Solar Eclipse

MARY KRIEGER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

On Monday, April 8, a phenomenon that has dazzled and baffled mankind for millennia will occur - a total solar eclipse. The earliest records of an eclipse are attributed to Confucius in 2137 B.C. where he is said to have observed "On the first day of the last month of autumn, the Sun and moon did not meet harmoniously".

Eclipses have had profound effects on humans and have even ended wars. In 585 B.C., the Greek historian Herodotus wrote that after six years of fighting, two warring factions witnessed the eclipse and "ceased fighting and were alike anxious to conclude peace."

A solar eclipse occurs when the moon passes between the earth and the sun, blocking the sun's rays. The last eclipse in the U.S. was August 21, 2017, which took a diagonal path across the country from Washington state down to Florida. This year's eclipse will also take a diagonal path starting in western Texas and heading northeast across the country to upstate New York. Every one of the lower 48 states will be able to see at least a partial eclipse, with the Dodge County area expected to experience the eclipse at around 84%.

According to optometrist Nicole Amidon of Shopko Optical in Hartford, "It is not safe at any point to view the eclipse without protective eyewear or indirect viewing devices, such as a pinhole viewer."

Regular sunglasses do not provide adequate protection, and special solar eclipse glasses need to be worn. The American Astronomy Society warns that there are cheap, counterfeit glasses for sale online, so buyers should look for the code ISO 112312-2 which indicates the glasses have been tested and verified as effective. The Kewaskum library has free glasses while supplies last.

In southeastern Wisconsin, the eclipse is predicted to start at 12:53 p.m., with maximum coverage at 2:08 p.m. The entire eclipse will take approximately four minutes. When viewing the eclipse, viewers will first see a gradual covering of the sun, with a diamond ring effect just before the sun is completely covered by the moon. Then something called Bailey's Beads will be seen. These are caused by light peaking between the canyons and

Carrying on a Tradition

Kewaskum Girl Scouts Carry Books to New Library

ANNE TRAUTNER
JOURNALIST

In November 1950, local Girl Scouts carried books from the original Kewaskum Public Library on Main Street to the "new" library building on First Street.

Now, 74 years later, Girl Scouts have continued that tradition. On Wednesday, March 27, a group of local Girl Scouts carried books from that library building on First Street to what is now the "new" Kewaskum Public Library, the former PNC Bank building at 1225 Fond du Lac Ave.

Meeting the girls at the newest library were Isabelle Straub, Carol Schacht and Judy Geidel, three of the original Girl Scouts who had moved the books in 1950.

"I really enjoyed being a part of this and reminiscing about being in Girl Scouts 74 years ago,"

The Bygone

Dear Reader,

As I stroll down memory lane, I am enveloped in a wistful nostalgia for the bygone days. Those were the days when our hearts brimmed with youthful exuberance, and our friendships were pure, untouched by the transactional nature of today's world. We were united not by wealth or status, but by the simple joy of being together.

In those days, we were all just scraping by, but our spirits were rich with hope and optimism. We didn't need material possessions to define our worth; our worth was measured by the depth of our connections and the richness of our relationships.

Looking back now, with the wisdom of hindsight, there are few regrets. We realize that those fleeting moments of laughter and camaraderie were the true treasures of our youth. We yearn for the days when time seemed to stand still, when the future stretched out before us like an endless road, full of promise and possibility.

But alas, nothing lasts forever. Life moves on, carrying us along with it, and the innocence of youth slips away, leaving behind only memories and echoes of the past. Yet, amidst the bittersweet longing for what once was, there remains a glimmer – a hope that we can still find gladness and possibly elation in the moments that lie ahead.

So let us savor each day as it comes, holding onto the memories of the past while embracing the beauties of the future. For in the end, it is not the wealth we amass or the possessions we acquire that truly matter, but the love we share and the memories we create along the way.

During totality, or when the moon has completely covered the sun, a corona, or shining crown with wispy edges and prominences, with pink curls may be seen.

Viewers can also expect an approximate 10 degree drop in temperature to see stars in the now darkened sky and for insects and animals to react as if it were nighttime.

Even while wearing eclipse glasses, viewers are warned not to use a telescope, binoculars or camera unless they have special solar filters. This is because the lens of these devices amplifies the sun's rays, making it unsafe. Viewing an eclipse without proper protection can cause permanent damage to the retina. There have been 100 documented cases of eye injuries to people from the last eclipse. Amidon reports that she has treated people who suffered eye damage from the improper viewing of the 2017 eclipse.

"The damage occurs to the most sensitive portion of the retina. It can cause blurred, distorted or missing central vision. The damage can improve or be permanent. It is important to see an eye care professional if any vision changes occur," she added.

Several locations across southeastern Wisconsin have special events planned for the day. The University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee is hosting a viewing party with free refreshments from 1-3 p.m. They will also have safe telescopes for people to use and solar eclipse glasses for $2. The Wehr Nature Center in Franklin will also have scopes for use and glasses for $1.

The next solar eclipse will be visible in Spain, Iceland and Greenland on August 12, 2026. Another will be in Alaska in 2033, and the next one visible in the lower 48 states will be in 2044.

G.A. SCHEINOH
CONTRIBUTOR

Is this a dumb question? Considering many of us outgrow a sweet tooth before adulthood. Or spend a lot of time in the dentist's chair getting our smiles straightened, cleaned and repaired.

Perhaps though, it's not the stupidest query ever made. Since we've just passed a sweet tooth's holiday. So, I'll ask. What's your favorite candy?

Easter itself has many favorites. From the marshmallow sugared sweetness of Peeps to the hard crunch of malted birds eggs, even the gummy chew of jelly beans. Who could forget the chocolate bunny, either solid or hollow? And a few no longer available, among them Brach's Creme Eggs. They came a half dozen to the box and varied in flavor from vanilla, maple, cherry, orange, pineapple to chocolate center. About the closest present equivalent is by Whitman's.

Once Easter is over, we don't dwell much on the subject. Probably more than enough toothaches to go round. As well as plenty of business for dentists. Just the usual round of hard candies such as Werther's or favorite bars – Hershey's, Almond Joy and York Peppermint Patties.

