Kewaskum Allows Dogs in Village Parks

STATESMAN STAFF

The Village of Kewaskum's canine residents may have been howling at the moon in excitement after a recent ordinance change altered the laws to officially allow dogs in all village parks as of last week Monday, June 5.

Under chapter 66, section 1 of the village's code – which outlines "Conduct in Village Parks" – prior to last Monday's village meeting, dogs were not allowed in any village park with the exception of a small location by the Main Street bridge in River Hill Park.

After the passage of Ordinance 2023-06, which amended the municipal code, dogs will be allowed in all village parks provided they are not present on athletic fields, are leashed at all times and do not engage in frequent disruptive behavior ("Dogs which frequently bark, howl or act in any menacing fashion are not allowed," states the ordinance amendment).

The amendment passed with a 5-2 vote; trustees Jim Wright and Dick Knoebel voted against allowing dogs in village parks.

Dog owners are also legally required to pick up animal waste (which is detailed in the municipal code under Section 10-44(g)(1)).

The village made the announcement on its Facebook page the following morning using the hashtags "VOKisdogfriendly" and "wholetthedogsout" while reminding residents to follow the rules.

Opposition

While dozens responded to the village's post with positive messages, there were several who did not view the development as a positive for Kewaskum and its residents.

"Bad idea!" said one commenter. "Good luck getting people to pick-up their [dog waste]."

Several commenters noted that dog waste is detrimental to athletic fields, and they expressed concern that it could damage or delay development of playing surfaces.

The Reigle Family Park Facebook group posted in the comments, stating its opposition to the action to allow dogs in village parks. The group is run by a team of local volunteers.

"Village leaders have decided to approve an ordinance that will likely result in adding dog poop and urine to the problem," said the group's comment, noting that athletic fields at the park and concession stands are still in development and that the park is not considered finished. "They did this without reaching out to any of the volunteers who have spent hundreds, probably thousands, of hours and hundreds of thousands of dollars developing this park. What adds insult to injury is the park is not even finished and volunteers are still working on the park, and they were not contacted."

The post also took issue with the posting of the agenda item that ultimately led to the passed ordinance amendment.

"[Village officials] disguised the item on a meeting agenda so something could get passed without anyone knowing anything in advance," alleged the post, lamenting the process. "So much for open government and working together."

The amendment was discussed and voted on as part of agenda item eight (VIII) (Committee Reports) under section "e" (Park & Recreation) and topic "ii" which read: Discussion and possible action on Ordinance 2023-06 Conduct in Village Parks.

Graduation Ink Expands in Kewaskum

GRADUATION INK

Graduation Ink, a small family-owned business that supplies diplomas to all 50 states as well as international locations, is expanding by putting up a new 5,000 square-foot building in Kewaskum.

Using all local vendors, the building located at 109 Hillcrest Road will also offer a 1,000 square-foot wing as rental space. In the future, that area may be needed for future business expansion.

The family business originated in 1948 when Clarence and Lydia Kremer started the Kremer Letter Service in Milwaukee. As the second generation of the Kremer family expanded the company, what began as mostly a church printing service grew to become Kremer Publications

| PUBLISHER LETTER |

I wrote this some years ago and still believe it has some relevance for today. Enjoy—and Happy Father’s Day to all those fathers out there. May you spark joy with all those who love you for who you are as a father.

A real man - on Father’s Day

Dear Reader,

It’s tough these days to be a man. In fact, I’m sure there are a lot of boys out there searching to be a “real man” in a world that is an ever shifting ambiguity. I’ve been fortunate in that I’ve had a number of male role models in my life starting with my father who gave me the courage to be what I think is right in a world that judges every day through the scrutiny of many eyes.

Pressing weights, being a sports star, being a fancy dan with the girls, is more a proof of the boy needing to become an artificial man in others’ eyes than being a real man for himself. Personally, I like poetry, I teach children to play chess and I work hard to support my family. Not glamorous to most outsiders, but I don’t measure myself by anyone else’s standards.

Integrity of being is not based on how much one makes or their status in relation to others. No, “Man-ness” is based on strength of character to stand up for principles such as family, faith and flag. “Man-ness” is also based on one’s willingness and ability to contribute to what we are as a whole community.

This may not be the stuff little boys dream of, but it is the foundation of what being a “real man” is all about.

The Beauty in ‘Broken’

JAMIE LYNN GOURLIE
CONTRIBUTOR

Dearest You,

Do you see the beauty in all that is broken? What if it’s not actually broken? What if its purpose isn’t/wasn’t for the seemingly obvious purpose?

My daughter gave me a coffee mug last Christmas. It was by far my favorite, as it included so much of what I love, including the color pink. Being completely honest, I didn’t know I could love a mug that much.

Within a month, I noticed a hairline crack on the side by the handle. I super glued it, not caring what it looked like, I just wanted to “save” it.

Within a week, the mug was dropped, chipped and cracked in another area. At that moment, I was deeply heartbroken, but refused to throw the mug away. There it sat, empty and unused.

I didn’t know what I would do with it, but I was determined to give it a purpose.

In March, a client generously gifted me a pink orchid. I was enlightened when I brought it home, as it came to me with clarity; perhaps my favorite “mug” was meant to be a pot for plants, specifically my new orchid.

When we take the time to stop and think, things can be so much greater than what we generally allow within our minds.

I wonder how much of what you see within yourself that you view as broken, is actually broken?

This week, I leave you with this thought: In the event you may feel “broken”, remember, life happens exactly how it is meant to happen, ultimately giving us all opportunities to create ourselves into who we are meant to be.

I invite you to embrace all that you truly are, all seemingly flaws, cracks and chips.

June is Dairy Month. May not mean much – unless you were raised around livestock or are a hired hand at a larger operation like Abel Farms. Consider how deeply they affect the local economy. Wages paid are spent in the area.

