Kewaskum Village May Pose Ratifying Referendum Question to Determine A.T.V. Road Usage

STAFF REPORT

The Kewaskum Village Board met in regular session on Monday, Oct. 16, and reintroduced the topic of allowing all-terrain vehicles (ATVs) and utility terrain vehicles (UTVs) on village streets.

In a previous session, the board had considered asking residents – via an advisory referendum – to weigh-in on whether or not ATVs/UTVs should be allowed on village streets.

Village Administrator Adam Gitter informed the board that a binding referendum (or a “ratifying question” as explained by the Wisconsin Elections Commission) would be better suited to match the board members’ stated goal: allowing Kewaskum residents to make the decision on ATV/UTV usage on village streets.

Gitter stated after the meeting that the board decided to “table the topic... [so] I can get them some information about binding referendums should they go down that path.”

The board is next scheduled to discuss the topic at its regular Monday, Nov. 6, meeting.

Cougar Boys Qualify for State Cross Country Championships

CHS CROSS COUNTRY

The Campbellsport boys cross country team finished second at the Portage Invitational last Saturday, Oct. 21, and earned a trip to the state meet.

Kiel had all seven of their runners in the top twenty to win the meet with a score of 41 points. Campbellsport was second with 63 points.

The top two teams and top five individuals that are not part of a qualifying team advance to state.

There were fifteen schools participating.

Campbellsport did a lot right on Saturday. The Cougars had three runners in the top ten and four in the top fifteen. Garrett Pickering (4th) broke 17 minutes for the first time ever. Logan Nolan (9th) and Brody Nolan (10th) had their best times of the season. Aydan Meilahn (15th) cut 22 seconds off his previous best to finish in 17:32. Noah Bobb (25th) has typically been the team’s seventh runner. On Saturday, the sopho-

On the Great Pumpkin and Autumn Fairies

Dear Reader,

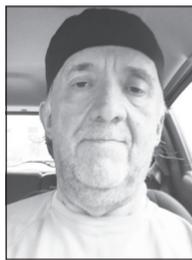

Everyone always talks about the great pumpkin that somehow appears on Halloween. And yet no one seems to have seen it other than perhaps Linus and Charlie Brown.

I think the secret is to go out before Halloween and find out where the autumn fairies play. There with the fairies (and sometimes little children) is the great pumpkin which makes for a very magical and wondrous evening!

Even the most optimistic of us must admit. Halloween isn't what it once was. Does that sound like a jaundiced opinion? Colored by a curmudgeon's less than Crayola vibrant perception. Really the good old days weren't much better. Except perhaps for a few slight instances. Not too slight in retrospect.

One, the holiday wasn't near as dangerous. Leastwise till the Lisa French murder. Prior to that, trick or treat hours extended beyond dusk. There's something a wee bit spookier going door-to-door through the night, the crackle of leaves underfoot a touch scarier. Though despite the eerie ambience, the event was safer for young'uns. Being country kids, only way we got to go out, since Dad worked second shift at Stella Cheese, meant a half-mile walk into the village. A passel usually led by the eldest still able to engage in the festivities. One year a friend, John Venski, stayed at our place and assisted in the long march. His brother Tom shortened the return home with a ride in a '56 Chevy. Isn't a parent alive who'd allow such an unchaperoned sojourn now.

Then adults hijacked the occasion from their offspring. Or was it just those, fully mature yet nostalgic as all getup? Hollywood gave October 31st a darker edge. Probably began with slasher pictures; villains like Michael Meyers, Jason and Freddy Krueger. Even the flicks which frightened the bejeebers outta us in black and white got rebooted, lots of gore. A travesty wreaked upon Lon Chaney Jr.'s great turn as the original Wolfman. He didn't need but give a furry faced, ferocious underbite, fanged scowl.

Fortunately, everything hasn't gone in the dumpster. The Campbellsport library offers activities, including a costume parade. Some churches have Trunk or Treat when youngsters go among decorated cars in a parking lot for candy.

Way past time however for we boomers to step off. Give the day back to those for whom it's intended. And get over ourselves.

We Weren't Being 'Anti-Social'

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER
EDITOR

Back in 2019, before I was editor, I created an internal department at our newspaper called the Social Media Task Force.

This was a needlessly official name for the sake of my own amusement, but our mission still was very serious: improve our papers' reach by utilizing social media.

The "task force" was just whomever was interested in finding creative ways to broadcast, deliver and market our papers' content.

When I joined this network of weeklies in 2018, we had a basic HTML webpage that included a few front-page stories and some photos. We were on Facebook (and actually a few other social media websites), but a change in personnel through the years and lack of direction and policy left our "presence" translucent.

The following year, we upgraded our webpage to its modern form, complete with far more bells and whistles than we had prior.

Sensing an opportunity to grow our social media along with the webpage, and with approval from our publisher at the time, I took over our social media pages and began regularly posting to Facebook; nothing out-of-the-ordinary, just our best shots from the week and links to our stories.

Robin and the Giant ImPEACHment

MARY KRIEGER
CONTRIBUTING READER

Remember when you were growing up and there was always that one kid in the group who couldn't handle losing?

Whether it was a team sport or a board game, rather than graciously accept a loss, that kid would try to change the rules; "accidentally" knock over the board game or decide to take the only play ball and go home.

Sometime those sore losers grow up to be politicians.

In April, the voters of Wisconsin elected a new justice to the State Supreme Court. Fearful that the election of Supreme Court Justice Janet Protasiewicz would mean Republicans might lose their built-in advantage to win state elections, Speaker of the State Assembly Robin Vos is trying to disrupt the political game.

The first strategy he has suggested is impeachment.

According to the Wisconsin Constitution, a government official can be impeached only for "corrupt conduct in office or the commission of a crime or misdemeanor".

The impeachment process begins with the State Assembly, voting to impeach and then the State Senate would also need to vote to impeach. If that happens, the official is removed from office, but the governor can appoint a new judge.

However, if only the Assembly votes to impeach and the Senate does nothing, the official is

Scary vs. 'Scary'

JAMIE LYNN GOURLIE
CONTRIBUTOR

Dearest You,

Have you ever paid attention to scary feelings you have experienced on a deeper level?

I recently had an intriguing conversation with a lady in Northwest Wisconsin via Zoom. We were discussing the feeling of being scared. I gathered immediately, from our conversation, that she only had one idea tied to "being scared."

In her mind, anything scary is bad.

So I asked her, "What if being scared can be good?" and she looked at me completely lost and confused.

I proceeded to ask her, "If you want to reach a goal or do something beneficial in life, it's scary right?"

She agreed.

I followed up with, "If a stranger is following you, that might be scary as well, correct?"

Once again, she agreed.

The enlightenment within her was profound and the conversation went really deep and brought forth a lot of high value for her. Afterwards, I got to thinking, do most people feel this way about being scared?

