated many times in this column, the 1980 season was bittersweet as the Hawkeyes made a great run to the Final Four, losing to eventual champion Louisville. Had Iowa's all-everything point guard Ronnie Lester been healthy, there is no telling if my Hawks would have brought home gold. Back at the time, they still played a third place game, which Iowa did lose to Big Ten rival Purdue.

There are so many memories from the 1980s that I see in my mind as I look back at a list of those title tilts. Indiana winning the championship that evening after President Reagan was wounded in an assassination attempt. Michael Jordan with his game winner versus Georgetown. The improbably "Cardiac Kids" from North Carolina State — with Jim Valvano looking for someone to hug.

Patrick Ewing and Georgetown beating "Phi Slamma Jamma" and the Houston Cougars. The following year Georgetown taking it on the chin from conference rival Villanova, who shot lights out in the title game. I can go on and on with this list. These games were "Must See TV" for this kid back in those days!

More recently, we can think of how close the Wisconsin Badgers have come with great teams that made the Final Four in 2014 and 2015 and dropping a 68-63 game to Duke in the 2015 championship.

The way the NCAA was able to pull off both the women's and men's tournaments this year — entirely in San Antonio for the women, and in Indiana (largely Indianapolis) for the men has been remarkable. Hopefully the game tonight will be "one for the ages."

Spring Cleaning: Gear Edition!

Winter has released its icy grip on Wisconsin's lakes and streams and now it's time to make plans for the open-water fishing season.

Get ready for the season by tuning up your gear, beginning with the reel. Here are some tips for untangling a mess inside a typical spincasting reel:

1. Remove the outer cap of the reel: You should see an inner cap. A pull-and-turn motion is the best method for this. They can be really tight when new.
2. Grasp the reel handle securely and turn the inner cap of the reel counterclockwise until the inner cap is removed.
3. You should now be staring at the tangle. Untangle the line. You may need to strip off several feet to get past the trouble spot.
4. Leave a few inches of line free and replace the inner cap of the reel by holding the reel handle securely as you turn the inner cap clockwise.
5. Thread the untangled line through the top of the outer cap.
6. Replace the outer cap of the reel. Test your repair efforts.

Take some time to clean up your spinning reel, too. Remove the top and wipe down the inside. Grease the inside of the reel and the stem of the handle, and oil inside the reel from the handle access point.

A degreaser like WD-40 is good to clean the outside of a reel but it will eat monofilament line, so be sure to wash it off. Clean grit from the reel by holding it under a faucet and allowing water to gently wash over the reel. Wipe down the rod with a damp cloth.

Hook It Up!

Secure your hook on the hook keeper near where the reel attaches to the rod. If your rod doesn't have a hook keeper, secure the hook to the leg of the guide rather than the eye. Nicking the eye is rough on line.

Good Spots For Catfish

After your spring cleaning is done, it's time to scope out your hot spot for landing your first fish of spring. How about catfish?

Yellowstone and Wyalusing state parks, Big Green Lake and any place along the Mississippi River are just a few of the many places to try for catfish. Find more options on where to wet a line for catfish at <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/Fishing/anglereducation/wheretofish>. Tip: Catfish hang out near the bottom of the water over woody cover or weed beds.

Gear And Bait

You'll need a sturdy (medium to heavy) rod and reel, 14-pound line and a big landing net. Add a float on a weight above a slip-sinker and bait a jig head with worms, minnows or "stink bait." Whip up a tasty stink bait to tickle their scent-seeking whiskers. Ideas for stink bait include a paste of any of the following: cornmeal, chicken liver, garlic, cheddar cheese, oatmeal or tuna.

2021 Spring Turkey Season Opener April 21

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is reminding Wisconsinites to get ready for the upcoming 2021 spring turkey hunt happening April 21-June 1.

The 2021 spring turkey hunt includes six, seven-day periods running Wednesday through the following Tuesday. Each of the DNR's seven turkey management zones will be open for hunting.

The Fall 2020 - Spring 2021 Combined Hunting Regulations provides hunters with everything you need to know about spring turkey hunting from season dates, general regulations to shooting hours.