Providing other jobs and cash flow. It’s said money is like manure. No good unless you spread it around.

Think about the cheese factories, Grande, Sargento, and Bel Gioso who in turn, generate further employment. Not least is the string of eateries, from small town cafes to Fond du Lac dining establishments, both customers for agricultural output and allowing more folks to earn a living.

I miss Restaurant Row. Leastwise, the way it snaked along Pioneer Road in the city from the Dartmoor down to Marc’s Big Boy and behind it, Captain’s Steak Joynt, Country Kitchen, Schreiners, then north to IHOP, Cracker Barrel and Red Lobster.

Perhaps I only miss working there, spent a decade at the pancake house. Its first manager told us “A good busboy should be able to do a table in a minute.” Never realizing I’d shave that number down to three a minute, 20 seconds start to finish. Of course, speed came in my late 20s, fueled by a steady stream of caffeine (Coca Cola). Between washing dishes, clearing tables and cleaning, still found the energy to flirt with a petite brunette and admire a tall blonde, both waitresses who I didn’t have the courage to ask out.

Restaurant Row still exists – Faros, Buffalo Wild Wings, Ala Roma and KFC before hanging a right onto Johnson where Panda Express and Popeye’s lead the charge past Panera Bread, clear down to Taco Bell, numerous large and smaller franchises between. Despite the new names, Dairy Month still reverberates down its length, creates memories for a whole new generation. Funny how even amid renewal, some things never change.

What’s in the Water?

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER
EDITOR

Last weekend, the Mayville Cardinals softball team earned a berth in the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association (WIAA) state softball tournament and made it to the final day, earning a WIAA Division 3 runners-up trophy to cap off an impressive season that also included a conference title.

With the Cards storybook-season now tucked safely on the shelf – the memories of the march to Madison burned into the minds of the players, parents, coaches and community – it dawned on me that there must be something special in the waters of the Horicon Marsh and Mauthe Lake.

For our Dodge County Pionier readers, Mauthe is a round lake tucked in the heart of the Kettle Moraine State Forest (Northern Unit). With a northerly inflow from the Milwaukee River’s eastern branch and a southern outflow of The Milwaukee (which meanders all the way to its name’s sake), these waterways touch and impact the communities of Campbellsport and Kewaskum. The Campbellsport News and Kewaskum Statesman are two papers in the same family of the Pionier (printed under the same publishing company).

For our readers in the Kettle Moraine (with the News & Statesman), Horicon Marsh is the nation’s largest freshwater cattail marsh. The Rock River flows through it and its branches, tributaries and “main line” all impact the Pionier coverage communities of Horicon, Lomira and Mayville.

Anyone keeping track the last five years on these five locales’ high school sports (and I sure have) would note an incredible amount of success.

With the Cards’ recent trip to Madison, it marks the ninth time since 2019 that a News/Pionier/Statesman team made it to the WIAA’s culminating event (and that is not counting the dozens of individual performers in cross country, wrestling and track & field).

Nine times.

While some readers may not see any value in lumping in the success of a school district one county over, for the staff of this paper and those with connections to multiple area municipalities, it really is an astounding accomplishment and it’s unlikely there are many other regions that can boast so many gold and silver trophies.

It makes sense, though. While the wide-reaches of this readership area might be as far as half-an-hour away from one another, the world of amateur athletics is much, much smaller. Particularly these days with offseason programs and summer seasons, the competitions and practices don’t necessarily need to end. I can assure you, players from the marshes, to the moraines and through the farm fields all play one another year-round.

So, why wouldn’t we expect mounting success?

Each community seems to find ways to lift the bar just a notch, and the others, in the vein of healthy competition, rise to the occasion.

It’s been fascinating to watch, and I consider myself very fortunate to have so many state-level teams to follow.

On top of it, I’ve also been thrilled to note that many of the top players on these state teams are also top of their class; valedictorians, salutatorians and 4.0 students with options to continue playing at premier universities. Many of these top athletes are also club members, play instruments, sing in the choir, participate in mentoring programs and volunteer in the communities.

Something is clearly working, and I can attest that it’s top-to-bottom leadership deserving the kudos. I see determined coaches, emphasizing the importance of fundamentals, teamwork and respect, and with those qualities at the forefront, there is no such thing as losing in high school sports.

Great job, everyone, and keep it up!

See you next week.

Mary A. (Wachholz) Beesten

Mary A. (Wachholz) Beesten, 82, passed away peacefully on March 13, 2023 at Cameron Hall Memory Care in Canton, Georgia.

Born in Manitowoc County, Wisconsin, she raised her family first on a farm in Newton and then resided over 40 years in Kewaskum.

Mary was a graduate of Lincoln High School

Class of 1958. While raising her four children and maintaining a massive vegetable garden, she worked in family food service and later assumed an administrative position with the Washington County Clerk of Court's office, supporting the Clerk's legal and records requirements for 15 years until retirement. Mary loved learning computer systems and taking classes to advance her career and technology proficiency. She enjoyed playing the piano and the accordion and insisted on her children receiving music education. Mary was a life-long avid reader, an extraordinary cook, and exceptional seamstress. Many 4H cohorts spent afternoons with their material and patterns spread throughout every room in Mary and Frank's farmhouse learning to sew and create outfits for competition. She enjoyed retirement with monthly lunches with friends, reading, visiting family and traveling with Frank, punctuating each day with the New York Times Crossword puzzle.

Mary is survived by her devoted husband of 64 years, Frank. She is survived by her three daughters, Cheryl (Philip) West, Pamela (Mike) Last, and Michelle (Mike) Alexander; and her eight grandchildren, Julia (James) Shealy, Gavin (Kirsten) West, Katie (Clint) Royer, Hillary (Justin) Jeter, Caleb (Britney) Last, Trevin Last, Zoraya Sotelo and Lindsey Alexander. She is further survived by her nieces and nephews, including Mary Ellen, Karen, Nancy, Anna, Debbie, Lori, Lois, Bob, Greg and their spouses; dear sister-in-law, Hiltrud (Tom) Melin; and cousins, Larry and Barbara Fickau. She was the proud great-grandmother to 12 great-grandchildren.