As we approach Halloween, everything around us is about being scary. Some people crave the haunted houses, hayrides and horror movies,

Introducing Daniel Jungers, K.H.S. Student Contributor

DANIEL JUNGERS
KHS STUDENT CONTRIBUTOR

Hello residents of Kewaskum!

I am Daniel Jungers, a 17-year-old and a senior at Kewaskum High School (KHS), and I am excited to be writing for you for about the following school year.

I will be writing for the paper because I signed up for our high school's community volunteer program. I chose to write for the paper because I want to be an author. I want to go to college for English, but I will also be getting a degree in communications/journalism so I can do what I am doing now before my career as an author hopefully takes off.

I am involved in many different things here in town, but mostly sports. I am #9 and a defensive back on our boy's soccer varsity team. I am also on our track team. I mainly throw discus, but I'm looking to take a bigger role this year, as I will try to run the 400 for our boy's team. I also do a slow-pitch softball league during the summer as a way to stay active.

I am also a part of Scouts

'Active Shooter' at Germantown Middle School Killed by Police

STAFF REPORT

Reports of an "active shooter" incident Monday night, Oct. 23, at Kennedy Middle School in Germantown were confirmed by local law enforcement and the Wisconsin Department of Justice (DOJ) with officials saying the shooter was shot and killed by police and no other injuries occurred.

The suspect discharged a firearm, and Germantown officers returned fire around 6:30 p.m. The suspect was shot, first aid was rendered but the suspect died at the scene, according to the DOJ.

Police were responding to an individual "acting erratically" in the Kennedy Middle parking lot. The suspect had climbed onto the roof of the school and officers pursued the individual on foot, according to a DOJ press release.

The school went into lockdown with roughly 50-70 students inside at the time of the shooting. Students were transferred to MacArthur Elementary after the incident and were reunited with parents, according to the Germantown School District.

The district also posted on social media that classes on Tuesday, Oct. 24, had been cancelled.

The officers involved in the incident, per standard protocol, have been placed on administrative leave.

ners or which are surprised at their front door with large checks or other grand prizes.

Joining the celebration was Kewaskum Chief of Police Tom Bishop, who had a very important question for the PCH Prize Patrol before they went to the Knox residence.

"Is this for real?" Chief Bishop asked, according to a release from PCH.

A PCH Prize Patrol team member assured that it was and invited Chief Bishop along for the ride. Bishop was among the crew to inform Phil Knox he had won the prize.

"How are you doing?" asked a PCH team member when Knox answered the door.

"A lot better now! Fantastic!" replied Knox, realizing he had won a PCH sweepstakes.

Knox was given the option of keeping the Ford truck or taking a cash-value check. Knox chose the cash option of $57,815.

Knox, a retired truck driver, said the money will help him buy a different vehicle and pay his bills.

According to PCH, 199 PCH prizes have been won in Kewaskum over the years, but this one is the "largest prize in this area." Previous prizes ranged from $10 to $550.

"Just keep at it," he said. "Don't stop! Persistence is key."

However, when we choose to create positive shifts in our lives, such as career changes, exploring new grounds, trying something beneficial but new, these can all be viewed as scary as well, yet beneficial.

So, if "scary" can be a good thing or a bad thing, what really is scary?

If you look up the definition of scary, you will find words such as causing fear or alarm, frightening or eerie. I feel it is important to note, none of these words lead into any sort of possible positivity.

One might ponder, is "scary" really scary all the time? Is "scary" scary at all?

What is "scary" to one, may not be to another. Or perhaps the definition of what scary could be is a matter of opinion.

Dearest you, maybe the only thing that really matters is your perception in the moments of your scare and taking a moment to reflect.

Is this a scary that will benefit you in a positive way, or a scary to protect you?

After all, it really does all start with you.

On November 4, Village of Campbellsport residents will be asked to vote on two questions pertaining to a village administrator position. The first question asking residents if the board can adopt a charter ordinance which creates the office of village administrator is a binding question. If the majority of voters say no, the board cannot create the position at this time, and it would have to be a referendum question again if the board wants to try again. The second question asks if the village board should hire an administrator at this time. If the residents approve the first question, the board will approve the creation of the position. However, that does not mean an administrator will be sought or hired.

The game was tied and with less two and a half minutes left. Kewaskum thought they might actually win this.

As the time ran out on the game, Kewaskum had the momentum going into overtime.

Two 10 minute overtime periods would decide this one. Each team, apprehensive to get too aggressive for fear of making that big mistake to cost their team, played tight and unwilling to take chances in the first overtime period.

Still locked at 2-2, the second overtime period began to see the teams not wanting to go to a penalty shootout. Things began to open up and once again the physical nature of Fox Valley Lutheran’s play gave Kewaskum a free kick.

Remember when it was mentioned that Hasse takes most of Kewaskum’s free kicks? He was at it again with the most perfectly placed and weighted ball to, you guessed it, a streaking Johnson who with a glancing header put Kewaskum up 3-2 with just over six minutes left in the final overtime.

The clock, seemingly moving at a snail’s pace, crept along. Frantically, Fox Valley Lutheran attacked the defensive formation of Kewaskum. A through ball late that could’ve seen the Fox Valley Lutheran striker get a last minute open shot was cut out by right back Jayce Rhoads.

A last second ball over the top had everyone holding their breath as Riley Kuehl stepped to the edge of the box to snatch it right before anyone could collapse onto it.

As the final seconds ticked off the clock, Kuehl rolled the ball out the sideline and the celebrations began.

This victory locked Kewaskum’s advancement into the Sectional portion of the state tournament against their arch rival Plymouth Panthers.

The Indians’ never say die attitude and commitment to one another will need to serve them well moving on in the playoffs on Thursday, Oct. 26, at two-seeded Plymouth.

They should definitely believe they can compete with anyone after a game like this.

Kewaskum Wins First Playoff Soccer Game

The playoffs began for the Kewaskum Indians men’s high school soccer team against a familiar foe on Thursday, Oct. 19, at Doc Mitchell Stadium when the Luxemburg-Casco Spartans came to avenge their loss last year in the first round of the WIAA Playoffs. As the six seed, the Indians were definitely the team with the pressure as they were expected to win at home. With the revenge factor and sketchy weather in the area, that might be all that was needed for Luxemburg-Casco to upset Kewaskum.

Luciano Olla dribbled out of his left defensive back position forcing the Spartan midfield to commit creating space for newly appointed starter David Brown to move into, at which point Olla played a pass to Brown who continued it on through the midfield. Eli Steinbauer, who had switched out to the winger position, took over from there and was able to progress the ball down toward the opposition’s end line where he sent a cutback cross through the retreating defense’s goal box where it was misplayed and put into the net for a 1-0 lead for Kewaskum within the first five minutes.