So many types have disappeared over the years. Including those pellets glued to a strip of paper, no wider than a cash register receipt. Bought them at Barnes Grocery Store on Main Street in Campbellsport. Then there were bubble gum cigars my grandfather, Martin Gloede carried in the folds of his denim jacket pockets. Just waiting for little fingers to find.

Awhile back but not too long ago, stumbled across a forgotten brand in True Value in the village. There on a shelf lay foil wrapped packages of Turkish Taffy. Didn't realize they still made the stuff, so solid you had to slap it against a handy surface to break it into bite size pieces.

With such tempting treats, it's fairly obvious why some adults now wear dentures.

Severe Weather Spotter Training

Free and Open to the Public

On Tuesday, April 16, a meteorologist from the National Weather Service (NWS) will conduct Severe Weather Safety and Spotter Training at the Village of Slinger Community Room located at 218 Slinger Rd. in Slinger. (Entrance door located between the DPW garage door and the north side of the library.)

Two identical sessions will be held – an afternoon session from 1-3 p.m., and an evening session from 6:30-8:30 p.m.

This training is free, open to the public and does not require any pre-registration.

The sessions will address aspects of severe weather safety including high winds/tornados, flooding and lightning. It will also cover recognition training on weather features that are indicators of severe weather potential. The causes and dynamics of differing forms of severe weather will be discussed and video/photos of past weather events will be presented to illustrate some of the concepts. What needs to be reported, to whom and how best to relay those reports will also be presented.

This training is recommended for members of local police, fire and EMS departments as well as amateur radio operators and anyone else with an interest in weather. There will be ample time for questions.

This training is sponsored through the cooperation of Village of Slinger Emergency Management, Washington County Office of Emergency Management and the National Weather Service.

A complete list of area NWS storm spotter training dates and locations can be found at www.weather.gov/mkx/spotter-schedule.

Shred event at The Silbernagel Group is April 19

Paper is everywhere, and sometimes it's hard to know what to keep, how long to keep it, or what to throw away. Each document seems to have its own set of "rules" and expiration dates, but when it comes to discarding them, your valuable information may be at risk. With even just a name and an address, you can be at risk of having your identity stolen. And while you may think it would never happen to you, looking through people's trash is technically legal and does happen. So, what can you do to help prevent this from happening to you? Shred your documents! Shredding can help ensure that your secure information is not traceable.

The Silbernagel Group is hosting a shred event on April 19, from 4-6 p.m. Grab your documents and a friend and come on down to our office at 114 Main St. in Kewaskum where you can bring all your secure documents for free.

What kind of documents should you be shredding? Each document will have a different lifespan, but there are some documents that should always be shredded, just in case. Here are just a few examples of some of those items:

- Credit card offers
- Bank statements
- Pay stubs
- Old tax documents
- ATM receipts
- Expired credit cards
- Investment, stock and property documents/ transactions
- Medical and dental records
- Payroll information
- Used airline tickets
- Receipts with checking account numbers
- Pre-approved credit card applications

Being mindful and practicing good discarding habits may help protect your identity and safeguard both you and your family from theft. We look forward to seeing you there!

Kewaskum Middle School Unveiling Mural on April 17

CLARICE CASE
EDITOR

Last month, around 400 Kewaskum Middle School (KMS) students and others worked together to paint a 10 foot high by 40 foot high mural in the hallway outside the middle school gym as part of the first artist in residence program at the school.

Laura Stone, second year KMS art teacher, applied for and received grants totaling $5,000 from the Wisconsin Art Board and the Kohler Foundation last year to begin the program.

Having decided on a mural to be the first creation through the program, Stone knew local artist Paula DeStefanis, who she had worked on another student mural with, would be “perfect” for the opportunity.

“I already know a lot about her and how she works with kids,” said Stone. With her over 30 years of experience “creating art and working with students,” DeStefanis was also capable of working on a large scale project and within the allotted time frame.

Beginning in the fall, DeStefanis virtually joined coaching sessions with the students to discuss all aspects of the design process. The theme of the mural, Our World, was decided before the sessions by Stone and her students.

Stone said while the mural is in DeStefanis’ style, the entire project was “student driven” as their images and ideas prompted by the theme are what make the complete design.

What is unique about the mural is it is made up of plywood panels ranging in size from 2x2 to 4x8,

Eighth grade students work on the mural during a morning class period. Color and detail were continuing to be added. CLARICE CASE PHOTOS donated by Drexel and cut to size by high school students in shop class.

On Wednesday, April 17, from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Kewaskum School District Art Show, the mural will be unveiled and the community will have the opportunity to purchase a panel. The mural and its individual pieces will stay at the school until 2027 before they will be removed for relocation.

said Judy Geidel, one of the ladies who participated in last week's program. "I was so impressed with how well behaved the girls were."

"Those girls were so good," agreed Isabelle Straub, who also had carried library books back in 1950. "They were so patient. It was really cute seeing them all, and it reminded me of when I was in Scouts."

The ladies remember moving the books when they were Girl Scouts in 1950.

The article that appeared in the Kewaskum Statesman on Nov. 17, 1950, states, "Laughing and singing indicated that the Girl Scouts enjoyed their part in this community service project."

Likewise, during last week's event, the Girl Scouts talked and laughed as they walked the books from the old building to the new one.

"I had a lot of fun," said 7-year-old Susan Pankrat, admitting it was a lot of work.

"I think it was hard because the books were heavy," she explained. "I do think it was harder for them [74 years ago] because they had to go down the stairs from the first library."

As the girls walked last week, they looked at the redbrick building at 203 Main St. that had originally been the village hall. The library originally was situated on part of the second floor of that building. There was no elevator, so 74 years ago the Girls Scouts walked down a flight of narrow steps. In contrast, the Kewaskum Library Foundation currently is raising funds to add an elevator to the new building to make the building ADA-compliant.

The Kewaskum Public Library was started in 1913 by the Kewaskum Women's Club. For the first three years, members took turns acting as librarians until in December 1915 the village took over the management of the library at the request of the Women's Club.

Coincidentally, Judy Geidel, who was 10 years old when she carried books from the original library, is now a member of the Kewaskum Women's Club.