Washington County Fourth Annual Juneteenth Celebration Set for June 19

In recognition of the oldest known celebration of the ending of slavery, Washington County is hosting its fourth annual Juneteenth celebration on Monday, June 19, at the Washington County Golf Course Clubhouse located at 1365 Clover Road in Hartford. This year the county is partnering with the Boys & Girls Club of Washington County.

Juneteenth became a federal holiday in June 2021, and commemorates the ending of slavery in the United States. The event dates to June 19, 1865, when Union soldiers arrived at Galveston, Texas, with news that the war had ended and that the enslaved were free. This was more than two years after President Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation, which had become official January 1, 1863.

"We began the Juneteenth celebration in Washington County not only to remember the difficult history of enslavement in the United States, but to provide an opportunity for our great community to celebrate its significance together. Knowing the history of the holiday allows us to build connections and understanding," said Josh Schoemann, county executive.

The Juneteenth flag will be flown at the nine Washington County government buildings. Veteran, business and church groups are participating in raising the flags that morning.

In addition to Schoemann's proclamation, the Juneteenth celebration will feature:

- Invocation – Pastor Clark Schultz, Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church
- Singers – National Anthem – UWM-WC choir – Professor of Music Peter Gibeau and "Lift Every Voice and Sing" – Noelle Braun, Casa Guadalupe Center executive director.
- Master of Ceremony – Bill Brewer
- Speakers: Will Martin – Business Owner; and Nia Obotette – author of I Am a Triathlete
- Poem – to be read by a Boys & Girls Club student
- Closing and Benediction

Still Having Fun

After a Half-century of Teaching, Campbellsport's Jane Gurno is Ready for 51

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER
EDITOR

As far as local students, teachers and administrators are concerned, it is summer, which means school is out and it's time to enjoy a break from the daily grind of long mornings in the classroom and late nights with extracurriculars.

But one Campbellsport School District educator is already looking forward to next school year, and that's Jane Gurno.

"I hope to be back," said Gurno with an affirmative nod as she spoke about her 50 years in education; all of which were in her hometown of Campbellsport at the elementary school. "I taught here 38 years, and then I came back as a substitute. I subbed 12 years after."

Gurno chuckled, noting that it's simple math, but she was not the first to realize, at the conclusion of the 2022-23 year, she would have a half-century of teaching under her belt.

"Time goes so fast!" she said. "I didn't realize it. It was my husband who said, 'You know, you have 50 years in?' and I said, 'No! I don't have 50 years in!' and he said, 'Yeah, you add together 38 and 12 and that equals 50.' And he was right!"

Gurno was born and raised in the Kettle Moraine. She lived just a mile outside the Village of Campbellsport, went to school there in her youth and graduated from Campbellsport High School.

"I wanted to be a teacher since second grade," recalled Gurno, who said the desire to educate was almost compulsory; it was something she did for fun. "I remember 'playing school' all the time, our neighbors actually had an old schoolhouse, so we'd play school."

Gurno, who was then known by her maiden name (Jane Esser), graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh with a degree in education. She returned home to Cougar Country after her studies and started working at the Benjamin Franklin store (now True Value). Then, during one of her shifts, two Campbellsport Elementary School (CES) teachers approached her with some news.

"I was working there in summer – July – and two teachers from the system, I remember their names, Mary Beth Leonard and Mary Brockman, they came to the dime store and said, 'Jane! Get yourself up to school. Someone is retiring. You should apply for that job.'"

She noted it was an opening to teach third grade.

"I thought, 'Sure, I'll do it,'" she said. "So, I applied, and I got the job."

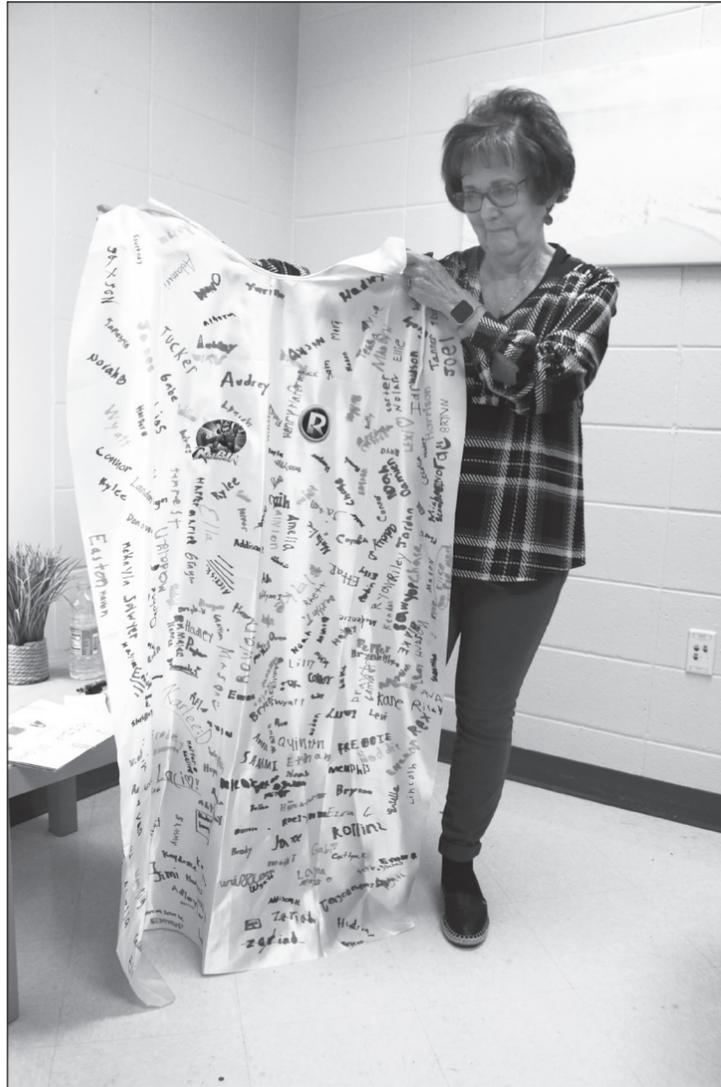

Initially, Gurno said she was apprehensive about staying in the position long term. She was, after all, in her early-20s and was facing a reality of accepting a full-time gig where she grew up.