Less than six minutes later, goal two came. Usually, Charlie Gambino and Hayden Johnson connect with a great feed followed by a flying header. This time Luxemburg-Casco read that and got a head on it first, then couldn’t quite clear the ball out of the danger area. Johnson was there waiting and calmly controlled it and then deftly placed it into the goal.

Goal number three took a bit longer to achieve, but, again, the corner kicks have been good to the Indians this season. A change of pace saw Mac Hasse delivering the corner kick but the results were the same. This time, Hasse found Johnson who redirected the cross to the middle of the box where a crashing Olla blasted it right over the head and through the hands of the goalie.

A few more chances that never materialized came and went and Kewaskum was super confident going into halftime with a well-deserved lead.

Luxemburg-Casco rallied the troops and slowed the opportunities that Kewaskum was generating in the first half and completely stopped the goal scoring of the Indians in the second half. Unfortunately for the visitors, the defensive leadership of seniors Austin Loehr, Hudson Curtin and newly appointed starter at right back Jayce Rhoads didn’t allow a thing to get back to goalkeeper Riley Kuehl. Other than a scarily placed corner kick that needed some attention from Kuehl, it was a pretty uneventful night for the Kewaskum netminder.

With time winding down and the game in hand at the same score as at halftime, the seniors, who were playing most likely in their last home game of their careers, were able to finish it off together.

With a decisive victory, Kewaskum was able to sign their ticket to the second round of the playoffs.

LORI KREIS, DIRECTOR
KEWASKUM PUBLIC LIBRARY

Five years ago this month, the movie "Bohemian Rhapsody" premiered in the United Kingdom, hurricane Michael made landfall in Florida, the Boston Red Sox won the World Series, and I started my job as Library Director at Kewaskum Public Library. There have been many changes with the library in five years which I am proud to be a part of. I remember when interviewing for the position, I was asked where I picture myself in five years and I said director here in a new building with plenty of space for innovative programs and essential resources to support the community of Kewaskum. The new building is still forthcoming, but I believe that my mission to promote lifelong learning has been established.

Five years ago, I walked into a library that needed a director's touch. Truthfully, the first time I visited Kewaskum Public Library was right after I had applied for the position. I was familiar with the village. We entered the fall car show a few times, ate at some restaurants and hiked the Ice Age Trail. I took inventory of this library, some with approval and others knowing I would be making changes as soon as possible.

Some of these changes were only experienced by staff. I will say that after five years, the staff at the library is exemplary. We have had turnover, which is common for any industry, especially in the last three years. However, with a primary focus on customer service for my staffing model, I see the atmosphere at the library as a helpful, friendly and happy place to visit. Other modifications I undertook were behind-the-scenes but has impacted how we serve our citizens. Something as simple as having a procedure for our cash drawer was instituted and then adding on more policies and procedures to ensure we are run as well as possible. Disclaimer – in my banking background,

I worked in corporate compliance, so I have a flair for policy writing and continue to enjoy it.

I am proud of the changes I made to Kewaskum Public Library that have been beneficial to the community. Our collection has been highlighted in various ways to promote entertainment and education. We were one of the first libraries in the area to offer wireless printing from your own device. We have cultivated community partnerships that enhance our programming for all ages. We are now a fine-free library for children and teen material checked out from here and most other overdue fines are down to $0.10 a day. We began a Library of Things collection with craft kits, items for people with memory loss, Adventure Passes and more.

It's been five years and I look forward to at least five more. Where do I see myself in five years? Continuing as director with additional resources and services for the community to promote lifelong learning. And of course, in a new building.

Village Matters

• The board voted to approve an agreement with Washington County, which will allow the village to use county services as an information technology (IT) provider. Gitter stated the county can provide free tech support for the village, which will be a cost savings compared to outsourcing for IT services.

• The board also discussed changes to Village Ordinance 95-65 which controls the type of vehicles that can be parked on a residential lawn. "We get a lot of calls and it wastes a lot of our police department's time responding to improperly parked vehicles," noted Gitter, who said that cars, trucks and motorcycles are permitted to be parked on lawns, while boats and recreational vehicles are not. Gitter added that the board expressed a desire for any change to the ordinance to reflect parking needs during snow emergencies. "Maybe you do need to pull onto the lawn for the night if the plow truck needs to be out," added Gitter. "[The board] is figuring out a solution for that."

A Kermis Memory – Vincent Ryan

KARL MCCARTY
CONTRIBUTOR

“I used to drink with Vincent Ryan,” he said. “I know what you mean. That floor wiggled.” Those were the comments Karl Ryan made when talking about the Ashford Kermis. They were pleasant memories.

The annual November event was something the Ryan boys didn’t miss in the late 1940s. It was the party of parties, and thinking about it brings back good times of not only the Kermis, but of Vincent Ryan and his grandmother.

Vincent Ryan

Karl and Vincent shared the same last name, but Karl always explains they were “shirttail” relatives. They were related, but it was quite distant by Karl’s standards. The relationship seemed more neighborly and friendship than relative.

Vincent (1931-2000) was the son of Leo Ryan (1892-1964), whose dad was Michael (1850-1913), whose father was Patrick (1821-1891). Karl was the son of Maurice (1897-1974), whose dad was William (1854-1935), whose father was the same Patrick. So Karl and Vincent’s grandpas were brothers, and they shared great grandparents Patrick and Rose (Cahill) Ryan.

Vincent’s house was where Hilltop Drive hits Hwy F. He lived with his mom (Rose Ann Clark Ryan) and dad, and grandma Mary Ann Flood Ryan (1865-1950), who was widowed for nearly 40 years.

The De Soto and the Hall

Trying to date his Kermis memory, Karl was approximately 14 or 15. This would be in the vicinity of 1946 or 1947. He wasn’t married to Fern Bonlender yet (Oct.4.1952). “Probably just starting driving,” he said. Of course, in those days it didn’t take much to get the license.

Vincent and Karl came down from South Eden in Maurice Ryan’s De Soto. Maurice and Violet Ryan never went to the Kermis, so the Ryan boys took Maurice’s vehicle. Karl always liked the DeSoto, a black sedan-like car. “The old De-so-da” he said, less concerned on pronouncing it like the Spanish explorer it was named after. “That was a favorite car...That was a heavy duty car. That had overdrive and everything in it.” They were comments floating in his memory about a now-outdated car that was prime in the 1940s. When pressed on the overdrive, he explained, “If you got on the highway, the motor wouldn’t go as fast. But around the country you wouldn’t use it [overdrive] much.”

“I probably picked him up, I can’t remember,” Karl said going back to Vincent. He turned to what it was like to be in Ashford for the Kermis in the late 1940s: “Wasn’t much of a hall. But we went.” ‘We’ being Vincent and Karl. “I used to drink with Vincent. Oh Gawd. I remember that one time we were up in the hall and had quite a bit to drink.” Karl wanted a chair; so did Vincent. Karl took it. “And Vincent fell right on the floor. He had thought he had the chair and I had it.” Karl laughed telling the story; Vincent laughed when he hit the floor.

