Despite Public Displeasure, Kewaskum Plan Comm. Recommends Burr Oak Rezoning

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER

The Village of Kewaskum Plan Commission met on Tuesday, Jan. 24, and considered two rezoning requests, denying one and recommending to the village board another, despite public opposition to the Burr Oak Ct. project off Dream Catcher Drive.

Roughly one dozen members of the public were in attendance, the majority of which expressed frustration with the meeting's second agenda item, which was presented as following:

“At the request of Gary Gavin/LB Entrepreneurs LLC to rezone the portion of parcels of land located at Burr Oak Ct and 1085 Fond du Lac Avenue that are currently zoned RS-1 Residential to RD-1 Two Family Residential to allow for duplex residential housing.”

The purpose of the rezoning was to allow the property's owner, Gavin, to build multi-family residential properties on the location, which is just off Dream Catcher Dr. on the west side of Fond du Lac Ave.

Citizens who spoke at the hearing in opposition to the rezoning were residents of Dream Catcher.

During the public hearing portion of the meet-

From 'Forest House' to Family Home, Former Restaurant Converted to Residence

Nestled in the Northern Kettle Moraine State Forest – atop a hill that overlooks Forest Lake – sits the Groll family's newly renovated home. A years-long passion project, Carrie Bristoll-Groll and her husband, Tony Groll, were understandably eager to show off their hard work, but not as much for their own benefit as it was for the benefit of longtime residents of the Kettle Moraine communities.

The reason being?

For more than five decades, the property – located on Highway GGG in the Town of Auburn – was the site of several of the area's most popular dining destinations.

Our most venerably-aged readers might remember it as the “Bar & Annex”, some recall the 19th-century-built wood cabin going by the name “Forest House” while more recent visitors and residents to the Kettle Moraine perhaps swung in when it was “The Chuck Stop”.

Regardless of the name remembered, arguably millions of memories were made in a space that is now, after almost one century, again a single-family home.

“It feels like it has a good vibe, still,” said Bristoll-Groll, standing in her new living room, which was once a portion of the former restau-

The former i4Learning Community School building has been converted into a church.

The new church building, Community Church North, is located at W5760 Mohawk Road in the Town of Wayne. It is a second campus of Community Church of West Bend, which had been looking for a place to have a second site.

Over the past several years, Community Church of West Bend has been growing. With about 600 members, the congregation had outgrown the

Resolutions for a Better World

Dear Reader,

With the advent of a new year, we might want to make a few resolutions if they apply to us (and those in our lives) given all the infirmities currently in the world.

We ought to:

- ~ behave better toward each other in public and in private;
- ~ show a regard for truth and a responsible disregard for lies;
- ~ stop pandering to anger and our primal urges;
- ~ uplift the common good and deny power to those who would not;
- ~ seek peace and abhor violence (Isaac Asimov – “Violence is the last refuge of the incompetent.”);
- ~ cherish our country’s ideals of honor, integrity and compassion; and
- ~ look for solutions by listening and understanding differences and working out compromises.

We need to unite hope with the belief that we can be better; that we can act better; that we can construct a better world for us and the generations to follow.

Well, our December/January thaw is over. Back to the teens with single digit lows. Now that’s what a normal Wisconsin winter is.

Not unlike those of childhood. The heater in the family jalopy proved inadequate to the task. Especially with the whole passel inside. Blowing on the iced up rear windows to provide a temporary quarter-sized clear spot to peer out only brought stern reprimands of “knock it off.” We didn’t need a second admonishment.

Could always tell when the oil space heater in the hallway ran out of fuel during the night. By morning, after bare feet lit on that cold linoleum, socks and shoes were the first order of business.

All the misery of the season aside, there were steel runner sleds; a couple planks fastened on rails which made the frigid days pass. Leastwise, got us outta Mom’s hair for a few hours. And nobody into mischief. Blessed relief.

As an adult, winter isn’t as much fun. (This from a guy born on the solstice.) Unless you’re a skier, snowmobiler or ice fisherman, i.e. hardy outdoor sports enthusiast. Someone not averse to sitting in Lambeau Field during a polar breeze. They don’t call it the frozen tundra for nothing.

The problem is Christmas and the accompanying rush it brings happens too soon. If you’re not the aforesaid active participant in these bitter, biting temperatures still ahead, a bleak hibernation is about to settle in. Broken just by the commute to work, shop for groceries or attend church services.

Guess the meteorologists’ predictions about a colder than average winter weren’t too far off the mark. Their guess about more snow remains to be seen. Which brings us full circle to those fishermen. Sturgeon spearing begins soon. Thankfully, these temps are building ice on Winnebago. Keeping even the biggest risk-takers from falling in.

‘What’s a Newspaper?’ P. IV

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER
EDITOR

A media archeology exercise concludes this week, as I leave readers to ponder, “What is a newspaper?”

In this fourth and final piece of the “What’s a Newspaper?” prompt, I wanted to finish with some local flair regarding a big part of news not yet discussed: photography.

I promise I won’t go overboard on the history, but it is safe to say that the ability to replicate images is one of the most transformative inventions by mankind.

The early years of photography started with plenty of accidental experiments and unintentional consequences. It was in 1717 that a German, Johann Heinrich Schulze, worked with a slurry of nitric acid, silver particles and chalk. The initial chemical discovery started the race to creating fixed, permanent image replications.

It wasn’t until 1826 that Nicéphore Niépce of France – using 100 years of tinkering by inventors and scientists before him – finally found a process that captured images.

I could go on (and on, and on) from there, but to sum up photo technology after 1826: it vastly improved.

Just 22 years later – July 1, 1848 – the first photograph appeared alongside a news story in a French newspaper. The image showed Parisian streets blocked during a worker’s strike (which is now known as June Days Uprising).

In the next 100 years, photographs (arguably) became the feature of newsprint. Magazines – some filled almost exclusively with photos – became the most profitable and purchased publications in the country.

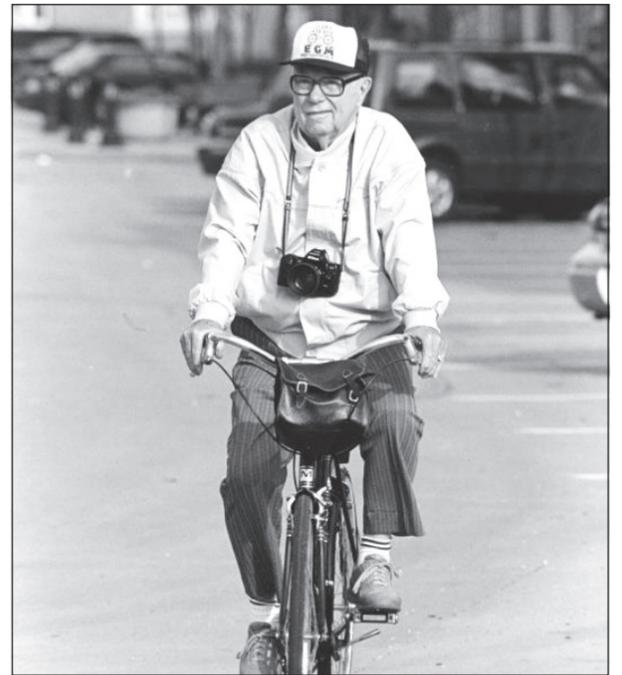

For me, photography was a key reason I sought a career in journalism. While I enjoy writing, I was always far more inspired, convinced and affected by quality photography. Basically, I’m a firm believer that – for better or worse – a picture is worth 1,000 words.

When it comes to community coverage, especially in the tight-knit towns this paper serves, I think there is no stronger fabric than a newspaper that goes above-and-beyond creating and cataloguing photographic evidence of the time.

One of this region’s most celebrated photographers, who I viewed as having an important role in fostering civic pride among Horicon Marsh communities, is Edgar G. Mueller.

Known as “Mayville’s famous photographer,” Mueller had a keen eye for cataloguing life in his beloved hometown, but he also gained worldwide recognition for photos taken across Wisconsin, including the Horicon Marsh.

One could say it was in his blood: his grandfather, Jacob Mueller, owned and operated the original Dodge County Pioneer, a German-language newspaper printed in Mayville. Edgar contributed to the paper as a photographer, but he also sold his prints (which he plastered to the window of the Pioneer office) for extra income.

The side hustle became his main squeeze, as the Pioneer was eventually sold to the Mayville News (which Mueller also contributed to), and Mueller added the likes of the Milwaukee Sentinel and Milwaukee Journal to the list of publications clamoring for his work.

The invention of the wirephoto transmitter – which sent images by telegraph (that is not a typo) – allowed Mueller to contribute to the United Press International and the Associated Press. His photos could now be seen around the world.

Mueller was prolific right up until his passing in 2001.

As a result of his constant capturing and expanse of territory, there should not be many readers born before 1990 that have not come face-to-face with a Mueller print. Stop in any local historical society museum and there is probably a Mueller photograph in the collection.

While he is just one of many great photographers who lived and worked in this readership area, Mueller is a prime example of how love of a community can shine through art and industry.

There is no single “most important” aspect of a newspaper, and to every town and city the expectations might change.

But, as long as the staff aims for accuracy, makes efforts to entertain and celebrate the community, then what you get is a newspaper.

Moving on from this prompt, I will change topics going forward into the year, but I hope readers can follow along with a new perspective on our efforts and always feel confident in what it is they’re reading: a newspaper.