"This is my hometown, I should not stick in my hometown. I should spread my wings," Gurno said she told her mother at the time. "Well, here we are, 50 years later, and I am here!"

She smiled thinking of her mom.

"She'd laugh at me," said Gurno. "She would say, 'See, Jane. It was meant for you.'"

Throughout the years, Gurno mostly taught third grade minus a few exceptions when she had a combined classroom with the fourth graders ("that was wonderful," she recalled). There were years when the administration asked Gurno to move grade levels, but she always politely declined.

"I loved my third graders," she said. "It's such a good age. They're anxious to learn and they're polite and kind. I stayed in third grade all those years."

For some, certain subjects and grade-levels are simply the best fit, and that's how Gurno viewed her tenure as the grade-level teacher for nearly four decades. She sensed the young pupil's energy, and she felt adept at being able to funnel it into learning.

"I called it Third Grade Gusto," explained Gurno. "I could tell when they got in the room on the very first day, they wanted to learn as much as they could. They were like little sponges. And third-grade curriculum is such a good area because there's so many new things introduced; multiplication and division and, at that time, we did cursive writing. They wanted to know those things so badly."

With some young ones it can be hard to keep them in their seats. Gurno said, though, she never had issues with behaviors in the classroom.

"They knew the skills... they were kind to each other. I just enjoyed my time with them," said Gurno, noting that, at worst, third graders are adept at getting distracted.

Gurno actually gave credit to the developments in technology for helping reduce distractions in school, which may come in stark opposition to what many feel is an overabundance of tech in today's classroom.

"You know what helped that... I'd guess it was about 2005 and Smart Boards came into being and that really got their attention," she said, offering evidence on how exactly it aided her students. "I remember that year I had my 12 boys and six girls, and to get the boys to like English; not so good. But Smart Boards came and they were fascinated with the mechanics of it and the manipulation of it, and it worked. It worked."

Gurno said, if not for her role as an educator, she likely would not engage with a lot of the day's new technology. She said learning new tech in the classroom has been a tremendous amount of fun for her, and she thinks it has, overall, aided student development.

"It keeps me in the groove," she said, noting that when the time comes that the technology gets smarter than her, she might consider hanging up her pencil and erasers. "When the technology gets too advanced for me, I'll have to step back."

She said, while access to computers has been largely a net positive, Gurno has seen some behaviors change for the worst from generation to generation. She said, unfortunately, some kids enter a world of full-blown addiction when it comes to computer gaming and being "tethered to technology" in the 21st century.

"In my day, you did a report and you made a mistake and you had to start it over. With the computers, they could save their work, they could go back, they could eliminate parts. It was much easier for them to do big book reports," said Gurno of the positives, while noting even just the habit of accessing technology changed over the decades. First, the classroom shared one computer, then schools installed computer rooms and, now, each student has his or her own device (or multiple devices).

However, the extent to which the students engage with these screens can be too much, she said.

"I do agree that sometimes maybe they get a little carried away with gaming. I feel bad, but some kids are too fond of gaming to the point that it might hurt them," she said, noting, still, that in the classroom there remains a good mix. "With reading, writing; [the tech] helps them a lot."

The real rewards for Gurno, though, have been seeing growth. Not just singular students or classes, but the

LORI KREIS, DIRECTOR
KEWASKUM PUBLIC LIBRARY

My dad passed away too young many years ago. He was a big man with a huge heart, filled with joy and warmth for everyone he knew and met. My dad had heaps of friends, this man with an ever-present smile.

I don't know how he became the optimistic person he was. His upbringing was not full of joy and love. My grandparents valued hard work and education and not much else. I don't recall them ever showing affection for my dad and as for us and my children, there was very little. My mother told me after my father's passing that he always wanted to be a history teacher. He did have a love of historic facts, reading books on a variety of topics and loved to watch old war movies. But he was not allowed to attend college and instead, as the only child, was groomed to take over his family business. Having your dreams dashed and continually told that you weren't good enough could break a person. And maybe he was broken in some ways, but his heart and goodwill never were.

My dad had an overabundance of affection for his three daughters. He loved to give us bear hugs, ruffle our hair and plant wet kisses all over our heads. As teens, we always complained, saying, "Dad! You're messing up my hair!" I miss those kisses.

He was an avid sports enthusiast, loving the Packers and Brewers. With no sons of his own, he tried to instill that love in his girls, with some success. We attended Brewers games frequently and one of his best days was when he attended The World Series and watched the Brewers play. He talked about his standing room only spot at the stadium for years.

Later, when my sisters and I had families of our own, we spent Sundays with my dad. His apartment complex abutted a large field, and we spent many summer afternoons playing baseball while he grilled. Hot dogs for the kids, burgers for everyone except for him and I. We two ate bloody steaks. Those were good days and I think watching the male additions to the family showing off their athleticism might have helped suffer the blow that he didn't have sons, although he never let on to that. He loved his daughters fiercely.

