Members of the Marketing and Communications Team at CESA 6 were recently recognized by the National School Public Relations Association (NSPRA) for their outstanding work supporting Wisconsin school districts through strategic communication, marketing, and public engagement.

Four members of the team – Jill Aykens, Alex Giardina, Courtney Krueger, and Lisa Sink – earned Publications and Digital Media Excellence Awards for their creative work with school districts across the state. Awards in this category are presented in three levels: Excellence, Merit, and Honorable Mention. All four entries submitted by CESA 6 team members earned the Excellence Award, the highest distinction in the program and an exceptional achievement that underscores the caliber and impact of the team's work.

Award-winning submissions from the team included:

- Lake Country School District Referendum 2025 Financial Fact Sheet, submitted by Jill Aykens
- Kewaskum Enrollment Marketing Video: "You Can and You Belong," submitted by Alex Giardina and Lisa Sink
- Parkview Social Media Report, submitted by Courtney Krueger
- Manitowoc Public Schools – "Your Dreams, Our Compass" Infographic, submitted by Lisa Sink
- Aykens additionally received NPSRA's Golden Achievement Award for her strategic communications work with the Hortonville Area School District. CESA 6 is one of only five recipients in Wisconsin to be honored with a Golden Achievement Award this year.

"This national recognition affirms the deep commitment our communications team has to helping schools tell their stories with clarity, authenticity, and purpose," said Ted Neitzke, CESA 6 CEO. "Our team's work is not just about communication; it's about building trust, strengthening relationships, and helping districts connect with the communities they serve."

NSPRA received a record number of entries this year, reflecting the growing role of communication professionals in shaping the future of public education. All entries were reviewed by accredited professionals and judged on strategy, effectiveness, innovation, and quality.

Private Universes

Dear Reader,

We are all inhabitants of private universes. One person's world revolves around the crack of a bat against a baseball, the geometry of a perfect swing, the smell of grass and dirt in late afternoon light. Another lives in the rustle of fabric, the hunt for the perfect fit, the small thrill of finding something beautiful at exactly the right price. Someone else exists in the glow of a movie screen, lost in stories that feel more real than their own life, while their neighbor obsesses over chess moves, calculating combinations three steps ahead, maybe four.

These worlds are complete unto themselves. They have their own languages, their own sources of joy and frustration, their own measures of success and failure. The teenager checking batting averages speaks a different dialect than the one scrolling through college applications, and both are foreign to the person planning their next chess gambit.

Every now and then, these separate worlds collide. We attempt communication across the vast distances between our experiences. We try to explain why this particular movie matters, why that chess position is beautiful, why the sound of a well-hit ball carries such poetry. We gesture toward our private enthusiasms and hope someone else will understand.

But here's what we've all noticed, even if we don't always say it out loud: hardly anyone ever really listens. We've become a species of people waiting for our turn to talk. We nod politely while someone explains their passion, but we're already preparing our own response, our own story, our own version of what matters. The conversation becomes two monologues running parallel to each other, never quite intersecting.

This isn't cruelty or even indifference. It's something more fundamental about the human condition. We are each trapped inside our own experience, looking out at a world that makes sense to us in ways that are difficult to translate. The chess player sees elegance in what looks like tedium to others. The movie lover finds profound meaning in what seems like entertainment. The baseball fan experiences something approaching the sacred in what appears to be just a game.

Yet occasionally, something breaks through. Someone not only listens but hears. They lean in, ask the right question, make the connection that shows they've understood not just your words but the feeling behind them. These moments stand out precisely because they're rare. When they happen, the distance between worlds suddenly collapses. For a brief time, you're not alone in your private universe.

Maybe this is enough. Maybe the fact that connection is difficult makes it more precious when it occurs. Maybe the challenge isn't to escape our individual worlds but to become better at building bridges between them, to develop the patience and curiosity necessary to step into someone else's experience, even briefly.

Because in the end, we're all doing the same thing. We're all trying to make sense of being alive, finding meaning in whatever captures our attention and passion. The specific obsession may vary, but the underlying human need to care deeply about something, to find purpose in pursuit, remains constant across all our separate worlds.

The question isn't whether we live in isolation—we do. The question is what we do with those moments when the isolation breaks, when we actually see each other clearly across the distance. Those moments, brief as they are, might be where real life happens.

May not be able to choose our misery. Some of it comes where we're born. Of course a body can always relocate. In which case you might still live with the consequences of a poor choice. For example, a home anywhere from the Carolinas to Texas risks sheer velocity of wind and ferocity of wave while hurricanes make landfall.

Look for sunshine out west and the earth moves under your feet. A quake really shakes them down. If a wildfire doesn't destroy house and hearth first. Stretched across the plains of Kansas clear up to Wisconsin, many reside in Tornado Alley. Raised from adolescence to old age in America's Dairyland and still haven't gotten use to the heavy weather, when boomers turn into a watch or an active warning.

Seen too many times after the sky grew positively ugly; the kind of dark which haunts a fella's dreams. Scanned the clouds. Expected a funnel to drop outta them any instant. A trepidation instilled as a child. Afraid to go to sleep when the prediction called for dangerous overnight conditions.

Perhaps a wee bit of the irrational fear still exists, buried deep as a seed in the soil of the subconscious. Could be the experience of being less than a quarter mile away from a storm touchdown twice. Hearing the sound. Yep, exactly as they've described it. A freight train thundering through. Smashing everything in its path. Or sight of rain driven sideways by a relentless wind.

No scramble for the cellar this year. Liable to break my darn fool neck without a rail down there and balance issues. Sat through the most recent blow, in the kitchen, southwest corner of the house. Worse case scenario; crawl under the table, pray the roof don't squash me like a bug. Any wonder a guy wears anxiety, tight as a second skin?

Chasing Waterfalls

Bond's Falls, located 40 miles from Eagle River in Upper Michigan, has a staircase next to it that allows you to get up close and personal (and a little wet!).

MARY KRIEGER
CONTRIBUTOR

Even though the musical group TLC instructs us to not "go chasing waterfalls," this activity is still a popular trip destination, particularly in spring and early summer. Research has found that being close to a waterfall has both physiological and psychological benefits. Cascading water can be visually mesmerizing, and the sound can be calming. Negative ions released by the spray have been shown to improve mood, reduce stress and lower heart rates.