See you next week.

Three C.H.S. Artists Receive Honorable Mention in Scholastic Art Awards

MILWAUKEE ART MUSEUM

The Milwaukee Art Museum announced it will present award-winning artwork by creative teens from Wisconsin for the 2023 Scholastic Art Awards: Wisconsin Exhibition.

The annual juried exhibition, which the Museum has hosted for the Wisconsin region since 1976, recognizes excellence in the visual arts and encourages the artistic endeavors of young people throughout the United States.

Receiving an “Honorable Mention” for their works from Campbellsport High School (CHS) were Olyvia Haynes (9th grade) in drawing, Anna Batzler (10th grade) in mixed media and Vivian Perron (11th grade) in printmaking.

On view Feb. 4 – March 19 in the Museum’s Schroeder Galleria, the exhibition will showcase more than 350 works by students in grades 7–12 from schools across the state. In addition, works by past Scholastic Art Award recipients from the Museum’s collection, including work by Harry Bertoia, Robert Indiana, Cy Twombly, John Wild and Andy Warhol, will be highlighted throughout the permanent collection galleries.

Pieces receiving an Honorable Mention will not be included in the display.

“We are thrilled to continue the Museum’s decades-long tradition of hosting the Scholastic Art Awards regional exhibition and championing the creative achievements of talented young artists from all around Wisconsin,” said Amy Kirschke,

Barbara Brown Lee Senior Director of Learning and Engagement. “It is truly wonderful for the Museum to introduce a new generation of artists to the community, providing them with a platform at this important moment in their artistic journey and fostering their continued growth and advancement.”

Each year, a jury of regional arts professionals, including artists, university faculty, and gallerists, select the awarded works from approximately 2,500 submissions across 16 categories: Architecture & Industrial Design, Ceramics & Glass, Comic Art, Design, Digital Art, Drawing & Illustration, Editorial Cartoon, Expanded Projects, Fashion, Film & Animation, Jewelry, Mixed Media, Painting, Photography, Printmaking and Sculpture. The exhibition features work spanning mediums from painting to design.

This year, the Wisconsin competition had 2,574 individual entries. Of those, 211 entries were given special state recognition with a Silver Key, and 144 entries were awarded a Gold Key. Out of 113 senior art portfolios submitted, 10 Silver Keys and 7 Gold Keys were awarded. Gold Key artworks and portfolios will be sent to New York later this year and judged for national Silver and Gold Medals. A complete list of Wisconsin award winners can be found on the Scholastic Art & Writing Award website.

The Scholastic Art and Writing Awards celebrates its 100th anniversary this year. Since its inception in 1923, the annual program has been a space for teens to push boundaries and make waves with their creative pursuits. The award encourages the passions, talents and perspectives of millions of teens, validating their creative abilities and the belief that their voices matter.

Visitors are invited to explore the permanent collection galleries to discover and find inspiration in the work of past Scholastic Art Award recipients represented in the Museum’s collection, including many renowned American postwar and contemporary artists.

Salem U.C.C. Clothes Closet Temporarily Suspends Donations

SALEM UCC

Due to generous donations in the month of January, we are bursting at the seams with lots of wonderful clothing.

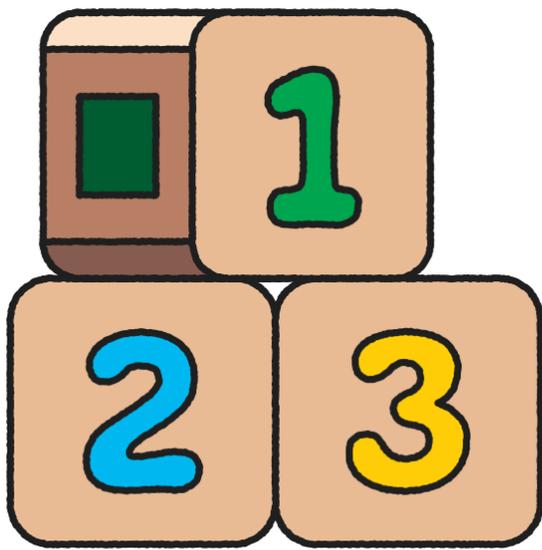

Unfortunately, at least temporarily, we are not accepting more clothing until our volunteers can sort and hang what we currently have.

In the future, we will accept gently used “like-new” clothes for all ages. We cannot accept underwear, socks or purses. Any shoes in good condition will go to an organization called Soles for Jesus, which sends them to impoverished countries.

We are most grateful for the community support we have received through your generous donations and help.

We will be sure to let you know when we are caught up and are able to welcome donations again.

space it has at 2005 S. Main St. in West Bend. Church leaders thought about adding a third service, but logistically that wasn't a good option.

"We were in a year and a half process of praying through what do we want to do at Community Church in West Bend because we were growing very quickly," said Vince Cardarelle, one of the church's three pastors. "We have about 130 people from the Kewaskum area that come to our church, so we decided to plant a church in Kewaskum. That is what we felt God was calling us to do."

The congregation began looking for a second site in the Kewaskum area. They weren't sure where to build.

Then, last summer, one of the church members went camping with a friend who said that he had just bought the former i4Learning Community School building and didn't know what to do with it yet.

It was an answer to Community Church's prayer. The church signed a two-year lease to use the building as a second site.

"Everything was working at the right time at the right place, with the right people," Cardarelle said.

Church members worked to convert the former school building into a church. The cafeteria was combined with the former school's art/music rooms to be transformed into a worship center. A block wall and drop ceiling were removed, the room was drywalled and painted, and new carpet was installed. A stage and sound booth were added to complete the worship space.

"We had a small construction crew of volunteers from our church that did most of this. We contracted one person from outside the church, and he is a fellow Christian as well. God just kept putting the right people in the right place," Cardarelle said.

People kept stepping forward to help. Another church donated projectors.

Volunteers helped convert more spaces within the building. There is an office and a kitchen. The school's former library has been converted into Discovery Land, a space for children to gather. There also is a nursery for the youngest members. The former school playground equipment is available for parishioners to use. There is a space where children sing and dance to worship music. Many of the children stay after services to play in the gymnasium.

There is an auxiliary room that is used for fellowship and Bible studies. There is great potential to do things like hosting a Vacation Bible School

Federal Government Ends Extra FoodShare Benefits for Wisconsin Households in February 2023

The Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2023, passed by Congress in late December, ends a federal program that has been providing additional benefits to households enrolled in Wisconsin's FoodShare program. FoodShare households have been receiving the maximum amount for their household size or $95, whichever is more. In recent months, an average of approximately $80 million has been distributed monthly to help almost 400,000 households across our state struggling to afford food. This also indirectly supports Wisconsinites involved in food production and retail like farmers, truckers, and grocers. February 2023 will be the last month families will receive the extra benefits. Regular FoodShare benefits will continue.

"The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program that funds FoodShare is a crucial federal support to individuals and families, particularly in times like these when higher food prices are straining everyone's budgets, but especially those of our most vulnerable," said Deb Standridge, Department of Health Services deputy secretary. "These additional funds provided to eligible Wisconsinites because of COVID-19 have made a real difference. With Congress deciding to end these federal funds, community support for local resources like food pantries and food banks will be more important than ever."

During the last two years, there have been historic federal cost of living increases to the maximum allotment amounts for households based on their size. Maximum allotment amounts have gone up approximately 34% from pre-pandemic levels.

"We expect the end of these extra benefits will impact not only individuals and families, but also retailers and farmers who accept benefits," said Stephanie Jung Dorfman, executive director of Feeding Wisconsin, a statewide association of six Feeding America food banks that serve the state's 72 counties. "During tough times, such as the pandemic and high inflation, FoodShare has been key to mitigating food insecurity. Regional food banks and local food distribution organizations will work to fill the gap, despite greater demand. Our network food banks and pantries are now gearing up to source and distribute enough food to ensure Wisconsinites have resources to turn to as they try to make ends meet."

FoodShare members will receive a letter later this month alerting them to this change. Households with emails on file will also be notified by email. Members can check the amount of their regular monthly FoodShare benefit by logging into Wisconsin's ACCESS website or by using the MyACCESS smartphone app. Regular benefits are always deposited on the same day in the first half of each month.

Regular FoodShare benefit amounts are based on information like household size, income, and expenses. If a household has experienced changes like an increase in size or a decrease in income, bills they have not reported, or expenses that have increased, they should report these updates to the agency that manages their benefits. They may be eligible for increased FoodShare benefits.

People who need additional nutritional support can:

- Call 211 or 877-947-2211 to find a local food pantry.
- Check if they are eligible for the Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP) – a federal program that provides food assistance to those with low incomes.
- Check if they are eligible for the WIC (Women, Infants, and Children) Program – a state program that helps Wisconsin families, including dads and other caregivers, with food benefits, nutrition education, and breastfeeding support.

More information for FoodShare members can be found on the DHS website.

Safety Depends on Proper Vehicle Maintenance During Winter Season

Winter in Wisconsin brings months of slippery conditions and subzero weather, so preparing yourself and your vehicle is key to a safe season.

Winter vehicle safety is Wisconsin State Patrol's January Law of the Month. It's an opportunity for every driver to make sure essential equipment is working properly before getting behind the wheel.