He was proud of us and told us frequently. I don't recall him raising his voice to us ever, even when my sister held a party when my mom was out of town and trashed the house or the constant whining from us three girls on our road trip to California.

My dad moved to California in the last years of his life. When he died, my sisters and I went to his apartment to clean it out. When we were done, we went to Disneyland, knowing our dad would have approved of us having fun in his memory.

Happy Father's Day!

Cedar Community’s Marketing Team Wins 2023 National Aster Award

Cedar Community is pleased to announce that its marketing team are the recipients of a national Aster Award for healthcare marketing and advertising for 2023—winning a Silver award and placing in the top 12 percent in the nation.

“Cedar Community is honored to be recognized in marketing and advertising in one of the largest and most respected national/international competitions of its kind. To be recognized is truly an honor and testament to the hard work and dedication of our marketing team,” says Sarah Malchow, chief administrative officer.

This year’s awards announcement marks the fifth Aster Award for Cedar Community’s Live More magazine. Live More is published quarterly, and is entirely written, edited, and designed by Managing Editor Carrie Sturn, Creative Director Cyndi Frohmader, and Executive Editor Sarah Malchow.

The Aster Awards is an elite program recognizing outstanding healthcare professionals for excellence in their advertising and marketing efforts for more than 20 years.

The 2023 Aster Awards received entries from across the entire United States as well as abroad. All entries are reviewed by a panel of industry experts and are scored on multiple criteria with a possibility of 100 percent. Participant’s entries compete against similar-sized organizations in their specific groups and categories.

Judging criteria included creativity, layout and design, functionality, message effectiveness, production quality, and overall appeal and execution.

“Many agencies and organizations continued to step up and offered incredible communications that were both informative and creative. Our hats off to everyone for amazing entries,” said Melinda Lucas, Aster Awards program coordinator.

entire community. At this point, several of her first Campbellsport Elementary students are old enough to be grandparents themselves. It’s a privilege Gurno does not take lightly.

“I did have students where their parents were my classmates, and it was okay. Now, it’s an asset as I sub, because I say, ‘Oh, I know your parents, and I know your grandparents!’” said Gurno. “I felt as I was teaching, I had very supportive parents. It was an important thing to keep in contact with them. I loved seeing those generations. It’s wonderful. I’m so proud of them.”

She added that, going back to technology, it’s been a joy connecting with former students on social media where she can continue to watch her former pupils find careers, start families and come back to the district with children of their own (or move onto other parts of the planet).

“How they blossomed and how successful they are... I can see how they’re raising their children. It just really makes me feel good that they’re out there in the world doing what we wanted them to do. To succeed,” she said.

On the future of education, Gurno said schools will need to continue to foster and develop good educators, and she said Campbellsport has a host of top-notch teachers to rely on. As some retire or move onto other districts, though, Gurno said highlighting and celebrating the aspects that make a quality teacher will be vital to the administration and the community at large.

“When I came here, I was the newbie, and I was winged by so many good teachers. They took care of me, made sure I was doing what I should be doing. Of course, then you feel like you should pass that on and do that for other teachers,” said Gurno, who said she’s extremely impressed with Campbellsport’s current crop of educators. “It’s wonderful to see the teachers. I knew them when they first stepped in the door. I still think of them as the newbies, but they’ve blossomed so beautifully. You always think, maybe you had a little tiny oil on that wheel that they developed into such good teachers.”

According to just a few of those long-term Campbellsport educators, Gurno’s influence was far larger than she suggested.

“Jane is magical in the classroom,” said Lilly

Guenther (Title I teacher at CES). “She encourages every child to strive to be his/her best self, and they do!”

Fifth grade teacher Belinda Timm said Gurno’s lessons will follow her the rest of her life.

“[She] has been an incredible mentor, colleague, role model and friend to so many teachers and students at CES,” she said. “The influence and impact Jane has had throughout these last 50 years will last a lifetime in all our eyes. We have been blessed to have called her ours. She is, and will forever be, loved by all the lives she has touched here in Campbellsport.”

Shelly Hoenecke, fourth grade teacher, mirrored that statement.

“Mrs. Gurno’s presence is hard to put into words,” she said. “She has a gift of reaching all learners. Because of this special connection that she makes with children, she is dearly adored and loved by all. Just mention her name to any child at CES, and their faces will light up immediately. I am fortunate to call her a dear friend, mentor and colleague.”

Mark Peterson, who knows a thing or two about “being the best” as a former Campbellsport wrestling coach, said Gurno ranked, in his book, as one of the greatest CES has ever had.

“Jane Gurno is probably the best teacher I ever worked with, and I’ve worked with some legends!” he admitted. “She is just one of the nicest ladies I have ever met.”

Fortunately for teachers, students and parents alike, it’s not the end for Gurno, who is simply celebrating entering her fifth decade as an educator. As mentioned, she plans to return as a sub again next year, although that didn’t stop some of this year’s students from providing some congratulatory gifts before the last day of school.

One such item seemed the most fitting (among several cards and drawings): a superhero cape.

“All the kids signed it! It’s so cute,” she said, holding up the yellow cape.

It’s a gift fitting Gurno, who for all intents and purposes is a hero deserving the prefix “super.” Even during the interview with this writer, students buzzed by excitedly waving to Gurno, who returned to them a gracious smile and wave without missing a beat. “I so appreciated the gift. It’s beautiful.”

But Gurno would not let the moment pass without expressing her gratitude, as well. She said, having grown up in Campbellsport and teaching her entire career at CES, it could not have been possible without the support of the district and the quality of educators therein.

“Subbing here at Campbellsport and Eden, they’re very welcoming,” she said. “I know a lot of the teachers, still, I know their style and what they do in their classrooms, so it’s easy for me to step in. They write wonderful plans for me. It’s just been a joy. You have to go to your workplace and enjoy who you’re with. My colleagues made a big difference.”