Reasons to Go

Karl was asked why he went to the Kermis if his parents never did. “Ooohhh. Ashford Kermis. That was a big night.” That was something you didn’t miss. So once he started going at age 14, he went until he was about 20. This puts his Kermis memories between 1946 and 1952.

Another reason to go? “Beer was cheap.” They had a barrel or half barrel set up. Karl said you could buy beer on both the bottom floor and upstairs by the dance floor. “They had a little bar in the corner, upstairs.”

However, Karl was clear that the Kermis was not a fundraising event.

It was a unique celebration of St. Martin, but not a gig that raised money for the church. There were so many people, not just from St. Martin’s Parish and Ashford, but also Campbellsport, South Eden and Lomira.

“They had a good business,” he said of the tavern that night. “Always good music.” Because of the high volume of people, this made sure the party lasted a long time. With live musicians and beer flowing strong, there was money exchanging that would have been foolish for the owners to shut down early. “It lasted probably till two o’clock. They probably stayed open as long as they could.” He added, “We come home, and the chickens were coming out.” Only the daylight could end the evening of the Kermis. Those hours went quick when you were having a good time. “It was morning before you knew it.”

There was also an element of ‘right of passage’ to come to the Kermis. In general, his memory does not include a lot of kids. He laughed, because in his memories of Vincent and the chair, he was so young that he would be a freshman in high school by today’s standards. But back then that was the age he was lucky to get in Ashford Hall

(also interesting because his parents weren’t even there). “Very few kids,” he laughed and called the kettle black. “I mean. THAT young [5 or 6]. We were young enough.” But, “Yeah. We were driving.”

Good Memories at the Ryan’s

“He was funny.” Happy go lucky was the way to describe Vincent Ryan, Karl said. “He couldn’t drink until he was 18.” That was the deal Mary Ann Flood Ryan (Vincent’s grandmother) made with Vincent. If he stuck to it, then he would get a new car when he turned 18. But how would she know what Vincent did at the Kermis? She was 80 and in bed. The evening was so long that by the time one left Ashford, it was possible one was sobered up before returning home.

“He got the new car.” It was “a new white Plymouth. It was beautiful; but it didn’t last long.” Vincent and Karl’s travels wore it out, and the tires eventually showed it.

This all brought up a pleasant memory of the Ryan household near the old Ethan Allan School. Grandma Mary Ann was older than 80 in these stories from Karl. “Oh, that was a long time ago.” But Karl said she was such a nice person. “Putting wood in the old stove.” He recalled the ashes and embers getting so hot and blowing out of the stove. “Why she never burnt the house down is a wonder.” Compared to what he saw in his own home with Maurice and Violet’s wood stove, he said Mary Ann Ryan’s fires were really stoked. “Reckless,” was the first adjective he used; “bold,” he agreed, was an understatement.

Most impressive, was how much respect Mary Ann carried. In the old days before the norm of nursing homes, grandparents were housed with their children as their health faded. It was common to see bickering between a parent and their mother-in-laws living in the house. This was not the case, Karl said, in what he observed with Mary Ann Flood Ryan. Take for example when they went out of the house. “When they went some place, they all went together.” Grandma Mary Ann, Leo and Rose, and Vincent. “They got along good.” You didn’t see them fight. It was a pleasant house to visit, Karl said. And recalled Vincent’s grandma fondly, even if she was unaware of Vincent’s missing chair at the Kermis. “That’s just the way it was,” Karl said with a smile.

Harriet's Kermis Memory

"There was that dance hall in Ashford too. By the bar there by the pond, there was a dance hall on top of that bar. It sounded like the floor was gonna come in with people dancing up there." And when you came to the dance hall, "You came in the tavern, then you went upstairs. You went upstairs to dance. That I remember." So this was the Ashford Kermis? "You betcha."

That's what Harriet Hall Ryan Salzer recalled when talking about the old days of dancing at the halls. She enjoyed Nonn's Resort in Dundee, and was married at Giebel's at Lake De Neveau. But the November dance celebration in Ashford was an entirely different, one-of-a-kind event in her memory.

An Intimidating Bunch

The location and celebration defied the logic from a construction standpoint. "The hall was full. ALWAYS full. Over full. That's what I remember about. It was a famous thing for a small town you might say. It was a time for everyone, that liked any dancing of any kind, to go. As I said, there was a tavern underneath. And the dancehall was on top of that building, and it was one of the first times I went to a dance with Ray [Ryan], I believe, and 'WOW.' I thought, 'All these people and listen to that floor? I hope it don't give in. Otherwise it'd be hell.'"

Was the dance hall a little shaky? "Well, it sounded that way. 'Course, that was my first time dancing about then. That was the first dances I went to (were there)."

The event for novices was intimidating. She had just met Ray Ryan from South Eden and, "That's when I started kinda going out a little, at the Ashford Kermis."

Junior Harriet Hall, left, with a likely schoolmate (unidentified) in the 1942 Echo yearbook for Campbellsport High School. By the late teens, it was common for someone to be allowed to attend the Kermis in Ashford.

The Usual Ride

She met Ray at the Campbellsport Fireman's Picnic in the summer of 1941 and married him on June 7, 1944. Somewhere in between that is her first Kermis with Ray, likely in November 1941, or perhaps 1942. In the conversation, Harriet had to place herself back in time to recall the situation required to attend the Ashford Kermis. "That first year [dating Ray]...let me think a little here. Going back that far. We usually went out dancing with, as I'd say, with a big group. It'd be Jane's two brothers. And Georgie Baumhardt would get in the group once in a while, and they'd exchange rides to a dance at that time. But they were not with us when we went to the Ashford Kermis that I can remember."

Because of where Ray was raised, it explains in those days how everyone loaded up in the vehicle. Ray Ryan lived across from Francis and Dora Flood. Their daughter Jane (Tonn) and sons Jerry and Vernon are the 'two brothers' of Jane which Harriet mentioned. Ray and those Floods lived right next to each other on Timberlane Drive. And to east of Ray's childhood farm was where Georgie grew up.

The Kermis was Different

However, the usual crew (sometimes taking Maurice Ryan's DeSoto) did not come to Ashford for her first Kermis. So did Harriet think that Kermis was more romantic that it was just her and Ray? "It seems to me," she said in what indicated she was not with her group that night. And added, "I know we met my uncle there. Reggie Pierret. That was my dad's brother-in-law. They were there at the dance. Gee, how come I remember that? Yea. I can remember meeting them there. I was happy to see them there because I didn't know [anyone] - there was so many people - like for me! I thought 'Gee, that's a lot of people.'"