"A well-maintained vehicle is always important, but especially in harsh winter conditions. Check your vehicle to get to your destination safely," Tim Carnahan, superintendent said. "When you're driving in winter conditions, don't just prepare for the trip you anticipated, prepare for the unexpected."

Before You Go

Winter conditions can wear on your vehicle, so check these things regularly:

- Keep fuel tank at least half-full to prevent fuel lines from freezing and provide extra fuel if you get stranded; make sure electric vehicles are fully charged.
- Check condition of battery, anti-freeze, lights, and cooling system.
- Replace worn windshield wipers and fill up washer fluid.
- Have an emergency kit in every vehicle; include essentials like a blanket, flashlight, cell phone charger, and shovel.

Focus on Tires

Proper tire care should be part of every driver's vehicle maintenance routine and can help prevent breakdowns and crashes. Tires are one of the most important safety features on a vehicle.

"Your safety and the safety of others depends on the effectiveness of the four tires of a vehicle," Carnahan said. "The tire tread keeps a vehicle from slipping and sliding in wet or icy weather, so it's essential to take care of your tires."

It is recommended to check tires and spares monthly for:

- Pressure: Fill each tire to the manufacturer's recommendation to improve gas mileage and help tires last longer.
- Tread: Depth should be at least 2/32 inch in every major tire groove. Replace when you can see Pres. Lincoln's head if you insert a penny in the tread.
- Damage: Repair cuts, bumps, or cracks as needed.

Visibility in Winter Conditions

Before heading out in active weather, keep visibility in mind. State law requires drivers to turn on their vehicle's low-beam headlights any time weather or other conditions make it difficult to see objects 500 feet ahead. Turning on the lights also helps ensure other drivers see your vehicle to avoid crashes.

Clear snow and ice from windows, lights, the roof, and hood. It's required by law and keeps everyone on the road safer. Snow and ice sliding off the roof or blowing off the hood can be dangerous to other vehicles. Icy windshields can limit visibility and lead to crashes.

Last season, winter weather contributed to more than 15,000 crashes that killed 38 people in Wisconsin. Review the State Patrol's December Law of the Month for tips on winter driving safety.

Caroline Ann Barr

Caroline Ann Barr (nee Riley), 83, of West Bend, passed away unexpectedly on January 27, 2023.

Caroline was born March 23, 1939, in West Bend to the late William and Clara (nee Thill) Riley. Caroline was united in marriage to Ben Barr Jr., on December 4, 1971, at St. John of God in Farmington. Ben passed away on February 5, 2021.

Caroline's most precious gift was being a Wife, Mother, Grandma, and Great-Grandma. She always had an ear to lend, a hand to hold, and baked goods for all.

In addition to her husband and parents, Caroline is preceded in death by her daughter, Debra Lee; grandchildren, Brian Lee, Kent and Amber Baumgartner, and Benjamin; two sons-in-law, Kenneth Lee and Jamie Reseburg; three siblings, James Riley, Mary Schaldweiler, and Janice Theil.

A Funeral Service and Burial for Caroline Barr has already taken place.

Myrhum-Patten Funeral and Cremation Service has been entrusted with Caroline's arrangements. Additional information and guest book can be found at www.myrhum-patten.com.

Carolyn M. Roffers

Carolyn M. Roffers (nee Revolinski), 79, of Campbellsport, passed away on Thursday, January 26, 2023, at St. Agnes Hospital.

Carol was born on September 21, 1943, in Milwaukee, the daughter of the late George and Angeline Revolinski. On December 18, 1965, she married Michael Roffers. Carol worked for 28 years as a waitress at Bublitz Restaurant. She enjoyed reading, latch hook, and was an animal lover. Above all else, she cherished the time spent with her family, especially her grandchildren. She was affectionately known to all as "Granny".

Those left behind to cherish her memory include her husband, Mike; children, Roberta Roffers, Mike Roffers Jr., Kelly (Joe) Newton, Troy Roffers, and Tracy (Doug) Derksen; grandchildren, Julia, Raquel, Ashley, Deidre, Ann, Justin (Brittany), Skylar (Michelle), Brett (Riley), Kialei, and Jayce; many great-grandchildren, nieces, nephews, other relatives, and friends.

In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by her brothers, George and Ron, and her son-in-law, Jeff Ertl.

Visitation was held on Tuesday, January 31, 2023 from 4 p.m. until 6 p.m. at Twohig Funeral Home, 109 W. Main St., Campbellsport, WI. 53010. The funeral service began at 6 p.m.

Burial was Wednesday, February 1, 2023, at 10 a.m. at St. Kilian Cemetery in St. Kilian.

Carol's family would like to thank the staff of St. Agnes 4th floor, Dr. Mendez, and Home Instead for their care and compassion.

Twohig Funeral Home is serving the family with online guestbook and condolences at www.twohigfunerals.com.

Fitzgerald Selected to Serve on Key Subcommittees on House Financial Services Committee

Congressman Scott Fitzgerald (WI-05) has been selected to serve on the House Subcommittee on Financial Institutions and Monetary Policy as well as the Subcommittee on Housing and Insurance.

The Subcommittee on Financial Institutions and Monetary Policy is responsible for overseeing our financial regulators, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, and the Federal Reserve and its 12 reserve banks, in addition to identifying policies that grow and stabilize the financial system and broader economy.

The Subcommittee on Housing and Insurance is responsible for overseeing the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Federal Housing Finance Agency, as well as developing policies to increase housing supply and maintaining robust insurance protections for consumers.

"I'm grateful to have been selected to subcommittees on the House Financial Services Committee that meaningfully affect the Fifth District, said Congressman Scott Fitzgerald. Inflation has caused great pain by significantly increase in the cost-of-living in our communities. Restoring economic security, safeguarding consumers, and fostering the American dream of homeownership are some of my top priorities."

Coach Mark Peterson was honored on January 26 with a plaque commemorating his 300th win as a Campbellsport High School wrestling coach. Athletic Director Tom Griesemer read the plaque's verbiage after the Cougars defeated Berlin. Many people stuck around to honor Coach P and his remarkable coaching career. Family members were on hand to help him celebrate.

If you have been in the True Value Home & Hardware store in Campbellsport recently, you have probably seen a lot of things changing. The store is being renovated. The outside of the building had received a new paint job during the nicer fall weather. Now the focus is on the inside of the building. Some departments are being discontinued, reduced, expanded, or moved. The plan is to expand the gift department with 4,000 to 5,000 new items.

January 27 was a beautiful day to be outside for the Long Lake Fishing Club's annual Snow Golf Tournament, hosted by The Sandpiper Inn.

Ken Depperman of the Town of Auburn has announced his candidacy for the 59th Assembly District seat being vacated by Jesse Kremer. Depperman currently serves as the Chairperson for the Town of Auburn and is a Fond du Lac County Supervisor for District 10, which covers the Towns of Auburn and Osceola.

The Campbellsport FFA Alumni Association held its annual meeting on January 26 at the Eden Community Center. Mary Runge was presented the Outstanding Member Award and Cal Hermann of Eden Restaurant & Catering received the Friend of the Campbellsport FFA Alumni Award. Jim Schneider is retiring from the board. Returning to the board are Scott Krueger and Chris Hinn. Remaining board of directors include Chris Kramer, Jenny Kutz, Joe Schultz, and Ray Halbur. New to the alumni board is Christina Kreis.

Third grade students from Shepherd of the Hills Catholic School in Eden created colorful glass jars as part of their year-long service project of helping the hungry in the local area. Students were asked to earn money by doing service at home and in their communities for three months. After the Christmas break, students brought back their jars to school and the money earned was counted. The class collected $469.12. This money will be donated to the Fond du Lac Food Pantry.

Campbellsport's boys basketball team has won three games recently. The Cougars beat Ripon 58-56 on January 19, Berlin 52-46 the following week, and Winnebago Lutheran Academy 52-36 on January 27.

The Campbellsport High School wrestling team closed out the ECC dual season with a convincing 60-22 victory over Berlin on January 26. The Cougars are 5-1 in East Central Conference dual meets; and Campbellsport may have a chance as co-champion depending on the outcome of the conference meet.

The Lady Cougar bowlers finished second in the conference.

It was a tough first part of January for the Lady Cougar basketball team. Reports published in this week's paper were losses: 54-25 to Kettle Moraine Lutheran on January 4, 58-54 to Laconia on January 6, 48-38 to Berlin on January 9, and 38-26 to Waupun on January 12.

Linda K. Miller, 68, Dundee, passed away January 26. Clara H. Weiss, 97, Kewaskum, passed away January 23.

Another State championship for the Campbellsport dance team as this is the second consecutive year the team placed first. The team took first place in their division with their routine in the Funk category. The team also took fourth in the Pom competition.

Fifth grade teacher Thea Schmidt let readers know why she loves living and working in a small town. Her answer: Because in small towns, people care about, look out for, and give to those in their community. The home of one of her students was destroyed by fire before Christmas. When school resumed, the rest of the students wanted to do something to help Mitchel and his family. After brainstorming ideas, it was decided a bake sale would be held with all of the proceeds going to the Haendel family. Before long, four tickets to a Milwaukee Bucks game and two tickets to a Marquette Golden Eagles basketball game were added to be raffled. Each team also sent autographed basketballs. UW-Madison sent t-shirts and duffel bags. Area businesses added prizes for the raffle table. There were more than 50 prizes. School officials sacrificed their faces for a pie throwing opportunity. The Haendel family received $2,138 from the event.