Marinette County declares itself the waterfall capital of Wisconsin. It is home to 15 different waterfalls, most of which are smaller, but still captivating. One of the falls is Dave's Falls which is located one mile south of Amberg. It can be seen while taking a 0.6 out-and-back trail that is considered moderately challenging, and the fall has a 15-foot drop.

The largest waterfall in Wisconsin can be found in Pattison State Park near Superior. Big Manitou

Washington County Sixth Annual Freedom Day Juneteenth Celebration

In recognition of the oldest known celebration of the ending of slavery, Washington County together with Downtown West Bend Association is co-hosting the sixth annual Juneteenth celebration of Freedom Day on Thursday, June 19, at Old Settlers Park on Main Street in West Bend, right before the start of Music on Main. The public is invited to come celebrate Juneteenth and stay for the music – bring your lawn chairs!

Juneteenth commemorates the ending of slavery in the United States. The event dates to June 19, 1865, when Union soldiers arrived at Galveston, Texas, with news that the war had ended and that the enslaved were free. This was more than two years after President Lincoln’s Emancipation Proclamation, which had become official January 1, 1863.

“We began the Juneteenth celebration in Washington County not only to remember the difficult history of enslavement in the United States, but to provide an opportunity for our great community to celebrate its significance together. Knowing the history of the holiday allows us to build connections and understanding,” said Josh Schoemann, county executive.

In addition to Schoemann’s proclamation, the Juneteenth celebration of Freedom Day will feature:

- Invocation – Dr. Walter Henderson III – Senior Pastor, Berean Family Worship Center

- Emcee – Bill Brewer – Community Leader
- Singers – National Anthem – Mia Dornacker, Kewaskum High School student
- Lift Every Voice and Sing – Noelle Braun, executive director Downtown West Bend Association
- Speakers – Josh Schoemann and Bill Brewer
- Benediction – Dr. Walter Henderson III
- Entertainment/Treats – FM Rodeo will perform a patriotic show to kick off Music on Main immediately following the program; and attendees can enjoy a custom popcorn mix from Laughing Mountain popcorn created for the occasion and assorted red, non-alcoholic beverages.

Falls is 165 feet tall and truly impressive. The park also includes the smaller Little Manitou which is unique for having twin waterfalls side by side. Both falls can be viewed from easily accessible viewing areas.

Amnicon Falls State Park just southeast of Superior is home to four waterfalls and a covered bridge. Three of the featured falls can be seen just a short distance from the parking lot, making them accessible to all fitness levels.

Copper Falls State Park near Mellen in Ashland County includes 3 scenic waterfalls. Trails to see the falls include stairs and are considered moderately strenuous, but there are paved viewing areas that are handicap accessible.

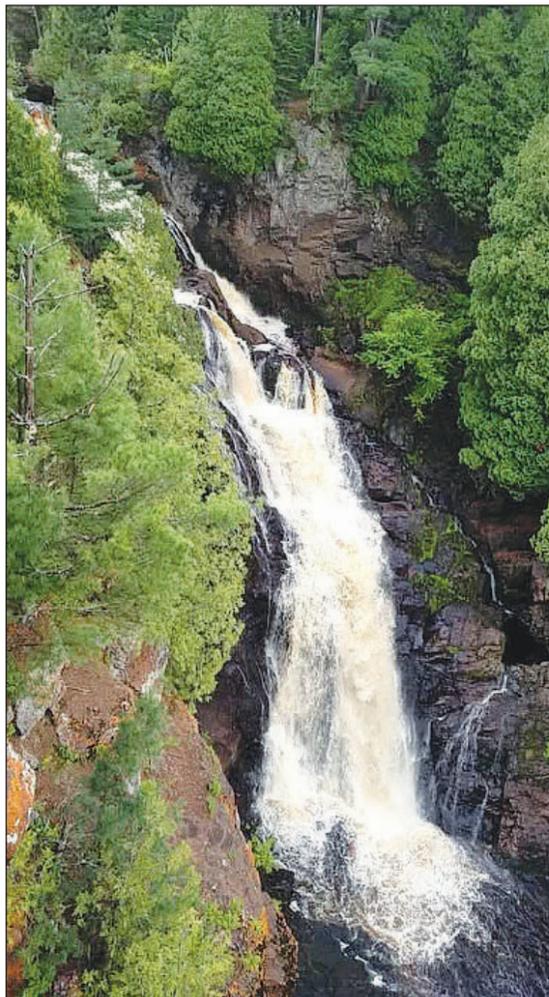

All Wisconsin state parks require either a one-day pass which costs $8 per vehicle or a season pass which is good for the entire year at all state parks and costs $28, making it an economical vacation choice.

Southern Wisconsin has two smaller falls. Parfrey's Glen is located in Sauk County and Stephen's Falls is located in Governor Dodge State Park, near Dodgeville.

Bond's Falls in Upper Michigan is a unique and impressive waterfall. Located just 40 miles from Eagle River, this waterfall cascades 50 feet from the top to the bottom. If you're adventurous, you can climb very wet concrete stairs next to the falls that allow you to feel the spray.

Those who want to take a longer excursion might want to consider checking out the 80 different waterfalls that surround Lake Superior. Traveling through Wisconsin, Minnesota, Canada and Michigan, the Lake Superior Circle tour is a 1,300-mile loop and takes a minimum of four days to complete, although it's recommended you take 7-10 days to thoroughly enjoy the experience.

So go ahead and chase some waterfalls. It is good for you-body, mind and soul.

Herbert Justman

Herbert Milton "Herbie" Justman, 83, of West Bend, passed away on June 5, 2025, at Froedtert Hospital in Wauwatosa.

Herbie Justman entered the world on September 12, 1941, in Kohlsville, born to Herbert L. and Lucille (nee Keding) Justman.

A proud graduate of Kewaskum High School, he wasted no time stepping into service, joining the U.S. Army on April 1, 1964, and serving until February 22, 1966, during the Vietnam War. His dedication extended beyond the military, as he devoted 43 years to Regal Ware.

On June 8, 2013, Herbie found his perfect match in Darlene Mandick, and together they exchanged vows at Zion Lutheran Church in Kohlsville. The couple shared a love for adventure, frequenting Wisconsin Dells, delighted by in Tommy Bartlett shows, and cruising through the Duck tours. But their simplest joys came in quiet moments, like sitting by the port in Port Washington, savoring lunch while watching boats glide in and out.