Reginald Pierret (1901-1972) married Martha Agatha Hall Pierret (1909-1995). Martha was the sister of John William Hall (1899-1988), who is Harriet's father. According to his obituary, Reginald "was a farmer and painter in the Town of Ashford until moving to Campbellsport in 1959." He is buried at St. Matthew's Catholic Cemetery.

As a high school student, Harriet lived in Ashford near the battery factory. Although she lived in Ashford Township in the country, she went to St. Matthew's for church. "Campbellsport. Always Campbellsport," she indicated her parish. The Kermis was a celebration centered on the people of St. Martin's, honoring the feast day of the parish's namesake. Harriet was so relieved to recognize her uncle. As a young girl with Ray, she was wondering who she was going to talk to in Ashford that night. Ray was from South Eden, and Harriet lived west of Campbellsport but was not part of St. Martin's crowd. Then like a safety net, here her uncle was right there when she walked in the doorway.

This serves as an example of how the Kermis helped individuals branch out socially. On one side, the Kermis was a celebration of a "who's who" of Ashford. But on the flip side, it was a time for outsiders to test the waters and come down to the tavern in Ashford where those tied to St. Martin's Parish would connect with people from Campbellsport, South Eden, and Lomira.

Although the dance no longer exists, you can connect with those from the same areas by stopping at the annual Kermis in the church's basement on Sunday, Nov. 12. It's a great social event where you will find chili, chicken and dumpling soup and a bunch of other goodies to support the history and the church in Ashford.

That's the neat thing about the Kermis. You get into the basement and you don't know who is going to be there. Some might be socially nervous. But then you find that welcoming neighbor you haven't seen in a while, or maybe someone like an Uncle Reggie, and you feel like home. Thanks for marking your calendar.

in limbo and cannot perform his/her duties. In addition, the governor cannot name a replacement (docs.legis.wisconsin.gov).

Justice Protasiewicz, elected by a large majority, is being accused of calling Wisconsin's districting maps "rigged".

The word rigged has come to mean an unfair advantage to one side over another. Vos is demanding that Protasiewicz recuse herself from any cases involving redistricting, and if she refuses, he threatens to begin impeachment process.

There are several problems with this accusation qualifying as an impeachable offense.

First, the Judge made these comments during her campaign, so as she hasn't yet been elected to the job, how could she be guilty of corruption while in office?

Secondly, the judge, like everyone else, has a First Amendment right to free speech.

Additionally, many experts have called Wisconsin's district maps unfair. Norman Eisen, a senior fellow in Governance Studies at the Brookings Institution calls the Wisconsin district maps: "the most extreme gerrymandered Republican state legislature in the nation." (jsonline.com).

A judge stating the maps as rigged could then be construed as stating a fact, not an opinion. Lastly, there are no guidelines or requirements for State Supreme Court justices to recuse themselves from any cases. That decision is left up to the individual.

When thousands of Wisconsinites contacted their elected officials to tell them impeachment was an unfair way of playing politics, Vos came up with a new strategy: adopting a new way to create district maps loosely based on a plan used by the state of Iowa.

Initially, this looked like exactly what many people had been asking for: maps being drawn by a group of bipartisan citizens.

However, on closer examination, a key difference was found: The Iowa model has the legislature approve maps created by the bipartisan group but if the legislature does not approve them, the maps go to the state Supreme Court for a decision. Vos wants the legislature to have control of redrawing the maps if they don't like the maps drawn by the group. The legislature could just say they didn't approve the group's maps and then could redraw them anyway they saw fit, maintaining full control over the process. (Assembly Bill 415).

Vos has also created a secret group of three former Supreme Court judges to advise him on whether an impeachment of Judge Protasiewicz is feasible. Creating a secret group which meets in secret may be a violation of the state's open meetings law and is currently facing a lawsuit. Later, the identities of the three conservative judges tapped by Vos for guidance on impeachment proceedings have become known. Two of the former justices have publicly advised him not to pursue impeachment as there are no grounds to impeach. However, Vos has said impeachment is not off the table if Judge Protasiewicz votes to overturn the GOP redistricting maps.

All this wasted time and money trying to prevent a possible future electoral loss is the perfect example of being a sore loser.

Don't you wish our elected officials would just play the game fairly by playing together, following the rules and putting Wisconsinites best interest over politics?

During this time, our Facebook expanded quickly (we nearly doubled our followers in just a matter of months), and I felt it turn from a once-lifeless webpage into a living, breathing reflection of the paper.

This was an exciting time for our small, rural weekly!

Of course, in life, we can't have nice things, so the pandemic the following year decimated all momentum the task force had built. Eventually, the task force disintegrated and disappeared (as of this paper's publication date, I am the only remaining full-time employee of the roughly half-dozen folks on the initial task force).

With new responsibilities as editor, I left behind my mission of cultivating a digital extension of our paper and focused solely on learning more about the newsprint process, meeting the expectations of a weekly and navigating a coverage territory that quadrupled from my prior beat.

That explanation is to say: I stopped posting on Facebook.

This was never something I wanted to do; I realize how important social media has become to the facilitation of information. But it was probably for the best, as my principal job is ensuring we print a quality paper each week.

So, when our newest journalists asked last week if there was more we could do with Facebook, I was thrilled to answer: Yes!

Going forward, we will have a dedicated staff member, again, regularly posting content to our Facebook page. This individual will also respond to inquiries we get on the site, as well as provide comments in response to questions on our posts. We will also be expanding our creativity in this realm, too, though some of the more "fun stuff" and new ideas will take longer to develop.

Initially, we will just start with the one platform, but the hope is that – with time – we can continually modernize our coverage using the various social media tools out there (and the ones that don't yet exist).

While we have always been and always will be a "paper first" company, in order to better serve the public we must improve how we communicate online.

I'm happy we can bring back regularity to this environment, and I hope to see ya'll on the web!
See you next week

BSA, Troop 744, which is in town. I am a life Scout working hard to achieve my dream of becoming an Eagle Scout, and I have around 30-40 merit badges.

I love to read and write all the time; I also like doing puzzles and making LEGO sets. I love hanging out with my friends but enjoy spending time with my family more. I also love to be outdoors, even if the weather prevents me from going outside; camping is one of my favorite activities.

But as for me writing for you, I will cover important things that should be known to the whole village of Kewaskum. I will mainly write about the events at our high school and our middle and elementary schools. I also want to shine some light on our many clubs here at the high school because many clubs have very successful seasons/clubs. If I have nothing I want to write about or nothing is happening, I will bring you some short stories. I have ideas on what I want to write about, and I might split them into little segments of what I have written down, or I will create a short story just for that issue.

I can't state how excited I am to write for our village's paper and how much it means to me that I get to do something with my passion while in high school.

I can't wait to share the happenings of our school, some things going on in our town and my short stories that I hope you will all enjoy.

If you have story ideas for Daniel, e-mail the editor at mitchell.keller@mmclocal.com.