With a big snowstorm predicted later in the week, the Campbellsport Board of Education talked about make-up days at its February 4 meeting. District Administrator Dan Olson explained that if two more days were missed because of weather, the district would be fine. If a third day is missed, the number of hours students are in school would be looked into to decide if a day of classes would have to be added to the school year.

Karl McCarty of Campbellsport has been very busy the past couple years writing his first book. He had so much information that it was turned into two books. The first, The Last One Standing, was published in the fall of 2007. In this book, McCarty looks at the politicians who at one point considered running in 2008 for the office of President of the United States. His second book was just published and is titled Dancing Around Iraq: Presidential Wannabes Dodging Bombs. In this book, McCarty takes an unbiased look at the war in Iraq.

Student Council officers for Campbellsport Elementary School include President Brianna Gruenwald, Vice President Alyssa Peters, Secretary Ashley Benzing, and Treasurer Taylor Ramthun.

Eden Elementary School's Student Council officers include President Elicia Engel, Vice President Jordan Wettstein, Secretary Megan Stepaniuk, and Treasurer Casey Ruplinger.

Senior Billy Mayer was the lone champion from Campbellsport at the EW Conference wrestling tournament.

A son, Connor Michael Mains, was born January 21 to Jacquelyn Fuhrman of St. Cloud. A daughter, Adarie Lee, was born January 23 to John and Alesha Hau of Campbellsport. A daughter, Dalani Rose, was born January 23 to Timothy and Amy Pickart of Malone.

Conservation Warden Doug Bilgo warned people that all area lakes have poor ice this year. The warmer than normal weather, along with a blanket of insulating snow, has not allowed the ice to form. Bilgo warned people to use extreme caution when venturing out onto the ice. Some areas may have eight inches of ice, but other areas have only one to four inches, which can lead to a disaster.

Krebs Chiropractic Office of Campbellsport has been in business for 40 years.

The Campbellsport High School Cougar Wrestling Team gave Mayville a whipping 58-9 as the Cougars lost only two matches. Two days later, the Cougar wrestlers defeated Laconia 62-9 on Senior Night.

Coach Turchany said, "the games are exciting, disappointing, wild, hard luck...and...build a lot of character...but they are still tough losses." The boys basketball team lost two one-point games recently: 55-54 to Markesan and 50-49 to Lomira.

Campbellsport High School Varsity Girls Basketball Team improved its record this week to 8-5 with a 62-50 win over Kewaskum on Tuesday and 51-48 victory over Laconia on Thursday.

Di-Man Dairy Software Development of Campbellsport plans to offer local internet service for the 533 telephone exchange. According to owner Bud Discher, area residents can be a part of the decision on the service offered based on the amount of support received in the form of commitments.

An application of Aug. Haferman of West Bend to establish a Luick Dairy route in the village was turned down by the village board at its regular meeting Monday night. Two members, Koenigs and Streen, were absent due to sickness and the business was carried on by Beisbier, Rusch, Weber, Ellis and Senn until Weber was excused by an emergency call. In turning down Haferman's application, the board expressed the opinion that the present delivery service of the Wayside Dairy was satisfactory, and in view of the fact that they had recently purchased the Avenue Dairy, and that they had encountered a lot of adverse weather, they should be given a chance to establish themselves before another dairy be allowed to come in. The application was tabled.

People from miles around will gather tonight at the high school gym to watch an unusual game of Donkey Basketball between the Kewaskum Kiwanis Club and the Campbellsport Lions Club.

The band and glee club concert in the CHS gym last Thursday evening was a grand success. A crowd of over 300 spectators strained parking and seating facilities to the utmost. Every available chair was used and the bleachers were erected to accommodate the large number attending.

A fire alarm was given on Tuesday but the fire truck returned without completing the run. Someone was driving the frost out of the ground with fire in order to break ground. An individual saw the blaze and turned in the alarm before investigating, and later corrected the error.

Clyde Smith, supervisor of the Kettle Moraine, reports that the snow on Mauthe Lake at the bathing beach has been removed, making the area available for ice skating. The road leading to the lake and some parking space have also been cleared.

The village truck was on the Mill Pond Thursday to clean off an area to be used by the people of this community for a skating rink. Harold Lueders will take the fire truck down tonight and put on a thin coating of ice to improve the surface.

Creation of a new ordinance that would prohibit children younger than age 18 to purchase or possess vaping products is being considered by the Village of Kewaskum. The Village Board is expected to vote on the ordinance at its next meeting, February 19. Currently, there is no ordinance that addresses vaping issues. According to Police Chief Tom Bishop, the ordinance "would give us a mechanism to say if you're not 18, you shouldn't be smoking that stuff." The ordinance being considered by the Village of Kewaskum is similar to one proposed in the City of Hartford, according to Bishop. He said other municipalities have started proposing similar ordinances.

The opioid epidemic has struck Washington County, and its effects are reaching across the different generations. More and more crimes are drug-related. Children are starting to use drugs at ages 10, 11, or 12. The county is trying to respond, with law enforcement and the court system spending much of their resources on the crisis. The county also is struggling to provide adequate mental health resources for those in crisis. Wisconsin Attorney General Brad Schimel heard about some of those things when he met with about 50 government and law enforcement officers for a roundtable discussion. This was his 49th county roundtable discussion on his tour to visit all 72 counties.

The Fillmore Fire Department recently held its annual awards banquet. Firefighters of the Year were Antonio Gurrola and Jason Winklbauer. First Responders of the Year were Jeff Steinert and Mark VanNatta. Social Member of the Year was Judy Steinert. Recognized for years of service included Larry Polenske (25 years), Patti Neumann (more than 20 years as secretary), and Stan Steinert, 45 years.

McKenna Jens and Maxwell Stowers are the Kewaskum Kiwanis January Students of the Month.

Kewaskum and Campbellsport wrestling teams are sharing the East Central Conference wrestling title. The Indians had a perfect 6-0 record during the season, but Campbellsport won the conference tournament 229-225. At the tournament, Nathaniel Droese (106), Mason Pomeroy (120), Braden Maertz (132), Eric Bauer (138), Alex Deheck (145), and Tanner Goeman (152) each won the title in his weight class.

Although the Kewaskum boys basketball team had an 11-point lead in the second half, the Indians lost the February 2 game 73-68 in overtime when the offense went cold. Kewaskum is 0-10 in the conference.

Brandon Heckendorf, a Kewaskum resident who attends Kettle Moraine Lutheran High School, has received a scholarship to attend Clarke University in Dubuque. He will play football for the school.

Kewaskum Village Board members learned at the February 4 meeting that plans are being reviewed for upgrades to their wastewater treatment facility. Trustees also listened to ideas on how to fund the almost $5 million project. The DNR has 90 days to go through the plans with a fine-toothed comb.

Farmington Historical Society sponsored a visit to fourth and fifth grade classrooms at Kewaskum Elementary School by President Abe Lincoln (Robert Rotgers of Milwaukee).

Demolition of rooms being remodeled at Kewaskum High School will begin on June 16, with actual remodeling starting on June 30 and occupancy by September 2. Initial cost was $825,000, but a memo by Business Manager Paul Reichert last month estimated the cost between $800,000 and $1 million. Remodeling to be done at Kewaskum Middle School this summer will cost around $50,000.

Mary Andrae, a Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board representative, recently visited the fourth grade classroom at Farmington Elementary School. She gave an informational presentation about the dairy industry and Wisconsin agriculture.

Katie Ramthun of Kewaskum, FIC, LUTCF, CLU, was recognized for outstanding sales and service at the Catholic Knights Sales Awards Celebration, which was held January 26. She received the Excalibur Club Award, one of the Catholic Knights most prestigious awards, for exceptional sales throughout the course of the year.

Holy Trinity Catholic School in Kewaskum celebrated Catholic Schools Week, which was January 27 through February 1. Events held throughout the week included students participating in the Masses to kick off the event, Dress Your Best Day, Student Appreciation Day, Volunteer Appreciation Day, Pin Day, Teacher Switch Day, Slipper Day, Spirit Day, and an All School Mass.

Jared Koffke, Rob Maertz, and Cody Seibel each earned EWC champion honors at the recent Eastern Wisconsin Conference Tournament.

Seventeen members of the Kewaskum Indian Wrestling Club won titles at the annual Kimberly Invitational, held Sunday. The Indians earned second place in the team competition.

A daughter, Victoria Lynne, was born January 21 to Erin and Eugene Hojnacki III of Kewaskum.

Martin G. Steinbach, 93, Town of Wayne, passed away February 2. Viola M. Koenings, 93, West Bend, passed away January 29. Charles Flynn, 65, Campbellsport, passed away February 2. Walter H. Sternberg, 83, Hartford, passed away January 29.

At Monday's meeting, the Kewaskum Village Board voted 5-1-1 in favor of annexing the 37-acre parcel of land owned by Steven and Susan Spoerl. The land is located in the Town of Kewaskum, just across the southwest corner of the village limits, adjacent to Kewaskum Kiwanis Community Park. Along with the petition for annexation, it was requested the land in question be given a B-2 General Retail and Service District zoning classification.

During the Monday meeting of the village board, Gwen Dreher from the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce presented a $1,000 check to Village President Robert Wagner. The money is to help offset the cost of a spray water fountain which will be installed in the pool area of Kiwanis Park in spring.