Deeply connected to his German heritage, Herbie never missed Germanfest, embracing the traditions and festivities wholeheartedly including polka dancing. A natural-born jokester with an infectious sense of humor, he had a special fondness for history, especially wartime stories and films. This led to many lighthearted TV show battles between his beloved war documentaries and his wife's cooking programs.

Generous to a fault and always ready to share, Herbie earned a reputation for gifting treasured items to friends and feeding the neighborhood squirrels—so much so that he became affectionately known as "Herbie Nuts." But above all else, his heart belonged to his grandchildren, who remained the greatest joy of his life.

Those Herbie leaves behind to cherish his memory include his wife, Darlene; a son, Herbert Justman Jr.; a daughter, Becki May (Steven Trochinski); his grandsons, Michael and Xander Trochinski; his granddaughters, Leeah, Lynnsey, and Lacey Justman; a brother, Hiram (Alleen "Butch") Justman; his brother and sisters-in-law, Barbara Justman, Rita Justman, Loretta Justman, Don Mandick, and Christine Coats; nieces and nephews, other relatives, friends, and his beloved cat, Sasha.

In addition to his parents, Herbie was preceded in death by his siblings, Harvey Justman, Harold (Arlene) Justman, Herbert P. Justman, Hilary (Mildred) Justman, Hilbert Justman, Harry Justman, Howard (Judy) Justman, Laura Justman, Lilly (Harold) Westerman, Henry Justman, Homer Justman, Herman Justman; a sister-in-law, Pauline Vandenberg; his parents-in-law, Patricia and Donald Mandick.

VISITATION: Herbie's family will greet relatives and friends at Myrhum – Patten Funeral & Cremation Service, 1315 W. Washington Street, in West Bend, on Thursday, June 19, 2025, from 2:00 p.m. until 4:00 p.m.

SERVICE: A service for Herbie will be held at 4:00 p.m. at the funeral home in West Bend with Rev. Steven Bode officiating.

Carl Arthur "Corky" Meyer

Carl Arthur "Corky" Meyer, 73, passed away peacefully on May 30, 2025 with family by his side. Cancer strikes hard and fast sometimes and doesn't leave much time to say goodbye. The blessing is that he didn't suffer long.

He was born on December 27, 1951, to Frederick and Florence (nee. Juech) Meyer.

Corky was a proud U.S. Marine veteran.

Corky is survived by his wife, Susan (Linnemeier); children, Jeremiah (Erin) Meyer-O'Day, Tashina (Brian) Peplinski, Kyra (Matt) Seipel, and Ian Meyer; grandchildren, Anola, Ila, Aveline, Bastian, and Ripley. Further survived by two brothers and a sister, nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends, as well as his beloved hounds, hunters, conservation organizations, and hunting groups.

Waiting for him on the far side of the rainbow bridge are his parents, sister, family, friends and loyal dogs.

Corky did not want a "funeral". However, there will be a fall celebration.

Kewaskum Falls to Conference Rival Waupun in Sectional Semifinal

CLARICE CASE
EDITOR

After winning both regular season games against the Waupun Warriors, the Kewaskum Indians baseball team lost just 2-1 in an extra-innings, sectional showdown in Waupaca on Tuesday, June 10.

Despite Waupun loading the bases in the second and third innings, Kewaskum was the first to score in the fourth inning. Waupun quickly responded in the fifth inning to tie the game up for the next six innings until the game-winning run came across the plate in the 11th inning.

While Waupun may have won, the Indians' defense and pitching caused some real trouble for the Warriors throughout the game.

Kewaskum finished the season as Co-East Central Conference Champions with Kettle Moraine Lutheran, with an 11-1 record. Their overall record was 23-6.

The First Team All-Conference players are senior Andrew Reichert and sophomore Kingston Grisolono, who is also Player of the Year.

Second Team All-Conference players are senior Austin Reichel, junior Liam Stoffel, senior Samuel Ciriacks, senior Tyler Densow, and senior Everett Donath.

Senior Cooper Petermann received an Honorable Mention.

Kewaskum Girls Soccer Season Ends in Regional Final

KEWASKUM GIRLS SOCCER

The Kewaskum girls varsity soccer team kicked off Regional play on Thursday, June 5 when they traveled to North Fond du Lac.

The Indians knew that they had to come out hard right away, and they did just that when sophomore Annika Kreuser scored just 14 seconds into the game.

The Indians controlled the tempo from that point and earned their second goal in the 23rd minute when sophomore Malia Volesky scored off a beautiful cross from sophomore Brooke Pritchard.

Senior Caitlin Finger took it from there and scored two goals in the game. Her first came in the 38th minute off an assist from freshman Dana Jacobson and her second in the 67th minute assisted by junior Mari Gurrola.

The Indians' defensive line was able to keep North Fond du Lac scoreless, making the final score 4-0 Kewaskum.

Coach Piwani commented, "We could not have had a better start than this. We discussed setting the tone from the start and being really aggressive on offense. The girls did exactly that by scoring immediately off the opening kickoff. This really allowed us to control the game from start to finish. I am really proud of the girls and how they really worked to improve all season. It really started to show in the second half of the season. It was great to extend our season and get our seniors at least one more game. This was a true team effort and all three levels played really well."

As a result of the win in North Fond du Lac, the Indians moved on to the second round of play where they found themselves back on the field of the defending state champs Cedar Grove-Belgium on Saturday, June 7.

The Indians came out hard defensively and kept the game scoreless for over twenty minutes, but still found themselves down three goals to none at halftime.

Cedar Grove-Belgium continued to attack offensively in the second half, and ended the game with seven goals.

The Indians didn't go down without a solid fight, however, and freshman Kenley Yapp took a hard foul in the box to give the Indians a penalty kick. Senior Caitlin Finger took the shot and scored to put Kewaskum on the board. The final score was 7-1.

Coach Piwani stated, "The girls gave it everything they had in this game but ran into the powerhouse defending State Champions. I am very proud of the effort they put in. The girls left it all on the field. Cedar Grove-Belgium is a great team, and I wouldn't be surprised to see them at state again this year. A huge thank you to the seniors, Victoria, Emily, Marisa, Caitlin, Carissa and Ayla. They really made this season fun and rewarding. They can look back at the past four years and be really proud of the work they put in and the imprint they left on Kewaskum soccer."