This week's column is about some hard work in an attempt to get a couple of teenagers – Dylan Pangburn and Chase Flietner, both of New Lisbon –

Learn to Hunt for black bear. James Newlun and Kevin Peterson, who own and operate Scenic Bluffs Outfitters and are a solid part of Meadow Valley, did an excellent job of making this project work. Dylan Pangburn is a senior at new Lisbon High School and, when he graduates, he wants to become an auto mechanic. Dylan goes to a lot of the chapter meetings and is also very active in the New Lisbon High School Fishing Club, which is an offshoot of KAMO.

Chase Flietner is in eighth grade, and he loves to hunt and fish. Actually, the day after one of our hunts, Chase was going on his first date and he was taking his date fishing.

The main reason I decided to write a column on this is because, for the boys – as well as Kevin and James – this was an entire summer project. They were required to run baits at least once a week, which in this case meant running 15 that are throughout the Juneau and Monroe County areas.

There were other KAMO members that helped, and they were Aaron Bigalke and Bob Nicksic, Bob and Dylan had so much fun that Bob took Dylan on a Canadian fishing trip.

If you can see where I am going with all of this, KAMO is trying to create an outdoor atmosphere for Wiscon-

The boys loved the baiting and the adventure of it, which meant lots of bear and wolf experiences, lots of sweating and many good memories created at the Cranberry Country Cafe in Warrens, which is owned and operated by Kevin and Traci Peterson (and a very interesting place to have a meal, as it is also a museum dedicated to the cranberry industry).

The Meadow Valley Chapter purchased a pair of two-man tree stands and also a couple of cellular trail cameras and, as you can see, this was a four-month project that did not come without expenses.

Chase and Dylan had an entire summer and early fall of holy-moly type-of-pictures coming across their phones and, though I was mostly on the side lines for this project, it was very satisfying to hear how both kids and mentors evolved in such a positive way.

So in reality, Bob, Aaron, James and myself sat with the young hunters as this was a Learn to Hunt, and we were all teachers.

Kevin dropped us off near the baits and, for Chase, there were 11 nights in a tree and, I believe, four for Dylan. Dylan was sitting with James Newlun when a real nice bear came in and he did exactly what he was supposed to and harvested his first bear.

Chase had a chance, but in his case, the bear lived to see another day. He did harvest two deer during the Youth Deer Hunt.

I spent five afternoons and evenings in trees with Chase and Dylan and it was very cool to see what KAMO members had made happen.

Indians Advance to Boys' Soccer Sectionals

KHS BOYS SOCCER

On Saturday, Oct. 21, the Kewaskum High School men's soccer team achieved won their first Regional Finals crown and first advancement to the Sectional rounds of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association (WIAA) soccer playoffs with a most dramatic victory over their hosts of Fox Valley Lutheran. It was proof that a never die attitude, a trust in your fellow teammates, and the belief that anything can happen will give you a chance to do something special.

The Indians started strong, controlling the pace of play and creating some early opportunities. Right from the opening whistle, it seemed both teams knew this was going to be a competitive contest.

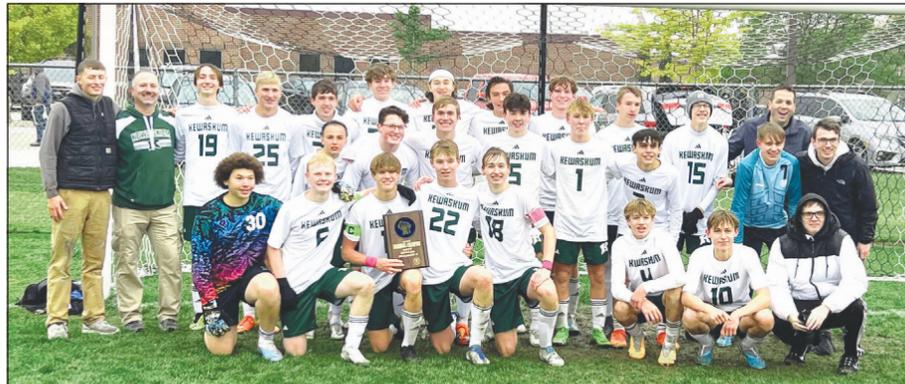

About four minutes into the game, Kewaskum's sophomore winger Charlie Gambino sent a cross in that saw both Eli Steinbauer and Colton Rabe narrowly miss a redirection that would have got that coveted first goal.

Six or so minutes later, after back and forth play, Kewaskum was given a free kick in the middle of the field. Mac Hasse, who takes the majority of the Indians' free kicks, put on just inside the 18 yard box where Gambino redirected it towards the goal which was handled by the goalkeeper.

Kewaskum was continuing to pressure and looked like the better side early on. With the confidence growing on the Indians' side, the feel of an open goal was growing. A couple more chances that were handled by the Fox Valley Lutheran goalie showed that Kewaskum was handling the away environment and the pressures of the finality of what it would be with a loss.

That confidence and hope of an early goal came to fruition. Just not for the Indians. With an unfortunate turnover on their half of the field, a quick counterattack from the Foxes saw their striker one-on-one with Kewaskum's goalkeeper who saw the ball slip past him near post. Even with this early deficit the guys from Kewaskum continued to work and be the better side.

The half, three quarters of the way through, was still anyone's game and both teams were starting to get tired and a bit sloppy, so when another Kewaskum turnover right at center field turned into another quick counterattack with a retreating disorganized defense, it was a blow to the Kewaskum psyche when Fox Valley Lutheran went up 2-0.

Now is the time to manage the game and keep the flood waters at bay. A third goal given up would be devastating but a goal of their own would have Kewaskum right back in it. Some changes in tactics and personnel couldn't get that goal to pull closer and lift the team but the defense rallied and held off any further chances from the Foxes. A two goal deficit at half was not ideal but the Indians were by no means out of it.

The second half started out a bit frantic as Kewaskum desperately wanted to get back into the game quickly and Fox Valley Lutheran wanted to end it with a third and demoralizing goal. After a few minutes, and the teams settling in, Kewaskum was starting to dictate play. The winning of 50/50 balls and more of an open attacking game plan saw senior captain Hayden Johnson continuing to do what he has done all year and give opposing defenses headaches.

After discovering a weakness in Fox Valley Lutheran's right flank, Johnson was able to take advantage of it and generate a few shots, one of which was turned away by the goalkeeper and seemed to lay right in front of the goal for an eternity.

A slight hint of desperation was beginning to set in Kewaskum and it felt like some changes needed to come in order to break through.

Once again, super senior Johnson took over. From that Fox Valley Lutheran right side he was able to streak behind their defense and blast a shot far post. The keeper for the Foxes was up to the challenge and pushed it away only to see it pushed in by freshman striker Colton Rabe who had to fight off a trailing defender.

It was 2-1 with 22 minutes remaining.