Registering your turkey harvest remains a critical component of wildlife population management. Turkey registration is mandatory and hunters must register their turkey by 5 p.m. the day after recovery using the DNR's Electronic Game Registration reporting system GameReg, or by phone at 1-844-426-3734.

Hunters will need their harvest authorization number to register their turkey, located on a paper or a digital copy of their harvest authorization.

The wild turkey is truly one of Wisconsin's wildlife management success stories. A key part of the success of the wild turkey management program can be attributed to hunters through their purchase of the Wild Turkey Stamp which provides vital financial support in providing for future opportunities for turkey management and hunting in Wisconsin.

Youth Turkey Hunt April 17-18

Youth under the age of 16 may hunt during the spring turkey youth hunt April 17-18. Hunters under the age of 12 and youth without a hunter education safety certificate can participate in the youth turkey hunt under the mentored hunting program. A qualified adult must accompany the youth and follow the youth turkey hunting and mentored hunting program rules.

Youth hunters must possess a valid spring turkey license, stamp and harvest authorization. A harvest authorization for any period can be used during the youth hunt weekend, but youth hunters must hunt within the turkey management zone indicated on their harvest authorization. For more information about Wisconsin youth hunts, go to <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/hunt/youth.html>.

Wisconsin's Public Lands Are The Perfect Place To Pursue Birds This Spring

Wisconsin's public lands for various activities, ranging from birdwatching to hunting. For anyone interested in exploring all Wisconsin has to offer, the DNR has several tools to help users find a new favorite spot in the wild.

The DNR's free Hunt Wild mobile app gives hunters the tools they need to plan their time in the field, combining public lands mapping, rules and regulations, shooting hours and the option to link their Go Wild account.

Through a partnership with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, public access to nearly 40,000 acres of private land is available through the Voluntary Public Access-Habitat Incentive Program (VPA-HIP) and the Turkey Hunter Access Program (THAP). More information and interactive property maps for both programs is available on the DNR website.

Hunters who would like to pursue turkeys in a state park must hold a harvest authorization for the turkey management zone in which the park is located. Spring turkey hunting is allowed in select state parks during the two-day youth hunt and the regular season's first two time periods. For more information regarding hunting in state parks, visit the DNR's state park hunting webpage.

The Fort McCoy spring turkey hunting season is managed separately from the State of Wisconsin spring turkey hunt. Hunters who do not receive a harvest authorization through the Wisconsin spring turkey drawing can apply for a spring permit at Fort McCoy. Applications can be obtained from Fort McCoy by calling 608-388-3337 or by visiting their website.

For additional information about turkey hunting in Wisconsin, go to <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/hunt/turkey>.

2021 Youth Turkey Hunt Happening Soon

Youth hunters can experience the excitement of Wisconsin turkey hunting with family before the regular season begins. The 2021 youth turkey hunt runs April 17-18, before the statewide turkey opener for period A on April 21.

The youth turkey hunt gives hunters under the age of 16 the opportunity to gain valuable experience. Youth hunters must either have completed hunter education or participate under the mentored hunting program to be eligible for the youth turkey hunt. To participate, a qualified adult must accompany the youth and not accompany more than two youth hunters at one time. The adult mentor must hold any valid 2021 hunting license.

Hunters under the age of 12 and youth without a hunter education safety certificate can participate in the youth turkey hunt under the mentored hunting program. A qualified adult must accompany the youth and follow the youth turkey hunting and mentored hunting program rules.

FOND DU LAC COUNTY
STATE OF WISCONSIN

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Review for the Town of Auburn, Fond du Lac County, Wisconsin, shall hold its first meeting on May 4, 2021 from 5p.m.-7p.m., at Auburn Town Hall, W1728 Sunset Dr., Campbellsport, WI 53010.