The East Central Conference also announced the All-Conference athletes in girls' soccer. Making First Team All-Conference are Emily Melzer, midfielder, and Alayna Lambrecht, defender. Making Second Team All-Conference is Caitlin Finger, attacker. Receiving Honorable Mentions are Cameron Boelte, midfielder, Marisa Strankowski, defender, and Victoria Kenworthy, goalie.

Three Holyland Weddings and Dick Rodgers

KARL MCCARTY
CONTRIBUTOR

Earl Kehrmeier described his wedding celebration with his wife Betty (Schmidbauer). “I think we had about 500 people come to the wedding dance ‘cause they were standing outside.” You could get 500 people into Kekoskee’s dance hall?!? “No,” Earl said. “They couldn’t get in. They were listening outside because Betty and I hired a special orchestra that came down.”

Initially, Earl and friends traveled past the Holyland and someplace north of Plymouth to hear the orchestra play. “He was well known from the Green Bay area, and I booked him a year before we got married.” Then Earl paused and second guessed his story. “I don’t know if that’s interesting for you?” The answer was yes. Here’s the rest of that memory on how the famous Dick Rodgers came to Kekoskee.

Price of Gas and a Good Time

Earl Kehrmeier was asked to explain his wedding. Instead, Earl first shared a story that intertwines three men who dated three girls from the Holyland, which took Earl to St. John, north of Chilton.

Earl was really busy figuring out his trucking business in the late 1940s. He was also working at Klomberg Bakery in Horicon. However, he made time to dance. Earl was a friend of Orville Kamrath who was dating Arlene Schmidbauer. Because Orville and Earl went to dances, this is how Earl started to date Betty Schmidbauer (Arlene’s sister). Earl and Betty went many places, including enjoying dances at Hartford and Round Lake. But in the early 1950s, Betty was still in high school.

One time Earl and Betty went all the way up to St. John. However, Earl said, “I think that’s the only time we drove to the Crystal Ballroom.” And the link to why Earl drove up to St. John is that “there were three guys – they would go up there dating the girls.” Earl clarified that the girls were not from the LeRoy or Oakfield vicinity, and for that era that was a much longer drive to see your date.

“That area – we call it the Holyland. They [the three men] got to talking, they said, ‘Gasoline is costing us too much money, why don’t we get married?’ They were talking on the way up. So, they – all three men – proposed to the girls at the same night – and they didn’t get married right away, but they ended up marrying so they didn’t have to drive all the way from Brownsville and LeRoy up to the Holyland to date these girls.”

The Three Friends

Now, Earl admits some of this story might have been slightly embellished as it was told to him by the men. Though in truth, it might have been a financial stretch for these young guys to drive all the way past Chilton for a dance in the early 1950s. Even if it wasn’t, the three men’s links and obituary evidence implies a relationship with men from ‘down south’ marrying women from The Holyland. Earl first remembered a Jurgensmier, then added, “Owen Beck was the other one. And the other one was Paul Wondra.”

Here’s an example of how Earl is correct, that men from lower Fond du Lac and upper Dodge counties married girls from the Holyland. First compare Owen Beck to Paul Wondra.

Owen B. Beck (1929-2016), was a dairy farmer from Oakfield who was born in the Town of Ashford, then married Lillian Nett (1932-2019) at St. Mary’s Catholic Church in Marytown. The wedding occurred on June 12, 1951. According to his obituary, “Owen was active in the Oakfield community, having served as both the town supervisor and its chairman. Owen was a long-time member of the Knights of Columbus and the Holy Name Society.”

In regard to Paul Wondra, (1928-2010) he was from Dodge County, the son of Kilian Wondra (1890-1982) and Cecelia (Gindt) Wondra (1893-1965). His obituary added, “On June 9, 1951, he married Delphina Schmitz at St. Fridolin Church in Glenbeulah.” He was buried at St. Thomas Aquinas Cemetery in Sheboygan. There is no set definition on where the Holyland ends, but northeastern Fond du Lac County and southern Calumet County seems to be the base. Still, St. Fridolin Church, Delphina Wondra (1932-2021), and her common travels likely qualifies within the boundaries and character of the Holyland.

Therefore, when comparing both Owen and Paul, their marriages were to what most would qualify as “Holyland” girls. In addition, both the Beck and Wondra weddings were only three days apart, further corroborating the men’s friendships. The Wondra wedding was on Saturday the 9th of June in 1951, and the Beck wedding was the following Tuesday.

The third man involved was Norbert Jurgensmier, who lived in the Town of Oakfield, north of LeRoy. The 1977 plat map of Fond du Lac County validates Norbert Jurgensmier in Section 35 in the Town of Oakfield in what is labeled Highland Road. Norbert’s wife was Serena Schmitz Jurgensmier (1933-1982). According to her obituary, “She was born at Johnsburg on Jan. 21, 1933, the daughter of the late Nick and Anna Dahm Schmitz. On June 6, 1951, she was married to Norbert Jurgensmier at Johnsburg.” Serena passed in a farm accident and then was buried in her hometown cemetery of St. John the Baptist in Johnsburg. Norbert Jurgensmier (1931-2011) was known in the Oakfield/LeRoy area, and the obituary of Serena validated that indeed that the Jurgensmier/Beck/Wondra weddings occurred all within a week in June of 1951. And yes, all three men married women connected to the Holyland vicinity.

Earl concluded those three men married Holyland girls and did so to save on travel expenses. “That was told to me by Owen Beck. Owen was a real good friend of mine... Just a hell of a good guy.” Whether it was told with a little humor, three friends marrying within a week is a story by itself.

Meeting Betty

The link to Dick Rodgers at Kekoskee is the three couples above, in combination with Earl starting to date Betty Schmidbauer around 1950. Betty was born in 1933, and Earl was five years older. Because these dancing memories are from around 1950 or 1951, it was just in the early stages of Betty and Earl dating. They both had their share of seeing solid entertainment. Earl went to Round Lake, because he said the big bands played in Round Lake. But given the age difference between the two, Earl told Betty (now his wife) at the table, “The only way you got to Round Lake was when I was driving.” In addition, Earl drove Orville Kamrath, his future brother-in-law. Earl was working at Klomberg Bakery and bowled with Orville. “He didn’t drive a car. So, I took him on a date, and then she [Betty] got hooked going along. She was a sister to Arlene.” Earl said the only way Orville Kamrath (1929-2015) from Horicon had transportation was through Earl, who would then take Orville to LeRoy. “We would pick Arlene Schmidbauer up – and then she [Betty] could go along. So, we weren’t intending to date. But after a while, we got acquainted a little better, and Betty got a little older.”