The Kewaskum Public Library has grown from the small collection of books that the Girl Scouts moved 74 years ago to a collection of 26,546 items. The girls admitted last week they were glad they didn't need to carry the entire collection.

In 1950, the Kewaskum Girl Scout troop met weekly in the American Legion Hall on Fond du Lac Avenue. At that time, the building had three stories. The Girl Scouts met on the top floor, which also had a dance hall. People lived on the second floor in a rental unit.

"When you came in the front door, there was the big open area, and there were stairs leading up. As Scouts, we weren't supposed to use those stairs; we were supposed to use the simple stairs in the back so we wouldn't be making noise and interfering with the renters. We got scolded several times because we liked to pretend we were someone special," Straub said.

The top two floors were later removed, and today it is simply a one-story building. Girl Scouts still meet there, however. The Cadettes in Troop 8437, some of whom were at last week's program, meet in the Legion Hall once every other week. There were members from two other troops that participated last week as well. The Junior Scouts in Troop 8032 meet monthly at Kewaskum Elementary School, and the Brownies in Troop 8161 meet in the Kewaskum Town Hall once a month.

Like they did 74 years ago, the Girl Scouts still sell cookies every year. The former Scouts were amazed to hear that Kewaskum troops sold 15,038 boxes of cookies this year. In 1950, they had not sold anywhere near that amount.

"We didn't have the variety back then," Schacht pointed out.

They also were much less expensive than the $6 boxes that are sold today.

"A box of cookies cost less than a dollar, maybe 75 cents," Straub said.

Leona "Lonie" M. Hall, 92, formerly of Campbellsport went to her heavenly home on Tuesday, March 26, 2024, at SSM Hospice Home of Hope, Fond du Lac with her beloved family gathered around her.

Lonie was engaged with her husband, Leo, on the farm and also worked at Guenther's IGA store for 29 years. After taking a C.N.A. course, Lonie was employed at St. Joseph Convent for 25 years. After retirement, Lonie did demos at the store where she enjoyed talking to and meeting people, after which she was a volunteer for Heartland Hospice, did stitching at church, and did Loaves and Fishes. In the winter, mom would enjoy creating beautiful crafts, which she would sell at craft shows. Her flower gardens were her pride and joy; and Lonie was a member of the Garden Club and the Green Shirt Ladies. Lonie loved baking for family and others. We will miss her delicious baked goods and the love of her "sweet tooth".

She is survived by her children, Andy (Monica) Hall of Lodi, Joan (Dennis) Oppermann of Campbellsport, Jean (Bob) Kleist of West Bend, Al (Ellen) Hall, and Art (Mary) Hall, all of Campbellsport; her grandchildren, Jodi, Heather, Jackie, Jenny, Kevin, Becky, Jake, Dan, and Angie; her great-grandchildren, great-great-grandchildren, nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.

Check It Out!

LORI KREIS, DIRECTOR
KEWASKUM PUBLIC LIBRARY

It has been approximately a month since my last column, and I hope you can excuse me because moving is hard. Moving is listed as one of the top five stressors in your lifetime and depending on what resource you are using, it has been listed as number one. I have moved personally and do remember tension most times, but the planning and execution of a library move is a very different animal.

By the time this writing is published, we plan to have been open in our new location beginning Tuesday, April 2. Because it is still under renovation for several more weeks, things will be as smoothly run as possible, and I hope to provide as many services as we can. However, your patience is greatly appreciated while we all navigate the new space.

What will you see when you visit us at 1225 Fond du Lac? First, we have off-street parking and plenty of it. When you enter, please use the main doors facing east. The side doors to the parking lot will be a staff entrance only once the construction is completed. Because the crew uses those doors now, for your safety, please avoid that entrance. Before you come in, notice the book return on the path to the front door. When you do enter, come on in through the lobby double doors into the main library, the downstairs area is not open yet. You will see our collection with the children’s department to your right, past the spinners. You will notice an office also to your right, that can be used for a small meeting space. All our new items will be directly to your left upon entry. Keep walking and you will notice three, yes three study rooms that our patrons can utilize.

Our public PCs are up and running as is our Wi-Fi so your internet needs will be taken care of. Some things will look very familiar such as our shelving and furniture. Due to budgetary concerns, we kept much of what we have, did not purchase new and had it relocated by a moving company over the course of a week. You will also recognize our friendly staff who are ready to take care of your literary needs.

Some things are new. We have a young adult alcove for our teen patrons and in the future will work with those youth to make it their place of pride. A new circulation desk is being built for us which will allow us to serve more than one user at a time with no crowding. Don’t forget the drive-up book return. Yes, it will become a reality. No need to wake a sleeping toddler, bring in a crying baby or get out in the rain to return your items. Just drive around to the rear of the building and you will find the covered book return.

Although the move is still a work in progress, we are open and cannot wait to see you again!

Model Train Show in Cedarburg on Sunday

The METRO Model Railroad Club announced a large expansion of their model train show to be held at the Exposition Center of the Ozaukee County fairgrounds in Cedarburg on Sunday, April 7. The show will feature a record number of ten model railroads in varying scales and 93 tables of dealers who buy, sell, and trade both model equipment and railroad memorabilia. This expansion makes it the largest train show in southeast Wisconsin in the absence of Trainfest.

Model railroading can be different than toy trains, show chairman Jim Bartelt said. Modelers are trying to recreate a prototype in scale with singular attention to detail to represent their favorite railroad and the industries they served. They are much like re-enactors except they cannot build full size.

Seven different scales will be shown. The METRO Model Railroad Club is again displaying its portable HO scale layout which has twice won first place at the National Train Show. The Club also has a much larger permanent layout in Port Washington.

Two Z scale layouts will attend. Z is so small it can fit in a briefcase. WizKidz and the Metro Milwaukee Z Scale Club of Oak Creek will display their handiwork at this minute scale.

The Sheboygan Society of Scale Model Railroad Engineers from Sheboygan are running G Scale trains often used by railroaders who like to build their pikes in outdoor gardens because of their larger size.