She also thanked the Campbellsport community, which she said has been incredibly supportive of the teachers and students during her tenure.

“That’s what’s going to makes schools thrive; the parent’s effort, the community-backing. They are the backbone, they are the ones that should want their schools to succeed,” she said, taking one last moment to thank her favorite group: the students. “They were wonderful. They were vibrant, eager to learn, energetic, they brought joy to me. They said the funniest things! They’re wonderful.”

She told her group this year that she can’t wait to see them next year.

“I’m coming back until it’s not fun anymore,” she told them. “And it’s still fun to come and see you. So, I’m coming back!”

Congratulations to Mrs. Jane Gurno on five decades of teaching!

GRADUATION INK from page 1 Inc. in Butler and Kremer Resources LLC in Menomonee Falls. Together they branched into church and school resources. In 2011, Jesse Kremer, grandson of the original founder and third generation family, established Graduation Ink, an independent company.

Graduation Ink custom designs and prints certificates, diplomas, diploma covers and recently added yard signs. Lutheran and Catholic elementary schools were the main customer base for the diploma business before Kremer started to expand the product lines. Since then, the customer base has increased to include public, charter and home schools, junior and senior high schools, technical and Bible colleges, universities, military agencies, medical and health care fields, apprenticeship programs and many other professional business certification industries.

The need for physical expansion became self-evident as Kremer was running out of room for materials and printing equipment. Current inventory and added product lines are housed at three separate storage facilities. With the recent addition of a new digital printing press, continued increased yearly sales of more than 30%, along with added employees pointed to the same conclusion.

As a 13-year village resident and property owner in a distressed TIF district, zoned for commercial use, Kremer put a plan into action.

Construction began at the end of May with hopes of having occupancy this Fall. Kremer loves the small-town atmosphere of Kewaskum and is excited to continue growing his business there.

“Our goal is not to be the lowest priced product on the market, but rather to ‘wow’ customers into repeat business by providing exceptional customer support and a positive, hassle-free experience,” he said.

Celebrate America's Dairyland during June Dairy Month

RANDY ROMANSKI, SECRETARY
WISCONSIN DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE,
TRADE AND CONSUMER PROTECTION

June Dairy Month is a special time in Wisconsin. As summer starts, we celebrate the many hardworking Wisconsin farmers and processors who make our state a leading source for quality dairy products across the U.S. and worldwide.

Wisconsin's dairy industry gives us much to be proud of and to be grateful for, both during June Dairy Month and all year long. Rooted in a history older than the state itself, dairy has played a pivotal role in Wisconsin's past and continues to remain vital today, contributing to both our economy and to our way of life, from Bayfield down to Beloit and from Hudson to Bailey's Harbor. The industry will remain integral to our future, thanks to farmers and processors across the state, and consumers across the world.

There are thousands of dairy farms in Wisconsin which account for nearly a quarter of all dairy farms in the U.S. It is the dedicated individuals who work on these farms, haul milk, process dairy, and sell the finished products, who contribute to our state's $45.6 billion annual dairy economy. They have also helped to make Wisconsin the number one state in the nation in total cheese production, with 25 percent of all cheese in the U.S. being made right here in the state.

We can also be proud that Wisconsin's dairy products are well-known and appreciated far beyond our own borders. Later this month, DATCP staff and I will travel to the United Kingdom for a weeklong agricultural trade mission. During that time, we will facilitate buyer meetings, make store visits, attend marketing briefings, and meet with government officials to market and promote Wisconsin agricultural products to various industry and economic development organizations in the UK. This work is supported by the Wisconsin Initiative for Agricultural Exports, and I am hopeful that this effort will increase connections with buyers across the Atlantic Ocean, helping to create additional business opportunities for Wisconsin's agricultural producers and processors.

This June, I encourage all of you to support our state's dairy industry by choosing Wisconsin-made milk, butter, yogurt, ice cream, and cheese. You can also attend one of the many June Dairy Breakfasts happening around America's Dairyland throughout the month. These events allow attendees to visit and learn about local farms while enjoying a delicious breakfast made with fresh Wisconsin dairy. To find a farm hosting one of these events near you, visit wisconsin-dairy.org/national-dairy-month/Dairy-Breakfasts.

To learn more about how DATCP works to serve and support Wisconsin's thriving dairy industry year-round, visit datcp.wi.gov. As I raise a glass of ice-cold milk, I wish everyone across Wisconsin a happy June Dairy Month!

D.A.T.C.P. Announces 2023 Buy Local, Buy Wisconsin Grant Recipients

WISCONSIN DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, TRADE AND CONSUMER PROTECTION

The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP) announced 10 Wisconsin companies will receive a DATCP Buy Local, Buy Wisconsin (BLBW) grant in 2023.

BLBW is a competitive grant program designed to strengthen Wisconsin's agriculture and food industries by helping farms and businesses more efficiently process, market, and distribute locally grown food products. BLBW grants provide consumers with access to more Wisconsin-grown food products, including organic fruits and vegetables, hazelnut products, locally grown grain, and other value-added products.

"These grants play an important role in strengthening the tie between Wisconsin's food producers and consumers, thus ensuring more Wisconsinites can gain access to local foods," said DATCP Secretary Randy Romanski. "The awarded companies will have the opportunity to use these funds to expand their operations and improve the local food marketplace across the state."

DATCP received 24 funding requests totaling more than $784,000. The grant recipients from Fond du Lac and Dodge County and their planned projects, are:

Park Ridge Organics, Fond du Lac

Improve product branding, enhance farm store customer shopping experience, and launch new wholesale prepackaged product options.

Graves Family Orchard, Brownsville

Develop systems to more efficiently prepare, harvest, and sell fruit.