At some point Earl and Betty crossed paths with the three men, who would have been at St. John, located north of Chilton and north of Jericho (also in the Holyland). The dance site was the Crystal Ballroom. It seems likely that around 1950, one would have been likely to go to St. John to dance if you were a gal from the Holyland, regardless if your date was a man whose home was near the Horicon Marsh. In that context of distance, one can understand why a young man might feel the pressure from routinely traveling a half hour to pick up his date, then another half hour to get to the dance. By using GPS estimates, it takes more than an hour to get from LeRoy to St. John (north of Chilton) in 2025, so one could imagine what that would take with old roads and cars seventy-five years ago.

Once at St. John’s, Earl and Betty saw Dick Rodgers so they got him under contract for June of 1952 in Kekoskee. Earl thinks Rodgers played at St. John because it was closer to his Green Bay roots. Earl doesn’t know why he went to St. John that night, “We just heard that he was playing there.” It led him to booking a great act for his wedding.

Dick Rodgers of Television Fame

According to his obituary, Dick Rodgers (1927-2004) was born in the town of Maple Grove and went to church in Pulaski. “He was an orchestra leader and musician from 1945 until he suffered a stroke in 1995. Throughout Dick’s musical career he received several awards, including inductions into the International Polka Hall of Fame, Wisconsin Polka Hall of Fame, and the World Concertina Congress Hall of Fame. Dick was on local and syndicated TV for 23 years and enjoyed a ten-year contract with Decca Records.” In addition, Dick worked in the Rodgers Insurance Agency that was founded by his father in 1937. Dick retired from that in 1988 and turned the agency over to his son Steve.

At the time of publication, this author struggled to find the exact start date of when Dick Rodgers was on television. I talked to multiple people who enjoyed watching his performances on Sundays before Packer games. His height of popularity revolved around the 1960s, though his TV run was likely before that. Impressive with Dick Rodgers was his popularity without the use of television, which only increased his fame.

As a brief side note, television was becoming big around 1950, but different families and sources give me varied dates on television. Earl knows televisions were available by 1948, if not 1947, because when he started working for Klomberg Bakery in Horicon he got a television for his mother on the east side of the Horicon Marsh. Although his parents received electricity very late – 1947 – mom also got a television right away after that, which was very early compared to others. As

Senn Inducted into Wisconsin 4-H Hall of Fame

Wisconsin 4-H Youth Development has named the 2025 Hall of Fame Laureates including 10 volunteers, supporters and staff who have impacted Wisconsin 4-H. The newest classes of laureates were inducted in a ceremony at the Holiday Inn in Rothschild on April 26.

Leverne Senn

Among the 10 Hall of Fame Laureates is Leverne Senn, Fond du Lac County 4-H Leader, In Memoriam.

“We are incredibly grateful to this year’s laureates and the countless hours of service they have provided to the youth of Wisconsin,” says Jessica Jens, Positive Youth Development Institute director and Wisconsin 4-H Program associate director, University of Wisconsin-Madison Division of Extension. “Their dedication and passion for the 4-H program and the youth we all collectively serve is a testimony to their generosity, talent, and commitment to helping make this world the best it can be.”

Leverne Senn began her 4-H journey as a founding member of the club that she led for 35 years. As general and clothing leader of the club, membership grew to over 120 members and 35 leaders, making it one of the largest clubs in Fond du Lac County. Leverne clerked at the fair, judged record books and volunteered at the 4-H fair food stand. Being a certified clothing judge allowed Leverne to judge other fairs and serve as district director for the “Make it with Wool” contest.

4-H members recycled the community’s newspapers, glass, and metal. The club organized a community ice cream social to promote Wisconsin Dairy that ran for 45 years. 4-Hers worked to make their community a better place. Upon retirement former 4-Hers thanked Leverne for her guidance and the opportunities afforded them to learn and grow into responsible and successful adults.

Leverne graduated from UW-Stout with honors majoring in Home Economics Education despite having polio. She taught home economics for a few years. She was an active partner of Senland Farms milking cows and keeping the farm financial records until she was in her 80s. In 1971, her family hosted the first Dinner on the farm that eventually became Breakfast on the Farm. Leverne served six years on the Wisconsin State Fair Board, three years as chairwoman. Leverne and Peter hosted nine foreign Ag students while raising their four children. In 1976, she made breakfast for President Ford while he toured their farm.

The Wisconsin 4-H Hall of Fame was established to recognize 4-H volunteers, financial supporters, staff and pioneers who made major contributions to the 4-H movement at the local, state and national levels. The candidates represent 4-H in the broadest sense – people who had an impact on the lives of children, their community or state through significant contributions of time, energy or financial resources to 4-H and its members.

Other 2025 Wisconsin 4-H Hall of Fame Laureates include Francis Ginther, Retired 4-H Youth Development Agent & Professor Emeritus;

SSM Health St. Agnes Recognized for Maximizing Gift of Life

SSM Health St. Agnes Hospital is one of 19 hospitals and medical centers recognized by UW Organ and Tissue Donation for an ongoing commitment to saving and improving lives through organ and tissue donation.

UW Organ and Tissue Donation is a federally designated organ procurement organization serving more than 100 hospitals in Wisconsin, Michigan, and Illinois. Each year, the organization presents four different awards to hospitals and staff for excellence in maximizing the gift of life.

SSM Health St. Agnes Hospital was given an Excellence in Tissue Donation Award, which recognizes partner hospitals that achieve at least a 66% authorization rate from families when asked by care teams about organ donation. This metric measures the collaborative work between the hospital and tissue bank staff in coordinating communication with patients and families around tissue authorization conversations.

“These awards showcase the hard work, dedication, and extensive collaboration that exists among the teams at SSM Health St. Agnes Hospital, as they work together to make donation a reality for both donor heroes and recipients,” according to Schrauth. “We were extremely honored to accept the awards on behalf of everyone at SSM Health St. Agnes Hospital who has an impact on organ donation.”

Winners were honored during a ceremony on May 14 in Wisconsin Dells.