Two O scale layouts are also coming. The Lakeshore O-Gauge Railroaders are displaying a Lionel layout at the show and is permitting anyone to run the locomotives, including Thomas the Tank Engine, around the tracks. Kids can also fire missiles from train cars, unload barrels and milk cans, and enjoy visits from some of their favorite movie and TV characters, including Buzz and Woody from Toy Story, Mike and Sulley from Monsters Inc., Nemo and his friends, and many more. Another O scale pike is the Lionel O scale

3 rail layout from the Milwaukee Lionel Railroad Club. This compact Lionel layout features many operating accessories and vintage Lionel trains of long ago as well as modern O scale trains.

The Kettle Moraine Ballast Scorchers Railroad of West Bend are coming with their N-Scale modular layout (but they also model in HO-Scale). This pike has many detailed scenes including the famous derailment at Weyawega. A Lego Layout is being displayed by Tim Hellman of the Kettle Moraine Ballast Scorchers. Tim is running a variety of Lego Trains built brick by brick. Lego Trains are considered L scale and are similar in size to O scale trains.

The largest model train on display is a 7.5” scale model by Dan Steingraber of the Milwaukee Light Engineering Society of Jackson. This club has a large outdoor railroad and visitors can ride their trains on certain summer weekends

All of the clubs exhibiting are open for membership and attendees can receive information on how to join. No experience is necessary to join any of them. Members are happy to share their knowledge and skills in pursuit of enhancing the hobby.

The show runs from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission by donation of $4. Children under 12 accompanied by an adult get in free. The METRO Model Railroad Club can be found on the web at www.metroclub.org or on Facebook.

The Switchboard of Eden

KARL MCCARTY
CONTRIBUTOR

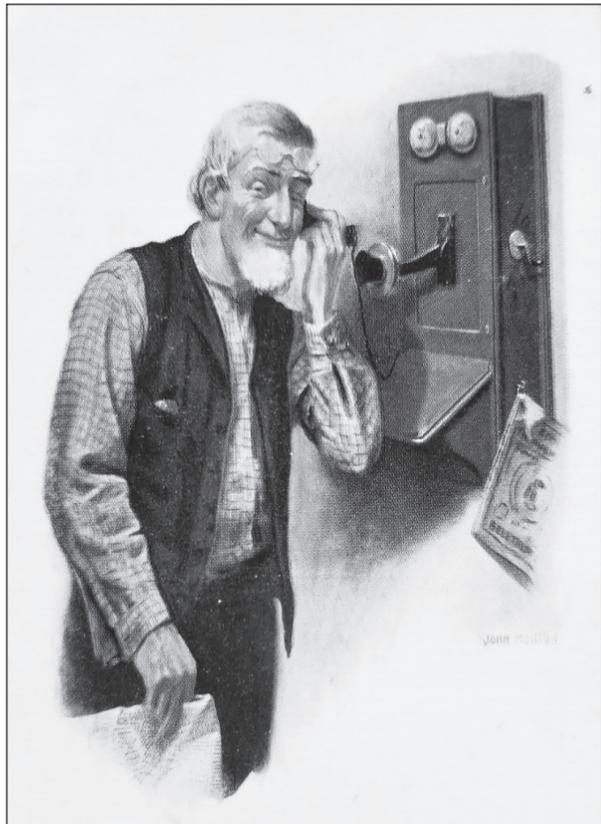

There is a photo with Marie (Nolan) Birschbach, operating the telephone switchboard in Eden in the early 1960s. This picture would have been taken right across from the post office in the village. "This was a private home. Jack and Mrs. Welsh lived there. I was 16 years old, and I'd go off to work there. It was almost my first real job, but these were all the little things you poked in," Anne Koenig said referencing what mom holds in the picture. Both Anne and her sister worked the switchboard before their mom did.

Anne did want to clarify "Mrs. Welsh" was Frances Welsh (Jack's wife), however, "Mrs. Welsh is what we called her."

A 1950s Phone Call

First, this picture shows the backstory of how you made a call. Anne provided the context for how the switchboard worked. "So right now my mother's making a call, and that caller is saying, 'I want to talk to Dave Ryan or Francis Flood or somebody.'" Because Marie heard the request, the picture illustrates her attempt at getting the right connection. "So she plugs that into the line that will go to the Ryans — if that's who she's calling, and because it's Dave Ryan, it's probably 4 7 7 F 3 1. So you ring three long ones. RRRRRRRRRR... RRRRRRRRRR.....RRRRRRRRR." Anne points out there was a button there, and three long rings are going, "and one short one" so the Ryans know to answer. "But" and she said it again as a warning, "But — there's 10 people on the party line, so everybody can hear that Ryans are getting a call. That's where the rubbering came in — when I said people rubbered."

"Rubbering" is Anne's term used to describe when people listened in on each other on the party line in the 1950s and 1960s. It's important to save the old vocabulary, and it's noted here.

Furthermore, the canning factory needed the switchboard. "So I worked there, and Mary Scudella worked there. Then my mom, later in life, worked there. And one of the biggest companies that we had to deal with was the canning factory." Anne explained how the switchboard was utilized by one of the biggest employers in the area. "The canning factory would call if I was there, and they would say, 'We don't want the afternoon shift coming in.' Instead of them sitting there and calling 25 people, they had the operator do that at their convenience. We would call all these people and relay, 'No work this afternoon.'" If the canning season was busy, the switchboard would be asked to call workers in. This story is important because outsiders might ask what the operator did while they were waiting for a call, a canning factory request would fill some time in between.

Payment had to occur at the house of the switchboard too. Anne said, "Beside the switchboard was a desk, and the people had to come in and pay their bill. It was probably for the month, somewhere between $3 and $5."

Another aspect that comes to mind was that calls have to go through no matter what. So who worked at night? "It was right in the Welsh's home. So as soon as we walked out the door, Mrs. Welsh came out. And of course, she had a ringer on this thing. So if there wasn't a call, she'd go back in her kitchen and do something, or she'd be in the living room, or she'd be reading a magazine."