Please be advised of the following requirements to appear before the board of review and procedural requirements if appearing before the board:

1. No person will be allowed to appear before the board of review, to testify to the board by telephone, or to contest the amount of any assessment of real or personal property if the person has refused a reasonable written request by certified mail of the assessor to view the property.
2. After the first meeting of the board of review and before the board's final adjournment, no person who is scheduled to appear before the board of review may contact or provide information to a member of the board about the person's objection, except at a session of the board.
3. The board of review may not hear an objection to the amount or valuation of property unless, at least 48 hours before the board's first scheduled meeting, the objector provides to the board's clerk written or oral notice of an intent to file an objection, except that upon a showing of good cause and the submission of a written objection, the board shall waive that requirement during the first 2 hours of the board's first scheduled meeting, and the board may waive that requirement up to the end of the 5th day of the session or up to the end of the final day of the session if the session is less than 5 days with proof of extraordinary circumstances for failure to meet the 48-hour notice requirement and failure to appear before the board of review during the first 2 hours of the first scheduled meeting.
4. Objections to the amount or valuation of property shall first be made in writing and filed with the clerk of the board of review within the first 2 hours of the board's first scheduled meeting, except that, upon evidence of extraordinary circumstances, the board may waive that requirement up to the end of the 5th day of the session or up to the end of the final day of the session if the session is less than 5 days. The board may require objections to the amount or valuation of property to be submitted on forms approved by the Department of Revenue, and the board shall require that any forms include stated valuations of the property in question. Persons who own land and improvements to that land may object to the aggregate valuation of that land and improvements to that land, but no person who owns land and improvements to that land may object only to the valuation of that land or only to the valuation of improvements to that land. No person may be allowed in any action or proceedings to question the amount or valuation of property unless the written objection has been filed and that person in good faith presented evidence to the board in support of the objections and made full disclosure before the board, under oath, of all of that person's property liable to assessment in the district and the value of that property. The requirement that objections be in writing may be waived by express action of the board.
5. When appearing before the board of review, the objecting person shall specify in writing the person's estimate of the value of the land and of the improvements that are the subject of the person's objection and specify the information that the person used to arrive at that estimate.
6. No person may appear before the board of review, testify to the board by telephone, or object to a valuation if that valuation was made by the assessor or the objector using the income method of valuation, unless the person supplies the assessor with all the information about income and expenses, as specified in the assessor's manual under s. 73.03 (2a), Wis. stats., that the assessor requests. The Town of Auburn has an ordinance for the confidentiality of information about income and expenses that is provided to the assessor under this paragraph that provides exceptions for persons using information in the discharge of duties imposed by law or the duties of their officer or by order of a court. * The information that is provided under this paragraph, unless a court determined that it is inaccurate, is not subject to the right of inspection and copying under s. 19.35 (1), Wis. stats.
7. The board shall hear upon oath, by telephone, all ill or disabled persons who present to the board a letter from a physician, surgeon, or osteopath that confirms their illness or disability. No other persons may testify by telephone unless the Board, in its discretion, has determined to grant a property owner's or their representative's request to testify under oath by telephone or written statement.
8. No person may appear before the board of review, testify to the board by telephone, or contest the amount of any assessment unless, at least 48 hours before the first meeting of the board, or at least 48 hours before the objection is heard if the objection is allowed under s. 70.47 (3) (a), Wis. stats., that person provides to the clerk of the board of review notice as to whether the person will ask for the removal of a member of the board of review and, if so, which member, and provides a reasonable estimate of the length of time the hearing will take. Notice is hereby given this 11th day of March 2021.

DHS Reaffirms That Every Wisconsinite Can Get COVID-19 Vaccine

With everyone ages 16 and older now eligible for the COVID-19 vaccine, the Wisconsin Department of Health Services (DHS) encourages everyone to schedule an appointment. Anyone who lives, works, or studies in Wisconsin can get vaccinated for free — even if you cannot provide proof of residency, do not have a valid state identification card, or do not have insurance.

“This pandemic has proven that our health is connected with the health of everyone in our community. COVID-19 is a contagious virus that spreads from person to person but the vaccine helps stop the spread. The more people that are vaccinated, the more protected Wisconsin is from the virus. That is why our biggest priority is to get 80 percent of Wisconsin vaccinated,” said DHS secretary-designee Karen Timberlake. “To achieve that community immunity, we must work to remove barriers that prevent Wisconsinites from accessing the vaccine. If you don’t have an ID or insurance, you will not be turned away.”

DHS strives to promote health equity in Wisconsin’s COVID-19 vaccination efforts which includes minimizing barriers that prevent individuals from accessing the vaccine. Both ID and health insurance requirements create barriers for many underserved communities and may deter individuals that lack a valid driver’s license or state ID card.