“Hospitals are essential partners in the life-saving journey of organ donation through their compassionate care for donor heroes and the exceptional support of donor families,” according to Michael Anderson, UW Organ and Tissue Donation executive director. “We commend these hospitals and their incredible care teams for working so hard to honor the selfless generosity of organ donors and ensure their life-saving gifts reach those who need them most.”

other benchmarks, Knowles Produce started selling TVs, and Earl said, "Don Bauer was the TV man.... That's where he got his training on TVs, then Don went to Mayville." Earl also said right next to Butch Burkhardt's tavern in Kekoskee, there was a store where Gip Lentz sold his TVs.

But when you talk to others, in Fond du Lac and Dodge County, you get mixed answers on when families started to have TV. Earl and Betty's 1952 wedding is before the era most people in the area had television. As a discussion point, one of the first television memories for Carol (Esser) Murphy was the 1953 inauguration of Eisenhower. Carol grew up north of Campbellsport, but many others seem to suggest the timeline of television hovers around 1953-1954-1955 for many of the rural parts of Washington, Dodge and Fond du Lac Counties. Mike Bird of South Byron told me he got his first TV in 1954. Donnie Weiland and Marilyn Brown (1938-2025) said when they grew up in St. Kilian, the mid 1950s was closer to when they watched television at home.

These timelines on the TV are important, because Dick Rodgers' popularity was word of mouth and pure talent. In 1951 (when the three Holyland weddings occurred) the vast majority of Dick Rodger's fans still would have been rooted in the fact that they went to the dance halls to hear him. That being said, this is not to underestimate the power of television. Ludina (Karls) Schmitz of Mt. Calvary said she and other couples went to Green Bay on the Dick Rodgers show somewhere around 1960. She laughed because she and her husband Elmer Schmitz (1925-2003) got airtime, "Farmers were dancing on T.V!" Earl's booking of Dick Rodgers came in just before Dick Rodgers hit it big on television, which might explain why it is presently the only known time his orchestra played in Kekoskee.

Dick Rodgers at Kekoskee

Earl explained why it was special to be at his wedding dance. "It was interesting because it was Dick Rodgers, and for most of the people it was the first time they ever heard him." Earl said he got Dick Rodgers a year in advance. "I think Dick Metko was playing for him at that time." Metko's specialty? "He was a hell of a trumpet player." Rodgers, Metko and company were impressive. "I tell you what they did. They were there already [in Kekoskee] before the wedding party got there. They said they unpacked their instruments and played into the hall. Then they had a procession. They walked around the dance hall in front of us." Then they had the grand march for Betty and Earl. "It was really lively... I think it was the best music - for me anyway - because most of his music I call 'ruemp-pa-pa-pa....ruemp pa-pa-pa -ruemp pa....'" and "had action."

Betty best described her wedding dance, "It was a draw." When asked again if 500 really came, Earl was certain on the anticipated event. "I know the dance hall was crowded and they could hardly dance... I paid him mostly with one-dollar bills. And I paid him at that time." He thinks Rodger's price tag was around $150. "That was a lot of money at that time." (It's more than $1,800 adjusted for inflation.) The price of admission is important, for it serves as evidence of how many came to Kekoskee. He paid Dick Rodgers in singles because, "We only charged 50 cents admission, and we would maybe break even." Given Earl paid Dick Rodgers in full that would mean it was two dancers for every dollar collected. And given he made $150, we can assume about 300 people paid that night. In addition,

Earl said there were family members stamped to get in free. If 50 to 100 people were stamped, then it is likely 400 at least got to enjoy the music inside the hall. That also would leave hundreds outside to go to Huck Lechner's or Burkardts and hear the background noise of Dick Rodgers outside Benno Schraufnagel's (what previously was called Kekoskee Riverview Gardens).

Given the importance of Dick Rodgers to the history of music in mid-century rural Wisconsin, it was amazing to hear someone who paid that orchestra to perform at their wedding. Betty affirmed the talent. "That was a big deal," I said. "I know," Betty answered, then paused and added, "It was." To think this great dance happened because three guys dated three Holyland girls.

Krueger Star in Agribusiness Finalist, Wins Wisconsin FFA Star Farmer

WISCONSIN FFA CENTER

McKinley Krueger of the Campbellsport FFA is a Wisconsin Star in Agribusiness Finalist. This award area is sponsored by Compeer Financial.

McKinley manages both the livestock and business operations for her family's farm. McKinley oversees herd health, breeding selections, and financial decisions to improve efficiency and profitability for both their beef and swine herds. McKinley has developed organized record keeping systems to track farrowing, calving, feed costs, and expenses which allows her to make informed management decisions.

In recent years, McKinley has expanded the marketing strategies for the farm by utilizing social media to advertise, connect with buyers, and build relationships with repeat customers. This has led to increased sales for the farm. Beyond business management, McKinley hosts showmanship clinics and provides one-on-one coaching for young exhibitors. Through her teaching about daily animal care, feeding programs, and show preparation, McKinley has been able to help others succeed in the show ring and strengthen her leadership, communication, and problem solving skills.

McKinley is also a Wisconsin Star Farmer finalist. This award is sponsored by Culvers.

McKinley is a fifth generation farmer, and her family has been in the swine industry for decades. McKinley purchased her own first gilt, a registered Hampshire, to produce county fair pigs and feeder pigs for local buyers in 2019. She now has seven quality crossbred and purebred sows. To gain additional skills and experience, McKinley shows for other producers at exhibitions such as state fairs.

Also in 2019, McKinley purchased a Solution Simmental heifer that she named Bella to start her beef herd. Her herd now includes sixteen cows from five breeds. McKinley selects top genetics to improve her cattle and this has allowed her to sell heifers to young exhibitors. She is in charge of the management of both the swine and beef herds, and she strives to grow as a livestock producer.

In the fall, McKinley will be attending Black Hawk College to pursue degrees in Animal Science and Agricultural Business. McKinley hopes to one day become a livestock nutritionist while running her own show pig and cattle operation. She also wants to use her passion to help the industry grow.

McKinley's parents are Scott and the late Karlene Krueger. Her advisors are Jenna Schweitzer and Shawna Henke.

We would like to recognize other finalists as Wisconsin Star Farmer:

Hodorff Wins Wisconsin FFA Dairy Production - Placement Proficiency

WISCONSIN FFA CENTER

The 2025 winner of the Dairy Production - Placement Proficiency Award is Kaydence Hodorff of the Campbellsport FFA. This proficiency is sponsored by Four Hands Holsteins.