Meanwhile, Anne still remembers what they did for fires in the 1950s. "The fire department was 10 rings. You opened all the lines up, and you did 10 rings. And that's how everybody would know that there was a fire." Anne thought there were two ways to know, someone from the fire department in Eden might call that there was a fire. Of course, she said there was no police involved in those days, and because of the department right in Eden it was plausible they would call the switchboard operator. However, Anne said if a fire did occur, "First you might even take a call, that someone's house or farm is burning. But you had to get the call to get the fire department. Then after that, it was the alarm going out, because so many of the guys were volunteers. That was how you reached everybody at once. It was 10 rings on any line."

The neatest aspect of the job was being in the Frances Welsh sits next to her husband Jack in the house which held the switchboard. They lived in the Village of Eden, but the phone calls went around the surrounding area. Anne recalls Mrs. Welsh as a great boss. She was also dedicated to St. Mary's Church. "My sister said she went down there and she worked tirelessly." Then Anne added and laughed, "Well of course, she had these wonderful girls at the switchboard. Why wouldn't she?" Mrs. Welsh worked hard to get the floor in shape at St. Mary's when they were redoing the floor. Anne's point was that in those days the old church ladies worked so diligently and took pride in the work they could do for their parish, and Mrs. Welsh was one of them.

thick of social interaction. Anne was born in 1939, and she was 16 while working in 1955. "My mother worked for quite a while at Herb Grahl's store. I was only 14 or 15 years old, and we would go in there and help for inventory." It was wonderful for Marie to help out the Grahls. "Herb and Ruby treated her like a queen. At noon hour, mother would go upstairs and Ruby would have this table laid out with sandwiches and olives and chips and dessert." This was a "fine little meal," and it was the contrast coming from the farm life that she had to provide. Working at Grahl's was in many ways a treat compared to all her responsibilities of farm life. Anne recalls her mother didn't drive, so dad would drop her off at Grahl's to work. "Then eventually Artie Pfeiffer came into the store. Mom was looking for something else." Marie eventually worked at the switchboard. "Then after that she worked at the Catholic school in the office." It was great, she always worked with people she knew and she loved all those jobs, Anne said, "Because that was really connecting with people. She loved being helpful, and doing things."

Anne had her share of fun on the switchboard. "After I stopped, Mary Scudella started. We did do a few shenanigans. The two of us." Anne admitted. "After a while, we took some leeway that we shouldn't have, just because no one would mind. We were in total charge."

Frances and Jack Welsh

The picture accompanying this story showing Frances and Jack Welsh was taken right in their living room, close to another room which held the switchboard. This photo preserved by Anne led to her sharing some memories of the couple who employed her.

Anne Koenig, her sister and mother all worked for Mr. and Mrs. Welsh in the Village of Eden. Ann said Jack Welsh was the primary service repair person at the time Anne worked at the switchboard. He had two men who worked under him. As an example, Jack would fix the country lines. If there was a land line problem at a home, Jack would go out there and fix it, or send one of the two men out, often after Anne had made a ticket out explaining the request.

In regard to Frances, Anne said, "She was a great first employer. She was very patient and made us very much aware of the importance of the job we had to do. She was always available to help us as we learned the complexity of the switchboard and the need for good customer service which included paying bills and ordering other phone services." In addition, "We would have a half hour off for lunch, which she prepared for us in her home. This was always looked forward too." As Anne recalled, "She made lovely meals. It was the olden days." Examples included cold meat sandwiches that were topped with extras like lettuce and tomatoes. She even offered Anne and Mary coffee, though Anne recalls usually taking a soda instead. And then when that was over, Mrs. Welsh had made them a dessert. Of course, all of this food was on Mrs. Welsh during break. Anne concluded, "It was a very positive experience for a young person starting on their first job."

"They welcomed us in. We were not only a part of the work force or employee — but to be able to go into their kitchen — and the trust they gave you that you weren't going to be poking your nose into the cupboards." It was a great place to work.

Lessons and Questions

In the realm of phone calls, telemarketers and campaigns, I had heard the strategy that it is best to have females, particularly younger, take the phone calls instead of a male. I said this was interesting, given Anne only gave me females who worked the switchboard in Eden — her sister Mary, Anne herself, Mary Scuddella, mom and Mrs. Welsh at night. Anne made an interesting point, given in later years she worked at Silica and Stuarts, where "at times you had to answer the phone, and you were left there to answer. And at different times, customers would say, 'Oh, I'm so glad I got a woman.'" The point being, "if they were going to call and complain about something, somehow or another, they thought they were going to get farther with a female voice." Anne didn't know why that was, but it is an interesting observation. Did switchboard managers prefer woman working the switchboard?

Now, over the research of Eden, I observed an interesting discussion between Lou Anne Daniels and Dave Majerus over the party line. Lou Anne Daniels said when she had her party line, people would say something really silly or an intentional big lie so that somebody eavesdropping would hang up. Others were more direct. Dave Majerus said Uncle Bobby Majerus would take the phone, "I need to call to get a cow bred. In two minutes, you can come back." I asked Anne if that was appropriate to mention in this article. She responded, "That is so right on," and laughed on how accurate Dave and Lou Anne were.

Anne also pointed out that the party line culture is important because you have to provide context in the 1950s, when women were not as out in the world as they are today. For example, a mother might be watching their children at home, and the only way to talk to their sister down the road was the phone. "Sometimes they [women] went on and on and on. So Bobby did have to say, 'I JUST need the phone for a little while, could you hang up?'" That's so realistic. The only way to communicate with a mom or sister was the phone, but Anne warned, "If there were harsh words, you know the neighbors all knew it. Not only that, 'I have a doctor's appointment — I think I'm pregnant.' Then the neighbors all knew that you were [pregnant]."

It was a strange way of life comparable to some problems of today. "You know, and now they worry so much about your privacy." Here a 'rubberer' on your party line knew all your personal details in 1955.

'Shrek the Musical' Comes to Town, KHS and KMS Put on a Show

DANIEL JUNGERS
STUDENT CONTRIBUTOR

Every year, the Kewaskum Fine Arts program puts on a play or a musical to showcase some of the talent at our schools. Students from Kewaskum High School (KHS) and Middle School (KMS) worked hard together to put on the best show possible. Usually, these are produced by KHS alone, but because only a few KHS students tried out, they reached out to the talent in KMS to help with the show.