Police Chief Richard Knoebel was congratulated during the village board meeting on his 25th anniversary of serving the village.

Ryan Martin and Kristi Gundrum were named the Kewaskum Kiwanis Students of the Month for January.

A 24-point fourth quarter propelled the Kewaskum girls basketball team to a 46-37 victory over Chilton. The Lady Indians had scored only 22 total points in the first three quarters.

The boys basketball team suffered two losses recently, 64-57 to Lomira and 75-55 to Chilton.

Mary Ann Gruber, 94, Kewaskum, passed away February 3. Shaun M. Kunde, 28, West Bend, passed away January 31. Kimberly A. Lindoerfer, 22, West Bend, passed away January 30. Stanley S. Neahous, 40, West Bend, passed away January 27. Infant Fredrick William Tetzlaff IV passed away

Once a decision was made on the building program, the Kewaskum School Board unanimously approved a resolution to borrow $1.6 million for the required construction, remodeling, and equipping needed. The building program adopted is based on decisions to retain grades K-6 in the elementary school and to utilize the present high school, with additions for four grades rather than three. The program is designed so that the shuttling of students between the Beechwood and Farmington areas can be ended as the district moves to more upgraded educational programs.

Six candidates filed for three trustee seats on the village board. They are Alfred Kral, Daniel Schmidt, Roger Strack, John Tessar, Robert Staehler, and Ken Neldner.

After four long years of anxious waiting, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fickler of Kewaskum have been informed that the name of their missing son, Capt. E. James Fickler, was not on the list of 555 POWs released by the Communists. He went missing in action in Southeast Asia on January 17, 1969.

During 1972, building permits were issued in Kewaskum for 30 new homes and one apartment building containing 10 housekeeping units.

Greetings from the Campbellsport Library!

We are so excited to be launching Hoopla at the library this week! Hoopla is an app paid for by the library that allows our patrons to view their choice of more than 1 million titles with their library card. The Hoopla app launched at our library on Wednesday, Feb. 1, and it's easy to sign up. Visit us at the library for more information or visit our library Facebook page beginning February 1st for quick tutorials and how to guides. Don't have a library card? Stop at the library and we would be happy to get you started with one. Library card sign up takes five minutes, at the desk and only requires that you bring a valid driver's license along with you.

We had a blast at our first Foodie Friday Event on January 27. Kids joined us to make their own mini pizzas. Join us for our next Foodie Friday on February 24th, from 2-3:30 p.m. We will be having a Cupcake War! Come decorate a cupcake and see if your design is better than the rest. Sign up at the front desk or call 920-533-8534 to reserve a spot you won't want to miss the fun.

Story Time at the Library

Children ages 3-6 are invited to join Ms. Azra at the library for story hour every Wednesday from 10:30-11:30 a.m. Children will enjoy reading stories, making crafts and participating in other themed week activities. Story hour offers the opportunity for young children to socialize with others and also encourages growth in language development, motor skills, and helps to promote a love of learning. Children and families are welcome to stay after story hour to play and explore at the library.

Check It Out!

LORI KREIS, DIRECTOR
KEWASKUM PUBLIC LIBRARY

February is Library Lovers month and we will have programs and special activities to celebrate throughout to show our appreciation for our library users. Another way to do that is with all the new reads we will be bringing your way.

In adult fiction, Melinda Moustakis' debut novel Homestead is set in Alaska, the author's home state. This falls within the genre of demographic orientation and includes rich descriptions of the state on its brink of statehood while following the story of the marriage of two homesteaders. The Spite House by Johnny Compton is another first novel. It is a gothic thriller about grief and death centering on a father's love. Salman Rushdie is back with a saga about a girl who has a divine encounter that changes the course of history. It is titled Victory City and is a marvelous fable about ancient India. Fans of Rachel Joyce's Harold Fry will be thrilled to get their hands on Maureen: A Harold Fry Novel. Maureen Fry settled into a quiet life after her husband returned from his walk across England now needs to partake on a journey of her own. Look for new releases in February by James Patterson, Lucy Score, Jojo Moyes and Tom Rob Smith.

Check out new memoirs, true crime and parenting books in adult non-fiction. The Emotional Lives of Teenagers: Raising Connected, Capable, and Compassionate Adolescents was written by podcaster and thought leader Dr. Lisa Damour. This guide will help parents support their teens through this emotional time in their lives. Bad Mormon is a spicy memoir by real housewife Heather Gay. She talks about her departure from the Mormon Church and success in business and television. Read about the historic assassination of President Garfield and its connection to a free-love community in Upstate New York in An Assassin in Utopia. Historian Susan Wels takes us through this unforgettable time in a fascinating narrative. Femina: A New History of the Middle Ages, Through the Women Written Out of It by Janina Ramirez is an extensive and well-researched book revealing why women were written out of history. This book brings us the forgotten names of females who were vital to our world's history.

Look for the following highly recommended books for your young readers. Grace Lin writes Once Upon a Book. This is a magical tale about Alice who gets swept into the pages of her favorite books. Finally Seen by Kelly Yang is realistic fiction about a young girl who has been away from her parents and sister for five years living in China. She comes to America to finally live with them and finds it much more difficult than she imagined. New stories about the Berenstain Bears, Big Nate, Library Fish and Bluey will also be available in February to take home.

Be sure to stop in the library during Library Lovers month to check out our new books and maybe you will find a special sweet thank-you treat from your library workers.

ing, Randy Klapper said he was concerned about parking and overcrowding.

"What is the reason for doing this? What is the justification?" Klapper asked rhetorically about the housing construction project.

Bret Fowler said he was concerned. He noted that construction work took place ahead of the rezoning and he questioned the transparency of the process.

"They're ripping out trees," said Fowler. "Is this a done deal? [Gavin] has plans already, and they're already in motion. There's a right and a wrong way to do it, and this just stinks."

Gavin also spoke during the public hearing and addressed Fowler's remarks.

He gave a brief history of his involvement with the property and noted that, back in 1997, the plan was to develop duplex or multi-family structures.

"Duplex and single-family were always meant to be intermixed here," said Gavin, who explained that he had first rights to purchase the property from its former owner Ted Meilahn. Meilahn and Gavin (according to Gavin) worked cooperatively with the village (a village water pumphouse was added) on the parcels' development until Meilahn's passing last year.

After Meilahn's passing, Gavin accepted his option to purchase and has been preparing the site for multi-family homes this winter.

"As far as clearing the area, there weren't a lot of trees there. It was mostly all brush," said Gavin, addressing Fowler's statements that Gavin was somehow circumventing due process. "Even if I wasn't coming here to rezone it, I still have the right to take down all the old brush and trees."

Gavin recognized that parking might get tight during holidays, but he said the units are planned to have garage and off-street parking. He also noted that the meeting was a simple request to rezone, not a signing-off on final plans.

"We're here for a rezoning," said Gavin. "When I present plans for the building, I can answer those setback questions and everything like that. This has nothing to do with covenants, this has nothing to do with anything other than the rezoning of this parcel."

Daniel Gell, another Dream Catcher resident, took issue with the creation of new multi-family residence when there were presently homes for sale and apartments for rent within the village.

"You have 39 properties for sale today in Kewaskum," said Gell, although that figure could not be independently confirmed. A recent search of available homes inside the village turned up less than 10 active listings.

Gell also expressed concern about the tenants who might live at the properties.

"You're going to get individuals that are going to come from an inner-city area that are going to try to buy these properties with subsidized housing, because these aren't going to sell. These other 39 facilities that are for sale currently in Kewaskum have been for sale for greater than two years. So, if we think these brand new development condos that we're going to build are going to sell right out of the gate within four months, I think you have another guess coming for you," posited Gell. He concluded by suggesting Gavin build condos closer to his own home.

Ultimately, the commission voted to recommend the zoning change to the Village Board, which will officially approved or reject the zoning request at the next regular meeting.

Other Notes

There were just two agenda items for the evening with the commission deciding to deny a rezoning request from Dar Derge for his property at 1340 Kettle Drive on the village's east side.

Village Administrator Adam Gitter said there were several obstacles in granting the request, which asked the village to rezone from General Business and Warehousing (B-4) to Community Business (B-2), which would have allowed for tenant business activity.

"It's a tricky building," said Gitter, who noted that the structure was not laid out by plans approved by the state. Gitter added that current use on the property is already outside of its present zoning and that fact would require "enforcement."

Gitter suggested the commission take no action on the rezoning request until current discrepancies are rectified or addressed.

As such, the commission did not take up the agenda item, and the motion to approve a rezoning died.

Life at the Convent

KARL MCCARTY
CONTRIBUTOR

It was a conversation about life, work and service to our elderly. And it happened all over canning tomatoes this summer in Dundee. It's not clear if this story is about St. Matt's, Sr. Daria, or a parent's passing. Maybe Judy Rybold isn't sure either.

What is certain is that St. Joseph's Convent shaped our local character. Judy worked there on and off until her early twenties. Although she would spend nearly a quarter century at Amity Leather Products, and almost the same at West Bend Mutual, it seems some of her most vivid work memories occurred on the hill west of the old Mill Pond.