Kaydence is the fifth generation to work on her family's dairy farm, Second Look Holsteins LLC. On the farm they milk about 1,200 cows and raise about 100 show calves and 150 Angus steers. Kaydence's responsibilities include feeding calves, administering shots, treating fresh cows, and managing the Angus steers and heifers. She also assists in the maternity barn, where she helps with calving when needed, and cares for both the cow and calf after birth. Upon graduating from high school, Kaydence is now working full time for the farm, which has allowed to make her passion for animals into a career.

Kaydence's advisors are Jenna Schweitzer and Shawna Henke.

We would like to recognize the state finalists in

Dairy Production - Placement:

- Second: Morgan Schoof - Waterford FFA
- Third: Tysen Linder - Greenwood FFA
- Fourth: Abigail Roskom - Oconto Falls FFA
- Fifth: Rylee Nelson - Waupaca FFA

Hodorff will find out this summer if she is selected as one of four national finalists. If selected, Kaydence will compete at the National FFA Convention in Indianapolis, Indiana in November.

Opportunity for input on decisions affecting your water quality

Village of Kewaskum 204 First Street Kewaskum WI 53040 First and Third Mondays of the month at 7:00 pm

Health Information

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's safe drinking water hotline (800-426-4791).

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immunocompromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Environmental Protection Agency's safe drinking water hotline (800-426-4791).

Source(s) of Water

| Source ID | Source | Depth (in feet) | Status |
|-----------|-------------|-----------------|--------|
| 2 | Groundwater | 503 | Active |
| 3 | Groundwater | 460 | Active |
| 4 | Groundwater | 360 | Active |
| 5 | Groundwater | 280 | Active |

To obtain a summary of the source water assessment please contact, Dennis Aupperle at (262) 626-4310.

Educational Information

The sources of drinking water, both tap water and bottled water, include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife.
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally- occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming.
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff and residential uses.
- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff and septic systems.
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which shall provide the same protection for public health.

Definitions

| Term | Definition |
|--------------------|--|
| AL | Action Level: The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow. |
| HA and HAL | HA: Health Advisory. An estimate of acceptable drinking water levels for a chemical substance based on health effects information. HAL: Health Advisory Level is a concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, poses a health risk and may require a system to post a public notice. Health Advisories are determined by US EPA. |
| HI | HI: Hazard Index: A Hazard Index is used to assess the potential health impacts associated with mixtures of contaminants. Hazard Index guidance for a class of contaminants or mixture of contaminants may be determined by the US EPA or Wisconsin Department of Health Services. If a Health Index is exceeded a system may be required to post a public notice. |
| Level 1 Assessment | A Level 1 assessment is a study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine, if possible, why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system. |
| Level 2 Assessment | A Level 2 assessment is a very detailed study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine, if possible, why an E. coli MCL violation has occurred or why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system, or both, on multiple occasions. |
| MCL | Maximum Contaminant Level: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology. |
| MCLG | Maximum Contaminant Level Goal: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety. |
| MFL | million fibers per liter |
| MRDL | Maximum residual disinfectant level: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants. |
| MRDLG | Maximum residual disinfectant level goal: The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants. |
| mrem/year | millirems per year (a measure of radiation absorbed by the body) |
| NTU | Nephelometric Turbidity Units |
| pCi/l | picocuries per liter (a measure of radioactivity) |
| ppm | parts per million, or milligrams per liter (mg/l) |
| ppb | parts per billion, or micrograms per liter (ug/l) |
| ppt | parts per trillion, or nanograms per liter |
| ppq | parts per quadrillion, or picograms per liter |
| PHGS | PHGS: Public Health Groundwater Standards are found in NR 140 Groundwater Quality. The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, poses a health risk and may require a system to post a public notice. |
| RPHGS | RPHGS: Recommended Public Health Groundwater Standards: Groundwater standards proposed by the Wisconsin Department of Health Services. The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, poses a health risk and may require a system to post a public notice. |
| SMCL | Secondary drinking water standards or Secondary Maximum Contaminant Levels for contaminants that affect taste, odor, or appearance of the drinking water. The SMCLs do not represent health standards. |
| TCR | Total Coliform Rule |
| TT | Treatment Technique: A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water. |

Detected Contaminants

Your water was tested for many contaminants last year. We are allowed to monitor for some contaminants less frequently than once a year. The following tables list only those contaminants which were detected in your water. If a contaminant was detected last year, it will appear in the following tables without a sample date. If the contaminant was not monitored last year, but was detected within the last 5 years, it will appear in the tables below along with the sample date.

Microbiological Contaminants

Coliforms are bacteria that are naturally present in the environment and are used as an indicator that other, potentially harmful, waterborne pathogens may be present or that a potential pathway exists through which contamination may enter the drinking water distribution system. We found coliforms indicating the need to look for potential problems in water treatment or distribution. When this occurs, are required to conduct assessments to identify problems and to correct any problems that were found during these assessments

During the past year, we were required to conduct 1 Level 1 and 1 Level 2 assessments. All assessments were completed on time

Assessments

PFAS Contaminants with a Recommended Health Advisory Level

Perfluoroalkyl and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS) are a large group of human-made chemicals that have been used in industry and consumer products worldwide since the 1950. The following table list PFAS contaminants which were detected in your water and that have a Recommended Public Health Groundwater Standard (RPHGS) or Health Advisory Level (HAL). There are no violations for detections of contaminants that exceed the RPHGS or HAL. The RPHGS are levels at which concentrations of the contaminant present a health risk and are based on guidance provided by the Wisconsin Department of Health Services.