One of Dreamwork's most famous movies turned musical was produced this year. Our fine arts center put on "Shrek the Musical", a show everyone could enjoy. This production would include a cast of characters, many technical crew members, production staff, and a pit of musicians.

The cast and crew spent many weeks working together on the show, prepping for the big day. There were three showtimes, split into two different days. The first showing was on Friday, March 15, at 7 p.m. The second and third showings were on Saturday, March 16, at 2 and 5 p.m. Every show had a great turnout, and the cast and crew did a phenomenal job through each performance.

Explore Wisconsin's Natural Wonders with Natural Resource Foundation Field Trips

WIS. DEPT. OF NATURAL RESOURCES

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) encourages the public to explore Wisconsin with a Natural Resources Foundation (NRF) field trip.

The Natural Resources Foundation of Wisconsin is a nonprofit that protects our state's lands, waters and wildlife and connects all people with nature.

This year is the 31st season of Natural Resources Foundation field trips, and 275 trips are scheduled from April through early November. Field trips are expert-led adventures that explore Wisconsin in a variety of ways, from paddling in Door County to steep, off-trail hiking in Green County. These trips often offer a behind-the-scenes look at Wisconsin's natural treasures, many of which are not usually open to the public.

Some examples of the 275 field trip opportunities include:

- Frogs and Toads of Sandhill Wildlife Area
- Introduction to Foraging
- Effigy Mounds at Nitschke Mounds Park
- Birding the Cedarburg Bog: Canoe and Hike
- Namekagon River: Wood turtles and Wildflowers
- Seeds for Pollinators at Dewey

Heights State Natural Area

The entire field trip list is available in the Natural Resources Foundation Field Trip Guidebook (www.wisconservation.org/field-trips/guidebook/). Each trip is labeled to indicate the physical demand and if it is family-friendly. The annual tradition is open for all ages and abilities, including 24 trips accessible for standard wheelchairs.

"We just want people to get out and explore Wisconsin," said Christine Tanzer, NRF Field Trip Program Director. "Not only is it a joyful thing to do, and good for you – it also starts people thinking about all the conservation work going on around them and how they can help."

Registration is only available online starting April 4, 2024 and is only open to for Natural Resources Foundation members. Those interested are encouraged to sign up soon, as trips can fill up quickly. Field trips are non-refundable and expected to run rain or shine. No dogs are allowed on trips.

Campbellsport Graduate Named a "Rising Star" in Medicine

M HEALTH FAIRVIEW

For the last 10 years, Mpls.St.Paul Magazine has recognized doctors who are "Rising Stars" in medicine. This year, 132 doctors in the M Health Fairview system join the ranks of those who are making a name for themselves in the first decade of their careers. This is more than any other health system in the region.

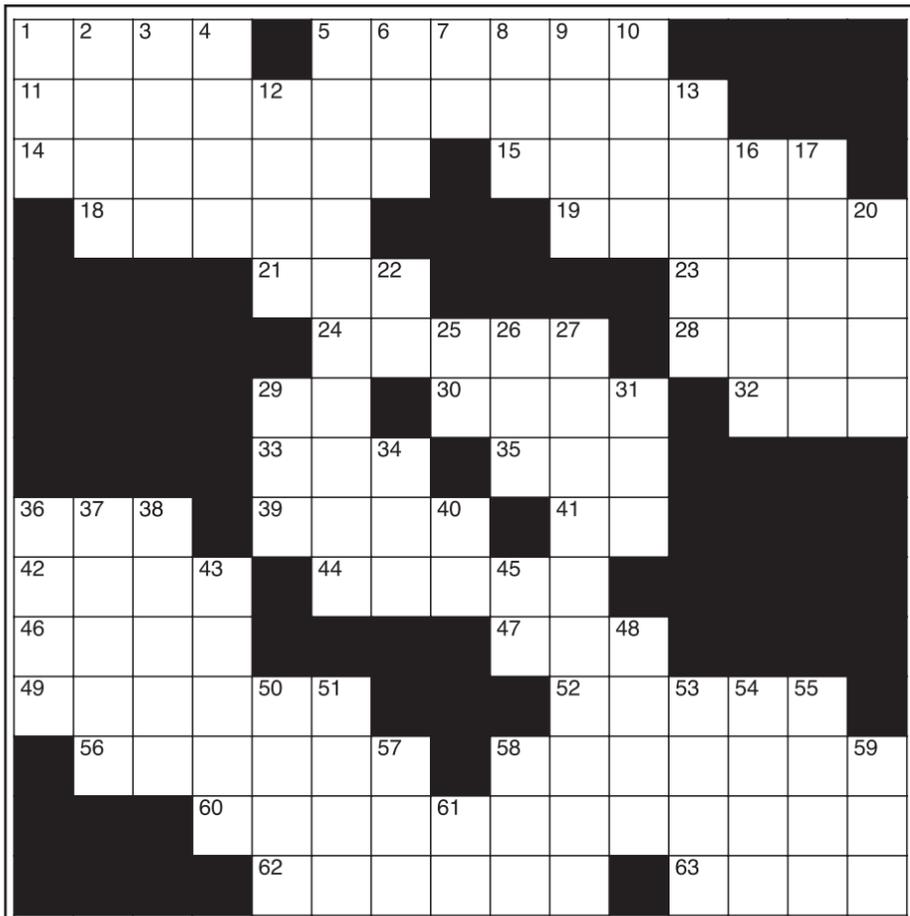

"We know our physicians are special," said Fairview Chief Medical Officer Mark Welton, MD, MHCM. "They bring medical expertise and a passion for people to work with them every day. It's wonderful to see these exceptional physicians recognized for distinguishing themselves early in their careers."

The magazine uses a rigorous selection process that starts by asking doctors to nominate other physicians that they would trust with their own – or a family member's care. From there, the doctors are evaluated on peer recognition, professional achievement, and disciplinary history. Then they're invited to participate in a panel evaluation with other nominated physicians in the same category.

"The physicians honored this year represent a future of medicine in Minnesota that is marked first and foremost by compassion," said Bevan Yueh, MD, MPH, CEO of University of Minnesota Physicians. "In addition to these individuals' deep talent and care for others, they also lead research that will become the future treatments for difficult conditions while carefully training the next generation of Minnesota's doctors."