Fox Valley Lutheran, determined to not allow a second goal, started rotating players on their right side to stop Kewaskum's advantage. With the constant push in the attack, the midfield of Kewaskum was looking a bit weary and started giving up the ball regularly allowing Fox Valley Lutheran to reload their counterattacks.

However, a battered Hasse, who took the brunt of Fox Valley Lutheran's physicalness, never quit. He won ball after ball and turned them into Kewaskum advances giving the pressured Indians' defense a much needed respite.

Both teams bending and neither one breaking had the half drawing to a close. As the seconds ticked by Kewaskum was pouring in attack after attack to get that goal to pull even. Tick-tick-tick and nothing was coming.

Then from that all important right side of their opponents, Rabe had a tremendous individual effort to maintain the ball, get into position and lift a perfectly placed shot that hit the far post and careened back across the goal into the side netting.

Sixth Grade Defeats Grafton, Fifth Grade Ties for Second Time

KEWASKUM GRIDIRON

This past Saturday, Oct. 21, all of the Kewaskum Gridiron Indian teams traveled to Grafton to play the Grafton Gladiators. This was the Semifinals of the All American Youth Football League (AAFL) Division 2 Playoffs for the eighth grade team. Unfortunately, the eighth grade ran into an impressive Grafton team and were eliminated from the playoffs with a loss. For the other levels, the seventh grade was defeated, the sixth grade came away with a victory and the fifth grade tied Grafton for the second time this season.

Eighth Grade

The eighth grade Gridiron Indians defense held tough for most of the game against an explosive Grafton offense, but the offense couldn't get much going against the stout Grafton defense and eventually were defeated by the one seed and undefeated Grafton team, 20-0, in their semifinal matchup.

On Grafton's first possession, they were able to connect on a long screen pass that netted them 50 yards to get to the 20-yard line, but a couple of plays later the Indians deflected a pass in the air and Easton Derge was able to secure it to come away with an interception.

On Grafton's next possession, they tried a swing pass to their running back, but Jace Wichtoski read it perfectly and intercepted another pass for the Indians.

A couple plays later the Grafton defense made a fantastic play of their own with their defensive end deflecting a pass in the air to himself and he took it all the way for a 65-yard interception return for a touchdown. The two-point kick was no good, so the score was 6-0.

The Indians threatened, driving the ball inside the Grafton 25-yard line but turned the ball over on downs after a fourth down pass fell incomplete.

The score remained 6-0 until the final two minutes of the first half when Grafton connected on a short pass and their receiver was able to find space down the sideline and found his way to the endzone for another touchdown. Again, the two-point kick was no good, making the score 12-0 at halftime.

The second half was a defensive battle as neither offense could get much going.

The Indians turned the ball over deep in their own territory in the fourth quarter and Grafton was able to add a late score to make it 20-0.

The Indians completed some nice passes all the way down to the Grafton 10-yard line, but then were turned away once again by the Grafton defense which ended the game with the score of 20-0.

The offensive leaders for the Indians were Levi Whitfield who threw for 121 yards with Wichtoski catching three of those passes for 73 yards.

The defense had many standout performances that included interceptions by Derge and Wichtoski, sacks by Derge, Brady Wildt and Evan Soyk, tackles for a loss by Soyk (3), Derge, Wildt and Quin Dornacker, and a blocked punt by Soyk.

The eighth grade ended their season with a record of 5-3 and had great success throughout their Gridiron years. This is a group that the coaches are very excited to see move forward into the high school program. Both with the talent they have and the number of kids in the grade that play football, it should be an exciting group to watch over the next four years.

Seventh Grade

The seventh grade Gridiron Indians played a solid defensive game for the most part, but ultimately fell to Grafton by a score of 20-0.

The offense struggled to get things going with only a couple of nice runs by Ryland Ciriacks.

On the defensive side of the ball, the standouts included Lucas Zeeb, Kamden Derge and Ciriacks who all had nice tackles and some tackles for a loss. Logan Zak also came away with a fumble recovery for the Indians' defense.

The seventh graders finished the season with a record of 4-4.

Sixth Grade

The sixth grade Gridiron Indians finished off another impressive season with a solid 28-6 victory over Grafton.

The Indians' offense was paced with touchdowns by Henry Ogi, Carson Eilbes, Cade Wichtoski and Bowen Nass. Other big offensive plays were provided by Ogi, Eilbes, Peck, Nass and Wichtoski. This was all possible due to some great blocking across the offensive line during the game.

On defense, sacks were made by Malahki Schneider, Cole Kertscher and Paxten Boeldt. Schneider also forced a fumble while August Vorwerk, Kertscher and Nass all recovered fumbles.