Note: The recommended health-based levels in the table below were in effect in 2024. These levels were revised by WDHS in 2025. They can be found here <https://www.dhs.wisconsin.gov/water/gws.htm>

| Typical Source of Contaminant | Drinking water is one way that people can be exposed to PFAS. In Wisconsin, two-thirds of people use groundwater as their drinking water source. PFAS can get in groundwater from places that make or use PFAS and release from consumer products in landfills. | | | | |

Additional Health Information

Lead can cause serious health effects in people of all ages, especially pregnant people, infants (both formula-fed and breastfed), and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and parts used in service lines and in home plumbing. Kewaskum Waterworks is responsible for providing high quality drinking water and removing lead pipes but cannot control the variety of materials used in the plumbing in your home. Because lead levels may vary over time, lead exposure is possible even when your tap sampling results do not detect lead at one point in time. You can help protect yourself and your family by identifying and removing lead materials within your home plumbing and taking steps to reduce your family's risk. Using a filter, certified by an American National Standards Institute accredited certifier to reduce lead, is effective in reducing lead exposures. Follow the instructions provided with the filter to ensure the filter is used properly. Use only cold water for drinking, cooking, and making baby formula. Boiling water does not remove lead from water. Before using tap water for drinking, cooking, or making baby formulas, flush your pipes for several minutes. You can do this by running your tap, taking a shower, doing laundry or a load of dishes. If you have a lead service line or galvanized requiring replacement service line, you may need to flush your pipes for a longer period. If you are concerned about lead in your water and wish to have your water tested, contact Kewaskum Waterworks (Dennis Aupperle at (262) 626-4310). Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available at <https://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

Additional Information on Service Line Materials

We are required to develop an initial inventory of service lines connected to our distribution system by October 16, 2024, and to make the inventory publicly accessible. You can access the service line inventory here/ by: <http://www.village.kewaskum.wi.us>

Seventy-fifth Bowling Season King Pin Honor Score Recap

The 75th bowling season at King Pin Lanes started a little slower than normal with everyone having to make adjustments to the new lanes.

Jake Panzer was the first to light up the lanes October 29, 2024 with an 807 series during the Tuesday Five Star league. He rolled a 269-259-279 to make his second 800 series of his 36-year bowling career.

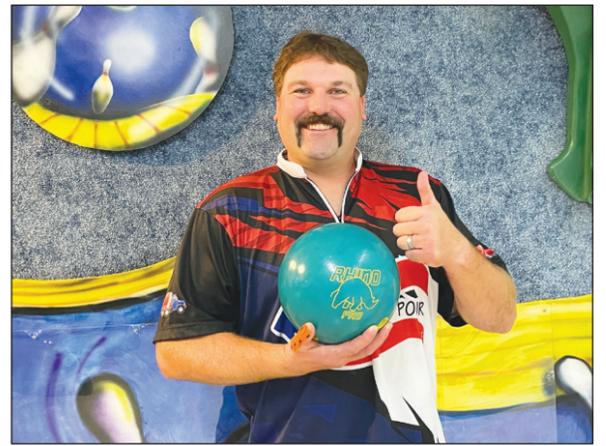

After a slow November 2024 the scores picked back up in December with Ken Chapman knocking out the first perfect game on the new lanes. It was Ken's fourth 300 game of his 46-year bowling career. His series started out slow but picked up quickly in game two with scores of 160-300-212.

To finish out December 2024, Jodi Newhauser put the women on the board with scores of 237-224-259 for a 720 series. She broke her own trend of one 700 series every five years by knocking a second one out on January 31. Her scores were 225-218-267 for a 710 series. Two strong finishes made Jodi's honor series come to life.

Next up on the lanes to knock down an honor score was Kevin Zitlow rolling an 811 during the Friday Major league on January 24, 2025. Kevin is no stranger to honor scores and has been heating up the lanes as we head into the last leg of the season. His scores were 280-276-255.

Last and certainly not least was Jeremy Schrauth rolling not one but two honor scores on the same night during the Monday Uptown League. Jeremy rolled a 300 in game two and was able to finish strong his final game for an 805 series. Jeremy focused on throwing one more good shot each frame and didn't think about his 800 series until the last frame. He completed the night with scores of 248-300-257.

The "Turtle" Flambeau Flowage

MARK WALTERS
COLUMNIST

Hello friends,

This week I spent three days camped on an island on the Turtle Flambeau Flowage with my golden retriever, Red. This trip was a bit unique as I hit some pretty harsh weather but still had a very nice time while camped at a place where I have hundreds of positive memories.

I think it is important to write that starting in 2026, all campsites will require preregistration and a fee.

This adventure was a bit different for me as I literally came from another, which means I met the fieldwork for two deadlines in six days.

As usual, I put in at Murray's landing on the east end of the flowage. My canoe was very loaded, which, for a guy with thousands of miles under his belt in a canoe, did not look very professional. My plan was to paddle to a campsite about two miles away and paddle troll for three days just pulling Salmos, which is a very effective crank-bait. My other plan was to do as little as possible at camp. There was some solid stress in the form of a headwind that made forward momentum difficult, but I reached my goal, and as soon I made it to my island, I noticed that there were several painted turtles that were staring at me from the water. At this time, the wind also became so strong that paddling a canoe was not meant to be.

It was mid-afternoon, so I built camp and, for the next five hours, watched my world, which in this case was several turtles climbing up a steep bank and attempting to lay eggs literally within feet of me. I moved one back to the water as she started digging her nest in the sand within inches of the fire ring.

About 20 years ago, I was camped about a mile from this location on a bow hunting and musky fishing trip. I had caught a 41-inch musky on a Suick the day before, and the hunting was good as well. I was driving my boat to a hunt and decided to make a cast directly at the shoreline at what is now my home for three days. On the first cast, I had a hard hit and soon landed a 47-inch musky, which was my biggest. I tried releasing it, and that did not go well. I even got in the water with it, and it was obvious she was going to die.

I made an executive decision to drive to Mercer and find a tavern that would let me put what was now my trophy in their freezer. I was successful and had so much fun that I slept in my truck instead of putting the key in the ignition.

Just before dark today, I got off my lazy butt and, on my first cast with a Salmo, had a hard hit and landed a 17-inch smallmouth bass. This release was a success.

This morning, I woke up to the densest smoke that I have ever witnessed from a forest fire in Wisconsin. The smoke was from fires in Manitoba, but it seemed like the fire could literally be just miles away.

Soon after breakfast, a steady rain began that would become an absolute soaker and I was literally stuck inside of my tent until 6:00 p.m. with my pal, Red. If you want to learn a bit about yourself, think small tent, all day, lots of rain, no book or radio.

I had nothing but time and had plenty of thoughts about this place like when my dad started bringing me here back in 1970 for what would be the opener of Wisconsin's fishing season. We were as low budget as could be but did not care.

Our adventure was always living on an island that had excellent fishing from shore, and we would also drift fished a lot using June Bug Spinners, and holy moly, did we catch the fish. These were Friday through Tuesday trips and pure quality of life living. P.s. on that thought, our outboard was a 6 hsp Mercury.

I took my daughter Selina and three of her friends here a number of times and it was always lots of laughter and adventure.

The last day of this experience the skies were clear, the wind was low and I did not catch a fish and I simply did not care!

Live large,
Sunset