Eleanor Kulow's Kindness

There are many reasons why working at the convent is important to Campbellsport history. One of the most significant was the institution's role in shaping local young women. Judy McCarty was 15 when she started at the convent in Campbellsport. "Fifteen" because she recalls her mom Helen (Weiland) McCarty (1932-2018) dropping her off at work before she had a driver's license. These memories were largely in the 1970s, "I worked at the convent, like everybody else, 'cause that was the only job for girls."

Judy's memories reinforce the importance of that first job. The hiring of youth offered young women the opportunity to interact with older women of the community. Judy smiled while recalling one she admired, "I worked with Eleanor Kulow." Judy paused, laughed and explained without any awkwardness - "And she came up to my boobs. I cleaned when I started there." The physical dynamics of Judy versus Eleanor was a notable contrast.

Eleanor was already in her 50s at the time. She passed away at the age of 100 in 2019, and according to her obituary, "Eleanor worked at Stella Cheese, was a child care provider, and also worked at St. Joseph's Convent as a housekeeper." She was short, and had a frame that complimented the elderly sisters being cared for.

Judy continued in her recollections in short and complete details with pauses accented by periods. "I cleaned when I started there. I cleaned with Eleanor. She was the nicest lady. And the nuns would look up at me and say, 'How's the weather up there?'" Judy referenced the kidding from the petite Sisters who compared themselves to Judy's own taller frame. Did the Sisters do it nicely? "Oh my God, yes. It was cute. And I didn't mind cleaning. And then after that summer, I think I started in the kitchen on Wing Two."

Sr. Mida's Memories

Another significant influence of the convent on our area was the impression caring for elderly Sisters left on the caretakers. One enduring memory that Judy has from nearly 45 years ago was a story of a sister who phonetically had a name pronounced MEE-dah.

A sister by the name of Mida Faeh (1888-1985) is buried with the School Sisters of St. Francis in Campbellsport. There are pronunciations of Italian on YouTube for the name Mida, and pronounce it as MEE-dah. Because findagrave.com suggests Mida was born in Switzerland, it is plausible her first name was Italian. There is no Swiss language, as the national languages in Switzerland are really French, German and Italian. However, the exact person could not be pinned down for sure at the time of publication, but the name used here for Mee-dah is spelled in the Italian way. The value in Sr. Mida's story is not the exact sister, but how we treat the aged.

Judy went back to her youth and caring for the elders. "Sr. Mida," she said, like a one word affirmation to the name. "And every night, she was so appreciative when you got her ready for bed. Because her brother was coming the next day, in her mind." Her brother, in reality, wasn't coming the next day; but as Judy readied Sr. Mida for bed the forthcoming visitor for tomorrow was proudly anticipated by both. Judy acted as if Sr. Mida was correct: "I would go - 'Well that's really nice. I hope I am here so I can meet him.'"

Well - there was a problem. This polite response didn't fly with a superior Sister who was a registered nurse who told Judy, "You have to tell her he's NOT coming." Judy did what she wanted - "She has nothing in her life to look forward to. I will not take that away from her." Well, the RN told Judy, "You have too." To which Judy recalled, "I said, 'I don't have to tell her anything.' And then I found an article in a newspaper which stated, 'Let them live in the world they want to live in. When you get that old, that's all you got.' And I tore that out of there, and I stuck it on the bulletin board."

Sr. Daria Jellen's grave. Many of the School Sisters of St. Francis who lived and worked at St. Joseph's Convent are buried in Campbellsport. The hundreds of uniform graves are a mixture of reflection, art, humility and faith.

Sr. Daria was a teacher at St. Matt's who spent her last years at St. Joseph's Convent. As a former student at St. Matt's, Judy Rybold would later reconnect with the aging Sister. PHOTO COURTESY OF FINDAGRAVE.COM.

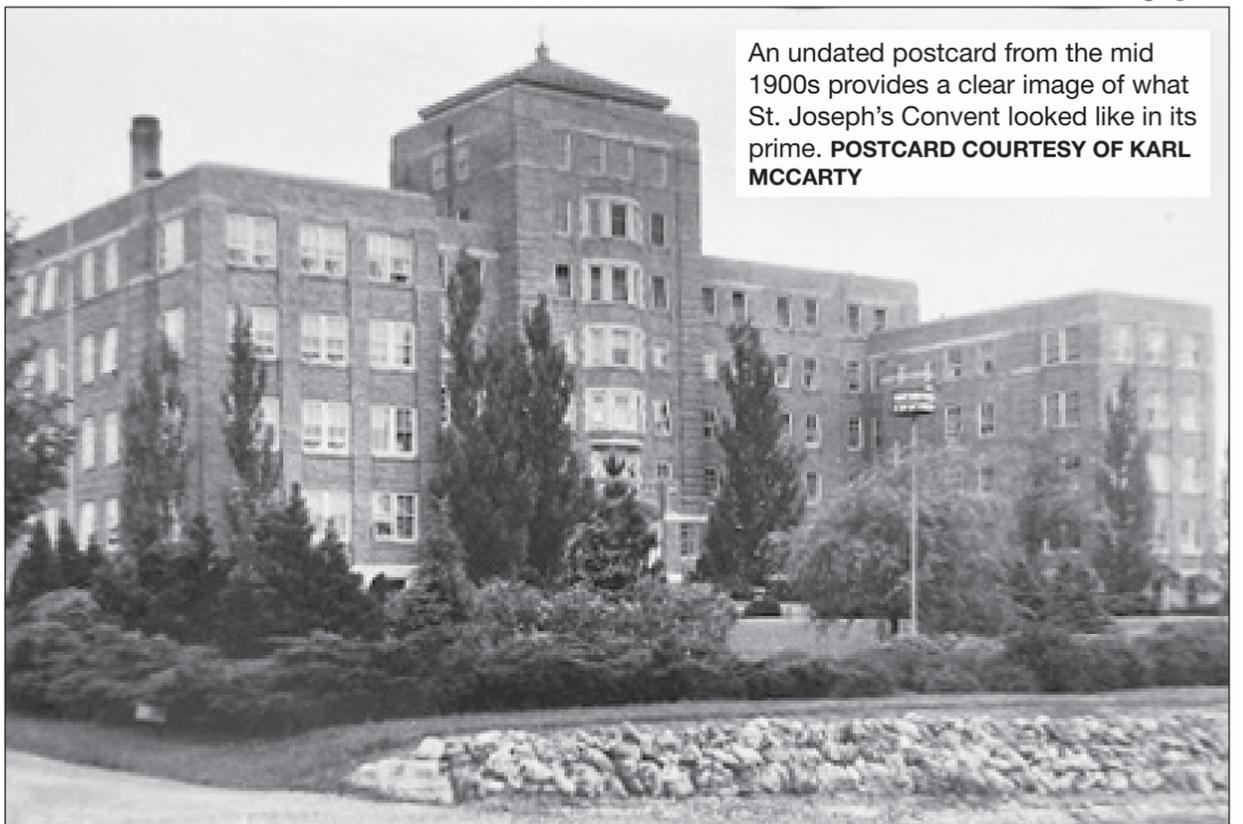

Judy described the irony that her 20-something-year-old mind had it right in the 1970s. But to the nurse's credit, "She read it, and she said, 'Oh my God. You were right.'" Then Judy brought it to commentary on working with those with dementia today - "WHAT ELSE DO THEY HAVE???" Let them live in the memories they are in.

Sr. Daria's Passing

Judy liked working at the convent. "I did it all. I was a CNA and worked in the kitchen." She was there from age 15-24, with some time at Regal Ware in between. Working the convent wasn't always easy, but it was worth it and Judy stayed at St. Joseph's on and off, even as she started full time at Amity. "I would work there on weekends when I was pregnant with Shannon [born 1979]. But then I had to quit, because I was cramping from lifting the nuns. So I had to quit, because I didn't want to lose the kid."

She learned many valuable lessons in health-care. However, probably the most important interaction at the convent was young adults seeing the end of life and what lies ahead. Hard work, compassion, and faith were all required in taking care of the aged Sisters of St. Francis. And one rant's bar. "It always feels happy."

Bristoll-Groll credited the decades of weddings, Friday-night fish fries and celebratory occasions held on the property for providing that positive feeling. After she and Tony purchased the estate in 2021, the pair said they were inundated with questions about it being haunted.

She said there are no ghosts, but plenty of lingering "spirits."

"Think of all the beer that was spilled on the floor!" joked Bristoll-Groll, who was not the least bit offended by that reality.

The outside, while receiving substantial improvements, likely does not look too unfamiliar for anyone who visited the restaurant in the last few decades; it was put up for sale in 2018 and, mostly, remained empty until the Groll family closed on it in January 2021.

The inside, however, is a restoration and renovation marvel, as dingy kitchen closets, server stations and walk-in cooler areas have been expertly altered into living areas, hallways and patios. For anyone that can picture the former restaurant, there is a lot that has changed, but plenty of remnants that honor the original layout and aesthetic.

The large square bar, for example, was pushed back nearly 10 feet into the Groll family's kitchen. The space where the bar originally stood is now part of the dining room, but, as was common in this project, the Grolls were able to repurpose the home's existing materials to make improvements.

"The floor is different," said Bristoll-Groll, pointing out where the bar used to be at the center of the room. "[A previous owner] happened to keep the remnants of when they originally did the hardwood floor, so we got that and put it where the bar was."

The wood flooring where the bar stood is artistically laid (in different patterns than the rest of the floor), which helps serve as a visual cue for anyone able to envision the former tavern.