“I want to be sure everyone in Wisconsin knows that they can get a COVID-19 vaccine without cost to them, regardless of their insurance status,” said insurance commissioner Mark Afable. The Office of the Commissioner of Insurance (OCI) issued a bulletin(link is external) to all health plans directing them to cover all costs associated with administration of the COVID-19 vaccination, without cost sharing.

As part of the COVID-19 Vaccination Program, the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) requires all vaccinators to provide vaccines at no cost. DHS also continues to remind vaccinators that they cannot require people to provide an ID and cannot collect a co-payment or other charges for vaccinations. Those with insurance may have an administration fee or charge from the vaccinator but that fee is covered by public and private insurance plans and cannot be passed onto to the patient.

“Typically when a vaccinator asks for proof of ID, they are using that documentation to confirm the appointment or match health records with the patient. However, we have again reaffirmed to all of Wisconsin’s 2,000 plus vaccinators that they cannot require ID or insurance,” said DHS deputy secretary Julie Willems Van Dijk. “We are working to ensure that any reports of Wisconsinites being turned away from their vaccination appointments are addressed and resolved immediately.”

If you or someone you know has been turned away by a vaccinator because of their ID and/or health insurance, please report the violation by emailing DHSCovidVaccinePublic@Wisconsin.gov(link sends e-mail) or calling 844-684-1064 (toll-free).

Regal Ware Achieves 1,000 Workdays Without a Lost-time Injury

Regal Ware has announced that on April 6, 2021, it achieved the distinction of compiling more than 1,000 days worked without a lost-time injury. This is the longest running record for time without a lost time injury in Regal Ware’s long distinguished history.

Regal Ware achieved this milestone through a culmination of efforts focused on identifying leading indicators to prevent, reduce and eliminate work related hazards and unsafe behaviors before they occur. The company has developed a safety culture where each employee takes ownership of safety and injury prevention through ongoing training, education, and awareness.

“It’s my pleasure to recognize the high level of capability and safety awareness that Regal Ware family members bring to their jobs each day,” said Candy Sarauer, HR manager. “Regal Ware values the health and safety of people above all else and will continue to drive improvements in safety culture and performance. This achievement demonstrates the high standards that Regal Ware puts into every aspect of their business,” she noted.

“This exceptional achievement represents passion for our customer, teamwork, personal ownership of safety, a focus on continuous improvement and a true commitment toward zero incidents by our employees and management team,” said Ryan Reigle, president and CEO. “I am proud of every one of our family members, who continue to embody the long-standing Regal Ware traditions of everybody matters, superior craftsmanship, pride of workmanship and a high level of commitment to our customers and each other, as shown by this impressive achievement.”

United Way Announces Grant Award

Fond du Lac Area United Way is one of 100 organizations across the state to receive funding for a five-month COVID-19 community health outreach program. “Tina Potter has been named Project Coordinator who, along with our community partners, will make this project a success.” says Amber Kilawee, FDL Area United Way director.

The project’s overarching goal is to support National and Statewide health equity efforts to reach the maximum number of people with information about COVID-19 vaccines. The team will address barriers that hinder access for marginalized and underserved persons who might have difficulties accessing care services. We will work to increase vaccine access by coordinating rides, helping schedule appointments, hosting vaccination destinations, and making information more inclusive.

“Together we are all committed to protecting and promoting the health and safety of all our Fond du Lac citizens,” said Kilawee. “We have a long history of community leaders responding to local issues and together Fond du Lac County will help the State of Wisconsin reach their statewide goal of an 80 percent vaccination rate.”

Community Partners: Kim Mueller and Sarah Faust, FDL County Public Health; Alexandria Berg, SSM Health; Amanda Miller, UW-Extension; Daisy Frazier and Antonio Godfrey, Ebony Vision; Laurice Snyder, FDL School District; Hiram Rabadan, Latinos Unidos; Tracy Abler, FDL Humanity Project; Ishamon Harris, United for Diversity; Shoua Vang, Hmong Community, Misty Gedlinske, Pride Alliance and Amber Kilawee, United Way.