Since its inception in 2008, 571 applications have been submitted for Buy Local, Buy Wisconsin grants, requesting a total of more than $19.8 million in funding. Of those applications, 112 projects have been funded, totaling more than $2.8 million. Previous grant recipients have generated more than $13.89 million in new local food sales, created and retained more than 406 jobs, and benefited more than 4,800 producers and 4,972 markets.

K.H.S. Nine Lose on Dramatic Walk-off in Sectional Semis

KHS BASEBALL

Despite the Indians playing their best offensive game of the season, the three-seeded Pewaukee Pirates (17-10) capitalized on some late Indian miscues to walk-off six-seeded Kewaskum (18-8) in the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association Regional semifinal game by a score of 11-10.

The offense was not lacking on either side. The first zero of any inning did not occur until the bottom of the fourth when starting pitcher Derek May faced just four batters to get the three outs and the scoreless frame.

The Indians started off the game on fire. Zillmer singled followed by an error which led to a Hunter Loser two-RBI double and a Dylan Soyk RBI single. After a ground out, Austin Loehr ripped a RBI double to take a 4-0 lead. Pewaukee would answer with one of their own.

After a Karter Fell single to start the second inning, the Indians were back at the top of the order to which the Pirates decided to make a pitching change. That did not affect Zillmer as he ripped a single to right field and then Loser came up big with his second (of four on the day) double scoring two more to take a 6-1 lead.

Pewaukee came right back and scored three to cut the lead to two. But after an Andrew Reichert single, Everett Donath brought him in with a single of his own to extend the lead to three. The Pirates would then tie it up at seven in the bottom of the third. However, the Indians would take an 8-7 lead after back-to-back doubles by Loser and Soyk.

The one run lead remained until the sixth inning when Kewaskum was able to score two more runs and take a 10-7 lead which held until the seventh inning when the Pirate second baseman would hit the walk-off RBI single to end the Indians' season.

Loser (4-2B 4RBI), Soyk (2B 3RBI), Donath (RBI) and Zillmer all contributed multi-hit games for the Indians while May and Loehr (2B) both contributed with RBIs.

Coach Heisdorf would like to specifically thank the five seniors (Zach Augustin, Carter Curtin, Hunter Loser, Derek May, and Donny Zillmer) for their time, effort, and dedication to the program over the last three years (lost one year due to Covid). They worked extremely hard in the offseason to step up into leadership roles and replace the nine seniors from the, 19-8, 2022 season. Without them this year would not have been as successful as it was.

KHS SOFTBALL

Youth sports have changed quite a bit in the past few years. The intensity and dedication requirements have increased to a point where families are asking if the juice is worth the squeeze. While that may be a struggle for a few, the memories and connections that are made through the process are things that the kids will remember forever. This not only includes teammates, friends, and parents, but also grandparent and grandchild relationships.

The Kewaskum High School girls' fastpitch softball team season came to an end last week in the regional final, but the group of grandpas known as the "G-Unit" are in mid-season form.

The "G-Unit" will continue to follow all of their granddaughters who play recreational softball in Fillmore and with various club teams all summer long.

The "G-Unit" is an unmistakable group, constantly providing encouragement and advice for their favorite teams based on the wisdom they've acquired in the approximate 500 years combined time on earth. Many of them coached teams and ran rec programs in the late 1900's, so they have plenty of experiences to pull from.

First year coach Craig Rosine stated, "I don't know who any of these guys are, but man, they bring the heat every game. Home games with good weather is when we perform well because it brings out the entire 'G-Unit', and the team can feel the energy."

"I know that Chico Leitheiser got fan of the year, or whatever that was recently, but in a street fight, I'm taking the "G-Unit" over Chico all day, every day", added Rosine.

Whether the advice is "Put some schmutz on that apple", or "Don't crowd the plate", all of the guidance, encouragement, and fandom is something to behold. The Kewaskum Softball team would like to thank all the fans, but especially the "G-Unit", for all their support this past season.

and it required major surgery to fix this past February.

I believe it was last fall that Paul's dad, Craig Bucher, who was very well known in the area, passed away and, my point is, that since the last time the two of us did something together we have both been put through the ringer.

The heat was intense today, and we stayed in Paul's 17.5 Alumacraft "Competitor" all day, but two old buddies kept 33 beautiful bluegill and ended the day with a bluegill just under 11-inches and on one at 10.5, which we happily released. After cleaning our catch, we sat by my campfire until late in the evening, and I cooked pork steaks over the campfire, and we had a very good handle on the mosquitoes.

The following day I broke camp early in the morning, was consumed by many blood suckers on the treks out, and then drove the "Chevy Hotel" over to Polk County by myself. As seems to be the norm during the open water season, I had my canoe on the racks.

I fished in a very casual way, watched good people enjoying summer at their cabins and I put a serious hurting on the big gills.

Just before dark, the old truck made it home and home is a good place to be.

Live like there is no tomorrow!

Ouch! There was nowhere to hide from the mosquitos during Walters' northern Wisconsin bluegill adventure.

D.N.R. and Legislative Trails Council Seeking Public Comment on Updated Trails Network Plan

WIS. DEPT. OF NATURAL RESOURCES

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR), at the request of the Legislative Trails Caucus, is seeking public comment on a draft update to the state's Trails Network Plan.

The updated plan features a new, more user-friendly format. As part of this release, the DNR is also requesting input from the public on how they use, or may use, the trail corridors identified.

Originally approved in 2002 and updated in 2003, the Wisconsin Trail Network Plan describes a vision of a statewide network of interconnected rail trails into which smaller state, county, municipal, partnership and private trails feed.

The Trails Network Plan update is an interactive web map that allows users to see the potential trail corridors identified in the 2002 Plan as well as those corridors that have been developed into state and local trails. As part of the public input period, the web map contains an input form that allows the public to share which developed trail corridors they presently use and which trail corridors they may be interested in using in the future.