The walls of the room, including the stone fireplace and original log siding, are largely intact as first built, which Bristoll-Groll estimated was sometime in the mid-1800s.

For Carrie and Tony, who grew up in East Troy and the southside of Milwaukee (respectively), a project of this size and scope was never necessarily part of the plan, but a chance encounter with the property on a hike in the forest during 2020 inspired Bristoll-Groll, and she quickly got to work figuring out how to convert the nearly-150-year-old structure (in some parts) – long operating as a restaurant – back into a single-family home.

"We were casually looking [for a new home]," recalled Tony Groll, noting they first came upon the property on a walk during an unusually warm autumn day.

A view from the Groll family's living room facing toward the new kitchen. In the former restaurant, the bar was situated in the center of the room and portions of it have been repurposed as part of the kitchen (in background). SUBMITTED

Groll, on their first encounter with the structured, joked to Carrie that they could covert it into a home.

"We were on the Ice Age Trail, and we went up GGG, and we're walking up the road and there's a for sale sign in front of [the place]," detailed Groll. "I said to her, 'Oh, there's one for you!'"

Carrie, however, blew right through the punchline and, after returning to their camper in the forest, she was on the horn with a realtor trying to get inside the "old Annex" restaurant.

"Within 30 minutes, we were in here looking at this place," said Groll, who noted that, just the day prior, he was informed his mother passed away from a form of dementia. The family could not be at her side due to pandemic restrictions.

"At that stage during the pandemic, we knew there wouldn't be a funeral or anywhere to really visit," said Bristoll-Groll. "We decided to honor her with thoughts and stories of her while continuing with our plan to backpack the trail to a campsite for the night."

Perhaps feeling the inspiration of remembering loved ones in such beautiful terrain as the Kettle Moraine, the husband and wife started to seriously consider putting in an offer.

But, Groll said he did not immediately share his wife's vision.

"When we came in here, I thought: it's a nice place, a nice big bar; I did not see it becoming a house," admitted Groll, who credited Carrie for having the creative concept to turn it into one. "But a couple of months later, here we are!"

The building, other than an upstairs apartment (which the Groll family also updated and renovated and rent out to visitors and vacationers), needed a complete overhaul to get functional. It sat empty for nearly four years (with some buyer-interest from time-to-time), but no one pulled the trigger or could secure financing.

"It needed a lot of work," she said. "It was an overwhelming thought to consider renovating, with all the restaurant equipment and supplies still in place. The restaurant had been closed for four years."

Nevertheless, the Grolls persisted, and it took a commercial loan, and the incorporation of the Groll family's new business – GGG Renovations LLC – to make the purchase possible.

Carrie and Tony, who previously lived in Cudahy, moved in before the bulk of the work had been done, which meant a live-in renovation project wherein there was no kitchen. They used a pizza maker to cook food and "roughed it." Bristoll-Groll recalled – on the first day after closing – sweeping mouse excrement from the floor that is of Judy's special memories was being able to care for her second grade teacher at St. Matthew's, Sr. Daria Jellen.

"Oh my God. I loved Sister Daria as a teacher. She was just the sweetest lady. She wasn't a mean nun. You know, some of them like 'Ahh! Ah! Ah!' with a ruler in their hand. She wasn't." However, her younger siblings didn't go to St. Matt's that long. "I was in fifth grade when we moved up to public school," as it didn't offer kindergarten and her brother Joe was going to go to the public school to receive it. Her mother decided not to have her kids at two different schools.

Judy never forgot the kindness Sr. Daria showed, and reconnected with her at the convent in her young adulthood. "My second grade teacher was up on my floor." However, more than her character and kindness, another aspect of St. Daria that Judy could never forget was Sr. Daria's death in 1976.

"She was a tiny, little nun. And she passed away. But I had talked to her previous to that. And when she passed, I went to see her and the nuns were in there praying, 'cause they hadn't taken her yet.' The nuns encouraged Judy to touch Sr. Jellen's body. "And I thought, 'I ain't touching a dead person.'" But the sisters persisted, and at least one said, "'Just touch her and feel how at peace she is.' So I did, and she was."

It was a lesson of peace and closure that has revisited Judy again and again. In 1994, Judy's grandma Rose Weiland was at Hope Nursing Home and had passed, and mom called. "And she said, 'if you want to say goodbye to Grandma, she's still there. And they are going to be coming to get her soon. So I ran over there, and I touched her, and I was at peace. She's at peace – I'm at peace.'"

Judy softened her voice on the sincerity of the peace, hence the italicizing.

Then when Judy's dad died at his home in 2001, Sr. Daria's passing came to mind again: "I walked downstairs and I touched him, and he was at peace. He was at peace. And I was at peace."

It is a feeling of calm, Judy said, to hold the hands of the dead. And it was "the same when Mom passed away. You feel their peace. And as long as they're at peace, you are at peace."

Mrs. Kulow's simple kindness, Sr. Mida's failing memory and Sr. Daria's calm passing might be specific to Judy Rybold's lessons of becoming an adult. But they also remind us of how life works, and how those who have crossed our lives had a purpose when given a lifetime to look back. Death shapes our lives, and sometimes for the better as the wisdom from the old is transferred to our youth. These were just some of the blessings that sprung forth from the life of St. Joseph's Convent.

in the building.

“Doors have been opening right and left for us, it is almost unexplainable. It is cool to see,” Cardarelle said.

A soft launch was started at the new church the second week of November. The new worship space was not completed yet, so the congregation met in a contemporary worship space.

The formal worship space has been used for two church services thus far. This Sunday, it will be open to the public. An open house will be held with a worship service at 9:30 a.m., followed by a reception at 10:30 a.m. The public is invited to attend this casual gathering to learn more about the church.

Community Church, which started in 1988, is part of the Christian Missionary Alliance. Mission is a heavy focus of the denomination, which strives to spread the Word of Jesus throughout the world.

In Kewaskum, the community is enthusiastic about the church’s mission, according to Cardarelle. The church’s mission is to “Love Jesus. Love Others. Serve.”

“I love this congregation. It is just a cool congregation to hang around and everyone is so chill,” he said. “Nobody leaves after the service; people just stay and hang out.”

The congregation is very happy to have the new building. Built in 1964, the building was a school until last year, when the Kewaskum School District sold the i4Learning property through a bidding process to Preferred Electric for $311,000.

“The building is cool, but I think the relationships that are being built and the community that is being reached is even cooler. It is nice to have the building, but we will worship wherever. We will worship in a broken-down barn if we have to. It is all about the relationships and planting the seed,” Cardarelle said.

Still, the congregation is happy to be in the new space and is looking forward to the future.

“We are going to come back and start to pray over what we want to do next, whether that be a Christian school or whatever else. We have a school building, what does God want us to do next?” Cardarelle said.

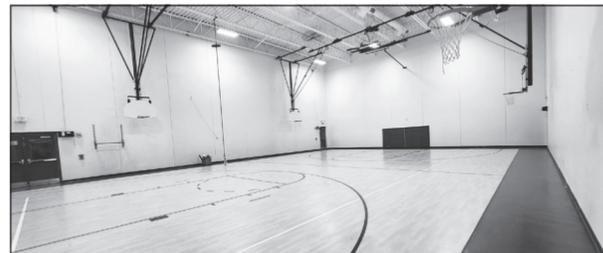

The new Community Church North, located at W5760 Mohawk Road in the Town of Wayne in the former i4Learning Community School building, offers space for children to play and learn.

Marsh Visitor Center to Host 'Cabin Fever Open House'

The program is Feb. 4 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

HORICON MARSH EDUCATION & VISITOR CENTER

Are the winter blues setting in? Wishing you were somewhere warmer? Kids are bouncing off the walls?

Come join us for a Cabin Fever Open House at the Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center where you can experience some outdoor winter adventure or stay warm and cozy inside with a cup of hot chocolate.

DNR staff and Friends of Horicon Marsh volunteers have an array of family friendly activities lined up to help drive away those winter blues.

Go on a tracking scavenger hunt on our Short Loop Trail, dissect an owl pellet or make your own snowy owl. Snowshoe (conditions permitting) out to the Storybook Trail, play board games while sipping hot chocolate and eating popcorn or warm up around the campfire. Test your creative side by entering into the "Wanna Build a Snow Animal" contest or try to build a small shelter warm enough for your imaginary hibernating animal to survive.

Fell the chill of the glaciers in the Explorium at a discounted rate as well!

So get out of the house and come join us at Horicon Marsh for a fun filled winter day.

No registration is required.

Please meet at the Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center located at N7725 Highway 28 between Horicon and Mayville.

For additional information please contact Liz Herzmann at 920-210-9054 or elizabeth.herzmann@wisconsin.gov.

Five snowmobile fatalities reported in January

WIS. DEPT. OF NATURAL RESOURCES

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reports five snowmobile fatalities last month and urges all snowmobile operators to make safety the top priority for every ride.

The loss of these five lives is nothing short of tragic and our condolences go out to the families.

“One fatality is one too many. This is not the way the DNR wants to start the new year. We welcome all snowmobilers, resident and out-of-state visitors. We want everyone to enjoy the fun and to share the trails safely,” said DNR Off-Highway Vehicle Administrator Lt. Jacob Holsclaw. “We strongly urge snowmobilers to operate within their abilities, keep their speed in check and wait to enjoy adult beverages until they are home.”