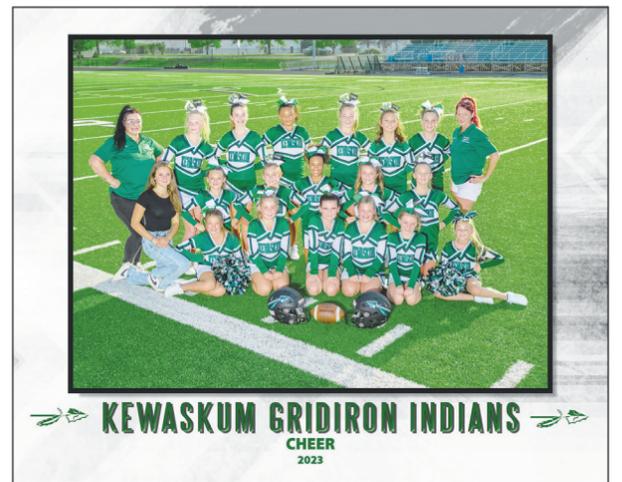

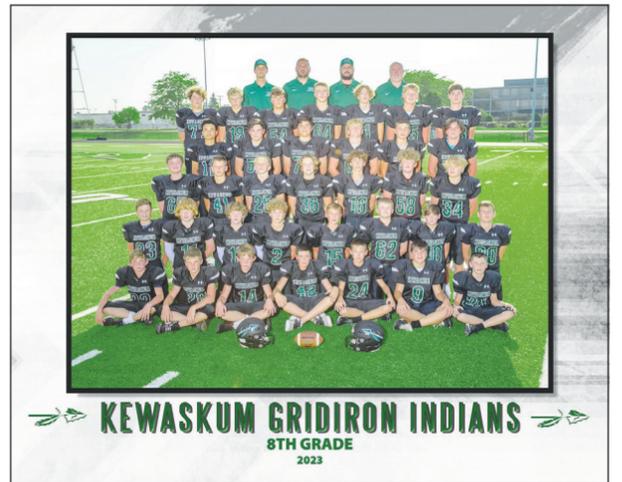

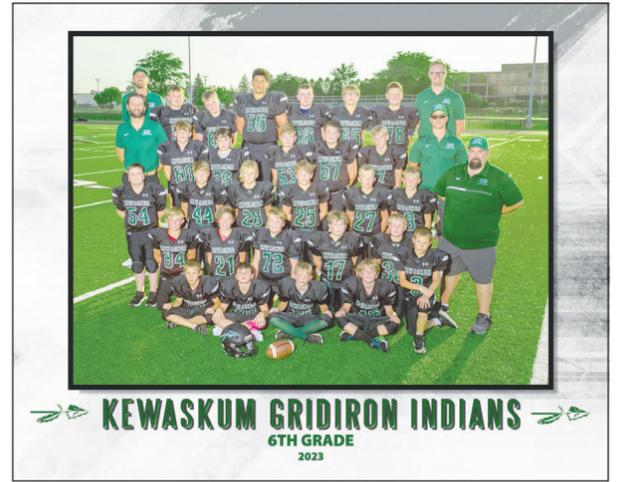

The sixth graders finished the season with a record of 7-1 and now are 15-1 through their fifth and sixth grade years in Gridiron.

Fifth Grade

The fifth grade Gridiron Indians once again battled in a tight matchup with Grafton, that like the first meeting this season, ended in a tie at 8-8.

Both teams fought for field position until Kewaskum's Charlie Ogi finally broke free late in the third quarter with a 39-yard touchdown run. Brady Beck added the two-point kick to make the score 8-0.

Grafton answered back with a touchdown and kick of their own to tie it up in the fourth quarter.

The Indians' offense was powered by a stout offensive line allowing Ogi, Caleb Thull and Aiden Bartelt to rush for 45, 25, and 20 yards, respectively.

The defense was paced by Ogi's five tackles and fumble recovery. Thull added four tackles while Owen Petrie, Brady Beck and Shane Guttman each had three. The fifth graders finished their first year of Gridiron football with a record of 4-1-2.

The 27th season of Kewaskum Gridiron Indians football is a wrap. Lots of thanks needs to be spread around after the conclusion of each season. First, the club would like to thank the Kewaskum School District for the use of the amazing facilities throughout the season. A big thank you goes out to all of our wonderful local business sponsors that help us financially each year to keep our kids equipped with the best equipment available to make the game as safe as possible. Finally, although we can't thank everyone individually, we'd like to thank all of our wonderful volunteers from our coaches, board members, game day volunteers as well as all of the parents for helping with concessions, chain gain, etc. Thank you to all and see you next season.

up to the challenge of carrying the offense," said Campbellsport Head Coach Todd Wondra.

Timm, the Cougars senior lead back, was unavailable in this contest. He's been the driving force of the Cougar's attack this season, and his 1,661 rushing yards put him in the top 10 in the state.

Even without their feature runner, the rushing attack was balanced by Campbellsport with Evan Wilcox (71 yards), Riley Kohlmann (65 yards), Mason Willacker (55 yards) and Blake Heltemes (34 yards) combining for 225 rushing yards in the game. The Cougars 13-play, 63-yard drive was capped off by a Willacker six-yard rushing touchdown to give Campbellsport a 7-0 lead, after a made extra point, with 11:15 left in second quarter.

KLC (6-4) responded with its own touchdown drive on a 12-play, 56-yard drive to tie up the score, 7-7, with 7:14 left in second quarter.

Campbellsport had great field position – at mid-field – to start its next possession after a dazzling 40-yard kickoff return by Brett Theisen.

The Cougars used their good field position to ground and pound their way into field goal range. They earned a 10-7 lead with 2:14 left in the second quarter following a Luke Pendowski 27-yard field goal.

KLC used its explosive passing game to complete two passes for 67 yards to get into field goal range before halftime. The KLC drive ended when the a 40-yard field goal attempt, which fell short.

The score was 10-7 when the halftime whistle sounded in this evenly contested playoff game.

The teams traded punts on both of the first two possessions of the second half.

Then, the biggest play of the game happened for the Cougars.

Wilcox ran a dive play but broke it outside after getting bottled up in the middle. He burst down the sideline and galloped into the end zone on a 40-yard rushing touchdown to get a big 17-7 lead (after a successful extra point) with 5:46 remaining in the third quarter.

"Getting up two scores for our team in this important game was huge because we knew KLC could score quickly," noted Wondra.

The next four drives were highlighted by the defenses, especially the Cougars' defense, as they limited KLC to 11 net yards during those possessions.

The Campbellsport defense was led all game by Heltemes (eight tackles) and Emmett Gonnering (two tackles for loss and one sack).

"Our defense continued their heady and steady play," added Wondra. "They played well and made adjustments to slow other team down."

KLC stayed alive on its next offensive possession by using trickery with a 42-yard flea flicker on a big fourth-and-11 conversion with 5:14 remaining in the game.

The Cougars defense made another defensive stand forcing KLC to kick a 25-yard field goal to make the score 17-10 with roughly three-minutes left.

Campbellsport's Theisen was able to recover the ensuing onside kick to give the Cougars possession, stealing away any momentum gained for the visiting team.

The Cougars salted away the last minutes of the contest after, earning two first downs via running plays, and ended the game with kneel downs to advance to next week's WIAA Level 2 playoffs.

The Cougars will travel north to take on the Two Rivers Raiders.

"Two Rivers is a very good team lead by a quarterback and running back with playoff experience," said Wondra. "They will be a tough challenge, but we will go and play our brand of football. We will be ready to leave everything on the field."

The game at undefeated Two Rivers (10-0) is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 27, with kickoff slated for 7 p.m.

more had a career best 17:55 and was the fifth Cougar to cross the finish line. Sawyer Dirmeier (32nd) never finished last year's sectional race, so the junior runner had a lot of motivation to do well. He did just that by running a career best 18:07. Jon Thelen (34th) felt a bit disappointed on Saturday because he did not run a personal best time. The senior did end up running 18:11 which is one of his best times of the season. He also improved on last season's Portage Sectional by 76 seconds and eighteen places.

In the girls' race, Kiel (42 points) and Plymouth (81 points) finished first and second and will advance to the state meet.

A very short-handed Campbellsport team finished in thirteenth. Injuries took a toll on the team this season, so the Cougars were only able to get five runners to complete the race.

Sienna Hewitt was the team's top runner in 31st place. Izzy Sperfslage (71st) has been trying to break 24 minutes all season. The sophomore finally accomplished that goal on Saturday by completing the 5K race in 23:32. Lydia Toshner (76th) ran one of her best times of the season. Lorelei Walker (92nd) ran on the varsity squad for the first time all season. The freshman responded with a career best 27:19. Senior Katrina Ohme (93rd), in her final race, ran a career best 27:44.

The State Cross Country Championships will be held at The Ridges Golf Course in Wisconsin Rapids on Saturday, Oct. 28. The Cougars will be competing in the Division 2 race which will start at 12:35 p.m.