One of the 132 doctors recognized by Mpls.St. Paul Magazine is Sarah M. Krueger, M.D. She is a doctor within the field of obstetrics/gynecology and a 2005 graduate of Campbellsport High School. She is the daughter of Faith and the late Michael H. Krueger, and granddaughter of Vernell and Harold Krueger and Gerald and Dolores Ninnemann.

Straub, who was a Girl Scout leader while raising her two daughters, still has her Girl Scout pins from when she was a child. She showed them to the Scouts at the library last week, and some of the pins were identical to ones the girls were wearing on their uniforms.

Other things haven't changed over the years as well. A favorite Girl Scout song remains "Make New Friends," and a favorite activity is going to Girl Scout camp.

And doing service projects for the library remains an activity for Kewaskum Girl Scouts.

There are currently a total of eight troops in the Kewaskum area. Not all the Scouts were available to participate in last week's project. Girls who participated include: Troop 8437 Cadettes- Lilly Gadouas, Norah Gahan, Gabby Durham and Sybil Gadouas; Troop 8032 Juniors- Lilliana Nyhouse, Ruby Schneider, Ava Schmoldt, Gentri Wiedmeyer and Pailynn Muth; and Troop 8161 Brownies- Paisley Dorzok, Kennedy Eilbes, Payton Gissal, Hazel Hurt, Rory Leland, Susan Pankratz and Isabelle Zolp.

This picture of Girl Scouts who moved books to the Kewaskum Public Library appeared on the front page of the Kewaskum Statesman on Nov. 17, 1950. Among the girls pictured are Judy Geidel, Carol Schacht and Isabelle Straub. KEWASKUM STATESMAN ARCHIVES

we hunted, fished, and camped as a way of life. Long story short, Trav and Joe kicked butt tonight, fished till after midnight and both made it to work just after sunup the following morning.

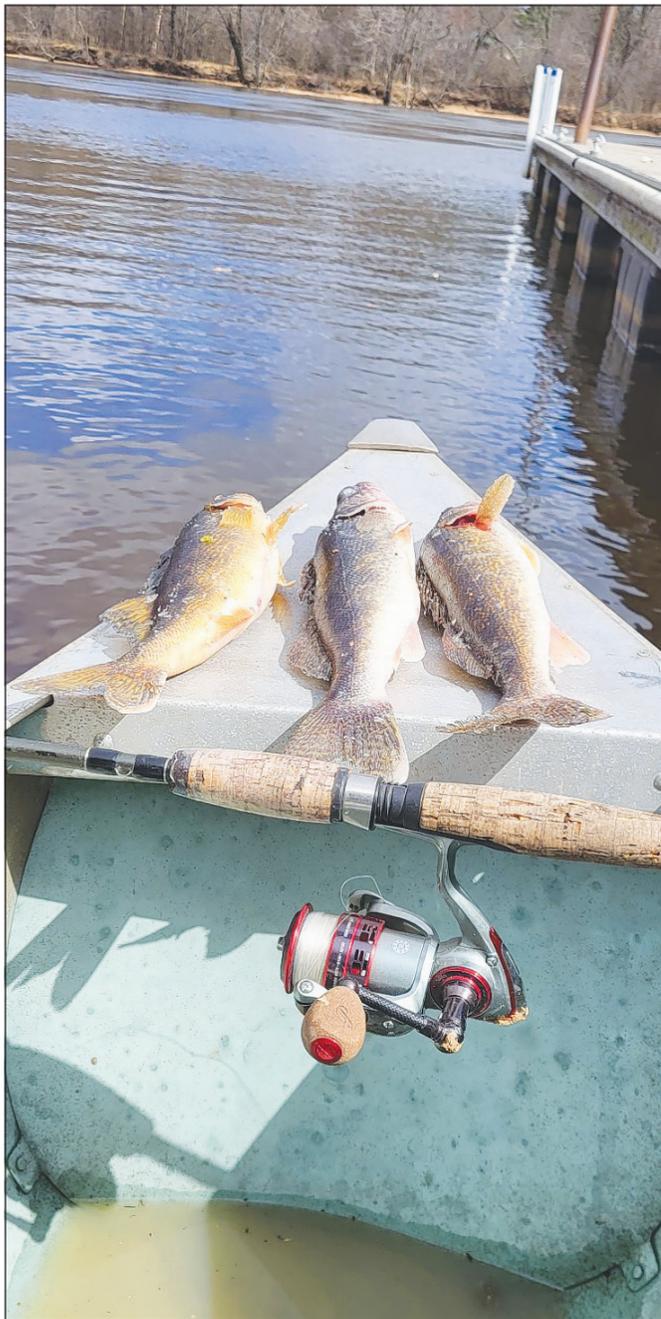

So, the boys leave and I am the only human on this part of the Wisconsin. It is 22 degrees, the wind is nonstop and my feet are beyond frozen. I had caught maybe 20 walleye of which they were either in the slot or under size and I was stuck on four legals.

At 1:30, I was living in the moment as in my feet were not very functional, my balance after 10 hours in a canoe was not exceptional, and I was in a lot of pain from kneeling for most of the experience. I paddled back to my truck, did a warm up which took a full 30 minutes for any parts of my feet to tell me there was life and at sunrise started over.

I thrive on these challenges which goes back to the “why don’t you use your boat” question, and I really had a challenge today as there was a lot more water coming down river today and it took my two hours of pulling hard on the paddle to make it close to the dam. There was only one other boat on the water and the bite had virtually stopped, my belief is an 18-inch rise in water level and a 25-degree drop in the temp all in 24 hours were the culprits.

I put another seven hours in the canoe and did not have one thing happen as far as catching fish and that was all that I needed to know to realize that 30 miles away was a woodstove that could be fired up and a body that said please go home!

“Brody’s grand slam instantly turned things around for us in the second game against Oregon,” said Krug.

The Cougars were able to tack on two more runs by sac flies from Eli Fleischman and Nolan to make the final score 7-4 to earn a split of the doubleheader.

Sachen and Bowe each pitched two innings with Gage Kohlmann finishing up the last three innings.