The five snowmobile fatal crashes involved single adult operators, ranging from 42 to 68 years old. In addition, four of the five victims were males. These crashes are under investigation.

Family notifications and identification of the deceased are handled by local officials.

Keep these snowmobile safety tips top of mind

when you hit the trail:

- Snowmobile operators need to be safe and responsible while on the trails, routes and frozen bodies of water.

- It is never okay to drink and operate a snowmobile. Impairment of any kind – drugs or alcohol – can have tragic consequences.

- Always operate within the limits of your skills, visibility and snowmobile. Sled Safe, Sled Smart.

Visit the DNR’s snowmobiling webpage for additional information on snowmobile safety classes, regulations, safety tips and how to register your snowmobile.

DNR Violation Hotline

Anyone with information regarding natural resource violations, including unsafe snowmobile operation, may confidentially report by calling or texting the Violation Hotline at 1-800-TIP-WDNR or 1-800-847-9367. The hotline is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Trained staff relay the information to conservation wardens. Reports can also be filed online.

it will not stop.

Our good friend Gary Howe is driving up from Prairie Du Chien, which is two hours south of us, and I am picking him up at first light.

By the time I picked up Gary, Selina was so sick she could not even say hello to Gary, who has been a friend of hers all of her life.

There was not much we could do but keep her warm and, in the meantime, fish and visit with each other.

The fish are not hungry and, my newest buddy – who I met the day before – hikes by our camp. It is Dan Keller of Cochrane.

Dan is a retired contractor and, as we would find out, one heck of a fisherman.

Dan kept on trucking and Will, Gary and I kept fishing. Selina did not want to get off the ice – at least not yet – so we kept her bundled in her cot and my newest goal was to help Will catch his first northern pike.

As hard as Gary tried for perch, we tried for a gator, but we were having no luck.

At about noon, Selina told me that she thought I better get her off the ice, as she had vomited 20 times.

Next thing you know Dan hikes by our camp with a limit of jumbo perch and, a few minutes later, Selina announces she’s getting better.

Dan was fishing about 400-yards away, so Will and I started busting camp for a move to paradise and that is a big job.

The mood is great and, after camp was broke, we started building our new camp, and Selina started going backwards again. She made the announcement that I would have to get her off the ice by dark and that is what I did.

The brightest part of the day was that she was healthy for about three hours and had a real good time with Gary and our only real fish of the day was caught by Selina, which was a beautiful perch.

SATURDAY, JAN. 14
HIGH 34, LOW 17

This morning, I picked up Joey Dushek, Joey Snodie and Dennis Potter at the landing in the dark with my trailer that I pulled behind my ATV.

We fished all day and had a real nice time, as we all click really well and the bite was very tough.

We kept maybe 10 perch and one northern pike. An hour before dark, we broke camp and the ATV and trailer were loaded to the hilt for the journey back.

We made it, and the guys “insisted” that I write: I, Mark Walters, affectionately called by members of our gang “Master Guide Extraordinaire”, won the northern pike bet, which was for a buck a man, and my comrades forgot to pay me!

We all know that life has it’s struggles. We plow forward and do our best!

Buffalo City/Mississippi River Camping Trip

MARK WALTERS
COLUMNIST

This week's column is all over the map. As sometimes happens in the world of outdoor travel: it's full of "this went wrong" kind of experiences.

My 22-year-old daughter, Selina Walters, and I have taken part in some form of a winter outdoor get-away every year of her life during what used to be elementary, middle, high school and now college, as she just finished her seventh semester at UW-Stevens Point.

This year, because Selina had to take a winter-term class, we settled for three days of camping on the ice near Buffalo City on the Mississippi River. Selina's "friend", Will Meadows, who she met while working for the USFS in Eureka, Mo. would also accompany us. Will is from the Seattle, Wash. area and, though he is a well-versed outdoorsman, this would be his first ice camping/fishing experience.

before daylight this morning when my 550 Polaris snowmobile would not come out of reverse. Thankfully, I was home and changed the plan to my 570 Polaris ATV.

We had truck and trailer loaded as full as possible when we left Necedah, and the mood was excellent as the five of us – Ruby and Red, as well – headed west.

When we hit the ice with truck and trailer, we knew we should not go too far, as we did not know how thick it was.

So, our plan was to do three one-mile trips, pulling three Otter Sleds of gear and human.

Daylight would only last two hours, and we had plenty of work to do, but the first thing that we did was put out seven tip-ups, and Selina and I began to teach Will how to operate them.

At dark, we had a comfortable camp built, though we did not have any fish action, but our mood was excellent, as we had two more days on the ice.

That night, we listened to music, cooked a great meal, talked and laughed a lot.

FRIDAY, JAN 13

HIGH 31, LOW 23

They don't call it Friday the 13th for nothing.

So, it's 4 a.m., and the three of us should be sleeping but, instead, Selina has just started vomiting, and

Indians Rally Late to Top Vikings

ASST. COACH MIKE DREWNIAK
KHS GIRLS BASKETBALL

The Kewaskum Lady Indians welcomed in a talented two loss Winnebago Lutheran Academy (WLA) squad last Tuesday night for a non-conference showdown. It was a back-and-forth affair but, ultimately, it was the home squad defeating the visiting Vikings, 55-50.

The game was made even more challenging for Kewaskum, as the Indians played without leading scorer Madi Dogs.

Multiple people would need to step up in order to win this one.

Senior Morgan Adams did her part to help keep Kewaskum competitive by scoring nine of her 14 points in the first half.

The Vikings took a 31-26 lead into the locker rooms.

The Indians showed their grit in the second half.

Coach Maley instructed his team to start increasing the pressure with their half court defense. The hero of the Ripon game, Julia Steger, stepped up and finished with 14 points, including five-of-six free throws in the second half.

This game, once again, seemed to be heading to the final minutes where the outcome would come down to a few plays.

Junior Jadin Czuppa made a few key steals and some huge baskets down the stretch to help give the Indians the lead late.

The game would have felt secure with one more stop; however, Viking guard Kiara Shea found herself open and drilled a corner three to make it a one possession game.

BOX SCORE |

Kewaskum, 55 v. WLA, 50

Tuesday, Jan. 24

TEAM STATS—Kewaskum: 20 FG (3p: Czuppa 2, Adams), 12-21 FT, 12 PF. WLA: 18 FG (Shea 4, Cole, Nell), 8-15 FT, 17 PF.

SCORING—Kewaskum: Czuppa 15, Adams 14, Steger 14, Gerhartz 6, Leitheiser 5, Gruen 1. WLA: Shea 22, Cole 15, Nell 9, Kuske 4.

REBOUNDING—Kewaskum: Steger 11, Gruen 9, Adams 5, Gerhartz 4, Leitheiser 4, Czuppa 3, Vogt 1. WLA: Cole 14, Nell 9, Shea 8, Kuske 2, Schumacher 2, Theisen 1.

ASSISTS—Kewaskum: Leitheiser 5, Steger 2. WLA: Nell 4, Cole 2.

STEALS—Kewaskum: Czuppa 3, Steger 3, Butschlick 2, Gerhartz 1, Leitheiser 1. WLA: Cole 3, Nell 3, Shea 3, Suprenand 2, Schumacher 1.

BLOCKS—Kewaskum: Adams 2, Steger 1, Vogt 1. WLA: Nell 2, Cole 1.

The Indians, however, sealed the deal late at the free throw line.

Czuppa finished with a career high 15 points to lead Kewaskum to a 55-50 victory.

The Indians are now 13-5.

They were scheduled to host Sheboygan Falls last Tuesday night after print time.

Due up, Kewaskum will travel to Kettle Moraine Lutheran to try and avenge an early-season loss on Thursday.

The winner of that game may have the inside track for the number-three seed in regionals, which start in late February.

Lady Cougars Finish Season 10-1, Headed for State Tournament

CHS BOWLING

The Lady Cougar bowlers finished their regular season and are now headed for the State Tournament, March 2-4.

On Monday, King Pin Bowl was the place and knocking down the pins was the sport.

The Cougars had a bye week, but in bowling you still bowl an opponent and that opponent is your current season game average.

Beating their average of 153 was no problem for the Cougars, doing it in eight out of nine games with highs of 194, 185, 172 and 171.

The format is actually similar to the State Tournament qualifying round. At the Tournament, each team bowls 15 games trying to finish in the top five of total pins knocked down.

The Cougars finished sixth last year just missing the stepladder finals.

In Monday's match, the team was 148 pins over their average, which is pretty respectable. It was a good team effort and everybody bowled well. It was the kind of effort they are going to need at the State Tournament.

In the match, every bowler filled over half of their frames with Brianna Thompson leading the team (filling 15 of 15 frames).

Paige Jordan filled 11 of 15 frames, Taylor Muraski filled 10 of 15, Olivia Boegel filled nine of 15, Hannah Thelen filled nine of 15 and Aubree Koenings filled eight of 15 frames.

"A great team effort!" said Coach Cary Serwe.

In addition to the team qualifying, Brianna Thompson will be returning to the Girls Individual State Tournament trying to reclaim her championship crown from last year.

Good Luck Cougars!

Stats for the match were as follows (strikes-spares-total frames): Taylor Muraski 3-7-15; Hannah Thelen 4-5-15; Aubree Koenings 2-6-15; Olivia Boegel 4-5-15; Brianna Thompson 7-8-15, Paige Jordan 3-8-15.