The Trails Network Plan has been a valuable resource over the years as the department and its partners have worked to successfully preserve, manage and expand the Wisconsin outdoor trail system to benefit residents and visitors alike.

"The request from the Legislative Trails Caucus presented the perfect opportunity to reflect on all that Wisconsin has accomplished in implementing its Trails Network Plan and to share that progress with the public," said Steve Schmelzer, DNR Parks and Recreation Management Bureau Director. "As we look forward to the next 20 years of trail corridor development, the DNR is excited to hear from the public about the corridors they use now and those they may use in the future."

The public input period will remain open until Aug. 7, 2023. In addition to the public input form within the web map, the public may submit comments to:

Wisconsin DNR; Attn: Phil Rynish
LF/6; PO Box 7921

Madison, WI 53707-7921

DNRFLPropertyPlanningPublicInput@Wisconsin.gov or 608-977-0286

After the close of the public input period, the Wisconsin Trails Network Plan web map will remain on the DNR website for the public to follow the progress of the plan into the future.

A Piece of Campbellsport's History

The St. Matthew's Gym Scoreboard

The following message is posted inside Blue Door Coffee House in Campbellsport alongside an antique gymnasium scoreboard from St. Matthew's Catholic School.

So there's a reason this is here...

From the old St. Matthew's gym to the local shop; if you were small-town born-and-raised, you know it took most of your athletic career to figure out how to read this clock.

Heck, most of us still don't know how.

Was there three minutes left in the game or 30?

Nobody knew.

An iconic symbol of Campbellsport's history and heart, what better place to house it for the community than Blue Door?! That's what we thought, too.

Thank you for letting us share a little piece of our town.

Who Needs Time?

The old St. Matthew's gymnasium scoreboard displayed inside Blue Door Coffee House. The antique piece was recently resurrected, preserved and hung in the coffee shop along with a humorous note, which long time Campbellsport residents should get a kick out of.

Up North Bluegill Fishing and Camping Trip

MARK WALTERS
COLUMNIST

I met Paul Bucher – who is the owner and publisher of the Cumberland Advocate – about 25 years ago when I stopped at his office on a marketing run.

We literally have been buddies since day one and have shared a heck-of-a-bunch of outdoor experiences and became family friends on both sides.

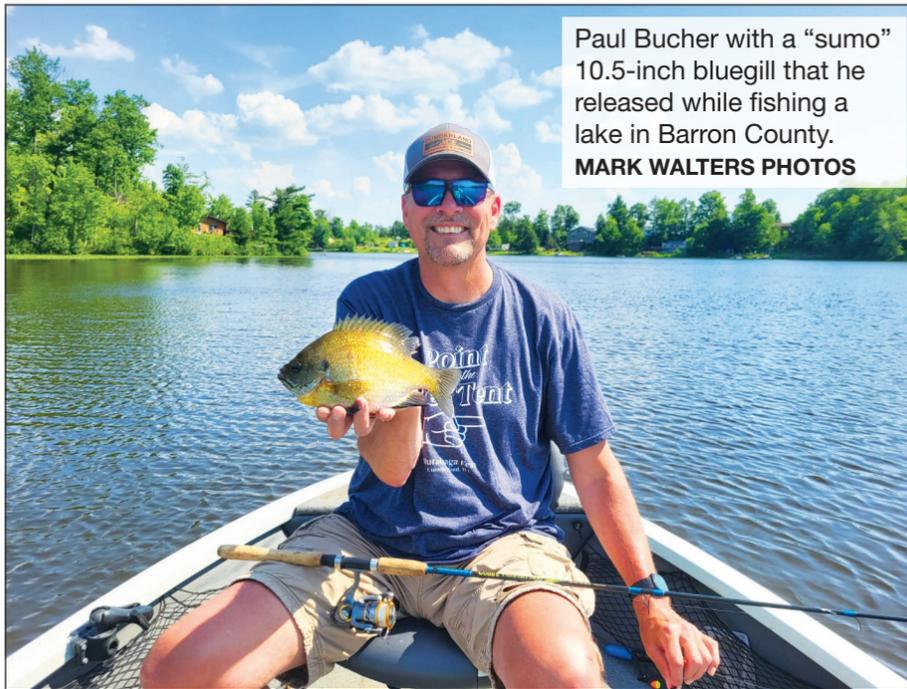

This past weekend, I headed up to Barron County to camp on a lake on some county land and to do some serious fishing for bluegill.

SATURDAY, JUNE 3

HIGH 88, LOW 61

We all know about the heat that has been kicking every man, animal and corn crops tail end.

Last night, I got here with an hour

Paul Bucher with a "sumo" 10.5-inch bluegill that he released while fishing a lake in Barron County.

Today would be a day of hardcore fishing on a Polk County lake in intense heat and nothing came easy but two buddies that have both had some huge challenges over the last 350 days really did not care.

Paul likes to work the shoreline, he puts his trolling motor on spot lock and we used bobbers and ice fishing jigs tipped with either a worm, wax worm or a leech. What did not happen in numbers (as, for the most part, we were working deadfalls in the water) was made up for in size. Each deadfall would yield us one-to-three sumo bluegill, and I am serious when I say 8.5" at the smallest. We kept most over 9 inches.

One year ago this weekend, I attended a surprise 55th birthday party for Paul that his wife Sarah had at their rural Cumberland home and it truly was a dandy. Five nights later, I lost the Queen of my life, Michelle Chiaro, in a surprise attack from sepsis that would literally destroy the best part of my day-to-day life.

At about the same time, Paul, who could be a model in a magazine, started having problems with his heart of daylight left, it had just rained, which is rare these days, and Paul Bucher and I had three trips of about 200-yards each to get my camping gear to a hike-in-only site. The mosquitoes were brutal and that is an understatement; a good cameraman could have had some excellent footage of two guys losing lots of blood until we got a good smoke fire