“Gage finished up the game with three strong innings for us to close out the win,” noted Krug.

On April 1, Campbellsport baseball’s home opener against West Bend West was canceled during the rainy cool weather.

Campbellsport baseball will continue their upcoming schedule during the week with games at home on April 2 against Springs and at Chilton on April 5.

PRESENTS Athlete Spotlight

Aydan Meilahn—Campbellsport Cougar

Name: Aydan Meilahn
School: Campbellsport High School
Sports: Track and Field

What is a challenge you have had to overcome?
 Coming into my freshman year, we were still recovering from COVID. When we wanted to lift or when we were on the bus going to a meet, we would have to wear masks. On top of that, football and soccer were postponed to the spring season, so we as a team had to work around those two sports.

What has been your greatest high school accomplishment?

I think a massive accomplishment to me is my Letterman's jacket. It represents my pride for the school and my accomplishments in sports. I have a reputation for having a lot of medals on it, and I can attribute most of them to track.

Who is your favorite coach?

I don't like playing the favorite game, but I have massive respect for my track coach, Derek Toshner. He's had extreme success in track to the point of running at the Olympic trials, so I can come to practice every day knowing that he understands success and what it takes.

What is your pre-race tradition?

I inherited this tradition from cross country, but right before a race I like to "slap it up," where runners slap their legs before running almost in a massaging way. I can't tell you the science behind it, but it works, trust me.

What are your plans for the future?

My plan is to attend Marquette University and study law. After college, I plan to work for the Fond du Lac DA's Office and bring a direct impact back to the community that I grew up in.

What is one place you would like to visit?

I have always wanted to see places that are just so different than I'm used to, whether it's something tropical like the Maldives or walking through the busy streets of Paris.

Do you have any pets?

I have two black cats named Vader and Kylo after Darth Vader and Kylo Ren from Star Wars. Vader is the stoic, serious cat while Kylo is the energetic, wild cat, which fits their namesakes.

What is your unpopular opinion?

Ice Spice is extremely overrated, and people know it.

Kewaskum Baseball Opens Season at Home

KHS BASEBALL

Thursday, March 28, the Kewaskum Indians (0-1) started the game off strong but struggled to find the strike zone on the mound as time went on in an eventual 14-9 loss to the Cedar Grove Belgium Rockets (1-0). After giving up a single to lead off the game, the Kewaskum starting pitcher, Cale Heinonen, settled in on the mound and got the next three batters out. In the bottom of the first inning, all went well for the Indians as Andrew Reichert led off the frame with an infield single and scored when Kingston Grisolono roped a double off the fence in right center. Austin Loehr followed with a RBI double to score Grisolono to take a 2-0 lead. The Indians were not done as Heinonen ripped a RBI, single and following a Rocket error, Karter Fell singled in Austin Reichel to take a 5-0 lead.

After a quiet top of the second inning, the Indians were able to tack on two more runs on a Heinonen single and take a 7-0 lead. That lead quickly vanished as the visiting Rockets scored one run in the third and six runs in the fourth to tie things up.

Kewaskum scored two runs to take a 9-7 lead on a Reichel RBI single. However, the visitors tied it up in the fifth inning and proceeded to score five more runs in the final two frames to pull away for the victory.

The Indians were led offensively by Grisolono 3-4 2B 1 rbi; Heinonen 3-3 3 rbi; Reichel 2 rbi; Fell 1 rbi; Loehr 2B.

Kewaskum opens up conference play with rival Plymouth Panthers in Plymouth, Tuesday, April 2 and again Thursday, April 4 at home. The team travels to Regner Park, West Bend on Friday, April 5 to face off against the West Bend East Suns. First pitch for all games is at 4:45 p.m.

Walleye on the Wisconsin

MARK WALTERS COLUMNIST

This week's column is a go for it, try to catch some walleye out of a canoe, freeze my butt off, and make it home kind of a story.

Tuesday, March 26

High 36, Low 22

I was going to head to the Oconto River and fish walleye out of my canoe, and all of a sudden, I had a brain storm. Why don't I go to Nekoosa and fish walleye on the Wisconsin? Nekoosa is only 30 miles from my house, and I have not done anything in the area all winter, so that is what I did.

First, I want to thank my good friends, Jeff and Patti Rouse, who recently gave me a 17-foot aluminum canoe. Mine is close to shot and could even be called suicidal, so thanks, Jeff and Patti.

The following was my plan as I geared up my new rig at Jim Freeman Memorial Boat Landing at Nekoosa. I was going to fish a variety of ways as in paddle trolling, jig and minnow while anchored, throwing crankbaits, and soaking a minnow on a floating jig. I had several conversations with fishermen at the landing and all reports did not include much fish catching.

Though you cannot tell it in this picture taken after midnight on the Wisconsin River at Nekoosa, Walters was freezing his hiney off!

This canoe is a recent addition to Walters' fleet.

I would have to paddle up river about 1.5 miles and I would be pulling two crankbaits as I started my journey at 3:30 this afternoon while wearing chest waders and lots of clothes as there was a stiff north wind blowing a steady snowfall. Here is the answer to a question so many people ask me, "Why don't you use your War Eagle with the 90 hsp Yamaha?" Here is my answer, I get bored easily, have to be physical and enjoy living on the edge, there will be plenty of hours spent in the big boat.

I make it close to the dam, drop anchor, was wishing the weather was not so nasty, at least not this early in the adventure, put out a floating jig with a fathead and start tossing a 3/8s ounce jig with a fathead. Ten minutes later it's fish on with the jig and I landed a 21-inch walleye which in these waters gets released as there is a 20-to-28-inch slot. It was kind of cool for the first fish out of my new rig to be a slot. The first few hours of the evening it was steady fish catching for me with either the blue chrome Husky jerk or the floating jig offering plenty of activity and hour by hour the weather kept beating me up.

About dark, my stepson Travis Dushek shows up in his boat and he tells me that his brother Joey would be arriving in a bit. Let me tell you about these kids that are now 30 and 32. They are excelling in life in all ways, and I do not know anyone that could out fish or hunt either of them. They grew up in a house where to put it simple,
